Editorial COMMENTARY

by Tom Starland, Editor and Publisher

Who Needs To Hear From Me?

Well, we had a number of articles come in after our deadline from supporters of Carolina Arts - advertisers. The only problem was - they needed to fit in areas where I had already filled in other articles and I'd never take anyone out - even for our good supporters, so I had to make space wherever I can find it. No commentary this month. And I had some juicy comments about the SC Arts Commission and their 50th Anniversary.

Corrigan Gallery LLC in Charleston, SC, Offers Works by Nancy Langston

Corrigan Gallery LLC in Charleston, SC, is pleased to present for the Charleston Gallery Association Artwalk, the works of Nancy Langston in a show entitled CAST, on view at their new location on Broad Street from Oct. 4 - 30, 2017. The reception is Friday, Oct. 6, from 5-8pm.

Ancient, recovered remains - soul stirring and mythological pieces constructed of pate de verre - cast glass - concrete - turned to stone, these pieces look as though they have been excavated - brought forth from the earth.

Langston holds a BA from VCU and a MFA from Massachusetts College of Art. She received an artist in residence fellowship for three months work at the Creative Glass Center of America in New Jersey, a Hubbard Traveling Grant and a scholarship from the Pilchuck School of Glass in Seattle. She has shown her work throughout the country and the Sandwich Glass Museum and the Creative Glass Center of America Museum have creations of hers in their collections.

The artist states that, "glass, concrete, and metal(are) the media of choice for redesigning the earth. The sheer abundance and everyday application of these materials relegates them to a low-level DIY Home Depot status. And herein lies their appeal to me. In my work, the concrete is sculpted to be graceful and elegant with the glass cast in a way that makes it mysterious and metaphoric."

"Searching to connect to a time and place undefined by buildings and roads, I merge these materials to create a recognizable yet undefined object - something earthy, ancient eroded, symbolic...feminine," adds Langston.

Ann Long Fine Art in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Linda Fantuzzo

Ann Long Fine Art in Charleston, SC, will exhibit new Southern landscapes by Linda Fantuzzo, on view from Oct. 6 - 31, 2017. A public opening will coincide with the Charleston Gallery Association Art Walk on Oct. 6, from 5-8pm.

Painter Linda Fantuzzo has been living and working in Charleston for over 40 years. Her unique approach to painting

has earned her numerous accolades and her work is found in many private collections and institutions alike.

The paintings exhibited at Ann Long Fine Art will express a range of light and weather.

The artist says, "Elusive is nature's edge when conditioned by weather. Immense beauty is to be seen as a cloudy storm front moves through the terrain nudging one's imagination to dare destruction or merely produce a longing for change in the weather."

"I love the drama of such a darkening landscape; yet also find a serene view just as compelling."

Fantuzzo was born in Endicott, NY. After four years of study at The Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia, she moved to Charleston in 1973. Her paintings are represented in the collections of: the Greenville County

Fabulon in Charleston, SC, Offers Two New Exhibitions

Fabulon, a center for art and education in the West Ashley area of Charleston, SC, will present two new exhibitions including: Tribute, and Wax Poetic, both on view from Oct. 6 through Dec. 6, 2017, with a reception held on Oct. 21, from 5-8pm.

During the reception there will be special musical guest and a prize drawing for "Name that Tune" contest will be given. You must be present to win.

There have been so many tragic losses of great musicians in the most recent years. Each week it seems another icon from the classical rock era or maker of the epic album has passed. The legacy of poetic lyrics, is our only consolation.

As part of Charleston's Poetry festival, Fabulon will host Tribute, a show of work inspired by music, because it plays such an important role for many visual artists. It's in our soul, it moves us, and it translates into our images.

Participating artists include: Meyriel J. Edge, Summerville, SC; Susan Irish, Charleston, SC; Gena Grant, Mt. Pleasant,

City of North Charleston, SC, Features Works by Bradley Carroll and Sharon Robinson

The City of North Charleston's Cultural Arts Department, in North Charleston, SC, is pleased to announce that concurrent solo exhibitions by local artist Bradley Carroll and Washington, DC based artist Sharon Robinson will be on display at the North Charleston City Gallery, located at the Charleston Area Convention Center, from Oct. 5-31, 2017. A reception will be held on Oct. 5, from 5-7pm.

Recent Paintings by Bradley Carroll will display recent oil and acrylic paintings that focus on the use of light to capture cityscapes in downtown Charleston, by Bradley Carroll of Mount Pleasant, SC. As a painter, Carroll is particularly interested in the quality of evening light in an urban environment—the moon, streetlamps, a lit window of a shop or restaurant. It is in this "blue hour" that he finds much of his inspiration.

Work by Bradley Carroll

"In a city," says Carroll, "the blue hour sets the perfect backdrop for artificial light to escort and distort our perception of what's around us." Though most of Carroll's paintings depict architectural elements, his process is organic. After doing a quick initial drawing, he adds cursory black outlines and experiments with different washes to determine a color scheme. He then adds a second set of outlines and begins developing the imaginary further, theorizing in practice and allowing the painting to respond to itself to create a cohesive image.

Carroll has been painting for 17 years. He received a Bachelor's degree in Media Arts from the University of South Carolina in 2004. His paintings have recently been displayed in the Piccolo Spoleto Juried Exhibition at the City Gallery downtown and in a solo show at Striped Pig Distillery in 2016. In 2015, his painting At Night All Cats Are Gray received Honorable Mention in Charleston City Paper's inaugural Visual Art Competition.

Sharon Robinson will present Ever Emerging, a collection of mixed-media collage works that visually express the elements of life that connect us as human beings. Robinson is most drawn to themes addressing cultural integration, how we define ourselves in relation to others, and biases that cause misunderstanding. She approaches each of her pieces differently—sometimes with a specific idea or subject, other times as an experiment in texture, color, and design.

Robinson explains, "I find that mixed media provides the opportunity for endless combinations of materials that allows me to construct my own interpretation of ideas, themes, and life situations." Her works combine layers of color and texture with cultural symbols, text, and imagery of ethnic, religious, gender, and racial identity to reflect the many layers of the human experience.

Robinson received a Bachelor of Arts in Urban Studies from Tufts University in Medford, MA, and a Master's Degree in City Planning with a concentration in Urban Design and Community Development from MIT. While working in the urban transit and planning field for over 25 years, she engaged in a parallel pursuit of art. She became a full-time artist in 1999 and has been teaching abstract mixed media and collage workshops and exhibiting her work on the east and west coast ever since.

Robinson's work has been displayed widely in Washington, DC, Oregon, and Washington state. In addition, she has offered consultation services to arts non-profits, worked as a curator for festivals and art fairs, managed art programs and mural projects for civic and corporate institutions, and managed a creative re-use center. She currently lives, works, and offers classes in her home studio in Washington, DC.

The North Charleston City Gallery is situated in two corridors of the northwest corner of the Charleston Area Convention Center, located on Coliseum Drive in North Charleston. Inquiries regarding the artists or purchase information may be directed to the North Charleston Cultural Arts Department at 843/740-5854.

For further information check our SC Institutional Gallery listings or visit the Arts & Culture section of the City's website at (www.northcharleston.org).

College of Charleston in SC, Presents Environmental Exhibition

The College of Charleston School of the Arts in Charleston, SC, in collaboration with the South Carolina Aquarium, will present SEA CHANGE, on view at the Halsey Institute of Contemporary Art, in The Marion and Wayland H. Cato Jr. Center for the Arts, from Oct. 20 through Dec. 7, 2017.

SEA CHANGE is a series of exhibitions and programs presented in collaboration with the South Carolina Aquarium to raise awareness of our enormous plastic waste problem and the detrimental effects on our planet.

In this series, the exhibit CHRIS JORDAN: MIDWAY, Jordan's photographs depict the magnitude of our consumerism and its impact on our environment. Jordan will offer an Artist Talk, Encountering the Albatross, on Oct. 24, at 7pm in the Sottile Theatre. The event is open to the public and free.

On Midway Atoll, a remote cluster of islands more than 2,000 miles from the nearest continent, the detritus of our mass consumption surfaces in an astonishing place: inside the stomachs of countless dead baby albatrosses. The nesting chicks are fed lethal quantities of plastic by their parents, who mistake the floating trash for food as they forage over the vast polluted Pacific Ocean.

These images are paired with photographs of the vast sublime of the world's oceans. Juxtaposed with his Midway prints, it reinforces that society's waste problems affect every ecosystem.

In the exhibit, AURORA ROBSON: THE TIDE IS HIGH, Robson creates lively and intricate sculptures from plastic debris, transforming everyday waste into aesthetic objects of beauty and reflection. Robson will offer an Artist Talk on Oct. 21, at 2pm in the Halsey Institute galleries. The event is open to the public and free.

Many of her works take on forms that resemble the otherworldly organisms that exist on ocean floors; in this way, her work is further associated with the sea, which is often the ultimate repository for plastic waste. By transforming everyday trash into works of art, her sculpture forces viewers to consider their own relationship with plastic materials and waste.

For her exhibition, Robson will create a large site-specific installation using plastic debris welded into new forms. In addition, she will have work on display at the South Carolina Aquarium.

The Halsey Institute of Contemporary Art at the College of Charleston School of the Arts provides a multidisciplinary laboratory for the production, presentation, interpretation, and dissemination of ideas by innovative visual artists from around the world. As a non-collecting museum, we create meaningful interactions between adventurous artists and diverse communities within a context that emphasizes the historical, social, and cultural importance of the art of our time.

Charleston Artist Guild in SC Features Works by Susan Gilmore

The Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, will present Land Escapes, featuring works by Susan Gilmore, on view in the Guild Gallery from Oct. 1 - 31, 2017. A reception will be held on Oct. 6, from 5-8pm.

Gilmore's exhibit is comprised of paintings in oil and cold wax that explore the beauty of Lowcountry wetlands.

Gilmore was born in Washington, DC, and her family moved to Charleston when she was still a girl. She spent her youth on James and Folly Islands and loved to be out in the wetlands, to explore the creeks, the marshes and the beach. These were the places she found a real sense of peace in her spirit.

Gilmore loved the uniquely beautiful light at dawn and the evening twilight when the moonlight illuminated the scene. These moments had some special magic about them. She spent many mornings immersed in the dreamlike light and ambience of the moments just before daybreak, anticipating the first light peaking over the horizon. The rest of the world would fade away and the landscape would beguile her. This was her secret world and it left lasting impressions on her soul - impressions that have inspired her latest collection of work, Land Escapes.

Gilmore's newest series of paintings is an effort to celebrate her memories of the spirit and beauty of the local wetlands.

Work by Susan Gilmore

She is working with oil paints mixed with cold wax to create textures and hues that transport the scenery to the canvas in an impressionist abstract style. Gilmore has taken a fairly new style of painting and improvised with her own personal techniques for applying color to canvas. The result is lively, vibrant images, and a style uniquely her own.

For further information check our SC Institutional Gallery listings or call the Guild at 843/722-2425.

Anglin Smith Fine Art in Charleston Offers Exhibit Focused on Charleston

The Smith family of artists; Betty, Shannon, Tripp and Jennifer, along with featured gallery artists Kim English and Colin Page, will all participate in a celebratory exhibit, Our City, opening Friday, October 6th, with a cocktail reception from 5 to 8pm. The show will run through Oct. 20, 2017.

In every season and through all weather, Charleston, home to the Smith family, is a city full of color, majesty and charm. Historic Charleston homes, bustling ports and popular urban street scenes - as seen by water or on a rooftop - inspire Shannon Smith Hughes, Jennifer Smith Rogers and Betty Anglin Smith to put brush to canvas and uniquely blend their palette of colors creating the art emblematic to Anglin Smith Fine Art.

Work by Betty Anglin Smith of Our City and its landscape. Each Smith artist has a unique vision of Charleston.

Kim English and Colin Page contribute views of a city they call home and high-light, through their works, why they live, work and thrive there. These two nationally known artists travel extensively giving us a window into other iconic cities, and sometimes their perspective of ours.

Anglin Smith Fine Art is Charleston's gallery for contemporary realism and color. The gallery features work by Lowcountry painter Betty Anglin Smith and her triplets, painters Jennifer Smith Rogers and Shannon Smith, and photographer Tripp Smith. Sculptures in bronze by Darrell Davis and glass by David and Jennifer Clancy and works in oil by Kim English and Colin Page are also available. The gallery also represents paintings and drawings from the estate of Carl Planksy. Subject matter ranges from local and European landscapes to architectural works and still life, figurative and abstract.

For further information check our SC Commercial Gallery listings, call the gallery at 843/853-0708 or visit (www.anglinsmith.com).

Work by Jennifer Smith Rogers

Betty's vision centers on the color and shapes in our city. Jennifer captures the city from vantage points on high ground as well as busy and secluded streets. Shannon draws on her attention to detail and light's reflections. All showing us Our City through a different lens and filter. Tripp Smith's stark and poignant photography tells a story

Ella Walton Richardson Fine Art in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Craig Nelson

Ella Walton Richardson Fine Art in Charleston, SC, will present Life Celebrations, featuring works by Craig Nelson, on view from Oct. 6 - 31, 2017. A reception will be held on Oct. 6, from 5-8pm, during the Charleston Art Walk.

Work by Craig Nelson

in each painting, capturing the simplistic beauty of everyday life.

Nelson received a BFA with distinction from the Art Center College in California and is currently the Department Chairman of Fine Arts, Drawing, and Painting at the Academy of Art University in San Francisco, CA. Every summer a lucky group get to join Nelson in Europe for a painting workshop.

On Oct. 7, from 1 until 4pm, Nelson will be giving a painting demonstration at Richardson's gallery. Please stop by 58 Broad Street to watch first hand his masterful painting techniques.

For further information check our SC Commercial Gallery listings, call the gallery at 843/722-3660 or visit (www.ellarichardson.com).

Work by Craig Nelson

California based artist and professor, Craig Nelson, has been creating inviting paintings for over forty years. The new exhibition will be his 16th year showing with Ella Walton Richardson Fine Art in historic downtown Charleston. The show will include 30 oil paintings from his travels in Europe.

Whether he is out discovering a quaint European town, enjoying a quiet park, or admiring the light on an ancient building, Nelson creates luminous works in oil that delight viewers worldwide. His precise brushwork and attention to the contrast between light and color create sensitivity

Meyer Vogl Gallery in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Marissa Vogl

The Meyer Vogl Gallery in Charleston, SC, will present Second Nature, featuring paintings, both abstract and landscape by Marissa Vogl, on view from Oct. 6 - 27, 2017. A reception will be held on Oct. 6, from 5-8pm.

The exhibition gives viewers a glimpse into the creative process Vogl experiences in her studio when she paints in two different styles simultaneously.

"I really enjoy having two paintings going on at a time," says Vogl about her creative process. "On my right will be a landscape and on the left an abstract. The landscape will influence the abstract and the abstract the landscape, creating a balance." For the show, the pairs of paintings will be hung side by side. Vogl goes on to explain, "The landscapes I'm creating for this show are the 'spirit places' I connect with. These days, it's the marshes and the summer stormy skies in the south. The abstracts explore the energy of these places."

Meyer Vogl Gallery in Charleston

Meyer Vogl Gallery features oil paintings by distinguished artists Laurie Meyer and Marissa Vogl, we also exhibit works by local and nationally recognized guest artists. These artists are diverse and unique, ranging from emerging to established contemporary masters; the unifying element is that they excite us. By exhibiting artwork for which we feel an emotional connection, we hope to engage the senses of art lovers and introduce collectors to exhilarating new works.

For more info check our SC Commercial Gallery listings, call the gallery at 843/805-7144 or visit (www.meyervogl.com).

Edward Dare Gallery in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Stephanie Marzella

The Edward Dare Gallery in downtown Charleston, SC, will present Afterglow, a show of new atmospheric oil paintings by Stephanie Marzella, on view from Oct. 6-31, 2017. A reception will be held on Oct. 6, from 5-8pm.

Autumn is the time of year when fine art seems to capture the imagination of the Holy City, with no limit to the exceptional quality and diverse nature of subjects and genres being featured in our galleries.

Stephanie Marzella has been a painter of landscape and still life since receiving her BFA from the Cleveland Institute of Art in 1984. As of 2016, Marzella has relocated to the thriving arts community of Charleston, SC, where she has enjoyed discovering the endless inspiration that the low country offers painters. The driving forces behind Marzella's work are her love of nature and her interpretive use of color.

"I love the live oaks and this landscape that feels so mysterious to me; it's exciting discovering where this experience is taking my work," said Marzella. "I've started incorporating more texture in my paintings for this show. I love interpreting the tidal coves, quiet reflective water and ever changing skies; painting my emotional response to a scene rather than exactly what I see."

All of Marzella's pieces begin with a tonal sepia under painting which establishes the composition, value and mood. Many,

Conway, SC; and Madison Somerville, Austin, TX.

The exhibit, Wax Poetic, presents the beauty of painting with beeswax and paint pigment.

Fabulon presents an art show and sale that exhibits all the glory of the encaustic medium. If you have been curious about painting with beeswax, or looking for a really different art form, this is the show for you. Encaustic artists have been gathered from the nation with a goal to show why artists are enthralled with this ancient Greek method and to illustrate that encaustic has its place in the modern art world, too. See many unique and innovative ways of working with wax and feast upon a wide array of colors from bold to captivatingly translucent.

Artists participating in the exhibit include: Patricia Baldwin, Lexington, KY; Daniel Breslin, Arlington, MA; Denise Buckley, Richmond Heights, OH; Carla Fisher, Chambersburg, PA; Danielle Fontaine, Greenville, SC; Lisa Gallun, Denver, CO; Joanna Gould, Sanford, ME; Michelle Graznak, Farmington Hills, MI; Susan Gregory, Charleston, SC; Robin Howard, Mt. Avondale Therapy in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Eugene Horne

Avondale Therapy in the West Ashley area of Charleston, SC, is presenting Deep in the Forest, featuring works by Eugene Horne, presented by Fabulon, a center for art and education, on view through Dec. 20, 2017. A special reception will be held on Oct. 6, from 6-8pm, as part of the Charleston Gallery Association Art Walk.

"It's not possible to make a painting from a single point of view any longer."

Eugene Horne emerges from his classical training. Traditional landscapes that were once records of scenery are now spontaneous conjurings of places and emotions.

"My work is about memory, color, and light and comes from multiple sources, which reflects an authentic approach to painting that represents multiple points of many layers of transparent color glazes are added giving the finished piece jewel like tones and an ethereal feeling. Her work has both a contemporary feel as well as a time-less quality.

"By creating mood and atmosphere in my oil paintings, I hope to awaken emotions in the hearts and minds of the viewer," Marzella says.

Marzella has participated in numerous solo and group exhibitions around the country and has won many awards. Most recently she has received The John N.

Lewis Memorial Award, The Emil Carlsen Award, and an invitation to join the prestigious Salmagundi Club in NY, and winning the Annual Purchase Prize Award from The Salmagundi Club in the same year.

Additional work by Marzella can always be seen at Sandpiper Gallery on Sullivan's Island.

Dog & Horse Fine Art in Charleston, SC, Features Sporting Art Collection

Dog & Horse Fine Art in Charleston, SC, will present The Jim Rikhoff Sporting Art Collection, on view from Oct. 6 through Nov. 4, 2017. A reception will be held on Oct. 6, from 5-8pm.

The Jim Rikhoff Sporting Art Collection will offer a rare opportunity to own a piece of sporting art with a fascinating history and a fabulous provenance.

Jim Rikhoff, who was instrumental to the Winchester Repeating Arms Company, Winchester Safaris, Winchester Press, the National Sporting Fraternity in New York and New Jersey, was an avid hunter, keen sportsman, popular writer and also had an eye for art. Over the years he and his wife, Janet, accumulated a sporting collection, including paintings, prints, and foxhunting china which has a prestigious provenance from the Leash Club and the National Sporting Fraternity of which he was the founder. At one point, Rikhoff was the "un-official curator" for the sporting collection at the 21 Club near Fifth Avenue in New York City.

The collection includes a rare set of six antique English foxhunting prints by Henry Alken, watercolors by American artist John Groth, antique English and French equestrian prints, and the rare whimsical piece of art as well. There is also a limited amount of Winchester memorabilia and several sets of foxhunting china.

Born in 1931, James Cornwall Rikhoff was Chief of Public Relations in 1960-1975 at the Winchester Repeating Arms Company, and later founded Winchester Press and Winchester Safaris. He was a regular columnist for Field & Stream, Outdoor Sportsman, American Rifleman Magazine, Esquire and others. Rikhoff was also Joint Master of Hounds for the Amwell Valley Hounds in Hunterdon County, NJ.

In March 1976, Rikhoff founded the National Sporting Fraternity and its publishing arm, the Amwell Press. The goal for his new company was to offer international sporting trips and to publish limited edition books and prints to a membership which was limited to one thousand. Because of his popularity, he was able to get a veritable Who's Who of international professional big game and sport hunters to write for him. Rikhoff was an experienced big game hunter and fisherman who guided expeditions around the world into his late seventies.

His books, A Mixed Bag, Hunting the Big Cats, and Fair Chase, to name a few, included collections of witty and intriguing narratives about safaris, hunting, fishing, fox hunting, etc.

view and multiple sources of inspiration from actual events to imagination and automatic response," says Horne. "I want to redefine how we perceive painting creating another point of view. I like to think of the paintings as a physical and subjective lyrical narrative about my thoughts and feelings in relation to chosen motifs and the natural world. I've always lived in the borderland."

Horne has been making art for over 40 years. He grew up in Augusta, GA, where he first was exposed to art making in high school. He later earned a BFA in studio arts from the University of Georgia and then an MFA in painting from the University of South Carolina. His work has been featured in both private and public collections throughout the United States. He has shown in New York, Martha's Vineyard, Savannah, North Carolina and now is represented in Charleston by Fabulon.

The South Carolina Arts Commission's Fellowship program recognizes the artistic achievements of South Carolina's exceptional individual artists. As part of the 50th Anniversary Celebration, Horne will be exhibiting in the SCAC Fellowship Artists Retrospective Exhibition at Benedict College's Henry Ponder Gallery of Art, in Columbia, SC, in May 2018. A few of the other guest artists include James Arndt, Linda Fantuzzo, Jonathan Brilliant, Jocelyn Chateauxvert, Manning Williams, and Mary Edna Fraser.

13th Annual Bluffton Arts & Seafood Festival Takes Place in Bluffton, SC - Oct. 14 - 22, 2017

The Bluffton Arts & Seafood Festival is back for the thirteenth year - and still growing. What started as a one-day event in 2005, has quickly become a week of festivities in historic Bluffton, SC, showcasing the arts and locally harvested seafood. Festival events are scheduled from Saturday, Oct. 14 through Sunday, Oct. 22, 2017.

Shrimp, shrimp, and more shrimp

The "Heritage Discovery Tour" and the Gullah Celebration on Saturday, Oct. 14th along with the traditional Blessing of the Fleet and Boat Parade on the May River on Sunday, Oct. 15th will again kick off this week of festivities. Other Sunday activities include a Showcase of Local Art, an outdoor art exhibit from 11am - 4pm in the heart of Old Town Bluffton, as well as the first Oyster Roast of the season at Bluffton Oyster Park at 5pm.

On Monday evening at 5:30pm a Tour of the Waddell Mariculture Center along with Crab Pickin' and Oyster Shuckin' demonstrations will take place with Dr. Al Stokes on the bluff of the Colleton River.

Join us for Author Night with West Fraser on Wednesday, Oct. 18, at 5:30pm for complimentary hors d'oeuvres & beverages by Southern Spice Catering and Events. West will share his latest book, "Painting the Southern Coast", and his passion for capturing and celebrating not only the beauty of the area but the very spirit and soul of the

"For someone to pause in front of a painting instead of just walking on by is what I strive for in my work," said Diemand. "If my artwork makes a connection with the viewer then my goal has been achieved and this becomes my greatest source of satisfaction."

Diemand's work has appeared in a variety of exhibitions over the years, including the Albright Knox Sales/Rental Gallery, Buffalo, New York; the Artful Gifts Exhibition at Art Dialogue Gallery, Buffalo, NY; and the Cumberland Valley Artists' Exhibition in Hagerstown, MD. Diemand won an Honorable Mention award at the 30th Annual Open Juried Exhibit of the York Art Assoc., York, PA. From 2001 - 2004 her work was represented by the J. Cooper Gallery, Shepherdstown, WV, and from 2006 - 2011 by Monsoon Gallery, Bethlehem, PA.

Presbyterian College in Clinton, SC, Offers Group Exhibit

Presbyterian College in Clinton, SC, is presenting In House, curated by Michelle Grabner, guest artist, writer, and educator, featuring works by Mary Ancel, Molly Barnes, Michelle Grabner, Alex Peyton-Levine, Ann Stoddard, and Kelly S. Williams, on view at the Elizabeth Stone Harper Gallery, in the Harper Center for the Arts, through Nov. 9, 2017.

The exhibit features works by artists Mary Ancel of New York City, NY; Molly Barnes of Chicago, IL; Michelle Grabner of Milwaukee, WI; Alex Peyton-Levine of Chicago, IL; Ann Stoddard of Spartanburg, SC; and Kelly S. Williams of Nashville, TN.

In House is inspired by the groundbreaking 1972 art installation and provisional performance space, Womanhouse. Organized by Judy Chicago and Miriam Schapiro and featuring their art as well as the art of their students, Womanhouse was a creation of the 1971 Feminist Art Program at the California Institute of the Arts (CalArts). The title In House is also a playful reference to any production that happens "on site" as well as to the relationship between art and the home, the domestic sphere.

Part exhibition and part "art laboratory," In House is a multi-tiered installation and project: an exhibition focusing on the work of six artists, an artist residency and open studio, and a live video stream. One artist, Alex Peyton-Levine, will use the gallery as a short-term residency and studio within the exhibition; work by the other five artists will be on view while Peyton-Levine engages a section of the gallery as a site for art making. There will also be a video stream on display at Harper Gallery featuring Michelle Grabner's work station/studio in Milwaukee during her parallel artist-in-residence at the Kohler Factory "Artist and Industry Program" in Sheboygan, WI.

Gathered together under a canopy of shared intent, Michelle Grabner's In House presents a holistic approach to the creative practice along with advancing the notion of domesticity as an art production model. Much as in Womanhouse, a primary facet of the exhibition is the creative process itself, nurtured and displayed within a dedicated environment. Adding to the idea of the art laboratory and the concept of resourcing from a home base, Mary Ancel, Molly Barnes, Alex Peyton-Levine, and Kelly S. Williams are all former graduate students of Grabner's from the School of the Art Institute of Chicago. Rounding out the formal aspects of the exhibition are the paintings of Ann Stoddard and Michelle Grabner.

A panel discussion with Michelle Grabner, Alex Peyton-Levine and Ann Stoddard will be held on Nov. 9, starting at 4pm with

Hampton III Gallery in Greenville, SC, Offers Work by Jeanet Dreskin & Students

Hampton III Gallery in Greenville, SC, is presenting Jeanet Dreskin and Students, on view through Nov. 4, 2017. A Coffee and Conversation will be held on Saturday, Oct. 7, from 11-Noon.

This is the second student - teacher exhibition that Hampton III Gallery has curated. The purpose of this show is to document and explore the influence that teachers pass on to the next generation of artists.

Jeanet Dreskin taught at both the Governors School and the Greenville County Museum of Art, and was inducted into the Clemson University Hall of Fame. She has received numerous art awards including a top award at the International Grand Prix in Cannes, France and an Elizabeth O'Neil Verner Lifetime Achievement Award, the highest art honor in South Carolina. One of Dreskin's paintings is in the permanent collection of the Smithsonian National Museum of American Art.

Carrie Burns Brown has taught painting classes and workshops for more than 50 years in the United States, Canada, and South Africa, but considers her role in launching the Greenville Center for the Creative Arts her greatest artistic accomplishment.

Jim Campbell has created designs and illustrations for many clients including the South Carolina Wildlife Magazine, the Marshall Tucker Band, and the Greenville Museum of Art. For 32 years, he served as the drawing, painting and printmaking teaching at the Fine Arts Center in Greenville.

Jo Carol Mitchell-Rogers is a member of ArtBomb Studios in Greenville and her paintings and photographs have been included in over 100 group and solo exhibitions and 75 juried shows. She now serves as Professor of Art and Associate Dean of the SC School of the Arts at Anderson University.

Alice Schlein is a self-taught weaver who has pursued her passion for woven structure for over 50 years. She weaves in her Greenville studio on doobby and jacquard looms, teaches workshops at textile conferences and has written four weaving books.

The exhibition may be viewed online at www.hamptoniiigallery.com.

Clemson University in Clemson, SC, Offers Exhibit of Women SC Fellows

Clemson University in Clemson, SC, will present Upstate 8: SC Fellowship Women Exhibit, which celebrates the artwork of eight award winning women is being presented at the Lee Gallery at the Clemson University Center for Visual Arts, from Oct. 2 through Nov. 8, 2017. A reception will be held on Oct. 5, beginning at 6pm.

The exhibition is part of a larger endeavor to highlight artists during a yearlong 50th Anniversary celebration of the South Carolina Arts Commission. On June 7, 1967, Governor Robert E. McNair signed legislation that established the South Carolina Arts Commission. This historic moment signaled a new era of public support for the arts that has endured for 50 years.

The exhibition highlights the work of eight women artists from the Upstate who were direct beneficiaries of this historic legislation through the support they received from competitive fellowships awarded to them by the South Carolina Arts Commission. These eight women are leaders in the arts, mentors through their creative research and contributors to the thriving cultural climate that the state of South Carolina now enjoys.

Students enrolled in undergraduate Creative Inquiry Program called Clemson Curates were charged to develop an exhibit that showcased the fellowship program. Advised by Lee Gallery director, Denise Woodward-Detrich, these students reviewed all of the artists and made the final selections.

"We are honored to be chosen to curate such an important collection of women artists from Upstate," said Woodward-Detrich.

The participating artists are Alice Ballard, Patti Brady, Diane Hopkins-Hughes, Terry Jarrard-Diamond, Ellen Kochansky, Linda Williams McCune, Jane Allen Nodine, and Susan Wooten. Intersecting subject matter presented within the exhibition includes connections to nature through materiality, imagery, and the capacity for symbolic meaning. Other related content includes the exploration of feminine forms and sensibilities associated with nature as an embodiment of the female, traditional feminine materials and processes through textiles, connections to family, place, the personal, and the emotional.

This innovative art collaboration is part of the commitment of the Lee Gallery at the Clemson University Center for Visual Arts to support the university's ClemsonForward strategic plan to provide educational activities that expose students to research through artistic means.

An artist panel discussion will be offered on Oct. 19, at 6pm. The public is invited to attend the reception and the panel discussion exploring the artists' creative processes, methodologies, working as women artists and the embraced roles as mentors and educators. The exhibition, reception and panel discussion are free to the public.

This project is funded by First Citizens Bank, the South Carolina Arts Foundation and the South Carolina Arts Commission, which receives support from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Clemson Curates is a Creative Inquiry course focused on developing visual arts exhibits for the Clemson Campus. Students from a variety of academic disciplines research, coordinate, and install visual arts exhibitions. Clemson Curates presents visual arts exhibitions that explore ideas and issues reflective of and intersecting with university research. Students gain experience by interpreting visual art, writing exhibit content, project management and exhibition presentations. Students also explore various media platforms necessary for marketing and communications, while conducting studio visits with artists to make final selection for artwork to be included in exhibits.

West Main Artists Co-Op in Spartanburg, SC, Features Works by Beth Regula and Louisa Coburn

The West Main Artists Co-Op in Spartanburg, SC, is presenting Lyrical Lines, featuring works by two local artists, Beth Regula and Louisa Coburn, on view through Oct. 14, 2017.

Both artists have two-dimensional and three-dimensional works on display.

Regula, the chair of West Main Artists Co-Op, is most well known for her abstract 3-D creations made from clay, paint, and unfettered mixed media. They often show complex and conflicting images working in harmony to convey social or emotional messages. Coburn, a past member of the Co-Op, will present a series of thematic non-representational paintings that utilize strong colors organizing along a horizontal plane.

Regula, 67, is reluctant to classify her work "because I feel that artists do not need to limit themselves to any particular media or style," she said. "By exploring all media, learning takes place. As an artist grows, they will use the media that works best for what they are trying to convey at any particular time. Maturity and learning helps the artists to develop their own recognizable style. Although I use a variety of media in my work, I think that my style is seen in all that I create."

Most of Regula's professional life was in teaching art and English in South Carolina schools. However, in the early 1980s, she was a Project Manager for Cox Cable Communications in Atlanta, GA. In 1983, she became a full-time artist. She and her husband Dennis reside in Roebuck, SC. Her work has been widely showcased throughout the Upstate, reaching as far away as San Diego, CA.

In describing this exhibit, Regula said, "To me a lyrical line is a line that moves within space or dances across a page or canvas. As I look at the world around me, I see all objects as lyrical lines. They sweep upward, swirl, cross each other, sweep downward and in general dance. As they dance, they set up a rhythm or tension with other lines. The tension created, I relate to expressions of human emotions. The works in this exhibit express my visual interpretation to these human emotions. I have used lines of clay, string, paint and ink for this expression. Within the exhibit there are sculptures, 3-D wall hangings, paintings and pen and ink works. I wanted to set no limits on the materials used or the sizes of the pieces."

Regula has 12-20 pieces of art in this exhibit, and they will be for sale, starting at $100.

"This is my second time to be exhibiting with Louisa Coburn at WMAC," Regula said. "I met Louisa when she joined the Co-Op. It has been a very rewarding experience to plan this exhibit with Louisa. Our work represents our two different views of the interpretation of Lyrical Lines."

Coburn is a former member of the Co-Op and a clay, watercolor, and mixed media artist. She is a native of Hudson Valley, NY, but has deep southern roots and has lived in Spartanburg for the past 33 years. She has degrees in English and Child Study. She has worked as an editor for Educational Testing

Newberry College in Newberry, SC, Features Works by Bonnie Goldberg

Newberry College in Newberry, SC, is presenting Musings: Reflections on Line and Color, featuring new works on paper and canvas by abstract figurative artist Bonnie Goldberg, on view in the Wessel's Library Gallery through Nov. 15, 2017.

The Columbia, SC, based artist will offer abstract figurative works that depict the model "as it moves in space". The works are often gestural, full of implied energy and motion that the artist emphasizes through her elegant and kenetic use of line and color. Goldberg's energetic marks breathe life into these women.

Goldberg states, "my figure work is the embodiment of who I am as an artist. I connect to the lines and shapes of the pose, the gesture of the model, and find the essence of the person who is posing". Although she states that she tries "to keep the details to a minimum", the figures are no less alive for that effort.

"The gesture is important to me and taking out the detail and trying to capture the spirit of the movement in the smallest lines are what I try to achieve as I draw and feel what the pose is about" says Goldberg. She continues, "I want to include the viewer in my work. I want each person looking at my lines to think about where they come from and what they are trying to say. When posing or photographing the women that I love to paint, I try to find each personal gesture that belongs to that particular woman and then translate that into the essence of who she is in that moment in time."

Goldberg states in a most succinct

manner, "The beauty of the women, both interior and exterior, and the gesture of the spirit of women is what is important to me in my work".

Goldberg has exhibited extensively in the Southeast and is the recipient of numerous awards in painting and drawing. She is the recipient of a 2016 arts award and honor from the Palmetto Center for Women for outstanding work in her field and her many contributions to the community. She is a self taught artist who has studied with many notable painters including Alex Powers, Katherine Chang Liu, Glenn Bradshaw, Ernest Velardi, Don Andrews, Sigmund Abeles, and Carole Barnes. Her work is in private collections in the United States, Canada, and France.

Fine Arts Center of Kershaw County in Camden, SC, Offers Works by Amy Sheheen

The Fine Arts Center of Kershaw County in Camden, SC, is presenting Wonderings, featuring works by Amy Sheheen, on view in the Bassett Gallery through Oct. 7, 2017.

Sheheen, the wife of Senator Vincent Sheheen, was born in Columbus, OH. She began drawing and painting early in life. At the age of five, she began to interpret the world around her through art. She moved to South Carolina in high school and graduated from Walhalla High School. Sheheen graduated from Clemson University with a Bachelor of Science degree in Graphic Communications.

Sheheen has worked professionally in printing, sales, and design. She has painted public murals, which are on continuous display, and has had paintings sold at private auction. Over the years, she attended various workshops at Brookgreen Gardens, and the Fine Arts Center of Kershaw County. She paints under the guidance of Patricia Adelman, as well as at her studio in Camden. Sheheen's current focus is oil on canvas. This is her first public gallery show.

The Fine Arts Center is funded in part by the South Carolina Arts Commission, the National Endowment for the Arts. Additional funding is provided by the City of Camden, Kershaw County, Duke Energy

she performed as the Lenti Piano Duo.

During a year in Florence, Italy, she studied art history at the Villa Schifanoia Graduate School of Fine Arts. The Lenti Piano Duo performed extensively in Florence, Milan, Warsaw, London, Bermuda, St. Croix and throughout the United States. The duo made four commercially successful CDs with ACA Digital of Atlanta. During these travels, Dr. Lenti always carried art supplies to visually record her travels; she studied impressionism at galleries including exhibits in Florence, the Hermitage in St. Petersburg, the Prado in Milan, the Louvre in Paris. The Arts Institute in Chicago and many others. Dr. Lenti was named a Performance Fellow of the SC Arts Commission, taught and lectured many years at the SC Governor's School for the Arts and at the Interlochen Center of the Arts in Michigan.

For the past decade, she has owned Art by Marianne Lenti as an artist-in-residence at the Greenwood Arts Center, displaying works in oil, acrylic, pastels, assemblage, and watercolor. She has continued art study through workshops with leading artists throughout the country and was honored by the Reserve at Lake Keowee, where she taught pastel artists for a week, and completed a commission for their gallery.

Lenti displays regularly at the South Carolina Festival of Flowers, the Uptown Market in Greenwood, and regional art shows. She is a landscape artist specializing in acrylic on canvas. Her recent project, "Spirit Trees®," combines her love of nature and color.

Her career as an artist began relatively late in life: She took her first studio art course in ceramics at the defunct Spartanburg Arts Center on Spring Street in 2000. Her fascination with water color began with her first class with Sa Smith at the Church of the Advent in 2004. She likes to "color outside the lines," she said. Her work is playful and expressive, non-traditional and non-representational. She has 12-20 pieces in this exhibit.

to me, and I did so by focusing on 'line' in a very basic way. I started thinking about the myriad ways lines control us from a very early age. We line up, toe the line, sign on the line, color within the lines, don't cross the lines, etc. All those rules! My next thoughts were about telephone lines, telegraph lines, airlines, lines of sight - all the ways lines might foster communication. Many of the paintings start with a horizontal line that divides the space. What happens in and around the line is what interests me."

"When I first started thinking about this show about 18 months ago," Coburn said, "I thought it would be called 'It's Lyrical,' and be a show that played off literal song lyrics that were meaningful to me. I really did not want to reveal that much information about myself. When Beth decided to exhibit with me, we settled on the title Lyrical Lines. What I have learned from preparing for this show is that both 'lyrical' and 'line' in the arts have meanings different from what they might mean for me as an English major."

"Line implies movement in art. Lyrical implies deeply felt emotion. I had to find a way to approach this idea that made sense

Columbia Museum of Art in Columbia, SC, Offers Works by Henri Matisse

The Columbia Museum of Art in Columbia, SC, is presenting Henri Matisse: Jazz & Poetry on Paper, a sweeping exhibition that celebrates four of the artist's books, including his iconic Jazz portfolio, on view through Jan. 15, 2018. Drawn from the Bank of America art collection, the exhibition features 80 framed illustrations that together offer meditations on life, love, hardship, and utter joy.

"Henri Matisse is one of the essential European artists of the modern era," says Lynn Robertson, CMA interim director. "As South Carolina's only international art museum, we are thrilled to partner with Bank of America to give our community the chance to see the artist in one of his most personal and experimental genres."

To make art accessible in the communities it serves, Bank of America converted its corporate art collection into a unique community resource known as "Art in Our Communities" from which museums and nonprofit galleries may borrow complete or customized exhibitions at no cost. By providing these exhibitions, the bank promotes community engagement and helps generate vital revenue for regional cultural venues. Since the program launched in 2008, worldwide the bank has loaned more than 120 exhibitions.

"Bank of America is a leading supporter of the arts worldwide because we believe that a thriving arts and culture sector benefits economies and societies. Just in the last few years, Bank of America has given more than $2 million in support of the arts in South Carolina," says Kim Wilkerson, South Carolina and Columbia market president, Bank of America. "We are excited to again be partnering with the Columbia Museum of Art to bring a second exhibition to Columbia through the Art in Our Communities program so that individuals and families can discover a world-renowned artist."

Widely regarded as one of the most important artists of the 20th century, Henri Matisse influenced a diverse number of art movements, artists, and schools of thought. Over the course of his 60-year career, the daringly modern artist experimented with a variety of mediums, producing paintings, drawings, prints, and sculpture, as well as costume and stage set designs.

Matisse became increasingly interested in printmaking and illustrating in the 1930s. Artists' books, conceived as art objects in their own right, provided him personal and creative renewal. He brought to life some of the greatest works of French literature—medieval chivalric poems, 19th-century symbolist works, and 20th-century riffs on ancient myths—with playfully looping gestures, elegant lines, and brightly colored shapes in a way that is always distinctly his own. Over the course of his life, Matisse created 12 illustrated books, 11 of which were widely reproduced and one of which was made exclusively for his family. The Bank of America Collection is fortunate to have four of Matisse's important artist's books, and these original works are featured in this exhibition:

—Poésies de Stéphane Mallarmé (The Poetry of Stéphane Mallarmé), 1932

—Pasiphaë—Chant de Minos (Les Crétois) (Pasiphaë—Song of Minos [The Cretans]), 1944

—Jazz, 1947

—Poèmes de Charles d'Orléans (Poems of Charles d'Orléans), 1950

Matisse's first illustrated book, Poésies de Stéphane Mallarmé (The Poetry of Stéphane Mallarmé), includes images created to accompany the works of the French poet, a key figure among the symbolist writers. The illustrations in Poésies are characterized by the use of simple, delicate lines, making them some of Matisse's most elegant works of art.

Pasiphaë—Chant de Minos (Les Crétois) (Pasiphaë—Song of Minos [The Cretans]) retells the story of Pasiphaë, wife of King Minos, and the Minotaur. For these illustrations, Matisse used linoleum engraving to create white lines on a solid black background, suggesting ancient Greek vase paintings.

Jazz is considered one of the great illustrated books of the 20th century; Matisse created both the text and illustrations. Based largely on imagery from the circus and music halls, the vividly colored illustrations derived from Matisse's cutouts. Although he had devised the art form years earlier, it wasn't until the 1940s that Matisse focused on cutouts. He perfected the technique in the final years of his long career when, confined to a wheelchair and suffering from illness, he found it difficult to paint. In delightful calligraphy, Matisse expressed his thoughts on the creative process and the inspiration of music.

Published four years before his death, Poèmes de Charles d'Orléans (Poems of Charles d'Orléans) features Matisse's fanciful, curvilinear designs and handwritten transcriptions of the ballads and verses of the late-medieval French poet Charles d'Orléans. Matisse copied poems using colored crayons with a spontaneity and freedom reminiscent of the way he used scissors in his late cutouts.

To complement Matisse's works, the exhibition incorporates relevant objects from the CMA collection, including ancient Greek vessels, pages from a medieval book of hours, and a 19th-century bronze. Galleries devoted to Jazz and Poèmes de Charles d'Orléans each feature softly played thematic music—French swing music of World War II and Debussy's "Trois Chansons de Charles d'Orléans," respectively—creating an immersive experience celebrating the intersection of the arts.

"In this exhibition, I took Matisse's books as a reason to further explore the fact that modernism was a creative hub—art, literature, dance, and music all interweave themselves playfully," says CMA Curator Catherine Walworth. "It's also important to remember that Matisse made these books in the 1930s and '40s, and there are subtle but interesting layers of protest to the later works made while under the Occupation."

Matisse regarded the prints he created for books as an extension of drawing. While the same flowing lines that characterized so many of Matisse's paintings carried over to his illustrations, artist's books offered distinctive constraints that informed his process. In book illustration, the goal is to establish a relationship between image and text. Visual images can be absorbed instantaneously, while the absorption of text requires slower reading and analysis. This factor makes book illustration valuable not only as an art form but also as the product of a unique combination of the written word and visual art.

Henri Matisse: Jazz & Poetry on Paper offers visitors a chance to know the artist through the literature that he held dear and the technical decisions he made while reimagining traditional art and literary forms; an opportunity to look closely at form, color, and line as well as the printmaking process; and a window into the artistic, cultural, and political history of the 20th century.

LaCa Projects in Charlotte, NC, Offers Works by Contemporary Mexican Photographers

Latin American Contemporary Art (LaCa) Projects in Charlotte, NC, is pleased to present In Focus/Enfoque: Contemporary Photography in Mexico, the gallery's first-ever photography exhibition featuring three emerging artists, on view through Nov. 4, 2017.

Karina Juárez, Alejandra Laviada, and Humberto Ríos, an award-winning trio of contemporary photographers, present powerful works in the gallery's first-ever photography exhibition. The photographs present varying themes and images, ranging from identity and personal loss to metaphorical and autobiographical elements. They also create striking visual narratives taken from the personal experiences of the artists, as well as from conceptual ideas and practices. All three artists have been featured in significant international solo and collective exhibitions.

This exhibition is also part of a broader, ambitious, multi-institution collaboration featuring contemporary Mexican photography, which runs in Charlotte from August 2017 through spring 2018. Inspired by the highly successful Pacific Standard Time: LA/LA, this unique collaboration, which includes LaCa Projects, The Light Factory, The Mint Museum, The Bechtler Museum of Modern Art, The McColl Center for Art + Innovation, SOCO Gallery, and the New Gallery of Modern Art, will exhibit through their exhibitions more than 50 artists from Mexico and the United States. As an exploration of diverse topics and themes - including design, gender, activism, identity, globalism, and borders - In Focus/Enfoque will showcase a wide variety of contemporary art in dialogue with the Queen City. As a major supporter of arts and culture across the region, Bank of America led the planning, collaboration, and funding of In Focus/Enfoque.

Alejandra Laviada (b. 1980) lives and works in Mexico City. She completed her BFA in Painting at the Rhode Island School of Design and received an MFA in Photography from the School of Visual Arts in New York. She is a member of the photography collective POC. In 2010, Laviada won the Photography Biennial in Mexico City, and in 2009 was awarded Photo España's Descubrimientos Prize for her Photo Sculpture series. She is a recipient

Humberto Ríos (b. 1983) received his Master Visual Arts degree from the National Autonomous University of Mexico, along with honors for a project he created in the National Museum of Art during his tenure. He also attended the Seminar of Contemporary Photography in the Centro de la Imagen in Mexico City. Ríos has been featured in exhibitions across the world, including the Center Cultural Chaco in Caracas, the Centro de la Imagen in México and the Museum of Modern Art of the State of México. He has also amassed numerous prizes and awards for his work, notably the Latin American Photography Award Purificación García in Zona Maco (2016) and the acquisition prize of the XXXI Encuentro Nacional de Arte Joven of National Institute of Fine Arts (2011).

Ríos' Tránsito series, featured in In Focus/Enfoque, was part of the 14th Encuentro Nacional de Fototecas organized by the Sistema Nacional de Fototecas in Mexico (2013), as well as in the Photographic Museum of Humanity (2013). His works are part of private and public collections in Mexico, Spain, and the United States.

Karina Juárez (b. 1987) is currently enrolled at the Universidad Autónoma de México (UNAM) as an art history major, and also leads Errante Laboratorio, a virtual space of investigation and diffusion of contemporary photographers. She has received training at the Manuel Álvarez Bravo

She has received a number of honors and inclusions, including honorific mention in the Contest of Contemporary Photography of Mexico (2012) and the Eight Biennial Puebla de los Angeles 2011. Her work has been featured in numerous collective and solo exhibitions in Mexico, Belgium, Brazil, Ecuador, Spain, Germany, Honduras, and France.

Established in 2013, Latin American Contemporary Art (LaCa) Projects has locations in both Charlotte and Buenos Aires. Our mission is to use this unique combination of settings to create a gateway for connecting contemporary Latin American artists with the increasingly diversifying art scene of Charlotte, as well as to provide a location in the Southeast region of the United States for art collectors to develop and foster an appreciation for the visually striking narrative of contemporary Latin American art.

Mint Museum Uptown in Charlotte, NC, Features Exhibit Focused on Designs of William Ivey Long

The Mint Museum Uptown in Charlotte, NC, is presenting William Ivey Long: Costume Designs 2007-2016, on view through June 3, 2018.

North Carolina native William Ivey Long is one of the most renowned theatrical costume designers working today. This exhibition, organized by The Mint Museum, explores Long's most recent work, from 2007 to today. It features the theatrical productions The Lost Colony (redesigned 2007-2008), The Mystery of Edwin Drood (2012), Rodgers and Hammerstein's Cinderella (2013), Little Dancer (2014), and On the Twentieth Century (2015), as well as the television specials Grease Live! (2016), and The Rocky Horror Picture Show: Let's

This cross-cultural dialogue is particularly important for Charlotte, a city that has already established itself as the second largest financial capital in the United States. The city's accompanying rising status as a cosmopolitan and multinational urban center uniquely positions LaCa Projects to serve as an influential local supporter of global culture, as well as a strong contributor to the arts at a national and international level.

Do the Time Warp Again (2016).

Focusing on Long's process, it features sketches, swatches, mood boards, and other preparatory materials in addition to the costumes themselves. Because costume design is not an area in which the Mint collects, it provides visitors with exposure to this form of art and allow for comparison of the different goals of theatrical costume and fashion. The exhibition is co-curated by Annie Carlano and Rebecca Elliot. It is accompanied by a scholarly and lavishly illustrated book.

Born in Raleigh in 1947, Long was raised in the world of the theater. His father, a technical director and professor, founded the theater program at Winthrop University in Rock Hill, SC. His mother, an actress, taught high school theater for twenty-one years. His brother and sister also work in theater; during summers in their childhood, the entire Long family worked on the outdoor drama The Lost Colony at Manteo, NC. After graduating high school in Rock Hill, Long earned a degree in history at the College of William and Mary. He then began graduate training in Renaissance art history at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, but later transferred to the Yale School of Drama at Yale University, where he earned an MFA in set design in 1975.

Long subsequently moved to New York, where he worked as an assistant to the couturier Charles James during the last three years of his life. He has received Tony Awards for Nine (1982), Crazy for You (1992), The Producers (2001), Hairspray (2003), Grey Gardens (2006), and most recently, Rodgers and Hammerstein's Cinderella (2013). In addition to Broadway productions, Long has designed costumes for hundreds of other projects, including operas, dance performances, films, television shows, and the entertainers Siegfried and Roy.

The Mint Museum Uptown will house the world renowned collections of the Mint Museum of Craft + Design, as well as the American Art and Contemporary Art collections and selected works from the European Art collection. The building also includes a café, a Family Gallery, painting and ceramics studios, classrooms, a 240-seat auditorium, a Special Events Pavilion with outdoor terrace, and an expanded Museum Shop specializing in crafts of the Carolinas.

Ciel Gallery in Charlotte, NC, Offers National Juried Exhibition

Ciel Gallery in Charlotte, NC, is pleased to present its Fall National Juried Exhibition I Spy, showcasing works by artists across the US who give us a raw, up-close and personal glimpse into how they really see and interpret the world. The exhibition opens Oct. 6 and continues through Oct. 28, 2017. A special reception will be held on Oct. 6, from 6-9pm. Award winners will be judged by Lee Baumgarten, Executive Director at The Civic & Cultural Arts Center in Pineville and announced at the reception.

Our planet is a monument to wonder, to see, to explore, to present everyday epiphanies as a moment of refuge and delight for an overloaded and often blinded world. The works presented will give viewers insightful peeks into the inner depths of artists minds.

A blind panel reviewed 268 entries from 146 artists representing 15 states and 44 pieces were selected to exhibit. Themes of the natural world, human moments, oddities and curiosities are interpreted in a variety of scale and media such as: oil, acrylic, digital, stoneware, jewelry, beadwork, mosaic, photography, lithography, sculpture, fiber and gaming screens.

Local artist professional, Lee Baumgarten will be judging for awards. He is a proponent/advocate for creativity and innovation, for creating a better paradigm in public education and advocating "Art" as a catalyst for change. He has received grants, awards and honors and has regularly produced artworks, gallery exhibits, student workshops and cultural projects in the Charlotte area since 1998, expanding across the US and into Europe since 2012.

Artists selected for this exhibit include: Andrea Zinn, Cathy Wilkin, Charles Roche, Cornelia Wende, Daniel File, Daniel Quinn,

Zealandia Castle in Asheville, NC, Offers Benefit Exhibit for RiverLink

Asheville's premier landscape painters celebrate the French Broad River's rise from polluted obscurity to the defining element of the South's most exciting city at Of Time and the River IV: the Annual Art Show and Gala to Benefit RiverLink. The gala event will be held Friday, Oct. 27, from 6-9pm at the mysterious Zealandia Castle, the historic 1908 Tudor Revival mansion on Beaucatcher Mountain overlooking the city of Asheville, NC. The art will be available for free purchase and free public viewing on Saturday, Oct. 28 and Sunday, Oct. 29, 2017, from 11am until 5pm.

The event grew out of a shared joy that binds artists, activists, river enthusiasts, and entrepreneurs in connecting people to the French Broad River. John Mac Kah, painter and the show's curator, ascribes the show's success to the partnership between RiverLink and the contributing artists. "This organization is great to work with," he notes. "They continue to achieve positive results for the river."

my work for the river's continuing health and vitality." The shared purpose of participating artists is bringing engagement with the river through their work. Most complete their work en plein air, remaining at riverside locations while painting and avoiding the use of photographs. Attendees in 2014 and 2015 appreciated not only the spirit of the event but the years' collections of newly created artwork, which boasted a variety of approach and technique. There were sumptuous botanical renderings of local flora and moody renderings of abandoned riverside buildings in walnut ink brewed by the artists. At this year's event there will be a large map indicating the locations where the artists painted their works of art along the river's 218-mile run that straddles North Carolina and Tennessee. This year's gala event once again features the music of renowned composer and cellist Ron Clearfield, who has recorded with

Paul McCartney and Steve Martin. Whole Foods is providing food, while Oscar Blues Brewery is donating beer. Zealandia, the gala's venue, was built by Philip Henry in 1889 and is on the National Register of Historic Places. It boasts a grand staircase and oak woodwork, with ample room for paintings by this year's 23 artists spread over two stories. The current owner, Zealandia Holding Company, has graciously offered the use of the house for the event. This year's exhibiting artists include: Paul Blankinship, Cecil Bothwell, Caleb Clark, Rachel Clearfield, Tony Corbett, Jr., Theresa Darling, John Dempsey, Christine Enoch, Matthew Good, Mark Henry, Dana Irwin, Susan Kokora, Bryan Kootz, Anselme Long, Alisa Lumberras, John Mac Kah, Cathy Mandeville, Brennen McElhane, Carol Parks, Jason Rafferty, Deborah Squier, Alison Webb, and Colleen Webster. Center for Craft, Creativity & Design in Asheville, NC, Offers Group Exhibition

The Center for Craft, Creativity & Design in Asheville, NC, is presenting Crafted Strangers, curated by Cass Gardiner and Quizayra Gonzalez, on view in the Benchspace Gallery & Workshop, through Jan. 6, 2018. Questions of immigration, citizenship, belonging, and identity are more pressing and complicated now than ever. Using a variety of mediums, seventeen established and emerging artists from across the United States and Canada are exhibiting work that problematizes identity stereotypes and opens up new notions of the self. The exhibition is curated by the emerging curatorial collective Matters Unsettled, a partnership between Cass Gardiner and Quizayra Gonzalez. Gardiner and Gonzalez received a 2017 Curatorial Fellowship from CCCD, which funded the planning and execution of the exhibition while providing the curators a platform and professional development. Crafted Strangers is the third and final Curatorial Fellowship exhibition

to be mounted this year, following Tie Up, Draw Down and The Good Making of Good Things: Craft Horizons Magazine 1941-1979.

"I take pride in the fact that CCCD offers a space to display some of the best, most forward-thinking examples of craft in North America," says CCCD Executive Director Stephanie Moore. The contemporary art world can often feel exclusive, making it difficult for emerging artists and arts administrators to challenge longstanding practices. By offering Benchspace Gallery & Workshop to curators like Matters Unsettled, Gonzalez explains CCCD is "actively making space for artists and curators from all backgrounds in an effort to change the art world's rigid landscape."

Gonzalez is a Dominican American artist and curator who holds a MA from Parsons and a BFA from the University of the Arts. Gardiner is an indigenous artist and curator who holds an MFA from Ryerson University and a Honors BA from NYU's Gallatin School of Individualized Study. Together, Gonzalez and Gardiner seek to create exhibitions that serve as forums for cultural research and experimentation.

"From ceramic sculptures made from clothes left at the US-Mexican border to trading cards that position indigenous women as superheroes, Crafted Strangers is a timely exhibition that brings an array of stories that challenge mainstream representations of immigrant and indigenous people," explains the curators, Gonzalez and Gardiner.

The seventeen artists selected offer a diverse array of cultural perspectives and studio practices, though many are reinventing traditional craft practices on their own terms. For example, the exhibition opens with a life-size mobile by the Dominican American artist Joiiri Monaya, featuring images drawn from the Google search: "Dominican Women". Visitors will be able to walk among the swirling, cropped, and floating larger-than-life cut-outs and reflect on the creation and destabilization of social stereotypes in this graphic and colorful installation.

In support of Crafted Strangers, CCCD

Work by Jaret Vadera

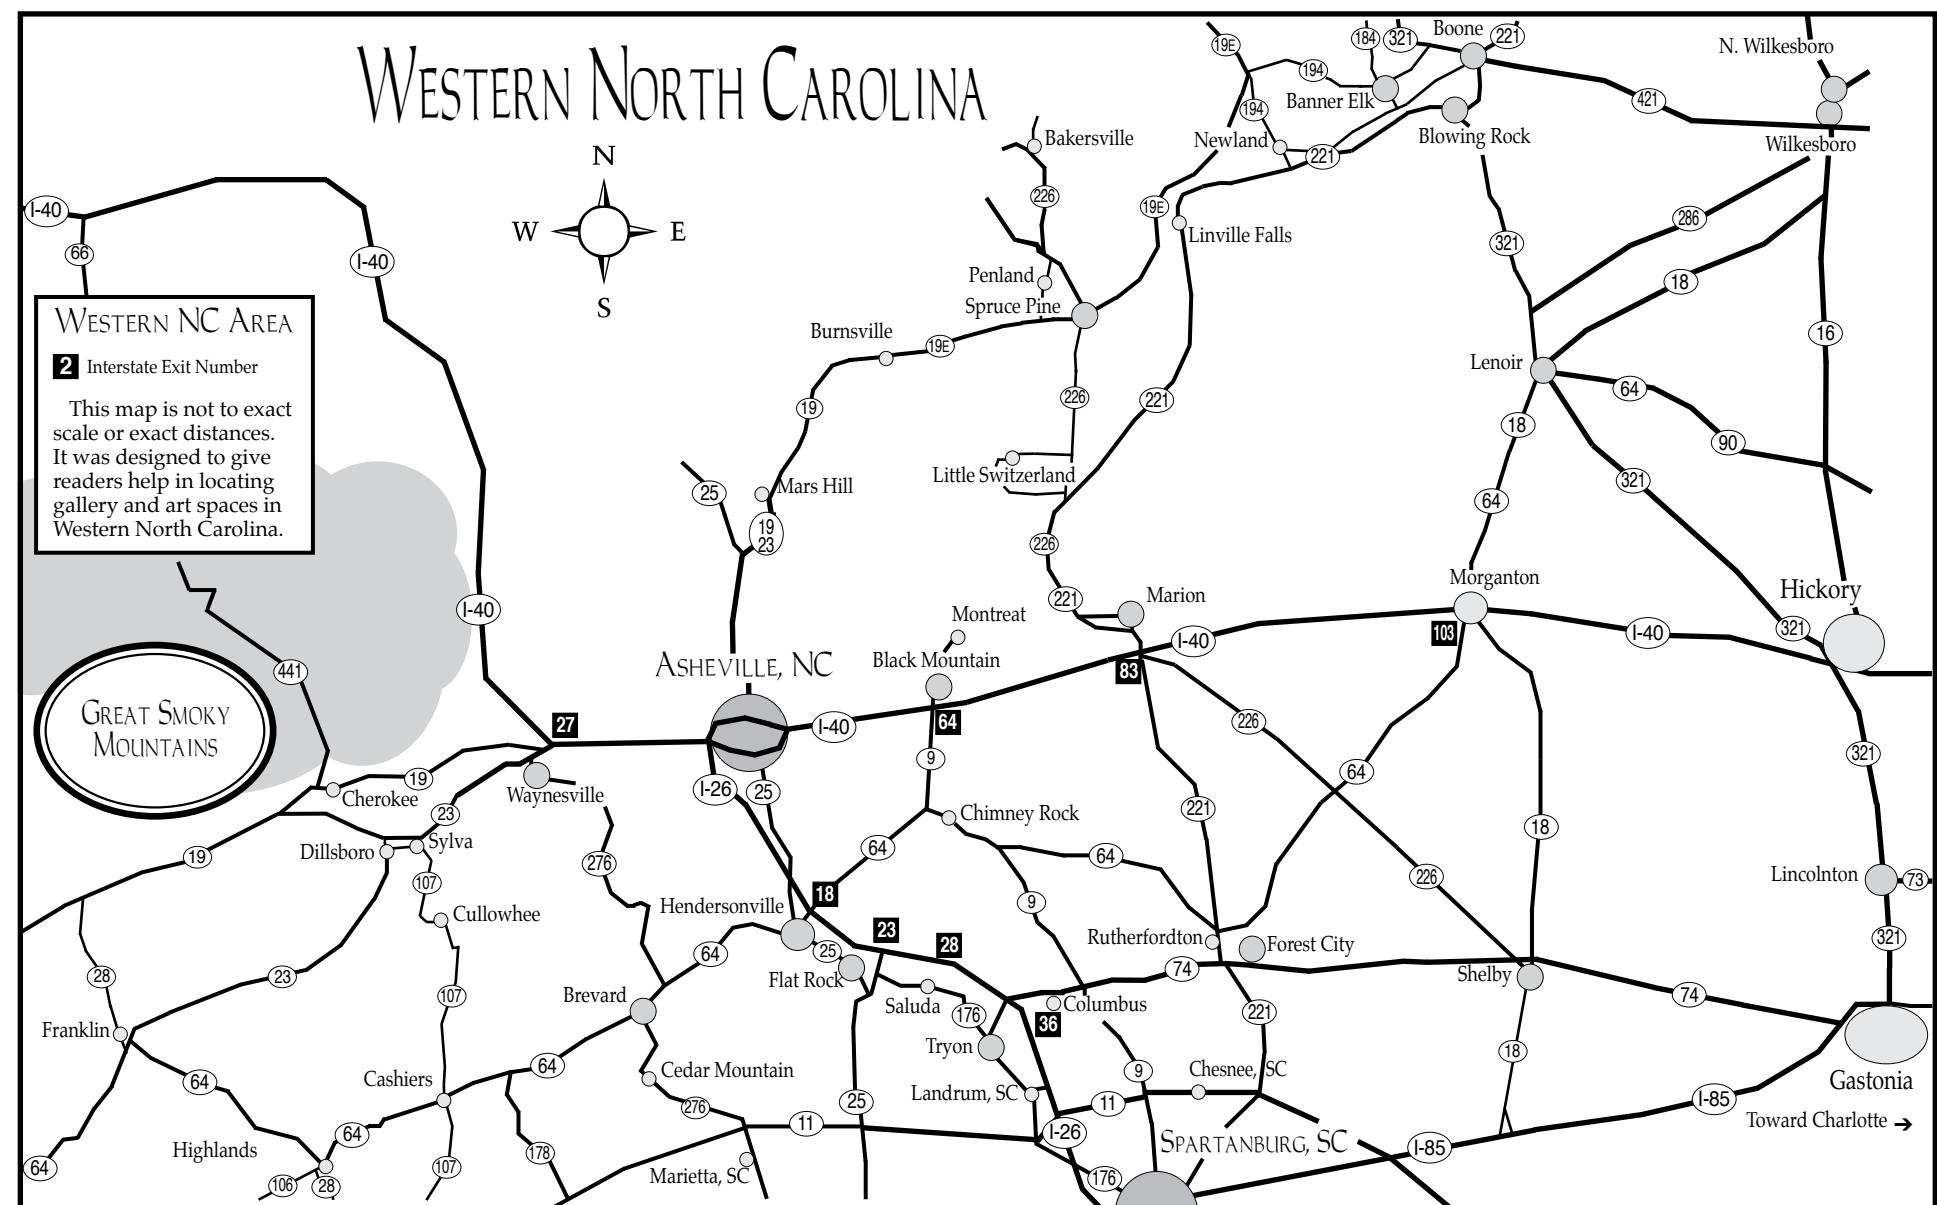

is presenting several programs that help further the conversation around identity, belonging, and shifting borders. On Oct. 13, CCCD will assemble artists and thinkers for a "Trans-Across, Beyond, Through" panel, the 2017 Windgate Research and Collections Curator Lecture, to unpack this loaded, and powerful prefix. Visitors can also build community during the "Craft with a Stranger" experimental collaborations and showcase (Saturday, Oct. 28) or the "Recipe Exchange and Short Film Festival" (Thursday, Nov. 2).

Art serves as an important catalyst for conversation, and the pieces in Crafted Strangers will invite visitors to consider current national and international events in a new light.

Participating artists include: Allegra, Indira (Oakland, California); Arcand, Joi T. (Ottawa, Ontario, Canada); Barbata, Laura Anderson (Brooklyn, New York); Bogner Winslow, LeighAnn (Levittown, Pennsylvania); Cruz, David Antonio (Newark, New Jersey); Frei Njootli, Jeneen with Igharas, Tsēma (Smithers BC, Canada); Luardo, Rose (Philadelphia, Pennsylvania); Malbeuf, Amy (St. Lina, Alberta, Canada); Minaya, Joiiri (Bronx, New York); Paul, Sage (Hamilton, Ontario, Canada); Red Star, Wendy (Portland, Oregon); Quezada Ureña, Daisy (Santa Fe, New Mexico); Schahbaz, Hiba (Brooklyn, New York); Vadera, Jaret (Brooklyn, New York); Wong, Amy Jenine (Belize City, Belize); and Zazueta, Arjan (Brooklyn, New York).

The CCCD Curatorial Fellowship is a yearlong pilot program created to give emerging curators a platform for exploring and testing new ideas about craft. For its inaugural year, three teams of Curatorial Fellows were selected out of a total of 54 applications and each awarded $5,000. The 2017 CCCD Curatorial Fellowship was made possible by the John & Robyn Horn Foundation. Exhibition programming is supported by Donna and Ralph Briskin. CCCD is supported in part by a grant from the NC Arts Council, a division of the Department of Natural and Cultural Resources. Benchspace programming is supported in part by Sara and Bill Morgan.

Founded in 1996, The Center for Craft, Creativity & Design (CCCD) is a national

501c3 nonprofit organization dedicated to advancing the field of craft through fostering new ideas, funding craft scholarship, and backing the next generation of makers, curators and critics. CCCD has developed a strong national reputation as a significant resource for artists, museums, academic researchers, university students and arts organizations. Each year, CCCD administers over a quarter million dollars in grants to those working in the craft field. Asheville, NC's Craft Fair Honors 70 Years of Creative Heritage - Oct. 20-22, 2017

As Asheville awaits its most popular season, the Craft Fair of the Southern Highlands continues to offer the public opportunities to cultivate craft in their daily life. Presented by Asheville Color and Imaging and Asheville Citizen-Times, this fine craft event will return to the U.S. Cellular Center. Doors open at the downtown Asheville venue on Friday, Oct. 20, at 10am and will last until Sunday, Oct. 22 at 5pm.

The Fair will feature nearly 180 makers with both contemporary and traditional work in clay, wood, metal, glass, fiber, natural materials, paper, leather, mixed media, and jewelry. The members will fill both the arena and concourse of the U.S. Cellular Center. Each maker has undergone a two-step jury process as a part of the Guild's legacy to uphold a set of standards established by their creative peers.

Additionally, there will be a range of craft demonstrations with interactive activities for visitors, such as Brandy Clements of Silver River Chair Caning Center with rush and lace cane on handmade frames, mixed media artist Cindi Lemkau showcasing embroidery and appliqué, and fiber extraordinaire Cassie Dixon will be demonstrating flax making among other techniques.

Each day provides various experiences in addition to shopping. At 1pm, Quilt appraiser Connie Brown will be presenting a fifteen-minute bed turning that will feature a range of southern and vintage quilts. In addition, mountain musicians, from old time to bluegrass, perform live on the arena stage daily. Since the first fair, the music of the area has been woven into the fabric of the Craft Fair experience.

The Southern Highland Craft Guild is also partnering with local service, Slidr, to assist customers and visitors with their transportation to the Fair. With Fall being the most visited time of year for Asheville, the Guild looks to provide ease of access through the electronic shuttle. Slidr will be offering visitors free shuttle rides to and from the North Asheville area near Chestnut Street and the Asheville Chamber straight to the door of the U.S. Cellular Center. Slidr's free mobile app allows users to request a shuttle anytime throughout the event.

The U.S. Cellular Center was a shift in landscape for this event from its inception under canvas tents in 1948 on the grassy lawns of Arrowmont School of Arts & Crafts in Gatlinburg, TN. Downtown Asheville provides a robust experience for visitors, as the time honored gathering is Cultivating the crafts and makers of the Southern Highlands for the purpose of shared resources, education, marketing, and conservation.

The Southern Highland Craft Guild, chartered in 1930, is today one of the strongest craft organizations in the country. The Guild currently represents nearly 900 craftspeople in 293 counties of 9 southeastern states. During the Depression the Guild cultivated commerce for craftspeople in the Appalachian region. This legacy continues today as the Guild plays a large role in the Southern Highlands craft economy through the operation of four craft shops and two annual craft exhibitions. Educational programming is another fundamental element of the organization, fulfilled through integrated educational craft demonstrations

310 ART in Asheville, NC, Offers Works Focused on Storytelling

310 ART in Asheville, NC, is presenting Storytelling - Thought to Image, on view through Dec. 31, 2017.

The 310 ARTists are always telling tales whenever they paint, draw, create sculpture and other fabulous things. It is a visual way of communicating personal stories, the signs of the times, their cultural history and reflections of current events.

310 ART will finish this eventful year with their own collection of stories in visual form. The artists visually tell their own stories in words and pictures for a fall show that looks back on the past and casts a gaze to the future. Some art is introspective, and some renderings of scenes and real events. On exhibit are watercolors of historical trains, provocative abstracts, works in encaustic in many methods, new sculptural pieces and much more.

A reception is opened to the public on Oct. 7, from 3:30-6pm with refreshments, new works on exhibit and a free community interactive painting project sponsored by 310 ART and Cheap Joe's Art Supply. You can join in by painting your own stories on a canvas provided. This is a fun activity for all ages and families are welcomed to come. Participate in an "art scavenger hunt" for a chance to win prizes. A drawing will be held at 5:45pm for those who completed the hunt.

310 ART features the work of 20 artists in many mediums from large fine art pieces to jewelry and wearables.

Groewood Village in Asheville, NC, Celebrates American Craft Week with Artist Demonstrations + Open Studios

In celebration of American Craft Week (Oct. 6 - 15, 2017), Groewood Village in Asheville, NC, will offer artist demonstrations by Windsor chairmaker Elia Bizzarri and fiber artist Susan Lenz, and will also host open studio art tours on two Saturdays in October.

On Saturday, Oct. 7, from 11am - 4pm, Hillsborough, NC, woodworker Elia Bizzarri, known for his impeccable craftsmanship, will be interacting with the public and demonstrating his highly-refined turning skills at Groewood Gallery in Groewood Village.

Using traditional tools and techniques, Bizzarri handcrafts elegant studio furniture out of maple, poplar, hickory and oak. He was recently featured building a Continuous Arm Rocking Chair on Roy Underhill's series "The Woodwright's Shop" on PBS, and his work was also showcased in the Celebrate NC Craft Exhibition at the Governor's Mansion in 2010.

On Saturday, Oct. 14 from 11am - 4pm, Columbia, SC, artist Susan Lenz will be demonstrating at Groewood Gallery, transforming ordinary yarn into functional fiber vessels. In addition to her one-of-a-kind vessels, she will also showcase select works from her popular framed textile series. All artwork will be available to purchase.

Lenz's work has been widely exhibited throughout the United States. In 2016, she was awarded a solo show at the Mesa Contemporary Arts Museum in Arizona, and had a piece selected for a group exhibition at The Textile Museum in Washington, DC. Lenz was also juried into the prestigious Philadelphia Museum of Art Craft Show for 2016/17, and one of her fiber vessels was just selected to be showcased in the National Basketry Association's juried show, which will travel across the country to various venues.

On Oct. 7 and 21, some of the resident artists at Groewood Village will open up their studios to the public, allowing visitors to gain insight into their creative process

Woolworth Walk in Asheville, NC, Features Works by Susan Stanton

Woolworth Walk in Asheville, NC, will present and exhibit of photographs by Susan Stanton, on view in the F.W. Gallery, from Oct. 1 - 31, 2017. A reception will be held Oct. 6, from 5-7pm.

Stanton has spent years traveling and photographing the beauty and rustic charm that is known as the Southern Appalachians. A vast array of images depicting scenes along the Blue Ridge Parkway, the Blue Ridge Mountains, the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, Pisgah National Forest, Western North Carolina, Eastern Tennessee, and upstate South Carolina as well as a series of rustic interiors can be found in her online pictorial gallery.

Stanton's images have appeared in various national, state and regional magazines and publications. "As an artist, I take time to court my subjects - to discover the subtle nuances that reveal themselves only after developing a relationship with the subject. I may visit the same location numerous times at different times of day, or various seasons waiting for the lighting and mood to be perfect. I strive to record the textures... the feeling of the scene. My goal is to capture the subject's 'essence' in a photograph - to place the viewer at the scene not only visually, but emotionally and spiritually as well.

"Yes, there are moments of serendipity when the elements are aligned for that perfect photo, but discovering those magical, intimate details of my subjects is the quintessence of my photography," adds Stanton.

and view their most recent works. Meet makers who work in a variety of media, and browse original works of art ranging from jewelry to pottery to sculpture. Tours are free and self-guided and take place from 11am - 4pm on both dates.

Groewood Village is housed in the historic weaving and woodworking complex of Biltmore Industries, adjacent to Omni Grove Park Inn. The 11-acre property, celebrating its centennial this year, is listed on the National Register of Historic Places and includes Groewood Gallery, working artist studios, a sculpture garden, Golden Fleece restaurant, the Biltmore Industries Hometown Museum, and Asheville's only antique car museum. Free parking is available on-site.

For further information check our NC Commercial Gallery listings, call the Gallery at 828/253-7651 or visit (www.groewood.com).

Work by Susan Stanton

When Stanton is not traversing a mountain trail, knee deep in a rushing creek, bushwhacking through the forest, judging an art competition, or guest speaking at photography events and clubs, she can be found in her 2400 square foot studio located 10 minutes from the Asheville airport where she and her husband lovingly create her works which range in size from 8" x 12" to over 54" x 85".

Feel free to set up an appointment to see how your next piece is made. Standard and custom shapes and sizes, bitychs, and triptychs are all available. Stanton's work can always be viewed and ordered at Woolworth Walk in downtown Asheville who has been representing her for nearly a decade and a half. Come meet Stanton at the reception on Oct. 6, from 5-7pm and enjoy the corresponding art walk.

Asheville Gallery of Art in Asheville, NC, Features Works by Cathynn Burgess

Asheville Gallery of Art in Asheville, NC, will present Grounded: Landscapes Real and Imagined, featuring works by Cathynn Burgess, on view from Oct. 1 - 31, 2017. A reception will be held on Oct. 6, from 5-8pm.

Burgess, whose vibrant approach to subject matter mirrors nature's fall exuberance. She declares that she "loves to paint." Whether using soft pastels en plein air or oil and cold wax, she energetically addresses wood, canvas, and paper with similar enthusiasm. While this show is about her view of places imagined and visited, she has also garnered recognition for her still life and portraiture. Most recently, she has been awarded for her landscapes in pastel.

"The ordinary, quiet moments of daily living are often filled with common observations that I find quite lovely," says Burgess. "I want the viewer to breathe a sigh of joy or lose themselves in the environments I create when viewing my work or living with it. This often violent world needs more of the beautiful and this is what I offer. I want to share with you the things that delight me."

For this show, the viewer will be immersed in the images she happily produces in her home studio in Hendersonville, NC. Burgess also teaches workshops in oil or pastel. She exhibits her work at Asheville Gallery of Art and at Up Against the Wall Gallery, in Kingsport, TN. Her work hangs

Western Carolina University in Cullowhee, NC, Offers Contemporary Southeastern Indian Art Exhibit

Western Carolina University in Cullowhee, NC, is presenting Return from Exile: Contemporary Southeastern Indian Art, curated by Tony A. Tiger, Bobby C. Martin, and Jace Weaver, featuring contemporary Native American art through two exhibitions and a symposium, on view in the Fine Art Museum at the Bardo Arts Center through Dec. 8, 2017.

The exhibition features more than thirty contemporary Southeastern Native American artists working in a variety of media including painting, drawing, printmaking, basketry, sculpture, and pottery. Return from Exile is one of the first major exhibitions to focus on contemporary artists from tribal nations with an historical connection to the Southeastern United States. These include the so-called Five Civilized Tribes, the Choctaw, Chickasaw, Cherokee, and Muscogee (or Creek), and Seminole, all of whom were forcibly removed in the 1830s to present-day Oklahoma as a result of the Indian Removal Act of 1830. The title of the exhibition represents the return of these artists to their ancestral homelands.

Return from Exile curators Bobby Martin and Tony Tiger state, "As the title Return from Exile suggests, we wanted to bring this important artwork back to its historic homelands. Western Carolina University, with roots tied deeply to the Eastern Cherokee, is a significant link in that 'Return.'"

The WCU Fine Art Museum received a $25,000 grant from the National Endowment for the Arts to host this exhibition and organize a one-day symposium focused on contemporary Native American art. Speakers include artists with work in the exhibition as well as local artists. The symposium will be held on Nov. 10 from 9am-4pm, followed by a reception honoring the Return from Exile exhibition from 5-7pm. Both events are free and open to the public. The symposium includes a ticketed keynote performance from Canadian First Nation electronic music group A Tribe Called Red at 7:30pm. For details visit (arts.wcu.edu/tribe).

Toe River Arts Council in Burnsville, NC, will present Forest for the Trees, featuring works by Debra Carpenter, on view in the Toe River Arts Burnsville Gallery from Oct. 7 through Nov. 11, 2017.

Carpenter moved to Spruce Pine, NC, from St. Augustine, FL, in 2016. For years, she would work in her little house on the beach exploring color and discovering a new way to interpret the landscape.

"My eyes were losing far sight. I noticed the way light 'mosaics' between the branches of trees. I painted that using the letters and light play..." When she decided it was time to make a move, she recalled the

I played with background color and contrast; it seemed as if the limbs were afire...Painting is a communication, a reaching out, from the canvas to the artist to the viewer...a constant journey with an ever illusive destination. The Art Cellar Gallery in Banner Elk, NC, Features An Invitational

Continuing to celebrate the The Art Cellar Gallery's 25th season the gallery is hosting Artist Invitational: The Next 25 Years, an exhibition on view through Oct. 21, 2017. This is a very special show featuring artists new to the gallery as well as some of the gallery's established perennial artists.

Introducing works from two wonderful new artists to the gallery, Anthony Coffey and Sir Tom Foolery, each with bold and bright imagery. Boone, NC, native, Anthony Coffey's work blends color and familiar subjects in a fun and funky style. Sir Tom Foolery's paintings are culturally grounded and speak to the viewer of historical and current events with broad brushstrokes and vividly rich colors. Jacob Daniels, another new artist to The Art Cellar Gallery is also a Boone local. His artistic depictions speak to the very heart of Appalachia with imagery that sometimes feels like looking at an old photograph. With dark colors and dramatic light work Daniels' paintings give an anachronistic experience. The Art Cellar Gallery will also introduce sculptor Bill Hickman of Raleigh, NC, who transforms sheet metal and found materials into vibrant, whimsical animals and wall hangings.

The intricate landscapes of painter Ward Nichols will hang in the Artist Invitational exhibition. Ward Nichols is a prominent painter with over 50 years of painting to his name. His meticulously detailed still life and landscapes have a photographic quality and his work is in collections around the world.

Accomplished landscape, figure, and fresco painter Roger Nelson will also be featured in the invitational. He began his career creating large and public art installations, where he met fellow painter Ben

Long and began a friendship that would take him all over the world painting frescoes. His landscapes and figurative paintings capture the old world feel of the masters.

As summer begins to turn toward autumn, The Art Cellar Gallery maintains an ever changing range of work by gallery artists throughout its three floors of exhibition space. Along with the Artist Invitational: The Next 25 Years exhibit, the gallery will showcase sculpture in metal, stone and glass; works on canvas and paper; and regional artists' works in clay. The Art Cellar Gallery will also have its Annual Holiday Open House events on Dec. 16, from 3-5pm.

The Art Cellar Gallery has been an important part of the arts in the region for twenty-five seasons and continues to highlight the painting and sculpture of local artists of regional, national, and international acclaim.

Blowing Rock Frameworks & Gallery in Blowing Rock, NC, Offers Work by William "Wiili" Armstrong

Blowing Rock Frameworks & Gallery in Blowing Rock, NC, is presenting a fall show featuring Outsider artist, William "Wiili" Armstrong, well known in the High Country, and observed in Folk Art Messenger after his untimely death. Wiili was untrained and suffered from a number of mental illnesses, placing him categorically outside of the Art world as we know it. The exhibit will be on view through Nov. 30, 2017.

Outsider art focuses mainly on those who do not "belong" in the art world. Wiili did not "belong" anywhere. He spent much of his life homeless, after leaving home at the age of 17. His father was an ornithologist and shared much of his passion for birds with his son. Wiili, who was diagnosed bipolar and schizophrenic, found solitude along the outskirts of society and would trade paintings for money and coffee.

Wiili's work is characterized by bold brushstrokes and bright colors. He would paint on anything he could find, like cardboard or pieces of wood, ironing boards, hubcaps, turtle shells (yes, turtle shells!) and almost anything freely found. After he started selling more work, he had a bit of money to replenish his paints and actually buy canvas. He painted, used pastels, crayons, sculpted, anything he could find to let out the mental turmoil he felt.

Aesthetics aside, Wiili's subject matter remained consistent through most of his pieces. Being a nature lover, and with his father's background in ornithology, Wiili's paintings usually feature at least one bird. He had quite the obsession with flying creatures. Angels mainly, also due to his love for women and the female form, butterflies, flying horses, etc. After studying so many of his paintings, these flight metaphors seem to be a cry for escape; almost as though he wanted to fly away from the mental distress of this existence.

Caldwell Arts Council in Lenoir, NC, Features Works by Brush & Palette Club of Lenoir, Charles Scheil & Jim Lee

The Caldwell Arts Council in Lenoir, NC, will present two new exhibits including: Wood You Be Still?! featuring artwork by Caldwell County's own Brush & Palette Club, wood turnings by retired Dr. Charles Scheil of Lenoir, and still life photography by Jim Lee of Durham, NC. A meet-the-artists reception will be held Oct. 6, from 5-7pm.

The Brush & Palette Club of Lenoir, NC currently has about twenty-five exhibiting artists, including painters, sculptors and potters. Their artwork will be displayed on the main floor along with wood-turnings by retired Dr. Charles Scheil, also of Lenoir.

Jim Lee of Durham, NC, will display his still life photography in the upstairs gallery.

Lee's education history includes University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill, the North Carolina State University, and Penland School of Crafts.

The Caldwell Arts Council's mission is to establish and maintain an awareness and appreciation of cultural arts in Caldwell County, to encourage participation in art events, and to offer various educational opportunities and administrative services in support of artists, arts agencies, and audiences.

Trackside Studios in Asheville, NC, Offers Work by Virginia Pendergrass

Trackside Studios in Asheville, NC's River Arts District, will present Moody Skies, featuring paintings by Virginia Pendergrass, on view from Oct. 1 - 31, 2017. A reception will be held on Oct. 8, from 4:30-6:30pm.

Early in her painting career in Florida, color captured Pendergrass' attention first. She was influenced by a Betty Edwards book, "Color", emphasizing bright, strong colors in painting, and by a workshop with

Scott Christiansen, whose paintings feature warm, western landscapes. These colorful paintings were particularly suited to sunny Florida; some patrons described her early work as "happy paintings."

"When I moved to Brevard, NC, 15 years ago, I continued to use the same bright color palette and was guided by spots of bright color in choosing a composition," recalls Pendergrass. "One rainy day, however, I huddled in a recessed doorway and painted one of my favorite works - a pasture and mountains partly obscured by a stormy sky. This moody, atmospheric painting suddenly opened my eyes to the unique beauty of North Carolina - quite different from Florida or the West - of fog rolling in and out, luminous sunsets, storms approaching, misty distant mountains, and huge banks of fat white clouds."

The transition to moody, atmospheric landscapes was not easy. "Atmospheric paintings require close values of dark and light and colorful grays; 'happy paintings' use strong contrasts of dark and light and bright color to capture the feel of sunny days," explained Pendergrass.

"I first tried various changes in paints by including one or more muted or unsaturated colors to mix the colorful grays of the atmospheric landscape. I then began to appreciate the need for careful control of values." To control values, Pendergrass undertook monochrome underpaintings in burnt sienna as a base for the color painting. "I had instruction in how to do this early on, but did not understand why anyone would. It seemed a lot of preparation to get to the 'real' painting. I finally realized that it is easier to get values right without color, which saves time in correcting later on," says Pendergrass.

In addition to an opportunity to check composition before painting in color, she found that the underpainting cues proper color mixes - she holds a loaded brush of the color mix next to a value in the underpainting to match it.

"At this point, it is a pleasure to do the underpaintings, and I find them beautiful in themselves," Pendergrass enthuses. "The underpaintings alone have an atmospheric look - I sometimes hesitate to go on with color."

Work by Virginia Pendergrass

Pendergrass has had a lifelong love of color and design but took up painting as a second career. As a child, her art education consisted of many hours perusing her parents' book, World-Famous Paintings edited by Rockwell Kent. When she later committed to a career in art, she studied with nationally known painters Scott Christensen, CW Mundy, Greg Kreutz and Kenn Backhaus. Formal art education included courses at Old Lyme Art Academy in CT, as well as Credele Art School and Seminole Community College, both in Orlando, FL.

Pendergrass' paintings have been selected for many regional and national art competitions, where she has received a number of awards for excellence.

Upstairs Artspace in Tryon, NC, Features Several New Exhibits

The Upstairs Artspace in Tryon, NC, will present several new exhibits including: I Can't Believe You Ate My Doughnut; FLORA, FAUNA & FIGURES; and KING SNAKE PRESS PRINTS, 1998 - 2017, all on view from Oct. 21 through Dec. 01, 2017. A Walk & Talk and Reception will be held on Oct. 28, with the Walk & Talk beginning at 5pm followed by the Reception at 6pm.

Doug McAbee's body of work, entitled I Can't Believe You Ate My Doughnut, explores the gap between expectation and reality in everyday life. Color, beauty and humor come together in this collection of drawings and sculptures and ask us to look for meaning in our daily narratives.

FLORA, FAUNA & FIGURES, features works by David Benson, a Distinguished Alumnus at The University of Memphis. His objective is to start the story and then let the observer form the climax and closure. In the exhibition, the experience is intimate and he says if the experience is spiritual, then the work can be classified as successful.

Work by Jim Creal

Jim Creal, for the very first time, is exhibiting his works from his South Carolina Coastal Lithograph Series as a group. The long stretch of South Carolina's barrier islands and the encompassing habitats form an ecosystem of great beauty. He has explored sites up and down the coast documenting its atmosphere, vistas and details. The lithographs, which derive from particular site visits, are his attempt to capture the mood, spirit and rich diversity of the coastal habitats. These works span more than two decades in the making.

Stokes County Arts Council in Danbury, NC, Features Works by Carol Enger and Jude Lobe

The Stokes County Arts Council in Danbury, NC, will present Unwritten Words, featuring new works of paintings, pottery, encaustics and jewelry, by Carol Enger and Jude Lobe, on view in The Apple Gallery, from Oct. 25 through Nov. 21, 2017. A reception will be held on Oct. 27, from 5:30-8pm.

The Stokes County Arts Council continues to expand and to successfully present high quality arts and arts education programming for Stokes County citizens and visitors. Stokes County's newly renovated building in Danbury, will showcase the new works of Carol Enger and Jude Lobe in their show, Unwritten Words.

Carol Enger began painting in her late twenties studying under watercolorist, Helga Brown. Over the years she attended the Art Student League of New York under the tutelage of John Groth, illustrator, artist and war correspondent. It was there she had her first acceptance into a juried show. Others include three national juried shows. Enger received honorable mention for the work "People Watching".

"New York City, a farm called Horse-shoe, and my travels have all inspired my work. I attempt to reach a viewers emotions through an image. For me art is a liberation of my creative soul and for the viewer I would hope, an opening of the mind and a raising of the spirit," said Enger. Her work has been accepted in several galleries, Anthon in Black Mountain, NC, Sawtooth Center in Winston-Salem, to name a few. Presently she exhibits at the Folk and Fine Art Carolina in Mebane, NC.

enware to create functional pots made in a casual and spontaneous manner reflecting the juiciness of the material as well as the pleasure of the process. He describes his works as colored slip paintings that float on the surface in a gestural expressionistic style which can be both provocative and confrontational.

Boyd Saunders is a painter, sculptor, illustrator, printmaker, and Distinguished Professor Emeritus of Art, The University of South Carolina. His selection for FLORA, FAUNA & FIGURES consists of original prints (etchings, lithographs, serigraphs, etc.), some large, some small. These works employ a variety of stylistic approaches to explore the theme of the show.

Phil Garrett's KING SNAKE PRESS PRINTS grew out of his love for the monotype process, and has been dedicated to encouraging other artists to experiment with the painterly print. It is a special place where invited artists can immerse themselves in the monotype process without distraction or interruption. We will be exhibiting over twenty artists that have, at one time or another have availed themselves of King Snake Press and the monotype process.

The Upstairs Artspace is a non-profit organization supported by public and private donations, sales of art, grants, and fund-raising events. The UA is supported in part by a grant from the Polk County Community Foundation.

Work by Jude Lobe

Enger attributes her influences to Peter Bruegel, Pedro Figari, Edvard Munch, Amedeo Modigliani, Paul Gauguin and Edward Hopper. She works mainly in oils and encaustics, a hot wax medium.

Jude Lobe is an award-winning artist working in a variety of media; cold wax & oil, encaustics, pottery and enamel. Before concentrating full-time in fine arts, Lobe worked as a Graphic Designer.

Lobe's artworks are predominately expressionistic. A respect for nature has been a continuous thread throughout her life and major inspiration in her work. In recent years, Lobe has been concentrating on evoking the emotion of the scene through brush strokes, color glazes, lines and using a rich palette suggested by the surroundings. "My intention is for the painting to capture a fleeting moment, like the sun changing the

"The idea of us being a part of nature connected in some way through a primordial web of energy intrigues me and feels calming," continues Lobe. "It makes such sense to me. How else can one explain how we feel the same awe when watching a sunset, or feel anguish when we see someone in pain, or get teary-eyed at a wedding. It's these recognizable but intangible feelings and emotions that I want to convey in the paintings. Sometimes they will take the shape of a familiar scene, other times they may be exhibited as an abstract."

University of North Carolina at Greensboro, NC, Features Works by Louise Fishman

The University of North Carolina at Greensboro, NC, is presenting Louise Fishman: A Retrospective, on view at the Weatherspoon Art Museum, through Dec. 22, 2017. An Artist Conversation and public reception will be held on Oct. 6, beginning at 6pm.

The University of North Carolina at Greensboro is delighted to be the only southern venue for the exhibition, Louise Fishman: A Retrospective. Organized by curator Helaine Posner for the Neuberger Museum of Art, Purchase College, SUNY, the exhibition is the first comprehensive look at five decades of Fishman's artistic production and the range, authenticity, and originality of her work.

Featuring more than fifty painting and drawings from 1968 to the present, the exhibition traverses Fishman's career from hard-edge grid paintings to recent work inspired by late Venetian Renaissance painting and the work of British artist J.M.W. Turner. Filling the span between these bodies of work are the "Angry Paintings" of the 1970s; "Remembrance and Renewal"—works acknowledging her Jewish heritage and made in response to a transformative trip to Auschwitz and Terezin; and the large gestural abstract paintings for which she is best known.

Fishman was highly influenced by the physicality and emotional force of Abstract Expressionism as practiced by Jackson Pollock and Willem de Kooning, embracing it but re-defining it into works both more visually poetic and intimate in tone. The 1960s were a tumultuous time on many fronts: The women's liberation movement was emerging and spawned consciousness-raising groups, while gay and lesbian groups struggled for recognition and acceptance; and Fishman became an activist. It was at this point that she began to approach male-gendered forms of painting as a feminist and lesbian. The indignation that Fishman and others in her woman's group felt found full expression in a series of 30 "Angry Paintings," each a kind of "portrait" of friends who were artists, writers, and spokeswomen for the feminist cause.

Born in Philadelphia in 1939, Fishman was raised in a conservative Jewish family. Both her mother and paternal aunt were practicing artists who had studied at the Barnes Foundation school. After receiving her BFA degree from the Tyler School of Art at Temple University and MFA from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, Fishman moved to New York City.

In 1990, a fire at her NYC studio destroyed her tools, equipment and a number of paintings. She moved upstate and, in 1997, began introducing calligraphic marks into her work, derived from Hebrew, Japanese, and Chinese writing. But as Nancy Princenthal, in one of the exhibition

STARworks in Star, NC, Offers Glass Pumpkin Patch - Oct. 7, 2017

Hand-blown glass pumpkins will be ready to harvest at the STARworks Glass Pumpkin Patch, taking place in Star, NC, on Oct. 7, 2017, from 10am to 4pm. This is the only time of year the popular glass pumpkins are available.

More than 3,000 pumpkins in all colors, shapes and sizes will be ripe for the picking and available for purchase. Each one a unique work of art, the pumpkins will be displayed on hay bales in the grassy area in front of STARworks Center for Creative Enterprise. If the weather is bad, the Pumpkin Patch will be moved inside to STARworks Gallery.

The event starts at 10am and the pumpkins go fast. STARworks encourages people to show up early for the best possible selection. Proceeds from the event help fund STARworks programs, including K-12 educational programs.

"Our glassblowers have really outdone themselves this year," said STARworks Executive Director Nancy Gottovi. "Each one is beautiful and unique. They come in all colors, including teal for the Teal Pumpkin Project."

The Teal Pumpkin Project is designed to promote safety and inclusion for children managing food allergies. Houses with teal pumpkins will have non-food items available for trick-or-treaters on Halloween.

This year's Pumpkin Patch is dedicated to the 50th Anniversary of the North Carolina Arts Council. The council has worked hard to bring the arts to all 100 counties since 1967. This October, dozens of arts organizations across the state are participating in the Statewide Arts Celebration by dedicating an arts activity to their 50th Anniversary. STARworks is grateful for their leadership and is celebrating by dedicating the Pumpkin Patch. Learn more about the NC Arts Council by visiting (www.ncarts50.org).

Pumpkins cannot be reserved and will not be available for purchase before the Pumpkin Patch in order to guarantee the largest selection possible for the event. If there are pumpkins remaining after the Seagrove is in the center of North Carolina making it the perfect day trip destination. Visit the largest community of potters, with the longest continuous history of pottery making in the United States. More than 100 ceramic artists call this unique destination home. Seagrove potters offer shoppers a variety of pottery styles and traditions. Enjoy the beautiful countryside as you tour the many galleries and studios located within a 20-mile radius of the town's center. Pick up a map at your first stop, meet the potters and discover the limitless talent that thrives within this creative community.

Seagrove's long history of pottery making began with the abundant and varied natural clay deposits found in the vicinity. This history has continued with 4rd and 5th generations carrying on the tradition. Due to the area's rich heritage, national and international ceramic artists have relocated here, adding to the diversity of this unique pottery community.

The shops, galleries and studios of Seagrove are open all year, with special events held throughout the year. Celebrate spring by attending the Spring Kiln Opening in

Burroughs-Chapin Art Museum in Myrtle Beach, SC, Features Works by Local Art Collectors

The Franklin G. Burroughs-Simeon B. Chapin Art Museum in Myrtle Beach, SC, is presenting Grand Strand Collects, taking an intimate look at local art collectors' passion, on view through Dec. 14, 2017.

For the passionate collector, art is far more than something beautiful to put on the wall. Each piece comes with a story: where and when it was purchased, perhaps an event or occasion the item commemorates. Possibly there was the thrill of the hunt: to find a work by a particular artist or with a special subject.

In its new exhibition, Grand Strand Collects, the Museum presents more than 200 works of art varying from ancient Egyptian artifacts and historical prints to modern and contemporary sculpture and paintings, on loan from 49 private Grand Strand collections.

A previous Collects-themed exhibition, Myrtle Beach Collects, was exhibited in early 2005, featuring 152 works. Many of the collectors who contributed pieces to the earlier show returned to participate in this current exhibition, which also includes both two- and three-dimensional works in a wide range of media.

In addition to seeing the art, visitors will enjoy reading the accompanying labels that tell the story of how the artworks were acquired as well as their personal significance to their owners. Art Museum Curator Liz Miller met personally with each of the collectors to carefully document the provenance and background of each piece.

"Artists' livelihoods depend on the passion of their patrons and it is up to us to keep the arts alive," said Museum Executive Director Patricia Goodwin. "Grand Strand Collects reminds us that art is for everyone."

Appearing concurrently with this exhibit is Jocelyn Châteauevert: The South Carolina Arts Commission Turns 50. Châteauevert, a fellow artist of the Arts Commission, will present one of her extraordinary site-specific installation projects; the exhibition commemorates the 50th anniversary of the Commission.

Docent tours will be offered during the run of the exhibition. Please check the Museum's website for details.

The South Carolina Arts Commission Fellows 2018 Exhibition is yet another way Lake City will celebrate its history and future. What was once one of South Carolina's most prosperous agricultural communities now flourishes with art-focused events that recognize, celebrate and share the artistic talent of the Southeast.

Lake City is the site of ArtFields®, the Southeast's biggest art competition. The annual 9-day competition draws more than 20,000 people to the area and awards $120,000 in total cash prizes to artists across all media in 12 Southeastern states.

The Jones-Carter Gallery is a product of the Lake City Creative Alliance in Lake City, SC, which is dedicated to providing visitors access to fine visual art.

Methodist University in Fayetteville, NC, Offers Exhibit of Glass and Clay

Methodist University in Fayetteville, NC, is presenting Kindred Materials: Glass and Clay, featuring blown, carved, etched, and sculpted glass and clay by four artists: Jennifer Bueno, Thor Bueno, Jeannie Marchand, and Pablo Soto, on view in the David McCune International Art Gallery, located in the William F. Bethune Center for Visual Arts, through Nov. 4, 2017.

All of the artists are currently from the Penland, NC, area.

"This exhibit explores the unconventional directions of clay and glass," said Silvana Foti, executive director of the gallery. "The gallery space, walls, floor and ceiling, has been transformed into a collaborative installation from the brilliant use of color to transcending moments of meditation."

Originally from Seneca, SC, Jennifer Bueno's art uses drawings and chunks of brilliantly colored glass inspired by satellite images that are free-floating and filled with depth.

"My attraction to satellite images began as an escapist desire," Jennifer Bueno said. "From my computer screen, I can see images of seemingly otherworldly places. They are expansive landscapes, free-floating, full of depth, with no horizon."

Thor Bueno explores the chameleon-like ability of glass to assume any texture, color, or transparency that ranges from decorative, functional and architectural installations.

"I grew up surfing in Southern California," Thor Bueno said. "In many ways, glassblowing and surfing are similar. They are both an art that depends on reacting to a material that can be dangerous and has a great potential to get out of control."

The monochromatic, graceful, folded clay sculptures by Jeannie Marchand explore a sensual language in the lights and shadows of malleable white clay. Marchand is from Puerto Rico and is now based in Spruce Pine, NC.

"The concepts I develop are a formal response to my estimation of the moment,"

NC Wesleyan University in Rocky Mount, NC, Features Works by Gayle Blackerby

NC Wesleyan University in Rocky Mount, NC, is presenting A Journey into my Parallel Universe: Gayle Blackerby, on view in the Mims Gallery, through Oct. 28, 2017.

Blackerby is a free painter who comfortably jumps from nature to surrealism to improvisational abstraction. Gelling the breadth of creative painting into the Blackerby style is color. Her brushwork can be controlled in a gridded architectural abstraction or loose and dynamic in her response to the world of plants and flowers. Her vision is always uniquely Blackerby and whether naturalistic, impressionistic or surrealistic. What she says about her painting process, says a lot about her artistic journey, "I have realized the beginning and ending of my work is never important, just the wild and crazy journey in between."

Blackerby has been working in the field of art most of her life. She studied art in college and after receiving her BA degree in Fine Art and Design, she worked as a layout designer and artist for an advertising company in Birmingham, AL...later concentrating on computer layout and design. She eventually started her own marketing, advertising & design firm which was in operation for over 25 years. After her children were grown, she returned once again to her passion of painting and teaching. When not painting, she enjoys teaching acrylic workshops and classes at the Sunflower Studio in Wake Forest. Blackerby shares her love of art with anyone she can convince to pick up a paint brush.

Sunset River Marketplace in Calabash, NC, Offers Works by W.P. "Wil" Goff

Sunset River Marketplace in Calabash, NC, will present an exhibit of works by W.P. "Wil" Goff, on view from Oct. 2 - 31, 2017, gallery owner Ginny Lassiter has announced. A public reception is scheduled for Oct. 7, from 1-4pm. "Wil is a relatively new artist," Lassiter says, "so I'm especially taken with his expressive and uninhibited use of color. He has no fear!"

Goff's appreciation for art was stimulated by his beloved late wife Bree, who won many awards for her paintings during their 50-year marriage. After Bree's sudden passing in 2014, Goff found himself in possession of a fully stocked art studio. As a tribute to Bree, he decided to try painting with her acrylic paints and quickly realized his best results were in the abstract expressionist style of art. He utilizes bold intuitive color combinations hoping to evoke an emotional response that is pleasing to the viewer.

Goff's goal is not to show actual objects, scenes or people, but rather to share the joy he finds in his art. He has attended workshops conducted by successful North Carolina artists Sterling Edwards, Joe DiGuilio and Ginny Lassiter. This experience, coupled with his 40 years experience in a fashion based segment of the home furnishings industry, has led him to develop his own distinctive style of art. His paintings bring him great pleasure and make him happy. Goff hopes others will have the same reaction when viewing his work.

Sunset River Marketplace showcases work by approximately 150 North and South Carolina artists, and houses some of 10,000 square feet of art work in virtually every genre. Custom framing, painting and pottery classes and art workshops are also offered through the gallery. Since opening its doors in 2002, Sunset River Marketplace has supported not only the visual arts, but literary and performing arts, as well. It has become a popular community center and art hub for both NC's Brunswick County and nearby Horry County, SC.

Carolina Creations in New Bern, NC, Features Works by Stephen Moore

Carolina Creations in New Bern, NC, is presenting Beach Obsession, featuring acrylic paintings of our coast by Stephen Moore of Beaufort, NC, on view through Oct. 31, 2017. Meet the artist during Art-Walk, Oct. 6, from 5-8pm.

Moore is an artist known for the color and light quality in his paintings. He is a native of North Carolina. He is a graduate of UNC in Chapel Hill and retired from a thirty four year career in family medicine in 2015.

Moore was taught by Eleanor Seng, a North Carolina artist who studied with Emil Holzhauser, a student of Robert Henri. Stephen was taught by Eleanor beginning in the fifth grade at a community art center in Burlington, NC.

Moore has been painting and showing his work since 1980. He has traveled and painted extensively in Europe. Painting interests also include coastal and other North Carolina scenes with an emphasis on local color. Though primarily a landscape painter practicing plein air techniques and studio painter, he is also interested in portrait, figurative, and still-life genres.

Moore works in his studio in Beaufort

Fine Art at Baxters in New Bern, NC, Features Group Exhibition

Fine Art at Baxters Gallery in New Bern, NC, is presenting Refresh: New Art, New Views, featuring works by 11 emerging artists, all with connections to North Carolina. The exhibit will be on view through Oct. 31 2017.

Featured artists include Brandon Cordrey, Jill Eberle, Kiki Farish, Holly Fischer, Alice Hollerman, Gillian Parke, Susan Reynolds, Lisa Beth Robinson, Kristin Thielking, Marlene True, and Jennifer Wells. All were either educated or live and work in the state.

Each artist has a distinct body of work, and the pieces explore a range of contemporary themes from feminism to effects of the media to personal relationships. The works include painting, drawing, sculpture, ceramics, glass, printmaking, collage and jewelry that will engage gallery visitors as they explore and reflect on underlying ideas and movements.

Brandon Cordrey's collage work considers the amount and effect of information churned out by the media. Jill Eberle creates realistic work that explores personal narratives and human interactions. Kiki Farish's pencil paintings conjure moments of clarity amid the ambiguity of grays. Holly Fischer creates sculptures that explore notions of femininity, sensuality and beauty. Alice Hollerman is an illustrator who creates whimsical line work in a style that lends to understanding of emotion.

Gillian Parke's ceramics combines elements of manufactured porcelain and Japanese Shigaraki stoneware. Susan Reynolds creates Victorian jewelry with an edge at times, whimsical and childlike. Lisa

Work by Holly Fischer

Beth Robinson's bookworks visualize the relationship between language and experience, making connections between dissociated objects and concerns. Kristin Thielking sculptures explore concepts relating to language, identity, place and the human condition.

Marlene True's metalsmith works repurposes humble materials into something new while retaining a sense of history. Jennifer Wells creates woven metalworks that reference a combination of flora and textile forms creating patterns and designs of life experiences.

and guests Harlan Campbell and Gesche Weurfel. Photography exhibitions are presented as part of the CLICK! Photography Festival.

In the exhibition, Dining Out, FRANK gallery presents the dinnerware and serving pieces designed by seven famed regional potters, created for great chefs throughout the Southeast, and used for dining in innovative restaurants across the region. These executive chefs often go to the studio to understand how the pottery is designed, and specifically how those pieces can best showcase the art of fine dining.

A chef has much to consider, and now more than ever, the origin of the food is just as interesting as the quality of the ingredients. Local heirloom tomatoes and neighborhood goat cheeses flourish in our best and favorite restaurants. Now, they are also being served on handmade pottery, with wood ash glazes or custom designs that take the visual value of the meal even further beyond the basics, and creates a celebration of both the food and presentation.

Play is Universal, a photographic exhibit featuring the work of local artist Barbara Tyroler, illuminates Kidzu Children's Museum's work in creating a "structure of belonging" and making great play experiences accessible to all.

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, NC, Offers Exhibit Focused on African Beadwork

The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, NC, is presenting South African Beadwork: Recent Acquisitions from the Collection of Norma Canelas Roth and William Roth, on view at the Ackland Art Museum, through Jan. 7, 2018.

The Ackland recently acquired - by gift and purchase from the distinguished collection of Norma Canelas Roth and William Roth of Winter Haven, FL - 29 fine pieces of nineteenth- and twentieth-century beadwork by peoples of the South East Cape region of what is now South Africa. Few museums can claim such rich holdings.

South African beadwork is an art of vibrant colors, sophisticated patterns, and varied textures. The works on view derive from three principal population groups in the area: the Mfengu, the Zulu, and the Ndebele. Of particular note are rare examples of nineteenth-century beadwork, probably collected by European Christian missionaries.

Instead of the carved wooden masks and figurative sculpture so often seen in museum collections of African art, this new acquisition shifts our attention to the work of women, with less emphasis on ritual objects and more on the adornment of everyday life and its significant moments. There are traditions of beaded art throughout the African continent. For South Africa, this hybrid form of expression developed with the ready availability of glass beads imported by British traders, beginning in the mid-nineteenth century.

Claymakers Gallery in Durham, NC, Offers Annual Steinfest Exhibit

Claymakers Gallery in Durham, NC, is presenting the 5th Annual Steinfest, on view through Nov. 11, 2017.

This year, Steinfest will include over 200 modern interpretations of the German stein, featuring 60 ceramic artists from across the US and Canada. The exhibit gathers a diverse group of nationally recognized artists around creating a unique functional form, and Claymakers is honored to bring the work of these craftsmen to the local community.

Claymakers was started in 2000 by Leonora Coleman, who envisioned turning an old awning shop into an energetic clay community in the heart of Durham's Central Park district. Claymakers has since grown into a non-profit community of dedicated clay artists and enthusiasts.

The 2017 Steinfest artists include: Andrew Avakian, Noel Bailey, Amanda Barr, Nolan Baumgartner, Bethany Benson, Lisa Brown, Dawn Candy, Rob Cartelli, Andrew Coombs, Elise Delfield, Maria Dondero, Doug Dotson, Mark Errol, Charlie Evergreen, Susan Feagin, Josh Floyd, Nancy Garrett-Mead, Martha Grover, Phil Haralam, Deborah Harris, Steven Hill, Gillian Parke, Brian Jensen, Jake Johnson,

Craven Arts Council in New Bern, NC, Offers Second Annual Exhibit Focused on the Chrysanthemum

The Craven Arts Council in New Bern, NC, will present Mum's the Word Exhibition, the 2nd annual exhibition which features local artists' takes on chrysanthemum, on view at the Bank of the Arts, from Oct. 6 - 23, 2017.

Craven Arts Council & Gallery is proud to announce their second annual Mum's the Word exhibition, featuring painting, drawing, photography, and mixed media pieces depicting the chrysanthemum. This year's exhibit will be shown at seven locations on the downtown New Bern ArtWalk, each displaying original works submitted by local and regional artists. Artwork will be on display during the Oct. Artwalk and Mumfest until Oct. 23.

Mum's the Word is an exhibition coordinated by the Craven Arts Council in conjunction with Swiss Bear's annual Mumfest in downtown New Bern. Local and regional artists submit their creative depictions of chrysanthemums, with the opportunity to have their work selected to be on next year's Mumfest banner and various other marketing materials. The winning artist also receives $100 for use of their work. Last year's winner was Mums on Craven Street by Belinda Scheber.

This year entries will be displayed at seven different venues on the downtown New Bern Artwalk: Craven Arts Council, the Red Shoe Gallery, Community Artist Will, Ballantyne Framing, The Black Cat one now has 200 glass frameworked angel wings from earth tones to crystal clear glass titled Contemplating Transcendence and coincides with the Expo 216 Gallery Show Death and Dying.

Hildebrand's work spans ideas of memory, transience, collective consciousness of humans and the earth. Thoughts of energy, beliefs and existence flowing through, of what we don't see and the connections of them. Engaged with the human condition and often the human body, her work captures sensory parts of existence, creating a play between the physical presence of solid visuals and the awareness of the nonphysical indefinable matter.

Hildebrand graduated from Chelsea College of Art and Design and the Rhode Island School of Design. She has shown in exhibitions internationally and sold in England, Ireland, Sweden, New Zealand, Switzerland and United States.

Hildebrand received grants and awards, including the WH Mellon Foundation Grant as well as funding and scholarships to the Pilchuck School of Glass and Penland School of Crafts. She has taught art at UNC, Cameron Art Museum and assisted at time he was ten or eleven. In 1962, he won first place in the North Carolina Artists Exhibition, an annual juried show for state residents sponsored by the North Carolina Museum of Art, while he was still a student at Broughton High School. The runners-up were art professors with established careers and decades of experience. A local art critic dismissed the teenager's win at the time as merely a lucky "fluke."

Many years after Jackson had won his first award at age seventeen - and long after his reputation had achieved national status - he finally received a retraction and apology from the critic who had downplayed his early win. "You were no fluke," the former critic admitted.

In 1999, Jackson received the North Carolina Award, the highest civilian honor in the state. In 2015, he was given the North Caroliniana Society Award for extraordinary contributions to the state's cultural

North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh, NC, Offers Exhibit Focused on Fashion

Beginning Oct. 28, 2017, the North Carolina Museum of Art (NCMA) in Raleigh, NC, presents Inspiring Beauty: 50 Years of Ebony Fashion Fair, which tells the remarkable story of an extraordinary fashion show. The exhibition explores the 50-year history of the Ebony Fashion Fair (1958-2009), an unparalleled charity fashion show event that redefined the concepts of beauty, fashion, and empowerment for African Americans. It features 40 stunning ensembles by designers such as Stephen Burrows, Pierre Cardin, Christian Dior, Givenchy, Patrick Kelly, Christian Lacroix, Yves Saint Laurent, Bob Mackie, Alexander McQueen, b. Michael, Missoni, Jean Patou, and Vivienne Westwood. The exhibition also includes archival photographs and memorabilia from Ebony magazine and Ebony Fashion Fair. Inspiring Beauty runs through Jan. 21, 2018.

"Fashion is occasionally dismissed as something frivolous or unimportant - when in reality, it can be anything but," says Jennifer Dasal, associate curator of contemporary art. "This was certainly the case with the Ebony Fashion Fair, which had a huge influence by not only promoting glamour to a wide and diverse audience, but also by empowering and celebrating a community that typically was overlooked by the fashion industry. The Ebony Fashion Fair made a real difference."

A spectacle of glamour and performance, the traveling Ebony Fashion Fair grew out of the pages of Ebony magazine (first published in 1945). It was founded by Eunice Johnson, who owned Johnson Publishing Company - distributor of Ebony - with her husband, John Johnson. Far more than just a display of fabulous clothes, the show challenged conventions of beauty; made high fashion accessible to a broader audience; and, as a philanthropic event, contributed millions of dollars to charities focused on education, health care, and civil rights.

Programming surrounding the exhibition includes lectures, films, workshops, and gallery tours for all ages. An opening night fashion show kicks things off, with Vogue editor and Durham native André Leon Talley as a special guest.

"I knew Mrs. Johnson well and worked with her for one year, making her annual trips to Europe and New York," says Talley.

Lee Hansley Gallery in Raleigh, NC, Features Work by George Bireline

Lee Hansley Gallery in Raleigh, NC, is presenting Celebrating George Bireline, on view through Oct. 28, 2017.

The exhibition includes 34 works of art that cover the years 1951 through 2002, the year of the artist's death. Also, the various stages of his output are represented from abstraction, to color field painting, to narrative and allegorical works, to trompe l'oeil.

heritage. Jackson's work is now in more than 80 collections, including the Baltimore Museum of Art; the British Museum; the Brooklyn Museum; Chicago Art Institute; Museum of Fine Arts, Boston; Philadelphia Museum of Art; Victoria and Albert Museum, London; and the Whitney Museum of Art, NYC. A Door is not a Window is his first museum show in his hometown in many years.

The title of the exhibition comes from an explanation Jackson once offered about his work. "The history of narrative painting," he said, "is based on representing a reality as if we were viewed through a window, whereas I am interested in presenting a new entity that one enters, as if by a door."

who will attend the exhibition's opening night fashion show and also host a lecture on his time with the Ebony Fashion Fair. "It was a unique moment to capture how her visionary belief in aspirational fashion could enhance the black communities and raise funds for local charities. It's an honor to celebrate this exhibition."

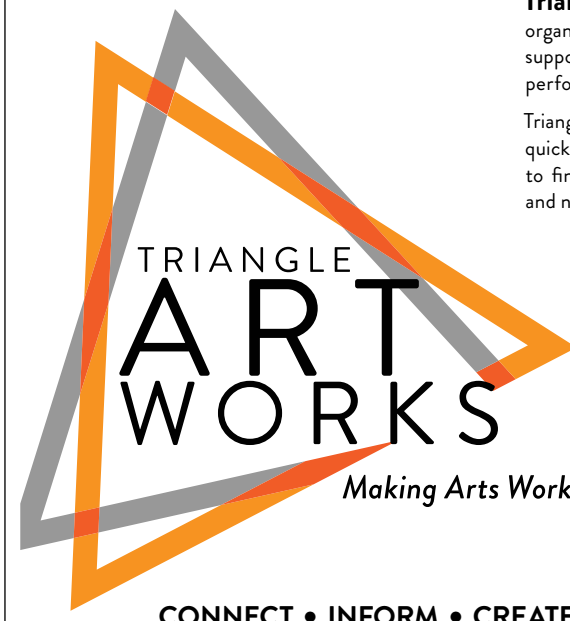

The North Carolina Museum of Art's permanent collection spans more than 5,000 years, from ancient Egypt to the present, making the institution one of the premier art museums in the South. The Museum's collection provides educational, aesthetic, intellectual, and cultural experiences for the citizens of North Carolina and beyond. The 164-acre Museum Park showcases the connection between art and nature through site-specific works of environmental art. The Museum offers changing national touring exhibitions, classes, lectures, family activities, films, and concerts. It is the art museum of the State of North Carolina, Roy Cooper, governor, and an agency of the Department of Natural and Cultural Resources, Susi Hamilton, secretary.

Sculptor Patrick Dougherty works with twigs and branches to create site-specific installations. Woven together and held in place by tension, Dougherty's sculptures have a whimsical quality, inspired by his childhood adventures exploring the woods of North Carolina. At the Gibbes, Dougherty has created an installation titled "Betwixt and Between" in the museum's glass atrium, creating a visual connection between the interior gallery space and the lush outdoor garden. Museum Shop - Now offering the inventory of the Tradd Street Press, reproductions of works by Elizabeth O'Neill Verner among other exhibit related art objects. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., 1-5pm; closed Mon. Admission: Yes. Contact: 843/722-2706 or at (www.gibbesmuseum.org).

Halsey Institute of Contemporary Art, The Marion and Wayland H. Cato Jr. Center for the Arts, College of Charleston School of the Arts, 161 Calhoun St., Charleston. Through Oct. 7 - "Marc Trujillo: American Purgatory" and "Riccarda de Eccher: Montagna". The paintings of Marc Trujillo portray commonplace scenes: fast food restaurants, big box store aisles, the long terminal corridors of airports, and so on. The scenes are remarkably unremarkable. In their ubiquitous nature, the paintings present an anti-place: scenes that refer not to a specific place, but to uncannily similar tableaux that unfold everyday in communities across America. While Trujillo models his paintings after specific locations, usually in the Los Angeles area, his scenes appear strikingly similar to viewers' own relationships with local commerce. On view simultaneously with Marc Trujillo's exhibition features sublime watercolors of mountain peaks also explore familiar scenes. In this case, her works evoke picturesque representations of snow-capped mountains from the Italian Alps. De Eccher's watercolors offer a subversion of our current age in which images are vastly and readily shared online, especially those that are high-resolution and digitally retouched. In a way, they correlate with Trujillo's paintings: though titled, her pictures are cropped as to present anonymous mountains that could exist on almost any continent. Oct. 20 - Dec. 7 - "SEA CHANGE," is a series of exhibitions and programs presented in collaboration with the South Carolina Aquarium to raise awareness of our enormous plastic waste problem and the detrimental effects on our planet including: "CHRIS JORDAN: MIDWAY," Jordan's photographs depict the magnitude of our consumerism and its impact on our environment and "AURORA ROBSON: THE TIDE IS HIGH". Robson creates lively and intricate sculptures from plastic debris, transforming everyday waste into aesthetic objects of beauty and reflection. On Oct. 21, at 2pm in Halsey Institute galleries, Artist Talk: Aurora Robson. On Oct. 24, at 7pm, in Settite Theatre, Artist Talk: Chris Jordan, presents "Encountering the Albatross". Hours: Mon.-Sat., 11am-4pm and open till 7pm on Thurs. Contact: Mark Sloan at 843/953-4422 or at (www.halsey.cofc.edu).

Saul Alexander Foundation Gallery, Charleston County Public Library, 68 Calhoun St., Charleston. Oct. 1 - 31 - "Mornings," featuring works by Barbara Montgomery. "In this body of work, I'm interested in creating a prolonged moment of tranquility in the landscape." The imagery in my painting is gathered from specific environments that are my retreats. McKissick Museum, University of South Carolina, USC Horseshoe, Columbia. 2nd floor, North Gallery, Through Dec. 9 - "Nostalgia for Nature: Democratizing Decorative Arts. By the late nineteenth century industrialization had transformed Western society. Dominating cities were machine-filled factories and buildings constructed in Revivalist architectural styles. Urbanization had taken hold creating a great divide between artists/designers and end products. Individuals looking to resist the Machine Age created their own artistic movements, specifically the Arts and Crafts Movement and Art Nouveau. What these styles had in common was the goal of reviving the applied arts and making them affordable to the general public. This exhibition will feature examples of decorative art glass and pottery, representing the two aforementioned art movements, from the William S. Belsler and Richard D. Mandell Collections at McKissick Museum. Objects representing important individual artisans and reputable companies such as Emile Galle, Rene' Lalique, Tiffany Studios, and Rookwood Pottery are included. Ongoing - "Diverse Voices: Discovering Community Through Traditional Arts". Dedicated to the late George D. Terry, "Diverse Voices" explores deeply-rooted traditions that help create and maintain the cultural landscape of South Carolina and the surrounding region. Each year the exhibit will focus on a specific theme or tradition. Year one of "Diverse Voices" offers a comprehensive presentation of objects from the museum collection that represent the work of celebrated NEA National Heritage Fellows and Jean Laney Harris Folk Heritage Award recipients. Ongoing - "Highlights from the Permanent Collections of McKissick Museum". Permanent - "Baruch Silver Collection," a collection of the Baruch family silver. Work by Fleming Markel

Lander Fine Art Gallery, in the Josephine B. Abney Cultural Center, Lander University, Greenwood. Through Oct. 6 - "Fleming Markel: Pent Up Pink". Markel's artist's statement says, "Our culture perpetuates many traditions and beliefs within our governing, religious and social institutions. Many of these traditions and beliefs are myths, unfounded notions. Yet, these myths exert control on our daily lives, and on our world view. By constructing objects that question the veracity of those myths, I try to counteract their social control. I juxtapose disparate materials to make sculpture with titles that offer questions, but no answers. My sculpture, while humorously off-kilter, might also be uncomfortably confrontational." Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-5pm. Contact: Lander College Public Affairs at 864/388-8810.

Spartanburg Art Museum, Chapman Cultural Arts Center, 200 East St. John Street, Spartanburg. Through Dec. 10 - "Paper Worlds" is a group exhibition featuring the work of nine artists who push the boundaries and capabilities of paper. Though digital technology has become a staple in modern life, there is no denying that paper—from business cards to cardboard boxes to printer stock to picnic napkins—refuses to be replaced by it. From hand-pulled prints meticulously cut and assembled into three-dimensional shapes, to delicate papier-mâché stop-motion animation, to using recycling as part of the creative process, these artists remind us that although modern technology is ubiquitous, we still live in a "Paper World". Participating artists include: Roger Chen, Charles Clary, Hanne Frey Husco, Christina Laurel, Wan-Yi Lin, Shona MacDonald, Sky Pape, Adrian Rhodes, and Mark Rospenda. Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Sun., 1-5pm; and till 9pm on 3rd Thur. of each month. Closed on national holidays. Contact: 864/582-7616 or at (www.spartanburgartmuseum.org).

UPSTATE Gallery on Main, 172 E. Main Street, Spartanburg. Through Nov. 4 - "Anonymous Ancestors," featuring an installation by Columbia, SC, fiber artist Susan Lenz. Using collected vintage photographs and print materials, Lenz creates a richly detailed, imaginative environment that presents a collective inheritance. Captivating and nostalgic, Lenz's work allows the viewer to both peer into the lives of others and remember their own history. "I work to articulate the accumulated memory inherent in discarded things," Lenz said. "I seek a partnership with my materials, their purposes, values, and familiar associations." Ongoing - The gallery is dedicated to contemporary and original exhibitions that include selections from the permanent collection by artists Andy Warhol, Jerry Uelsmann and Beatrice Riese. Hours: Tue.-Sat., noon-5pm or by appt. Boone Appalachian Cultural Museum, University Hall Drive, off Hwy. 321 (Blowing Rock Road), Boone. Ongoing - The permanent exhibit area includes, TIME AND CHANGE, featuring thousands of objects ranging from fossils to Winston Cup race cars to the Yellow Brick Road, a section of the now closed theme park, "The Land of Oz". Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 828/262-3117.

Turchin Center for the Visual Arts, Appalachian State University, 423 West King Street, Boone. Main Gallery, Through Dec. 2 - "Circles of Influence: Barbara Hardy & Bob Ray". The exhibit highlights Barbara Hardy and Bob Ray, artists who have been living and working together for over twenty-five years sharing a deeply rewarding intimate, creative and artistic bond. The influence the artists have on one another and their shared love of rich texture and layered patterns will be immediately apparent even though each artist's practice and techniques are unique and quite different from one other. Bridge Gallery, Through Nov. 4 - "Wayne Trapp, A Life in the Arts". Trapp was an enigmatic artist; some would say a Renaissance man – the consummate artist who does a bit of everything, always executing his chosen craft well. This exhibition features a variety of Trapp's creative work: paintings, drawings in pencil and ink on paper and intimate sculptural forms in bronze and steel. Mezzanine Gallery, Through Oct. 7 - "Images of Social Justice from the Segura Arts Studio". The exhibit illustrates the history of Segura Art Studio by describing its mission of working with under-represented artists through their published artwork. Community Gallery, Through Oct. 7 - "In One: Siping Zhang". Zhang, a visiting artist/scholar in the Department of Art at Appalachian State University during the 2016-17 academic year, will show new work made during her residency as well as a selection of small works made in China. Mayer Gallery, Through Jan. 6, 2018 - "Garden of Botanical Delights: Diane Kempler". Although Diane Kempler and Hieronymus Bosch work in different media and are, forgive the obvious, from vastly different cultural eras, there is something about Kempler's wildly gesturing ceramic forms that remind me of Bosch's passionately overpopulated paintings. It is not just the similarity of the titles, Kempler's nod to the Dutch Renaissance artist. Just as Bosch's seminal painting, "The Garden of Earthly Delights" seduces the viewer with the richness of macroscopic life, Kempler's "Garden of Botanical Delights" achieves the same effect with the richness of life seen through a microscope. Gallery A, Oct. 6 - Jan. 6, 2018 - "Taking Tea: Judith Gregory". Gregory transforms the Turchin Center's Gallery A into a tranquil tea house for meditation, contemplation and intimate conversation. As the world rapidly changes outside the walls of the center, sanctuary becomes all the more important as we try to make sense of our place in the universal village through ceremony and interpretation. Constructed from used tea bags and loose tea leaves, "Taking Tea" creates an immersion in a quiet, delicately scented world. Come for a moment, stay for an hour, the Turchin Center invites visitors to find shelter and inspiration through the visual arts. A university art gallery is a safe place to think and talk about ideas with all peoples regardless of race, religion, gender identity, political persuasion—you name it—with respect and active listening. What better place than a tea house to cross cultural barriers and find common ground. Gallery B, Oct. 6 - Jan. 6, 2018 - "Spectacle & Scaffolding: Contemporary Photography Muses Hierarchy," guest curated by Ann Pegelow Kaplan. The exhibit features the works of contemporary photographic artists who explore the underlying power structures that we live with and participate in daily, but which often seem invisible. Mark Curran, Trevor Paglen, Greta Pratt, and elin O'Hara slavick reflect upon systems that inscribe and maintain power differentials in the United States and beyond, including the market economy, the labor system and workers, technology and surveillance, the relationship of patriotism to the nation-state, and hierarchical social categories such as race, gender, class, and nationality. Hours: 10am-6pm, Tue., Wed., Thur., & Sat. and Fri.,noon -8pm. Contact: Hank T. Foreman at 828/262-3017 or at (www.turchincenter.org).

Students from classes at the Cary Arts Center show off their most recent creations. Oct. 27 - Nov. 19 - "Fine Arts League of Cary: Fabulous Fakes". A reception will be held on Oct. 27, from 6-8pm. The Fine Arts League of Cary tries its hand at imitating the great Masters of Art. Van Gogh, Rembrandt, Rueben, and more should be making an appearance as FALC presents its Fabulous Fakes show.Works will be displayed beside smaller versions of the originals they painted. Principal's Hall, Through Oct. 22 - "Under the Influence: Cary Arts Center". Instructors. Events of the 1950s-1960s bring back mixed memories: soda shops, Doo-Wop, pop art, and the British invasion phenomenon represented a simple, prosperous time. By contrast, undercurrents from political, military, and racial tensions gave rise to a more avant-garde culture. The exhibition portrays ways the arts continue to capture the essence of this time. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 9am-10pm & Fri.-Sat., 9am-11pm. Contact: 919/469-4069 or at (www.townofcary.org).

Cary Gallery of Artists, 200 S Academy St, Ste 120, Ashworth Square, Cary. Ongoing - The gallery offers high quality art in a variety of styles. Paintings, pencil and colored pencil artwork varies from traditional still lifes and landscapes to abstracts. Portraits of people or animals are available. Photographic work captures magnificent landscapes, small moments in life, portraits, and far away places. The pottery and clay art includes edgy handbuilt pieces, thought-provoking sculpted masks, and decorative and functional pottery that captures images of nature. Our jewelry artists provide a wide range of hand-crafted necklaces, earrings, bracelets and other ornaments from metals, stones, beads and fused glass. Our glass artist creates stained glass hangings, custom stained glass windows and fused glass art. You can also find unusual hand-made books and hand-painted porcelain band-antique and new. Page-Walker Arts & History Center, 119 Ambassador Loop, Cary. Through Nov. 9 - "Jill Kertulla: A Walk in the Park". The Great Smoky Mountains National Park is an inspiring place. Kertulla spent a month there as the Artist in Residence. The art quilts in this exhibit are a result of that inspiration and the photos she took during her walks in the park. Through Nov. 9 - "Kelly Bodie: From Nature to Abstraction". This collection of screen prints begins in natural forms and scenes and ends with abstraction. Bodie's animal portraits feature rough, energetic lines that bring the form forward and create texture. In other pieces, as she explores texture in a leading role, nature begins to give way. Finally, nature collapses entirely. Through Nov. 9 - "Michael Thompson: Beneath the Bark". Trees provide a beauty that enhances our lives every day. Beneath the bark of trees lies the unseen beauty that becomes visible when the wood is paired with an artist/craftsman. Woodturning provides an avenue to combine the natural beauty found in the wood and the form envisioned by the artist. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-9:30pm; Fri., 10am-5pm; & Sat., 10am-1pm. (It is strongly advised that you call ahead about hours this space will be open.) Contact: 919/460-4963.

Town Hall Gallery, City of Cary Town Hall, 316 North Academy Street, Cary. Through Nov. 22 - "Amy Elizabeth Devereaux: Israel". Devereaux describes her approach to photography as what interests her is capturing the moment, with its particular light, motion, and subject. She says, "My favorite subjects are nature, foreign countries, landscapes, cultures, and people as well as sculptures, buildings, and machinery." Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8am-5pm. Contact: 919/469-4061.

Chapel Hill - Carrboro

Plaza at 140 West Franklin Street in downtown Chapel Hill. 1st & 2nd Fri. - Every Friday beginning in April we will host our Live and Local Music and Art Series at the 140 West Plaza. Our 2nd Friday events will include visual arts. 2nd Fridays are the Chapel Hill Downtown Partnerships Art Walk. For info visit (www.townofchapelhill.org).

Ackland Art Museum, UNC - Chapel Hill, Columbia & Franklin Streets, Chapel Hill. Through Dec. 10 - "Court and Capital: Art from Asia's Greatest Cities". This exhibition is part of the elegant re-installation of the Ackland's Asian galleries. Following "Flora and Fauna," which featured exquisite depictions of plants and animals, "Court and Capital" explores the grand customs and fashions of Asian capitals during their transformation to modern megacities. Through Jan. 7, 2018 - "South African Beadwork: Recent Acquisitions from the Collection of Norma Canelas Roth and William Roth". The Ackland recently acquired—by gift and purchase from the distinguished collection of Norma Canelas Roth and William Roth of Winter Haven, Florida—29 fine pieces of nineteenth- and twentieth-century beadwork by peoples of the South East Cape region of what is now South Africa. Few museums can claim such rich holdings. South African beadwork is an art of vibrant colors, sophisticated patterns, and varied textures. The works on view derive from three principal population groups in the area: the Mengu, the Zulu, and the Ndebele. Of particular note are rare examples of nineteenth-century beadwork, probably collected by European Christian missionaries. Oct. 6 - Jan. 7, 2018 - "Flash of Light, Fog of War: Japanese Military Prints, 1894-1905". The exhibit examines how Japanese printmakers, in response to First Sino-Japanese War and the Russo-Japanese War, created dynamic compositions - soldiers silhouetted against fiery pyrotechnic explosions, beams of bright white electrical light illuminating the hulls of steel warships, and the haze of spent gunpowder obscuring the brutal combat of the battlefield—that were part reportage and part dazzling artistic display. Oct. 27 - Aug. 31, 2018 - "Patrick Dougherty: Stickwork". The Ackland Art Museum has commissioned its first major site-specific, outdoor art installation in nearly 20 years: a "stickwork" by Chapel Hill-based artist Patrick Dougherty. As yet untitled, the large-scale work will be made entirely of tree saplings. Construction of the piece will begin on Oct. 9, 2017, and continue through Oct. 27, 2017. The Collection Galleries, Through May 18, 2018 - "The Collection Galleries". Davidson College Art Galleries, Belk Visuals its Center, 315 North Main and Griffith Streets, Davidson. Van Every Gallery, Through Oct. 6 - "Lenin Lives" and Smith Gallery, Through Oct. 6 - "Revolution on Display: Soviet Propaganda Posters". The exhibits were co-curated by Lia Newman, Gallery Director/Curator and Roman Utkin, Assistant Professor of Russian Studies. One hundred years after the Russian Revolution, this exhibition explores the afterlife of one of the most enduring and spectacular personality cults of modern history — the worship of the first Soviet leader, Vladimir Ilyich Ulyanov — Lenin (1870-1924). As the myth of the immortal Lenin developed, the image of the Revolution's iconic leader became, not ironically, larger than life. Ongoing - While on campus, be sure to take a tour of our Campus Sculpture Program and visit our new sculpture by Aristides Demetrios, a gift of the Douglas Shierson Family. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-5pm and Sat. & Sun., noon-4pm. Contact: 704/894-2519 or at (www.davidsoncollegeartgalleries.org).

Work by Humberto Rios

Latin American Contemporary Art Projects (LaCa), 1429 Bryant Street, in the heart of the revitalized FreeMoreWest neighborhood, Charlotte. Through Nov. 4 - "In Focus/Enfoque: Contemporary Photography in Mexico," featuring the gallery's first-ever photography exhibition featuring three emerging artists. Karina Juárez, Alejandra Laviada, and Humberto Rios, an award-winning trio of contemporary photographers, present powerful works in the gallery's first-ever photography exhibition. The photographs present varying themes and images, ranging from identity and personal loss to metaphorical and autobiographical elements. They also create striking visual narratives taken from the personal experiences of the artists, as well as from conceptual ideas and practices. All three artists have been featured in significant international solo and collective exhibitions. Ongoing - LaCa Projects is a platform dedicated to the presentation, development, and promotion of Latin American art and culture within the United States. The gallery encourages cross-cultural dialogue by representing a small group of influential and thought-provoking contemporary, emerging and mid-career artists, as well as exhibiting a broader range of work by established and Master Latin American artists. The gallery, which has expertise in a number of different art media with a significant focus on paintings, will also be part of a larger planned expansion that includes open artist studios and a dining concept. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 1-5pm or by appt. Contact: Neely Verano at (neely@lacaprojects.com) or call 704/609-8487.

Levine Museum of the New South, 200 E. Seventh St., corner of College St & Seventh St., Charlotte. Through Oct. 22 - "K(No)W Justice K(NO)W Peace," is a community-created exhibit about police-involved shootings throughout the nation and in Charlotte. Co-created with activists and law enforcement, the media, students, clergy and civic leaders, the exhibit explores the historical roots of the distrust between police and community, tells the human stories beyond the headlines, and engages viewers in creating constructive solutions. The exhibition also captures the voices of local police, protesters, emergency personnel, faith leaders and others reflecting on their personal experiences during Charlotte's protests. The exhibit features photographer Alvin C. Jacobs Jr.'s powerful images of local and national protests and compelling displays curated by Dr. Tiffany Packer and students at Johnson C. Smith University. A community-response section looks at the meaning of the Charlotte Protests—highlighting the diverse perspectives held by community stakeholders and others impacted by recent events. Ongoing - "Cotton Fields to Skyscrapers," featuring a permanent exhibition featuring interactive environments that trace the history of the New South from the end of the Civil War until today. Admission: Yes. Free on Sat. Parking: next door in Seventh Street Station. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 704/333-1887 or at (www.museumofthenewsouth.org).

Mint Museum Randolph, 2730 Randolph Road, Charlotte. Bridges and Levine Galleries, Ongoing - "Contemporary British Studio Ceramics: The Grainer Collection". Focused on the collection of Diane and Marc Grainer, this installation is a survey of contemporary British studio ceramics. Comprising functional and sculptural objects made between the 1980s and today, the show features work by artists either born or residing in Great Britain, including established "contemporary classics" like Gordon Baldwin and Rupert Spira, and cutting-edge ceramicists such as Julian Stair and Kate Malone. Several recently-gifted works from the Grainers are included. Alexander, Spangler, and Harris Galleries, Ongoing - "Portals to the Past: British Ceramics 1675 - 1825". The Mint Museum's collection of eighteenth-century British pottery and porcelain is widely respected for its scope and quality. The collection numbers over 2,000 objects and includes important examples of both salt-glazed and dry-bodied stoneware from Staffordshire; tin-glazed earthenware from Bristol, Liverpool, and London; and cream-colored earthenware from Derbyshire, Staffordshire, and Yorkshire. Notable eighteenth-century porcelain factories represented include Chelsea, Bow, and Vauxhall in London, Longton Hall in Staffordshire, Worcester, Bristol, and others. Individual works in the collection are exceptional because of their rarity, craftsmanship, provenance, or as representative examples of particular types or methods of production or decoration. Ongoing - "American Glass". The nineteenth and early twentieth centuries represented a time of extraordinary growth for the American glass industry. Such companies as Boston & Sandwich Glass Company in Sandwich, MA; Steuben Glass Works in Corning, NY; and Libbey Glass Company in Toledo, OH, began operation and soon developed notable reputations for producing fashionable wares that were coveted by many middle- and upper-class consumers. "American Glass" showcases objects by these and other American glass companies, illustrating the variety of forms and styles that prevailed during this period. Glass-manufacturing techniques will be another focus of the exhibition, with representative examples of pressed, cut, blown, and molded glass. Nearly all of the works on view are from The Mint Museum's permanent collection of glass, which is second in size only to the ceramics collection in the museum's Decorative Arts holdings. Ongoing - "Arts of Africa". The African continent is remarkable in its geographic, social, political, and cultural diversity. This impressive diversity is reflected in the visual arts through a variety of media and forms including ceramics, masks, textiles, sculptures, prestige staffs, and shrines. With exceptional loans from private collectors and The Mint Museum's own collection of African Art, the museum is pleased to announce the expansion of its presentation of Arts of Africa, thereby providing visitors a more in-depth, meaningful, and exciting overview of African art. Heritage Gallery, Ongoing - Feature works of art, archival documents, and photographs documenting the growth and evolution of the museum, from its beginnings as the original branch of the US Mint to its founding as an art museum to the present and beyond. Ongoing - "Art for the Millions: WPA Prints" and "Carolina Clay," featuring a display of colorful wares made between 1920 and 1950 as potters from NC adapted their works to a market economy. "Hours of the United States," featuring contemporary works from the Mint's permanent collection, including works by Romare Bearden, Maud Gatewood, John Biggers Juan Logan, Tartion Blackwell, Radcliffe Bailey, Kjo Griffin, and others. "Art in the Americas," featuring paintings, precious metalwork, sculpture, furniture and decorative arts from the 17th through the 19th centuries illustrate the unique culture that emerged from the Spanish colonization of the Americas. Crosland Gallery - Featuring a presentation of portraits with many fascinating images presented. Rankin Gallery - Featuring a presentation of the Romare Bearden Collection, including two "new" Beardens. Delhom Gallery, Ongoing - The European Collection of ceramic works. Admission: Yes. Hours: Wed., 11am-9pm (free admission 5-9pm); Thur.-Sat., 11am-6pm; & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 704/337-2000 or at (www.mintmuseum.org).

Mint Museum Uptown, Levine Center for the Arts, 500 South Tryon St., Charlotte. Oct. 28 - June 17, 2018 - "Develar y detonar (Reveal and Detonate)," features the powerful, thought-provoking work of more than 40 of Mexico's leading photographers. This not-to-be-missed exhibition examines the wide range of approaches that these photographers use to explore subjects, ranging from their own personal histories and relationships to their engagement with the country's diverse landscape to pressing social and political issues ranging from land use, drug trade, and immigration to beauty, sexuality, and gender. Ranging in size from a few inches across to floor-to-ceiling murals, some of these works are highly formal; others make a play for sheer beauty; still others are manipulated or staged to instill a sense of magic and wonder. Develar y detonar promises to open an engaging dialogue around the power of photography to both document and question many aspects of modern life, examining issues that are not isolated to residents of Mexico but that stretch across cultures and borders, connecting us all. Through June 3, 2018 - "William Ivey Long: Costume Designs 2007-2016". North Carolina native William Ivey Long is one of the most renowned theatrical costume designers working today. This exhibition, organized by The Mint Museum, explores Long's most recent work, from 2007 to today. It features the theatrical productions "The Lost Colony" (redesigned 2007-2008), "The Mystery of Edwin Drood" (2012), "Rodgers and Hammerstein's Cinderella" (2013), "Little Dancer" (2014), and "On the Twentieth Century" (2015), as well as the television specials "Grease Live!" (2016), and "The Rocky Horror Picture Show: Let's Do the Time Warp Again" (2016). Focusing on Long's process, it features sketches, swatches, mood boards, and other preparatory materials in addition to the costumes themselves. Because costume design is not an area in which the Mint collects, it provides visitors with exposure to this form of art and allow for comparison of the different goals of theatrical costume and fashion. The exhibition is co-curated by Annie Carlano and Rebecca Elliot. It will be accompanied by a scholarly and lavishly illustrated book. Ongoing - The Mint Museum Uptown will house the world renowned collections of the Mint Museum of Craft + Design, as well as the American Art and Contemporary Art collections and selected works from the European Art collection. The building also includes a café, a Family Gallery, painting and ceramics studios, classrooms, a 240-seat auditorium, a Special Events Pavilion with outdoor terrace, and an expanded Museum Shop specializing in crafts of the Carolinas. Weatherspoon Art Museum, University of North Carolina - Greensboro, Cone Building, Tate and Spring Garden Streets, Greensboro. Through Oct. 15 - "Red-Hot and Newly Acquired: Recent Additions to the Collection". Last year the Weatherspoon celebrated its 75th anniversary and showcased many outright and promised gifts to the collection as part of the festivities. Not all recent additions to the collection, however, could be included. This exhibition focuses on those that the museum purchased through established art acquisition endowments or using donated funds. These purchases, along with four gifts of art, allow us to acknowledge that the museum's broad collection and steady growth and innovation result in part from many kinds of civic generosity. Artwork by Ai Weiwei, Mickalene Thomas, Tony Oursler, and Rozeal are but a few new additions highlighted. The exhibition is organized by Elaine D. Gustafson, Curator of Collections. Through Dec. 22 - "Louise Fishman: A Retrospective". An Artist Conversation and public reception will be held on Oct. 6, beginning at 6pm. The Weatherspoon Art Museum is delighted to be the only southern venue for this exhibition. Organized by curator Helaine Posner for the Neuberger

Work by Herb Jackson

Gregg Museum of Art & Design, The Historic Chancellor's Residence, NC State University, located at 1903 Hillsborough Street, Raleigh. Through Dec. 30 - "Show & Tell," celebrating the collections of the Gregg Museum of Art & Design. The exhibition explores the vast range of human creativity represented by the more than 35,000 objects that comprise the Gregg Museum's permanent collections. From disguised war maps and iconic industrial designs to New Guinea body masks, even long-term fans of the Gregg will discover plenty of surprises among the objects on view. Through Jan. 28, 2018 - "A Door is not a Window," featuring paintings by Herb Jackson. This presentation features major abstract works from the past two decades by Raleigh native Herb Jackson, one of North Carolina's premier contemporary artists. The exhibition employs special lighting made possible by support from Wells Fargo. Through Apr. 29, 2018 - "Treasures of Native America," featuring selections from the Drs. Norman and Gilda Greenberg Gift. This exhibition includes silver and turquoise jewelry (displayed in special visitor exploration drawers), Navajo weavings, Hopi katsinam, Apache basketry, Pueblo pottery and Northwest Coast masks. Together, they offer a glimpse into the riches of the Greenberg Collection, a major recent donation to the Gregg Museum. Ongoing - The Museum along with the 15,000 sq. ft. addition currently under construction will increase the museum's visibility while significantly aiding its exhibition and programming space. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm. Contact: Zoe Stirling, Curator of Education at 919/513-7244 or at (<https://gregg.arts.ncsu.edu>).

North Carolina Museum of Art, 2110 Blue Ridge Road, Raleigh. Oct. 28 - Jan. 21, 2018 - "Inspiring Beauty: 50 Years of Ebony Fashion Fair," which tells the remarkable story of an extraordinary fashion show. The exhibition explores the 50-year history of the Ebony Fashion Fair (1958-2009), an unparalleled charity fashion show event that redefined the concepts of beauty, fashion, and empowerment for African Americans. It features 40 stunning ensembles by designers such as Stephen Burrows, Pierre Cardin, Christian Dior, Givenchy, Patrick Kelly, Christian Lacroix, Yves Saint Laurent, Bob Mackie, Alexander McQueen, b. Michael, Missoni, Jean Patou, and Vivienne Westwood. The exhibition also includes archival photographs and memorabilia from "Ebony" magazine and Ebony Fashion Fair. Joyce W. Pope Gallery, Through - Dec. 31 - "Donald Sultan: The Disaster Paintings". Each of these 11 paintings, created between 1984 and 1990, is an imposing, industrial-like structure, reinforced by Sultan's preferred media of Masonite tiles and tar. The resilience of his materials contrasts with his subject matter: fires, floods, and industrial catastrophes, which provoke feelings of fear, instability, and frailty. These large-scale paintings, most of which measure eight feet square, are heavy and dense, bringing a serious permanence to calamities that are often over in a flash. Sultan's images force us to confront the realities of contemporary life and dare us to remember the long-term effects of each accident or reaction. East Building, Level B, Through Jan. 28, 2018 - "Andrea Donnelly: We've Met Before". North Carolina-raised artist Andrea Donnelly explores the dynamic between the formulaic methods of handwoven cloth and the impulsiveness of ink in the creation of her larger-than-life textiles, featuring images of the human body, blots, and delicate floral abstractions. Her art furnishes both mental and physical spaces by creating an intimate, tactile relationship between the viewer and cloth. She employs photography to create the silhouettes within her work, giving her art a precision that reiterates the meticulous process of hand weaving fiber. Calling her work "a literal record of its making," Donnelly uses textiles to replicate the process of creating a mirror image on paper with ink through dyeing, weaving, unweaving, and weaving again. East Building, Level B, Video Gallery, Through Jan. 28, 2018 - "Sabine Gruffat: A Kiss of the Earth". The exhibit is an interactive computer-animated video and sound installation inspired by Sergei Diaghilev's revolutionary 1913 Ballets Russes production of The Rite of Spring, scored by Igor Stravinsky. It is the story of a pagan tribe calling on its deities to restore the earth, a drama that ends with a sacrificial maiden's dancing herself to death. East Building, Level B, Allen G. Thomas Jr. Photography Gallery, Through Jan. 28, 2018 - "Night(Light)". The exhibit explores light as it interacts with darkness in photography. In its purest form, photography harnesses light. The images give shape to light, immortalizing and suspending it. The eerie feeling of night is not lost in these photographs from the Museum's permanent collection. East Building, Level B, Julian T. Baker Jr. Photography Gallery, Through Jan. 28, 2018 - "Rhythmic Vitality: Photographs by Barbara Morgan". This exhibition features photographs by Barbara Morgan from the NCMA's permanent collection. Although Morgan, one of the founders of the photography magazine Aerture, is best known for her studies of modern dance, she also created photomontages and light drawings. Morgan said: "Whether my work is large or small, abstract or realistic, the one thing that must be present is rhythmic vitality...it doesn't matter if it is dance or montage or people or nature. There always has to be the presence of energy." African Art Gallery, East Building, Level A, Ongoing - Featuring African creativity spanning 16 centuries. The new gallery will be three times as large as the old West Building gallery, allowing the Museum to display nearly twice as many works - including some that have not been on view in a decade, and others that are newly acquired and have never before been on display. The new gallery will feature improved light control so that light-sensitive works of art, such as textiles and works on paper, can be given more visibility, shown in curated rotations. The gallery will include a designated space to highlight North Carolina collections of African art from private collectors and public institutions, beginning with work from Bennett College. It will also incorporate African and African Diasporic modern and contemporary art, including a site-specific wall drawing by Nigerian-American artist Victor Ekpuk. NCMA Park - The North Carolina Museum of Art (NCMA) announces new works of art to be installed in the 164-acre NCMA Park. The works include a bronze tree by Italian artist Giuseppe Penone, a playful pair of benches designed by Hank Willis Thomas, and a 10-day installation of 23-foot-tall illuminated rabbits by Australian artist Amanda Parer. The sculptures will be featured at the NCMA's Park Celebration on Nov. 6, when the public is invited to experience the newly expanded Park with a variety of outdoor activities. Ongoing - Featuring 10 additional sculptures by the celebrated French artist Rodin on loan from Iris Crantor's private collection. Ongoing - "John James Audubon's The Birds of America". The state has owned this treasured volume since 1848, but it has never been exhibited. Ongoing - The North Carolina Museum of Art has an outstanding permanent collection of more than 5,000 objects spanning antiquity to the present day. On the occasion of the expansion, the Museum has acquired more than 100 new works of art. Representing commissions, gifts, and purchases, the new works encompass important and diverse examples of historic and contemporary art from around the world, and will be installed in the Museum's new building and the surrounding landscape. Highlights include a gift of 28 sculptures by Auguste Rodin, and work by such internationally acclaimed artists as Roxey Paine, Ursula von Rydingsvard, El Anatsui, Jaume Plensa, Jackie Ferrara, Ellsworth Kelly, and David Park, among others. Admission: Yes for some exhibits. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 9am-5pm; Sun., 10am-5pm; & open until 9pm on Fri. Contact: 919/839-6262 or at (www.ncmuseum.org).

Some Exhibits That Are Still On View

Our policy at Carolina Arts is to present a press release about an exhibit only once and then go on, but many major exhibits are on view for months. This is our effort to remind you of some of them.

Work by Edward Rice

The Sumter County Gallery of Art in Sumter, SC, is presenting several exhibitions including: Jonathan Brilliant: Suspension, Tension, and Compression; Edward Rice: Modern Relics; and Clifton Peacock: Nameless, on view through Oct. 27, 2017. The Sumter County Gallery of Art, in conjunction with the 50th Anniversary of the South Carolina Arts Commission is honored to be one of 15 venues throughout the state selected to present artists who have been awarded SC Arts Commission Fellowships. The three Fellowship recipients we have chosen are Jonathan Brilliant, originally from Charleston, SC, now residing in Raleigh, NC, Edward Rice of N. Augusta, SC, and Clifton Peacock, a professor of art at the College of Charleston. For further information call the Gallery at 803/775-0543 or visit (www.sumtergallery.org).

Work by Duy Huynh

Lark & Key Gallery and Boutique in Charlotte, NC, is presenting Confluence, featuring new paintings by gallery co-owner Duy Huynh with featured potter Julie Covington, on view through Oct. 28, 2017. Duy Huynh's recent artwork celebrates the wandering/wondering mind and the continuous search for new paths of perception. Merging the language of symbols, metaphors, and puns, the goal is to create visual narratives that resonate on multiple levels otherwise difficult to verbally articulate. Living and working in the mountains of Western NC, Julie Covington is surrounded and inspired by artists, musicians and farmers who fill their days living passionately with as many handcrafted items as possible. For further information call the gallery at 704/334-4616 or visit (www.larkandkey.com).

Works by Susan Lenz

The University of South Carolina Upstate in Spartanburg, SC, is presenting Anonymous Ancestors, an installation by Columbia, SC, fiber artist Susan Lenz, on view at the UPSTATE Gallery on Main, through Nov. 4, 2017. Using collected vintage photographs and print materials, Lenz creates a richly detailed, imaginative environment that presents a collective inheritance. Captivating and nostalgic, Lenz's work allows the viewer to both peer into the lives of others and remember their own history. For further information call Jane Nodine, Gallery Director, at 864/503-5848 or visit the gallery's Facebook page, at UPSTATE.Gallery.on.Main.

Work by Lee Monts

City Art Gallery in Columbia, SC, is pleased to feature artist Lee Monts in his third solo exhibition with the gallery, titled Floating, on view through Nov. 11, 2017. Monts began painting in Nov. 2002 at the age of 38. This exhibition will mark his 15 years as an artist. Since 2011, Monts has been a popular member of the stable of artists at City Art. Following his last show at the gallery in 2014, Monts has continued to jury into many shows and win awards for his work. Awards include works submitted to the SC Watermedia Society (2014), Union County Arts Council (2015) and the Artist Guild Gallery of Greenville's Small Works Show (2016 - third place). Monts participated in Columbia Open Studios in 2016 and 2017. For further information contact Wendy Wells, City Art Gallery, at 803/252-3613 or visit (www.cityartonline.com).

The NC Museum of History in Raleigh, NC, is presenting American Red Cross: Healing the Warrior's Heart through Art, featuring works by wounded Marines, on view through Jan. 6, 2018. The Red Cross of Eastern North Carolina, in honor of celebrating their centennial this year, is partnering with the NC Museum of History. "The museum is pleased to partner with the American Red Cross to bring to the public this exhibit of the remarkable art created by these wounded warriors. We hope it will help people realize the incredible sacrifice these soldiers and veterans have made for our country," said Ken Howard, director of the NC Museum of History. For further information call the Museum at 919/807-7900 or visit (www.ncmuseumofhistory.org).

Jonathan Green, "Folding Sheets", 1989, permanent collection of the Harvey B. Gantt Center for African-American Arts + Culture

The Harvey B. Gantt Center for African-American Arts + Culture in Charlotte, NC, located at the Levine Center for the Arts is presenting Instill & Inspire: Selections from the John & Vivian Hewitt Collection of African-American Art, on view through Jan. 9, 2018. For further information call the Center at 704/334-4616 or visit (www.ganttcenter.org).

22, 2018. For over a 50-year period, John and Vivian Hewitt visited galleries, artists' studios and exhibitions, collecting hundreds of paintings, etchings and sketches. The John & Vivian Hewitt Collection of African-American Art is an assemblage of fifty-eight two-dimensional works celebrating the expression and passion of twenty artists, including Charlotte-born Romare Bearden and other master artists, Margaret Burroughs, Jonathan Green, Jacob Lawrence, Elizabeth Catlett, Ann Tanksley and Henry Ossawa Tanner. For further information call the Center at 704/547-3700 or visit (www.ganttcenter.org).

Furman University in Greenville, SC, Features Works by Sali Christeson and Eleanor Turner

Furman University in Greenville, SC, will present Argent Work, an exhibition of women's workwear, featuring works by Furman alumnae Sali Christeson (Class of 2007) and business partner Eleanor Turner, on view in Thompson Gallery, Roe Art Building, from Oct. 10 through Nov. 10, 2017. A reception and Artist Talk will be held on Oct. 20, from 6-8pm.

Argent is a collective on a mission to make clothing that equips women to push the envelope and take their seat at the table. Describing their philosophy, the founders say, "We're into those who take charge, make noise, and drop-kick the glass ceiling. We've found that turning things on their heads is not only where we find the most inspiration, it's also where we have the most fun. So, we want to build a community that wants to do the same—and we're starting by making functional clothes with attitude."

Argent co-founder and CEO Christeson holds an International Master, Business Administration from University of South Carolina Moore School of Business, and a bachelor's in Business Administration from Furman. Previously, she worked for Cisco Systems, Johnson & Johnson and Daimler Financial Services.

Turner, co-founder and chief creative officer of Argent, is a graduate of the Savannah College of Art and Design where she earned a Bachelor of Fine Arts in Fashion and Apparel Design. Turner also worked in design for J. Crew, Tory Burch and Tommy Hilfiger.

Charleston International Airport in North Charleston, SC, Offers First SC Watermedia Society Digital Exhibition

The Charleston International Airport, located in North Charleston, SC, will present the SC Watermedia Society First Nationwide Digital Show, judged by Linda Baker, on view from Oct. 7 through Nov. 25, 2017. A reception will be held on Oct. 7, from 4:30-6:30pm.

Presented by The Charleston County Aviation Authority and the SC Watermedia Society (SCWS), the exhibit features 157 works by artists from throughout the nation. This show is a first of its kind for the Society, a hybrid of modern technology and our traditional museum show.

The exhibit will be exhibited online for one year. Internationally known artist Linda Baker judged the exhibition, which features 157 water-based media artists from across the nation. Additionally, SCWS will host a painting workshop with Baker at the North Charleston Old Village Community Building Oct. 8-10, 2017.

The Charleston County Aviation Authority is excited to host the artists, giving them a venue to display and 'show off' their magnificent works of art. It is great to see such national interest and to give our passengers and guests the opportunity to view this exhibition," remarked Executive Director and CEO, Senator Paul Campbell.

The exhibition will culminate with the top ten award winning entries featured in a show that will travel throughout the state

North Carolina Museum of Natural Sciences in Raleigh, NC, Offers Works by Shannon Bueker

The North Carolina Museum of Natural Sciences in Raleigh, NC, will present Deer, Oh Dear, featuring acrylic and watercolor paintings of deer by Shannon Bueker, on view in the Museum's Nature Art Gallery, from Oct. 6 - 29, 2017. A reception will be held on Oct. 7, from 2-4pm.

Chatham County artist Shannon Bueker has always drawn. "As a kid, there wasn't any surface that was safe from me and my crayons." Surfaces remain at risk. After earning a degree in studio art from the University of Texas she migrated to North Carolina, where for the past 24 years her wooded surroundings have proven to be fertile ground for her personal and artistic growth.

Bueker's paintings, created in her Pittsboro studio, are acrylic on canvas and watercolor with ink and charcoal. But drawing remains a big part of her process. "I go back and forth between paint and line, drawing, and color, over and over," she says. She constantly works on picturing the connections that bind humans to creatures and creatures to nature. "I am so curious [about] animals, their lives, their concerns, how our behaviors affect their lives," Bueker says. "I am lucky to live in the woods with a forest right outside my

Penland School of Crafts in Penland, NC, Features Works by Rachel Meginnes & Kelly O'Briant

Although a conversation generally happens between two people, it's certainly possible for artwork sharing the same space to suggest a dialogue. That's the premise of the "Conversation" series of two-person shows at the Penland Gallery. This year's entry is titled Conversation/What Remains, and it features work by artists Rachel Meginnes and Kelly O'Briant. Meginnes works primarily in textiles and O'Briant in ceramics, but neither of them limit their work to traditional materials. The exhibition runs from Oct. 3 through Nov. 19, 2017, with a reception on Oct. 7, from 4:30-6:30pm.

Rachel Meginnes is a former Penland resident artist who creates striking and soulful artwork from found textiles combined with various materials and processes. The pieces in this exhibition all began as vintage quilts—some were made from the quilt top while many were created from the compressed and stitched batting that's inside the quilt. Meginnes works on these surfaces with paint, gold leaf, image transfers, stitching, sanding, and other materials and techniques to make pieces that suggest abstract paintings but retain traces of the patterning, colors, and wear patterns of the original quilt. She transforms these old, discarded textiles into compelling objects that evoke memory, loss, and the past.

Although Kelly O'Briant's work is rooted in her experience as a maker of functional pottery, she has been creating complex forms and installations that incorporate references to functional objects. Central to this show is her piece All the Good Things, in which dozens of gold-lustered porcelain bowls containing porcelain seed forms sit on porcelain objects that resemble concrete blocks. O'Briant says that the seeds represent her migratory life and the generosity of the people she has encountered along the way. Another series traps familiar pottery forms in blocks of resin while a third is a group of small porcelain houses marked with

Artworks Gallery in Winston-Salem, NC, Features Works by Mike Foley

Artworks Gallery in Winston-Salem, NC, will present Pop Stars and Pet Portraits, featuring works by Mike Foley, on view from Oct. 1 - 29, 2017. A reception will be held on Oct. 6, from 7-10pm.

Ten years after launching his RAN-DOM COOKIE greeting card line, artist Mike Foley is creating pop portraits that are nutty and half-baked to perfection. "I'm reaching out to friends and interior designers who might want something original and personal for their homes and offices. I want them to smile when they see this work," says Foley.

Inspired by Artworks Gallery founder, Anne Kesler Shields, Foley is thrilled and honored to be having his first solo exhibit as a member of Artworks Gallery.

Foley is an award-winning writer, artist and filmmaker who works in the ever-evolving world of brand marketing. He lives in Winston-Salem with his wife studio windows. Every day there is beauty out there and creatures about. [with] lots to draw, lots of opportunities for an overlap with a fellow creature."

Bueker teaches art classes at the Pullen Art Center in Raleigh, the Chatham Arts Council in Pittsboro, and the Artists League of the Sandhills in Aberdeen, NC. She has participated in the Chatham Artists Guild's annual Studio Tour since 1994.

pressed outlines of household utensils.

Like Meginnes's wall pieces, these objects display their own history. The work of these two artists will fill the Penland Gallery's main exhibition space, and the hope is that a lively conversation will ensue.

Also on display, in the Focus Gallery, will be a group of sleek utilitarian objects made from steel by Marc Maiorana. Outside the building is a stone sculpture by Carl Peverall, a monumental steel sculpture by Hoss Haley, and a recently created installation made of manipulated natural materials by Susan Goethel Campbell.

The Visitors Center Gallery has an ongoing display of work related to Penland's history. The Penland Gallery also has work for sale by several hundred artists affiliated with Penland School of Crafts.

The Penland Gallery and Visitors Center is located at Penland School of Crafts on Conley Ridge Road, just off Penland Road in Mitchell County (near the town of Spruce Pine). It is the first building on your right as you enter the Penland campus.

Francis Marion University in Florence, SC, Features Works by Colin McNaught

The Francis Marion University in Florence, SC, will present an exhibit of works by Charleston, SC, artist, Colin McNaught, on view in the Adele Kassab Gallery in the Hyman Fine Arts Center, from Oct. 3 through Nov. 9, 2017.

McNaught's large, bold abstract painting Sia Fleodradh Cearnagan captured the interest of Francis Marion's art faculty at ArtFields in 2016. In an era when realism seems to dominate, McNaught's work was selected as a great example of abstract painting to share with the Francis Marion community.

McNaught is a native of Scotland who received both graduate and undergraduate degrees at the Glasgow School of Art, where he received the Cargill Award. After graduation he worked as a town artist in a planned community and started a clothing business that imported clothing from the USA before relocating to the
