Editorial COMMENTARY

ArtFields 2017 - an epic event

People have been bugging me about ArtFields, they want to know what I know, as ArtFields doesn't get a lot of press and they (ArtFields) don't like talking about details or anything.

Here's what I know. One of the staff has jumped ship. Somewhere around 425 artists made the cut for the 2017 event, but no word was offered about how many entries they got. They added more cash awards, but not much info was offered about them. There has been little if no chatter on Facebook from the artists who made the cut compared to the chatter over the last four years. And, I really don't care to know too much more. But here's a few observations about what I know.

All but one of the ten art professionals, 5 on the Review Panel and 5 on the Juried Panel are from within the 12 states included in the competition. Professional artists don't like this and either do I. It makes the artists wonder how much these panel members pull for artists from their own state. All of the Panel members should come from outside the 12 participating states.

But a quick look at the artists who were juried into the 2017 exhibit/competition would tell you that "might" not be the case. Sixty percent (60%) of the artists selected to be in the competition are from SC and not one member of the Review Panel was from SC. One Review Panel member was from Arkansas, but only one artist from that state made the cut. Surely there are more talented artists in the state of Arkansas and is SC bursting with such talented artists? Of course not - it all comes down to who enters the competition. If 253 artists from SC made the cut - imagine how many entered from SC - 300, 400 or even 500. How many entered from Arkansas? Hopefully more than one. Seven of the 12 states included in the competition had 10 or less artists make the cut.

And that's the real problem with ArtFields after five years - not many artists outside of SC and its two neighboring states (GA & NC) are entering this competition - even with such BIG money being offered as cash awards. So it's not really a Southeastern regional competition. It's a Carolina competition. Sure, two out of the four top winners were from outside of SC, but that was more a decision of the Juried Panel. And for all we know that one artist from Arkansas could end up being the top prize winner this year.

The ArtFields staff has made nice field trips to these other states trying to sell artists on ArtFields, but they haven't produced many entries - unless they're ready to say those states have produced lots of entries, but the work just wasn't that good compared to SC's artists. Right. The cost of these trips isn't paying off as far as entries go - as far as we know.

And, the ArtFields' folks don't like to talk numbers or should I say they don't like to show their numbers.

So maybe that staff member who jumped ship knows that ArtFields is sinking. I don't know, but in year five I don't see anything epic about ArtFields. And, it's a shame as it could have been something really good. At least it's still a good opportunity for SC's artists. Oh I hope artists in those other states didn't hear me say that. But 2 out of 4 is 50% and that's not bad odds that if you enter you might win the BIG money and all that fame.

That's it from me. Don't expect to hear anything else about ArtFields out of me - unless there is really something juicy to tell.

Gibbes Museum of Art in Charleston, SC, Features Works by West Fraser

The Gibbes Museum of Art in Charleston, SC, is presenting Painting the Southern Coast: The Art of West Fraser, on view through Apr. 30, 2017.

The exhibition features approximately 25 paintings from renowned Southern artist West Fraser. The exhibition, drawn from public and private collections throughout the country, will be accompanied by several studies displayed alongside Fraser's finished works, offering insight into his unique working process.

"The Gibbes is honored to host this special exhibition of West Fraser's work," said Pam Wall, Curator of Exhibitions at the Gibbes. "His paintings masterfully capture the most elusive and intriguing elements of the Lowcountry, and we are thrilled to have the opportunity to share it with our visitors."

"Easy Lady", 2013, by West Fraser (American, b. 1955); oil on linen; 30 x 36 inches; Courtesy of John H. Breedlove

A leading American artist in the representational and plein air tradition, Fraser has built his career on richly painted, atmospheric vistas of cities, coasts, and the landscape throughout the US and internationally — from the pristine Sea Islands of South Carolina and Georgia to the hill towns on Tuscany. While he has painted throughout the Caribbean, Central America, Europe and Scandinavia, Fraser's passion always draws him back to the marshes and landscape of the Georgia and South Carolina coasts.

"Jaywalker", 2009, by West Fraser (American, b. 1955); oil on linen; 24 x 30 inches; Courtesy of Helena Fox Fine Art

Home to the Carolina Art Association, established in 1858, the Gibbes Museum of Art is recognized among the oldest arts organizations in the United States. Housing one of the foremost collections of American Art from the 18th century to the present, the museum's mission is to enhance lives through art by engaging people of every background and experience with art and artists of enduring quality and by providing opportunities to learn, to discover, to enjoy, and to be inspired by the creative process.

For further information check our SC Institutional Gallery listings or visit (www.gibbesmuseum.org).

You can contact us by calling 843/693-1306 or by e-mail at - info@carolinaarts.com but do it before the 24th of the month prior to our next issue.

Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, Offers Works by Dorothy Allston Rogers

The Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, will present Land, Sea and Sky, a collection of paintings that reflect the Dorothy Allston Rogers' life and deep roots in the Lowcountry, on view in the Guild Gallery, from Feb. 1 - 28, 2017. A reception will be held on Feb. 3, from 5-8pm.

Rogers grew up on the Intracoastal Waterway near Charleston. Her father was a farmer and property caretaker for multitudes of local acreage including Botany Bay Plantation. The youngest of ten children, Rogers was often told to "go on outside!" where she loved being near saltwater and experiencing land, sea and sky! Her formation as an artist is powerfully connected to her upbringing.

Rogers states, "I am thankful that God put me in a family who has lived in the Charleston area since the 1650's and that the traditions of a saltwater and farming lifestyle have continued. The awareness of my artist-ancestor, Washington Allston, (1779-1843) has inspired me since childhood with considering art as a viable activity, and as a way to revel in the splendor of God's creation! To me, art should portray a sense of glory that gives the viewer 'hope' beyond circumstances. This endless task of looking for such scenes and compositions renews my own hope and peace that God is sovereign and good remains if we stop to look and ponder. One may think this lofty attempt to portray such sensations as 'hope', 'peace' and 'joy' with mere paint is ridiculous. And it really is, I suppose. However, the process of this attempt always rejuvenates my soul!"

Sales made at the gallery support the nonprofit Guild's community outreach work.

For further information check our SC Institutional Gallery listings or call Steve Jacobs at the Guild at 843/722-2454.

The Charleston Museum in Charleston, SC, Offers Exhibition on Waterfowling

The Charleston Museum, in historic downtown Charleston, SC, in cooperation with the 2017 Southeastern Wildlife Expo, and with generous sponsorship from the Charleston Mercury, presents Feathers and Flocks: Waterfowling in South Carolina, on view in the Museum's Lobby Gallery, from Feb. 15 through May 8, 2017. The exhibition takes a collective look at the historic art and artifacts associated with local waterfowling. This exhibit will draw from a number of different categories from the Museum's vast collections as well as a few private ones, and offer an important glimpse into the South Carolina Lowcountry's longstanding water bird traditions.

Catesby could say about "the little brown duck" that got away from him whilst compiling notes for his eighteenth century masterwork detailing the region's wildlife. Of course, the bird's speed and elusiveness came as no surprise to the countless duck hunters and birdwatchers that followed.

Numerous species of ducks and other local waterfowl are central to the Lowcountry's historic culture, their meat and feathers filling specific desires from dining tables to fashion statements, and even indigenous sacred ceremonies. These birds today still carry a certain mystique all their own, influencing artisans and artists alike with their serene demeanor and brilliant plumage. Even hunting them has become somewhat of an art form. Handcrafted decoys and calls have themselves become prized possessions, as have the elegant shotguns used in conjunction with them.

A 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization, The Charleston Museum, founded in 1773, is America's first museum. Holding the most extensive collection of South Carolina cultural and scientific materials in the nation, it also owns two National Historic Landmark houses, the Heyward-Washington House (1772) and the Joseph Manigault House (1803), as well as the Dill Sanctuary, a 580-acre wildlife preserve.

Dog & Horse Fine Art & Portraiture in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Bernard De Claviere D'Hust

Dog & Horse Fine Art & Portraiture in Charleston, SC, will present A Tribute to Count Bernard De Claviere D'Hust, foremost animalier of the 20th Century, on view from Feb. 1 through Mar. 25, 2017.

A genius and consummate artist, D'Hust accumulated distinguished clientele in 23 countries over the course of his career. Most well-known for his equine paintings, his portfolio includes many important canine paintings as well, and wildlife of all kinds. The quintessential description of his paintings came from the artist himself: "modern from a classical perspective."

The exhibition will include some of his last paintings, with the moon rising in his well-recognized romantic 18th century style landscapes. A number of these works of art were in the artist's private collection, thus his favorites. His French roots are evident in his porcelain-like painted surfaces and graceful S-curves, which are often found in French masterpieces. His "pourquoi" attitude, as he translates from the French, "who cares," is often evident in his animals' expressions.

D'Hust's paintings exemplify the creative-

Helen K Beacham Fine Art

Venice, Italy (plus Murano & Burano)
April 23-May 3, 2017

Montreal, Canada
August 9-16, 2017

Acceptable Media: Pen & Ink, Watercolor, Gouache, water-soluble crayons, or graphite.

Skill Level: From beginners up to advanced levels are invited.

Includes: Lodging for 8 nights in our apartment, workshop instruction for 6 days, continental breakfast every day, and 2 dinners.

Not included: Airfare, transportation, museums, daily lunches and 6 dinners.

Fee: $2400 U.S. (only 2 spots left!)

VENICE: STUDENT TESTIMONIAL:

"I took this class in the Spring of 2016 and it was a fantastic experience in every way. I learned so much and truly became a better - and braver - watercolorist over those wonderful 8 days. We painted in various locations around Venice, including day trips to Murano and Burano, which gave us a chance not only to improve on our skills, but also to get to know the city and soak up the local culture while doing some sightseeing. It is such a unique city, and Helen knows it so well that she was able to quickly make us feel right at home and was a wealth of information. The experience of painting in Venice itself made the trip a delight, but the opportunity to get to know the other painters was icing on the cake. We learned from each other, laughed a lot and now share many lovely memories - what could be better!"

Acceptable Media: Pen & Ink, Watercolor, Gouache, water-soluble crayons, or graphite.

Skill Level: From beginners up to advanced levels are invited.

Includes: Accommodations in our quaint yet updated Montreal apartment, workshop instruction for 6 days, continental breakfast every day, and 2 dinners.

Not included: Airfare, travel to and from the airport, lunches, 5 dinners, Metro or bus fares, sightseeing, museum or garden entry fees.

Fee: $1500 U.S.

MONTREAL: STUDENT TESTIMONIAL

"Because Helen is from Montreal, I got to see this town through her artist's eyes! She took us to Old Montreal, the Botanical Gardens, the Farmer's Market and many of the quaint neighborhoods that make this city special. She also gave us simple ways to appreciate & conquer perspective...not to fear it. I can't recommend this trip highly enough!"

Ella Richardson Fine Art in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Donald Weber

Ella Richardson Fine Art in Charleston, SC, kicks off an exhibit of works, The Romance of Charleston, by Donald "Donny" Weber, with a reception on Feb. 3, from 5-8pm. The exhibit continues through Mar. 2, 2017. A painting demonstration by Weber will be given on Feb. 4, from 1-5pm.

Weber is an oil painter from Louisville, KY. His art education began during his classes for his architecture studies at the University of Kentucky. He earned his architecture degree, has continued his pursuit of fine art on his own. He now balances being an artist and licensed architect.

Weber says he's always had an interest in art. "I have always been fascinated with art and started drawing as a kid. I drew the stuff I was interested in... fire engines, sailing ships, and even battle scenes from movies I had seen."

When his mother bought him his first set of oil pastels when he was 12 years old. He loved the variety that different art mediums could offer him. He began painting and drawing, and after his mother noticed his talent she encouraged him to create more.

Weber says, "Mom was a big fan of a comedian named Red Skelton at the time. He was also an accomplished artist and painted wonderful clown portraits. My mother suggested I do one as well and I did. Not long after I had finished it, one of my mothers friends, while visiting noticed it and asked me if she could buy it! Of course I didn't know what to say. She offered to pay me $15 for it and my mom said it would be OK. That hooked me for life I guess!"

Weber says his first sale came full circle. "Interestingly about 30 years later I got a call from an attorney who was settling the estate of the same woman and asked me if I was the Don Weber who had sold her the painting! She had willed it back to me. I have it hanging in my home today."

Weber and his wife split their time between Louisville and Santa Fe. They have both a home and a studio in both locations so he always has access to his paints. It's easy to tell that he draws inspiration from the beautiful landscapes and colors from both home states. He says he doesn't have a favorite subject to paint, but that he loves capturing an expressive moment or focusing on light and color. His subjects have quite a variety, ranging from people to beautiful New Mexican architecture to detailed nature or rural farmhouses. Though he says "My terrible attention span keeps me hopping around from subject to subject!" He certainly creates enchanting colors and light in each of his paintings.

One of Weber's favorite parts about painting is that it's so immersive for him. "It's the only thing I have ever done that allows me to totally lose track of time and surroundings...or floating as I call it!" He said that once he was painting in a field and out of nowhere he heard a snorting sound. He then realized he was so immersed in his work that he hadn't noticed the giant bull that clearly had not invited him to his pasture.

Weber also notes that he loves how painting makes people feel good. In fact, he loves that aspect so much that he and his brother helped open a gallery in Louisville in conjunction with The Council for Developmental Disabilities. The Council runs a number of education and advocacy programs for individuals with various forms of disabilities. The side by side art program features artwork by both professional artist from all across the country and local persons with disabilities.

Weber recently partnered with Ella W. Richardson Fine Art and is excited to be represented in Charleston. He had visited the city for a family function and was taken by its charm, romance, style, and art industry. His first show with Richardson's gallery is called The Romance of Charleston, which showcases the city's romantic side. He'll explore the city's beauty through different vignettes and scenes from all over town. His excitement for his upcoming show is easily translated through his work. His paintings exude energy and thought, translating his love for what he's doing.

first, second, and third place in multiple categories will be awarded by guest judge, Caroline Self. Self is a contemporary, abstract expressionist artist inspired by the vivid paint colors and textures made famous by Vincent Van Gogh and the unique abstractness of paintings by Wassily Kandinsky and Willem de Kooning. She is the current City of North Charleston Artist-in-Residence and was previously the art education program specialist at the Lyndon House Arts Center in Athens, GA. She has developed a unique track record of creating innovative classes, programs, award-winning camps, and exhibits for countless groups, children, and events.

The Goose Creek Artists Guild meets monthly for live demonstrations and business to further its purpose "to bring together a group of artists interested in self-improvement, public recognition, and the promotion of the arts in the community." For more information, contact the Guild Secretary, Pam Smith, at 843/819-6533.

The North Charleston City Gallery is situated in two corridors of the northwest corner of the Charleston Area Convention Center, located on Coliseum Drive in North Charleston, SC. Parking and admission are free.

Society of Bluffton Artists in Bluffton, SC, Features Works by Edith Wood

Society of Bluffton Artists in Bluffton, SC, will present Just Birds, featuring photographs by Edith Wood, on view in the SOBA Gallery, from Feb. 6 through Mar. 5, 2017. A reception will be held on Feb. 12, from 3-5pm.

Edith Wood works patiently for the precise moment to capture the birds while they are at their best in the wild. To do this a photographer must be practiced in the art of snapping the camera while the bird is in an artists' composition, and also is in natural light and showing the characteristics of each species of bird.

Wood studies nature, as she waits for the best moment to capture nature in all of its best display. Her love of the outdoors and the use of the natural light and artistic composition result in perfect moments captured in time.

Wood began her exploration of photography taking portraits for her family which she still enjoys today. She started with a DSLR camera in 2008 and has since discovered wildlife, landscape and macro photography. She's learned from her many photographer friends, from research on the web, and from joining photography groups. However, she points out, "I've learned the most from my own mistakes and lots of practice."

In her own words, "Photography made me look beyond the face of things. I've discovered that everything has a better side. Seeing and trying to bring out the best in everyone and everything is my challenge...to try and make something simple look great, capturing memories, emotions and moments..." She says "It's a lifetime adventure that I am very passionate about. I create images simply for the love of it!". And it shows in her simply beautiful work!

Originally from a small French town in Ontario, she now calls Bluffton, SC, home. Her work is shown and sold at the Society of Bluffton Artist's Gallery, The Complete Home, Coastal Exchange, Boat House in Bluffton, Atmosphere in Beaufort and the Caretta Coffee Shop of Hilton Head.

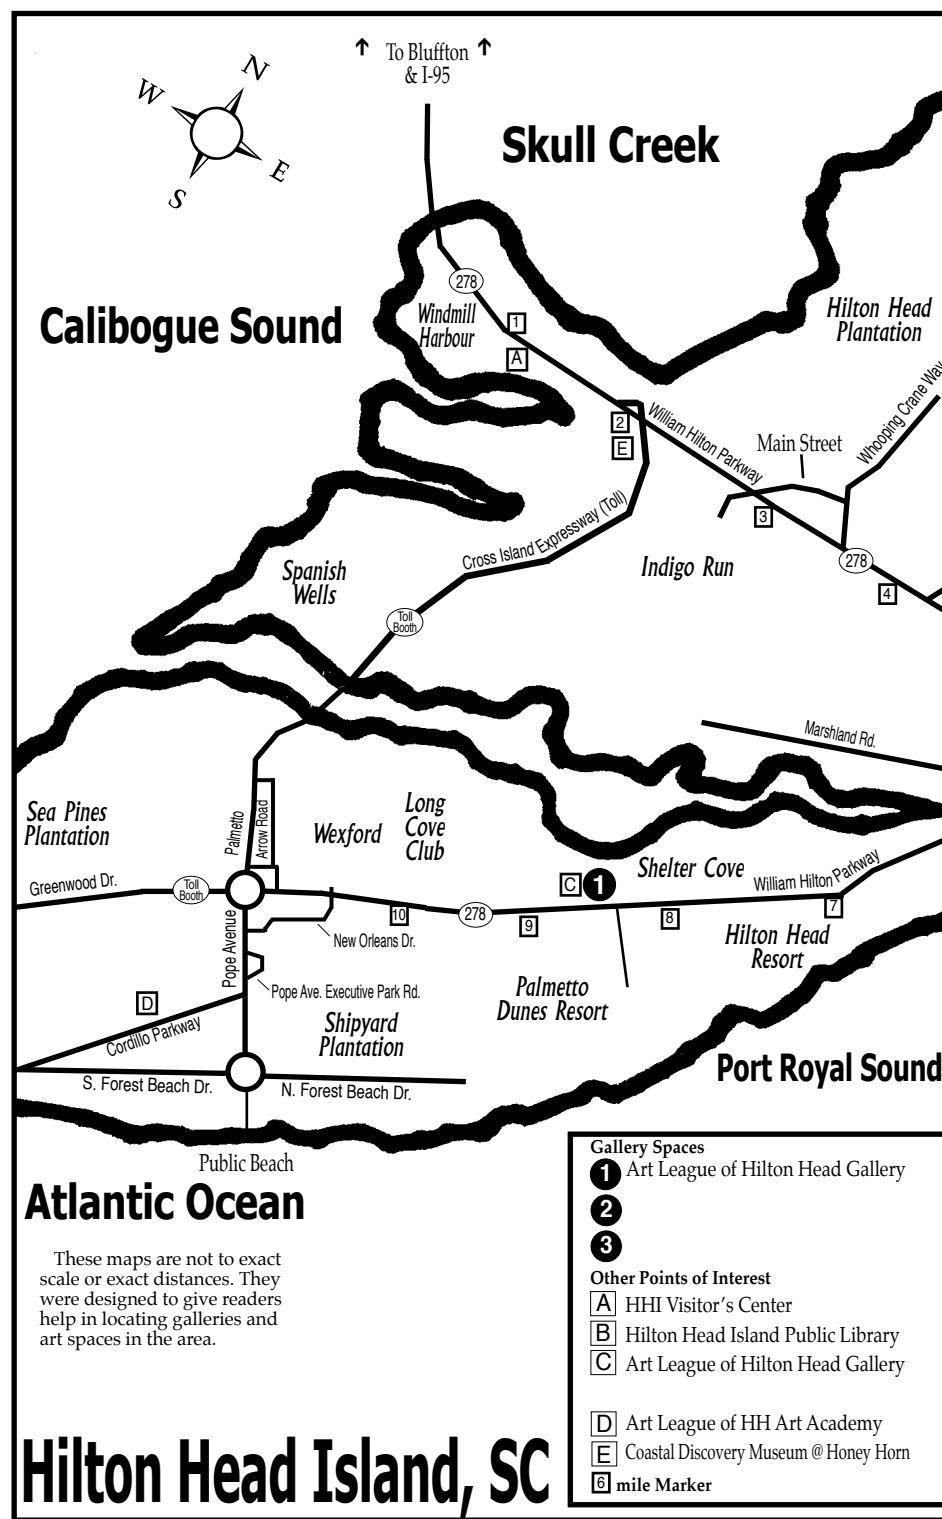

Wood's numerous awards include Peoples' Choice award at K. Hovnanian Homes community in Hampton Lake in 2015, also the SOBA member Judged Show 1st Place 2015, 2nd Place 2016, the Camera Club Awards and Nine photos chosen for the Memory Matters Book, "Meet Me Where I am".

Also at the gallery is the monthly change of show displaying new work admitted from over 100 SOBA member artists. The opening reception includes refreshments and a chance to meet Edith Wood.

HAND CRAFTED ART POTTERY JEWELRY AND GIFTS FOR ALL OCCASIONS

Lander University in Greenwood, SC, Offers Annual Student Art Show

Lander University in Greenwood, SC, is presenting the University's annual Student Juried Exhibit, on view in the Monsanto Art Gallery of the Josephine B. Abney Cultural Center, through Feb. 20, 2017. A reception will be held on Feb. 2, from 5-7pm.

Categories include sculpture, ceramics, computer graphics, drawing, painting and print making, and photography.

A total of 52 art students were chosen to enter this year's exhibit, and Dr. Jim Slagle, associate professor of art and Chair of Lander's Art Department, said anticipation is running high to see the outcome.

"Each student was allowed to submit three works," Slagle said, "and there will be a 1st, 2nd and 3rd place prize in each category, plus honorable mentions and a best in show."

The exhibition juror will be Jim Shore, world renown artist whose pieces were once exhibited at Lander. Shore's country and home décor pieces, derived from authentic roots in American and European folk art, are found in more than 25,000 stores worldwide. In the last 10 years, he and his partnership with giftware company Enesco have produced over $1.2 billion in retail sales.

Work by Jamea Bryson Phillips

"Jim will pick all the winners in this year's juried exhibit, and he also judged which works made it in," said Jon Hol-loway, Monsanto Art Gallery director.

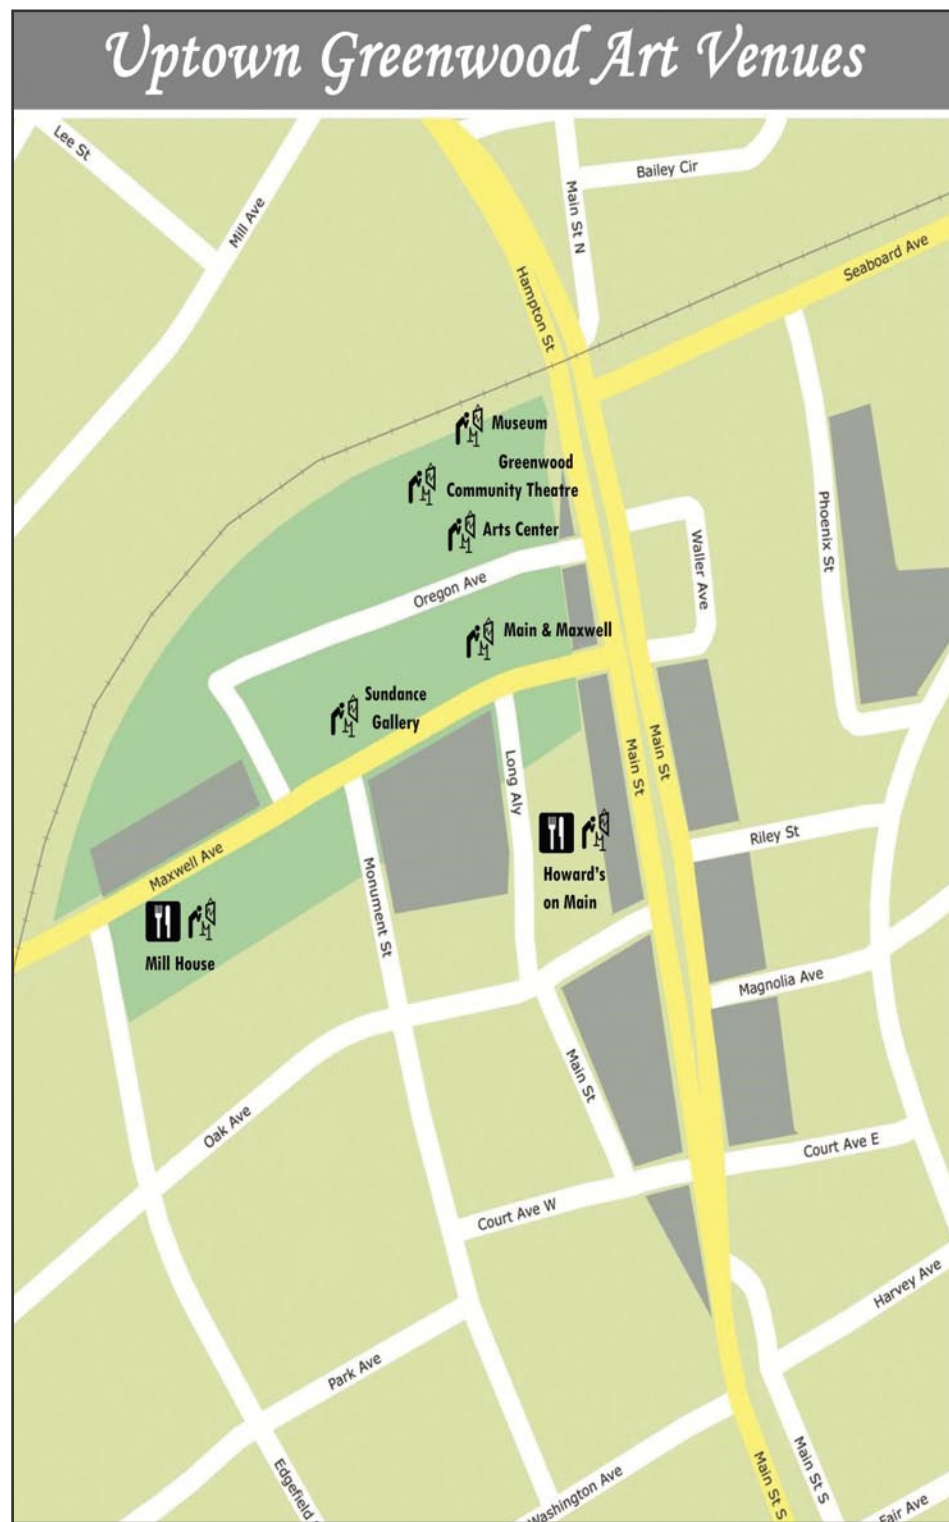

Work by Luke Howell

"This year's show features 75 art pieces out of more than 150 submitted by all arts students – from freshmen to seniors. These students are creating some amazing and inspirational artwork, and we are very excited to be able to host the opening public reception next week."

Whether you're already a polished artist or just a beginner, at Lander, you'll be able to set free your inner creativity with the help of our experienced faculty, all of whom are accomplished artists and educators. As experts in their fields, our faculty are committed to challenging, encouraging and inspiring you to reach your potential.

Hampton III Gallery in Taylors, SC, Offers Works by Art Werger

Hampton III Gallery in Taylors, SC, will present Art Werger: Etchings, Aquatints and Mezzotints, on view from Feb. 2 through Mar. 4, 2017. A reception will be held on Feb. 2, from 7-9pm, with a gallery talk at 8pm.

As part of this exhibition Hampton III Gallery is proud to present Art Werger's newest and largest work to date, "Tidal Shift". This piece is a six-panel panoramic intaglio image consisting of hand drawn aquatint and white ground imagery. The title refers not only to the endangered coastal tidelands but also to the psychological mindset of the characters. At first glance, the image appears bucolic but there is a subtext in that the participants of this play are oblivious to the forces of the rising ocean and the impending consequences of their consumerist indulgences.

The sweep of the image covers approximately a 180-degree viewing angle spanning from ocean view across the beach to the mainland. The main visual emphasis is on the lighting of the natural setting but there is also a strong emphasis on the textures of waves, clouds, and sand to elicit a visceral response, and on the patterns and compositional placement of the figures that crowd the scene.

From his website, "Werger is a Printmaker who thrives in the technical complexities of print media. He works in various forms of intaglio printmaking, which develop an image on a metal plate. During each of the many stages in making an intaglio print, Werger carefully refines his images to reflect the intense precision of the printmaking process."

"His suburban scenes are lyrical and evocative of boyhood summer evening. His city scenes are fraught with tension and isolation. Some of Werger's prints show the influence of film noir genre movies as well as paying tribute to the cinematic techniques of Alfred Hitchcock. Through realistic portrayals of scenes viewed from unusual angles, he creates a dream-like detachment from the events taking place."

Werger received his BFA from Rhode Island School of Design in 1978, and his MFA from the University of Wisconsin-Madison in 1982. For eighteen years, Werger was the Chairman of the Fine Arts at Wesleyan College in Macon, GA, before moving in 2000 to the University of Ohio, Athens, to head the printmaking department. Werger's prints are included in the permanent collections of museums nationwide, including Washington, DC, New York, Atlanta, and Boston.

During Werger's stay in Greenville, he will be interacting with the art students of the Governor's School and Furman University, providing various demonstrations of his work.

The exhibition can also be viewed on line at (www.hamptoniiigallery.com).

The location of Hampton III Gallery is on Wade Hampton Blvd., in Gallery Centre, Taylors, SC, (a couple of miles from downtown Greenville).

The Anderson Arts Center

announces a three day workshop with a prolific painter of introspective landscapes

Presenting William "Bill" Jameson

March 16, 17, 18, 2017 9:00 A.M. to 3:30 P.M.

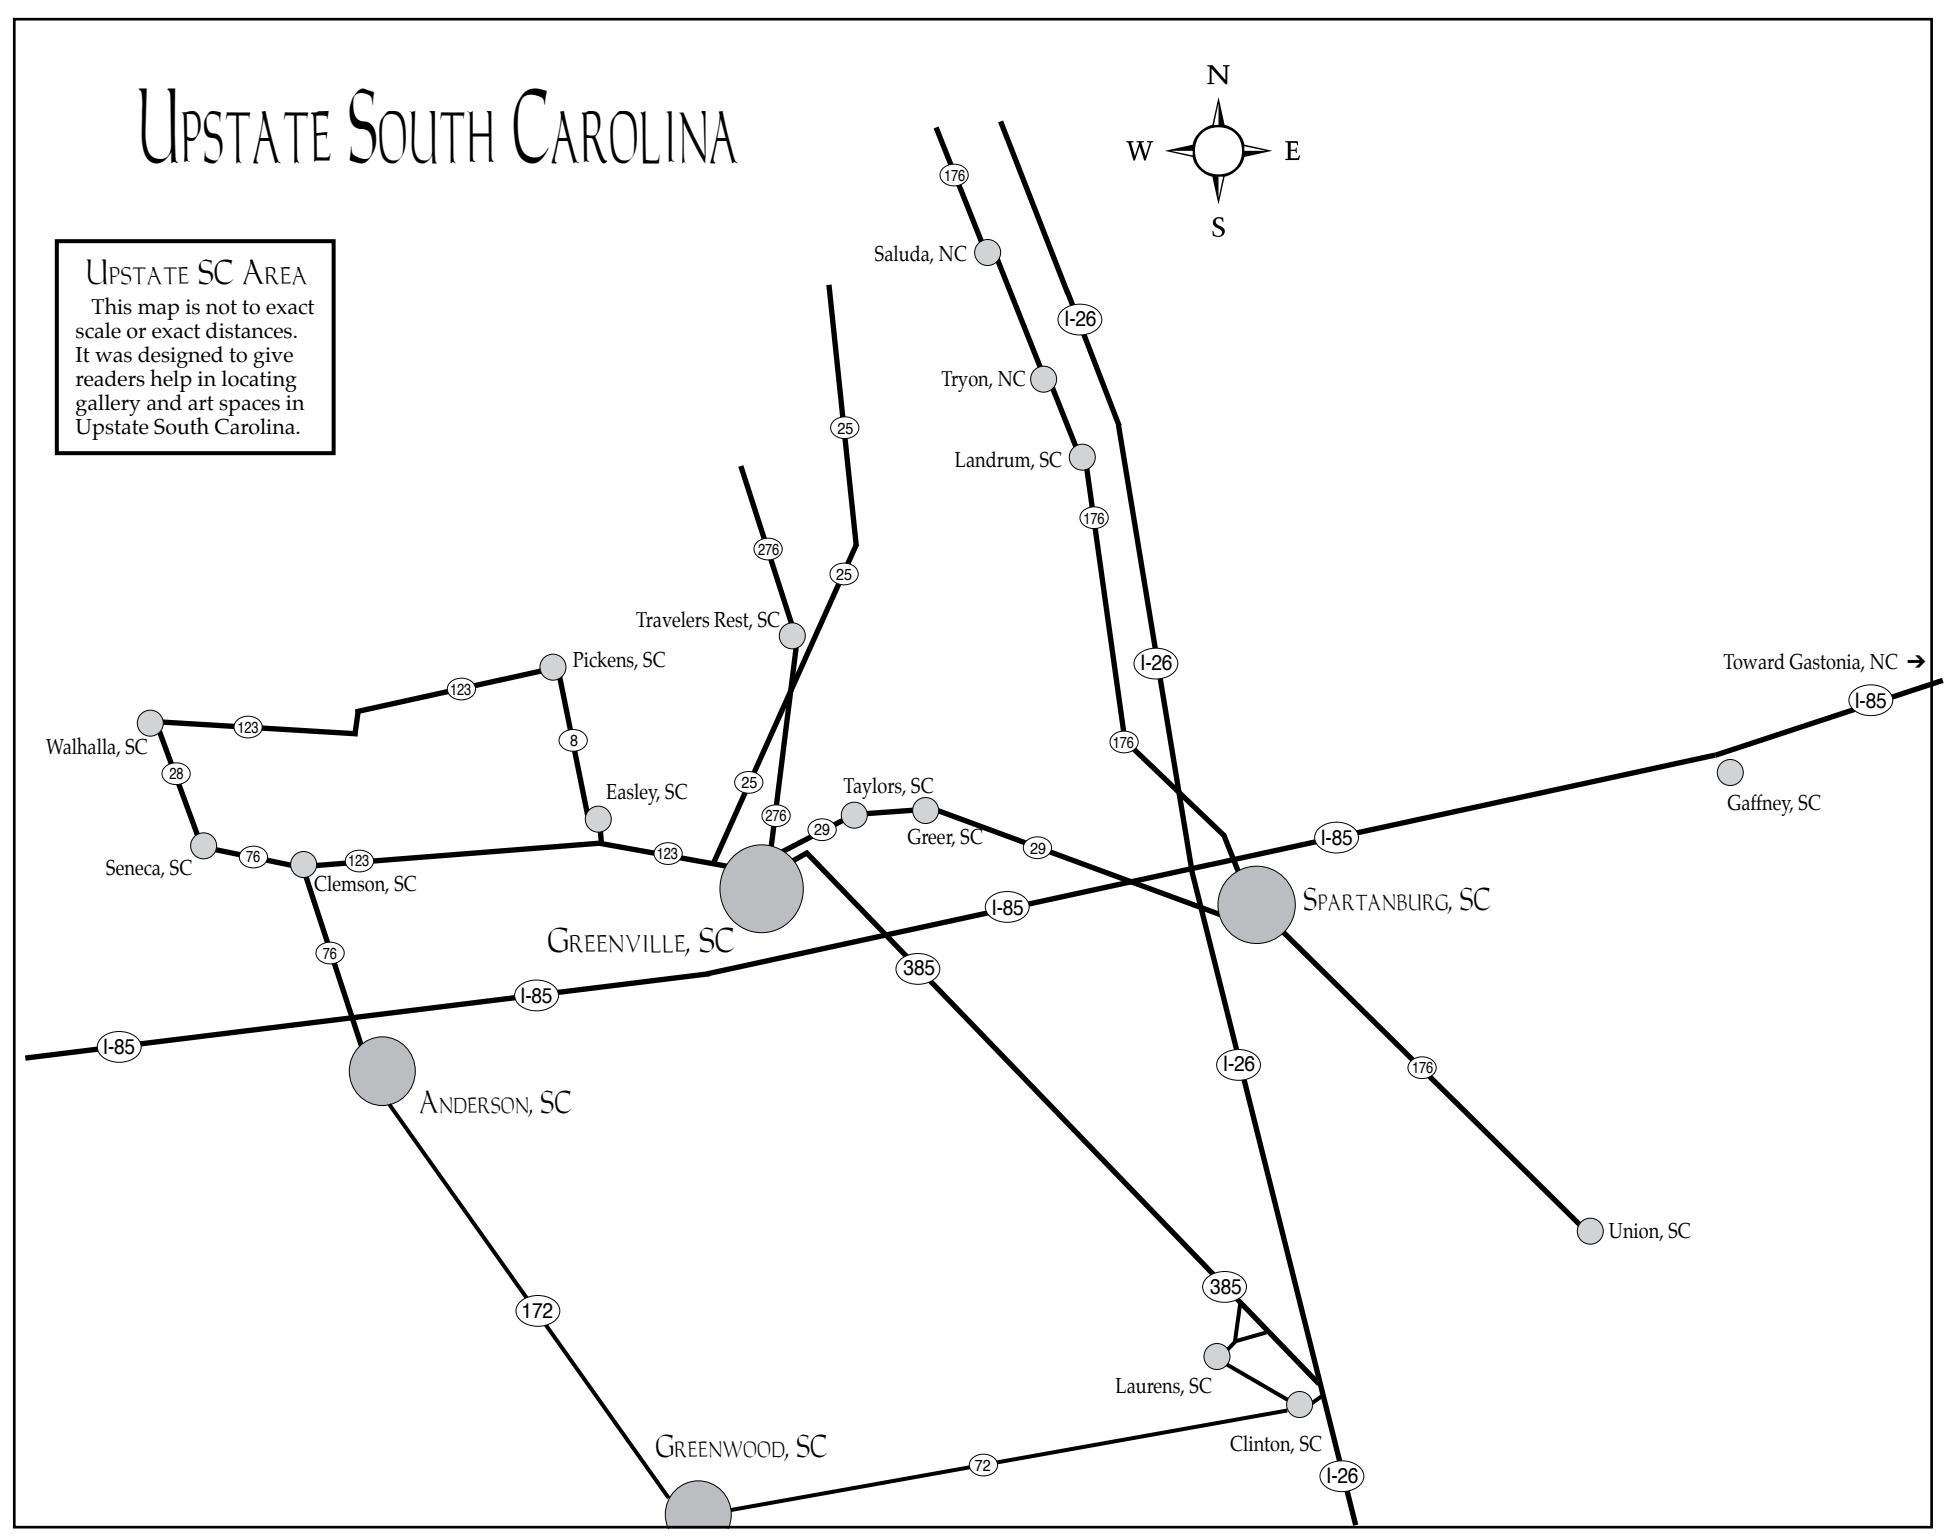

The workshop will be held at the Anderson Arts Center Warehouse located in historic downtown Anderson, SC, at 110 Federal Street
A reception for the workshop participants will be held from 4:00 - 5:30 on Friday evening, March 17th

For Information To hear more, to register for this workshop, or to become a member of the Anderson Arts Center kindly email Chris Beggs at chrisb@andersonarts.org or call 864.222.2787. Tuesday-Friday 9:30-5:30

Fees Cost for the William "Bill" Jameson three-day workshop is $350 for members of the Anderson Arts Center and $375 for nonmembers

Bill's passion for history and nature allow him to create introspective landscapes embodying the full range of local color and timeless contrasts, whether the setting captures the brilliant, warm colors heralding the arrival of fall in the North Carolina mountains or the rich Tuscan countryside dotted with cool blue/green olive fields in bloom among the red-earth shades of freshly upturned soil. Rejecting the term "scene" in reference to these works, Bill defines his landscapes as "explorations."

RIVERWORKS Gallery in Greenville, SC, Offers Student Art Exhibition

RIVERWORKS Gallery in Greenville, SC, will present 26 Awards, an exhibition of the award winners from the "2016 Department of Visual Art Annual Student Exhibition" at Greenville Technical College, on view from Feb. 3 - 19, 2017. A reception will be held on Feb. 3, from 6-9pm.

The "2016 DVA Annual Student Exhibition" marks the culmination of a year of studio work by recognizing the best works created by Greenville Technical College's visual and applied art students. A record 194 entries were submitted by 57 Visual Arts students, 18 of whom received awards. Award donations totaling $2,000 were shared among the award winners, with $200 going to Best in Show, Tiffany Dodd's photograph, "Peyton 071916".

The exhibition represents the many courses of study offered by the Visual Arts Department with entries submitted in various categories including photography, web design, graphic design, sculpture, printmaking, painting, drawing, and design and color. According to Shane Howell, Head of the Department of Visual Arts, "26 Awards encourages our students and provides them a professional venue to celebrate their talents. 26 Awards also offers the public the opportunity to enjoy the best of the best from Greenville Technical College's Department of Visual Arts."

Shane continues, "A particular thank

Davidson College in Davidson, NC, will present two new exhibits including: Baik Art Residency and Exhibition, featuring works by Mella Jaarsma, Aliansyah Caniogo, and Restu Ratnaningtyas, on view in the Van Every Gallery, from Feb. 9 through Mar. 3, 2017, and works by Heri Dono, on view in the Smith Gallery, from Feb. 9 through Mar. 3, 2017. Receptions will be held on Feb. 9, from 7-8:30pm with gallery talks at 7pm.

The Van Every/Smith Galleries are delighted to announce the Baik Art Residency and Exhibition. Mella Jaarsma, Aliansyah Caniogo, and Restu Ratnaningtyas will join us from Indonesia beginning January 17, 2017 for a three-week residency. Throughout the residency, the public will have the opportunity to experience the artists’ creative process, as they create new works for their exhibitions.

Mella Jaarsma was born and raised in the Netherlands. She studied art at Minerva Academy, Groningen, before moving abroad in 1984 to study art at the Art Institute of Jakarta (IKJ) and Indonesia Institute of the Arts (ISI). Her work has been widely exhibited internationally and can be found in major public collections including Queensland Art Gallery, Brisbane, Australia and the Singapore Art Museum.

In 1988, Jaarsma and her partner Nindityo Adipurnomo, founded Cemeti Gallery (now Cemeti Art House), a space in Yogyakarta dedicated to residencies, projects, and exhibitions. Jaarsma’s sculptural constructions, “costumes” that are often worn/performed, often speak to social and political concerns, such as racism, discrimination, and other forms of oppression. Her works map memory, recording moments of feeling significant, unimportant, or empty.

Aliansyah Caniogo (Alin) was born in 1987 in Tangerang, Indonesia. He studied

He has participated in many performance art workshops including in Germany, Poland, Singapore, Japan, and Thailand. He is now one of the disciples of Melati Suryodarmo in his performance art practice in Solo, Indonesia.

Caniogo’s performance art is centered around activism within the public space. His interventions and site specific works are aimed at entering areas of conflict through art in an effort to incite change, for example, to repair the damaged environment. Caniogo’s work has been widely exhibited, and he is one of the founders of an artist collective space in Bandung, Ruang Gerilya. Caniogo is the recipient of many awards and honors including the 4th Restu Ratnaningtyas was born in Tangerang in 1981. She studied at the Department of Art Education, the Faculty of Art at UNJ (Jakarta State University). She works in a variety of media including video art, watercolor, painting, and installation. Her work centers around daily life, focusing on small things that help balance our lives. Ratnaningtyas’ works has been exhibited in solo and group exhibitions internationally, including in Indonesia, Korea, Thailand, Turkey, Australia, and Myanmar. She has completed a residency at Cemeti Art Center in Yogyakarta, Indonesia.

Accompanying the residency, the Galleries will present a solo exhibition featuring mixed media works by Heri Dono in the Smith Gallery. Dono was born in Jakarta in 1960. He studied at the Indonesian Art Institute in Yogyakarta, where he now lives and works. His work encompasses painting, sculpture, and installation that punctuates traditional Indonesian folk imagery with cars, screens, and political

Latin American Contemporary Art in Charlotte, NC, Features Works by Cristina Toro

Latin American Contemporary Art (LaCa) Projects in Charlotte, NC, is pleased to present Strike a Match to Hear My Sound, Cristina Toro’s second solo exhibition with the gallery, on view from Feb. 3 through Apr. 8, 2017. A reception will be held on Feb. 2, from 6-8pm.

This new body of work addresses natural and supernatural phenomena related to fire and light. The inspiration for these works began in Toro’s kitchen, where she experienced the phenomenon of luminous plasma causing ionization of air particles and creating a glowing light, or Saint Elmo’s cartoons.

Dono exhibits his work internationally; recent solo exhibitions were on view at Musee d’art contemporain de Lyon, Lyon, France; Tyler Rollins Fine Art, New York, New York; and New Museum, Jakarta, Indonesia. His work belongs in several public collections including the National Gallery of Australia, Canberra, Australia; Singapore Art Museum, Singapore; and Museum der Kulturen, Basel, Switzerland, among many others.

Throughout the artists’ three-week residency, we will have several special opportunities for the public to meet the artists and see the creative process in action.

The exhibition and related programming are made possible through the support of Susan Baik and Prem Manjoooran ’92.

The gallery is located on N. Main Street in the Belk Visual Art Center. Free parking is located behind the Katherine and Tom Belk Visual Art Center off Jackson Street.

Fire. This exhibition shares a number of examples related to energy and luminosity: ritual bonfires, polaroids, candles inside of kettles, phosphorescence, human energy fields, and the various properties of light, real and imagined, that come from the sun and the moon in relationship to one’s body. This work is not only influenced by Toro’s own research into rituals surrounding warmth, light and nourishment, but also by the history of related images.

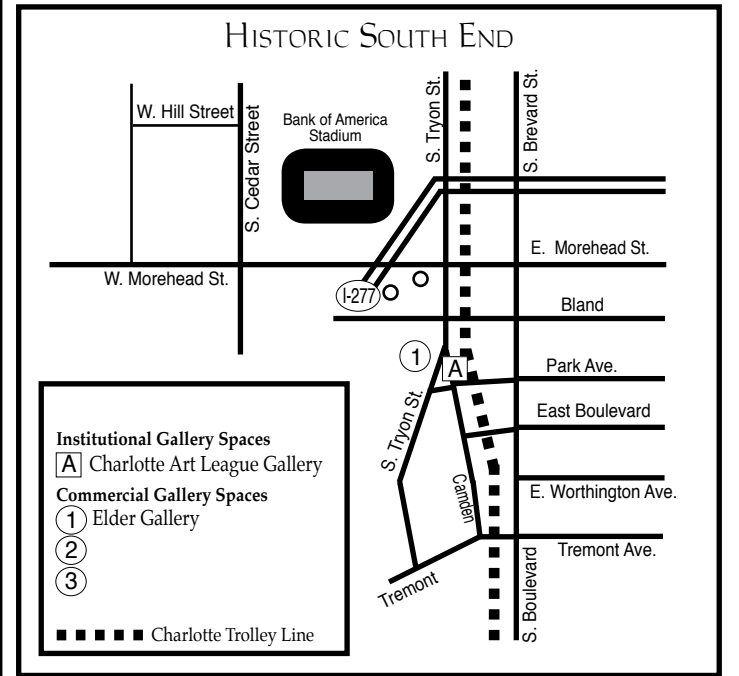

Toro was born in San Juan, Puerto Rico and has been creating and exhibiting her work on a wide scale for over ten years. During this time she has received many honors, including a grant from the New York Council for the Arts, and a prestigious Painting Fellowship from The New York Foundation of the Arts. She has had exhibitions in New York, Boston, Tokyo, and Mexico. Her work is in the collections of the Dana Farber Institute, HPFRANCE Tokyo, The Mint Museum in Charlotte, and the United States Art in Embassies Program. She lives and works in upstate New York.

Latin American Contemporary Art (LaCa) Projects was founded in March of 2013 as the first platform in the Southeastern region of the United States dedicated solely to the presentation, development and promotion of Latin American contemporary art. With locations in both Charlotte and Buenos Aires, the gallery represents a small group of influential emerging and mid-career artists and also exhibits a broader range of works by established and Master artists. Through its exhibitions, LaCa Projects presents and shares works that broadly exemplify Latin America’s significant, ongoing and worldwide influence in contemporary art, and offers an engaging, artistic environment for cross-cultural dialogue and education. This effort is particularly important for the Charlotte region, an area with an ever-expanding diverse population and which is steadily gaining importance in the international fine arts industry.

Harvey B. Gantt Center for African-American Arts+Culture in Charlotte, NC, Offers Four New Exhibitions

The Harvey B. Gantt Center for African-American Arts+Culture in Charlotte, NC, is presenting four new exhibits including: Jordan Casteel: Harlem Notes, Zun Lee: Father Figure, Alison Saar: The Nature of Us, and The Future is Abstract, all on view through July 8, 2017.

Jordan Casteel: Harlem Notes, is an exhibition of recent paintings by Harlem based artist, Jordan Casteel. The exhibition combines her exterior portraits with details that explore intimacy and the document.

Each painting hints toward a treasure trove of stories and memories shared between Casteel and her subject. Perhaps as much autobiographical as observational, Casteel’s paintings are imbued with the tenderness of her gaze. Family, neighbors, all - enter her studio via a photographic snapshot captured in the specificity of their space before being projected in paint onto the surface that immortalizes. Resting with grandeur on the canvas, the subjects penetrate in a scale that is just slightly larger than life.

Through color, Casteel both embraces and push backs against signifiers of blackness revealing a multiplicity in tone and hue that feels supernatural in its matter-of-factness. Offering a chromatic spectrum that mirrors the complexity of being and circumvents any circular reading, these works tease what is familiar while chronicling what is lived in that very moment.

Building a tapestry of structure and dimension through a weaving of loose and tightly knit brush strokes, Casteel builds upon the canvas’ plain surface an orchestra of color and texture. With the application of paint not unlike the caress of a familiar hand.

Casteel (b. 1989 in Denver, CO) received her BA from Agnes Scott College in Decatur, GA, for Studio Art (2011) and her MFA in Painting and Printmaking from Yale School of Art in New Haven, CT (2014). She has been an artist-in-residence at Yaddo, Saratoga Springs, NY, (2015) Lower Manhattan Cultural Council Process Space, Governors Island, NY, (2015), The Studio Museum in Harlem, New York, NY (2015), and is currently an awardee for The Sharpe-Walentas Studio Program, DUMBO, NY (2016). Casteel is an Assistant Professor at Rutgers University-Newark. She currently lives and works in New York, NY and is Zun Lee: Father Figure is at once documentary photography and personal visual storytelling. Through intimate black-and-white frames, the aim is to provide insight into often-overlooked aspects of Black fatherhood.

The project offers a close-up view into the lives of Black men with whom Zun Lee worked closely since 2011 and who are parenting under a variety of circumstances – as married and single fathers, social fathers, young and older, middle class and poorer. The everyday scenes bring into focus what pervasive father absence stereotypes have distorted - real fathers who are involved in their children’s lives in very individual and specific ways. Men who may not be perfect but are not media caricatures.

The work quietly exposes the viewer to aspects of Black male identity and masculinity that many have not seen, or perhaps do not want to see. It shows these men not as victims of their circumstances but as empowered agents in their own lives, as capable parents, and above all as loving, wholesome human beings.

Alison Saar: The Nature of Us explores themes of motherhood, the role of women, the intensity of their hearts, and their embodiment as nature by highlighting the works of renowned artist Alison Saar.

Saar is one of the most acclaimed contemporary artists practicing in the United States today. Her work evokes ancestors, African cultural traditions, the contemporary experiences of women – the significance of their hair – as well as the tropes of women and nature. Saar uses nature as metaphor in imagined intersections with the female body and frequently creates assemblages that transform found objects. Her career as an artist spans more than three decades. In addition, both her parents – Betye and Richard – and her sisters are artists.

Saar's work has been exhibited nationally and internationally and her permanent site sculptures can be found across the nation, from Los Angeles to New York. She works primarily in sculpture but also incorporates prints, paintings, and works on paper in her practice, most often with a focus on the female form. Saar grapples with motherhood, the role of women, the intensity of their hearts and their embodiment as nature and its forces. This exhibition of new sculptures, mixed-media works, and prints, mounted by the Harvey B. Gantt Center, illumines these themes.

Curated by Dexter Wimberly, The Future is Abstract highlights the work of four multidisciplinary, contemporary artists working in abstract painting and mixed-media. The exhibition includes an array of rigorous, process-driven works made from reclaimed or found materials, as well as classic painting and production techniques. The exhibiting artists use abstraction to address concerns that range from the personal to the political. Their challenging work is a testament to the continued evolution and relevance of abstraction.

Jerald Melberg Gallery in Charlotte, NC, Features Works by Raul Diaz

Jerald Melberg Gallery in Charlotte, NC, is presenting Raul Diaz: Poetic Vision, on view through Mar. 18, 2017.

Jerald Melberg Gallery is pleased to present a new solo exhibition of recent paintings and sculpture by Córdoba, Argentina artist Raul Diaz (b. 1952). Diaz has spent many years perfecting a technique for his two-dimensional works in which he carves thick wooden panels and then paints them. His imagery draws on childhood memories of lake fishing with his father and grandfather. The sight of wooden fishing boats, either dotting the water or stacked on the beach, is indelible in Diaz' memory, and these same vessels frequently appear in the work as a metaphor for life's journey. His compositions are notable for their contrast of dream-like imagery and contemplative silence with technical invention.

As his paintings are almost always bas-relief, it was a natural progression for him to begin making sculpture. Taking the boat and figural images into three dimensions he creates a new experience for the viewer and also expands his own technical prowess, employing both wood and bronze.

The subjects of Diaz' paintings are the topics of life. People and history become part of the things that form us from infancy. His belief is that we all live in a world strug-

Baker's studio practice, characterized by a sense of lawlessness, similar to that of the subjects that fascinate him.

DeShawn Dumas creates mixed-media wall tablets from various remnants of heavy industry and consumerism, including chain-link fences, steel frames, spray paint, and plexi glass. His focus is the use of materials that function socially. Obtaining these materials allows Dumas to explore the relationship between handicraft and what he refers to as art's "relationship to the machine." Deeply inspired by energy, the works are meant to move the viewer.

Torkwase Dyson's paintings, drawings and sculptures are informed by the contemporary and historical conditions in and through which Black people negotiate systems and deeply rooted ideological orders within built and natural environments in the United States. She merges ideas such as site and built environments, nature and culture under the classification of environmentalism. Fascinated with transformations, ambiguities and environmental changes that place these subjects in relationship to each other, Dyson's work revolves around investigating our connections to imagination, materiality, geography and belonging.

Brenna Youngblood explores the iconography of public and private experiences and issues of identity, ethics, and representation. Youngblood freely experiments with aspects of formalism, materials, and processes as part of her rigorous studio practice. With a background in photomontage, Youngblood builds the surfaces of many paintings simultaneously while assessing the relationships between each object in formation. Humor and satire are intuitively interwoven in the choices she makes about composition, line, form, and content.

gling with conflicts and how to resolve them and that art either reflects this or sublimates it. His recent work is a poetic vision symbolic of our human existence.

Diaz is one of the best known and celebrated living artists in Argentina. He has had over thirty-five solo exhibitions, including a mid-career retrospective in 2010 at the Caraffa Museo (of Modern Art) in Córdoba. Lark & Key Gallery and Boutique in Charlotte Offers Group Exhibit

Lark & Key Gallery and Boutique in Charlotte, NC, will present Surface, on view from Feb. 3 through Mar. 31, 2017.

The exhibition features encaustic and mixed media artwork by Janet Eskridge, Bridgette Guerzon Mills and guest Robin Luciano Beaty, Jim Connell ceramics and Alice Scott jewelry.

Encaustic, a mix of beeswax, resin and color pigment, is one of the oldest forms of painting, dating as far back as Ancient Greece. Layer upon layer is applied, each fused with the previous layer, producing an atmospheric quality to the painting. Eskridge, Mills and Beaty work with the versatile medium to explore the concept of surfaces - above, below and within. Through layers, texture, mark making, embedded photos, stitching and found objects, the artists create luminous and tactile pieces that invite the viewer to take a closer look and explore the depths of the work.

Jim Connell creates ceramic vessels that are firmly grounded in traditional pottery making techniques. His uniquely styled vessels are generally wheel-thrown, with the thick walls paddled and carved to produce a secondary, three-dimensional surface. Connell enjoys the interplay and tension of his stoneware and porcelain forms. His carved vessels are finished with a gloss glaze or sandblasted after the final firing to achieve unique textures and highlights of gloss and matte surfaces.

Exploration of surfaces continues with jewelry by Alice Scott, of Symbology Jewelry. She borrows symbols from a variety of spiritual and cultural practices in order to create her own world of sacred objects. Pulling inspiration from the symbols of her production jewelry, as well as vintage pieces, Scott creates one-of-a-kind pieces using a variety of gemstones. Her forms and settings thoughtfully showcase the stone colors, inclusions and surface properties - smooth, rough or faceted.

Sumter County Gallery of Art in Sumter, SC, Offers Society and Guild Member Exhibitions

The Sumter County Gallery of Art in Sumter, SC, is presenting South Carolina Watermedia Society Traveling Exhibition and Sumter Artists' Guild Winners Show, on view through Feb. 17, 2017.

It's Winter, and after the holidays cabin fever will take over in Sumter. The Sumter County Gallery of Art provides the perfect getaway with two popular, perennial exhibitions: The 39th annual South Carolina Watermedia Society Traveling Exhibition and the Sumter Artists' Guild Winners Show.

The South Carolina Watermedia Society (SCWS) is the largest statewide visual arts guild with a mission to promote South Carolina artists by providing exhibition opportunities and educational programs. The 2016 SCWS show is an especially vibrant one with more traditional offerings. The juror was Canadian born artist Marc Taro Holmes, the "Urban Sketcher".

Holmes attended Alberta College of Art and Design in design/illustration. He is a sketchbook artist and plein-air painter who works in ink, watercolor and oils. Holmes has worked as an art director and conceptual designer of video games at studios such as Electronic Arts, Microsoft and Disney. His work as a professional sketch artist has inspired teams of digital artists creating interactive adventures in settings as diverse as J.R.R. Tolkien's Lord of the Rings and the science fiction epic Halo. Holmes has always based the inspiration for his designs on drawing from the real world, sketching in museums on the street, and traveling to draw exotic locations in Europe and Asia. He is also an accomplished portrait and figural painter.

This year's Winner of the Best of Show award is "The Hands of a Fisherman" by Lynda English. Karen Watson, director of the Sumter County Gallery of Art states that "The South Carolina Watermedia Society show is one of the most popular shows the gallery presents each year; it has been presented by the gallery for over thirty years. This show has a wonderful selection of diverse work by artists, with a little something for everybody. The variety of imagery and subject matter is stunning; from mixed media abstract works to more traditional representational work including landscapes, figural, and still life compositions. The

Work by Genevieve Rath, 1st place in Guild Show

South Carolina Watermedia Society Show showcases the incredible talent of South Carolina artists."

The Sumter Artists' Guild continues its growth under new president Michael Duffy – a multi-talented artist and stage actor who wants to expand the Guild's artistic presence in Sumter. He is surrounded by a core of long time, hardworking guild members – Laura Cardello, Carole Carberry, Amanda Cox and Vicki Hagner. SCGA director Watson notes, "This year's Sumter Artists' Guild Winners exhibition is particularly exciting because the work for the 2016 Sumter Artists' Guild Show was so strong and the People's Choice Winner gave visitors a chance to get involved".

This year's Sumter Artists' Guild Winners Show includes such a broad range of styles and media, with an emphasis on abstraction. Accomplished watercolorist Genevieve Rath's breathtaking painting of her grandson, "Night Swim Buddies" won first place, Carole Carberry won second place with her serene and mysterious "Golden Moment", and Thomas Alexander Blackmon detailed pyrography (wood burning) "Livery Stable Courtyard", won third place. Honorable Mentions include – Sumter Gallery art education director Amanda Cox, "Floral Study II", first time entrant Taylor Mitchum, "Meaningful Colors and Sylvia Pickell, "Scherenschnitte". The winner of the 2016 Sumter Artists' Guild Show People's Choice Award was a close contest, but Connie Brennan's intricate "Tattered Angel", won.

As with all of the gallery's exhibitions, this popular show would not be possible

City Art Gallery in Columbia, SC, Offers Works by George Gregory

City Art Gallery in Columbia, SC, is presenting Collect-ed, featuring works by George Gregory, on view through Feb. 25, 2017.

The exhibition includes three bodies of work that span almost ten years. The first, a series of lithographs, uses found and collected imagery from childhood photos, anatomical drawings and floral photographs.

The second is a body of work that is inspired by the Pointillist movement. Gregory uses sequins and hand painted push pins to create the images for this body of work. The process is laborious and time consuming. For instance, the sequins are hand sewn to paper and he creates a grid by punching holes in the paper to accommodate the needle and thread.

The process of creating the grid for his sequin pieces inspired the third body of work. Instead of using the holes for sequins, he threads colorful embroidery floss from hole to hole until he is happy with the pattern.

Gregory comments, "I am inspired by personal narrative from my childhood, adolescent and adult relationships. Since childhood I have embraced materials considered part of the arts and crafts world. It is a way for me to combine my childhood experiences of crafting with my Grandmother and spending time with my carpenter Father while he worked. The materials they used in combination reveal the tensions between low art and high art. Through their use with form, I am leveling the playing field. The relationship between hard and soft plays an important role in my work. This is demonstrated through the materiality of fiber and wood. My material choices and processes reference my experiences with lost relationships. I pay homage to my Father and Grandmother by incorporating the same materials that played a part in my childhood. Creating a delicate balance."

Gregory achieved his MFA in Sculpture from The Ohio State University and is a full time instructor in the School of Visual Art and Design at the University of South Carolina.

University of South Carolina Columbia, SC, Offers Annual Student Exhibition

The University of South Carolina in Columbia, SC, will present the 62nd Annual Juried Student Exhibition, on view in the McMaster Gallery, from Feb. 23 through Mar. 16, 2017. A reception will be held on Feb. 23, from 5-7pm, with an Awards Ceremony held at 6pm.

The 62nd Annual Juried Student Exhibition will include original artworks of a variety of mediums by current undergraduate and graduate students of the University of South Carolina's School of Visual Art and Design.

This year's juror will be Catherine Walworth, Ph.D., the new Curator at the Columbia Museum of Art. Walworth received her master's degree from the University of Washington and her doctorate from The Ohio State University where she specialized in modern art from 1850-1950, Russian art, and early film. Starting her museum career at the Seattle Art Museum, Walworth has had extensive curatorial experience working at significant institutions around the country including the McNay Art Museum in San Antonio and the Cleveland Museum of Art. Most recently, Walworth served as the curatorial research assistant on the exhibition Silver to Steel: The Modern Designs of Peter Muller-Munk at Carnegie Museum

701 Center for Contemporary Art in Columbia, SC, Features 25 Artists

701 Center for Contemporary Art in Columbia, SC is presenting 25 Artists, a film project by Columbia native, filmmaker and three-time Emmy nominee Wade Sellers, on view through Feb. 26, 2017. Making It Work: Artists In Conversation, will be offered on Feb. 12, all at 3pm. The participating artists will be announced later.

For the project, filmmaker Sellers interviewed 25 Columbia artists whose work he admires, asking them why they create, what influences and motivates them, how they work, etc. Each interview took place with the artists standing in front of a neutral, white backdrop and was conducted informally and in spontaneous fashion. The interviews were edited to 60 seconds or less to create a series of vignettes. All interviews will be shown simultaneously on 25 mounted monitors in an inventive, gallery-wide installation. The goal was, Sellers says, "to get to the heart of why the artists do what they do and who they are as artists." In the process, "the viewer is able to explore the creative process."

The artists featured in the project include: Eileen Blyth, Jarid Lyfe Brown, Michaela Pilar Brown, James Busby, Michael Cassidy, Stephen Chesley, Thomas Crouch, Jeff Donovan, Mary Gilkerson, Bonnie Goldberg, Michael Krajewski, Matthew Kramer, Whitney LeJeune, Susan Lenz, Dre Lopez, Laurie McIntosh, John Monteith, Lucas Sams, Alex Smith, Kirkland Smith, Laura Spong, Anna Redwine, Cedric Umoja, Mike Williams, and David Yaghjian.

"Even though the edited versions are short, the interviews are incisive and provide a great series of portraits of artists and why they do what they do," 701 CCA board chair Wim Roefs said. "The exhibition and conversations should give the public a deeper understanding of what drives artists and what the possibilities and difficulties are as they try to develop a career as artists in Columbia."

"25 Artists is as complete a project from concept to creation as I have created," Sellers said. "I am as proud of it as any work that I have done."

Gallery West in Columbia, SC, Features Works by Elena Burykina and Evelyn Wong

Gallery West in Columbia, SC, will present Seasons: Elena Burykina and Evelyn Wong, on view from Feb. 3 through Mar. 25, 2017. A reception will be held on Feb. 3, from 5-8pm.

Gallery West presents the work of two extraordinary young women who are making themselves known in the art world near and far. Their work is influenced by very different cultures: Wong by Chinese art, and Burykina from her homeland of Russia and the Ukraine. The focus of this exhibition is their botanical images which span the seasons of the year.

Elena Burykina was born and raised in Ulan-Ude, Russia until her family left Sellers in an independent filmmaker and producer. He is a three time Emmy nominee whose production company, Coal Powered Filmworks, focuses on producing documentary and independent film. His work has been seen on PBS stations nationwide and independent theaters and festivals around the country. After graduation from the University of South Carolina he began work in independent film as a cinematographer. In the late 1990's he followed this work to New York City, where he began establishing a strong resume of independent work and corporate clients. After returning to the South he turned his focus to producing and directing.

After a number of years producing and directing independent work and PSAs for state agencies Sellers decided to form Coal Powered Filmworks, a documentary and commercial production company. Over the eight years since founding Coal Powered Filmworks, he has produced work for local, regional and national clients. His work has been recognized with Addys, Tellys and numerous other awards. His latest project is a three-part biography series focusing on soldiers who fought in Vietnam that will air nationally in 2017.

701 CCA is a non-profit visual arts center that promotes understanding, appreciation and enjoyment of contemporary art, the creative process and the role of art and artists in the community. The center also encourages interaction between visual and other art forms.

she received her first classical art education, studying drawing, painting, sculpture and art history, all greatly influenced by the Eastern European tradition. She completed a Bachelor's degree in architecture and a Master's in city planning. After working for more than a decade as an architect, she felt the pull to return to her art full time. She moved to the United States in 2013 and now resides in Chattanooga, TN.

Burykina is proficient in the use of oils and watercolors. In 2016 she took a class in linoleum block printmaking and found a new love which she translated into a body of work focusing on flowers and bridges. In addition, there is a delightful series which captures the escapades of her cat, Kuzia. "My thoughts and emotions come to life (in my art) as realistic images and abstract forms...the style depending on the theme, genre, and emotional presence." Burykina's work in this exhibition will include linocut, watercolor, and oil.

South Carolina-based artist, Evelyn Wong, appreciates a careful study of nature with all of her subjects drawn from life, en plein air (outdoors), and at different points in the season during which time each plant is growing or withered, reflecting the changing seasons of the year. "In Work by Evelyn Wong traditional Chinese landscape painting, the image not only served as a source of visual information, but also expressed philosophy and emotions." Wong's drawings share in this very principle where she communicates nature's expressiveness.

In her Gallery West show, Wong is presenting a body of work which, in her words, she has done "just for fun", a series of miniature drawings of trees as they appear throughout the year. Though each drawing is no larger than 2.5 inches by 3.5 inches, each captures a precious and powerful moment in the cycle of nature.

Groveswood Gallery in Asheville, NC, Features Works by Susan Lenz

Groveswood Gallery in Asheville, NC, will present Susan Lenz: In Stitches, on view from Feb. 17 through Mar. 31, 2017.

This exhibition will showcase framed textile art and one-of-a-kind fiber vessels by Columbia, SC, artist Susan Lenz. The public is invited to meet Lenz and to watch her demonstrate her craft on Feb. 17 and 18 from 11am - 4pm.

Using needle and thread for self-expression, Lenz's artwork reflects her passion for historic buildings, especially stained glass windows and the colors and eco-friendly ideals of Friedensreich Hundertwasser, a visionary painter and architect who was also a forerunner in the field of environmental protection. Her work is the result of hand-guided, free-motion machine embroidery and melting techniques, a unique process that Susan developed herself. Each piece builds on the last in an exploration of design motifs and stitched symbols.

This exhibition will feature works from four of Lenz's most popular fiber series: Artifacts, In Box, Stained Glass, and Seasonal Leaves, and will also showcase fiber vessels made entirely from yarn and thread. Lenz says, "The yarn comes from auctions, estate sales, yard sales, and donations from people who are downsizing. All this yarn was originally purchased by someone else... with the intention of making something. It is up to me to actually do it. It's a nice feeling to turn all this unwanted material into a functional and pretty piece."

Lenz's work has been widely exhibited throughout the United States. In 2016, she was awarded a solo show at the Mesa Contemporary Arts Museum in Arizona.

American Folk Art in Asheville, NC, Offers Annual Miniature Show

American Folk Art in Asheville, NC, will present the 13th Annual Miniature Show, on view from Feb. 9 - 27, 2017. A reception will be held on Feb. 10, from 5-7pm.

The highly anticipated 13th Annual Miniatures Show at American Folk Art will feature 14 of the gallery's artists. Timed in the heart of winter and right before Valentine's Day, the Miniatures Show has evolved over the years into a welcome tradition; a celebration of love, a desire to gather together to appreciate the smallest and finest things in life.

When creating pieces for this show, these artists, known for vast stores of creativity rather than training, often experiment with new ideas. This experimentation can lead to breakthroughs that Work by Liz Sullivan contribute to the artist's vocabulary going forward, or it can lead to a one of a kind example...these surprises make this show a particularly satisfying experience.

Caldwell Arts Council in Lenoir, NC, Offers Two New Exhibits Featuring Works by Four Artists

The Caldwell Arts Council in Lenoir, NC, will have the following art exhibits on display Feb. 3 through Apr. 1, 2017: Lost and Found will feature a sculptural case installation by Savannah Tester (Lenoir, NC), encaustic artwork by Jane Wells Harrison (Lenoir, NC), and 'tunnel books' by Lauren Faulkenberry (Whittier, NC) on the main floor, and Fixtures, Contraptions and Other Composites, will feature an installation of sculptural artwork by Memphis, TN, artist Sara Good. A reception will be held on Feb. 3, from 5-7pm.

Savannah Tester, a Lenoir artist and visual art instructor in Caldwell County Schools, likes to work with metal, foam, tar, rubber, paper and other materials because they are quick to respond and easy to fuse together. "That is great for my impatient nature. I find working with these types of materials allows me to work through my ideas more efficiently because I do not get so caught up with tedious process."

Organic form is important to Tester, and she draws inspiration from natural textures and shapes, specifically cave formations. "I like to create objects and environments that echo natural spaces and organic forms ... objects that you want to poke with a stick." Tester is the art teacher for West Lenoir Elementary School and Valmead Elementary School. She grew up in Caldwell County and graduated from UNC Greensboro with a BFA in sculpture in 2014.

Jane Wells Harrison is a Lenoir artist residing in Happy Valley, and works primarily with paint media, often encaustic. Collage is usually an element of her work; therefore the paintings can be characterized as shape and color-based abstractions.

"My ideas come from day to day routine and the news, so underlying content is frequently prompted by current events both personal and global. During a winter residency in January 2016, I began working with maps as my primary collage material, supplemented with old airmail international envelopes and stamps," says Harrison. "The seeds of this work began with a reaction to the idea behind political gerrymandering — a practice used to rearrange maps to serve a particular end. As I worked, the concepts grew more expansive, resulting in ideas of rearranging maps to record events, to document population segments, to contrast rural with urban and national with international. Can these works begin to symbolize ideals of repair, connection and unity as contrasted with conflict, division, and isolation?" Harrison has a Master of Fine Arts in Painting and Drawing from East Carolina University where she was influenced by professors Paul Hartley and Robert Ebendorf. Teaching experience includes East Carolina University, Pocosin Arts, Caldwell Community College, and Penland School of Crafts.

Lauren Faulkenberry is a novelist and book artist living in Whittier, NC. Her artist books include letterpress printing, handmade paper, and paper cuts created by hand. She has exhibited these works across the United States and in Chile, South Korea, and Australia and her work is included in numerous Special Collections libraries, including those of Washington University, Duke University, Baylor University, and the University of Florida among others.

Faulkenberry's "tunnel books" are made of a variety of handmade papers with letterpress prints. "In creating books and prints, I am most interested in preserving memory and mapping patterns. An interest in anthropology, mythology, and storytelling drives me to expose layers of meaning and complexity, and I enjoy examining how our lives become intertwined and how certain patterns in behavior, speech, shared imagery, and landscape emerge over time." Lauren has taught at Penland School of Crafts, Robert C. Williams Museum of Papermaking, and Asheville Bookworks.

Sara Good is coming from Memphis, TN, to install her exhibit in the upstairs gallery. Fixtures, Contraptions, and Other Composites, describes a body of recent sculptural works informed by a layering of sources, ideas, experiences, and sightings. "Of these, I was initially inspired by the highly imaginative, fluid process of conceptualization practiced by glass and metal artist, Ginny Ruffner. Another recent influence derives from the artificial character of such historic buildings as the Scottish Rite Masonic Temple in Memphis, and Huntsville's revived Lowe Mill Building. To add, I have long found particular appeal in the clumsiness and immediacy of the makeshift, and in the humble, at times quirky ingenuity of the homemade."

Good received an MFA in Sculpture from the University of Memphis, where she later taught Studio Art and Art History classes. She has exhibited sculpture and sculptural installations in the South, Southeast, and Midwest.

The Caldwell Arts Council mission is to establish and maintain an awareness and appreciation of cultural arts in Caldwell County, to encourage participation in art events, and to offer various educational opportunities and administrative services in support of artists, arts agencies, and audiences.

Fine Art at Baxters in New Bern, NC, Offers Works by Marvin Saltzman

Fine Art at Baxters in New Bern, NC, will present a Marvin Saltzman Retrospective, featuring a body of work by artist Marvin Saltzman (Professor Emeritus of the University of North Carolina), on view from Feb. 10 through Mar. 6, 2017. A reception will be held on Feb. 10, from 5-8pm, during the downtown Art Walk.

Saltzman was a faculty member in the Studio Arts program at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill for over thirty years. After his retirement in 1996, Saltzman received the prestigious North Carolina Award in Fine Arts. He just celebrated his 80th birthday.

Saltzman has a meticulous painting process: His vibrant landscapes are composed of a multitude of colored glyphs that are first drawn in nature and then painted from memory. Working in a series, he hangs up multiple palettes around his studio, rotating them until the paintings tell him he is finished.

For the past twenty years Saltzman's paintings have been generated from site-specific drawings. His documentary travels have taken him across Europe, from England, Ireland, and Scotland, to Norway, Switzerland, and France; from the deserts of the American Southwest, to the coastal swamps of Pawley's island in South Carolina.

He uses a non-objective system of marks, squares, circles, and arrows to move the eye of the viewer away from the predictable linear and rectangular divisions of the canvas. This adhesion of color and composition is what he refers to as "the total painting system."

"Color is inherent in everything. It is underneath; it is inside. It's just like a garment that is blue. The dye is not necessarily on the surface of the garment. It is in the fiber, so what you are really seeing is the top of the fiber; and the side of the fiber; and it is that aspect that I also do in painting," states Saltzman.

Saltzman was born in Chicago, IL, in 1931. He attended the University of Chicago and the School of the Art Institute of Chicago from 1954 to 1956, and received a BFA and MFA from the University of Southern California in 1959. He taught at multiple universities, including Eastern Oregon State College, the University of Wisconsin at Madison, the University of Southern California, and was a member of the faculty of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

NC Wesleyan College in Rocky Mount, NC, Features Works by Marion Clark Weathers

NC Wesleyan College in Rocky Mount, NC, will present Rivers and Waterways, featuring works by Marion Clark Weathers, on view in the Dunn Center's Civic Gallery, from Feb. 9 through Apr. 23, 2017. A reception will be held on Feb. 9, from 7-8:30pm.

An accomplished artist and noted illustrator, Weathers paints the North Carolina landscape in oil and watercolors. Her series "Rivers and Waterways" takes you down the Tar River, across eastern North Carolina, to coastal scenes near Beaufort and shows her distinctive Impressionist style. Her impressionist method is rooted in tradition and emphasizes atmosphere and a sense of place.

Weathers' paintings feature both landmarks as well as those quiet out of the way spots along the Tar River. With her vision we get to share those solitary moments where fisherman fish and daydream or motor to better fishing grounds. She describes such moments with free and open form and color dashed in with active brushwork knowingly searching for the essentials.

Recently published, Weathers' book "The Secret of Gum Swamp" is a collaboration with storyteller Leigh Balance. Her illustrations bring to life the story of real people and the world they inhabit in Gum Swamp in Coastal North Carolina.

Weathers has studied New Hope Impressionism at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and is a member of the painting community at Barton College. Her paintings have been a part of the Raleigh

Fine Arts Society's prestigious North Carolina Artists Exhibition at the Betty Ray McCain Gallery in Raleigh, NC, for the past two years. In 2015 she was recognized as "Best Rocky Mount Artist" in the Imperial Centre's 2015 National Juried Art Show. Weathers has been included in juried exhibitions across the state from New Bern to Boone, NC, and has been an exhibiting artist at numerous Arts Councils and galleries.

Weathers served as President of NashArts Council and American Advertising Federation, TEAM Chapter. She has received the National Award of Excellence three times from the American Chamber of Commerce, and Best in Show from the American Library Association. She is Registrar at the Maria V. Howard Arts Center and as a working artist paints in her own Goose Creek Studio in Rocky Mount.

Maybe you're the owner of a commercial art gallery and you've never seen your exhibits included with others presented in your area. You might even be an individual artist who is having an exhibit in a non-profit space or commercial space and you don't see your exhibits included. My question to you is - "How long will you put up with that before you ask someone why that is the case?" If you're not included - it's your fault.

Arts Council of Fayetteville/Cumberland County in Fayetteville, NC, Features Works from Myrna Colley-Lee Collection

The Arts Council of Fayetteville/Cumberland County in Fayetteville, NC, will present Reflections: African American Life, featuring works from the Myrna Colley-Lee Collection, an exhibition which honors the lives, traditions and environments of African Americans in the 20th century, on view from Feb. 4 through Mar. 4, 2017. A reception will be held on Feb. 3, from 7-9pm.

Featuring more than 50 pieces from the collection of renowned costume designer and arts patron, Myrna Colley-Lee, Reflections tells a story of heritage, community, and place. The exhibit was organized by International Arts & Artists, Washington, DC, in collaboration with Myrna Colley-Lee Collection.

Comprised of paintings, photographs, textile pieces and works on paper, the exhibition is thoughtfully curated to reflect the culture and experiences of African Americans, celebrating their unique style, and providing insight into their Southern roots and migratory history.

The imagery in Reflections focuses primarily on narrative works and landscapes of everyday life, past and present. With this diverse selection, figurative artworks lead viewers on a journey into memory and beyond. Each piece reveals a portion of the inspiring story of the African diaspora that the entire collection portrays so elegantly.

Leading this exploration are works on paper by prominent African-American artists including: Elizabeth Catlett, Gwen Knight, Betye Saar, John Scott, and Hale Woodruff. Rural landscapes captured by Maude Schulyer Clay, Gerald DeLoach, Randy Hayes, and Tom Rankin are set in contrast with urban landscape paintings by Ernest Crichlow and Rod Ivey. Studio portraits by celebrated photographer James Van Der Zee, and the more candid photography of Roland Freeman, Milly Moorhead, and Eudora Welty, provide a glimpse into the African diaspora. Works by collage masters Romare Bearden and James Denmark, along with a haunting shadowbox construction by postmodernist Radcliffe Bailey, speak to the layered histories of a strong and spiritual people. A rare painting by famed artist Charles White concludes the transformative journey and conveys the quiet wisdom of Reflections.

The Reflections collection both represents a dialogue between the artists and the ever-evolving African-American identity, and reflects the attitude and eye of Colley-Lee - artist and cultural connoisseur with great respect and understanding for the African storytelling tradition.

Myrna Colley-Lee, collector of the works featured in the exhibition, is a leading advocate for the arts, an arts patron, and a professional artist: a pioneer costume designer in the Black Theatre Movement. Born in North Carolina, Colley-Lee has been a world traveler since the age of 17. Colley-Lee collected art from small villages in African and traditional venues, supporting artists at every level. She champions the arts from her many roles of service including creating a foundation that promotes writers and their art.

Colley-Lee is the former Chair of the Board of Directors of the Mississippi Arts Commission. She serves on the Acquisitions Committee of the Mississippi Museum of Art and on the Advisory Boards of both the Ogden Museum of Southern Art in New Orleans, and the College of Architecture, Art and Design at Mississippi State University.

Getting her start in the 1960s and continuing to design for regional theatres today, Colley-Lee is credited as one of the foremost costume designers in the Black Theatre Movement. Her work was featured in the exhibition Songs of Social Significance at the Tobin Collection Gallery of the McNay Art Museum in San Antonio, TX, in 2012. The exhibition showcased costumes, renderings and collages from plays and a study of her design process.

The Arts Council of Fayetteville/Cumberland County was founded in 1973. Methodist University in Fayetteville, NC, Offers Early Photography Exhibition

The David McCune International Art Gallery at Methodist University in Fayetteville, NC, will host a photography exhibit, Impressionism to Modernism: Masterworks of Early Photography, on view from Feb. 9 through Apr. 8, 2017. A reception will be held on Feb. 9, from 6 to 9pm.

Impressionism to Modernism: Masterworks of Early Photography celebrates an intrepid group of photographers at the turn of the 20th century on both sides of the Atlantic who fought to establish photography as a full-fledged art form. Their leader was Alfred Stieglitz, whose exhibition space, "Little Galleries of the Photo-Secession," and exquisitely printed magazine, "Camera Work," advanced the vision of the most ambitious artist-photographers, including Heinrich Kühn, Gertrude Käsebier, Edward Steichen, and Clarence White, as well as Stieglitz himself.

This exhibit is drawn from the private collection of Michael Mattis and Judith Hochberg. The exhibit also covers the explosive aftermath of the Photo-Secession, when, starting with the work of Paul Strand

Florence County Museum Offers Annual Regional Exhibition

Florence County Museum in Florence, SC, is presenting the 2017 Pee Dee Regional Art Competition, sponsored by Chick-fil-A, on view at the Museum's Waters Gallery, through Mar. 24, 2017.

The Pee Dee Regional Art Competition showcases contemporary art created within the last two years by artists located in the Pee Dee region of South Carolina. The works on exhibit were selected by competition juror, Sanford Greene, from a total of 115 online submissions.

Greene is a professional comic book illustrator and native of Kingstree, SC. In addition to his full-time work, Greene is an artist-in-residence at Benedict College, Columbia, SC, and also conducts workshops for students interested in sequential art and animation.

Greene currently works for Marvel Entertainment on the title Power Man and Iron Fist, whose main character is the basis for the newly launched Netflix original series, Luke Cage. The Luke Cage (Power Man) personality has been a part of the Marvel canon since 1972, but recent watchers of Netflix might remember Cage best from his role in the 2015 hit show Jessica Jones.

Since beginning work in the comics industry in the late 1990s, Greene has provided ink, pencil and color work for major comic book publishers Marvel, DC, Image and Dark Horse on a diverse list of titles, including Wonder Girl, Deadpool, Uncanny Avengers, Black Panther, and most recently, Power Man and Iron Fist.

A first place cash award of $1000 will be presented at the opening reception. Second place will receive $500, third place will receive $250 and one Honorable Mention will receive $100. The People's Choice Award winner, which will be voted upon by visitors through out the duration of the exhibition, will be announced Monday, March 20, and will receive a $50 award.

Florence County Museum in Florence, SC, Offers Works by Eugene Thomason

The Florence County Museum in Florence, SC, is presenting From New York to Nebo; the Artistic Journey of Eugene Thomason, on view in the Special Exhibits Gallery, through May 28, 2017.

The exhibit is composed of 15 paintings created between 1928 and 1968, demonstrating key periods in the artist's development. All works in the exhibit are on loan from The Johnson Collection, Spartanburg, SC, who own the largest single collection of Thomason's work.

Eugene Thomason (1895 - 1972) was a native of South Carolina. In 1921, he fell under the fortunate patronage of one of the nation's most powerful men, North Carolina tycoon, James B. Duke. With Duke's encouragement and support, Thomason entered the renowned Art Students League in New York, where he met some of the leading members of the Ashcan School of American modern realist painters.

trait by Thomason's mentor, the famous Ashcan artist, George Benjamin Luks, whose influential friendship with Florence artist William Henry Johnson has been cited by numerous art historians as a critical factor in Johnson's early success.

Painting at the same time as such well known Regionalists as Thomas Hart Benton and Grant Wood, Thomason embraced his own region, becoming the visual spokesman for that place and its people. He functioned outside of the art world mainstream, working and exhibiting - with rare exception - only in the Carolinas, and without consistent gallery representation that might have promoted his career and provided financial stability. As a result, Thomason and his art have been regrettably overlooked.

The exhibition is accompanied by a full color, hardcover catalog published in

Burroughs-Chapin Art Museum in Myrtle Beach, SC, Offers Companion Quilt Exhibits

Created in the isolated African-American hamlet of Gee's Bend, AL, a unique style of handmade quilts were discovered by the art world in the 1960s. These Gee's Bend quilts have been exhibited at galleries and museums around the country, among them the Franklin G. Burroughs-Simeon B. Chapin Art Museum. The Museum currently displays the exhibition Gee's Bend: From Quilts to Prints, from now until Apr. 23, 2017, an exploration into the art of making prints based on traditional Gee's Bend quilt designs.

Gee's Bend quilts also inspired a 2008 children's book by Patricia McKissack, titled Stitchin' and Pullin' a Gee's Bend Quilt, illustrated by New York-based artist Cozbi Cabrera. Nearly two dozen of these illustrations are featured in a companion exhibit to the Gee's Bend quilts, titled Stitchin' and Pullin': Painted Illustrations by Cozbi Cabrera. Along with Cabrera's paintings are several handmade dolls and quilts created by the artist, and a miniature replica of a Gee's Bend dogtrot cabin by Georgetown, SC, artist Woody Gruber.

Work by Carl Blair

To enhance the intimacy of the exhibit, the Museum has designed a reading nook for children. Stitchin' and Pullin' will be on display through Apr. 16, 2017. Programming to spotlight both of these exhibitions is scheduled for spring. Information will be posted on the Art Museum's website at (www.myrtlebeachartmuseum.org).

McKissack's book and Cabrera's illustrations tell the story of the community of Gee's Bend quilters through the eyes of a young child, as the women work together, sharing stories, songs and their common history as they "stitch and pull" thread through cloth.

In addition to her work as a commissioned artist and children's book illustrator, Cabrera is currently an Artist in Residence at the Lincoln Center's Manny Cantor Center (New York City), where she conducts a collaborative quilting workshop to a diverse community of Anglo, Hispanic, Hassidic, African and Cantonese speakers.

A third exhibition, The Fabric of Our Collection, will open Feb. 11 and will feature works from the Art Museum's permanent collection that reference fabric, either by medium, subject matter or style. These will include Burgess, the Legacy, a photo-collage quilt by Carolynne Miller; Carl Blair's oil-and-wax painting Appalachian Spring; Jonathan Green's oil painting African Memories, which depicts a woman in straw hat moving between line-hung quilts, and other fabric-related works. Fabric will remain on display through Apr. 23, 2017.

The Franklin G. Burroughs-Simeon B. Chapin Art Museum is a wholly nonprofit institution located across from DoubleTree Resort by Hilton on South Ocean Boulevard in Myrtle Beach. Components of Museum programs are funded in part by support from the City of Myrtle Beach, the Horry County Council and the South Carolina Arts Commission, which receives support from the National Endowment for the Arts.

North Carolina Pottery Center in Seagrove, NC, Features Bunny Schroerer's Pottery Collection

The North Carolina Pottery Center in Seagrove, NC, will present A Collector's Collection, featuring 40 works from the collection of Bunny Schroerer, on view from Feb. 18 through Apr. 22, 2017. A reception will be held on Feb. 18, from non-2pm.

North Carolina is home to many pottery aficionados who are remarkable people not just for their collections, but also for who they are as people and for the passion they share for preserving, collecting, and sharing knowledge about our state's rich pottery tradition. Many of those collectors have given pieces to the North Carolina Pottery Center over the years, something which the center deeply appreciates.

A Collector's Collection focuses on forty exemplary art pottery pieces from the collection of Bunny Schroerer. As is the case in all museums, large and small, there is never enough space to permanently display everything held in permanent collections. Many of the pieces in this collection will be on display long-term at the center, but we felt all these extraordinary pieces needed to be displayed together for a bit of time to showcase the remarkable skills of our state's early art potters, as well as hopefully inspire another generation to collect, learn, and continue enhancing our understanding and knowledge of North Carolina pottery.

A Collector's Collection was curated by the NCPCC Exhibitions Committee. Exhibitions are made possible through the generosity of our membership, the

STARworks in Star, NC, Opens School House Gallery - Feb. 4, 2017

STARworks in Star, NC, will hold a Grand Opening for its new School House Gallery, on Feb. 4, from 9am-5pm.

The first 25 people to attend will win a free handmade STARworks Clay Studio cup. There will also be glass and ceramic items given away every hour on the hour throughout the day.

Attendees have the opportunity to participate in Make Your Own Glass Valentine and Make Your Own Valentine's Mug workshops. Space is limited and early registration is required. Those who do not wish to participate are welcome to watch. The River Wild food truck, based out of Lake Tillery, will be on site with burgers, fish tacos, fries and many other offerings. Visitors 21 and older may purchase beer from Asheboro's Four Saints Brewing Company and wine from Albemarle's Stony Mountain Vineyard.

A look at the free handmade STARworks Clay Studio cups which will be given to the first 25 people through the door on Feb. 4, 2017.

"It's been a long time coming, but renovations are finally to a point where we can open the School House Gallery and welcome STARworks visitors through the original school house entrance," said executive director Nancy Gottovi. "We are very fortunate to have a part of Star's history that we can share with the rest of the world."

Ongoing renovations have taken place for more than a year to restore the Caro-

GreenHill in Greensboro, NC, Offers Exhibition of Motorcycles

GreenHill in Greensboro, NC, will present M.A.D | Motorcycle. Art. Design, a multi-media, experiential exhibition combining art, sound, industrial design and cultural elements, on view from Feb. 3 through June 8, 2017.

As an opening kick-off party, GreenHill will host a Leather and Lace party on Feb. 11. Tickets sold online or at the door. For more details visit (GreenHillnc.org/MAD).

"If I weren't doing what I'm doing today . . . I'd be traveling around the world on the back of a motorcycle." —Donna Karan.

The horizon beckons in the distance, the engine rumbles with a throaty roar, and the lure of the open road tempts you to leave the work-a-day world behind and revel in the freedom of the unencumbered. Embrace it: Start your journey, one motorcycle at a time, one work of art at a time!

M.A.D | Motorcycle. Art. Design is the first major exhibition combining cutting-edge contemporary visual art and some of the most exquisite design accomplishments of the 20th and 21st centuries related to a modern icon: the motorcycle. Visualize the sleek beauty of these mighty machines and experience the thrill of living in a moment of independence, adventure, and individuality exemplified by an iconic bike. In The Gallery at GreenHill, the air is electric with the excitement of possibility, as 23 motorcycles and dynamic site-specific art convey the history and rich cultural narrative of the motorcycle—a story of open roads, freedom, adventure, fear and flight. Through the artist's lens, M.A.D explores the quintessential symbol of the modern age.

Together GreenHill, a selection group

1941 Indian Scout Motorcycle, borrowed from the collection of Monty Hendrix and Ozzie Scofield, retired CEO of Scottish Re U.S. Inc., past chairman of the American Motorcycle Heritage Foundation and lifelong motorcycle enthusiast, curated the collection of 23 motorcycles spanning 110 years of production and are significant through their technological innovation, design excellence and aesthetic and/or social function. The collection includes the earliest mass produced bike, a 1902 Marsh, to Evil Knievel's Las Vegas Stunt Bike the Captain American Chopper which was featured in "Easy Rider."

A site-specific installation created by North Carolina artist Ivan Toth Depeña encompassing the energy, motion and vibrancy of motorcycles. While still in its conceptualization phase, Depeña intends to transform the 7,000 square foot space of The Gallery, transcending the obvious with the subversive. Depeña is an interdisciplinary artist informed by his experience in art, architecture, technology, and design. His work explores new ways of seeing, and creating through the dynamic integration of custom software and digital fabrication methods with traditional materials such as wood and steel.

Depeña's large-scale commissions transform public spaces into colorful landscapes that invite play and wonder. These interactive projects offer a one-on-one response to viewers' actions, providing an ever-evolving spatial and visual experience.

name Revelation Cotton Mills, and owner of a vintage clothing business, Gate City Dry Goods Company, will curate GreenHill's Infocus Gallery. This space will highlight and exemplify the "lifestyle" aspect of the motorcycle culture featuring a collection of custom wearables and accessories including t-shirts, leather jackets, custom saddles and eyewear. Historical documentation will be highlighted through posters, manufacturers' advertisements and photographs. Educational programming for adults and children will include studying light and sound waves, tattoo art, studies of motorcycle culture around the world and building a scrap motorcycle.

John Paul Coyne, Director of Scene Design, design and production department at University of North Carolina School of the Arts (UNCSA), and a master class is collaborating on the design and exhibition installation. Coyne explains, "I believe in the importance of the human scale, resonance of design and the essential aspect of collaboration." All these things will be reflected in the work done by Coyne and his team of UNCSA students.

GreenHill's mission to promote the visual art of North Carolina is fulfilled in not only in the art installation and the lifestyle area of the exhibition. Through the collaboration with UNCSA on their design of the installation, GreenHill will support local North Carolina art students. Through M.A.D, GreenHill's goals are many and varied. Laura Way, GreenHill's Executive Director explains "We intend the juxtaposition of the motorcycles with the multi-media art installation will bring a convergence of two different audiences to GreenHill: the motorcycle enthusiast will be exposed to new art and the art enthusiast will be exposed to the beauty and history of motorcycle design and lifestyle. Based on the overwhelming popularity of the Guggenheim Museum's 1998 exhibition The Art of the Motorcycle, we hope to also achieve record high attendance and increase our exposure and raise awareness of who GreenHill is and what we do."

Additionally, GreenHill is partnering with NCMiniGP to offer young children an opportunity to learn how to ride a motorcycle safely, helping to build a future generation of motorcycle enthusiasts. The mission of GreenHill is to promote the visual arts of North Carolina. GreenHill is the center for NC Art and is composed of four spaces; ArtQuest Studios, The Gallery, Infocus Gallery and The Shop. We engage a broad community of artists, adults and children through dynamic exhibitions and educational programs while providing a platform for exploration and investment in art. We are the only non-collecting organization dedicated to presenting, promoting and advocating contemporary visual art and artists of NC. Since 1974, we have served well over a million visitors, shown work of over 9,850 artists, traveled shows, brought in outside curators, given artists the opportunity to have important retrospectives, shown comprehensive surveys of mediums and genres, started an award-winning program ArtQuest, and have always strived for excellence in all we do.

Tyler White O'Brien Gallery in Greensboro, NC, Offers Works by Sherry McAdams & Murray Parker

Tyler White O'Brien Gallery in Greensboro, NC, will present Many Layers!, featuring new work by Sherry McAdams and Murray Parker, on view from Feb. 10 through Mar. 9, 2017. A Lunch & Learn will be held on Feb. 10, from 11:30am-1pm and a reception will be held from 6-8pm.

Our Lunch & Learns are intriguing to the artist and collector as you can watch Murray Parker use her signature color-layering technique to render densely textured paintings with a luminous sculptural effect. Using hands, tools, or palette knife to pour, drip, throw, add, and subtract!

Sherry McAdams is a contemporary painter whose work has roots in the abstract expressionist tradition, yet

Work by Sherry McAdams embraces a style that is uniquely her own. Shapes and line appear to morph in and out of focus, and subtle imagery whispers beneath the surface. It is the quiet subdued neutrals with their absence of light that work so well to introduce the punch of intense light and pure color. McAdams' art combines energetic brushwork, along with a mysterious layering of color and texture to create a variety of soft and hard passages to capture the viewer's attention.

McAdams attended East Carolina University, and earned a BFA from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. She is a graphic designer and has been employed with Carolina Biological Supply Company for the last 20 years. Influenced by scientific images, such as microscopic human, plant, and animal images has led her to investigate more abstract compositions in her paintings.

Third generation artist Murray Parker uses a signature color-layering technique to render densely textured paintings with a luminous sculptural effect. Using hands, tools, or palette knife to pour, drip, throw, add, and subtract paints of multiple media, Parker specializes in abstracted scenes from coastal, mountain, and cityscapes.

Parker's work conveys a loose and gentle freedom, which comes in part from her Montessori schooling in Hilton Head, SC. There she studied weather on the beach, experimented with science in the Nature Preserve, read chapter books atop a ladder in the barn loft, and traveled to Daufuskie Island to study collaboratively with students from the Gullah community in a one-room schoolhouse.

Her intuitively-driven process results in an imaginative interplay of color and textural surface, which strikes viewers and transports them to their own peaceful places within.

Reynolda House Museum of American Art in Winston-Salem, NC, Offers Work by Samuel F.B. Morse

The Reynolda House Museum of American Art in Winston-Salem, NC, will present Samuel F.B. Morse's Gallery of the Louvre (1831-33), on view in the Mary and Charlie Babcock Wing Gallery and View Gallery, from Feb. 17 through June 4, 2017.

Reynolda House Museum of American Art will welcome an American masterwork for this exhibition, Samuel F.B. Morse's Gallery of the Louvre (1831-33). Created when the artist was living and working in Paris, the painting represents the famed Salon Carré in the Musée du Louvre. Morse spent months walking the halls of the museum, selecting Old Master paintings for his composition, then painstakingly copying the paintings and "installed" them in the virtual gallery.

The resulting monumental canvas - six feet by nine feet - was both an example of Morse's erudition and skill and a tool of instruction for American viewers who did not have access to Renaissance and Baroque paintings.

Morse, highly curious and well educated, was as interested in science and literature as he was in art. While returning to United States by ship in 1832, he conceived the idea for the machine that would become the telegraph, even making a crude prototype on board. From then on, technological inventions would occupy him more than art. The disappointing pub-

Living Magazine, Scoop and the NC Art Guide. She paints with oil, pastel, acrylic, sanguine, mixed media, and more. Her art is influenced by the work of Wolf Kahn, Jackson Pollock, Kevin McPherson, Brian Rutenberg and her many years of study with Andy Braitman.

Parker says, "I grew up loving to watch my grandmother paint from an early age. Memories of painting together on her back porch are still vivid to me. I am amazed by God's creation everyday and am thankful to have the opportunity to capture a small glimpse of His creation on canvas. Working with my clients, their children and pets, is a great joy and blessing. I am the mother of two children, who have both been frequent portraiture subjects."

Durham Arts Council in Durham, NC, Offers Works by Mary Walker & Works from Artist Studio Project

The Durham Arts Council in Durham, NC, is presenting two new exhibits including: Moor and Moon, featuring works by Charleston, SC, artist Mary Walker, on view in the Allenton Gallery and Macondo: A Journey Through Magical Realism, featuring works by 12 artists of the Artist Studio Project, on view in the Semans Gallery. Both exhibit will continue through Mar. 10, 2017.

Walker's exhibit, Moor and Moon takes inspiration from three different works of dance: The Moor's Pavane choreographed by José Limón, Shoot the Moon by the Nederlands Dans Theater, and Orfeo choreographed by Pina Bausch. These bold, minimalist print compositions explore themes of form and movement, capturing elements of human comedy and tragedy at their most essential.

A statement from Walker says, "All find that this personal knowledge of form and movement has informed my drawing.

"The Moor's Pavane, choreographed by José Limón, is the inspiration for Moor. The story is drawn from Othello. The four dancers move in a circle. As the dance progresses, one can see the conflict building between Othello and Iago and the withdrawal of Emilia and Desdemona."

"The next series, Shoot the Moon, is based on a dance by the Nederlands Dans Theater. Dressed in black, the figures seem inexorably linked, but things are not going well between them."

"The third dance, Orfeo, is based on the myth of Orpheus and Eurydice and choreographed by Pina Bausch," adds Walker. "Orfeo has entered Hades in order to bring back Eurydice. Initially the shades try to resist him, but finally empathize with his sorrow."

Walker has been a painter and printmaker for many years. She taught high school math which she enjoyed, then decided to turn to art full time. Walker was born in New York and grew up in North Carolina. She started painting in 1975, while living in New York and studied at the Art Students' League with Isaac Soyer. After moving to Charleston, she continued to study painting and printmaking for several years at the College of Charleston. She often travels to Italy to work and vacation.

Hillsborough Gallery of Arts in Hillsborough, NC, Offers Exhibit Focused on Book by Local Author

The Hillsborough Gallery of Arts, an artist-owned and operated gallery in downtown Hillsborough, NC, presents the fifth annual featured show, It's All About the Story, focused on local children's author, John Claude Bemis, on view from Feb. 20 through Mar. 26, 2017. A reception will be held on Feb. 24, from 6-9pm. Bemis will also read from his novel on Mar. 5, from 4-6pm in the gallery. The reading will be followed by a reception and book signing.

Each year gallery members choose a local author and book or story collection to respond to in their own medium. Previous authors have included Michael Malone, Jill McCorkle, Lee Smith and Allan Gurganus. This year the artists have selected a work by Hillsborough's own, John Claude Bemis, as their source of inspiration. Each piece in the group show, It's All About the Story, is inspired by Bemis' novel "Out of Abaton, The Wooden Prince."

Work by Eric Saunders

"Out of Abaton" is John Bemis' new interpretation of the well-loved tale of Pinocchio. Just as the wooden puppet changes into a human boy, Bemis transforms this classic story with fantastic creatures, alchemy, and the mystery of human emotion - all woven into the magical and glorious landscape of Italy. The artists of the Hillsborough Gallery of Arts depict this fantastic tale in paintings, photography, metal, fiber, glass, ceramics, and wood. It is a show for all those who appreciate rich storytelling and local art.

John Claude Bemis is an award-winning author and also an inspiring speaker and musician. Bemis grew up in North Carolina and became an elementary school teacher after studying Art History and Education at UNC-Chapel Hill. His experiences of reading, exploring, and teaching naturally evolved into a career of writing. He received the Excellence in Teaching Award from UNC Chapel Hill's School of Education and was chosen as North Carolina's Piedmont Laureate for Children's Literature in 2013. He lives in Hillsborough.

The Hillsborough Gallery of Arts is owned and operated by 21 local artists and represents these established artists exhibiting contemporary fine art and fine craft. The Gallery's offerings include oil and acrylic paintings, pastels, sculpture,

ENO Gallery in Hillsborough, NC, Offers Works by Michael Brown

ENO Gallery in Hillsborough, NC, is presenting Michael Brown - New Work, a solo exhibition of new work in the lower gallery, on view through Feb. 18, 2017.

A Chapel Hill, NC, native, Brown received a Bachelor of Fine Arts at The University of North Carolina Chapel Hill in 1977. While at the University, he was honored as a North Carolina Fellow. Brown worked at The Guggenheim Museum of New York from 1979 to 1981, designing and implementing art programs. He has been working as a professional artist for 39 years.

This Eno Gallery exhibition includes Brown's landscape paintings of North Carolina landscapes during his travels throughout our fair state in 2016.

After our recent winter storm, Brown's painting Snow Melt reminds us of the passing of time we experience in nature. The snow comes - then melts and feeds both our watersheds and our sense of being a part of the grand scheme.

Brown's paintings successfully express his perceptions of nature, rather than creating exacting representations. Unconcerned with the actual depiction of physical objects in front of them, the Impressionists learned how to transcribe directly their visual sensations of nature.

Rather than delineating the details of the subject, they sought to depict the play of light and its changing qualities with bright and varied use of color.

Brown brings a fresh and original vision with his evanescent atmosphere of outdoor scenes. His inspiration comes not only from nature, but also from his desire to express lines and colors in an abstract manner. Using consciously planned broken brush work, Brown masterfully uses prismatic techniques to make his paintings pulsate with life.

NC Museum of Art in Raleigh, NC, Offers Works by Ansel Adams and Venice Masters of the Renaissance

The North Carolina Museum of Art (NCMA) in Raleigh, NC, opens 2017 with two major exhibitions: one featuring the awe-inspiring work of Ansel Adams, and one showcasing masterpieces from Venice's cultural Renaissance. Beginning Feb. 4 and continuing through May 7, 2017, the Museum presents Ansel Adams: Masterworks, 48 iconic photographs of American landscapes. One month later the Museum opens Glory of Venice: Renaissance Paintings 1470-1520, about 50 paintings by such masters as Giorgione, Giovanni Bellini, and Vittore Carpaccio, many of which have never been seen outside of Venice. The two exhibitions are ticketed together.

"These two extraordinary exhibitions allow our visitors to explore the majesty of America and the splendor of Venice - all in one location," says Lawrence J. Wheeler, director of the NCMA. "It will be an unforgettable and once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to view stunning photographs history.”

In a career that spanned five decades, Ansel Adams (1902–84) became one of America’s most renowned photographers. This exhibition focuses on his “Museum Set,” a collection of 48 photographs carefully selected and printed by Adams. Adams designated these works late in his life as a succinct representation of the best work of his career.

Included are many of his iconic images of majestic American landscapes, such as El Capitan and Half Dome in Yosemite National Park; the Golden Gate in San Francisco; Monument Valley in Arizona; and the Snake River in Grand Teton National Park, Wyoming. The set shows Adams’s broad range of interests and features not only his popular photographs, but also lesser-known portraits of people and close-ups of nature.

“We feel extremely fortunate to be able to present this set of photographs, hand-selected and personally printed by the artist himself, to our visitors,” says Linda Dougherty, NCMA curator of contemporary art. “The featured photographs - breathtaking views and impressive depictions of America’s landscapes - reveal the importance Adams placed on the overwhelming power and beauty of the natural world.”

Glory of Venice: Renaissance Paintings 1470–1520, on view from Mar. 4 through June 18, 2017, features 50 paintings and a significant group of printed books and individual pages that illustrate a crucial period in the history of Venetian art and culture, widely regarded as one of the most exciting chapters in the history of Western art. It features masterworks from the world-renowned collection of the Gallerie dell’Accademia in Venice: major altarpieces, private devotional paintings, secular works, and portraits by Giovanni Bellini, Vittore Carpaccio, Cima da Conegliano, Giorgione, and Titian. This rare selection includes works that have never before traveled across the Atlantic; it is supplemented with significant Venetian paintings from U.S. collections, including six from the NCMA.

David Steel, the NCMA’s curator of European art and co-curator of the exhibition, says: “This is the first exhibition solely devoted to Italian art ever presented at the Museum, and it’s a stunner. For the first time in its history, the Accademia museum in Venice, which owns the foremost collection of Venetian art in the world, has agreed to lend a substantial group of its treasures to America, and we are delighted to be one of two venues for this important exhibition.”

In addition to the vibrant and richly colored paintings, the NCMA will display a selection of early Venetian printed books lent from the outstanding rare book collections at the University of North Carolina and Duke University, as well as one of the most spectacular woodcuts ever made, Jacopo de’ Barbari’s bird’s-eye View of Venice.

North Carolina Museum of History in Raleigh, NC, Features Exhibit Focused on Jugtown Pottery

Would you believe the concept for Jugtown Pottery in Seagrove, NC, came after seeing a farmer’s entry of apples displayed in a “dirt dish” at the Davidson County fair in 1915? Jacques and Juliana Busbee, both from Raleigh, NC, had a vision inspired by that “dirt dish” that initiated an industry devoted to preserving North Carolina’s pottery traditions from 1917 until today.

The North Carolina Museum of History is celebrating the Busbees’ achievements with a new lobby case exhibit, Jugtown Pottery 1917–2017: A Century Page 32 - Carolina Arts, February 2017 ice. Exhibition co-curator Lyle Humphrey explains: “While the Bellini workshop was spawning Venice’s artistic revolution, introducing new techniques, materials, and formats for painting, other craftsmen and entrepreneurs in the city were adopting and perfecting the technology of printing with movable type and printed images. Around 1500 Venice became a center of innovation in Europe - the Silicon Valley of its time - and a conduit for the circulation of the ideas, scholarship, and imagery from classical antiquity that helped foster the Renaissance.”

This multimedia ensemble, the first Italian-focused major exhibition at the NCMA, is the first US exhibition to examine one of the most remarkable chapters in the history of art, Venice at the dawn of modernity. The paintings and other works in the exhibition document an exciting and dynamic moment in the art and culture of Venice, a magical city that has fascinated visitors and artists for centuries.

Glory of Venice: Renaissance Paintings 1470–1520 is organized by the Denver Art Museum in collaboration with the North Carolina Museum of Art.

These exhibitions are made possible, in part, by the North Carolina Department of Natural and Cultural Resources; the North Carolina Museum of Art Foundation, Inc.; and the William R. Kenan Jr. Endowment for Educational Exhibitions. Research for these exhibitions was made possible by Ann and Jim Goodnight/The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation Fund for Curatorial and Conservation Research and Travel.

The North Carolina Museum of Art’s permanent collection spans more than 5,000 years, from ancient Egypt to the present, making the institution one of the premier art museums in the South. The Museum’s collection provides educational, aesthetic, intellectual, and cultural experiences for the citizens of North Carolina and beyond. The 164-acre Museum Park showcases the connection between art and nature through site-specific works of environmental art. The Museum offers changing national touring exhibitions, classes, lectures, family activities, films, and concerts.

of Art and Craft in Clay, on view through May 29, 2017.

Michael A. Ausbon, Associate Curator of Decorative Arts, was assisted by Jugtown and Stephen C. Compton in developing this case exhibit. Compton is the author of an upcoming book, Jugtown Pottery 1917–2017: A Century of Art and Craft in Clay. The selected pieces have been chosen to celebrate the evolution from utilitarian pottery to art pottery, recognized and purchased both nationally and internationally today.

Jugtown Pottery is known for its distinctive clay found within the Seagrove community. This clay has been the catalyst for many wares created by potters over the four eras that comprise the history of Jugtown that includes:

BUSBEE ERA, 1917–1958. The Busbees realized that in order to expand Jugtown’s reach, they needed to adapt traditional potting techniques while blending and developing new innovations to their glazes and forms.

JOHN MARÉ ERA, 1959–1968. John Maré, concerned for Juliana Busbee’s declining health, began the process of acquiring Jugtown from her in 1959. Both Juliana and Maré died in 1962. Vernon Owens rented Jugtown Pottery in Seagrove from the Maré estate until 1968.

COUNTRY ROADS ERA, 1968–1983. Country Roads Inc., a nonprofit, purchased Jugtown Pottery from the Maré estate. The nonprofit revitalized, updated and improved the declining Jugtown Pottery while maintaining the “Jugtown aesthetic.”

Gallery C in Raleigh, NC, Features Works by Bert Beirne

Gallery C in Raleigh, NC, will present New Oils by Bert Beirne, on view from Feb. 3 through Mar. 22, 2017.

Bert Beirne has been painting the still life for nearly three decades and is considered one of the important painters of the genre living today. Since receiving her BFA from the University of Cincinnati, Beirne’s work is most often compared to the Dutch and Flemish masters of the early Seventeenth Century; painters such as Kalf & Heda.

Working with only natural light from a northern exposure and using multiple layers of translucent oil glazes, Beirne is able to create works of great depth and astonishing realism. The process is a slow and patient one, resulting in pictures of remarkable clarity and arresting beauty.

Some Exhibits That Are Still On View

Our policy at Carolina Arts is to present a press release about an exhibit only once and then go on, but many major exhibits are on view for months. This is our effort to remind you of some of them.

renewed freshness that continues to attract collectors around the world.

Jugtown potters today continue to honor tradition and “the Busbee vision.” As exhibit curator Michael A. Ausbon has said, “Pottery speaks to each of us as a physical manifestation of the potter’s mind.” The Museum of History welcomes you to experience the handicraft of Jugtown’s potters as seen through the four distinctive eras side-by-side, each reflecting the evolution and artistic pottery that have made Jugtown a national success that has endured for 100 years!

The NC Museum of History collects and preserves artifacts of North Carolina history and educates the public on the history of the state and the nation through exhibits and educational programs. Each year more than 400,000 people visit the museum to see some of the 150,000 artifacts in the museum collection. The Museum of History, within the Division of State History Museums, is part of the NC Department of Natural and Cultural Resources.

zhan Kashkooli, Matt Horick, and Janice Mueller, on view in the Dalton Gallery, through Feb. 12, 2017. Foozhan Kashkooli’s inspiration for this series came from music, landscape, and the evocation of old memories. All of Matt Horick’s forms in his Tectonic Series begin as circles or ellipses cut from sheet steel using a jigsaw. The shapes are then bent and molded to become warped cylinders. Janice Mueller tells us, “symbols have been with us since before the advent of organized civilization: spirals, grids, triangles, captivate me. There is no way to know what these symbols meant thousands of years ago; the passage of time has left eons covering meaning.” For further information check our SC Institutional Gallery listings, call the Council at 803/328-2787, or visit (www.yorkcountyarts.org).

The Folk Art Center in Asheville, NC, in conjunction with the Southern Highland Craft Guild, is presenting A Legacy of Makers and Mentors, featuring works by students to alumni of University of North Georgia, on view in the Center’s Show Gallery, through Feb. 12, 2017. Georgia, the exhibit ranges in experience and talent. The makers are from different sectors in their careers and with the university; students, professors, and alumni will have their work on display. Though the university has been an active member of the Southern Highland Craft Guild since 1977, this is its second collaborative effort for marketing and education in the main gallery. The previous exhibit was over seven years ago. For further information check our NC Institutional Gallery listings, call the Center at 828-298-7928 or visit (www.craftguild.org).

“Helen of Troy” by Luis Ardila

Queens University of Charlotte in Charlotte, NC, is presenting ARTE LATINO NOW 2017, on view in the Max L. Jackson Gallery/Watkins Building, through Feb. 17, 2017. Sponsored by The Center for Latino Studies at Queens University of Charlotte in partnership with Queens’ Departments of Art and World Languages, Art Sí and artist Edwin Gil, ARTE LATINO NOW seeks to highlight the exciting cultural and artistic contributions of Latinos in the United States. We invite artists who self-define as Latino and live and work in the United States to submit an original creative work in their medium of choice. Categories considered include New Media, Visual Arts, Performing Arts (including dance, theater, and music) and Creative Writing. Queens has been pleased to support this event for the last six years and is excited that entries have increasingly been submitted from across the United States. For further information check our NC Institutional Gallery listings or e-mail Michele Shaul at (shaulm@queens.edu).

“Axiel Collage” by Henry G. Michaux

The City of Charleston Office of Cultural Affairs, in Charleston, SC, is presenting Sculpt Mettle: Redux! A Henry G. Michaux Retrospective, on view at the City Gallery at Joseph P. Riley, Jr. Waterfront Park, through Feb. 26, 2017. This retrospective, which has traveled to galleries and museums across the Carolinas, showcases sculpture, ceramic, and graphic works created by Henry G. Michaux between the years of 1967 and 1997. This presentation is an eclectic collection which includes art pieces fabricated and sculpted with clay, wood, metals, fibers and found objects, as well as paintings, drawings and mixed media works. Dr. Michaux, former associate professor of Art at South Carolina State University, appropriates objects from one context and transposes them through creative tinkering into art objects that challenge the viewer to pause in reflective thought. Work by James Williams

The Columbia Museum of Art in Columbia, SC, is presenting Making Maps: The Art of James Williams, in the next installment of the Spoken Exhibition Series, on view through Mar. 12, 2017. Through a series of works drawing upon the ancient tradition of cartography, Williams acts as a traveler, using paint, ink, tape, graphite, and paper-weaving techniques to explore various spaces through maps of dense, layered color. This is the third and final iteration of Spoken, an exhibition series which highlights the unique perspectives and powerful voices of African-American artists, many of whom are represented in the museum’s collection. Work by Fleming Markel

The Upstairs Artspace in Tryon, NC, opens the new year with three powerful exhibits featuring painting and sculpture by five highly respected and established artists from North and South Carolina - Fleming Markel and Dabney Mahanes, of Greenville, SC; Margaret Curtis of Tryon, NC; Veronika Hart of Hendersonville, NC; and Daniel Nevins of Asheville, NC. The three exhibits continue through Mar. 12, 2017. Fleming Markel’s solo exhibit, titled Pent-up Pink, addresses cultural myths, especially those seeking to marginalize women. She achieves this with human-sized, 3D assemblages made with plexiglas, steel, mirrors, women’s crafting materials, household objects, girls’ toys and more. Veronika Hart and Dabney Mahanes had not met before their exhibit, but Tripping The Fantastic joins two painters whose hallmarks are bold color and deft brushwork in the creation of dramatic canvases. In their two-person exhibit Twisted, Margaret Curtis and Daniel Nevins present different bodies of work, yet they share an emotionally charged landscape between the human and natural worlds. Theatre Art Galleries in High Point, NC, is presenting SECOND LOOK: Recycled for the Sake of Art, featuring works by Kirkland Smith, Miles Purvis, Bryant Holsenbeck, and Catherine Edgerton, on view in the Main Gallery, through Apr. 1, 2017. Kirkland Smith of Columbia, SC, creates contemporary “Assemblages” from post-consumer materials. By using discarded objects as her “paint”, she found an evocative way to deliver the message of the importance of reducing, reusing, and recycling. Environmental artist Bryant Holsenbeck, of Durham, NC, documents the “stuff of our

Gibbes Museum of Art, 135 Meeting Street, Charleston. Through Apr. 30 - "Painting the Southern Coast: The Art of West Fraser". West Fraser has built his career on richly painted, atmospheric vistas of cities, coasts, and the landscape throughout the United States and internationally from the pristine Sea Islands of South Carolina and Georgia, to the hill towns of Tuscany. Painting the Southern Coast features approximately 25 paintings drawn from public and private collections throughout the country and offers insight into Fraser's working process through the inclusion of several studies displayed alongside finished works. A catalog of the exhibition is available for purchase. Galleries 2 and 3, Through Apr. 23 - "Painting a Nation: Hudson River School Landscapes from the Higdon Collection". Assembled with a discerning eye for quality, the private collection of Ann and Lee Higdon includes superb examples of Hudson River School paintings, the first native school of painting in the United States. The majority of the works depict serene scenes of New York state and the northeast region, though several works, such as

Albert Bierstadt's Cathedral Rocks, "A View of Yosemite", ca. 1872, go farther afield. Together, these paintings celebrate the picturesque beauty of our nation and reflect the collective desire of the Hudson River painters to develop a uniquely American visual language, independent of European schools of painting. Gallery 8, Through Apr. 30 - "History, Labor, Life: The Prints of Jacob Lawrence". provides a comprehensive overview of influential American artist Jacob Lawrence's (1917-2000) printmaking oeuvre, produced from 1963 to 2000. Lawrence started exploring printmaking as an already well-established artist. Printmaking suited his bold formal and narrative style exceptionally well. The relationship between his painting and printmaking were intertwined, with the artist revisiting and remarking earlier paintings as prints. The exhibition explores three major themes that occupied the artist's graphic works. Lawrence was primarily concerned with the narration of African-American experiences and histories. His acute observations of community life, work, struggle and emancipation during his lifetime were rendered alongside vividly imagined chronicles of the past. The past and present in his practice are intrinsically linked, providing insight into the social, economic and political realities that continue to impact and shape contemporary society today. Museum Shop - Now offering the inventory of the Tradd Street Press, reproductions of works by Elizabeth O'Neill Vernon among other exhibit related art objects. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., 1-5pm; closed Mon. Admission: Yes. Contact: 843/722-2706 or at (www.gibbesmuseum.org).

Halsey Institute of Contemporary Art. The Marion and Wayland H. Cato Jr. Center for the Arts, College of Charleston School of the Arts, 161 Calhoun St., Charleston. Through Mar. 4 - "EXIT /ALIVE: The Art of Anthony Dominguez," gathers a substantial body of art produced by Anthony Dominguez over 20 years leading up to his untimely death in 2014, curated by Guest Curator Tom Patterson. Conceived as a definitive overview, the exhibition brings together a representative sampling of works by this philosophically uncompromising, intentionally homeless artist, an idiosyncratic figure on the margins of society and the art world. Through Mar. 4 - "Ahead of the Wrecking Ball: Ronald Ramsey and the Preservation of Charleston". For the last several decades, native Charlestonian Ronald Wayne Ramsey has focused on meticulously documenting historical buildings—particularly those slated for demolition—in his hometown. As old buildings in the historically-minded city become condemned and readied for demolition, he secrets himself inside and liberates various seemingly mundane objects from their impending destruction. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 11am-4pm and open till 7pm on Thurs. Contact: Mark Sloan at 843/953-4422 or at (www.halsey.cofc.edu).

The Charleston Museum, 360 Meeting Street, Charleston. Founded in 1773, is America's first museum. Feb. 15 - May 8 - "Feathers and Flocks: Waterfowling in South Carolina, a collective look at the historic art and artifacts associated with local waterfowling, presented in cooperation with the 2017 Southeastern Wildlife Expo, and with generous sponsorship from the "Charleston Mercury". This exhibit will draw from a number of different categories from the Museum's vast collections as well as a few private ones, and offer an important glimpse into the South Carolina Lowcountry's long-standing water bird traditions. Through Apr. 2 - "Snow Days in Charleston: The Great Blizzard of 1899," an exhibit curated by Archivist and Collections Manager, Jennifer McCormick. The photographs in this new exhibit will feature images from the "Great Blizzard of 1899." For two weeks in February, a massive snow storm swept across the United States. Also referred to as the "Great Arctic Outbreak of 1899," this storm of snow and ice brought bone-chilling cold from the Arctic that lasted from Feb. 6 - 14, 1899. Ongoing - Featuring the most extensive collection of South Carolina cultural and scientific collections in the nation, it also owns two National Historic Landmark houses, the Heyward-Washington House (1772) and the Joseph Manigault House (1803), as well as the Dill Sanctuary, a 580-acre wildlife preserve. Work by James Williams

Columbia Museum of Art, Main & Hampton Streets, Columbia. Lipscomb Family Galleries, Through Feb. 19 - "CUT! Costume and the Cinema". This exciting exhibition includes 43 period costumes from 26 films, depicting five centuries of history, drama, and comedy. An experience like no other awaits visitors as they discover the glamour and artistry of cinematic couture, delight in sumptuous fabrics and unparalleled embroidery, and bask in the allure of famous film stars. The amazing costumes in this exhibition come from a collection of more than 100,000 costumes and accessories made by the renowned British costume, Cosprod Ltd. Gamie and William Anderson Treadway, Jr. Gallery 15, Through Mar. 12 - "Making Maps: The Art of James Williams". Through a series of works drawing upon the ancient tradition of cartography, Williams acts as a traveler, using paint, ink, tape, graphite, and paper-weaving techniques to explore various spaces through maps of dense, layered color. This is the third and final iteration of Spoken, an exhibition series which highlights the unique perspectives and powerful voices of African-American artists, many of whom are represented in the museum's collection. BB&T Paper Gallery, Through Mar. 12 - "Psychedelic Design: Rock Posters from the Mel Byars Collection, 1966-1971". Community Galleries, Through Feb. 5 - "Fame and Fashion: The Photography of John Engstead". Through Feb. 19 - "From Page to Person: An Exploration of the Character". Galleries 5 & 6, Ongoing - "Modern & Contemporary Art from the Collection". Celebrating some of the CMA's greatest hits, this exhibition features over 30 paintings, drawings, photographs and sculptures from the Museum's collection that have not been on view recently. It offers the visitor experiences both serious and sensual and is designed to both entertain and enlighten. Notable works included are by Jasper Johns, Howard Thomas, Sally Mann and Edward Ruscha, whose famous image of the Hollywood Hills (on view) has become a staple of the art world. Ray Taylor Fair Gallery, Ongoing - Featuring a new and permanent installation of its ancient art collection. The installation includes approximately 50 objects that introduce the major ancient civilizations from the Mediterranean and Near East. Examples of the earliest form of writing from 12th century B.C. Mesopotamia, are shown next to Egyptian scarabs and Greek painted vessels. The world of the ancient Romans is represented by 2nd century glass and bronze items and portrait sculpture. Many of these works have not been seen since the Museum moved to its location on Main Street in 1998. The collection has grown over the last several years with the donation of 12 fine Roman sculptures in 2002 from Pennsylvania collector Dr. Robert Y. Turner. Admission: Yes, but there is no admission charge on Sun. Hours: Tue.-Fri., 11am-5pm; first Fri., till 8pm; Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 803/799-2810 or at (www.columbi museum.org).

Florence

Florence County Museum, 111 West Cheves Street, across the street from the Francis Marion University Performing Arts Center, Florence.

Waters Gallery, located at 135 South Dargan Street, Through Mar. 24 - "2017 Pee Dee Regional Art Competition". Focus Gallery, Through Feb. 26 - "Arriving South," an exhibit sponsored by McLeod Health, features a selection of paintings, prints, and drawings from the Florence County Museum's existing permanent collection and the museum's Wright Collection of Southern Art. Historical and artistic interpretation guides the museum visitor through the primary themes of labor, leisure, landscape and religion, while revealing the similarities and differences between observation and representations of the South in the art of the 20th century. During the early 20th century, realist artists from diverse backgrounds converged on the American South. Arriving Southsurveys works by these artists whose individual approaches to specific subject matter have influenced the perception and cultural identity of the South. The exhibition features the work of Thomas Hart Benton, William H. Johnson, Gilbert Gaul, Anna Heyward Taylor and Alfred Hutty. Special Exhibits Gallery, Through May 28 - "From New York to Nebo; the Artistic Journey of Eugene Thomson". The exhibit is composed of 15 paintings created between 1928 and 1968, demonstrating key periods in the artist's development. All works in the exhibit are on loan from The Johnson Collection, Spartanburg, SC, who own the largest single collection of Thomson's work. Eugene Thomson (1895 - 1972) was a native of South Carolina. In 1921, he fell under the fortunate patronage of one of the nation's most powerful men, North Carolina tycoon, James B. Duke. With Duke's encouragement and support, Thomson entered the renowned Art Students League in New York, where he met some of the leading members of the Ashcan School of American modern realist painters. Education Gallery, Through May 21 - "Fred Rhodes Illustrated," featuring an interactive exhibit for families, the exhibit explores the life and comic art of former Florence resident, Fred Rhodes. Experience hilarious mishaps in the post-World War II comic, Sad Sack, along with other humorous drawings created during Rhodes' time in Florence. Exercise your imagination by creating pantomime stories with familiar Sad Sack characters on our magnetic cartoon wall. Community Gallery, Ongoing - This exhibit introduces visitors to the history of the museum and its formative collections. This gallery also exhibits the histories and diversity of the City of Florence, and the incorporated municipalities of Florence County. Additionally, the Community Gallery communicates the lives, stories and accomplishments of significant past and present citizens of Florence County and members of its communities. This gallery is one of two permanent exhibit spaces designed by award winning exhibit design firm, HaleySharpe Design. Pee Dee History Gallery, Ongoing - This is the largest gallery space in the facility, comprising 3,300 sq. ft. of exhibit space. This permanent collections gallery occupies the entire second floor, east wing of the building. Greenville County Museum of Art, 420 College Street, Greenville. Through Mar 5 - "The Poetry of Place". The exhibition offers a respite and reminder that our country, and particularly the South, is home. From the colorful streets of New Orleans to the misty bayou of Louisiana to the undulant Smoky Mountains. "The Poetry of Place" invites you to re-discover America, where a picture is worth a thousand words. Through Sept. 10 - "Wyeth Dynasty". Andrew Wyeth (1917 - 2009), regarded as one of the most important American artists of the 20th century, launched his career in 1937 with a sold-out exhibition of his watercolors in New York. On the occasion of the young artist's remarkable debut, his father and mentor, noted illustrator N.C. Wyeth wrote him a congratulatory letter prophesying, "You are headed in the direction that should finally reach the pinnacle in American art." Through Aug. 27 - "Grainger McKoy: Recovery Stroke". Grainger McKoy (born 1947) moved with his family at a young age to Sumter, South Carolina. McKoy attended Clemson University, earning a degree in zoology, while also studying architecture. After graduating, McKoy apprenticed for 18 months with the renowned bird carver Gilbert Maggioni in Beaufort, South Carolina. McKoy initially produced realistic carvings, but slowly began transforming these intricately carved birds into gravity-defying sculptures that played with form and space, while continuing to accurately render each species in detail. His work has been shown at the High Museum of Art, Brandywine River Museum, Brookgreen Gardens, and many other galleries. Ongoing - "South Carolina Icons". Consider the work of three African-American artists from South Carolina, David Drake, William H. Johnson, and Merton Simpson. Museum & Gallery at Heritage Green, Buncombe and Atwood Streets, downtown Greenville. Through Aug. 2017 - "The Art of Sleuthing," inviting sleuths of all ages to explore the intrigues of forgery, provenance, steganography and Nazi-looted art. "It's coming to see art in a new way," said M&G curator John Nolan. Nolan's description is accurate as the Art of Sleuthing blends both the creative and scientific aspects of art together in an enticing manner. A primary highlight of the exhibit showcases two stellar examples of forgery, including a loan from the National Gallery of Art in Washington, DC. Titled "The Smiling Girl," this piece was originally attributed to Vermeer until closer investigation proved it a fraud. Continuing the theme, the forged "Still Life with Fruit" on loan from the Nasher Museum of Art at Duke University exemplifies modern art fakes. Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm and Sun. 2-5pm. Contact: 864/770-1331 or visit M&G's website at (www.bjumg.org).

Franklin G. Burroughs - Simeon B. Chapin Art Museum, 3100 South Ocean Blvd., beside Springmaid Beach, Myrtle Beach. Through Apr. 23 - "Gee's Bend: From Quilts to Prints," examines the work of four well-known Gee's Bend quiltmakers and their recent exploration into the art of printmaking. In the isolated African-American hamlet of Gee's Bend, AL, located along the Alabama River, women made quilts to keep themselves and their children warm in often unheated houses that lacked running water, telephones and electricity - from the post-Civil war era well into the 20th century. Along the way they developed a distinctive style, noted for its lively improvisations and geometric simplicity. These quilts, which came to the notice of the art world in the 1990s, are considered to be one of the most important African-American visual and cultural contributions to the history of art within the United States. Additional public programs to accompany the exhibit are planned for spring 2017. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-4pm & Sun., 1-4pm. Contact: 843/238-2510 or at (www.myrtlebeachartmuseum.org).

Werger's newest and largest work to date, "Tidal Shift". This piece is a six-panel panoramic intaglio image consisting of hand drawn aquatint and white ground imagery. The title refers not only to the endangered coastal tidelands but also to the psychological mindset of the characters. At first glance, the image appears bucolic but there is a subtext in that the participants of this play are oblivious to the forces of the rising ocean and the impending consequences of their consumerist indulgences. Ongoing - works by Sigmund Abeles, John Acorn, Dave Appleman, Jane Armstrong, J. Black Mountain College Museum + Arts Center, 56 Broadway, Asheville. Through May 20 - "Begin To See: The Photographers of Black Mountain College," curated by Julie J. Thomson. While thousands of photographs were taken at Black Mountain College there has not been a detailed examination of photography at the College. "Begin to See: The Photographers of Black Mountain College" will be the first in-depth exhibition and catalog devoted to this topic. Photography began as a workshop at Black Mountain College in the 1930s. In the 1940s visiting photographers gave some instruction, and starting in 1944 photography courses were offered during the College's summer sessions. In fall 1949 photography began to be offered as part of the school's regular curriculum, with former student Hazel-Frieda Larsen being appointed the first full-time instructor in photography. Photographic education at Black Mountain College often focused on learning to see photographically, taking photographs, and the medium's history. "Begin to See" will feature photographs by a variety of artists including Josef Albers, Hazel Larsen Archer, Josef Breitenbach, Harry Callahan, Trude Guermonprez, Robert Haas, Clemens Kalischer, Barbara Morgan, Beaumont Newhall, Nancy Newhall, Andy Oates, Aaron Siskind, Stan VanDerBeek, and Jonathan Williams. Ongoing - An exhibition space dedicated to exploring the history and legacy of the world's most acclaimed experimental educational community, Black Mountain College. Hours: Wed.-Sat., noon-4pm or by appt. Contact: 828/350-8484 or at (www.blackmountaincollege.org).

Southern Highland Craft Guild at the Folk Art Center, Blue Ridge Parkway Milepost 382, Asheville. Main Gallery, Through Feb. 12 - "A Legacy of Makers and Mentors," showcasing over 40 pieces of work from its Education Center member University of North Georgia, the exhibit ranges in experience and talent. The makers are from different sectors in their careers and with the university, students, professors, and alumni will have their work on display. Though the university has been an active member of the Southern Highland Craft Guild since 1977, this is its second collaborative effort for marketing and education in the main gallery. The previous exhibit was over seven years ago. Permanent Collection Gallery, Ongoing - "Craft Traditions: The Southern Highland Craft Guild Collection". The Guild's Permanent Collection is comprised of approximately 2400 craft objects and dates from the late 19th century to present. Beginning with a donation from Frances Goodrich in 1931, the Permanent Collection serves the Guild's mission of craft conservation and education. This new installation will feature over 200 works that highlight our holdings in traditional art: woodcarving, pottery, dolls, basketry, weavings and furniture. The subject of this ongoing exhibition is craft history – that of the Southern Highland Craft Guild and the Studio Craft Movement. Hours: daily from 9am-5pm. Contact: 828/298-7928 or at (www.southernhighlandguild.org).

Southern Highland Craft Guild on Tunnel Road, 930 Tunnel Road, Asheville. Ongoing - Work by members of the Southern Highland Craft Guild in various media. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9:30am-5pm. Contact: 828/298-7903.

Blowing Rock

Blowing Rock Art and History Museum, corner of Chestnut and Main streets, downtown Blowing Rock. Through Mar. 27 - "Everyman Jack: Stories & Illustrations by Gail E. Haley," takes a detailed look at over one hundred original prints and illustrations created by Gail E. Haley for several of her books, including "My Kingdom for a Dragon," "Mountain Jack Tales," "Bird-song," "The Green Man," and "A Story, A Story." Through Apr. 8 - "Andy Warhol: Six Silkscreen Prints," is on loan from the Turchin Center for the Visual Arts, Appalachian State University. This exhibition features six original silkscreen prints from the Turchin's permanent collection that are out-of-edition. This means that they were created during the original print run, but did not make the cut when Warhol decided what would be included in the final print release. Through Mar. 11 - "A Town Within A Town: History of the Junaluska Community." The Appalachian Mountains are some of the oldest in the world. If you've traveled to the top of Howard's Knob to see the beautiful view across the town of Boone, you've been on Junaluska Road, but you may not have known that you passed by one of the oldest African American communities in western North Carolina: Junaluska, the "town within a town."

The Alexander Community Gallery will feature recent work by local stained glass artist Beth Shuford. Ongoing - "Selections from the Collection". The Museum has dedicated three exhibition spaces to its permanent collection. Works in the collection range from prominent American Impressionists, such as Elliott Daingerfield and William Charles Anthony Frerichs, to works by more locally based artists, including Philip Moose and Herb Cohen. The opening display is guest curated by Jonathan Stuhlman, Senior Curator of Modern, American, and Contemporary Art at the Mint Museum, Charlotte. Ongoing - the BRAHM will host exhibits, educational programs and classes that promote the visual arts, history and heritage of the mountains of western North Carolina. Admission: Yes. The Museum will be free on Thursdays from 4-7pm. Hours: Tue., Wed., Fri., & Sat., 10am-5pm; Thur., 10am-7pm; and Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 828/295-9099 or at (www.blowingrockmuseum.org).

Boone

Appalachian Cultural Museum, University Hall Drive, off Hwy. 321 (Blowing Rock Road), Boone. Ongoing - The permanent exhibit area includes, TIME AND CHANGE, featuring thousands of objects ranging from fossils to Winston Cup race cars to the Yellow Brick Road, a section of the now closed theme park, "The Land of Oz". Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 828/262-3117.

Turchin Center for the Visual Arts, Appalachian State University, 423 West King Street, Boone. Gallery A, Feb. 3 - Apr. 7 - "A Thousand Steps, A Thousand Stitches: Figurative Quilts by Susan Sharpe". A reception will be held on Apr. 7, from 6-10pm. Susan Sharpe embraces the "odd and interesting over the predictable and reasonable." Her playful quilts are not for the guest bedroom. They are colorful, quite large, and tell complicated stories in the best tradition of narrative quilt-making. Throughout history, many diverse communities have explored the art of quilting: to keep warm, to decorate their homes, as gifts, to express political and cultural view points, and to commemorate loved ones. Traditionally made by hand and often collaboratively, quilts are frequently made of whatever fabric can be easily found. Sharpe uses felted wool, alpaca, mohair, silk, handmade paper, and a variety of natural fibers: milkweed, yucca and hops in her hand-made and machined quilts. Gallery B, Feb. 3 - May 6 - "Useful Work: Photographs of Hickory Nut Gap Farm by Ken Abbott". A reception will be held on Apr. 7, from 6-10pm. Ken Abbott's quiet photographs document the day-to-day life on the beloved Hickory Nut Gap Farm outside of Asheville. The photos are also featured in the book Useful Work: Photographs of Hickory Nut Gap Farm (Goosepen Studio & Press, 2015, with essays by Ken Neufeld). Mayer Gallery, Feb. 3 - July 29 - "Collective Vigilance: Speaking for the New River". A reception will be held on Apr. 7, from 6-10pm. The 320-mile New River begins high in the mountains of northwestern North Carolina, deep in the heart of the Southern Appalachians. The New, as it is affectionately called, actually begins as two rivers, the North Fork in Ashe County and South Fork in Watauga County. The two forks join in Alleghany County and flow north from North Carolina's Blue Ridge into Virginia and West Virginia. One of the oldest rivers in the world and certainly the oldest in the United States, the headwaters of the New wind more than 100 miles through the Appalachians; the forks join just a few miles south of the North Carolina-Virginia line. The New River continues its somewhat unusual northward flow through southwestern Virginia and West Virginia into the Kanawha and Ohio rivers - its waters eventually reaching the Gulf of Mexico by way of the Mississippi River. Main Gallery, Through June 3 - "Studio Practices: Penland 9". A reception will be held on Apr. 7, from 6-10pm. So often the handworking artists who coordinate studio practices at any institution are, truly, "behind the scenes." "Studio Practices: Penland 9" brings the nine talented Penland Studio Coordinators out of the studio shadows and into the bright lights of the Turchin Center. Working together to support the practices of other artists at Penland has given the talented coordinators a remarkable synergy; their artwork is individually strong and compatible with one another – creating a dynamic and moving installation. Mezzanine Gallery, Through Feb. 4 - "Books! Books! Appalachian Book Arts Exhibition". The exhibit celebrates the beautiful hand-work of Appalachian State faculty and friends. Artists' books-as-objects take many forms. Hours: 10am-6pm, Tue., Wed., Thur., & Sat. and Fri., noon -8pm. Contact: Hank T. Foreman at 828/262-3017 or at (www.turchincenter.org).

ALTERNATE ART SPACES - Boone Throughout Appalachian State University campus, Boone. Through Apr. 1 - "30th Rosen Outdoor Sculpture Competition & Exhibition," juried by Willie Ray Parish, with curator Hank T. Foreman. Featuring sculptures by: Mike Roig, Hanna Jubran, Stephen Klema, Shawn Morin, Kyle Van Lusk, Mike Hansel, Adam Walls, Walter Early, Bob Turan, and Davis Whitfield. Contact: Hank T. Foreman at 828/262-3017 or at (www.turchincenter.org).

Brasstown

Ackland Art Museum, UNC - Chapel Hill, Columbia & Franklin Streets, Chapel Hill. Through Feb. 5 - "Politics As Usual," featuring a series of three small-scale exhibitions using works from the Ackland's permanent collection, "Politics As Usual" examines ways in which artists engage with the power structures of their times. Through Feb. 19 - "For Philip Glass: Joshi / LeWitt / Close". The Ackland Art Museum joins in celebrating the 80th birthday of leading American composer Philip Glass by presenting a special installation that recognizes the key role that visual art and artists have played in Glass's life and work. Seven diverse works of modern and contemporary art by Chuck Close, Deepak Joshi, and Sol LeWitt call attention to the way in which regularized processes can lead to visual effects of emotional power and complexity, a fitting tribute to Glass's accomplishments as a composer. In addition, the Ackland is presenting Chuck Close's 1991 silk tapestry version of his portrait of Philip Glass, first realized in Close's iconic 1969 photorealist painting. The tapestry has been generously lent by James Keith Brown (UNC '84) and Eric Diefenbach. Through Apr. 9 - "Fever Within: The Art of Ronald Lockett". Organized by the Ackland Art Museum, "Fever Within: The Art of Ronald Lockett" is a groundbreaking retrospective of a passionately inspired and little-understood figure in twentieth-century American art. The first solo exhibition of Ronald Lockett's art, Fever Within emphasizes the powerful themes the artist explored over the course of his career through about 50 of his works of art. The exhibition, which will be presented in 2016-2017 in New York and Atlanta as well as in Chapel Hill, marks the first time that viewers will be able to gain insight into the full range of Lockett's innovative and evocative paintings and assemblages. Through May 14 - "Flora and Fauna". A glorious display of the importance of animals and plants in Asian art, "Flora and Fauna" will feature a wide variety of art works, including prayer rugs from the Middle East, statues from India, Chinese paintings, and much more. It will also mark the debut of the Ackland's newly acquired pair of Japanese screens by the painter Kajino Genzan (1868–1939), dazzling with their gold leaf background, exquisite colors, and beautifully rendered flowers. Through May 13, 2018 - "Color Across Asia," is part of a groundbreaking re-installation of the Ackland Art Museum's Asian galleries, presenting the Museum's acclaimed collection of art from across the continent. Museum Store Gallery (Franklin and Columbia Street), Store hours: Mon.-Sat., 10am-5:30pm & Sun., noon-5pm. contemporary British studio ceramics. Comprising functional and sculptural objects made between the 1980s and today, the show features work by artists either born or residing in Great Britain, including established "contemporary classics" like Gordon Baldwin and Rupert Spira, and cutting-edge ceramists such as Julian Stair and Kate Malone. Several recently-gifted works from the Grainers are included. Alexander, Spangler, and Harris Galleries, Ongoing - "Portals to the Past: British Ceramics 1675 - 1825". The Mint Museum's collection of eighteenth-century British pottery and porcelain is widely respected for its scope and quality. The collection numbers over 2,000 objects and includes important examples of both salt-glazed and dry-bodied stoneware from Staffordshire; tin-glazed earthenware from Bristol, Liverpool, and London; and cream-colored earthenware from Derbyshire, Staffordshire, and Yorkshire. Notable eighteenth-century porcelain figures represented include Chelsea, Bow, and Vauxhall in London, Longton Hall in Staffordshire, Worcester, Bristol, and others. Individual works in the collection are exceptional because of their rarity, craftsmanship, provenance, or as representative examples of particular types or methods of production or decoration. Ongoing - "American Glass". The nineteenth and early twentieth centuries represented a time of extraordinary growth for the American glass industry. Such companies as Boston & Sandwich Glass Company in Sandwich, MA; Steuben Glass Works in Corning, NY; and Libbey Glass Company in Toledo, OH, began operation and soon developed notable reputations for producing fashionable wares that were coveted by many middle- and upper-class consumers. "American Glass" showcases objects by these and other American glass companies, illustrating the variety of forms and styles that prevailed during this period. Glass-manufacturing techniques will be another focus of the exhibition, with representative examples of pressed, cut, blown, and molded glass. Nearly all of the works on view are from The Mint Museum's permanent collection of glass, which is second in size only to the ceramics collection in the museum's Decorative Arts holdings. Ongoing - "Arts of Africa". The African continent is remarkable in its geographic, social, political, and cultural diversity. This impressive diversity is reflected in the visual arts through a variety of media and forms including ceramics, masks, textiles, sculptures, prestige staffs, and shrines. With exceptional loans from private collectors and The Mint Museum's own collection of African Art, the museum is pleased to announce the expansion of its presentation of Arts of Africa, thereby providing visitors a more in-depth, meaningful, and exciting overview of African art. Heritage Gallery, Ongoing - Feature works of art, archival documents, and photographs documenting the growth and evolution of the museum, from its beginnings as the original branch of the US Mint to its founding as an art museum to the present and beyond. Ongoing - "Art for the Millions: WPA Prints" and "Carolina Clay," featuring a display of colorful wares made between 1920 and 1950 as potters from NC adapted their works to a market economy. "Art of the United States," featuring contemporary works from the Mint's permanent collection, including works by Romare Bearden, Maud Gatewood, John Biggers Juan Logan, Tarlton Blackwell, Radcliffe Bailey, Koyo Griffin, and others. "Art in the Americas," featuring paintings, precious metalwork, sculpture, furniture and decorative arts from the 17th through the 19th centuries illustrate the unique culture that emerged from the Spanish colonization of the Americas. Crosland Gallery - Featuring a presentation of portraits with many fascinating images presented. Rankin Gallery - Featuring a presentation of the Romare Bearden Collection, including two "new" Beardens. Delhom Gallery, Ongoing - The European Collection of ceramic works. Admission: Yes. Hours: Wed., 11am-9pm (free admission 5-9pm); Thur.-Sat., 11am-6pm; & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 704/337-2000 or at (www.mintmuseum.org).

The Light Factory, 1817 Central Avenue, Charlotte. Through Apr. 7 - "LILITH," curated by Jonell Logan. In religious mythology, Lilith is the first wife of Adam. Made of the same dust, she considered herself his equal. Confident and aware of her power, she chose to leave Adam instead of to subjugate herself to his will. Regarded by some academics as the first feminist, the story of Lilith presents a new narrative to the better-known story of Adam and Eve. Like her story, this exhibition presents the works of women photographers Jodi Bieber, Guia Besana, Maxine Helfman, Allison Janae Hamilton, and Donna Cooper Hurt who use the camera to create new or alternative narratives regarding femininity, history, identity and power. Hours: Wed.-Sat., noon-6pm or by request. Contact: 704/333-9755 or at (www.lightfactory.org).

Durham

Center for Documentary Studies at Duke University, 1317 West Pettigrew Street, Durham. Krebs and Lyndhurst Galleries, through Feb. 18 - "Post Mégantic," featuring works by Michel Huneault. Canadian documentary photographer Michel Huneault was awarded a solo show at CDS as part of the Lange-Taylor Prize, which he won in 2015 for Post Mégantic, his project on a small town in Quebec that was the site of Canada's deadliest train disaster in 150 years. The $10,000 prize supports documentary artists, working alone or in teams, whose extended fieldwork projects rely on the interplay of words and images. A meditation on loss and mourning, Post Mégantic incorporates photographs, videos, oral histories, and installations to tell the story of Lac-Mégantic, Quebec, where on the night of July 6, 2013, a cargo train from North Dakota carrying nearly 8 million liters of shale oil derailed and exploded, killing 47 people and effectively destroying the town. From a population of 6,000, one out of every 128 citizens died. The explosion leveled most of the town center, creating a 400-meter-wide area that is still inaccessible. Porch and University Galleries, Through Apr. 15 - "Transits and Migrations: A Summer in Berlin," featuring works by Documentary Studies students. Duke's summer course, "Capturing the City: Documentary Photography in Berlin," pushed students to immerse themselves fully in one of Europe's most dynamic capital cities. They interpreted scenes of cultural life, public spaces, landscapes, and people. Project fieldwork sites included Tempelhof airfield—a Nazi-era airport made famous during the 1948–1949 Berlin Airlift and now used as a public park and reception center for refugees—as well as the U-Bahn, Berlin's subway system. Students also wrote fictional short stories based on vintage photographs purchased at Berlin flea markets and met with Berlin-based documentary photographers and writers. Hours: Mon.-Thur. 9am-7pm; Fri., 9am-5pm; Sat., 11am-4pm; & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 919/660-3663 or at (http://documentarystudies.duke.edu/).

Revolution Mill, 1250 Revolution Mill Drive, Greensboro. Ongoing - Weatherspoon Art Museum and Revolution are working to make this installation the first in a series of ongoing WAMRev collaborations, reflecting a shared commitment to presenting bold and imaginative exhibitions and reaching new audiences. Gallery 1250 is a new art space on the first floor of Revolution Mill's newly redeveloped 1250 building. The gallery was designed in the center of the floor, with walkways through the space and large glass windows so that tenants and visitors can continually view and experience the art. The 1250 building is part of the 50-acre mixed-use campus, and is home to artist studios, creative office spaces. It also features a multimedia gallery for film installations, a café area, and an outdoor event and performance space named Revolution Docks. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 11am-6pm, select evening + weekend hours will begin this fall. Contact: (www.revolutionmillgreensboro.com/WAMRev).

The Center for Visual Artists Greensboro, second floor of the Cultural Arts Center, 200 North Davis St., Greensboro. Ongoing - Featuring works by member artists from throughout the greater Greensboro area. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Weds. till 7pm; & Sun., 2-5pm. Contact: 336/333-7485 or at (www.greensboro-art.org).

Weatherspoon Art Museum, University of North Carolina - Greensboro, Cone Building, Tate and Spring Garden Streets, Greensboro. McDowell Gallery, Through Apr. 23 - "Lucinda Devlin: Sightlines". Organized by the Weatherspoon Art Museum, the exhibition is the artist's first museum retrospective. It features 83 photographs chosen from all eight of Devlin's series—many of which were printed for the first time for display. Devlin's photographs serve as social commentaries on timely and socially relevant issues such as personal rights, the death penalty, and agribusness. An internationally recognized American photographer who now lives in Greensboro, NC, Devlin began her career in the 1970s during the genesis of color photography in America. The Louise D. and Herbert S. Falk, Sr. Gallery, Through Apr. 9 - "Hoping to Help - Danica Phelps: Falk Visiting Artist". With eloquent line drawings and an exacting system of colored marks, artist Danica Phelps records the ordinary moments of her daily life and the monetary transactions that sustain it. In her newest work, she connects her visual journal to the lives of others. In late October, Phelps turned her Facebook page into an auction site for her drawings, with the proceeds going to not-for-profit organizations. The records of these philanthropic transactions will debut at the Weatherspoon. The Leah Louise B. Tannenbaum Gallery, Through Apr. 9 - "Joan Tanner: donottellmewhereibelong". Drawing has always been central to Joan Tanner's artistic production, which also includes painting, sculpture, and installation work. This assembly of works on paper spans three decades—from 1983 to 2013—and demonstrates the confluence of the artist's hand and mind. Particularly in works from 2013 entitled donottellmewhereibelong, Tanner demonstrates the characteristic tensions in her work, between ephemeral markings and grounded elements, complexity and nuance, nature and human systems. Gallery 6, Through

Giovanni Bellini, "The Annunciation", early 1500s, oil on canvas, 88 x 42 in. each, Gallerie dell'Accademia, Venice, Italy

North Carolina Museum of Art, 2110 Blue Ridge Road, Raleigh. Mar. 30 - Apr. 2 - "Third Annual Art in Bloom," featuring a festival of art and flowers, presented by PNC, features floral masterpieces, workshops, and more. The event features more than 50 floral masterpieces inspired by the NCMA's permanent collection and created by world-class floral designers from North Carolina and beyond. During Art in Bloom, the NCMA also features master classes, presentations, family activities, an opening reception, Museum Store trunk shows, and other related events (schedule below). This year's special guest is Belgian-born and Portland-based Françoise Weeks, who specializes in textural woodlands and botanical haute couture pieces. Through Mar. 5 - "Reunited: Francescuo Ghissi's St. John Altarpiece," the first time in more than 100 years that the altarpiece's eight known panels—and one recreated missing panel—can be seen and appreciated as one magnificent work of art. During the 19th or early 20th century, Ghissi's St. John Altarpiece was dismantled and saved apart, and its nine panels were sold separately to art dealers and collectors. Three panels are today in the NCMA's collection; one panel is in the Portland Art Museum's collection; three are in the Metropolitan Museum of Art; and the central Crucifixion panel is at the Art Institute of Chicago. After more than a century of separation, the individual panels travel to the NCMA to be reunited in an exhibition that retells the story of this Renaissance masterpiece. Video Gallery, Through Feb. 5 - "William Noland: Dream Rooms". The exhibit examines our wired world of the 21st century. Individuals are seen in coffee shops, wholly absorbed, their trancelike states brought on primarily through an intense engagement with the alternate reality presented by laptops and smart phones. They are immersed in an interior world of concentration and at times of pleasure, seemingly oblivious to the often busy and noisy surroundings. The long takes of "Dream Rooms" seek to lay bare the effects of technologically mediated intimacy and chronic multitasking. Questions arise: Are we being rewired by our relationship to interactive media? And how does the idea of surveillance alter our experience of these individuals? Each character is intimately examined in public space, comfortably anonymous and secure in the privacy of his or her thoughts and behavior, while the gaze of the camera records impulses and reactions. East Building, Level A, Through Jan. 8 - "Zanele Muholi: Faces and Phases," featuring 10 photographs by internationally acclaimed South African photographer. An Artist Lecture by Muholi will be offered on Oct. 6, at 7pm in the East Building, SECU Auditorium. Free; ticket required. Exhibition and lecture made possible by Cyma Rubin Photography Fund. East Building, North Carolina Gallery, Through Feb. 12 - "Panorama: North Carolina". In this exhibit, the Old North State is the subject of over 30 photographs, lovingly created by North Carolina-based artists. These works from the North Carolina Museum of Art's permanent collection interpret the subject matter in varied ways. Some images, like Elizabeth Matheson's "Edenton" and Luis Rey Velasco's "Stovall", present specific towns or landmarks. Other photographs represent the soul of the state via portraits of its inhabitants, as in Rob Amberg's "Carter Crosby, Highway 24 South, Clinton, NC" and Jeff Whetstone's "Mingo Boys with Water Snake on the Eno River". A third grouping—a barren tree in winter, some lovingly tended gravestones—provides quiet reflection through still-life scenes. Combined, these images tell a story of the state as captured in black and white. A segment of "Panorama: North Carolina" features works from David Simonton's Polk Prison Project. The former Polk Youth Center, which occupied land adjacent to the Museum, was closed in 1997. Before the building was demolished in 2003, Simonton received access to the prison and captured interesting details of that space. Five images from this series, which was partially commissioned by the North Carolina Museum of Art, are included in the exhibition. East Building, Photography Gallery, Through Feb. 26 - "Human/Nature". This exhibit features photographs from the NCMA's permanent collection that relate individuals to both natural and man-made environments. Our primary human instincts drive us to control, dominate, nurture, and find a connection to our surroundings. Each photograph in "Human/Nature" presents the relationship between man and the environment—comparing, for example, a desolate landscape with a similar close-up of the human body. In simple yet profound ways, these images manifest the many ways bodily forms echo forms in nature and drive home the importance of connecting to our habitat in a physical, tangible way. West Building, Through Mar. 19 - "History and Mystery: Discoveries in the NCMA British Collection," which showcases the best of the NCMA's permanent collection of Old Master British paintings and sculpture from 1580 to 1850. It marks the first time in 40 years that the NCMA has organized an exhibition focused on British art from its collection. Anchoring the exhibition is an extraordinary group of nine Elizabethan and Jacobean aristocratic portraits from about 1580 to 1620. East Building, Joyce W. Pope Gallery, Feb. 4 - May 7 - "Ansel Adams: Masterworks," featuring 48 iconic photographs of American landscapes. In a career that spanned five decades, Ansel Adams (1902–84) became one of America's most renowned photographers. This exhibition focuses on his "Museum Set," a collection of 48 photographs carefully selected and printed by Adams. Adams designated these works late in his life as a succinct representation of the best work of his career. East Building, Meynandi Exhibition Gallery, Mar. 4 - June 18 - "Glory of Venice: Renaissance Paintings 1470–1520," featuring 50 paintings by such masters as Giorgione, Giovanni Bellini, and Vittore Carpaccio, many of which have never been seen outside of Venice. The exhibition features 50 paintings and a significant group of printed books and individual pages that illustrate a crucial period in the history of Venetian art and culture, widely regarded as one of the most exciting chapters in the history of Western art. It features masterworks from the world-renowned collection of the Gallerie dell'Accademia in Venice: major altarpieces, private devotional paintings, secular works, and portraits by Giovanni Bellini, Vittore Carpaccio, Cima da Conegliano, Giorgione, and Titian. This rare selection includes works that have never before traveled across the Atlantic; it is supplemented with significant Venetian paintings from U.S.

collections, including six from the NCMA. NCMA Park - The North Carolina Museum of Art (NCMA) announces new works of art to be installed in the 164-acre NCMA Park. The works include a bronze tree by Italian artist Giuseppe Penone, a playful pair of benches designed by Hank Willis Thomas, and a 10-day installation of 23-foot-tall illuminated rabbits by Australian artist Amanda Parer. The sculptures will be featured at the NCMA's Park Celebration on Nov. 6, when the public is invited to experience the newly expanded Park with a variety of outdoor activities. Ongoing - Featuring 10 additional sculptures by the celebrated French artist Rodin on loan from Iris Cantor's private collection. Ongoing - "John James Audubon's The Birds of America". The state has shown this treasured volume since 1848, but it has never been exhibited. Ongoing - The North Carolina Museum of Art has an outstanding permanent collection of more than 5,000 objects spanning antiquity to the present day. On the occasion of the expansion, the Museum has acquired more than 100 new works of art. Representing commissions, gifts, and purchases, the new works encompass important and diverse examples of historic and contemporary art from around the world, and will be installed in the Museum's new building and the surrounding landscape. Highlights include a gift of 28 sculptures by Auguste Rodin, and work by such internationally acclaimed artists as Roxy Paine, Ursula von Rydingsvard, El Anatsui, Jaume Plensa, Jackie Ferrara, Ellsworth Kelly, and David Park, among others. Admission: Yes for some exhibits. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 9am-5pm; Sun., 10am-5pm; & open until 9pm on Fri. Contact: 919/839-6262 or at (www.ncartmuseum.org).

Interior of Mrs. Jacques Busbee home, Jugtown; Credit: N.C. Museum of History

North Carolina Museum of History, 5 East Edenton Street, (between Salisbury and Wilmington Streets), Raleigh. Through Mar. 5 - "A March for the Right to Vote: Photographs by Spider Martin". On March 21, 1965, more than 2,000 people crossed the Edmund Pettus Bridge in Selma, AL., to begin a 54-mile march for African American voting rights and equality. The march ended five days later in Montgomery, where Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., and his wife, Coretta Scott King, led crowds into Alabama's capital city while singing freedom songs. Spider Martin (1939-2003), a photojournalist with The Birmingham News, walked with the protesters, capturing powerful images that brought international attention to the Civil Rights movement. Lobby Case, Through May 29 - "Jugtown Pottery 1917–2017: A Century of Art and Craft in Clay." Would you believe the concept for Jugtown came after seeing a farmer's entry of apples displayed in a "dirt dish" at the Davidson County fair in 1915? Jacques and Juliana Busbee, both from Raleigh, had a vision inspired by that "dirt dish" that initiated an pottery devoted to preserving North Carolina's industry traditions from 1917 until today. Michael A. Auson, Associate Curator of Decorative Arts, was assisted by Jugtown and Stephen C. Compton in developing this case exhibit. Compton is the author of an upcoming book, "Jugtown Pottery 1917–2017: A Century of Art and Craft in Clay". The selected pieces have been chosen to celebrate the evolution from utilitarian pottery to art pottery, recognized and purchased both nationally and internationally today. Ongoing - Featuring exhibits dealing with North Carolina's history as a theme. Admission: Free. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9am-5pm & Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 919/807-7900 or at (<http://www.ncmuseumofhistory.org/>).

North Carolina Pottery Center, 233 East Avenue, Seagrove. Through Apr. 22 - "The Busbee Legacy: Jugtown & Beyond, 1917-2017". The NC Pottery Center is pleased to present "The Busbee Legacy" marking one hundred years of the Busbees' influence on our state's pottery. Jacques and Juliana Busbee introduced classical ceramics from around the world to local Seagrove potters and fundamentally changed how Seagrove pots were designed, made, and marketed. Through Feb. 11 - "North Carolina's Traditional Women Potters". The exhibit is the culmination of a study and lecture presented at the Catawba Valley Pottery & Antiques Festival, in Hickory, NC, in 2015. The twentieth century saw the emergence of women potters from the lineage of European settlers, and while Native American women had been making pottery here for thousands of years, their names and works were definitively recorded through writing and images only as the century progressed. Feb. 18 - Apr. 22 - "A Collector's Collection," focuses on forty exemplary art pottery pieces from the collection of Bunny Schroerer. A reception will be held on Feb. 18, from noon-2pm. North Carolina is home to many pottery aficionados who are remarkable people not just for their collections, but also for who they are as people and for the passion they share for preserving, collecting, and sharing knowledge about our state's rich pottery tradition. Many of those collectors have given pieces to the North Carolina Pottery Center over the years, something which the center deeply appreciates. Ongoing - Featuring permanent and changing exhibits on the history of North Carolina pottery, "The North Carolina Pottery Tradition" and "Seagrove Area Pottery". The Center also offers information on activities, maps and information about the potteries located in the Seagrove area and across the state. A display of representative works from more than 90 area potteries is also offered. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-4pm. Contact 336/873-8430 or at (www.ncpotterycenter.org).

Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art, 750 Marguerite Drive, Winston-Salem. Through Feb. 12 - "12 x 12: Beverly McIver". In her recent body of figurative work, painter Beverly McIver uses her deft hand and rich palette to frankly and intimately portray the men in her life. Lived relationships emerge in portraits of her father, of close relatives, and friends. What also emerges is an emotionally honest and specific representation of Black masculinity. Through Feb. 19 - "Dispatches," gathers and generates artistic responses to the news by 34 contemporary artists and photojournalists. The exhibition includes a survey of works from 2010 - present and launches a series of commissions, or "dispatches" on current events and the critical issues of our time. The art works emerge from within and in defiance of today's media landscape, ranging from real-time coverage to deliberately slow and analog forms. They enlarge our collective capacity to sensitively receive stories delivered in today's unevenly regulated and fast flow of news. They decelerate the speed of information. Or, they organize collective efforts toward a more humanizing interaction. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm, Thur. till 8pm; Sun., 1-5 pm, and closed Mon. & state holidays. Admission is free. Contact: 336/725-1904 or at (www.secca.org).

Reynolda House Museum of American Art, Reynolda Road, Winston-Salem. Mary and Charlie Babcock Wing Gallery, Feb. 17 - June 4 - "Samuel F.B. Morse's 'Gallery of the Louvre' and the Art of Invention". Reynolda House Museum of American Art will welcome an American masterwork for this exhibition. Samuel F.B. Morse's Gallery of the Louvre (1831-33). Created when the artist was living and working in Paris, the painting represents the famed Salon Carré in the Musée du Louvre. Morse spent months walking the halls of the museum, selecting Old Master paintings for his composition, then painstakingly copying the paintings and "installed" them in the virtual gallery. The resulting monumental canvas—six feet by nine feet—was both an example of Morse's erudition and skill and a tool of instruction for American viewers who did not have access to Renaissance and Baroque paintings. Ongoing - Collection of 18th through 20th century art, sculpture, American art, and pottery. Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 9:30am-4:30pm & Sun., 1:30-4:30pm. Contact: 336/725-5325 or at (www.reynoldahouse.org).
