North Carolina Arts Council

Fifty years of leadership

The Arts in North Carolina and COVID-19

Even though participation in the arts has been greatly disrupted by the coronavirus pandemic, and artists and arts organizations severely impacted, our network across North Carolina is responding in a myriad of creative ways that demonstrate the power of the arts to connect, cope, and heal. We at the North Carolina Arts Council want to do our part to call attention to important action items and resources that will benefit the state's arts industry. For further information visit (<https://www.ncarts.org/arts-north-carolina-and-covid-19>).

North Carolina Artist Relief Fund
Location: North Carolina

This fund has been created to support creative individuals who have been financially impacted by gig cancellations due to the outbreak of COVID-19. Artists and arts presenters in North Carolina can apply for emergency funding. Apply at this link (<https://vaeraleigh.org/artist-relief-fund>).

COVID-19 and the arts in South Carolina

As with the rest of state government, the South Carolina Arts Commission remains open and serving our constituents. Our team continues working diligently to respond to your needs. During this time, the best way to reach us is via email. We will resume in-person business as soon as state/local authorities and public health experts deem it safe to do so. For further info visit (<https://www.southcarolinaarts.com/covid-19-response/>).

The National Endowment for the Arts is open for business. Our staff, while working remotely for the next several weeks, is available to you via phone or email, as usual. We look forward to receiving and reviewing our next round of grant applications in the coming weeks. We're also evaluating our grant application deadlines and may adjust them to help applicants dealing with the effects of COVID-19.

We know that there are more than five million Americans who make their livelihoods in the broader arts and cultural sector across the country and are potentially at risk. We also know that the arts provide comfort, resilience, wisdom, and the means for self-expression and connection, perhaps even more so during challenging times such as these. We have FAQs and relief resources and opportunities related to COVID-19 available on our website at (<https://www.arts.gov/covid-19-resources-for-artists-and-arts-organizations>), and we will continue to update these sections with new information as it becomes available.

Editorial COMMENTARY

by Tom Starland, Editor and Publisher

Well, The Dam Done Busted

They always say, "Be careful what you wish for." No more than a week after our launch of our Sept. 2020 issue, my e-mail started to explode with announcements that NC's non-profit art spaces were opening up under NC's 2.5 phase of reopening the state. No one had to wait for phase 3.

I knew it was going to come sometime, it had been quiet for too long, but I have to admit it caught me off guard. It's been slow going during the Pandemic and I've been mining the Internet for info to put in our publications every month. There are still a lot of folks that we haven't heard from yet - they must be having a hard time waking up from the long COVID-19 sleep we've been having.

Of course it all depends on how well the public reacts to these re-openings. Some gallery spaces associated with colleges and universities are still not sure what to do, as they could re-close as fast as they re-open. Students! - they can't live with them and can't do without their money. It's a real dilemma.

Of course a lot of art departments lost their budgets to COVID-19 cutbacks. The arts always seem to be the first to see cuts. Somehow I didn't see any cuts to college and university football programs. Don't forget some art designer has to come up with those uniform designs every time a team gets a new coach. That's art baby.

And, of course, we hope some of these gallery spaces will start advertising again in competing for the audience that is willing to get out there and see some art.

Anyway, you folks that have been AWOM (Absent Without Marketing) need to get back in gear or you'll soon be forgotten. With all the choices out there to go see, if you wait too long to get your hat back in the mix - you'll soon fade into oblivion.

High Anxiety

It's been a long time since I've felt anxious about getting an issue ready on time, but I felt it while doing this issue. It's been sort of the lazy, hazy, days of Summer around here as far as Carolina Arts goes, but I've had a few other things on my plate - like avoiding becoming a victim of the Pandemic, home schooling, politics, and I have a medical procedure coming up at the end of the month, which is just a few days from now, while I was writing this. It's no big whiff - they're going to stick a camera down my throat and see if my beginning ulcer is going away or going to become a big problem.

This month probably didn't help, but I've been taking medication to take care of it and I'm hoping the problem is all gone and I can take one less pill, twice a day. Next month it's the big test, my third year of post colonoscopy screening. Hopefully that one will be good news and I'll only have two more to go before I can say - I kicked cancer's ass.

Actually, I feel better than I have in years. I could still lose a fishing tackle box worth of weight and I'd feel a lot better, but what's the hurry. I'm waiting for Linda, my better half, to retire and then we'll both go on our health kick. It wouldn't be fair getting a head start on her.

Anxiety be damned, 63 pages is no sweat in normal times, I've done ones that were 80+ pages and was happy for it. Like they say if you don't use your muscles they atrophy, which is a problem I think many of those PR folks have been having out there in the Carolina visual art world. Let's get flexing!

Gibbes Museum of Art in Charleston, SC, Offers Exhibit of Renaissance Art

The Gibbes Museum of Art in Charleston, SC, will present Charleston Collects: Devotion and Fantasy, Witchcraft and the World's End, featuring works from a private Charleston collection of Northern Renaissance Art, on view in Galleries Two and Three, from Oct. 9 through June 27, 2021.

This selection of paintings and prints from a major, private, Charleston collection of Northern Renaissance art introduces a world of intensely, and sometimes disturbingly, vivid imagery that speaks to uncertainties of the period and remains relevant today.

This exhibition is a selection of art curated by Lawrence Goedde, Ph.D., professor of art history at the University of Virginia. The collection, which is comprised of objects created in the Low Countries and Germany between 1440 and 1590, showcases a world of contradictions and unease - whether the subject is a troubled Virgin Mary contemplating her young son, or a menacing group of malevolent figures inspired by Hieronymus Bosch, or Albrecht Dürer's famous scenes from Revelations. In the turbulent era of the Renaissance and beginning of the Reformation in Northern Europe, patrons found their hopes, desires and anxieties mirrored in these artistic images, further inspiring pious beliefs or depicting fantastic visions of good and evil.

"We are thrilled to exhibit this remarkable selection of Northern Renaissance art," said Angela Mack, executive director of the Gibbes Museum of Art. "We're pleased to have a partner in Dr. Goedde, and a local art connoisseur, who has obtained these world-class pieces throughout his career as a collector. We are delighted to have the opportunity to share this outstanding private collection at the Gibbes for others to enjoy."

To coincide with the opening of Charleston Collects: Devotion and Fantasy, Witchcraft and the World's End, the Gibbes will host related virtual programming, including:

"The Judgment of Paris", 1508, By Lucas Cranach the Elder (ca. 1472-1553); Woodcut; Courtesy of a private collection.

Virtual Lecture with Dr. Lawrence Goedde on Oct. 9, from 1-2:00pm. An introduction to the masterpieces featured in the exhibition Charleston Collects: Devotion and Fantasy, Witchcraft and the World's End, the virtual lecture will be led by professor of art history, University of Virginia, Dr. Lawrence Goedde. This virtual lecture is $20 for members and $30 for non-members. The private Zoom link will be circulated one day before the event. This virtual program is made possible by the generous support of Art Bridges.

Virtual Curator-Led Tour: Charleston Collects with Sara Arnold on Oct. 15, 2:30-3:30pm. Viewers can explore the exhibition Charleston Collects: Devotion and Fantasy, Witchcraft and the World's End with Gibbes Museum curator, Sara Arnold. This tour offers unique insight into the collection and

The Smiths are celebrating 20 years of gallery success at 9 Queen Street. While they have been creating much longer than 20 years, their works have hung on these 200-year-old cypress walls for 20 of them. We have called this home for a while and that's exactly how it feels to all of us and most who visit. The Smiths are incredibly grateful for all the support they have received over the last 20 years and look forward to many more decades of showing work here at 9 Queen! We look forward to building many more relationships with collectors and visitors to Anglin Smith Fine Art.

Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, Offers Works by Jane Ann Sweeny

The Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, will present A Collaboration of Wood Grain and Art in Woodcuts, an exhibition featuring a collection of limited edition self-pulled woodcut prints by Jane Ann Sweeny, on view in the Guild Gallery, from Oct. 1 - 31, 2020.

Sweeny received her BFA in Printmaking from Clemson University. She is a visual artist, spending five years in Los Angeles to focus on different aspects of her craft. Her work is heavily influenced by music and by the Charleston environment. Her work is in the art collections of The Indigo Girls, Brandi Carlile, Ani DiFranco and Brian "Head" Welch. You can find her art primarily in collections in Los Angeles, CA, and Charleston, SC.

Sweeny is a woodcut artist, a rare thing to find these days. She meticulously carves and gouges away at wood panels, sometimes having to alter her original plan according to the knots in the wood. Once she is finished carving, the woodblock is covered with ink and the image on the wood left from carving is then transferred to paper using a printing press. The woodblock is run through an old-school press once for every color she uses, therefore the color left on the wood panel is the last color she transferred.

Sweeny makes a limited edition of original, self-pulled prints.

For further information check our SC Institutional Gallery listings or call Steve Jacobs at 843/722-2454.

College of Charleston in Charleston, SC, Offers Virtual & Physical Exhibits

The College of Charleston in Charleston, SC, is presenting a virtual and physical exhibition entitled Dis/placements: Revisitations of Home, on view at the Halsey Institute of Contemporary Art, through Dec. 12, 2020.

There was a tentative gallery opening date of Sept. 17 with limited public hours in response to COVID-19 precautions. The Halsey Institute's modified gallery hours will be Thursdays and Fridays 11am to 4pm, and by appointment Mondays, Tuesdays, and Wednesdays. The galleries will be closed on Saturdays and Sundays. The Halsey Institute's galleries are open to the public and admission is free.

Dis/placements features ten artists whose works deal with issues of displacement from their ancestral homeland in various capacities. The artists have been drawn from the exhibition history of the Halsey Institute. Each artist was asked to submit works that speak most directly to their reminiscences of home. Artists were paired with writers who have offered their own reflections on the work and its relationship to the concepts of home and displacement. When taken together, this collection of work provides an opportunity to consider the traits and aspects that are both similar and jarringly disparate—from Asia to Africa, to Europe and the Middle East.

Ideas of home have taken on new meaning in this fraught moment of pandemic. For many, home has become a place to cocoon where hours run into days, weeks, and months. For people less fortunate, home can represent insecurity and be charged with fear; and for those on the frontlines of COVID-19 it may be a place newly tenuous, frequented for momentary respite at best.

As a formative dimension of the human condition, focus on home is a constant in the arts at scales from the family residence to the neighborhood to the homeland. Homelands are central to our collective imagining of our place in the world. For most of us most of the time, they can be taken for granted, celebrated periodically, before receding to form the backdrop against which life plays out. Made inaccessible or, worse, lost, they can be mythologized as places to be coveted, spied from afar, encountered, experienced, perhaps recovered if only ephemerally.

Over the course of fall 2020, Dis/placements: Revisitations of Home will consider these themes. The core of the project exists virtually, functioning as an online platform designed to reach greater audiences and encourage community participation. Throughout the fall, content will be added to this site to further enrich the project, including virtual conversations between artist-writer pairs, educational packets designed for classroom or in-home use, interactive phone and mapping activities, and responsive projects from students at the College of Charleston. We believe these community participation elements, in addition to the commissioned responsive art pieces, will create a rich tableau of connectedness in these times of social distance.

The project is funded in part by The Henry & Sylvia Yaschik Foundation. This program is sponsored by South Carolina Humanities, a not-for-profit organization; inspiring, engaging and enriching South Carolinians with programs on literature, history, culture and heritage.

9 - Tanja Softić | Dr. Marian Mazzone, associate professor, Modern and Contemporary Art, College of Charleston.

10 - Renée Stout | Dr. Ade Ofunniyin, founder and director of The Gullah Society.

A series of events throughout the fall will be announced on the Dis/placements website (<http://displacements.org/>) including artist/respondent conversations, film screenings, story times with the Charleston County Public Library (CCPL), curator Q&As, and the debut of responsive works of dance, theatre, music, and creative writing by College of Charleston students. All ten artist/respondent conversations, the CCPL story times, and curator events will take place on the Halsey Institute's Facebook page (<https://www.facebook.com/halseyinstitute/>) in addition to being posted on the Dis/placements website. All programs are free and will be open to the public.

In accordance with the College of Charleston's COVID-19 precautions, all gallery visitors and Halsey Institute staff will be required to wear a cloth face covering while on the College of Charleston campus, including inside the Halsey Institute's galleries. The staff member at the reception desk will welcome guests from behind a Plexiglas barrier. There will be a maximum of 30 persons inside the gallery spaces at any one time. We ask that visitors and the small groups they attend the galleries with remain six feet away from other guests and groups. Any exhibition information will be printed large format on the walls to allow for proper distancing between visitors. Our Biblioteca reference library and the Joanna Foundation Video Cavern will remain closed until at least January 2021.

The Halsey Institute of Contemporary Art at the College of Charleston provides a multidisciplinary laboratory for the production, presentation, interpretation, and dissemination of ideas by innovative visual artists from around the world. As a non-collecting museum, we create meaningful interactions between adventurous artists and diverse communities within a context that emphasizes the historical, social, and cultural importance of the art of our time.

The Halsey Institute of Contemporary Art is located at the Marion and Wayland H. Cato Jr. Center for the Arts, College of Charleston, on Calhoun Street, 1st Floor (corner of St. Philip & Calhoun Streets), Charleston, SC 29401. Parking is available at metered spaces on surrounding streets and in the St. Philip and George Street Garages.

Meyer Vogl Gallery in Charleston, SC, Offers Works by Laurie Meyer

Meyer Vogl Gallery in Charleston, SC, will present Nature Is Nurture: Laurie Meyer, on view from Oct. 2 - 23, 2020. An all-day, pop-in reception will be held on Oct. 2, from 10am-5pm.

"This is a silver lining story," says artist Laurie Meyer. She's talking about her new body of work for an upcoming solo exhibition at Meyer Vogl Gallery – and what ignited her to create it.

Work by Laurie Meyer

All of the paintings in Nature Is Nurture were, in fact, born in the time of Corona. "The pandemic and its restrictions encouraged my much-needed relationship with nature," she says. "Since March, I walked, mountain hiked, walked some more, rode bikes on the beach, and walked some more."

"The slower pace was the gift! I looked and looked and saw what I was missing. It was nurturing to my soul, and thus, Nature is Nurture started to take shape. This is not a themed show, but instead a growth in a direction I plan to never leave."

Robert Lange Studios in Charleston, SC, Offers Exhibit Focused on the Healing Process of Painting

Robert Lange Studios in Charleston, SC, will present PROCESS, featuring works by 30 painters dealing with 2020, using the healing process of art, on view from Oct. 3 - 29, 2020. An all day drop in reception will be held on Oct. 3, from 11am-5pm.

Robert Lange says of the exhibit, "Through the country's experience of Covid-19 our artists have fought cancer, had babies, strengthened movements like Me Too and Black Lives Matter, fought for change through DACA, NARF, and LGBTQ legislation, bought new houses, created new studios, they've helped run campaigns, transformed into teachers and caregivers, and masked crusaders....the list is endless. We wanted to give them the opportunity to paint about it so we asked some of the most emotive painters we have ever worked with to create one piece that showcases these feelings on canvas."

PROCESS will be a collection of works meant to open the hearts and minds of those who see the paintings as well as remind the artists and viewers that we are all struggling with the events of this year. Accompanying each work will be a short write up explaining the source of their painting.

Nadine Robbins created a powerful portrait of a single tattered black glove in the shape of a fist in a work titled, His Life Mattered. Robbins says of the work, "As a nurse's wife during the COVID epidemic, I isolated myself much longer. Consequently, it made it harder for me to protest on the streets. So painting this glove live on Instagram became my way to participate in the Black Lives Matter movement. This painting of a black glove molded into a fist is a visual reminder for future generations of the murder of a man, a father, and how his death forced us to reexamine our racist history and our roles in it."

In another work Patrick Kramer has depicted Rembrandt's Self Portrait with Two Circles coming off the substrate with the canvas no longer attached. Kramer says, "During difficult times, the occupation of artist seems silly, a self-indulgent luxury that is the first to go in a depressed economy. I've certainly felt frustration in realizing my skill set is of little benefit to society, my job truly 'unessential'. And yet, for thousands of years, artists have persisted. From Palaeolithic cave paintings to the Sistine Chapel, artists continue to create. In good times and bad, as impractical as it may seem, the creative impulse survives. The arts endure because they are not only worthwhile, but important."

Robert Lange has created his most time consuming and largest portrait to date for the exhibit. He says of the painting, "In the wake of George Floyd's death I had a desperate desire to listen. I decided to approach the BLM movement with the idea that I actually knew nothing about the challenges an entire race has been facing for far too long. I decided that I would make a painting about this earnest desire to listen. I went back through the thousands of portraits I have taken over the years and set out to make the most time consuming and intricate portrait of my life focusing in on a stranger whose story I did not know. I found an image of a young woman from San Francisco I had taken 2 years ago at the pride parade. Her gaze was direct and vulnerable, powerful and confident. Her hair, her eyes, her shirt all demanded an excessive amount of time to render and all the while I would listen. I listened to her unknown pains and joys through her eyes, her story and character through her hair, her choice of clothing. With each brushstroke and passing hour I felt more connected to this 'someone' I did not know."

Reynier Llanes' Hidden Treasure, oil on canvas, speaks about nature, an appreciation for the treasures that often lie right before our eyes. Llanes says, "In these times of Covid-19 we have become closer and more observant of mother nature. We have become more appreciative of the importance of nature in our lives and how we are affected by it as much as we are affecting it. This piece focuses on a landscape, a human figure, and parallel worlds. It demonstrates a yearning and a desire for a deeper connection with nature, with ourselves, and with each other."

been disrupted. She says, "I want the viewer to feel that this space is both private and warped, creating a bit of a sea-sick feeling mixed with joyous colors and familiar objects. Because so far, that's what it's felt like to be inside and isolated from everyone. There are days when my thoughts will warp the external world and will make it seem so confusing that I'm not sure what's even real. And there are days I've delighted in all the privacy, all the time to work on the things I've put off for too long, all the social pressures lifted. It's a constant shift, sometimes minute to minute between these two polarized feelings. The visual paradox is both unsettling and calming to me, depending on where I am emotionally when I look at this painting."

Lowcountry Artists Gallery in Charleston, SC, Offers Works by Three Artists Making a Big Splash

A trio of renowned Lowcountry artists: Ivo Kerssemakers, Stephen Vadakin and Zan Smith, have come together to bring their unique talents to a month-long exhibit entitled, The Big Splash, at Lowcountry Artists Gallery in Charleston, SC, on view from Oct. 2 - 31, 2020. A reception will be held on Oct. 2, from 5-8pm.

The exhibition will share the power and the beauty of the coastline and celebrate the magnificent creatures that live in the sea. The exhibit will feature a unique mix of materials and interpretations that promises to be both captivating and inspiring. From sculptures of fish, whales, and dolphins to photographs that capture serene worlds that appear to be untouched by humans, the now based in the Lowcountry. Kerssemakers uses a long exposure technique that transforms iconic natural and city landscapes into contemplative surrealist worlds that seem to be untouched by humans. To achieve the effect, he uses neutral density filters and up to 16 stops with exposure times of over four minutes. This stillness allows the viewer to experience extraordinary natural and historic environments without the distraction of people, cars, or other visual noise. He prints his images using a large-format printer to create archival works on canvas and fiber fine art paper.

community in Charleston that supported his work as a sculptor.

As a master craftsman and fine art sculptor Smith has established his own aesthetic. His highly coveted work is set apart by keen attention to detail and a commitment to creating delightful, museum-quality pieces. While the iconic human-sized copper frogs are widely recognized as Smith's signature pieces, his repertoire includes many other creatures - fish, birds, and turtles are also carefully crafted out of copper, brass, and stainless steel. Each sculpture brings its surrounding space to life with an engaging presence that is playful, creating delightful daily interactions for his international clientele. Smith's innovative metal sculptures breathe life into well-curated homes, gardens, landscapes, and public spaces across the world as well as here, in the Lowcountry.

Located in the heart of the historic French Quarter, Lowcountry Artists Gallery is the oldest artist-owned and operated gallery in Charleston. One of the nine artist-owners is always available to answer questions, consult, and discuss commissions with clients. The gallery represents a total of 30 guest artists, working in a wide variety of mediums and styles including paintings, photography, sculpture, mixed-media, pottery, glass, wood, and jewelry. Gallery artist-owners are: Rana Jordahl, Norma Morris Cable, Fran Davies, Lynne Hardwick, Kellie Jacobs, Ivo Kerssemakers, Gaston Locklear, Nicole Robinson, Sandra Roper and Lisa Willits.

For further information check our SC Commercial Gallery listings, call the gallery at 843/577-9295 or visit (www.lowcountryartists.com).

Kerssemakers is an artist-owner of Lowcountry Artists Gallery in Charleston, and is represented by MISC-Everything, Murrells Inlet, The Collectors Café & Gallery and the Waccamaw Boulevard Gallery in Myrtle Beach, SC.

Stephen Vadakin is a writer and wildlife artists who creates sculptures utilizing the mediums of wood and bronze. He works in native and exotic woods from all over the world. His sculptures are sanded to perfection and finished with the highest quality materials. Recently, Vadakin was featured on Channel 5 News with a segment about his newly-carved 1200 pound humpback whale. The tree from which the whale was carved came down in Hurricane Dorian. In The Big Splash exhibit he will unveil an eight foot carving of two dolphins that is sure to delight gallery visitors young and old.

Vadakin is also the founder of a marine science program from school children in the Midwest. To date, the program has reached more than 50,000 young people with an engaging message about the art of sculpture as it relates to oceans and marine life.

Vadakin's collections have been featured at the Centre of Coastal Studies on Cape Cod, the South Carolina Maritime Museum, and Wyland's Galleries in Naples, FL, and Hilton Head, SC.

Zan Smith was born and raised in Charleston and spent his formative years working alongside his father Charles in his Lowcountry workshop. He learned the technique of direct metal sculpture there and honed his skills while attending his grandmother's watercolor shows on Queen Street. Naturally drawn to the artist's life, Smith became a part of the lively creative

Coastal Discovery Museum on Hilton Head Island, SC, Offers Exhibition Focused on Santa Elena, a Spanish Colony Founded on Parris Island in 1566

The Coastal Discovery Museum on Hilton Head Island, SC, and the Santa Elena Foundation have joined together to tell the story of America's first century. The Coastal Discovery Museum will host this new 1,000 square foot traveling exhibit, on view through Dec. 7, 2020.

In the 16th century, Spain claimed the New World, today known as North America, and named it La Florida. The Spanish founded Santa Elena on Parris Island in 1566 and it became the first capital of La Florida and the first successful European settlement on the Southeast coast. This city flourished for twenty years and was then abandoned and lost to history.

Slowly, over the past 150 years, archaeologists have discovered parts of this settlement and have pieced together its fascinating story. Ongoing research has revealed new fragments that include the stories of the Native American people who lived here for millennia; the enslaved Africans who first arrived in South Carolina in 1526, and the French, Spanish, and English explorers and settlers who fought fiercely over this land we now call home.

The Coastal Discovery Museum inspires people to care for the Lowcountry. With the Coastal Discovery Museum you may explore our beautiful yet fragile environment; learn about the region's history, culture and art; and discover what makes the 68-acre Historic Honey Horn property so special. Most importantly, leave with the knowledge that you can make a difference by actively caring for our environment and heritage.

Start your museum visit at the Discovery House to pick up a map of the property and information on our exhibits, walks, talks, tours, and more. Everyone is welcome. There is no admission charge, but voluntary donations are accepted. Our trail system which begins behind the museum, takes you through multiple environments and past many historic structures. As you walk across this historic landscape, enjoy the magnificent live oaks and ancient cedars, take in the view from the boardwalk, see the Marsh Tacky horses grazing in the wide-open fields, and envision what the island was like before it was developed.

Celebrating five years in operation, the Santa Elena History Center sincerely thanks the dedicated volunteers, generous supporters, numerous partners, and especially Beaufort County, for launching efforts to claim Santa Elena as America's First Capital. Now, the Santa Elena Foundation will move on to an exciting new chapter as a part of the Coastal Discovery Museum, a Smithsonian affiliate organization.

Hampton III Gallery in Taylors, SC, Greenville Tech in Taylors, SC, Features Works by Paul Matheny | Ask Artists to Take a Look at 2020

Hampton III Gallery in Taylors, SC, is presenting Stories from Trees: 2015-2020, featuring paintings by Paul Matheny, on view through Oct. 31, 2020.

Matheny offers the following statement, "Since the Search for Truth series began in the early 1990s in Rock Hill, SC, every painting has evolved as a result of the painting that came before it. The earliest pieces reflected a southern roadside aesthetic from hand painted signs from firework and produce stands, and disappearing conversations that I was fortunate to participate in."

"These current paintings, while still connected to each of the previous pieces, have evolved to reflect a more ethereal, transcendental thought process from my time in the forests, on trails, and through thoughts and ideas that emerge from my mind, through my hands and onto each panel. Most of the elements from my image bank are still used, but rearranged and rethought. These new paintings are visual conversations among the objects, interacting together, having conversations within each piece. The viewer is invited to bring their own perspective to each image, allowing them to personally connect with the narrative in their own way."

Matheny grew up in Anderson, SC, and is a 1996 graduate of Winthrop University. He has exhibited his artwork in the Carolinas and Georgia. His paintings focus on his distillation of his experiences that have influenced him throughout his life, driving through forgotten roads and spending time in forests. The paintings are composed of layers of words, followed by layers of paint that allow the images to evolve onto the surface of each panel. He currently lives in Columbia, SC.

Hampton III Gallery is located on Wade Hampton Boulevard in Taylors, SC (a couple of miles from downtown Greenville). In 1970 the gallery opened with the vision to provide quality art to the community. The gallery features work from leading painters, sculptors and printmakers from the Southeast. Today Hampton III Gallery is the longest running commercial gallery in South Carolina, representing over thirty professional, award-winning artists. The 2400 square foot gallery maintains an inner gallery that hosts changing one-person or group exhibitions every 4-6 weeks. Eight surrounding galleries offer a continuing display of works. Artists' lectures, demonstrations, discussions and special tours are provided.

Greenville Technical College in Taylors, SC, will present 2020, So Far, on view in the Benson Campus Galleries, from Oct. 5 - 30, 2020.

This year has been and continues to slam us with climate and health disasters to exacerbate our political, racial, and economic divides. The underpinnings of our everyday lives sway under the weight of doubt as we question the veracity of governmental and scientific authorities, rethink cultural norms, and doubt personal and collective beliefs. Our movements, communications and proximity to coworkers, friends, family, our nation, the world have ceased or have been severely restricted. Quick definitive answers would be so welcome. In the spirit of full disclosure, 2020, So Far offers no answers.

The idea for 2020, So Far originated with a visit to Hampton III Gallery's (in Taylors, SC) exhibition In Times Like These and Upstairs Artspace's (in Tryon, NC) exhibition, Jane Allen Nodine: Reflections In the Age of Pandemic. Both concentrated on art made specifically during the spring 2020 Covid-19 shut down.

Work by Enid Williams

In Benson Gallery 2 are nine artists from Hampton III: John Acorn, Alice Ballard, Jeanet Dreskin, Paul Matheny, Glen Miller, Robert Morsberger, Tom Stanley, Art Weger, and Enid Williams. Each made art in reaction to the pandemic and its isolation specifically for In Times Like These. Added to the mix are photographs by Katie Fenske made in early fall of 2020 and paintings by Jane Allen Nodine made during her self-imposed artist residency in the spring 2020 isolation. Each artist worked in their favored media; painting, printmaking, relief sculpture, ceramics, and photography, and in their favored genre from landscape to abstraction and in their favored subjects, nature, narrative, personal iconography, color and shape. Most relished the shutdown's isolation as added studio time. Many found their studio a respite from 2020's tumult, welcoming a release through art-making as a focused, meditative task. Though all were influenced by 2020 trepidation and fear, their outlooks remain hopeful.

Work by Doug McAbee

In contrast, Doug McAbee's response to 2020 is fanciful and fun art with maybe only a nod to hope. His bright, color saturated drawings of wildly whimsical creatures cavort around the perimeter of Benson Gallery 1. The center of Gallery 1 is anchored by fantastical powder-coated steel pets that simultaneously beg for a hug and warn, "hands off." Are his bright animal creatures grinning in greeting or leering in lechery?

So you're the Marketing Director of a visual arts organization, art museum, arts center, arts council or artist guild and you're wondering why you never see the exhibits presented at your facility included here. Maybe you're the owner of a commercial art gallery and you've never seen your exhibits included with others presented in your area. You might even be an individual artist who is having an exhibit in a non-profit space or commercial space and you don't see your exhibits included.

My question to you is - How long will you put up with that before you ask someone, "Why that is the case?" If you're not included - it's your fault.

Think Hieronymus Bosch meets Dr. Suess. McAbee has created what appears to be an alternative 2020 narrative but read carefully. His creatures and drawings subtly comment on this year, cherry-coating some of the hard truths.

A reception will be held on Oct. 2, from 1-8pm, with some restrictions due to the COVID-19 Pandemic. Please use this Eventbrite link (<https://www.eventbrite.com/e/gcca-first-friday-oct-2nd-tickets-120532398649?aff=ebdssbdestsearch>) to register for entry, within each hour, only 25 visitors will be allowed in the gallery. Opening remarks will be at 6:30pm.

The show was curated by TSA GVL Co-director Mark Brosseau and features work by Hamlett Dobbins, Lynne Marinelli Ghenov, Caroline Kent, Juan Logan, Alex Paik, and Esmé Thompson. This exhibition is generously sponsored by Pinnacle Financial Partners.

Constellations explores how six artists use abstraction as a navigational tool. The work in this show is developed as a way of feeling out relationships – mapping the artist's sensory experience, cultural history, personal history, or understanding of life and the universe and their minor place in it. The 'maps' that are created by the artists are not meant to be a set of instructions to get to a specific destination. They are the evidence of an investigation: a charting of the unknown as opposed to documentation of the known.

Alex Paik and Esmé Thompson both create their pieces by combining smaller units together. Thompson's installations are made up of painted pieces of aluminum that combine elements of visual language from various cultures that she has encountered on her extensive travels. The pieces are a map of her visual experience during her travels.

Paik's pieces are made up of simple geometric forms rendered in cut paper that are layered and extrapolated together in such a way that allows his pieces to show us how we experience visual phenomena.

Juan Logan uses symbolic forms, patterns, and various materials to create paintings that excavate the African American experience. He charts connections from the situations of the past to the conditions of the present.

Caroline Kent and Hamlett Dobbins use painting as a way of investigating alternative systems of logic and language. Dobbins captures something elemental about specific experiences with specific people in his paintings. Kent's work is in constant translation; each painting is the next step in the evolution of language. The body of work maps out that progression.

Lynne Marinelli Ghenov uses found paper, with its own history, as the basis for her work. Her drawings represent points of intersection between the history of the paper and her own personal history.

There will be an ARTalk panel discussion at GCCA on Tuesday, Nov. 17, 2020, from 6 to 7pm as part of the exhibition. Exhibition artists Juan Logan and Alex Paik will be joined by curator Jonell Logan and creative coach and poet Uchechi Kalu to discuss how art can be a tool for navigating community.

Hamlett Dobbins (Memphis, TN) is native of Tennessee and has spent most of his life in Memphis. He received his BFA from the University of Memphis and his MFA from the University of Iowa. Dobbins has taught at University of Mississippi, Memphis College of Art, University of Technical College and open to the public. The galleries are located on The Benson Campus on Locust Hill Road in Taylors, SC.

Iowa, University of Memphis and at Rhodes College. He ran an alternative exhibition space called Material and worked as a curator at Delta Axis @ Marshall Arts as well as Clough-Hanson Gallery at Rhodes College. In 2000 he received a fellowship and residencies at the Vermont Studio Center, the Bemis Center for Contemporary Art. Dobbins has received grants from the Pollock-Krasner Foundation, the Tennessee Arts Commission, and ArtsMemphis. He has shown his work throughout the region and nationally. In 2013 he was awarded the Rome Prize and spent eleven months as a fellow at the American Academy in Rome.

Lynne Marinelli Ghenov (Knoxville, TN) is an artist primarily making drawings and works on paper. She was born in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, spent most of her life residing on the east coast and currently lives and works in Knoxville, TN. She holds a BFA in Sculpture from Tyler School of Art in Philadelphia, PA (1998). Ghenov has shown nationally in various group and solo shows, including University City Arts League and Artspace Liberti in Philadelphia (PA), Tiger Strikes Asteroid and Monte Vista Projects in Los Angeles (CA), Proto Gallery in Hoboken (NJ), and Crosstown Arts in Memphis (TN). Her recent shows include a two-person show, Collected Marks, at Carson-Newman University in Jefferson City (TN) and Knoxville Local, a group exhibition for Tri-Star Arts in Knoxville (TN). In 2017 Ghenov co-founded and co-directed the artist-run space C for Courtside in Knoxville. She is currently the associate at Lohaven Artist Residency in Knoxville (TN).

Caroline Kent (Chicago, IL) is a visual artist who explores the relationship between language, translation, and abstraction through an expanded painting practice. Kent labors to expand the discourse of abstraction to include alternative logics that move beyond surface and frame through each act of translation from one medium to the next. Kent received a BA at Illinois State University (1998) and received her MFA from The University of Minnesota (2008). Kent has exhibited nationally at The Flag Art Foundation (NY), The Walker Art Center (MN), The DePaul Art Museum (Chicago), The California African American Museum (LA), The Suburban (Chicago), and The Museum of Contemporary Art (Chicago).

Kent has received grants from The Pollock-Krasner Foundation, The McKnight Foundation, and The Jerome Foundation. Most recently she is a 2020 Artadia Foundation Chicago Awardee. Kent's work is in the collections of the Walker Art Center, MN and The Art Institute of Chicago and is represented by Kohn Gallery based in Los Angeles. She currently has solo exhibition, Victoria/Veronica: the figment between us, on view at Tiger Strikes Asteroid Chicago.

in Nashville, TN, and received a Master of Fine Arts degree from the Maryland Institute College of Art. Logan's artworks address subjects relevant to the American experience. At once abstract and representational, his paintings, drawings, sculptures, installations, and videos address the interconnections of race, place, and power. They make visible how hierarchical relations and social stereotypes shape individuals, institutions, and the material and mental landscapes of contemporary life.

Logan's works can be found in private, corporate, and public collections, including the Whitney Museum of American Art, the Philadelphia Museum of Art, the Gibbs Museum of Art, the Baltimore Museum of Art, the Memphis Brooks Museum, the Zimmerli Museum of Art, and the Boulder Museum of Contemporary Art. Most recently, his piece Some Clouds are Darker became part of the Smithsonian's National Museum of African American History and Culture.

Alex Paik (Brooklyn, NY) is Founder and Director of Tiger Strikes Asteroid and Director at Trestle Gallery. His modular, paper-based wall installations explore perception, interdependence, and improvisation within structure while engaging with the complexities of social dynamics. He has exhibited in the US and internationally, with notable solo projects at Praxis New York, Art on Paper 2016, and Gallery Joe. His work has also been featured in group exhibitions at Bravin-Lee programs, Lesley Heller Workspace, and MONO Practice, among others. Paik was also the curator of the Satellite Art Show in Miami from 2015-2018.

Esmé Thompson (Lebanon, NH) has been influenced by her extensive travels. These experiences have informed and enlivened her art. She has been a resident of the Rockefeller Foundation and the Bogliasco Foundation in Italy studying medieval painting and decorative arts. She has travelled to Morocco to study ceramic and fiber art and to Ireland to study Celtic manuscripts and lacemaking. Most recently her travels have taken her to Australia to explore aboriginal art in Kakadu and Uluru. Thompson is Professor of Studio Art at Dartmouth College.

Lander University in Greenwood, SC, Features Works by Enid Williams and Paul Yanko

Lander University in Greenwood, SC, will present Perfectly Familiar / Unrecognizably Strange, featuring works by Enid Williams and Paul Yanko, on view in the Lander University Fine Art Gallery, from Oct. 13 through Nov. 11, 2020.

Predictably Familiar / Unrecognizably Strange is an exhibition of recent works on canvas, panel, and paper completed between 2017 and 2020. The two-part title references the dual aspects of formalism that both artists engage with. These works employ a vocabulary of color and shape that is at once familiar, reinforcing associations while simultaneously prompting the unexpected through unlikely combinations and layering.

Work by Paul Yanko

Williams was born in Midland, TX, in 1958 and grew up in Stephenville, TX. She received her MFA in painting from Kent State University. Her work has been exhibited at the Carnegie Museum in Pittsburgh, PA, the Columbus Museum of Art in Ohio, the Greenville County Museum of Art and numerous galleries across the Upstate of South Carolina. Her art also is included in the Contemporary Carolina Collection at Ashley River Towers at the Medical University of South Carolina, the Red Oak Foundation in Fort Worth, TX, and the Columbus Museum of Art in Ohio.

Williams has taught art classes at Kent State, Youngstown State, and the University of Akron, and currently teaches art at Greenville Technical College's Greer, SC, campus. She is also the 2012 recipient of the Pollock-Krasner Foundation Grant, one of only two artists in South Carolina to receive this prestigious award.

Since 2004 Youngstown, OH, native Paul Yanko has taught in the Visual Arts Department at the South Carolina Governor's School for the Arts and Humanities in Greenville, SC. He received an MFA in painting from Kent State University in 1995 and a BFA in illustration from the Cleveland Institute of Art in 1991.

While residing in Ohio, Yanko exhibited extensively in solo and group exhibitions at institutions including the Cleveland Museum of Contemporary Art and the McDonough Museum of Art. In 2002 he was the recipient of an Ohio Arts Council Individual Artist Grant and in 2011 received the Surdna Foundation's Arts Teachers Fellowship which was applied toward travel to Australia to research indigenous art.

Yanko's work is included in private and public collections including those of the Cleveland Clinic, the Greenville County

Presbyterian College in Clinton, SC, Offers Works by Christopher Rico

Presbyterian College in Clinton, SC, is presenting Everything That Was Forever, featuring work by South Carolina artist Christopher Rico, on view in the Elizabeth Stone Harper Gallery, through Nov. 20, 2020.

Currently the Elizabeth Stone Harper Gallery is closed for public viewing due to the COVID-19 Pandemic, but you can watch a video walkthrough of the exhibition, filmed by art major Jackson Page, can be found on YouTube at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=bXkvUAIYMnl>.

"The person who stands in front of one of my paintings brings their own stories," Rico said. "It's an exchange and a sharing. When one has a conversation like that, one often feels out of time. So the show's title is both lament and celebration that nothing is truly forever."

Rico's paintings are bold, broad gestures in ink and acrylic paint. The titles are mostly names of ancient cities, like Dwarka and Casluhim, to allow for free association, Rico says.

"Many may not recognize most of the cities' names, even though they were each powerful kingdoms in their day," Rico said. "Empire is a fragile thing that presents itself as an enduring thing. So this references the show's title again."

Rico's works are pure discovery and exploration, incorporating references to both eastern calligraphy and western religion. Everything That Was Forever spans all of 2019 and 2020. Rico created most of the work "when we all thought 2020 was going to be an amazing year," he said.

While the exhibition wasn't directly influenced by the Pandemic, the paintings in Everything That Was Forever take us on a journey to discover what makes us truly human, according to Rico.

"One of the interesting things about art and about artists living in the culture," Rico says, "is that good art relates to the time in which we discover it more than the time during which it was made."

"Because the act of creation requires me to be focused in the moment, it has the power to tell stories that are enduring and in a sense outside of time. So looking at it now, yes, I believe one could spend time with the work and feel that it speaks very deeply to being in the midst of a Pandemic."

"Whatever my intentions during the making, the work is on its own now and so people bring their own meaning and, more importantly, their own meaningfulness.”

Rico grew up on military bases across the United States and has lived on both coasts and along both borders. He earned his undergraduate degree from the University of Memphis in 1995, followed by an intensive series of studio art and art history courses at PC from 2003 to 2005.

In 2016, he received his Master of Arts from Clemson University. Rico has exhibited internationally in Australia, England, and Germany; in regional art museums in South Carolina; as well as in commercial galleries in New York City, Atlanta, and New Orleans. Rico is represented by Lyons Weir Gallery and Bill Lowe Gallery.

Although closed for public viewing due to the Pandemic, the Harper Center Gallery hosts four exhibitions annually - two exhibi-

Artists Collective | Spartanburg in Spartanburg, SC, Features Works by Janis McElligott

It's taken self-taught artist Janis McElligott nearly a lifetime, but her first public exhibition of acrylic paintings, Acrylic Moments: Emotions Remembered, will be on view at Artists Collective | Spartanburg in Spartanburg, SC, from Oct. 6 - 31, 2020. A reception will be held on Oct. 17, from noon-2pm. All social distancing protocols to prevent the spread of COVID-19 will be observed.

McElligott will present about 25 paintings, which will vary in size and subject matter, and will include images of beloved pets, buffalo standing in snow, peaceful but abandoned homes, waves crashing, World War II debris, and lighthearted Halloween and Easter moments.

“I'm excited, nervous, and happy,” McElligott said. “This is a wonderful opportunity to share my work.” She has been a member at ACS for nearly a year.

“On behalf of Artists Collective | Spartanburg, we are thrilled to be Janis's choice of galleries for her first exhibit,” Collective President Beth Regula said. “Her work is very accessible. She has a lot of images that people can easily relate to on an emotional level. Although the work appears to be simple and straightforward, there is a deeper level of connection there for the taking. She has a way of capturing the moment.”

personal connection is made.

“I do a lot of work on commission, capturing a moment in time for people,” she explained. “I paint what they want. They don't describe the painting to me when I deliver it. What they do is tell me the way it makes them feel. And the way they feel tells me I captured their moment.”

The self-taught artist has practiced her love of drawing for a lifetime: She carries a sketch pad with her wherever she goes to either capture a moment or escape from one. In her retirement, her sketching expanded to acrylic painting adding color to life's moments.

“James Baldwin once said ‘All art is a kind of confession.’ These acrylic paintings are mine,” McElligott said. “They are things I saw or emotions I shared, all put on canvas as my declaration to loving life's moments. The simplest sights can help the heart remember what's important. Whether it be a loving pet remembered, a little girl feeling the crash of an ocean wave or the silence of snow; all these things provoke a wide range of emotions. These varying emotions are captured by using the gaiety of vivid colors to the solemnness of grayscale. I hope you feel the moment.”

“This is the first time I will be exhibiting my work, and I can't imagine a better place to take this step with my art,” she said. “Everyone at ACS makes themselves available with gentle guidance and fellowship. The range of artistry at the ACS serves as a creative motivator for me.”

Artists Collective | Spartanburg is a membership-based art venue that provides affordable studio space to local artists who are juried into the organization. Most of the artists are visual artists, however, some are performing artists. It has about 30 member studios, more than 50 members, three galleries, two stages, a printery, and a pottery studio. Normally, it hosts three art exhibitions each month, showcasing members' and guest artists' work. Housed in what was once a Baptist church, it is one of Spartanburg's leading art agencies.

Work by Janis McElligott

“There is a large range of moments captured on canvas, from pets to crashing waves,” the 64-year-old Massachusetts native said. She now lives in Taylors, SC. “I hope there is a painting for everyone to reflect on and maybe — just maybe — feelings remembered. These are things that I've seen or that others have shared with me that stirred gentle emotions in me. Things that seemed important to remember and share.”

Some of the work will be for sale, ranging in price from $40 to $240. “I hope they find a painting that leaves them with a good feeling,” McElligott said.

Although McElligott's work leans heavily toward realism, it gives a deeply personal and contemplative message by adding a bit of impressionism to the subject matter. Her style does not shy away from the viewer, and many of the subjects — even those without eyes — seem to stare unblinkingly at the patron, as if to hold attention until a

Artists Collective | Spartanburg in Spartanburg, SC, Offers Works by Thomas Koenig and Judy Martin

The Artists Collective | Spartanburg in Spartanburg, SC, will present Big In Glass, featuring collaborative works by photographer Thomas Koenig and fused-glass artist Judy Martin, on view from Oct. 6 - 31, 2020. All social distancing protocols will be practiced to prevent the spreading of COVID-19.

Each artist is contributing 10-12 pieces of work. Martin will present a collection of fused glass creations especially made for this exhibit; Koenig will use macro photography to present highly enlarged details of Martin's work, giving the viewer a different perspective.

“This is truly exciting,” Collective President Beth Regula said. “Collaboration between artists is something that we wholeheartedly encourage and support. Both of these members are respected in their individual field. Together, they are presenting a new kind of art exhibit. You'll see Judy's beautiful fused glass creations, and you'll see how Thomas has captured details of her creations through his creative eye, in large size prints. I commend them for their efforts, their spirit of collaboration, and for producing something new in Spartanburg's art world.”

“Judy and I spent hours together going through and testing materials and shapes that make an interesting object through shape, color, and texture,” Koenig said. “In this aspect, this show is a step further in the process between glass art creation and the detail that is portrayed in the picture. The original attraction was the idea of presenting something new, way bigger in size. We both learned from the experience and widened our horizon. We experimented. We had happy accidents and we took a second look, and often found beauty in it.”

Martin hopes patrons will see this exhibit as “a different way of looking at things, not just glass. And, it is glass like it hasn't been seen before in photography.” Koenig hopes “it will challenge the visitor to look at things a different way and to experience a material, its color and texture differently. You could say it's when details in glass enter another medium.”

It took the artists a year to experiment and produce the works for this exhibit, and all of them will be for sale. The 24 x 36-inch photographs will sell for $225 each. Martin's work will range in price from $55 to $1,200.

For both artists, creating this exhibit has been a learning experience and changed how they work. Koenig: “It is a departure for both of us, because we went through the experience of collaborating, including abandoning traditional techniques and accepting other viewpoints as new standards.” Martin: “My glass is going from my well-known method and style to trying new ways of making art from glass.”

Martin's profession has been in sales and management, but about 14 years ago while unemployed, she scratched a creative itch and took a local class in stained glass. “I worked in that medium for a couple of years and then found full-time employment again,” she said. “And once more my creative urges had to take a back seat for a while. When I found myself unemployed once again, glass art was still calling me. I don't remember how I even found glass fusing but boy oh boy, did it hook me! I started eating, sleeping, breathing glass fusing, and I felt as if I'd finally found my niche!”

Because Martin could not find any local educational opportunities in fused glass, she educated herself through reading, online investigation, “and probably most importantly good ol' trial and error, learning the hard way what works and what doesn't.” Since then, her work has been juried into the prestigious ArtFields art show in Lake City, SC, as well both of the Collective's juried shows in 2019 and 2020.

Martin's commissioned pieces have included Christian crosses, wedding centerpieces, sports pieces, and outside installations. She has taught fused glass at Tryon Arts and Crafts School, Spartanburg Art Museum, and her studio in Lyman, SC.

Thomas Koenig's career in communications and design spans more than 30 years and two continents: North America and Europe. Born in Greensboro, NC, Koenig's youth was spent in Germany, where he earned a degree in Prepress Production from a traditional apprenticeship program and a diploma in Communication Design and Photography from the University of Applied Science in Wiesbaden. He has done research in semiotics and practical semiotic applications at the University of South Carolina as part of the School of Journalism and Mass Communication's graduate program.

Koenig has lived in Spartanburg since 1997 and been the creative lead at AGE K Media LLC, a local communications agency. In 2009, he had a solo art show at Spartanburg Art Museum. He has been in several group shows in both the USA and Germany. In 2019, Koenig was awarded an art grant by Chapman Cultural Center for a photography project. He and his camera traveled extensively in the US, England and Germany.

Martin has been a member of the Collective for three years, and Koenig has been a member for five years. “Diversity is key,” Koenig said. “ACS has given me opportunities to exhibit my work with close to no limitations or restrictions, and the support from the artists at ACS as a community has been priceless.” Martin said, “Interacting with the other members has been great for me. Talking with others, I can learn and get ideas for my glass art through what they have done.”

Mint Museum Uptown in Charlotte, NC, Reopens with Artwork on the Plaza at the Levine Center for the Arts

A larger-than-life outdoor diorama, entitled, Tune In, is coming to the plaza at the Levine Center for the Arts just outside Mint Museum Uptown in Charlotte, NC.

This 4,000-pound multidimensional diorama created by local artist Richard Lazes and his studio team of fellow creatives at the Art Factory, is a sculpture of six stacked televisions from the 1960s in an enclosed room with wallpaper, pictures and linoleum that replicate a TV room of the time.

Tune In has been installed on Wells Fargo Plaza outside Mint Museum Uptown in tandem with the grand re-opening of the museum, which took place last month.

Televisions in the installation display a collage of rolling snippets of media programming from the 1950s and '60s, including news segments like the launch of Apollo 11, sitcoms and tv dramas, live musical performances by the likes of Little Richard and The Beatles. It's a reflection of history that is mirrored in society today, as well as a display of media that has - and continues to - heavily influence the way people think and act. He hopes that Tune In stimulates conversations among viewers to consider where we have come from and where we are going as a society.

Lazes wanted to create a piece of art that put the pandemic crisis of 2020 and social unrest in some type of historical perspective. The massive sculpture was created by dissecting vintage television sets found in antique shops, and then assembled into a precarious formation indicative of the dysfunctional state of our society today. Six LED screens replace the old television tubes. In order to create content for the screens, he created a video collage mined from 100 hours of TV shows and news media during the 1960s to create iconic TV shows, great musical performers by the entertainers of that day and news clips of current events during that time period.

"It's been 60 years since these programs were broadcast on TV and while video programming has become more politically correct it is unclear whether American culture and society has become any more fair and equitable," he says.

Lazes recognizes that shows like "The Jeffersons," "The Little Rascals," "Lucille Ball", and "Sanford and Son" were misogynistic, chauvinistic and racist, portraying a very shallow and prejudiced view of women and blacks. "These portrayals of minorities were indicative of that period. While we have moved a long way to a more magnanimous and politically correct viewpoint in our media, I wonder if our society has really changed in the way we treat one another," he says.

But television programming of that period also brought families together to watch favorite shows.

"With the introduction of the internet, personal computers, and smartphones, we have become isolated and no longer came together with friends and families to take in a shared media experience. Perhaps a silver lining of the pandemic is that it has brought us back together as families to sit in front of the TV set as newscasters and politicians brief us on the status of the pandemic. With all of the discord and alienation in society, we are all in need of some introspection and a positive message so I hope that my sculpture will contribute to the healing process."

Tune In is scheduled to travel throughout 10 cities, including Charlotte, Washington DC, Boston, New York, Chicago, Atlanta and Los Angeles. At each stop of the exhibit, Lazes along with co-director Aaron Atkinson will interview and film local artists to document how they are leveraging their creative talent to bring hope to each city. The documentary "Artists in Quarantine: American Creativity During the 2020 Pandemic" will showcase how creatives took their craft to showcase truth, justice and hope in a time of despair, and is scheduled to stream on Netflix in 2022.

Bechtler Museum of Modern Art in Charlotte, NC, Celebrates the Life of Walasse Ting

The Bechtler Museum of Modern Art in Charlotte, NC, is celebrating the life of Walasse Ting with the exhibit, 1 Cent Life, which honor his landmark 1964 portfolio, on view in the Museum's second-floor gallery, through Feb. 7, 2021.

The exhibition presents a selection of color lithographs from the landmark 1964 print portfolio, 1 Cent Life, written by Walasse Ting (born Ding Xionguan), edited by Sam Francis, and published by E.W. Kornfeld.

Developed by Anastasia James, Bechtler Museum of Modern Art Curator, the exhibition is dedicated to the life of Chinese-American visual artist and poet Walasse Ting and follows his journey from Shanghai to Paris to New York City.

The exhibition features 18 lithographs by 18 artists from the Bechtler Museum of Modern Art's signed limited edition of the 1 Cent Life Portfolio, as well as poetry and a selection of books by Ting. Artists whose work will be on view include Andy Warhol, Joan Mitchell, Pierre Alechinsky, Kiki O.K. Claes Oldenburg, James Rosenquist, Robert Indiana, Bram Van Velde, Asger Jorn, and Allan Kaprow.

Born Ding Xionguan, Ting was raised in Shanghai while the city was under Japanese occupation. At the age of 17, directly following World War II, Ting fled to Hong Kong, then a safe haven for dissidents and political refugees. Six years later, he moved to Paris where he immediately anglicized his name, tacking on "sse" in emulation of the famed painter Henri Matisse. In Paris, Ting met former members of the CoBrA group, including Pierre Alechinsky, Asger Jorn, and Karl Appel. Their rebellious, intuitive, and democratic approach to artmaking would greatly influence his work. CoBrA is taken from the first letters of the cities (Copenhagen, Brussels and Amsterdam) where the group's founding members lived.

In December 1956, bolstered by newfound success as a painter, Ting boarded the SS Liberte in Paris for New York City. In 1961, while living in a one-room studio near Times Square, he wrote a series of sixty-one poems. Simultaneously spiritual and secular, these poems became the genesis for what would become the now-legendary

1 Cent Life portfolio. Communicating the wide-eyed ambition of a recent immigrant, the poems reference both the tone and metrical patterns of classical Chinese poetry and the rhythm of American Beat prose, Jazz music, and the urban environment.

Each page of the portfolio radiates with a breathless immediacy that exudes a sense of the vital dynamism of New York City in the early 1960s as Ting was experiencing it. Soon after their completion, Ting approached his close friend, the American painter, Sam Francis, with the idea of inviting a group of artists to create color lithographs in response to his poetry. In the early 1960s, color lithography was still a relatively under-explored medium by artists as it was primarily associated with commercial printing. The artists invited to participate in the project were given lithographic plates, ink, and crayons so they could experiment with the unfamiliar medium and respond to Ting's poetry in their preferred artistic style. Included in the exhibition is Andy Warhol's first published edition lithograph which is accompanied by Ting's poem, "Jade White Butterfly." This print is also the first combination of text and image on the same page since Warhol's illustrated books of the 1950s.

The resulting portfolio printed by Maurice Beudet in Paris, France and published by E.W. Kornfeld in Bern, Switzerland contains sixty-two original lithographs by twenty-eight artists, reproductions of French, Japanese, and American advertisements, postage stamps, photographs, Chinese seals, and sixty-one letterpress poems by Ting set in multicolored inks. It is, as Ting envisioned, "as exciting as Times Square, color bright as neon light, hot as espresso." 1 Cent Life is a vibrant celebration of art and life that acts as a testimonial to a brief period in time when no single art movement dominated, and uninhibited experimentation reigned.

"Walasse Ting is an important Chinese-American artist and poet who became an interlocutor between the European avant-garde of the 1950s and the American Pop artists of the 1960s and while his work gained some critical traction in the late 1950s, he has since been completely written out of the larger art historical narrative," said Anastasia James, Bechtler Museum of Modern Art curator. "It is my intention to re-center the narrative of 1 Cent Life on Ting as the portfolio's creator and driving force. 1 Cent Life stemmed from Ting's desire to capture the zeitgeist of a creative community by inviting a group of artists to respond to his poetry in the medium of color lithography in the same manner that he had approached his early catalogs where he combined poetry with reproductions of his own works."

Home to Charlotte's iconic Firebird sculpture by Niki de Saint Phalle, the Bechtler Museum of Modern Art is filled with works by Miro, Giacometti, Calder, Warhol, Klee, and a wealth of other 20th-century notables. The Bechtler collection juxtaposes whimsy with work of significant intellectual depth and historical significance. Cosmopolitan in nature yet intimate in scale, the museum, designed by Mario Botta, provides an experience that is inspiring and approachable. The artworks were committed to the city of Charlotte by Andreas Bechtler, who, along with his family, built the collection over 70 years. Located in the heart of Uptown, the Bechtler is a light-filled community space created to engage audiences of all ages through exhibitions, jazz and film series, interactive art activities, and family days throughout the year.

Harvey B. Gantt Center for African-American Arts + Culture in Charlotte, NC, Reopens with New Exhibitions

The Harvey B. Gantt Center for African-American Arts + Culture located at the Levine Center for the Arts in Uptown Charlotte, NC, reopens Oct. 1, 2020, with the exhibitions: Inter | Sectionality: Diaspora Art from the Creole City and ... and justice for all, both on view for an undetermined time.

Inter | Sectionality: Diaspora Art from the Creole City, is a bold, multi-regional, multi disciplinary curatorial collaboration and exploration of the emergence of the "Creole City" as a local, regional and global phenomenon. Internationally recognized curators, Sanjit Sethi, former Director of the Corcoran School of Arts and Design and Rosie Gordon-Wallace, founder and chief curator of the Diaspora Vibe Cultural Arts Incubator, Inc. (DV-CAI) of Miami, FL, have designed this collaboration to provide a lens through which communities and community leaders internationally can begin to better understand themselves, their diversities and their unlimited possibilities.

Inter | Sectionality: Diaspora Art from the Creole City, is being presented at a time when Diaspora artists and voices are challenging social injustices, celebrating identities, and re-activating and bridging communities through contemporary art and scholarship. The complexities and diversities represented by this exhibit are emergent, and in many cases, ascendant, across the world. The exhibition is grouped around themes that encompass the diaspora and "Creole City" life stories, memory, politics, myth, religion, and culture. The exhibition showcases the works of artists that represent a broad spectrum of the African Diaspora. This global exhibition represents 25 Miami based artists, 17 countries and two Charlotte guest artists Monique Luck and Stephanie J. Woods.

Participating artists including: Moisés Aragón (Cuba), Aisha Tandiwe Bell (Jamaica), Minia Biabiany (Guadeloupe), Christopher Carter (United States), Katrina Coombs (Jamaica), Esperanza Cortés (Colombia & US), Michael Elliott (Jamaica), Guy Gabon (Guadeloupe), Rosa Nadya Garmendia (Cuba & US), GeoVanna Gonzalez (US & Germany), Juan Erman Gonzalez (Cuba & US), Kearra Amaya Gopee (Trinidad & Tobago), Grettel Arate Hechavarría (Cuba), Caroline Holder (Barbados & Canada), Izia Lee Lindsay

(Trinidad & Tobago), Anja Marais South (Africa & US), Jared McGriff (United States), Petrona Morrison (Jamaica), Kurt Nahar (Suriname), Devora Perez (Nicaragua), Evelyn Politzer (Uruguay), Wanda Raimundi-Ortiz (Puerto Rico & US), Juan Ernesto Requena (Venezuela), Asser Saint-Val (Haiti & US), Deborah Willis, Ph.D. (United States) and (Guest Artists) Stephanie J. Woods (United States), Monique Luck (United States).

The exhibition, ... and justice for all, was on view before the COVID-19 Pandemic closed the Harvey B. Gantt Center. It is now open for viewing once more.

America has the highest incarceration rate in the world. In just 40 years, those confined in this country's prisons and jails has grown 500%. Over 2 million people are incarcerated today. This rise is not due to increased criminal activity, but the callous and inequitable execution of the nation's laws and public policies. While 37% of the country's population represents people of color, an incongruous 67% make up the prison population. ... and justice for all illuminates this racially unjust system.

Throughout history, art has been used as a vehicle to make important statements about social issues. This exhibition threads intimate narratives and social commentary into large scale imagery, video, installation and appropriated photography. Personal accounts of racial profiling and incarceration, family experiences and adverse psychological impacts are explored by artists Russel Craig, Deana Lawson, Sherrill Roland, and Dread Scott.

This exhibition both humanizes – through first-hand experiences – and examines a system that has disproportionately affected people of color. By placing this issue in the forefront, ... and justice for all aspires to create awareness, stimulate conversation, amplify the voices that are often left unheard, and activate change.

Gain one free general admission ticket the first full weekend of each month by presenting your active Bank of America or Merrill Lynch credit or debit card and a photo ID. Cardholders can enjoy all that the Gantt Center has to offer! Museums on us is sponsored by Bank of America.

Central Piedmont Community College in Charlotte, NC, Features Works by Linda Luise Brown

Central Piedmont Community College in Charlotte, NC, will present Love & Gravity, a solo exhibition by Linda Luise Brown, on view in CPCC's Ross Gallery, from Oct. 12 through Dec. 10, 2020.

This exhibition features the colorful and elegant paintings of Charlotte artist Linda Luise Brown. She is a well-known and accomplished artist represented by The Elder Gallery of Contemporary Art in Charlotte.

Drawing inspiration from abstract expressionism and abstract expressionist artists such as Wassily Kandinsky, Lee Krasner and Helen Frankenthaler, Brown prompts us to look at color and form while analyzing the impact it has on the soul. The abstract colors and forms of her work invite us to embark on a journey of self discovery and imagination.

Love & Gravity is a must-see exhibition for this fall season. During a time of uncertainty in the world around us, Brown invites us to escape from the confusion and step into another dimension. One which can be an interpretation of our own creativity.

Brown will offer a lecture on Oct. 27, at 11am, on Facebook Live at (<https://www.facebook.com/cpccarts/>).

Central Piedmont Community College in Charlotte, NC, Features Works by Keith Bryant

Central Piedmont Community College in Charlotte, NC, will present Reconvene, featuring works by Keith Bryant, on view in the CPCC's Overcash Gallery, from Oct. 12 through Dec. 10, 2020.

Sculptural artist Keith Bryant creates three-dimensional sculptural designs with a story to tell. Reconvene, an exhibition that cannot be contained within the confines of the Overcash Gallery, spills out into the foyer and outdoors on to Central Campus, delighting students and visitors alike. Bryant uses a diverse assortment of materials to craft his work including wood, ceramics and metal.

Abstract in design, but geometrically grounded, Bryant's sculptures share the odyssey of life's numerous twists and turns, leading us on an extraordinary journey of adventure and hope. The graceful lines of the artwork and Bryant's attention to detail produce a celebration of composition, form and color all working together in unison. A belief that art is an expression of emotion that cannot express itself in words draws the viewer into the experience, craving more of what Reconvene has to offer. This fall show will not disappoint.

Bryant is an art instructor at UNC Charlotte, where he teaches ceramics, sculpture and 3D design. As a resident

Jerald Melberg Gallery in Charlotte, NC, Offers Works by Kim Kever

Work by Kim Kever

Jerald Melberg Gallery in Charlotte, NC, is presenting Underwater Canvas, featuring works by Kim Kever, on view through Nov. 7, 2020.

The gallery is pleased to present an exhibition of Kim Kever's boldly colored, abstract images. Kever photographically captures colliding, billowing colors into a soft yet explosive choreography, creating imagery as beautiful as it is technical. Trained as an engineer, Kever uses precision and innovation to compose his photographs, utilizing a strategic dispersal of specially prepared pigments into a 200-gallon aquatic tank, creating dynamic, random movement confined within the glass walls. After photographing through the glass, Kever crops the images to achieve the desired compositions. In this process dualities emerge: the images exist in a space between chance and control, between explosiveness and grace.

A recipient of the New York Foundation for the Arts Grant, Kever has exhibited extensively throughout the country and abroad. Kever's work is in the permanent collections of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Museum of Modern Art, the Hirshhorn Museum, Microsoft, Bank of America and Philip Morris.

This is the artist's second solo exhibition with the gallery.

Jerald Melberg Gallery is located on South Sharon Amity Road near the intersection with Providence Road.

So you're the Marketing Director of a visual arts organization, art museum, arts center, arts council or artist guild and you're wondering why you never see the exhibits presented at your facility included here. Maybe you're the owner of a commercial art gallery and you've never seen your exhibits included with others presented in your area. You might even be an individual artist who is having an exhibit in a non-profit space or commercial space and you don't see your exhibits included.

My question to you is - How long will you put up with that before you ask someone,

"Why that is the case?" If you're not included - it's your fault.

South Carolina State Museum in Columbia, SC, Offers Exhibition Focused on Graphic Art & Design

The South Carolina State Museum in Columbia, SC, is presenting a new exhibition entitled, The Graphic Eye: South Carolina and the Intersection of Art and Design, which showcases a century of graphic design, from the 19th century to concert posters. The exhibit will be on view for an undetermined time.

From mass-produced media of the early 20th century to posters of today, The Graphic Eye explores South Carolina's strong and diverse connection to the graphic arts. Guests are invited to examine the difference between art and design and consider when art can also be design and vice versa.

"In our current era, communication design is more ubiquitous than ever," says State Museum Art Curator Amy Chalmers. "We live in an unprecedented moment where we see hundreds, if not thousands, of images a day. We understand 'graphic design' as a primarily digital, commercial concept. This exhibit seeks to give it more historical context."

The scope of the exhibition spans the past century, and traces important changes in culture and technology. Featured in the show are Jasper Johns' prints, Shepard Fairey's political posters, commercial art and advertisements from the 1950s and 60s, and work by artists such as Sallie Frost Knerr, Anna Heyward Taylor, and Leo Twiggs. The thriving industry of contemporary graphic design will also be represented, with posters and other projects by prominent creatives currently working across the state.

"My hope is that visitors will question the distinction between what we consider 'art for art's sake' and 'commercial art,'" says Chalmers. "This exhibit looks at art that uses graphic conventions, as well as commercial work with strong artistic value."

Guests will also learn about the origins of what we now call 'graphic design' by exploring the development of different methods of printing and printmaking, typography, illustration, and advertising throughout the last century. The exhibition demonstrates that many artists have blurred the boundaries and challenged the definition of 'fine art,' by employing graphic conventions. This includes the use of reproductive printing and text combined with images, symbols, simple shapes and flat colors. The exhibition also invites guests to discover how to better read images in order to analyze how color and composition are utilized to convey specific messages, ideas and feelings.

The Graphic Eye: South Carolina and the Intersection of Art and Design is free with museum membership or general admission.

As the state's largest and most comprehensive museum, the South Carolina State Museum offers a unique, entertaining and educational experience to visitors throughout its 225,000 square foot facility located in the heart of downtown Columbia's Congaree Vista. The State Museum is housed in one of its largest artifacts, an 1894 former textile mill listed on the National Registrar of Historic Places. In addition to beautiful meeting spaces throughout the facility, guests can explore outer space in one of the largest planetariums in the Southeast, watch an interactive 4D movie and look through a vintage telescope in a one-of-a-kind observatory. These exciting opportunities are all in addition to the four floors of South Carolina art, cultural history, natural history and science/technology.

701 Center for Contemporary Art in Columbia, SC, Features Works by Valerie Zimany

701 Center for Contemporary Art in Columbia, SC, is presenting And I was Covered in Blossoms, featuring works by Valerie Zimany, on view through Oct. 26, 2020.

Zimany is Chair and Associate Professor of Art, Ceramics, at Clemson University, Clemson, SC. She received her MFA in Crafts/Ceramics at Kanazawa College of Art as a Fulbright Fellow and Japanese Government Scholar, and her BFA from the University of the Arts, Philadelphia, PA. After graduate studies, Zimany was awarded a three-year residency at the Utatsuyama Craft Workshop in Kanazawa, Japan, during which she researched contemporary craft and Kutani overglaze enamels.

Zimany was honored with a second Fulbright grant by the US Department of Education, and returned to Kanazawa as a guest researcher in 2011. Her research interests include contemporary Japanese art, the confluence of cultures in export wares, and most recently utilizing digital manufacturing tools to explore dense and delicate historic enamelware patterns and the artisan virtuosity required in their creation.

Work by Valerie Zimany

Zimany exhibits both nationally and internationally, and her work is held in multiple public and private collections, including the American Museum of Ceramic Art, Zimany offered the following statement, "As an artist, I am interested in the material, spatial and tactile qualities of objects, and find the conversion of visual information into digital content intriguing, not for the purpose of creating perfect replicas, but as an additional way to consider flaws in translating our perceptions and memories. In my recent work, I visually examine relationships between the East and West, nature and technology, and intimate and public worlds through the lens of my American background and extended education in Japan. Using imagery sourced from personal documentation or popular culture and art historical references, I tangle and laminate both time and location in sculptural form."

The Arts Center of Kershaw County in Camden, SC, Features Works by Keith Tolen

The Arts Center of Kershaw County in Camden, SC, is presenting Through it all, I RISE!, featuring works by Keith Tolen, on view in the Bassett Gallery, through Nov. 6, 2020.

Tolen is a lifelong art teacher. He spent thirty years teaching at Camden Middle School. He is a native South Carolinian. He grew up in Batesburg-Leesville, SC. He later attended South Carolina State University. He currently resides in Columbia, SC.

This exhibit focuses on the idea that regardless of what we do as human beings, there is a greater power that transcends all physical and even visual forms. The phrase "let's keep HOPE alive" has become popular for the downtrodden. The total exhibition is divided into three major parts: past, new, and next. The pieces that symbolize the past are created using an assemblage technique, found objects mixed together to create a visual story. The stories both individually and collectively represent a glimpse, like a time capsule, into the past.

The new and the next stages in the exhibition act as their own assemblage using color and shapes. Lines and colors blur the separation between thoughts, both real and imaginary. The images play the roles of fatigue, pain, and hope.

The final section represents "Four Letter Words." The four-letter words act to unify the entire exhibition: "LOVE WILL BEAT HATE." Whether we believe it is true or not, the message of these four words will always prevail. We highlight the power of a simple message and it is our HOPE to plant a seed of LOVE using the power of visual communication that is watered from our community to feed the fruits and flowers that will transform our times.

The images depict my children as a presence, but this presence is at times unfocused and unclear. The use of the lith developer gives an old and grainy appearance, with soft white — underdeveloped highlights. It is a slow process, developing the image gradually, like an old memory coming back into focus. The Palladium Prints have a timeless and precious quality. The processes used are an important part of the work because of their gentle meditative nature, and the appearance gives an almost dream like quality to the images.

The three faces shared here reflect attempts to call on higher forces. The two black and white images reflect the action of just trying to hold yourself together. You have a closeup of a face with hands placed near the face in an act of frustration, but that is not the end of the story. The blue man is symbolic of both a silhouette and a mugshot. The face is in the position of the mugshot, but that does not mean there is guilt. The use of blue with the orange background challenges the viewer to consider oppositions and possibilities. There is an upward gaze that calls on hope as having the final word.

The Arts Center of Kershaw County is carefully monitoring the coronavirus developments and is working closely with our presenting partners and any organizations attending our events. As always, our top priority is the safety and well-being of our patrons, staff, and the communities we serve.

As an organization, we are following the recommendations of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and local health agencies regarding sanitizing and safety and will make all necessary and timely changes based on their updated information prior to reopening. We recognize that others may be affected differently by this global situation and encourage everyone to stay informed.

Sumter County Gallery of Art in Sumter, SC, Offers Exhibition With Three Artists

The Sumter County Gallery of Art in Sumter, SC, will present an exhibition by a trio of outstanding artists, Chotsani Elaine Dean, Craig Crawford and Antonio Modesto Milian, on view from Oct. 22 through Jan. 8, 2021.

Work by Chotsani Elaine Dean

Chotsani Elaine Dean a ceramicist former of Anderson College in the upstate of South Carolina and now an Assistant Professor of Ceramics at the University of Minnesota. Dean notes: "The many, complex layered realities of the history and visual archives of my communal ancestry form and impart creative purpose in my studio practice and research. Foremost in my research are quilts from Slavery (chattel enslavement) thru Antebellum periods, made on and off of cotton plantations by enslaved and free blacks, through mid-20th century. The visual and historical synthesis of various craft traditions, historical events and commodities; quilts, the cotton trade, Civil Rights Movement and the vast realm of textiles, inform and shape my visual ideas and approach to ceramics."

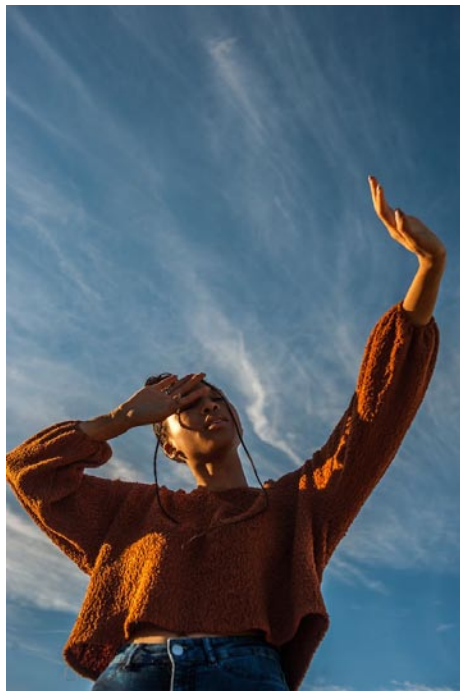

Work by Craig Crawford

Craig Crawford is a painter who earned a bachelor of fine arts degree from the University of South Carolina. After graduation, he moved to Washington, DC, where he apprenticed with conservator Charles Olin, former head of Painting Conservation at the Smithsonian Museum and the National Portrait Gallery. Crawford became an associate conservator, specializing in American landscape and French Barbizon works. Crawford later returned to South Carolina and opened his own conservation practice.

Moody and evocative, Crawford's psychologically charged paintings explore his deep-rooted emotional response to his surroundings in rural South Carolina. Crawford notes: "Interpreting the landscape that I am familiar with through the use of multiple techniques, composition, and a great appreciation for 19th century American landscape painting is what interests me. In 18th and 19th century American landscape painting artists conveyed a sense of mystery and intimacy that comes from the interplay between realism and personal emotional history. I enjoy painting the Lowcountry landscape and swamps along rivers since I grew up in Aiken, SC."

Anthony Modesto Milian is a New York City transplant living in Greenville, SC. His photography is the vehicle by which he portrays the human experience and individual stories. He first got his introduction to artistic storytelling by creating the street photography blog "Faces of the Upstate". After the untimely passing of his brother Milian began focusing on telling his own story as an Afrolatinx. He is an inaugural fellow at the Greenville Center for Creative Arts, has served on the creative team of TedX Greenville, and completed "Seeing through photographs", a program sponsored by P.S.1 MoMa.

Work by Antonio Modesto Milian

Milian notes: "That he hopes his work will have a larger impact than he alone can have, and open up a larger dialogue than me just talking. When people see my work something else happens. They're more engaged in asking what experience informs that work, which opens up a dialogue about Black Lives Matter, police brutality, community policing, and things like that."

The ongoing effects of COVID-19 have forced many institutions such as the Sumter County Gallery of Art to reschedule exhibitions, insure all precautions and cancel classes and receptions. Still we move forward and on July 30th we opened our most popular exhibition a little late this year, the Sumter Artists' Guild (SAG) Exhibition. We took in 124 pieces and it is one of the strongest SAG exhibitions in many years. The judge, Robert Keith IV picked an outstanding group of winners: Best of Show – Sylvia Pickell's quilt Snail Trail, First Place – J. Michael McGuirt's dreamlike painting Onward We Go!, Second Place - Vicki Hagner's mosaic Wing Tips, Third Place – Kerry Strathman's landscape painting Fading Day, Rev. Carter Road Sunset, Honorable Mentions – John Quinton Dingle's family portrait Sleeping Beauty, John Cotner's mixed media Reef and Lisa Melton's digital photograph Bite The Bullet.

Work by Sylvia Pickell, Sumter Artists' Guild Best of Show

The gallery is elated to be able to present the Sumter Artists' Guild exhibition when so many other cultural institutions are not yet able to open. So many people (not all at once) have come to view the exhibition. It feels like a bit of a return to normalcy – and art embodies optimism and makes people happy. For now, that is enough. The Guild exhibition will be up through Oct. 16, 2020.

Asheville Art Museum in Asheville, NC, Has Reopened With Lots to See

Following Governor Roy Cooper's Phase 2.5 announcement allowing museums to open at up to 50% capacity, the Asheville Art Museum has reopened. The Museum has instituted health and safety precautions including required face coverings, and timed tickets are required for entry which are available at (ashevilleart.org).

The Museum's galleries, the Museum Store, and Perspective Café have also reopen with limited capacity. Art PLAYce, our intergenerational makerspace, and the Frances Mulhall Achilles Art Research Library remain temporarily closed.

"Six months have passed since the Museum temporarily closed its doors in March with the COVID-19 Stay Home, Stay Safe order and safety concerns," says Asheville Art Museum Executive Director Pamela L. Myers. "During this time, we've worked creatively and collaboratively to continue our mission of offering innovative experiences for learning, enjoyment, and interpretation of art. It's been a time of intense review, planning, and learning that will impact all areas of operation - analog and virtual - going forward. The dedication of Museum staff, trustees, volunteers, Members, and supporters from here in WNC and across the country has made it possible to retain staff, deliver virtual programs, safely and securely manage the facility, and protect our Collection and works on loan to us. The Museum is a center of community, a place for engaging dialogue and discourse. We can't wait to welcome visitors in to explore the richness of the Museum Collection and exhibitions in person."

Current exhibitions include: A Telling In- stinct: John James Audubon & Contemporary Art, Dancing Atoms: Barbara Morgan Photographs, Andy Warhol: Silver Clouds, Reverberations: Exploring Movement in the Collection, Muddying the Waters: Traditions in North Carolina Clay, 50 Years of Western North Carolina Glass, Intersections in American Art, and Many Become One.

Since 1948, the Museum has welcomed visitors to explore American art of the 20th and 21st centuries. As we navigate the realities of life during this challenging time, we believe that art is more important than ever; it offers hope, comfort, and a window into other worlds. We look forward to welcoming visitors back to the Museum and have taken all steps necessary to ensure a safe and enjoyable visit.

heart."

Wood artist Valerie Berlage and jewelry artist Linda Azar combined their culture and skill-sets to craft the four-piece wall hanging, Embrace. "Embrace is inspired by, and celebrates, heritage. The four squares are representative of a quilt, and just as a quilt literally wraps around or embraces someone, this one embraces the heritage of both Azar's Iranian ancestry and traditional southern craft," says Berlage. "The metalwork was influenced by Iranian mosaic tile work, a prominent decorative art form in Iran. Each piece is embellished with and suspended from delicate embroidery thread; a reminder of the importance needlework traditionally held in southern craft. Each quilt square is completed with a wooden frame, painted to mimic the weave and pattern of fabric, gently worn down as would be a much-used coverlet."

The most relevant piece on display showcases the sights of our current times - Handcrafted Caring - Face Masks. Five mannequin heads each sport their own handwoven and decorated face mask made from silk & cotton, displaying a variety of techniques: marbling, batik, printing, surface design, and embroidery. The project is the work of ten Guild Members: Liz Spear, Neal Howard, Zan Barnes, Connie Brown, Betty Hilton-Nash, Peggy DeBell, Teresa Hays, Karen Swing, and Laura Sims (posthumously). "At this time, during a world-wide pandemic caused by a deadly virus, making masks has grounded me and given me purpose," states Hays.

"I was honored to join this collaborative exhibition with other SHCG fiber artists. Beginning with Neal Howard's dyed silk weavings, we virtually joined together to each create masks. I felt that Neal's weavings often stood on their own as masks and needed no embellishment from me. I did print dragonflies, a symbol of change, transformation, and adaptability, on several of the pieces before sewing them into masks. As I travel with you through this period of great change, I am using my hands and my skills to create masks in hopes of helping slow the spread of Covid-19. With each mask, I send out my wishes for our collective safety, strength, and healing as we all adapt and travel forward into the world that awaits us post pandemic."

Folk Art Center in Asheville, NC, Offers New Focus Gallery Exhibition

The Folk Art Center in Asheville, NC, is presenting My Happy Place, a new exhibit on view in the Center's Focus Gallery and online at (<https://www.southernhighlandguild.org/product-category/exhibits/focus/>), through Nov. 3, 2020.

Returning from an unprecedented Summer, the Southern Highland Craft Guild is presenting its Focus Gallery exhibition, My Happy Place. Located on the second level of the Folk Art Center, the exhibit features more than 55 colorful pieces of six different media. Showcasing work by Sarah Tremaine, Marlow & Diana Gates, Zan Barnes, Michael Hatch, and Richard Flottemesch. The exhibition showcases a broad spectrum of tastes and styles - all with a happy disposition.

The felted and silk apparel on display is designed and crafted by Sarah Tremaine, known for her elegant designs and exquisite textures. "Inspired by the natural world outside my door and 20th Century modern art, I design clothes that are styled to be timeless and delicious to wear. I make accessories, such as scarves, shawls, beach wraps and beach tunics. I also make garments, such as silk velvet Kimono Jackets and Dusters and nuno felted tops, tunics, dresses and coats," says Tremaine. "Each unique garment or accessory is made of the highest quality materials. My collections reflect a simple and relaxed life-style; I want my garments to be in your wardrobe for years to come."

In contrast of style, the brooms of Marlow & Diana Gates, are far from relaxed, seeming to dance on the walls where they hang. "Brooms as art were stifled in their infancy by the invention of the broom machine in the 1850's," Gates shares. "Freed from the constraints of machine production, we investigate shape, size, color and texture to create unique functional pieces of sculpture that exemplify traditional Appalachian strength and longevity."

The Folk Art Center is located at Milepost 382 on the Blue Ridge Parkway in east Asheville. Headquarters to the Southern Highland Craft Guild, the Center also houses three galleries, a library, a craft shop and a Blue Ridge Parkway information desk and bookstore.

Asheville Gallery of Art in Asheville, NC, Offers Works That Celebrate Fall

The Asheville Gallery of Art in Asheville, NC, will present Fallscapes, a multi-artist show celebrating the breathtaking beauty and grandeur of fall in our mountains, on view from Oct. 1 - 31, 2020. The exhibit will be on view for limited hours, but you can also make arrangements for a private tour by e-mailing a request to (AGAprivate-tours@gmail.com).

For artists who live and work in the mountains of Western North Carolina, nature is a continued source of inspiration. But only one season, fall, outdoes itself in presenting us with an astounding palette of vibrant color and rich textures. While the color of the changing leaves against a Carolina blue sky in the mountains is awesome to behold, it's even more fun to paint.

Bee Adams and Anne Bonnyman have two distinct styles, yet, each finds unique inspiration at this time of year. "Walking in the woods in the fall is magical. The trees are lined up showing off their colors, the air is getting crisp and the leaves crunch underfoot. I try to capture the pure joy of this wonderful time," says Adams. Bonnyman says, "Autumn in the mountains is dazzling. On a day when the sun lights up the trees and sparkles across the water, I can't get to my canvas fast enough to tell the story."

Cynthia Llanes says of her painting in the show, "Memorable places are fun to paint. This painting was a view from across the lake near our cabin during our anniversary trip to Fancy Gap, Virginia." Olga Michelson says, "Fall is one of my favorite subjects. It inspires me. I love to capture the distant views with their complex, rich colors. Sally Lordeon enjoys getting into nature during the season. "Painting en plein air in the late fall is spectacular. The opulent colors in the landscape declare nature as the master painter."

American Folk Art & Framing in Asheville, NC, Offers Exhibition Focused on Color and Story

American Folk Art & Framing in Asheville, NC, is presenting Color Stories, on view through Oct. 20, 2020.

This dynamic show combines two vital components of Folk Art: Color and Story. An artist's life, impressions deeply felt, memories, and dreams all searching for a way out into the world, this is the artist's quest. Color, rich and primary, commands attention, lifting spirits in the process.

In the words of Lucy Hunnicutt, one of the featured artists in Color Stories, "Color is everything. I once compared it to water because I feel physically thirsty for it sometimes. When I am weary it revives me. I have had people tell me the color in my work spoke to them of happiness. I always think, 'that's good. I succeeded that day then.' That person brought the happiness full circle back to me when they said that, too."

We have asked our featured artists to convey their stories, with vibrant color taking center stage, so we can all take a peek into their inner worlds.

American Folk will be drenched in heart-thumping color, even more than usual, during the run of this thrilling show. You will see new pieces by painters Cornbread Anderson, Liz Sullivan, and Lucy Hunnicutt as well as the wild face jug creations by potter Carl Block.

Please check our website for current information during this fluid time. Face masks for all ages required for entry.

22 London in Asheville, NC, Offers New Exhibit from Collection of Hedy Fischer & Randy Shull

22 London in Asheville, NC, will present High Anxiety, the fourth exhibition from The Collection of Hedy Fischer and Randy Shull, on view from Oct. 29 through Nov. 22, 2020. Receptions will be held on Oct. 29, 30, & 31, 2020, from 6-10pm and Nov. 1, from 2-5pm. Sign-up appointments and masks are required. To attend, sign up at (22London.org).

High Anxiety is. Examining our unstable times through a multiplicity of artistic positions and voices High Anxiety brings new perspectives to bear on themes such as identity, forced migration, politics, technology, corporate culture and a worldwide Pandemic.

The exhibition presents a number of international, national and regional artists, whose work speaks to our conflict-ridden times. High Anxiety includes work from South African artist, Zanele Muholi, who was included in the 2019 Venice Biennale; Rashid Johnson, whose Anxious Men paintings first came about from a desire to transmit his personal experience of anxiety, artists of the late twentieth century, who was recently the subject of a solo exhibition at the Guggenheim Museum in New York; Trenton Doyle Hancock who recently staged a solo exhibition at Mass MoCA, North Adams, MA; and Bob Trotman, who lives and works in North Carolina, explores the tension within corporate culture with his Business As Usual exhibitions and was in the inaugural State of The Art exhibition at Crystal Bridges Museum, Bentonville, AR.

The twenty-one artists in High Anxiety have responded to this angst and channeled it into the sculptures, paintings, photographs, and videos that reflect the tension humming in the background in our lives. Heightened by our accelerated digital existence, the scope and detail of our anxiety has reached new proportions.

High Anxiety follows the successful Say It Loud, an exhibition of contemporary art that explored the difficult and complex cultural and political issues facing America today through the art of African Americans including work by Kehinde Wiley, chosen for the official portrait of President Barack Obama and ninety-three year-old Betye Saar, a founding member of the Black Arts Movement of the 1970's. The exhibition traveled to Denison University Museum in Columbus, OH. A full-color catalog was produced of the exhibition.

Though admission is free, timed reservations are required to limit capacity. Sign up at (22London.org).

Upstairs Artspace in Tryon, NC, Offers Three New Exhibitions

Upstairs Artspace in Tryon, NC, will present three new exhibits dealing with the Pandemic, Racial injustice, and Unity, on view from Oct. 3 through Nov. 13, 2020. There is an Open House on Saturday, Oct. 3, from 4-7pm, to meet the artists and enjoy a glass of wine. The Upstairs continues to rigorously practice social distancing, allowing 20 visitors in the gallery at any given time. Masks are required and are available at the door.

Nothing Has Changed, Everything Has Changed – Artists Speak Out, is an open invitational show featuring artists who have created work in response to the life-changing events of 2020. Coinciding with our upcoming election, this exhibit is timed just right to provide an opportunity for viewers and artists to engage in the dialog of our current times. The gallery recognized that many artists are making work about these difficult topics and hosting an exhibit of artistic responses to current events was one way to give artists a public voice. Upstairs has a wide range of 2D and 3D pieces in all mediums and sizes on display in this show.

contributed a handsome print illustrating what unity means to them. The well-known, highly skilled printmakers include Marty Epp-Carter, Sydney Cross, Joel Wilkerson and Steven Chapp. All the prints are accompanied by a description of each artist's thoughts on the theme.

A third exhibit brings back popular craft artists Rachel Clark and B.J. Precourt. Clark makes distinctive sculptural and functional clay objects. In the recent Earth to Table show at the Upstairs, her work nearly sold out. Folk woodcarver Precourt has been in numerous Upstairs' shows. His whimsical carved and painted animals, birds and people have stories to tell and are avidly collected.

Annual Spruce Pine Potters Market Goes Online - Oct. 10, 2020

The much-anticipated annual Spruce Pine Potters Market is really happening! The Market will begin online at (www.SprucePinePottersMarket.com) starting on Saturday, Oct. 10, 2020, at 10am. This year, due to the safety and wellbeing for all concerned, the Spruce Pine potters will miss seeing their devoted followers in person, but will be offering their works purchasable from the comfort of your kitchen table or living room sofa. Collectors need only go to the Spruce Pine Potters Market website (www.sprucepinepottersmarket.com) to find all of the amazing work normally featured at the market, and more.

This annual event, in a unique and yet exciting virtual format, will feature more than 30 potters from Mitchell, Yancey and Avery counties, as well as specially invited guest potters.

Pottery enthusiasts will be able to find work from their favorite North Carolina high country clay artists, and minus the crowds, will have the ability to find new work they may have missed before. With a variety of diverse potters from the region and a great variety of styles and designs, collectors can shop and explore the Spruce Pine Potters Market from all over the country this year. Those who have not been able to attend this popular ceramics market for many reasons, will be able to attend this year from wherever they are.

This year's participating artists include: Will Baker, Pam Brewer, Cynthia Bringle, Naomi Dalglish, Susan Feagin, Terry Gess, Michael Hunt, Lisa and Nick Joerling, Michael Kline, Suze Lindsay, Shauna Lyons, Courtney Martin, Kent McLaughlin, Teresa Pietsch, David Ross, Michael and Ruth Rutkowsky, Ken and Galen Sedberry, Jenny Lou Sherburne, Gay Smith and Joy Tanner.

And specially invited guests.

One of Spruce Pine Potters Market's founding members is Ken Sedberry who has participated in all 14 Potters Markets. In the months leading up to SPPM he focuses on "a fresh body of work" that includes current work as well as new ideas. He tries to fire work specifically for this show. Most of his fired work is more decorative, using animal imagery and vivid color. Recently he has been "more concerned with articulating the form and using glazes in a more painterly fashion, where color and texture are the primary surface considerations." During the Covid era, he has tried to stay productive in other areas outside the studio, restoring a 1968 Dodge Power Wagon with a dump bed and assisting his son Galen (also in this year's market) with the construction of his new house.

One of SPPM's newest participants is Ruth Rutkowski. This will be her second year showing alongside her husband Michael. Ruth realizes that the SPPM draws people from all over with different reasons for collecting. She pushes herself to create for this show, work "with integrity and to showcase her passion for the art form as well." Rutkowski cites three main inspirations for her work: 1). The elements of water, sea and sky. Teal or cobalt blue show up on nearly every pot she creates. 2). The folk-art style of painting called Rose Maling is part of her family heritage, including the dot patterns, slip trailing and etching that make up her surface design patterns. 3). The use of words on her pieces. "When the spirit moves me, I cannot help but etch verses onto my pottery!"

In regards to this particular time of Covid, Ruth believes it is time for resiliency and as an artist to be a problem solver as well. "Market places are changing in fundamental ways, and I am hopeful that together we have what it takes to bring arts to the forefront as a viable way to earn a living as well as help our world to be a better place.

This year's roster of specially invited guests include: Lynne Hobaica, Rickie Barnett, Matt Repsher, Becky Lloyd, and Hitomi and Takuro Shibata.

Work by Shaunna Lyons

Born and raised in Phoenix, AZ, Lynne Hobaica received her BFA from Syracuse University in History of Art and Ceramics. After a couple years of traveling and working in various studios, she moved to Austria to be a nanny for a year during which was provided with a ceramics studio. When the little one went off to kindergarten, the nanny gig ended and Hobaica stayed in Austria to get her MFA in Conceptual Ceramic Sculpture at the University of Art and Design in Linz. After having lived and traveled to 9 cities in a 5-year span, she observed how relationships evolve and grow through distance and time, which along with emotional communications became a huge inspiration for her work. She currently lives in Bakersville, NC, where she shares a home and studio with her darling, Rickie Barnett.

Speaking of the nature of his figurative ceramic work, Barnett states, "My work is an internal look at the preeminent issues of being bound to another and the affects it has on an individual. The malleable nature of clay allows for a quicker way of working in a highly detailed manner. I work figuratively creating characters based on the struggle of balancing relationships, placing them in an open narrative where they can revisit emotions experienced but not quite understood."

Potter Matt Repsher was raised in the woods of Pennsylvania. His exposure to art, design, and ceramics started early, as he learned from his father about making pots. Matt earned his BFA in ceramics from Penn State University, and an MFA from Indiana University in 2003. From 2005-2008, he was the Studio Director at Santa Fe Clay. After his time there, he worked as a Visiting Professor at Indiana University, teaching ceramics and 3-D Design for two years, after which he returned to New Mexico to teach part-time at the University of New Mexico and also set up a studio in Santa Fe, which he shared with his metalsmith wife, Marian Miller. Matt has recently completed a three-year artist residency at Penland School of Craft.

Becky Lloyd joins the market this year from her studio in Clyde, NC. She states, "My work uses a centuries old technique called sgraffito to create very intricate patterns and designs. Each piece of hand thrown porcelain is coated with a black terra sigillata slip. I then use a very sharp knife to cut into the slip to expose the white porcelain underneath. This technique allows me to indulge in my passion for design and challenge my skills at the same time. Over the last few years my work has become more personal. A refuge. An expression of beauty, love and grief all at the same time. I have always had a keen interest in ancient civilizations and the incredible art they produced. Those ancient worlds hold endless inspiration for me and always will. But I am now looking inside myself. Searching. Searching for what I have lost."

Hitomi and Takuro Shibata are Japanese born potters who have established themselves in Seagrove, NC, where they built a Japanese style Anagama wood kiln. "Our focus is to make simple and functional pottery by using local wild clay and wood firing techniques. When we started our pottery studio in Shigaraki, Japan, we called it "Touya" - "Pottery House" in Japanese.

Hitomi established her skill and knowledge as a professional potter in Shigaraki, one of the oldest Japanese pottery towns. In 2001 she received a scholarship by Rotary International to come to USA to learn American ceramics, and she ended up settling in Seagrove, NC. "My works are made from natural clays and it's really important for me to use materials from nature. Wood firing is also an important process to complete my works and it gives a sustainable energy and life into my works. I want to make beautiful pots from natural materials and elements, and hope people will love, hold, and use them functionally in daily life."

Takuro Shibata holds a degree in engineering and applied chemistry as well as an apprenticeship at local pottery studio in Shigaraki, Japan. In 2005, Takuro became the director of STARworks Ceramics center near Seagrove, NC. Takuro has a national reputation as a studio potter and as a wild clay specialist.

The Spruce Pine Potters Market encourages visitors to the market to join them in their annual support of two local non-profits with the purchase of raffle tickets. The work by potters Suze Lindsay, Lisa Joerling, Shane Mickey and Joy Tanner will be raffled for funds to be distributed in support of current food shortages to Shepherd's Staff and Neighbors Feeding Neighbors.

Pottery is the "Art of the State." North Carolinians have long been enchanted by our potters who are able to transform lumps of clay into objects of startling beauty. That beauty and the stories behind it, old and new, are showcased by the nonprofit North Carolina Pottery Center in Seagrove, NC.

We all love our venerable folk pottery tradition. Today, contemporary studio artists build on this strong foundation to bring brilliant new clay expressions to light. The Pottery Center reveals the ever-changing tradition of pottery making in our state, changes which reflect the shifting culture of our state and world. We tell a story that builds the future from our mighty past. Join us and be part of the story.

They are presenting two special events happening this fall at the same time: "Pottery Pumpkin Harvest" & "Harvest-To-Table". These events will take place every Saturday in October, (3, 10, 17, 24 & 31), 2020 from 9am-5pm.

Village Pottery Marketplace represents the works of over 80 fabulous art potters and fine crafts people, many of whom are making special pieces for these events. The owners are also both potters, with 34 years each working in clay (Melanie & Wyndham Dennison).

For "Pottery Pumpkin Harvest" they will be featuring hand-crafted decorator pottery pumpkins and gourds that are true works of art. Also, they will have whimsical jack-o-lanterns, hoot owl whistles and items for seasonal autumn decor.

For "Harvest-To-Table" Village Pottery Marketplace will be featuring both wheel-turned and slab-constructed platters, trays, coffee mugs, soup mugs and "Bowls - Of -

They are proud to provide a wide array of hand-crafted pottery: Stoneware, Crystal-line, Raku, Wood Ash Glazes, Textural, Sculptural, Pit fired, Wood fired, Face jugs, and more. Besides many styles of pottery, you will also find here at Village Pottery Marketplace: (blown & fused) glass, basketry, wood, gourd art, hand made soaps, jewelry and much more.

The goal for the gallery is to have a beautiful setting for artists to showcase their wares and a friendly, welcoming atmosphere for pottery lovers and visitors to enjoy. The gallery is an ever-changing, on-going window into contemporary and traditional pottery and fine crafts. Social distancing guidelines are observed.

Village Pottery Marketplace is located on East Main Street in downtown Seagrove, NC 27341. To see more about their upcoming November, 2020 special events please check here in the next addition of Carolina Arts.

STARworks in Star, NC, Offers a Different Kind of Pumpkin Patch This Year

STARworks has extended its annual Glass Pumpkin Patch to run from October 3 – 31 to accommodate everyone while following guidelines for limited occupancy. The pumpkin patch will also go online this year, beginning Oct. 3 at (www.StarworksNC.org).

More than 3,000 glass pumpkins in all sizes, shapes and colors will be on display and available for purchase online and in the STARworks Gallery. This is the first time of year the popular glass pumpkins are available to the public.

In order to follow guidelines for limited occupancy, those who would like to shop in person must reserve tickets for designated time slots. Tickets are free and can be found at (www.STARworksNC.org). Walk-ins will not be allowed. Masks are required at all times inside the STARworks building and must be worn properly. The Pumpkin Patch will be extended throughout the month of October to accommodate everyone interested in visiting.

shoppers may schedule a time to pick up their purchases or have them shipped. The Glass Pumpkin Patch is STARworks' most popular fundraising event. Each pumpkin is a unique work of art, handblown by STARworks Glass artists and interns.

STARworks glassblowers begin making pumpkins early in the year to guarantee a large selection of pumpkins. Proceeds from the event help fund STARworks programs, including K-12 educational programs.

Pumpkins cannot be reserved and will not be available for purchase before the Pumpkin Patch in order to guarantee the largest selection possible for the event. STARworks supporters who donate at a certain level are the only people allowed to shop early.

STARworks is a creative community advancing excellence in artistic and educational experiences. A high priority is placed on educational programs that include classes, field trips and special independent studies for K-12 students.

For more info check our NC Institutional Gallery listings, call STARworks at 910/428-9001, or visit (www.StarworksNC.org).

Pumpkins will also be available online. More than 1,400 pumpkins will be available online on the STARworks website. Online

Artworks Gallery in Winston-Salem, NC, Opens Its Doors on a Limited Basis

Artworks Gallery in Winston-Salem, NC, will present Almost Normal, featuring works by members Chris Flory, Betti Pettinati-Longinotti, Susan Smoot, and Mona Wu, on view from Oct. 8 - 31, 2020.

We are excited to open with limited hours and social distancing. We ask everyone to wear a face covering in accordance with the NC Department of Health and Human Services to slow the spread of COVID-19.

Chris Flory's body of work consists of large-scale graphite drawings, evocative of another time and place. Using imagery and imagination, she brings her works to life through value, perspective and her accomplished lens of art-making.

Flory has a BFA in Printmaking from Phila. College of Art (1972) and an MFA in Painting from UNC-Greensboro. She has been a member of Artworks Gallery since 1993, and also makes art for Artomat machines.

The practice of graphite drawing on top of textured-layered oil painted surfaces has allowed Betti Pettinati-Longinotti conversation and intercession with the Divine, having many varied forms and senses of spirituality, through which she has explored the pandemic upon us in our current world, the University of the Arts/ Philadelphia, in Art Education with a studio major in Glass, and an MFA in Visual Arts through the Lesley University, College of Art and Design. Pettinati Longinotti is a juried member of Artworks Gallery and Piedmont Craftsmen, and also holds membership in the American Glass Guild.

The textile works by Susan Smoot have been created in a mindful way as offerings to soothe our battered souls during this pandemic. Using treasured vintage linens and a selection of curated fibers and ephemera, collaged works were created. Hand-dyeing, eco-printing natural fabrics and other textile processes have been employed to alter and enhance the materials. Meditative sewing by hand and machine allowed time to consider the heartbreaking reality surrounding the coronavirus. Messages of healing adorn the work with thoughts, wishes, dreams, and aspirations for a better future.

Work by Susan Smoot

Smoot holds a BA in Art Marketing with a concentration in Painting from Appalachian State University. She is a juried member of Artworks Gallery and of the Watercolor Society of North Carolina.

Mona Wu has taken advantage of the hiatus to create a collection of small watercolor paintings depicting common objects in and around her house. All work are dated in order to form a narrative highlighting a positive way in coping with the COVID lockdown.

A native of China, Wu immigrated to US in 1970. She studied Chinese painting and calligraphy in Hong Kong. She received her BA in Art History from Salem College in 1996. She also studied Printmaking at WFU as an auditor from 1997-2014.

Wu was selected as Sawtooth School Winston-Salem Artist-of-the-Year in 2003. She became a member of Artworks Gallery in the same year. She teaches Printmaking, collage, and Chinese painting at Sawtooth School of Visual Art.

University of North Carolina at Greensboro, NC, Offers Selections from Its Collection

The University of North Carolina at Greensboro, NC, is presenting Ties that Bind: Selections from the Collection, on view in the Weatherspoon Art Museum's 2nd Floor: The Gregory D. Ivy and the Weatherspoon Guild Galleries, through Feb. 14, 2021.

John Fawcett wrote a hymn on the theme in 1800. Bruce Springsteen took a different approach in an eponymous song popular in 1980. Whether entwined in fellowship with kindred spirits or stretched to the point of breaking, the ties that bind us to one another are often some of the most significant markers in our lives. Ties that Bind explores the various types of relationships that define, brighten, aspire, or perhaps even challenge us on a daily basis.

These works drawn from the museum's collection explore familial relationships, be they between mother and child or self-identified families, and less fixed, but equally important ties - to lovers, friends, and even objects. And, because life can be arduous at times, the tension, separateness, and alienation that result from unhealthy ties or from a lack of connection are also considered.

Waterworks Visual Arts Center in Salisbury, NC, Has Reopened

Held over for viewing through the end of 2020, Creative Habitats exhibition features three North Carolina artists who independently present natural, created, and altered habitats in their chosen media. As expected within the galleries of Waterworks Visual Arts Center in Salisbury, NC, viewers will be inspired, and also, challenged to consider how their personal habitats can be designed and constructed to explore and nurture their best selves. The exhibitions will remain on view through Dec. 31, 2020.

Last Seen, by artist-photographer Lorraine Turi, is a collection of her photographs taken in the last known locations inhabited by now-extinct species. Leading up to her photo documentation, Lorraine performed exhaustive research, creating lists of extinct beings, even re-tracing the footsteps of explorers who witnessed and documented the decline and destruction of particular species. The images in Last Seen serve as a

Natural Interactions, monoprints

Turi holds a Masters of Fine Art degree, has exhibited and lectured extensively in the Carolinas, Florida, Kentucky, New York and New Jersey, and her photographs are in corporate, public and private collections.

Alix Hitchcock's current colorful art on paper works are one-of-a-kind gelatin monotype prints with the themes of dancers, acrobats, birds, sea animals, dragonflies, herons, foxes, and other creatures. Celebrating their relationships to their natural environment, to each other, and to humans, Hitchcock placed her nature family in abstracted environments. Using a silhouette format, her characters appear in layers of transparency, recognizable but still ambiguous, some with an undertone of danger or anticipation. Her technique is to print on a "gelatin plate" using hand-drawn stencils with water-based printmaking inks, most with additional colored pencil. Her quest is to impart to the viewer a sense of awe in the presence of Nature, and bring the viewer into each artwork's world of movement and mystery.

With a Master of Art degree in painting, Hitchcock is an instructor of drawing and painting of figures and landscapes at North Carolina universities, colleges, museums, and design centers. Her work has been widely exhibited across North and South Carolina, and Virginia.

"I am an outsider-visionary artist of 17 years," says Adam Wensil in describing himself. "My art has fondly been called 'organized clutter' in that I use ordinary objects in unexpected ways to create a new and memorable experience." Wensil works in three areas: sculpture (the human figure), wire panels, and whimsy (fun, fast, anything goes), and his exhibition, Off Kilter (specifically referring to The Gilda House creation) is comprised of all three.

Gilda House has a dynamic, amazing story about five unique individuals and their loving pets who choose to share life together in the Off Kilter world of Gilda House. A Pop Art expression, with architecture and furnishings inspired by Corbusier, and rich, Raphaelite colors, Wensil constructed Gilda House from items given to him by strangers and friends. It is an art piece, not a dollhouse. The official music for Gilda House is "Imagine," by John Lennon.

Diagnosed with bi-polar disease thirty years ago, Wensil says, "My artwork is all about me and my interpretation of life, including my fears and phobias.... It is my expression through art that allows me to (be in) better control (of) my life." After 28 months of work, The Gilda House is still a work in progress. "My goal in art is always 'completion not perfection.'" The Gilda House IS ADAM.

Beginning Oct. 1, Waterworks' galleries will welcome visitors to enjoy this exhibition and shop in the Museum Store, by appointment. Plans for a complete re-opening will be announced on the website (www.waterworks.org), so check back often for the most up to date information.

The Waterworks Visual Arts Center is a 501c3 nonprofit organization accredited by the American Alliance of Museums. Its mission is to provide diverse opportunities in the arts for all people through exhibitions, education, and outreach. Waterworks is funded by individual memberships, corporations and businesses, foundations, the City of Salisbury, and Rowan County. Waterworks receives general support from

Brookgreen Gardens in Murrells Inlet, SC, to Host Autumn Nights Fridays and Saturdays in October

This October, Brookgreen Gardens in Murrells Inlet, SC, will host Autumn Nights in the Field of Light, a new event showcasing Bruce Munro's Field of Light, an immersive light display covering Brookgreen's arboretum.

Every Friday and Saturday night in October, a Lowcountry supper will be served and guests will be invited to stroll through the installation featuring over 12,000 stems of light in softly moving colors. Originally installed for Bruce Munro at Brookgreen: Southern Light, Field of Light will be the only installation on view for this event. Autumn Nights in the Field of Light will be held every Friday and Saturday in October from 7-9:30pm.

"Field of Light was the most raved-about installation from our summer show, and we are excited to continue to offer guests a chance to see this incredible work by Bruce Munro," says Page Kiniry, Brookgreen Gardens president and CEO. "We hope guests will enjoy spending a beautiful fall evening indulging in Lowcountry fares and wandering through this wonderful light display designed by a world-renowned artist."

Each night's supper will consist of Frogmore stew, roasted oysters, and chicken bog. Tickets are $45 for members and $50 for the general public. A cash bar will be available for wine and beer purchases. VIP tickets are also available for $200, which include buffet and wine for two, reserved seating in the open-air Leonard Pavilion, preferred parking, and a copy of Bruce Munro's book "Light."

Due to COVID-19, Brookgreen Gardens has enacted safety protocols to ensure the safety of all visitors. All guests are asked to observe social distancing guidelines and wear a mask or comparable face covering to prevent the spread of COVID-19. In compliance with Georgetown County Emergency Ordinance 20-33, masks should always be used in any interior spaces, including public restrooms.

British artist Bruce Munro (b. 1959) is best known for large immersive light-based installations inspired primarily by his interest in shared human experience and connection. He completed a BA in Fine Arts at Bristol Polytechnic in 1982. Shortly thereafter he moved to Sydney where he took up employment in design and lighting, inspired by Australia's natural light and landscape. Returning to England in 1992, he settled in Wiltshire, where he raised 4 children with his wife. Following his father's death in 1999, Munro felt compelled to resume artmaking on a personal level. His work has been shown at the Victoria & Albert Museum, London; Waddesdon Manor, the Rothschild Collection, Buckinghamshire; and the Guggenheim Museum, New York. It is held in museum collections internationally including the Ashmolean Museum, Oxford.

Brookgreen Gardens, a National Historic Landmark and 501(c)(3) non-profit organization, is located on U.S. 17 between Murrells Inlet and Pawleys Island, South Carolina, and is open to the public daily. Founded in 1931 by Anna Hyatt Huntington and Archer Huntington, Brookgreen is home to the largest and most significant collection of American Figurative Sculpture in the county, and is a leader in sculpture conservation, environmental conservation, and the protection of the plants, animals, and history of the South Carolina Lowcountry.

NC Wesleyan College in Rocky Mount, NC, Offers Works by the Tar River Piecemakers Quilting Guild

NC Wesleyan College in Rocky Mount, NC, is presenting Quilting is Our Common Thread, the working theme for the Tar River Piecemakers Quilting Guild. The Guild is exhibiting their quilts in the Mims Art Gallery at Wesleyan College's Dunn Center, through Oct. 25, 2020.

The Guild's Mission Statement expresses the significance of its dedicated membership of over a hundred members, as well as its purpose to preserve and promote the art of quilting.

Tar River Piecemakers Quilting Guild was founded in 2000 by a group of 9 women to promote their love of quilt-making and to provide fellowship with other quilters. The work of the Guild is designed to benefit and educate all persons interested in preserving, continuing and advancing this art. Our challenge is to encourage continuing interest in quilting in all forms and to promote this art by teaching and sponsoring workshops and exhibits.

The Guild's community outreach efforts include neonatal quilts year-round for Nash series to super detailed color pencil drawing evidenced in his popular "pet portraits". A Wesleyan professor for twenty years, his theater arts career spans a half century.

Drake has taught and designed theatrical productions at the Univ. of Dubuque [IA], Illinois Wesleyan Univ., and Drake University. He has also designed scenery and lighting for the Univ. of N. Iowa, Muskingum College [New Concord, OH], the Crosswell Opera House [Adrian, MI], and Temple Theatre in Sanford, NC. He has his MFA from Ohio U. and holds an all-class [scene design, lighting design, costume design, and scenic artist] card in United Scenic Artist Local 829 [New York].

Drake also enjoys an occasional foray onstage - including 'deadly' appearances as the Ghost in Hamlet with Burning Coal Theatre Company in Raleigh in 2007 and as murdered Duncan in 'the Scottish Play' at Wesleyan in 2016.

Work by Roger Drake

Drake may be the most talented and versatile artist and designer Wesleyan has ever been blessed with; he not only designs theater productions and sets, he builds and paints them which is no small task. He is also a writer and illustrates his own books. His artwork ranges from bold expressionist drawing like we find in his "Big Boy"

Everett Mayo has been an exhibiting painter and printmaker since 1966 and teacher of art, design and art history in various capacities since 1968. He has worked as a curator and gallerist in both public and private sectors since 1968, and as Incept Coordinator in 1974 he helped start Pratt Institute's Utica Division. Since he came to NC Wesleyan in 1992 he has built the Art Minor, the Four Sisters Gallery of Self-Taught Visionary Art and a year-round exhibition program for the Mims and Civic Galleries. Since 2015 he has been owner and partner in Andrejev Galleries whose mission is to exhibit midcentury modernist art and abstraction.

A half century evolution as an artist, Mayo has cycled from representation to abstraction, representation and back to abstraction. First and foremost, he claims the painter's task is to attempt to make the paintings beautiful to look at. For the most part his paintings are rooted in pattern.

In 2017, Mayo exhibited work at the Butcher Gallery in Savannah, GA; the exhibit was featured on cable television. Currently he is working on field pattern abstraction with incidental images of 1950s muscle cars...the 1959 Ford Thunderbird a favorite. His work is found in the permanent collections of Coca Cola, IBM, and the Munson-Williams-Proctor Museum of Art amongst other public and private collections.

NC Wesleyan College in Rocky Mount, NC, Features Works by Micah Mullen

North Carolina Wesleyan College in Rocky Mount, NC, will present an exhibition of remarkable eye-popping paintings by Micah Mullen, on view in the Mims Gallery, from Oct. 29 through Dec. 6, 2020.

Mullen makes gleefully arresting paintings that transform conventional realism into a visual world that the artist offers up as an alternate reality. Mullen's painting style is centered on pictorial application of improvisation of colorful pattern. His evident labor-intensive process requires patience and time. In his own words he says this method, "allows my paintings to reflect my varying emotions and moods and in a strange way create a sense of balance and harmony in what are sometimes very detailed and confusing compositions."

Immersed in art for most of my life Mullen received a Bachelor's degree from SUNY Brockport and later a Master's degree from Duquesne University. He is a full time prize-winning competitive artist with a career spanning over twenty years. Mullen was awarded First Place at the 2009 Juried

Gallery owner Ginny Lassiter said, "Dick Staat is a storyteller with his paintbrush. His pieces are much loved and sought after. These paintings featuring vintage and antique cars are sure to appeal to local car clubs and aficionados. We hope to see you all at the gallery."

According to the artist, "I have been interested in old cars and trucks since my high school days. The fun of driving a car with a manual transmission and stick shift while you're listening to 50s tunes on the radio ... you can't beat it."

Staat goes on to say, "Many of my friends had old cars, which they restored and repainted. I paint old cars with watercolor because I enjoy the happy memories they gave me. I like to compose a painting as if I'm telling a story with the car as the main actor."

Dare County Arts Council in NC Offers Artrageous: Remotely Reimagined

The 31st Artrageous Kids Art Festival, presented by PNC Bank, will look different this year, but Dare County Arts Council, in Eastern NC is ensuring that the community will be able to experience the beloved event in 2020.

After being postponed in May, Artrageous will embrace virtual learning this fall and be “Remotely Reimagined” into a two-part event, including three drive-thrus with free art kits for children to take home and a digital art show featuring visual, performing and literary arts by Dare County students.

“We believe in the very essential role that art and creativity play in education,” said Dare County Arts Council Program Director Jessica Sands. “Our hope is to inspire students to be creative, honor the dedicated art, music and theater teachers in Dare County who are teaching remotely during a pandemic, and share amazing artwork with the whole community.”

The Artrageous Art Kit Drive-Thru will take place at Cape Hatteras Elementary School, in Buxton, NC, on Thurs., Oct. 15; Manteo Elementary School in Manteo, NC, on Thurs., Oct. 22; and First Flight Elementary School in Kill Devil Hills, NC, on Sat., Oct. 24.

Parents can register their elementary school aged students to pick up a free art kit at one of the drive-thru events online at (DareArts.org/artrageous). Sign up for the drive-thru location that is most convenient for you, and please note that registration is required to participate due to limited art kit availability.

Artrageous will also go virtual this fall, with Dare County Arts Council and Dare County Schools working together to create a free digital art show that showcases and celebrates work by Dare County students of all ages. The Artrageous Digital Art Show will be unveiled in November at (DareArts.org).

Students can submit a photo or video of any original art of their choosing including a piece from an art class at school or from the Artrageous drive-thru art kits online at (DareArts.org/artrageous) to have their work featured in the Artrageous Digital Art Show. All media are welcome, including paintings, jewelry, ceramics, music, literary art, photography, graphic design, film, theatre, and dance. The deadline for submissions is Friday, Nov. 6, 2020.

“I am so appreciative of the effort Dare

County Arts Council is putting toward supporting the arts in our schools,” said First Flight High School art teacher Jenna Saunders. “Teaching remotely during a Pandemic has had its hurdles, and working on a project like Artrageous: Remotely Reimagined is really encouraging. I am excited that the kids get to participate in this event, and even more excited that the community will get to see how talented our Dare County students are with the Artrageous Digital Art Show.”

Artrageous is presented by PNC. “As a longtime supporter of the Artrageous Kids Art Festival, PNC is happy that the essence of the festival can be preserved in a creatively reimagined way,” said Jim Hansen, PNC regional president for Eastern Carolinas. “The arts provide an important outlet for students to express themselves, which is important in any environment but particularly during challenging times.”

Thank you to SAGA Realty & Construction, Sun Realty and the Outer Banks Community Foundation for sponsoring Artrageous. The Don and Catharine Bryan Cultural Series is Dare County Arts Council’s creative partner on this special event. Businesses interested in sponsoring Artrageous should contact Dare County Arts Council’s Executive Director Chris Sawin by e-mail at (DareArtsInfo@gmail.com).

This project was supported by the North Carolina Arts Council, a division of the Department of Natural and Cultural Resources.

Dare County Arts Council is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit arts organization dedicated to encouraging the arts in Dare County through advocacy, enrichment and opportunity.

Craven Arts Council & Gallery in New Bern, NC, Offers Two New Exhibits

Craven Arts Council & Gallery in New Bern, NC, will present two new exhibits including: Mum’s the Word, on view in the Bank of the Arts Main Gallery, Oct. 1 - 31, 2020, and featuring an exhibit of works by Brandy Baxter, on view in the Director’s Gallery, Oct. 1 - 31, 2020. A reception will be held for both exhibits on Oct. 9, from 5-8pm, during the New Bern ArtWalk.

Work by Brandy Baxter

Craven Arts Council & Gallery in cooperation with Swiss Bear is proud to present the annual Mum’s the Word exhibition in the Main Gallery at the Bank of the Arts in downtown New Bern. This exhibition highlights local artists and the annual Mumfest - now MumFeast. Celebrating New Bern’s annual Mumfest, Mum’s the Word gives local artists of all mediums, skill levels, and styles a chance to exhibit and sell work in the downtown area. One work will also be selected to be the 2021 MumFeast logo, featured on tee shirts, bags, banners and other promotional materials.

Work by Lynda Wright

As a part of “MumFeast”, the Craven Arts Council & Gallery will also be hosting a Chalk Art Competition every Friday night during the month of October from 5-7pm. Sign up on the Craven Arts Council website or by calling the Craven Arts Council at 252/638 - 2577. The CAC&G will also host artists at the Bank of the Arts every Saturday doing demonstrations and selling their work from 10am to 4pm.

Craven Arts Council and Gallery is also proud to host an exhibition of work from Brandy Baxter.

Baxter was born and raised in Pamlico County, where she discovered her love for painting and drawing. She pursued her Associates in Fine Arts at Craven Community College and has continued her practice since. She is an active artist within the New Bern Community. Her work has been featured at Greater Good Gallery, The Gallery on Craven Co-op, StarDust Gallery and now the Craven Arts Council & Gallery.

Baxter now works as a tattoo artist at Lucky Street Tattoos where she showcases her talent in yet another form. Baxter speaking on her work said, “My inspirations come from many different sources, mainly music, but also the world around me.”

Cameron Art Museum in Wilmington, NC, Has Reopened with Exhibit Focused on the 19th Amendment and More

The Cameron Art Museum in Wilmington, NC, is presenting She Persists, on view through Mar. 2021, which coincides with the 100th anniversary of the ratification of the 19th Amendment and explores the ways in which female artists in Cameron Art Museum’s permanent collection persist in their own lives, in their communities, in their world, both personally and politically - through art. From Mary Cassatt, whose paintings and prints were featured in exhibitions supporting suffrage, to feminist Audrey Flack, whose work Medea is a conscious redeeming of that tragic figure, to Beverly Buchanan, who fiercely explored identity as an African American woman through sculpture, land art, photography, and painting, this exhibition of 100 works for the 100th anniversary of the 19th Amendment creates a powerful dialogue about what it means to be a woman. You can see a smaller version of this exhibition on CAM’s website at (<https://www.cameronartmuseum.org/index.php?c=current>).

Also on view is The Face of Lincoln featuring a powerful bronze casting from the original work of sculptor Robert Merrell Gage. The casting is based on the 1860 plaster face mask made of Lincoln by Gage. Gage made castings of Lincoln throughout his life and starred in the 1955 Academy Award winning film The Face of Lincoln (20 minutes), also shown in the gallery.

Audrey Flack (American, b. 1931), “Medea”, 2007, Cast iron.

Also on view are stunning works by Wilmington artist Virginia Wright-Frierson in The Lived-In Body: Celebrating Women Over 65. Celebrate, as Wright-Frierson writes, “the lived-in body, our crepey arms that have lifted babies 1,000 times, gardened, cleaned, cooked, and taken care of others; our worn feet and our breasts and

NC Museum of Art in Raleigh, NC, Reopens With New Exhibitions

The North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh, NC, has reopened with two new exhibits including: Good as Gold: Fashioning Senegalese Women, on view in the Museum's East Building, Level B, Meymandi Exhibition Gallery, through Jan. 3, 2021; Leonardo Drew: Making Chaos Legible, on view in the Museum's East Building, Level B, Meymandi Exhibition Gallery, through Jan. 3, 2021; and Christopher Holt: Contemporary Frescoes/Faith and Community, on view in the Museum's East Building, Level B, Gallery 3, through Feb. 7, 2021.

Good as Gold: Fashioning Senegalese Women is the first major exhibition of Senegalese gold jewelry to date that focuses on the history of Senegal's gold, from past to present, and the beauty and complexity of the way Senegalese women use ornament and fashion to present themselves. A key theme of the exhibition is the Senegalese concept of sañse (a Wolof word for dressing up or looking and feeling good). Good as Gold explores how a woman in a city like Dakar might use a piece of gold jewelry to build a carefully tailored, elegant fashion ensemble.

The exhibition also looks at the interconnectedness of local and global expressions and understanding of fashion. In addition to presenting nearly 120 works, the exhibition unveils an haute couture ensemble inspired by the strength and savoir faire of Senegalese women, designed by Oumou Sy—Senegal's "Queen of Couture" and its most celebrated fashion designer.

Good as Gold: Fashioning Senegalese Women was organized by Kevin D. Dumouchelle of the National Museum of African Art, Smithsonian Institution. It is curated by Amanda Maples of the North Carolina Museum of Art. The exhibition is made possible, in part, by the North Carolina Department of Natural and Cultural Resources; the North Carolina Museum of Art Foundation, Inc.; and the William R. Kenan Jr. Endowment for Educational Exhibitions. Research for this exhibition was made possible by Ann and Jim Goodnight/The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation Fund for Curatorial and Conservation Research and Travel.

Using a variety of materials - wood, cotton, canvas, paper, steel, aluminum, sand - Leonardo Drew makes dynamic sculptures that explode and expand into their spaces. These gravity-defying sculptures convey a feeling of barely contained or restrained energy and chaos. "I think of it as making chaos legible," he says.

City in the Grass, Drew's first major outdoor sculpture, is both an abstracted cityscape and a colorful flying carpet. Over 100 feet long and 30 feet wide, the work is composed of aluminum panels covered in a mosaic pattern of colored sand, mimicking a Persian carpet. Drew wants his visitors to feel like Gulliver discovering Lilliput as they wander through his bird's-eye view of a city. "In the end," he says, "it can be your flying carpet transporting you to wherever you need to be." Drew sees public art as a shared experience, and for him City in the Grass is not complete until the public appears and interacts with the work, making it whole.

This project at the NCMA is generously supported by the Hartfield Foundation and Libby and Lee Buck. Leonardo Drew: City in the Grass was commissioned by Madison Square Park Conservancy, New York, and was first exhibited in Madison Square Park.

Leonardo Drew: Making Chaos Legible is made possible, in part, by the generous support of the Hartfield Foundation and Libby and Lee Buck, and by the North Carolina Department of Natural and Cultural Resources; the North Carolina Museum of Art Foundation, Inc.; and the William R. Mellon Foundation Fund for Curatorial and Conservation Research and Travel.

Finally, we have the exhibit, Christopher Holt: Contemporary Frescoes/Faith and Community. "Affirming sacred worth, restoring human dignity, and sabotaging the shame of poverty, the Haywood Street fresco announces, in plaster and pigment, that you matter," said The Rev. Brian Combs of the Haywood Street congregation.

This exhibition features monumental drawings, intimate portraits, and studies by artist Christopher Holt (b. 1977, Asheville, NC; lives Weaverville, NC) for the Haywood Street Beatitudes fresco completed in September 2019. The fresco is the result of a two-year community project led by Holt with the Rev. Brian Combs, founder of the Haywood Street congregation in Asheville.

The purpose of the Haywood Street fresco is to honor everyday people and emphasize the church's ministry, which focuses on helping members of the community who live in poverty and often on the margins of society. The congregation is encouraged to live by the Beatitudes (the blessings recounted by Jesus in the Sermon on the Mount), which is also the subject of the fresco. In the Haywood Street Beatitudes, Holt gracefully incorporates powerful portraits of the local community and members of the congregation in his

Watercolor Society of North Carolina Offers Virtual Exhibition for Its Annual Juried Exhibition

The Annual Watercolor Society of North Carolina (WSNC) Juried Exhibition will be virtual this year at (ncwatercolor.org) from Oct. 4 through Nov. 21, 2020. The Juror this year is Fort Worth, TX-based artist Soon Warren. Out of 257 entries submitted by 143 watercolor artists across the state, 70 have been chosen for exhibit.

Peggy Saporito, WSNC president, is saddened and disappointed that the Annual Juried Exhibition has been canceled at the Page-Walker Art & History Center in Cary, NC.

"There is nothing like seeing an abundance of portraits, still life and landscapes during this annual exhibition. And most importantly it is our one chance each year to share with fellow artists from the organization the enthusiasm and excitement, and to hear the comments expressed about the amazing paintings. We invite everyone to join with our members to view this stunning exhibition on our website (ncwatercolor.org), on the afternoon of Oct. 4, 2020."

Gallery C in Raleigh, NC, Offers Work by Sandra Mae Jensen

Gallery C in Raleigh, NC, will present New Works by Sandra Mae Jensen on Oct. 2, 2020. A reception will be held on Oct. 2, from 1-5pm.

Sandra Mae Jensen is a fine art photographer based in Raleigh, NC. Jensen's work features the visual impact of landscapes across the United States. During photographic studies in the Washington, DC, area through the Corcoran College of Art and Design, Jensen became inspired by the works of Imogen Cunningham, and produced mainly macro images representing the simplicity of diverse flora. With the recent onset of digital photography, Sandra incorporates color as an essential component of the composition and mood of her images.

Before relocating to North Carolina in 2019, Jensen exhibited her work in the Washington, DC, area and the Lombardi Cancer Center Gallery as well the Bethesda

Some Exhibits That Are Still On View

Our policy at Carolina Arts is to present a press release about an exhibit only once and then go on, but many major exhibits are on view for months. This is our effort to remind you of some of them.

Work by Lia Cook

The Center for Craft in Asheville, NC, is presenting the first exhibition from its 2020 Curatorial Fellows program, The Computer Pays its Debt, which explores the connection between technology and textiles, on view through Oct. 9, 2020. This exhibition illuminates the direct connection between computing technology and weaving, and is now on view at the Center for Craft following a three-month closure due to the coronavirus pandemic. Viewable by pre-registration through Oct. 9, 2020, the show positions women who worked with technology and textiles at the heart of the information age. Kayleigh Perkov, 2020 Curatorial Fellow, drew the exhibition's title and theme from a 1966 New York Times interview with IBM computer scientist and weaver Janice Lourie, creator of the Textile Graphics software, in which she argues that it was "about time that [computing's] debt to the weaving trade was paid back." For further info visit (www.centerforcraft.org).

Work by Dontré Major

goner, on view through Oct. 24, 2020. Frontyard, Backyard, Street, a group exhibition offering reflections on urban Charleston, invites the neighborhood to share five artist's sense of place in their city landscapes. The artists use a variety of media to depict their interpretation of a watermark in time. The surrounding street blocks team with energy and layers of stories as the hustle of the day transpires. Works use this visual language as theme, celebrating the vibrancy, while also considering the inevitable change of our city landscape. The artists consider: What is the character of Charleston? What is it that is precious and what history is necessary to protect and tell? For further information call the Center at 843/722-0697 or visit (www.reduxstudios.org).

Blowing Rock Art & History Museum in Blowing Rock, NC, is presenting the exhibit, Branching Out: Works in Wood from North Carolina, on view in the Museum's Fort Gallery, through Oct. 24, 2020. The exhibition features a diverse selection of work, ranging from wooden furniture to sculpture, as well as a variety of types of wood and techniques used to create these contemporary works. "This exhibition highlights some extraordinary talent from across the state," says BRAHM's Curator, Dianna Cameron. Exhibiting artists come from across the state of North Carolina and include Roger Atkins, Derrick Beasley, Paul & Kim Fuelling, Mark Gardner, Aspen Golann, Craig Kassan, Jim Oleson, Brent Skidmore, Bob Trotman, Anthony Ulinski, Joël Urruty, Zak Weinberg, and Erik Wolken. The exhibition was installed in the museum's galleries in early March, and since BRAHM has been closed, works and artists from the exhibition have been featured online with videos and behind-the-scenes looks through BRAHM at Home. an expansive exhibition featuring more than 200 works by a wide array of artists including LeRoy Neiman, Kara Walker, Fab 5 Freddy, Kiki Smith, Sarah Sze and Buckminster Fuller. DRAWN brings together the diverse works of over 60 artists from around the world in an exhibition that provides a rare, revealing look into the creative process and artists' unique relationship with the art of drawing. The exhibition was curated by project founder Tomas Vu and SECCA Curator Wendy

Earle with the assistance of Brian Novatny. The exhibition will remain on view through Feb. 15, 2021, in SECCA's Main and Potter Galleries. DRAWN expands the very idea of drawing. What began with the beautiful simplicity of two-dimensional works has now evolved to include animation, video projection, sculpture, collage, and cut-paper. Aiken

Work by Cheryl Elmo

Aiken Center for the Arts, 122 Laurens St., SW, Aiken. Main Gallery, Through Oct. 23 - "Savannah River Site's 70th Anniversary Exhibition". The Aiken Center for the Arts is proud to host an extraordinary exhibit showcasing past and present scenes from SRS as part of its 70th year celebration. The impact of SRS on our community over the last 70 years can't be overstated. Prior to President Truman's announcement of the site's selection as part of a national defense complex, Aiken was best known as an agricultural community and a favorite retreat of wealthy 19th century equestrians. While they had stately homes known as the Winter Colony, their cultural impact was somewhat limited to their inner circle. With the advent of SRS, Aiken soon saw significant changes brought by these atomic age homesteaders from all over the United States. With families in tow, these engineers, scientists, construction workers and administrative staff brought diversity to our area and showed a keen interest in being engaged in our community. Many of us say Aiken is not your average small southern city. This is due, in large part, to SRS. Site personnel brought with them a desire to recreate the very best of the arts and education they knew in their former communities. They sought ways to bring the arts to us through active volunteerism and their personal funds. All of the companies that have operated at SRS over the last 70 years have been very generous to the arts. Oct. 28 - Nov. 30 - "Go Figure", featuring works by Cheryl Elmo. A reception will be held on Oct. 29, from 6-8pm. Her artwork captures the human experience through the simplicity of every day moments. The exhibit is a collection of Cheryl's artwork with the central theme of human connection, giving each of us a glimpse into another person's perspective. Aiken Artist Guild Gallery, Through Oct. 23 - Featuring works by Sally Evans. Evans has been in the Aiken area for over 40 years where she raised her family. She enjoys the outdoors, swimming, and kayaking. She has done various forms of art all her life. After retiring in 2018 she has worked mostly in acrylics and enjoys painting abstracts. The "Experiential Process" is her main intent. A contemporary artist she enjoys is German Isabelle Zacher-Finet. Experimentation and new results produce her greatest satisfactions. Brooks Gallery, Through Oct. 23 - "The Chicks that Click". Founded in January 2013, the Chicks that Click Photography Club is a female photography group that has grown from six charter members to more than eighty members from across the CSRA with an average participation of forty in club sponsored workshops and special events. The club meets monthly and has five print competitions each year. Special events and photo shoots are held throughout the year. The club is also very active in the community with several community service projects each year. With the initial production of the Volkswagen Beetle beginning in the 30's and continuing in one form or the other, until July 2019, most of us have grown up with the Volkswagen Beetle. Almost everyone has either owned a VW beetle or had a friend with a VW and a mention of the Beetle often brings back fond memories. Inspired by the Joel Grimes Harley Davidson Project and the news that Volkswagen was stopping production of the iconic VW beetle, the Chicks that Click undertook a photographic journey to capture some of the ways that the VW beetle has been part of our lives. Our objective was to try and capture some of the happy memories these VWs evoke. Hours: Tue.-Fri., 9:30am-5:30pm. Contact: 803/641-9094 or at (www.aikencentreofthearts.org).

Charleston

Avery Research Center for African History and Culture, at the College of Charleston, 125 Bull St., Charleston. Ongoing - Exhibits on view include: "Since 1920: Zeta Phi Beta Centennial". The Gamma Zeta chapter of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority Incorporated presents a centennial exhibit filled with the rich history of the sorority in print and paraphernalia. Visitors can see in-depth the programming, philanthropy and reach of Zeta Phi Beta during their 100 years. "The Water Keeps Rising" Hip-hop artist and activist Benny Starr has created an interactive exhibit based on data from the Avery's State of Racial Disparities Report in Charleston County. This exhibit will create an immersive experience for visitors. In the areas of civic engagement, racial disparities, the environment and performance art/music, this exhibit will aim to connect the dots from historical data and archival information up to the present conditions of the Lowcountry. "Resilient". Local artist Chris "Kolpeace" Johnson will highlight the power of being resilient with this work that recognizes African Americans who have shown strength through adversity including the late local activist Muhiyidin D'baha and Cyntoia Brown, who faced life in prison after being convicted of homicide as a juvenile. These pieces are tributes to memorialize the impactful strength of an unsung hero in the community, engaging the soul and spirit. "The African Origins of Mathematics". Charleston resident and artist Robert "King David" Ross highlights the direct impact Africa has had on modern mathematics in this exhibit. Showcasing the first math instrument, the Ishango bone, the exhibit allows visitors to see the influence Africa has had on every aspect of life. Admission: Free. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-5pm, with guided tours at 10:30am, 11:30am, 1:30pm, 2:30pm, and 3:30pm. Contact: 843/805-5507 or visit (www.cofc.edu/avery).

Wings from a Triptych Depicting the "Adoration of the Magi", ca. 1515-1540? Left: "The Black Magus and His Retinue" By a Follower of Hieronymus Bosch (Flemish, c. 1450-1516); 74 x 32 1/2 inches each framed; Courtesy of a private collection.

Gibbes Museum of Art, 135 Meeting Street, Charleston. Galleries Two & Three, Extended Through Oct. 4 - "Charleston Collects: British Sporting Art from the Penkhus Collection". The Charleston Collects series at the Gibbes aims to highlight significant fine art collections formed by Lowcountry residents. This exhibition features exceptional British sporting art paintings from the private collection of Charleston's Dr. Stephen and Mrs. Martha Penkhus. The Penkhus's collecting journey began in 1986 when they purchased a portrait of the famed nineteenth-century English racing horse Cothelstone, by John Frederick Herring, Sr. (British, 1795-1865). Their passion for British sporting art and culture blossomed taking them on many unexpected adventures that have led them to build a first-rate collection of animal and sporting paintings. Oct. 9 - June 27, 2021 - "Charleston Collects: Devotion and Fantasy, Witchcraft and the World's End". This selection of paintings and prints from a major, private, Charleston collection of Northern Renaissance art introduces a world of intensely, and sometimes disturbingly, vivid imagery that speaks to uncertainties of the period and remains relevant today. This exhibition is a selection of art curated by Lawrence Goedde, Ph.D., professor of art history at the University of Virginia. The collection, which is comprised of objects created in the Low Countries and Germany between 1440 and 1590, showcases a world of contradictions and unease—whether the subject is a troubled Virgin Mary contemplating her young son, or a menacing group of malevolent figures inspired by Hieronymus Bosch, or Albrecht Dürer's famous scenes from Revelations. In the turbulent era of the Renaissance and beginning of the Reformation in Northern Europe, patrons found their hopes, desires and anxieties mirrored in these artistic images, further inspiring pious beliefs or depicting fantastic visions of good and evil. Gallery 8, Through Jan. 10, 2021 - "Building a Legacy: The Vibrant Vision Collection of Jonathan Green and Richard Weedman". Over the past forty years, acclaimed artist Jonathan Green and his partner and studio director, Richard Weedman, have amassed an astonishing collection of nearly 1,300 paintings, sculpture, and works on paper. The exhibition presents a selection of forty-nine works of art from this significant private collection, offering a rare glimpse at the couple's aesthetic interests and the artistic inspiration behind Green's own artwork. Gallery 9, Through Jan. 10, 2021 - "A Return to the Grand Tour: Micromosaic Jewels from the Collection of Elizabeth Locke". Micromosaics arrived at their height of pictorial perfection from the late 18th to the mid 19th centuries. These exquisitely crafted plaques, which contain up to 1,400 delicately shaded tiles of glass per square inch, were sold to travelers on their Grand Tour through Italy. Made into jewelry, boxes, and paper weights and sold as easily carried mementoes, micromosaics passed out of fashion toward the end of the 19th century and are now a lost art. This exhibition features 92 brilliant examples from the private collection of Elizabeth Locke. Galleries 1, 4, and 5, Permanent Exhibition - "18th and 19th Century American Paintings and Sculpture". American paintings, from colonial portraits to Civil War-era landscapes, occupy the Gibbes Main Gallery. Portraits of leading political, social, and military figures include works by Jeremiah Theus, Henry Benbridge, Benjamin West, Gilbert Stuart, Thomas Sully and Samuel F.B. Morse. The gallery also features landscape and genre scenes by Angelica Kaufmann, Louis Mignot, Eastman Johnson, Conrad Wise Chapman, and William Aiken Walker. The paintings collection is complemented by examples of neoclassical sculpture on view in the Campbell Rotunda, and decorative art objects on loan from the Rivers Collection. Gallery 5, Permanent Exhibition - "Miniature Portraits". The first American miniature portraits were painted in Charleston, and today the Gibbes is home to one of the most prestigious portrait miniature collections in the United States. Containing more than six hundred objects, the collection spans nearly two hundred years and represents the work of over a hundred artists. Small enough to fit in the palm of the hand, these tiny portraits were treasured remembrances of loved ones in the age before photography. Presented in state-of-the-art display cases, and in viewable storage drawers featured miniatures include works by Mary Roberts, Jeremiah Theus, Henry Benbridge, Charles Wilson Peale, Pierre Henri, Edward Greene Malbone, George Engleheart, and Charles Fraser. Gallery 6, Permanent Exhibition - "20th Century American Regionalism and the Charleston Renaissance". At the turn of the twentieth century, American artists looked to their European counterparts and beyond as they developed identifiably American artistic movements. Two particularly strong influences during this time period were French Impressionism and Japanese woodblock prints. Another prevailing theme during this period was the growing interest in American subject matter. American regionalism and social realism played important roles in the development of art in Charleston, which flourished as a destination for artists, particularly during the years of 1915 to 1945 a period now known as the Charleston Renaissance. Gallery 7, Permanent Exhibition - "Modern and Contemporary". Modern and contemporary art in America encompasses a wide range of styles, subject matter, and media. As a whole, the diversity of modern and contemporary art reflects the rich and varied heritage of our nation and the lowcountry region. Works in this gallery were created over the past forty years by artists who are native to the area, who have worked here, or who have created objects that reflect the complex story of the region. The works are grouped to reflect several themes including the southern landscape, the human figure, abstraction, and the legacy of slavery in America. Museum Shop - Now offering the inventory of the Tradd Street Press, reproductions of works by Elizabeth O'Neill Verner among other exhibit related art objects. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-5pm & Sun., 1-5pm. Admission: Yes. Contact: 843/722-2706 or at (www.gibbesmuseum.org).

Halsey Institute of Contemporary Art, The Marion and Wayland H. Cato Jr. Center for the Arts, College of Charleston School of the Arts, 161 Calhoun St., Charleston. Through Dec. 12 - "Displacements: Revisitations of Home". This virtual/physical exhibition features ten artists whose works deal with issues of displacement from their ancestral homeland in various capacities. Each artist was asked to submit works that speak most directly to their reminiscences of home. Artists were paired with writers who have offered their own reflections on the work and its relationship to the concepts of home and displacement. When taken together, this collection of work provides an opportunity to consider the traits and aspects that are both similar and jarringly disparate—from Asia to Africa, to Europe and the Middle East. Artists and their respondents include: Shimon Attie & Dr. Dale Rosengarten; Riccarda de Eccher & Bryan Granger; Lonnie Holley & Dr. Ted Rosengarten; Yaakov Israel & Dr. Mark Long; Hung Liu & Katie Hirsch; Jiha Moon & Lilly Wei; Dr. Fahamu Pecou & Ruth Rambo; Hamid Rahmanian & Mark Sloan; Tanja Sotić & Dr. Marian Mazzone; and Renée Stout & Dr. Ade Ofunniyin. You can view the exhibit at (halsey.cofc.edu). COVID-19 Hours: Thur. & Fri., 11am-4pm and by appt. Mon.-Wed. Contact: Mark Sloan at 843/953-4422 or at (<http://halsey.cofc.edu/exhibitions/>).

Work by Gret Mackintosh

Redux Contemporary Art Center, featuring Redux Studios, 1056 King Street, Charleston. Main Gallery, Through Oct. 24 - "Frontyard, Backyard, Street," featuring works by Christian Birk, Susan Gregory, Dontré Major, Hirona Matsuda, & Alex Waggoner. Redux's group exhibitions present the public with an opportunity to better understand, and engage with, the work of a collaborative unit of artists who strive to produce a cohesive, shared statement. This group exhibition offers reflections on urban Charleston, invites the neighborhood to share five artist's sense of place in their city landscapes. The artists use a variety of media to depict their interpretation of a watermark in time. Gallery 1056, Through Oct. 24 - "CONNECTIONS," featuring work by Gret Mackintosh, curated by Mia Loia. connection, noun, 1. a relationship in which a person, thing, or idea is linked or associated with something else. In this body of work, Mackintosh explores connections within lowcountry landscapes. Physical connections between places, such as waterways, roads, bridges, and paths, and emotional connections to places centered around certain events or special places frequented over the past 15 years living in Charleston. Ongoing - In May, 2017, Redux relocated to 1056 King Street with 38 studios, three galleries, a larger print shop, classroom, dark room, and photo studio. Hours: Mon., 11am-4pm, Wed., 11am-4pm & Fri., 11am-3pm. Contact: 843/722-0697 or at (www.reduxstudios.org).

The Charleston Museum, 360 Meeting Street, Charleston. Founded in 1773, is America's first museum. Lowcountry Image Gallery, Through Nov. 29 - "From Etchings to Pastels: A New Artistic Interpretation of the Charleston Renaissance". The Charleston Renaissance Movement was a cultural renewal that brought a diverse group of people together to improve and preserve the city through artistic expression. Artists, musicians, architects, writers and photographers participated in organizations such as the Charleston Etchers' Club, the Jenkins Orphanage Band and the Poetry Society of South Carolina, to communicate Charleston's past through art. Ongoing - "Becoming Americans: Charleston in the Revolutionary War". Charleston played a critical role in the Revolutionary War. South Carolina was the wealthiest of the thirteen rebellious colonies and Charleston was its key port to maintain its trade with the outside world. The British would make three attempts against the city during the Revolutionary War. Their defeat at the Battle of Sullivan's Island on June 28, 1776 was a crucial patriot victory, which convinced many that independence could be achieved. The Siege of Charleston, meanwhile, was the longest siege of the Revolutionary War and the largest battle in South Carolina. These events and others are chronicled in the new exhibit, which will also feature artifacts and period images that have not been exhibited at the Museum before. Ongoing - Featuring the most extensive collection of South Carolina cultural and scientific collections in the nation, it also owns two National Historic Landmark houses, the Heyward-Washington House (1772) and the Joseph Manigault House (1803), as well as the Dill Sanctuary, a 580-acre wildlife preserve. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9am-5pm & through the Summer months, Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 843/722-2996 or at (www.charleston-museum.org).

Columbia Area

Columbia Museum of Art, Main & Hampton Streets, Columbia. Oct. 17 - Jan. 10, 2021 - "Visions from India: 21st-Century Art from the Pizzuti Collection". The exhibition presents a breathtaking sweep of 21st-century painting, sculpture, and multimedia works from India and its diaspora. It features some of the most sought-after international artists alongside younger rising stars, including Sudarshan Shetty, Bharti Kher, and Jitish Kallat. The exhibition showcases a remixing of traditional crafts with radical new applications, interactive sculpture and stunning paintings. Based on private collectors Ron and Ann Pizzuti's original 2017 presentation in Columbus, Ohio, this will be the only other opportunity to see Visions from India in the United States. On loan from the Pizzuti Collection. Through Jan. 3, 2021 - "The Mind of a Renaissance Man: A Celebration of Dr. Randy Mack," focuses on the life and generosity of Charles Randall Mack. A well-respected and well-loved professor at the University of South Carolina's art department for over 30 years, Dr. Mack was also a treasured friend to the CMA. His connection with the museum began in 1970, and over the course of three decades he not only shared his expertise, including writing many of the essays in the CMA's Renaissance art catalogue, but he and his family also donated over 135 art works to the collection, ranging from Renaissance pieces to contemporary works on paper and photography to Bunzlauer ceramics. Through Jan. 1, 2025 - "The Collection". Come see the newly organized collection. We've gathered ancient and modern works of art, together in one space, that explore our shared archetypes, myths, and ideals. Galleries 5 & 6, Ongoing - "Modern & Contemporary Art from the Collection". Celebrating some of the CMA's greatest hits, this exhibition features over 30 paintings, drawings, photographs and sculptures from the Museum's collection that have not been on view recently. It offers the visitor experiences both serious and sensual and is designed to both entertain and enlighten. Notable works included are by Jasper Johns, Howard Thomas, Sally Mann and Edward Ruscha, whose famous image of the Hollywood Hills (on view) has become a staple of the art world. Ray Taylor Fair Gallery, Ongoing - Featuring a new and permanent installation of its ancient art collection. The installation includes approximately 50 objects that introduce the major ancient civilizations from the Mediterranean and Near East. Examples of the earliest form of writing from 12th century B.C. Mesopotamia, are shown next to Egyptian scarabs and Greek painted vessels. The world of the ancient Romans is represented by 2nd century glass and bronze items and portrait sculpture. Many of these works have not been seen since the Museum moved to its location on Main Street in 1998. The collection has grown over the last several years with the donation of 12 fine Roman sculptures in 2002 from Pennsylvania collector Dr. Robert Y. Turner. Admission: Yes, but there is no admission charge on Sun. Hours: Tue.-Sun., from 10am-5pm. Contact: 803/799-2810 or at (www.columbiamuseum.org).

Work by Will Penny

University Place Gallery, Francis Marion University, 142 North Dargan Street, Florence. Through Oct. 23 - "Will Penny: Neutral Zone". Penny was raised in Southern Ontario and currently resides in Savannah, GA. He has received a diploma in Fine Art from Fanshawe College in London, Ontario and a BFA and MFA in Painting from The Savannah College of Art and Design. Penny's artworks dissolve traditional boundaries of art and design. His art explores tensions between the tangible space a painting inhabits, the impact of digital technology on fabricated forms and illusionistic environments. By creating systems of interactivity with digital technologies, his art confronts the way information is generated, transmitted and received. He has exhibited in The United States and Canada. Hours: Tue.-Thur., 11am-6pm; Fri., 11am-7pm; & Sat., 10am-2pm. Contact: Colleen Critcher at 843/661-4637, 843/661-4638 or at (<https://www.fmarion.edu/universityplace/>).

munity Gallery, Through Oct. 28 - "Collision of Art & Fabric," by Selene Paschoal, who is a fabric artist born in Ilhéus, Brazil who derives inspiration for her fabric pieces from her Brazilian heritage and culture. Ongoing - Home to 16 studio artists. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm & Sat., 11am-3pm. Contact: call 864/735-3948 or at (www.artcenter-greenville.org).

Greenville County Museum of Art, 420 College Street, Greenville. Closed for renovations. Ongoing - "The Real Thing". Selected from the GCMA permanent collection, The Real Thing reflects the authenticity of experience that informed the creation of powerful works by African-American artists. The exhibition title is derived from the 1968 song Ain't Nothing Like the Real Thing, written by Nickolas Ashford and Valerie Simpson and originally performed by Marvin Gaye and Tammi Terrell. Ongoing - "Andrew Wyeth: Eight Decades". Andrew Wyeth (1917 - 2009), regarded as one of the most important American artists of the 20th century, launched his career in 1937 with a sold-out exhibition of his watercolors in New York. On the occasion of the young artist's remarkable debut, his father and mentor, noted illustrator N.C. Wyeth wrote him a congratulatory letter prophesying, "You are headed in the direction that should finally reach the pinnacle in American art." Ongoing - "Impressionism and the South 2019". On April 15, 1874, in an act of defiance against the official French government-sanctioned Salon exhibitions, thirty self-proclaimed Independent artists opened an exhibition at photographer Nadar's vacated Paris studio. Shortly after, a satirical review that mocked Claude Monet's Impression, Sunrise gave the movement its name. Impressionism was the first bombshell launched against academic tradition. The movement defined light as color, becoming the first modern language of paint. Ongoing - "Art and Artists of South Carolina: David Drake, Jasper Johns, William H. Johnson, and Grainger McKoy". The contributions of South Carolina artists to our culture are as varied and rich as the stories of the artists themselves. The GCMA is proud to dedicate an entire gallery to the accomplishments of four of the nation's greatest artists, each of whom has called South Carolina home. Ongoing - "How? Who? Why?". According to Rod Stewart, every picture tells a story. Whether its subject is a familiar Old Testament morality tale or an apocalyptic warning of impending nuclear doom, the physical process of making a picture (or a print, painting, or sculpture) sometimes assumes an equal role in the story's telling. If nothing else, the manipulation of a medium can be the message. Admission: Free. Hours: Wed.-Sat., 10am-6pm and Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 864/271-7570 or at (www.gcma.org).

Visual Arts Institute, on the Greer Campus of Greenville Technical College about 4 miles north of Greer on Highway 290, Locust Hill Road, Taylors. Benson Campus Galleries, Oct. 5 - 30 - "2020, So Far". This year has been and continues to slam us with climate and health disasters to exacerbate our political, racial, and economic divides. The underpinnings of our everyday lives sway under the weight of doubt as we question the veracity of governmental and scientific authorities, rethink cultural norms, and doubt personal and collective beliefs. Our movements, communications and proximity to coworkers, friends, family, our nation, the world have ceased or have been severely restricted. Quick definitive answers would be so welcome. In the spirit of

Lander University Fine Art Gallery, Cultural Center Building, 320 Stanley Ave., Greenwood. Oct. 13 - Nov. 11 - "Perfectly Familiar / Unrecognizably Strange," featuring works by Enid Williams and Paul Yanko. The exhibition presents recent works on canvas, panel, and paper completed between 2017 and 2020. The two-part title references the dual aspects of formalism that both artists engage with. These works employ a vocabulary of color and shape that is at once familiar, reinforcing associations while simultaneously prompting the unexpected through unlikely combinations and layering. Ongoing - The Lander University Fine Art Gallery features a variety of exhibits throughout the year. The gallery features national and regional artist, as well as student and faculty work showcasing painting, sculpture, ceramics, graphic design, and photography. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-4pm. Work by Flavia Lovatelli

Art League of Hilton Head Gallery, at the Arts Center of Coastal Carolina, 14 Shelter Cove Lane, Hilton Head Island. Oct. 6 - 31 - "CraftHiltonHead2020," Art League's 7th National Juried Fine Art Craft Exhibition, will showcase 2- and 3-dimensional fine art craft that encompass exemplary creativity, experimentation and imagination. 82 artists from 23 states will be represented, with cash awards totaling over $3,000. "This exhibit only occurs once every two years. You won't want to miss it," says Kristen McIntosh, Art League General Manager. "This is a juried show, so the quality of the pieces is exceptional. We are very fortunate to be able to showcase such talent from all over the country right here on Hilton Head." The judging will be done by Jennifer McEwen, Director of Cultural Affairs for the Town of Hilton Head. A virtual awards reception will be held on Oct. 7, from 5-6pm via Facebook Live. Ongoing - Featuring works by members of the Art League of Hilton Head. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 10am-4pm. Contact: 843/681-5060 or at (www.artleaguehi.org).

Hilton Head Regional Healthcare Gallery, Coastal Discovery Museum, at Honey Horn, off Highway 278, across from Gumtree Road, Hilton Head Island. Through Dec. 7 - The Coastal Discovery Museum and the Santa Elena Foundation have joined together to tell the story of America's first century. The Coastal Discovery Museum will host this new 1,000 square foot traveling exhibit through Dec. 7. In the 16th century, Spain claimed the New World, today known as North America, and named it La Florida. The Spanish founded Santa Elena on Parris Island in 1566 and it became the first capital of La Florida and the first successful European settlement on the Southeast coast. This city flourished for twenty years and was then abandoned and lost to history. Slowly, over the past 150 years archaeologists have discovered parts of this settlement and have pieced together its fascinating story. Ongoing - This beautiful 69-acre site will serve as the Museum's base for programs highlighting the cultural heritage and natural history of the Lowcountry. And, it will provide a signature venue for community events for people of all ages. The opening includes the renovation of a 6,000 sq. foot former hunting retreat, renamed the "Discovery House," containing the Museum's new interactive exhibits, temporary gallery space and community meeting rooms. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9am-4:30pm & Sun., 11am-3pm. Contact: 843-689-6767 ext. 224 or at (www.coastaldiscovery.org).

of women who have challenged societal perceptions and worked to improve conditions for all. According to Hewitt, "They are intended to familiarize and instruct, lest we forget the women that forged a path to give us voice today." Each medal, all of which are meant to be worn as a brooch or hung, is made of etched brass, copper, sterling silver and an enameled portrait; and some include faceted stones. The designs reflect aspects pertaining to the individuals portrayed. Born to a military family, Mana Hewitt has lived in Arizona, England, Florida, Illinois and South Carolina. Her mother was an art teacher; so from childhood, Hewitt was drawn to art. She received her BA and MFA from the University of South Carolina, where she is currently a Senior Instructor and the Director of Undergraduate Studies in the School of Visual Art and Design. Hewitt's award-winning art has taken many forms over the years, including ceramics, painting and metal. Through Dec. 20 - "Sara Farrington: Model Home". Professional artist and educator Sara Farrington is a Myrtle-Beach native now living and working in the Raleigh area in North Carolina. She attained a MFA in Studio Art from the University of North Carolina (Chapel Hill, NC) in 2018 and MAT in Art Education from Coastal Carolina University (Conway, SC) in 2010. Her series, Model Home, is a modular, site-responsive sculptural installation of staged domestic spaces. Her to-scale installation components, which include furniture, light switches, electrical outlets, rugs, picture frames and even baseboards, are created using heavyweight drawing paper. As Farrington's renditions of Model Home are created in response to the space that contains them, it will be fun to see what new pieces she creates for our historic-beach-villa-turned-art-museum venue. Through Dec. 20 - "Maura Kenny: Where The Rivers Flow". Where the Rivers Flow is an exhibition of 35 watermedia paintings depicting the views, flora, fauna, people and architecture found along the great Pee Dee and Waccamaw Rivers, including their bays, creeks, inlets and islands. From sweeping views of the inlet at low tide as pickers gather oysters and dramatic, stormy cloudscape over rippled, glass-like water to quiet, wildlife impressions of alligators resting in the marsh and majestic architectural renderings of historic buildings that tell stories of our coast's development and past-times, Kenny presents us with a window into everything living and breathing within reach of our rivers. Professional artist and retired visual-arts professor Maura H. Kenny began her teaching career 40 years ago in a rural Connecticut elementary school. Graduate school brought her south to the University of North Carolina Greensboro, where Kenny received her MFA in painting. She taught a variety of painting and drawing courses at Coastal Carolina University (Conway, SC) for 34 years. Kenny lives and maintains a studio in Pawleys Island, SC; and if she's not in there painting, you can bet she's out exploring our area waterways with her river-guide husband, Paul. Through Dec. 20 - "Jim Creal: The South Carolina Coastal Lithograph Project". With The South Carolina Coastal Lithograph Project, Creal is "devoted to capturing the mood, spirit and rich diversity of South Carolina's coastal habitats and some of their extraordinary indigenous creatures." By exposing viewers to the wondrous beauty of the South Carolina coast's rich and diverse habitats in a way that is visually engaging, the artist hopes to make aware the necessity of preserving the area's natural resources, biodiversity and incredible landscapes for generations to come. "What is here today may not be there for future generations to enjoy," remarks Creal. Lithographer Jim Creal was born and raised in Spartanburg, South Carolina. His study of philosophy from Washington and Lee University (1975) started Creal on a quest to be a well-rounded man. Between 1975 and 1992, he learned divergent skills and earned additional degrees in geology (1981) and fine arts (1992) from the University of Montana. Creal has worked on a textile production line in South Carolina, as a mate on a dive boat in the Florida Keys, as a structural welder in Nebraska and as a minerals exploration geologist in Ireland, Scotland and Alaska. Since 1992, Creal dedicated himself to working as a professional artist using traditional fine art print processes, namely lithography. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-4pm & Sun., 1-4pm. Contact: 843/238-2510 or at (www.myrtlebeach-artmuseum.org).

lished in 2019, the exquisite ultra-modern facility displays 1000 images of the Civil Rights Movement, but from the perspective of The Epochal South Carolina Events That Changed America. The massive archives comprise the largest collection of images of this type among all museums in the United States; including the Atlanta based High Museum which archives 300 images. The images were created by the founder, Cecil Williams, who began photography at age 9 and covered almost all historically significant events in South Carolina; from 1950 Briggs v. Elliot in Summerton, thru the 1969 Charleston Hospital Workers' Strike...and Beyond. From 1955 through 1969, Williams was a freelance journalist for "JET" magazine. His images have appeared in thousands of magazines, newspapers, historical publications, and motion picture productions. The museum design itself is part of the founders' DNA because; upon graduating from high school, Williams wanted to attend Clemson University to study architecture but denied because of his race. He then purchased a drafting board and through the years, designed three residences; including one featured in "EBONY", and the museum's design which has evolved into a living history facility. Spartanburg Throughout downtown Spartanburg's Cultural District, Ongoing - The Creative Crosswalk Project is a public art initiative in which local artists and designers design and paint a series of crosswalk murals, transforming the crosswalks into works of art, on Main Street in Spartanburg, SC. The downtown cultural district area is often bustling with events and pedestrians, and the pedestrians rely heavily on a multitude of crosswalks to safely traverse the downtown Spartanburg area. The problem is that crosswalks are incredibly easy to overlook, they are rarely visually appealing, and they can even be quite dangerous. In an effort to remedy these issues, Chapman Cultural Center, the City of Spartanburg, and the Spartanburg Area Chamber of Commerce came together to organize the Creative Crosswalk Project. For more info visit (<https://www.chapmanculturalcenter.org/pages/blog/detail/article/c/a/1555/>).

Work by Kathryn Freeman

Dog & Horse Fine Art & Portraiture, 102 Church St. Charleston. Through Nov. 7 - "Animal Dreams," featuring Kathryn Freeman's fourth fall exhibition. The exhibition has magically become virtual at (<https://artspaces.kunstmatrix.com/en/exhibition/2021456/kathryn-freeman-animal-dreams>). While Freeman's magical realism paintings have always been sanctuaries for humans, they are now sanctuaries for the animals in this new series. Her beloved animals are enjoying bedtime stories, dancing to a cello and entertaining their humans while they all stay at home. Viewers love the peace and calmness created by her paintings, and with our crazy year, 2020, these themes are even more in need! Ongoing - Did you know that many of the 30+ artists we represent paint people as well as animals? Portraits make a wonderful and unique gift and are a great way to commemorate a life event or honor a beloved pet. Visit the gallery in person or online and see a variety of styles and mediums. Work by Patton Blackwell

City Art, 1224 Lincoln Street, Columbia. Extended Through Dec. 31 - "Four Decades of Patton Blackwell," featuring an exhibit of paintings by Patton Blackwell. Blackwell's work is deeply rooted in her experience of her surroundings, and her desire to translate this experience to the canvas. Blackwell captures the essence of atmosphere and landscape in her use of color, action, and brush stroke. Infused with beauty and passion, Blackwell's paintings embody both the tangible and the intangible. From the lush green rolling fields and dense foliage of Camden, South Carolina, where her home and studio are located, to the streets of Rio de Janeiro during Carnival, to time spent on the Aegean Sea, Blackwell creates mosaics of swirling paint that radiate light and power, reflecting moments and spaces in time that are both active and meditative, universal and timeless. Referencing the works of such artists as Willem de Kooning, and Wassily Kandinsky, Blackwell's paintings recall the physicality and emotion of de Kooning's animated brushwork while evoking the spiritual resonance of Kandinsky's later work. Ongoing - Featuring works by Jane Aldridge, Jim Arendt, Randolph New Armstrong, Penny Baskin, Jo Dean Bauknight, Robbie Bell, Kimberly Betchman, Tarleton Blackwell, Angela Bradburn, Betty Bramlett, Joe Byrne, Carolita Cantrell, Kathy Casey, Anne Cunningham, Bob Doster, Gerard Erley, Claire Farrell, Amy Fichter, Tim Floyd, Michael Fowler, Teri Goddard, Harriet Goode, Vanessa Grubbs, Randy Hanna, Shelley Hehenberger, Mana Hewitt, David Kessler, Jan Kransberger, Robert Lyon, Rena MacQueen, Doug McAbee, Fred McElveen, Esther Melton, Max Miller, Lee A. Monts, Marge Loudon Moody, Blake Morgan, Bruce Nellsmith, Heather Noe, Susan Nuttall, Patrick Parise, Ann Hightower-Patterson, Leslie Pierce, Carol Pittman, Sylvia Ady-Potts, Alex Powers, Brian Rego, May Reisz, Tom Risser, Peggy Rivers, Cindy Saad, Sara Schneckloth, Ed Shmunes, Wanda Steppe, Nancy Thompson, Teri Tynes, Yisha Wang, Wendy Wells, Sam Wilkins, Rod Wimer, and Katarina Zaric. This represents a rare opportunity to view a very wide range of acclaimed SC artists at one time. City Art features three distinct gallery spaces. The $24+ million, state-of-the-art facility encompasses 54,000 square feet and adds 70 percent more Collection gallery space. For the first time in the Museum's history, it has the capacity to host major traveling exhibitions from nationally recognized museums. The expansion increases its physical space and dramatically increases its role as a community center, educational resource, economic engine for WNC, and cultural concierge for the region's residents and visitors. Opening exhibitions include: "Appalachia Now! An Interdisciplinary Survey of Contemporary Art in Southern Appalachia," is the inaugural special exhibition of the newly renovated Museum. Curated by Jason Andrew, the juried exhibition features 50 artists of diverse backgrounds from the Southern Appalachian states of North Carolina, Georgia, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia. The exhibit provides a regional snapshot of the art of our time—a collective survey of contemporary Southern Appalachian culture. "Intersections in American Art," is the largest presentation ever drawn from the Museum's Collection of 5,000+ works and 4,000+ architectural drawings. It celebrates the unique qualities of art from Western North Carolina, placed within the context of art from across the United States. The intersections of regional and national art are highlighted throughout the galleries, as are three specific ways of understanding the works here: Time & Place; Experiments in Materials & Form; and Collaboration & Interdisciplinary Dialogue. Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Fri. till 8pm & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 828/253-3227 or at (www.ashevilleart.org).

Work by Lia Cook

Center for Craft, 67 Broadway, Asheville. Bresler Family Gallery, Through Oct. 9 - "The Computer Pays its Debt: Women, Textiles, and Technology, 1965-1985," illuminates the direct connection between computing technology and weaving. The show positions women who worked with technology and textiles at the heart of the information age. Kayleigh Perkov, 2020 Curatorial Fellow, drew the exhibition's title and theme from a 1966 "New York Times" interview with IBM computer scientist and weaver Janice Lourie, creator of the Textile Graphics software, in which she argues that it was "about time that [computing's] debt to the weaving trade was paid back." John Cram Partner Gallery, Through Oct. 30 - "Crafted Roots: Stories and Objects from the Appalachian Mountains," curated by Michael Hatch, Class of 2020, MA in Critical Craft Studies, Warren Wilson College. The exhibition will examine the foundational moments in the late 1800s and early 1900s that laid the groundwork for the thriving craft scene found in the Asheville region today. This exhibition is the first of a series developed by Warren Wilson College putting the national craft landscape in the context of the local Asheville community, other creative disciplines and the liberal arts. Ongoing - Encompassing an additional 7,000 square feet of program space, including expanded galleries, event and meeting spaces, and coworking space serving the creative sector, this one-of-a-kind National Craft Innovation Hub will engage both the national craft community and western North Carolina residents, further establishing the Center for Craft as a thought-leader in what craft means today, as well as how to support emerging voices and makers. Hours: Mon.-Sun., 10am-6pm. Contact: call 828/785-1357 or at (www.centerforcraft.org).

Turchin Center for the Visual Arts, Appalachian State University, 423 West King Street, Boone. Through Nov. 7 - "Matrilinear: Elizabeth M. Claffey." Claffey's work is both cross-disciplinary in nature and aimed at starting conversations within the community. She uses visual art as a catalyst for storytelling and to express the knowledge of people often under-recognized within the public sphere. Claffey's projects examine cultural and social context, engage in community dialogue, and encourage critical inquiry. Through Nov. 7 - "UnEqual Scenes: Johnny Miller." The exhibit uses a drone to illustrate the inscribed history of the world in a new way. The scars within our urban fabric, so apparent from above, can provoke a sense of surprise, at the same time they reveal our complicity in systematic disenfranchisement. Through Feb. 6, 2021 - "Afterimage Anxiety: Joshua Rose." "Perhaps I am just in awe of everything when I settle down to really look at things," says Joshua Rose. Through Feb. 6, 2021 - "Rain and the River: Jacklyn St. Aubyn." Painter Jacklyn St. Aubyn creates a magical space in which things aren't what they appear to be. First perceptions may be misleading. She has landscapes and interiors in mind as she works, but not in the realistic sense; rather, she conjures imaginary spaces that defy logic. Hours: 10am-6pm, Tue., Wed., Thur., & Sat. and Fri., noon-8pm. Contact: Hank T. Foreman at 828/262-3017 or at (www.turchincenter.org).

Bechtler Museum of Modern Art, Levine Center for the Arts, 420 South Tryon St., Charlotte. Fourth-Floor Gallery, Now - "TEN". Since the Bechtler Museum of Modern Art opened our doors in 2010, we have hosted more than thirty modern art exhibitions. TEN features a selection of works from sixteen past fourth-floor exhibitions, all brought together to showcase the excellence and share the joy of the Bechtler collection as we look back at the past decade in celebration of our ten-year anniversary. Second-Floor Gallery, Through Feb. 7, 2021 - "1 Cent Life," presents a selection of color lithographs from the landmark 1964 print portfolio, "1 Cent Life", written by Walasse Ting (born Ding Xionguan), edited by Sam Francis, and published by E. W. Kornfeld. Developed by Anastasia James, Bechtler Museum of Modern Art Curator, the exhibition is dedicated to the life of Chinese-American visual artist and poet Walasse Ting and follows his journey from Shanghai to Paris to New York City. The exhibition features 18 lithographs by 18 artists from the Bechtler Museum of Modern Art's signed limited edition of the "1 Cent Life Portfolio", as well as poetry and a selection of books by Ting. Artists whose work will be on view include Andy Warhol, Joan Mitchell, Pierre Alechinsky, Kiki O.K. Claes Oldenburg, James Rosenquist, Robert Indiana, Bram Van Velde, Asger Jorn, and Allan Kaprow. Ongoing - The Bechtler Museum of Modern Art is named after the family of Andreas Bechtler, a Charlotte resident and native of Switzerland who assembled and inherited a collection of more than 1,400 artworks created by major figures of 20th-century modernism and donated it to the public trust. The Bechtler collection comprises artworks by seminal figures such as Alberto Giacometti, Joan Miro, Jean Tinguely, Max Ernst, Andy Warhol, Alexander Calder, Le Corbusier, Sol LeWitt, Edgar Degas, Nicolas de Stael, Barbara Hepworth and Picasso. Only a handful of the artworks in the Bechtler collection have been on public view in the United States. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon., Wed.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Sun. noon-5pm; and open until 9pm the 1st. and 3rd. Fri. of each month. Contact: 704/353-9200 or at (www.bechtler.org).

Bill and Patty Gorelick Galleries, of Central Piedmont Community College, Charlotte. Harper Campus, Harper IV, 315 W. Hebron St., Charlotte. Through Dec. 14 - "Frieze," by Tom Stanley, exhibited with works of art from the collection of Bill and the late Patty Gorelick. Central Campus, North Classroom, 1320 Sam Ryburn Walk, Charlotte, Through Dec. 14 - "Fused Imagination," by Barbel Brooks, featuring ten fused glass installments, ranging from decorative glass plates to vibrant wall hangings. Brooks discovered a lifelong passion when beginning to fuse glass 20 years ago. As her art evolved her focus continued to expand with specific areas of inspiration in water, color, and culture. Every piece within a series can stand alone as well as complement its counterparts. The details are significant, with much research and thought given to honoring history, depicting culture, and accurate portrayals. This solo exhibit uses glass with fusing techniques to create unique artwork capturing her infinite colorful imagination. Harper Campus, Harper IV, 315 W. Hebron St., Charlotte, Through Dec. 14 - "Glass Work by John Geci," exhibited alongside the two-dimensional works of Tom Stanley. Cato Campus, Cato III, 8120 Grier Rd., Charlotte, Through Dec. 14 - "Illuminate," by the ArtPop Street Gallery Class of 2018. Ongoing - The Bill and Patty Gorelick Galleries at Central Piedmont were established in 2013 as the result of a donation from Bill and Patty Gorelick, who wished to bring art to the college's students, faculty/staff, and visitors. Currently, there are five Gorelick Galleries at Central Piedmont with a goal of having a gallery on each of the college's six campuses by 2021. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-2pm or by appt. Harvey B. Gantt Center for African-American Arts & Culture, Levine Center for the Arts, 551 S. Tryon St., Charlotte. Starting Oct. 1 - "Interl Sectionality: Diaspora Art from the Creole City," is a bold, multi-regional, multi-disciplinary curatorial collaboration and exploration of the emergence of the "Creole City" as a local, regional and global phenomenon. Internationally recognized curators, Sanjit Sethi, former Director of the Corcoran School of Arts and Design and Rosie Gordon-Wallace, founder and chief curator of the Diaspora Vibe Cultural Arts Incubator, Inc. (DVCAI) of Miami, Florida, have designed this collaboration to provide a lens through which communities and community leaders internationally can begin to better understand themselves, their diversities and their unlimited possibilities. This global exhibition represents 25 Miami based artists, 17 countries and two Charlotte guest artists—Monique Luck and Stephanie J. Woods. Starting Oct. 1 - "... and justice for all". America has the highest incarceration rate in the world. In just 40 years, those confined in this country's prisons and jails has grown 500%. Over 2 million people are incarcerated today. This rise is not due to increased criminal activity, but the callous and inequitable execution of the nation's laws and public policies. While 37% of the country's population represents people of color, an incongruous 67% make up the prison population. ... and justice for all illuminates this racially unjust system. Ongoing - Featuring selections from the John & Vivian Hewitt Collection of African-American Art, one of the nation's most important and comprehensive collections of African-American art. Hours: Thur. - Sat., noon-6pm & Sun., noon-6pm. Extended hours from noon-8pm on Fridays, Oct. 2, Nov. 6 &

Work by Carlos Estévez

Latin American Contemporary Art Projects (LaCa), 1429 Bryant Street, in the heart of the revitalized FreeMoreWest neighborhood, Charlotte. Through Jan. 16, 2021 - "Carlos Estévez: BEACHCOMBER". This will be Carlos Estévez's third solo exhibition at LaCa Projects. The exhibition is a multimedia exhibition consisting of over fifty artworks in painting, found object assemblage, and ceramics. Join us for the unveiling of a pivotal juncture in the continuous evolution of Carlos' artistic process, with references to archetypal themes of metaphysics, transformation, and human spirituality. In these works, Estévez builds worlds, allegories for the tension between our microcosms of imagination and our macrocosms of existence, as we try to suspend ourselves between the two to maintain our sanity. He draws from experiences as varied as his compositions: a life started in Cuba, but with significant time in Paris, Charlotte, and in the last few decades, Miami. He bends these experiences through the conceptual lens of illuminated manuscripts, medieval texts, and contemporary philosophy, what Estévez has described as "transcriptions and translations of my everyday observations into images." Ongoing - LaCa Projects is a platform dedicated to the presentation, development, and promotion of Latin American art and culture within the United States. The gallery encourages cross-cultural dialogue by representing a small group of influential and thought-provoking contemporary, emerging and mid-career artists, as well as exhibiting a broader range of work by established and Master Latin American artists. The gallery, which has expertise in a number of different art media with a significant focus on paintings, will also be part of a larger planned expansion that includes open artist studios and a dining concept. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 1-5pm or by appt. Contact: Neely Verano at (neely@lacaprojects.com) or call 704/609-8487.

Bristol, Liverpool, and London; and cream-colored earthenware from Derbyshire, Staffordshire, and Yorkshire. Notable eighteenth-century porcelain factories represented include Chelsea, Bow, and Vauxhall in London, Longton Hall in Staffordshire, Worcester, Bristol, and others. Individual works in the collection are exceptional because of their rarity, craftsmanship, provenance, or as representative examples of particular types or methods of production or decoration. Ongoing - "American Glass". The nineteenth and early twentieth centuries represented a time of extraordinary growth for the American glass industry. Such companies as Boston & Sandwich Glass Company in Sandwich, MA; Steuben Glass Works in Corning, NY; and Libbey Glass Company in Toledo, OH, began operation and soon developed notable reputations for producing fashionable wares that were coveted by many middle- and upper-class consumers. "American Glass" showcases objects by these and other American glass companies, illustrating the variety of forms and styles that prevailed during this period. Glass-manufacturing techniques will be another focus of the exhibition, with representative examples of pressed, cut, blown, and molded glass. Nearly all of the works on view are from The Mint Museum's permanent collection of glass, which is second in size only to the ceramics collection in the museum's Decorative Arts holdings. Ongoing - "Arts of Africa". The African continent is remarkable in its geographic, social, political, and cultural diversity. This impressive diversity is reflected in the visual arts through a variety of media and forms including ceramics, masks, textiles, sculptures, prestige staffs, and shrines. With exceptional loans from private collectors and The Mint Museum's own collection of African Art, the museum is pleased to announce the expansion of its presentation of Arts of Africa, thereby providing visitors a more in-depth, meaningful, and exciting overview of African art. Heritage Gallery, Ongoing - Feature works of art, archival documents, and photographs documenting the growth and evolution of the museum, from its beginnings as the original branch of the US Mint to its founding as an art museum to the present and beyond. Ongoing - "Art for the Millions: WPA Prints" and "Carolina Clay," featuring a display of colorful wares made between 1920 and 1950 as potters from NC adapted their works to a market economy. "Art of the United States," featuring contemporary works from the Mint's permanent collection, including works by Romare Bearden, Maud Gatewood, John Biggers, Juan Logan, Tarlton Blackwell, Radcliffe Bailey, Kojo Griffin, and others. "Art in the Americas," featuring paintings, precious metalwork, sculpture, furniture and decorative arts from the 17th through the 19th centuries illustrate the unique culture that emerged from the Spanish colonization of the Americas. Crosland Gallery - Featuring a presentation of portraits with many fascinating images presented. Rankin Gallery - Featuring a presentation of the Romare Bearden Collection, including two "new" Beardens. Delhom Gallery, Ongoing - The European Collection of ceramic works. Work by Keith Bryant

Overcash Art Gallery, Central Piedmont Community College, Central Campus, Overcash Performing Arts Center, Elizabeth Avenue and Kings Dr., Charlotte. Through Oct. 2 - "The Faculty Art Show". This group show features Central Piedmont's talented art staff and is curated by Amelia Zytka. The exhibition incorporates artwork from multiple disciplines, including drawing, painting, photography and ceramics. While the college's art instructors excel at helping students succeed in their budding art careers, many of them are accomplished artists as well. This exhibition not only gives Central Piedmont's Overcash Art Gallery an opportunity to display faculty work, but also affords students the chance to see their instructors' artwork in a gallery setting. This show is a must-see for anyone on campus and provides an enjoyable diversion. Central Piedmont's Overcash Art Gallery is enthusiastic about the opportunity to kick start the college's fall semester with this exciting, new exhibition. Oct. 12 - Dec. 10 - "Reconvene," featuring works by artist Keith Bryant. The Center for Visual Artists Greensboro, second floor of the Cultural Arts Center, 200 North Davie St., Greensboro. Now - "Maggie Fickett: Living in Plein Air!" a virtual exhibit. Best known for creating airy watercolors and deft ink sketches, Fickett, a native New Englander, spent more than 35 years preserving Greensboro sights: iconic businesses, churches, college campuses, and other landmarks. She drew and painted wherever she went — the North Carolina coast, the Piedmont, the mountains — as well as Bermuda, a favorite vacation spot; the rocky coast of Maine, her native state; and the architecture-rich streets of Boston, where she first worked as an advertising illustrator. Fickett returned to Maine in 2014, and hundreds of her works were stored in Greensboro for safekeeping. She died at age 89 on March 26, 2020. The Center for Visual Artists will use proceeds from the exhibit to establish a plein air painting class in Fickett's memory. You can view this virtual exhibition at (https://www.greensboroart.org/maggie-fickett-collection). Now - View the online gallery at Weatherspoon Art Museum, University of North Carolina - Greensboro, Cone Building, Tate and Spring Garden Streets, Greensboro. 2nd Floor: The Gregory D. Ivy and the Weatherspoon Guild Galleries, Through Feb. 14, 2021 - "Ties that Bind: Selections from the Collection". John Fawcett wrote a hymn on the theme in 1800. Bruce Springsteen took a different approach in an eponymous song popular in 1980. Whether entwined in fellowship with kindred spirits or stretched to the point of breaking, the ties that bind us to one another are often some of the most significant markers in our lives. Ties that Bind explores the various types of relationships that define, brighten, aspire, or perhaps even challenge us on a daily basis. The Leah Louise B. Tannenbaum and Louise D. and Herbert S. Falk, Sr. Galleries, Through Nov. 15 - "Bold Expressions: Geometric Abstractions from the Collection". Fun, light-hearted, and beautiful. Many of us crave these elements nowadays, especially during these unprecedented times. As the museum reopens to the campus and the broader community mid-August (pending NC state guidelines), its first-floor galleries will feature artworks that highlight bold color, non-illusionistic space, and hard-edged geometric compositions. Although abstract geometric art has existed as a language of expression since antiquity, it acquired new resonance with European artists in the early twentieth century. Shortly thereafter, a younger generation of American artists began exploring the tradition, especially in the 1960s. Since then the language has remained both essential and vibrant, as these paintings, sculptures, and drawings illustrates. This exhibition is organized by Elaine D. Gustafson, Curator of Collections. Atrium and Lobbies - Featuring works of art complementing current gallery exhibitions which are rotated in the atrium and public areas throughout both floors of the gallery. Tom Otterness' site-specific work, "The Frieze" is permanently installed in the atrium. Sculpture Courtyard - Featuring selections of American sculpture from 1900 to the present from the Weatherspoon Collection and on loan works from contemporary artists. Admission: Free. Hours: Tue., Wed. & Fri., 10am-5pm, Thur., 10am to 9pm and Sat. & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 336/334-5770 or at (http://weatherspoon.uncg.edu).

Outer Banks Area

Dare County, Month of October - "31st Artrageous Kids Art Festival," presented by PNC Bank, will look different this year, but Dare County Arts Council is ensuring that the community will be able to experience the beloved event in 2020. After being postponed in May, Artrageous will embrace virtual learning this fall and be "Remotely Reimagined" into a two-part event, including three drive-thrus with free art kits for children to take home and a digital art show featuring visual, performing and literary arts by Dare County students. "We believe in the very essential role that art and creativity play in education," said Dare County Arts Council Program Director Jessica Sands. "Our hope is to inspire students to be creative, honor the dedicated art, music and theater teachers in Dare County who are teaching remotely during a pandemic, and share amazing artwork with the whole community." The Artrageous Art Kit Drive-Thrus will take place at Cape Hatteras Elementary School, Thurs., Oct. 15; Manteo Elementary School, Thurs., Oct. 22; and First Flight Elementary School, Sat., Oct. 24. Parents can register their elementary school aged students to pick up a free art kit at one of the drive-thru events online at (DareArts.org/artrageous). Sign up for the drive-thru location that is most convenient for you, and please note that registration is required to participate due to limited art kit availability. For more information, visit (DareArts.org/artrageous) or call 252/473-5558.

Pembroke

A.D. Gallery, University of NC at Pembroke, Locklear Hall, 1 University Dr, Pembroke. Ongoing - The A.D. Gallery is sponsored by the Art Department of the University of North Carolina at Pembroke. Serving the university and local community, the gallery provides a venue for student and faculty work, as well as that of local, regional, national and international artists. The gallery helps fulfill the department's goal of providing outstanding educational opportunities for its students by bringing quality visual arts to the university and the community at large. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-6pm. Contact: e-mail to (joseph.begnaud@unp.edu) or visit (www.unp.edu/departments/art/ad-gallery).

The Museum of the Southeast American Indian, Old Main (first floor) at the University of North Carolina Pembroke, 1 University Drive, Pembroke. Ongoing - As part of the Southeast American Indian Studies Program at UNC Pembroke, The Museum of the Southeast

American Indian maximizes the capacity of the University to address the complex historical, cultural and contemporary issues facing American Indian communities in North Carolina and the American Southeast. The Museum's cross-disciplinary collaborations greatly enhance the University's programs of research, service, outreach and instruction. The Museum is a multi-faceted museum and resource for scholarly research and community outreach. While the Museum contains exhibits of authentic Indian artifacts, arts and crafts from Indian communities all over the Americas, our primary focus is on tribes from the American Southeast. Many items come from North Carolina Native communities, with special emphasis on Robeson County Indian people. Specific focus is placed on the largest North Carolina tribe, the Lumbee, but our outreach activities have extended into Virginia and South Carolina with plans for further outreach throughout the Southeast. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm. We typically close for lunch from noon-1pm. Contact: call 910/521-6282 or e-mail to (nativemuseum@unp.edu).

Frankie G. Weems Art Gallery, Gaddy-Hamrick Art Center, Meredith College, 3800 Hillsborough Street, Raleigh. Through Oct. 19 - "Alyssa Hinton: Spiritual Awakening-Native Roots & Culture". Hinton is Meredith's Mercer-Kesler lecturer and visiting artist this year. This lecture series invites scholars in the areas of visual arts, architecture, and religion to speak at Meredith on their fields. Using vibrant colors that awaken the soul, mixed media artist, Hinton, illustrates a theme of cultural regeneration through her unique southeastern Native American imagery. Her work is a provocative portrayal of the folklore and history surrounding her roots, utilizing tradition and vision with a contemporary edge. Her recent themes reflect an attempt to untangle a complicated web of events pertaining to the displacement of her Tuscarora (Eastern North Carolina) and Osage (Missouri/Kansas) ancestors. Alyssa's narrative earth conscious works speak to the preservation of both the ecology and indigenous spiritual traditions. They bring to light aspects of a distinct by under-represented southeastern Native experience, one whose basic world view is rooted in ancient Mississippian mound culture. On a more personal note, by uncovering what has been denied or seemingly lost, the work also chronicles the artist's "inner restoration". Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm & Sat.-Sun., 2-5pm Contact: 919/760-8600 or e-mail to (gallery@meredith.edu).

Dakar might use a piece of gold jewelry to build a carefully tailored, elegant fashion ensemble. East Building, Level B, Gallery 3, Through Feb. 7, 2021 - "Christopher Holt: Contemporary Frescoes/Faith and Community". "Affirming sacred worth, restoring human dignity, and sabotaging the shame of poverty, the Haywood Street fresco announces, in plaster and pigment, that you matter," said The Rev. Brian Combs, Haywood Street congregation. This exhibition features monumental drawings, intimate portraits, and studies by artist Christopher Holt (b. 1977, Asheville, NC; lives Weaverville, NC) for the Haywood Street Beatitudes fresco completed in September 2019. East Building, Level B, Joyce W. Pope Gallery, Extended through Jan. 31, 2021 - "Front Burner: Highlights in Contemporary North Carolina Painting". Organized by guest curator Ashlynn Browning in collaboration with the North Carolina Museum of Art. Throughout modern art history, painting has been declared dead and later resuscitated so many times that the issue now tends to fall on deaf ears. Despite any debate over painting's viability, artists continue to persevere in keeping the medium fresh and new. Currently painting is enjoying a revival in the art world, and innovative North Carolina artists are helping to maintain its vibrant place on the front burner. Participating artists include: Brett Baker, Raleigh, Cynthia Bickley-Green, Greenville. Maria Britton, Carrboro, Mark Brown, Chapel Hill, Ashlynn Browning, Raleigh, Luke Miller Buchanan, Raleigh, Martha Clippinger, Durham, Hannah Cole, Asheville, Celia Johnson, Chapel Hill, Benjamin Knight, Deep Run, Ashley Lathe, Charlotte, Georges Le Chevallier, Garner, Juan Logan, Belmont, Gerry Lynch, Apex, Donald Martiny, Chapel Hill, Mario Marzan, Chapel Hill, George McKim, Raleigh, Bonnie Melton, Durham, Katy Mixon, Chapel Hill, Carmen Neely, Charlotte, Shaun Richards, Raleigh, Barbara Campbell Thomas, Climax, William Paul Thomas, Durham, Lien Truong, Chapel Hill, and Antoine Williams, Greensboro. NCMA Park - The North Carolina Museum of Art (NCMA) announces new works of art to be installed in the 164-acre NCMA Park. The works include a bronze tree by Italian artist Giuseppe Penone, a playful pair of benches designed by Hank Willis Thomas, and a 10-day installation of 23-foot-tall illuminated rabbits by Australian artist Amanda Parer. The sculptures will be featured at the NCMA's Park Celebration on Nov. 6, when the public is invited to experience the newly expanded Park with a variety of outdoor activities. Ongoing - Featuring 10 additional sculptures by the celebrated French artist Rodin on loan from Iris Cantor's private collection. Ongoing - "John James Audubon's The Birds of America". The state has owned this treasured volume since 1848, but it has never been exhibited. Ongoing - The North Carolina Museum of Art has an outstanding permanent collection of more than 5,000 objects spanning antiquity to the present day. On the occasion of the expansion, the Museum has acquired more than 100 new works of art. Representing commissions, gifts, and purchases, the new works encompass important and diverse examples of historic and contemporary art from around the world, and will be installed in the Museum's new building and the surrounding landscape. Highlights include a gift of 28 sculptures by Auguste Rodin, and work by such internationally acclaimed artists as Roxy Paine, Ursula von Rydingsvard, El Anatsui, Jaume Plensa, Jackie Ferrara, Ellsworth Kelly, and David Park, among others. Admission: Yes for some exhibits. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 9am-5pm; Sun., 10am-5pm; & open until 9pm on Fri. Contact: 919/839-6262 or at (www.ncartmuseum.org).

North Carolina Museum of History, 5 East Edenton Street, (between Salisbury and Wilmington Streets), Raleigh. Now - Check the Museum's website for its virtual offerings. Through Jan. 3, 2021 - "You Have to Start a Thing." The year 2020 marks the 100th anniversary of the 19th Amendment to the United States Constitution and a century of voting rights for women. The exhibition explores how Tar Heel women and men fought for—and against—woman suffrage in the decades leading up to 1920. It also chronicles the ongoing struggle to ensure voting rights for North Carolinians of color and the (slow) entry of women into positions of political power in our state. Ongoing - Featuring exhibits dealing with North Carolina's history as a theme. Sweet Tea & Cornbread Grill and Eatery, located on the R Level, open Mon.-Sat., from 11am to 3pm. Wilmington

Louise Wells Cameron Art Museum, @ intersection of Independence Blvd. & South 17th Street, Wilmington. On View Now - "She Persists," coincides with the 100th anniversary of the ratification of the 19th Amendment and explores the ways in which female artists in Cameron Art Museum's permanent collection persist in their own lives, in their communities, in their world, both personally and politically --- through art. From Mary Cassatt, whose paintings and prints were featured in exhibitions supporting suffrage, to feminist Audrey Flack, whose work Medea is a conscious redeeming of that tragic figure, to Beverly Buchanan, who fiercely explored identity as an African American woman through sculpture, land art, photography, and painting, this exhibition of 100 works for the 100th anniversary of the 19th Amendment creates a powerful dialogue about what it means to be a woman. On View Now - "The Face of Lincoln" is a powerful bronze casting from the original work of sculptor Robert Merrell Gage. The casting is based on the 1860 plaster face mask made of Lincoln by Gage. Gage made castings of Lincoln throughout his life and starred in the 1955 Academy Award winning film "The Face of Lincoln" (20 minutes), also shown in the gallery. On View Now - "The Lived-In Body: Celebrating Women Over 65," features stunning works by Wilmington artist Virginia Wright-Frierson, which celebrates, "the lived-in body, our crepey arms that have lifted babies 1,000 times, gardened, cleaned, cooked, and taken care of others; our worn feet and our breasts and stomachs that now sag. We have worked and given and created. We are aging, and we're lucky to have reached this time to appreciate our experiences and wisdom and celebrate that we have survived." Pancoe Art Education Center, Exhibition Cases, Ongoing - View some of the Seagrove and contemporary pottery from the museum's permanent collection in the

Winston-Salem

Work by Mary Blackwell Chapman

Artworks Gallery, 564 N. Trade Street, Winston-Salem. Through Oct. 3 - "When We Are Distanced," a window and online exhibition is visible from the sidewalk and can be viewed online on the Artworks Gallery website. Both 2D and 3D art by member artists are on display, showcasing the variety, quality and availability of original art by our local artists. If you are interested in buying a piece for your own collection or as a gift, or would like an appointment to view an artwork in person, please send an e-mail to Mona Wu at (monawu4@gmail.com) or shop online at (www.artworks-gallery.org/shop). Oct. 8 - 31 - "Almost Normal," featuring new works by four members of Artworks Gallery including: Chris Flory, Betti Pettinati-Longinotti, Susan Smoot, and Mona Wu. Flory's body of work consists of large-scale graphite drawings, evocative of another time and place. The practice of graphite drawing on top of textured-layered oil painted surfaces has allowed Betti Pettinati-Longinotti conversation and intercession with the Divine, having many varied forms and senses of spirituality. The textile works by Susan Smoot have been created in a mindful way as offerings to soothe our battered souls during this pandemic. Mona Wu has taken advantage of the hiatus to create a collection of small watercolor paintings depicting common objects in and around her house. Ongoing - The gallery is the longest running cooperative gallery established by artists for artist members, showing 12 exhibits per year in the heart of Winston-Salem's Art District. Approx. 21 artists show their work in mediums such as painting, watercolor, drawing, photography, sculpture, encaustic wax, and digital art. The gallery features the work of Marion Adams, Woodie Anderson, Mary Beth Blackwell-Chapman, Owens Daniels, Chris Flory, Mike Foley, Jim Gemma, Don Green, Ted Hill, Alix Hitchcock, Dean Roland Johnson, Lea Lackey-Zachmann, Nanu LaRosee, Barbara Rizza Mellin, Seth Moskowitz, Diane Nations, Beverly Noyes, Betti Pettinati-Longinotti, Mitzi Shewmake, Susan Smoot, Jessica Tefft, Kimberly Varnadoe, and Mona Wu, as well as Associate Members: Perviz Heyat and Kate Magruder. Reynolda House Museum of American Art, Reynolda Road, Winston-Salem. Mary and Charlie Babcock Wing Gallery & View Gallery, Through Nov. 29 - "Tiffany Glass: Painting with Color and Light". The exhibit was organized by the Neustadt Collection of Tiffany Glass in Queens, NY. The first exhibition of its kind at Reynolda, it includes five windows, twenty lamps, and several displays showing how Tiffany glass was manufactured, how his lamps were assembled, and how collectors today can distinguish between authentic lamps and forgeries. As a painter, Louis C. Tiffany was captivated by the interplay of light and color, and this fascination found its most spectacular expression in his glass "paintings." Using new and innovative techniques and materials, Tiffany Studios created leaded-glass windows and lampshades in vibrant colors and richly varied patterns, textures, and opacities. Ongoing - Collection of 18th through 20th century art, sculpture, American art, and pottery. Pink Dog Creative Gallery, 348 Depot Street, in the River Arts District, Asheville. Through 2020 - "In Solidarity," an online exhibition by Pink Dog Creative artists and associated friends, seeks to speak to the violence, fear and grief caused by centuries of injustice to Black people and to celebrate the many contributions made by people of African descent to the culture of this country and the world. At Pink Dog we stand for justice and equity for everyone. We are outraged and saddened by the recent deaths of George Floyd, Ahmaud Arbery and Breonna Taylor and the unnecessary violence against Johnnie Rush in our own city. These names are only the more recent victims in a long history of racism in this country. We believe that artists speak to our times and that art can uplift, enlighten and encourage dialogue. Art can be a vehicle for social change. Up to 100% from the sale of art from this exhibition will go to the following charities whose mission is justice and equity, Black Lives Matter, BeLoved Asheville, and the Equal Justice Initiative. We encourage you to join us in donating to organizations that are working to progress racial equality. Pink Dog Creative will match all donations from sales from this exhibition. Participating artists include: Patti Anastasi, Casimir Bationo, Ralph Burns, Christie Calaycay, Deanna Chilian, Cleaster Cotton, Heather Davis, Holly de Saillan, Andrea Kulish, James Love, Joseph Pearson, Patricia Phillips, Jenny Pickens, Anita Shwarts, Viola Spells, Stephen St. Claire, and Noel Yovovich. Work by Colleen Connolly

Mica - Fine Contemporary Craft, 37 N. Mitchell Avenue, Bakersville. Through Oct. 20 - Featuring an exhibition of fiber works by Burnsville artist Kathryn Lynch who is this seasons first Guest Artist. Lynch creates handmade decorative fabric cuffs and fabric handbags. Her work is noted for its use of color and pattern on useful decorative objects. "I make each bag one at a time, and they are all slightly different," she notes. "I don't use patterns, since I frequently let the fabric dictate shape and size. Oct. 21 - Dec. 31 - "For the Table: Linens and Wovens". The display will bring textile artists Deanna Lynch and Colleen Connolly together with a collection of each of their artful items of domestic use. Lynch brings a refined sense of color and texture to the subtle grids of her hand-loom woven table runners, cloths, and napkins. Lynch's collection is woven with wool handspun that she sources from her sheep on her Aunt's farm in Wisconsin. Connolly combines her love of nature into her unique process of Eco printing with natural dyes on linen fabric. Connolly's work celebrates and mimics the cacophony of patterns found in leaves and plant forms of all kinds. Ongoing - Our cooperative gallery currently has fifteen members who are from the Bakersville, Penland, Burnsville and Weaverville areas including: Kent McLaughlin, Suze Lindsay, Gertrude Graham Smith, David Ross, Claudia Dunaway, Jenny Lou Sherburne, Carmen Grier, Lisa Joerling, Pam Brewer, Robbie Bell, Teresa Pietch, JJ Brown, Simona Rosasco, Sondra Dorn and Terry Gess. Work by Jane Allen Nodine

ALTERNATE ART SPACES - Charlotte The Gallery at Carillon, 227 West Trade Street, Charlotte. Through Dec. 31 - "Reflections," is a series of paintings Jane Allen Nodine started in March when states instituted stay-at-home orders and businesses closed in order to slow the spread of COVID19. Taking a broad view of this critical and historical event, Jane decided to use the shut-down time as an "at-home" artist residency. At the beginning she saw the process as a coping mechanism, but it soon became clear that the focused studio time began to render results in a series of new paintings that responded to the fears of the invisible virus, and yet celebrated the hopes of life and a future. Ongoing - Permanent onsite works of art including: "Cascade," a 40' x 25' construction of machinery parts and metal by Jean Tinguely; "The Garden," a site-specific sculpture by Jerry Peart; and "Wall Drawing #683," by So LeWitt. The exhibition is sponsored by Hines Charlotte Carillon LP. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8am-8pm; Sat., 8am-7pm & Sun., noon-8pm. Contact: e-mail Larry Elder at (lelder@elderart.com).
