Editorial COMMENTARY

by Tom Starland, Editor and Publisher

No April Foolin'

I'm not posting any April Fool's Day jokes this year, it was enough trouble last year - some people just can't take a joke.

The month of April used to be the get ready for May and June month, but these days April is a pretty big month. There was always Columbia, SC's Artista Vista - the Midlands' most celebrated gallery crawl, taking place Apr. 23-25, with the big night happening Apr. 23, from 5-9pm, in Columbia's Vista area. I'm not sure what goes on those other two days, but you can check for last minute details with the Vista Guild at their website (www.VistaColumbia.com). And, I mean wait until the last minute as they never have details ahead of time.

And then we have ArtFields© in Lake City, SC, taking place Apr. 24 - May 2, 2015.

What's that you say about overlapping events? Well that's a tradition in SC. There's no central calendar of art events so people just keep programming events at the same time. I think some people do it so their local folks who love the arts don't stray too far from home.

This will be ArtFields©' third year and I think people should see a lot of improvements. I've heard the level of works submitted have gone up a notch or two, but you'll have to be the judge of that, I thought it was pretty good last year. Of course after you've finished going through this issue of Carolina Arts you can head over to the ArtFields©' website at (www.artfieldssc.org) and check out the competitors. Images of accepted works and info about the artists who made the 400 cut was to be posted Apr. 1st. I'll be checking it out - after I do my launch duties of the day.

One thing you might notice when you go to that website is that ArtFields© has a new slogan. I'm not going to mention the old one, but the new one is:

Small Town - Big Money - World Class Southern Art

I like the way that sounds, in fact it sounds like something I've said about ArtFields© in the past. You could also add in - Genuine Southern Hospitality. Now if I could just get them to drop the "life-changing" description of their awards, $50,000 is a lot of money, but it's not exactly life-changing these days. But, believe me - any artist who wins it will be thrilled. I know I would.

Another new addition to the competition for artists is the ten Honorable Mention $1,000 cash prizes selected by the jury panel from the entire 400 works. These are also non-purchase awards so the artists selected for these awards will keep their works - that's if they didn't get sold during ArtFields©.

That's another factor that hasn't sunken in for artists and visitors to ArtFields© - a lot of works are sold during this event. Most of the works are for sale. So if you see something you really like you could take it home with you after the event or even have it sent home to you.

Visitors to ArtFields©

ArtFields© 2015 will also see improvements for visitors too. The new The Inn at the Crossroads, a 57-room boutique hotel, is now open on Main Street in Lake City. The Hotel is less than a block away from the Jones-Carter Gallery and the Green where many events take place. Plus, Main Street is where many of the stores displaying artworks are located.

Lake City is just a few hours away from most of SC and just 20 minutes off of I-95. For folks who live even further away, now the new Inn will make an extended stay possible - if it's not already booked up during the run of ArtFields© 2015.

A couple of new events that got my attention include: Arts + Drafts, a celebration of the art of craft beer with live music by The Whiskey Rebellion out of Virginia, where visitors will be invited to sample several craft brews and browse the art market featuring a diverse selection of artwork from original work to prints; The Art of 'Que, an event showcasing the art of Southern BBQ featuring live music by popular Americana group, The Blue Dogs.

Other events include the Color Me 5K race, the Portrait Contest, tours at Moore Farms Botanical Garden and Competition Artist Talks - there is plenty to do in addition to looking at art. Check out the events being offered at (www.artfieldssc.org).

But, the most important thing that visitors can do while attending ArtFields© is voting for their favorite works on display. Voting by the public not only helps select the People's Choice Awards for two of the awards, but also determines which works the Jury Panel can select the top award from. The people have most of the power in determining the winner of this competition.

Of course the majority of visitors are just lookers, they don't want to get involved, and it's so hard to register to vote. Wait a minute - I registered to vote, so it can't be that hard. You might have to give a phone number or e-mail address.

You're thinking, "Oh no - not my e-mail address, now I'm going to get tons of junk e-mails." Not a worry - I've never gotten an e-mail from ArtFields© that wasn't directly related to a request on my part.

When you register you'll receive a full color catalogue of the competition entries and where they are located, as well as other important info. If you don't register to vote, you still get to look.

Haven't Gone Yet

If you haven't made the trip to Lake City

yet you need to make that trip - especially if you are an artist who keeps wondering what it's all about. Once you see what it's all about you'll enter the next year.

If you're just someone who enjoys the visual arts, this is the biggest, most diverse show you'll ever see in the South. And, if you're that rare person who actually buys works of art - this is like making a trip to the Mall of America and all the stores are art galleries.

I'll tell you how important and interesting this show is. The dates of ArtFields© comes at the most inconvenient time for me. It takes place during the week that I have to pull together one of our biggest issues of the year - our May issue. With that in mind I plan on visiting Lake City at least twice. That's going to hurt. That means burning a lot of midnight oil to make my deadlines. I know last year I felt as if I was burning my candle at both ends. So what's your excuse for not going?

The Critic and the Cheerleader

Anyone who follows my commentary on a regular basis knows I've been a critic and a cheerleader for ArtFields© from its beginning. I offer my 2 cents worth on what is good and bad because I want the event to get better, grow, and go on for a long time.

Not being an artist, I only see the outside view of ArtFields©, although I do receive feedback from a few artists. And, I'm still hearing a few complaints from artists about the entry process and some who complain that it is too costly to enter in that they have to make at least two trips to Lake City. I'm not really sure those are valid problems or just artists being artists. It's impossible to please everyone in any group. I've never heard a complaint from an artist who won one of the cash awards. But, if you are an artist who has a complaint, you can tell the folks at ArtFields© and if you're not comfortable with that you can tell me and I'll pass it on. And, I've never revealed a name in 28 years of doing this.

The management of ArtFields© listens, as they want to make the event better also.

Upstate Gallery on Main in Spartanburg, SC, Offers New Exhibits

The Upstate Gallery on Main in Spartanburg, SC, is presenting two new exhibitions including: a site-specific sculptural installation of colored fibers by Jessica Reynolds, on view in the Spotlight Gallery through Apr. 25, 2015, and a selection of works by the late New York artist and designer Beatrice Riese, along with selected prints and photographs by Andy Warhol, on view in the Collections Gallery, through Apr. 25, 2015.

Jessica Reynolds received a BFA in Art from Clemson University in Clemson, SC, and a MFA in Art and Design from Winthrop University in Rock Hill, SC. She is currently a Professor in the Art History Department at USC Upstate.

Beatrice Riese, an abstract artist, was born in The Hague, the Netherlands. In the 1930's she studied art in Paris, where she was first introduced to African art. In 1940, shortly before the Germans invaded France, she escaped with her parents to Africa. From there they sailed to the US, settling in Richmond, VA. Riese took art classes with Clyfford Still at Virginia Commonwealth University. Riese died at the age of 86, in 2014, in New York City.

In 2008 the Andy Warhol Foundation for the Visual Arts gifted USC Upstate 152 color Polaroid and black and white photographs. The aim of the Photographic Legacy Program is to provide greater access to Warhol's artwork and process, and to enable a wide range of people from communities across the country to view and study this important yet relatively unknown body of Warhol's work. The program offers institutions that do not have the means to acquire works by Warhol the opportunity to bring a significant number of photographs into their permanent collections, while allowing those institutions that do have Warhol in their collections to enrich the breadth and depth of their holdings.

Upstate Gallery on Main is dedicated to contemporary and original exhibitions that include selections from the permanent collection by artists Andy Warhol, Jerry Uelsmann and Beatrice Riese.

West Main Artists Co-op

Duncan is a painter and printmaker who is a member of West Main Artists Co-op in Spartanburg, and also a member of The Printshop in Greenville, SC. His work has an immense amount of variety. This past year, his diligence and experimentation has left him with a body of work that is quite impactful. This is evident in his upcoming show. The pieces exhibited deal with the search of spirituality from religious ideas and principles, the duality of paralyzing fear and indifferent acceptance of our own personal mortality, and the ludicrous things we do, while alive, to distract our minds from the inevitable.

Duncan is a native of Spartanburg county, who moved away to pursue a career in tattooing and has been back since 2008. Having no formal art education, Duncan declines the notion that he is a "self-taught artist", claiming, "We write our stories in our minds with experience, and without all the people I've crossed paths with throughout the years, I would have unfortunately missed all the marks".

We hope you make time to join us for the opening of this fantastic show, as it will be a wonderful view for anyone interested in the new and obscure.

The West Main Artists Co-op is located on West Main Street in Spartanburg; just eight blocks from downtown's Morgan Square. This program is supported in part by The Arts Partnership of Greater Spar-

Lander University in Greenwood, SC, Offers Works by Logan Woodle

Lander University in Greenwood, SC, is presenting Heirloom, a solo exhibit by Logan Woodle, on view in the Jackson Library, through May 2, 2015.

Logan Woodle is Assistant Professor of Art at Coastal Carolina University, in Conway, SC. He earned his BFA from Winthrop University and his MFA from Edinboro University of Pennsylvania concentrating in jewelry and metalsmithing. Woodle is an award-winning artist who exhibits widely across the country.

Woodle says of his work, "I awake hearing the rumblings of a grandfather a lifetime away, I see the fingerprints of a woman long dead on my breakfast, and I work to the rhythmic footsteps of a man plowing fields half a century ago. I cannot define myself except in their words. My relationship to this mythology is that of a mule to its yoke. This mythology binds and burdens me, yet it allows me the confidence of definite path. My work addresses these blessed burdens; it permits me to understand my own compulsions and to give permanence to all the things I find are too easily forgotten and yet impossible to live without."

"The resulting sculptural work combines humor, history and personal heritage in functional objects," adds Woodle. "These narrative driven works revel in a celebration of high craftsmanship and composition".

Some Exhibits That Are Still On View

Our policy at Carolina Arts is to present a press release about an exhibit only once and then go on, but many major exhibits are on view for months. This is our effort to remind you of some of them.

"United States Capital Dome", Ink and Acrylic on Paper, 50" x 39.5", 2013, Mison Kim

Methodist University in Fayetteville, NC, is presenting Searching for the Real, an exhibition of drawings and painting by Mison Kim, on view at the David McCune International Art Gallery, located at the William F. Bethune Center for Visual Arts, through Apr. 15, 2015. Kim was born in Seoul, Korea and immigrated to the United States when she was 19. She graduated from Seventy First High School in Fayetteville. She won the National Talent Scholarship and attended the Pratt Institute in New York, where she received her Bachelors and Masters degrees in Fine Arts. For further information call the gallery director Silvana Foti at 910/425-5379 or visit (www.davidmccunegallery.org).

Work by Cindy Billingsley

The Southern Highland Craft Guild in Asheville, NC, is presenting Dynamic Narratives, an exhibition highlighting the work of Women Ceramic Sculptors, twelve artists who address important issues of society, using clay to express their point of view, individually and collectively, on view in The Folk Art Center's Main Gallery, through Apr. 19, 2015. Cindy Billingsley of Cookeville, TN, is a member of the Southern Highland Craft Guild and was instrumental in forming Women Ceramic Sculptors and curating Dynamic Narratives. She says, "Clay is the only medium that uses every element: fire, water, air and earth. It is meant to be touched by the heart, the eyes, and the hands." For further information call the Center at 828/298-7928 or visit (www.craftguild.org).

The Franklin G. Burroughs-Simeon B. Chapin Art Museum in Myrtle Beach, SC, is presenting Voices of the Island: The Cuban Art Collection of Reynier Llanes, on view through Apr. 23, 2015. When artist Reynier Llanes moved to Charleston, SC, in 2009, he brought his artistic inspiration with him: his home in Pinar del Rio, a mountainous, biologically and artistically rich region at the westernmost end of Cuba. Passionate about sharing his cultural heritage with his new country, he has done so not only through his own artwork, evoking themes and images from his upbringing, but also by collecting and selling the works of other artists from Pinar del Rio. For further information call the Museum at 843/238-2510 or visit (www.MyrtleBeachArtMuseum.org).

Work by Mary Edna Fraser

The City of Charleston, SC's Office of Cultural Affairs is presenting Above, Between, Below, featuring batiks on silk by Mary Edna Fraser, curated by Michael Haga, on view at the City Gallery at Waterfront Park, on view through May 3, 2015. An artist's talk by Fraser on Saturday, Apr. 18 at 2pm. This is an ambitious exhibition of work by Lowcountry artist Fraser, depicting through her signature batiks on silk breathtaking perspectives on space, earth, and deep sea. Developed with leading scientists in the fields of planetary science, coastal geology, and oceanography, the exhibit bridges cutting-edge science and the living, ancient art of batik to afford a vantage point the human eye and traditional cameras cannot reveal. For further information visit (www.citygalleryatwaterfrontpark.com).

Works by Michael Sherill

The North Carolina Pottery Center in Seagrove, NC, is presenting Quiet Inspiration: Japanese Influence on North Carolina Potters, curated by Brevard, NC, studio potter, Judith Duff, on view through May 16, 2015. We can all appreciate the tradition and beauty of Japanese ceramics and the influence and inspiration that it has provided to many of our state's potters. Twenty-three potters from across the state have been asked to participate. Their work is highlighted in this exhibition. Featured artists include: Tacy Apostolik, Cynthia Bringle, Josh Copus, Adrienne Dellinger, Judith Duff, Susan Filley, Warner Hyde, Fred Johnston, Matt Kelleher, Eric Knoche, Jan Lee, Linda McFarling, Reiko Miyagi, Ben Owen III, Ron Philbeck, Akira Satake, Jason Serres, Michael Sherrill, Hitomi Shibata, Takuro Shibata, David Stuempfle, Hiroshi Sueyoshi, and Shoko Teruyama. Charles Courtney Curran (American, 1861-1942) "Lotus Lilies of Lake Erie", 1888, oil on canvas, 18 x 32 inches, Terra Foundation for American Art, Daniel J. Terra Collection.

The Columbia Museum of Art in Columbia, SC, is presenting Charles Courtney Curran: Seeking the Ideal, the first-ever museum retrospective of this treasured American painter, on view through May 17, 2015. Charles Curran's heart was claimed by women, children and flowers, and he devoted a lifetime to painting them in the full light of day out of doors. The exhibition brings together 58 Curran masterpieces sure to astonish with their jewel-like color, soaring vistas and garden landscapes, and love for beauty. For further information call the Museum at 803/799-2810 or visit (www.columbiamuseum.org).

Work by Sonya Clark

Center for Craft, Creativity & Design in Asheville, NC, is presenting Loving After Lifetimes of All This, an exhibition considering the intersections of craft, (self-)care, apprenticeship and survival, on view in the Center's Benchspace Gallery & Workshop, through May 23, 2015. This is an exhibition exploring the intersections of craft, (self-)care, apprenticeship, and survival within the practices of historically disadvantaged populations. Including artwork and ephemera from over 15 artists, activists, and archives nationwide, this exhibition considers 'craft' in an expanded sense to include such practices as homeopathy, scrapbooking, gardening, and other do-it-yourself (DIY) strategies for self-reliance. For further information call the Center at 828/785-1357 or visit (www.craftcreativitydesign.org).

"Fiddle," by Shaun Cassidy

Central Piedmont Community College in Charlotte, NC, is presenting Shaun Cassidy: The Sound of Everything, featuring new work by sculptor Shaun Cassidy, on view in the Ross Gallery, through July 16, 2015. An Artist Lecture will be presented on Apr. 16 at 6pm in Tate Hall on the CPCC campus. In this new body of work, Cassidy will create sculptural equivalents of the emotional and associative resonances of specific musical sounds. Each work, through its form, composition, stance and color, attempts to capture specific nonverbal feelings. This exhibition will consist of seven steel, powder-coated sculptures ranging in size, shape and color. For further information call 704/330-6211 or visit (www.cpcc.edu).

ArtSource in Raleigh, NC, Offers Works by Sharon Bass, Susan Hecht & Daniel Smith

ArtSource in Raleigh, NC, will present Coastal Colors, featuring works by Sharon Bass, Susan Hecht and Daniel Smith, on view from Apr. 1 - 31, 2015. A reception will be held on Apr. 16, from 6-8pm.

As the weather gets warmer, we're beginning to think about summer days by the water. The thought of the coast has a positive impact on both artists and beach goers alike.

Sharon Bass is a Raleigh artist well known for her bright color palate and recognizable scenes. Each of her paintings tells a story that brings the colorful coast to life. Bass paints en plein air, so she is really able to share the cheerful experience of being in that familiar place with her viewers.

Another colorful artist with a well-wishing goal, Susan Hecht's favorite subject to paint is the beach. "People are at their best when they are on the beach; it somehow makes everyone feel better," she says. Hecht hopes that her coastal paintings can bring people back to that moment, that best part of themselves.

Originally from New York, Daniel Smith made his way down south to study at Savannah College of Art and Design and became a full time artist. How could he not be inspired by the beauty of Savannah? The colorful waters around him gave him the desire to share his artwork with his community and satisfy their artistic eyes. Each work shares a passion for color, surface, space and form combined with the depth of emotion and spirit. Smith has a more contemporary look, one that illuminates the peacefulness of the coast.

We hope that each of their pieces will bring you back to happy memories of being on the beach with the salt in the air.

Tyndall Galleries in Chapel Hill, NC, Features Works by Jane Filer

Tyndall Galleries in Chapel Hill, NC, will present Lucid Dreams, featuring new paintings by Jane Filer, on view from Apr. 2 through May 9, 2015. A reception will be held on Apr. 4, from 7-9pm. The amazing Dancing Heads will entertain to the percussion of Rob Cantrell.

Filer says, "My work reflects an emotional connection I have with all of life and my love for it. Layers of paint and imagery compile in a way similar to dreaming."

Filer's colorful expressionistic paintings fairly sing with exuberant energy from the unabashed inhabitants which inhabit these imaginative spiritual worlds she creates. Trees with faces, rocks as ancestors, the moon and stars, birds, humans, horses, foxes are strangely alive and come together to tell their ethereal stories, which transport the viewer into another dimension.

Filer grew up in San Jose, CA, enthralled with making art as a young child. When she was eleven, her family moved to Western Australia where she was touched by the other-worldly art of the Aboriginal people. The mystical nature of their culture felt natural to her and made a lasting impression.

"My paintings are evolved from historical and prehistoric observations," adds Filer. "They are my response to clues I have gathered from the most ancient to the most modern visual references available. Blending this with the relationship I have with my own existence I create a fantastical story. The sense of story is used to provoke exciting aspects of being and existing in this amazing world. I am in love with color and the sensual surface textures on my canvases and I am in love with life."

Today Filer and her husband live in Orange County, NC, on 16 wooded acres off a county road dotted with dairy farms and pastures with cows and horses. Thirty years ago they built a large treehouse on stilts together for their home and her studio. Every nook and windowsill is filled with African artifacts, old bones, flowers, pottery, and her paintings. Here Filer has lived and painted under the stars and surrounded by the trees, plants and wild forest creatures which inspire her remarkable paintings.

Hillsborough Gallery of Arts in Hillsborough Offers Works by Arianna Bara, Chris Burnside and Michele Yellin

Hillsborough Gallery of Arts in Hillsborough, NC, will present What I Came Here For, featuring works by Arianna Bara, Chris Burnside and Michele Yellin, on view from Apr. 20 through May 24, 2015. A reception will be held on Apr. 24, from 6-9pm.

Arianna Bara explains that the show's title is inspired by a line from a poem by John O'Donohue. The poem, "A Morning Offering", is a reminder that each day is an opportunity "to live the life that you would love...to postpone your dream no longer, but do, at last, what you came here for." The questions "What did I come here for?" and "Why am I here?" resonate with us all.

Says Bara, "My jewelry reflects my answer to these questions. I believe we are spiritual beings having a human experience. We are here to learn the lessons of love and loss, and to remember, in the face of our losses, that we are radiant eternal beings. We are here to shine, to let our spirits 'arise and illuminate' as John O'Donohue says. That's what my jewelry is about."

Chris Burnside has always been attracted to stained glass. So in the 1980s when he was dancing and choreographing in NYC he crossed paths with two brothers who were stained glass artists. "It seemed like some kind of nudge from the universe," explains Burnside. In exchange for helping them when he wasn't rehearsing or performing, they trained him in the art of stained glass.

Burnside immediately began his own

Work by Christopher Burnside

work, which has as its chief elements light, color, texture, and design. Unlike the dances he choreographed about the human condition, his glass work is abstract and is inspired by the sheer beauty of the natural world - beauty that for him, has a way of giving our souls perspective. Burnside says "On some deep level, at least for the moment, the time spent in my studio making work seems an important part of what I came here for."

Michele Yellin has been drawing, painting and making since she was old enough to hold a crayon. Nothing has ever held her interest the way creating does. Yellin says, "I have heard, and sometimes believed, what people say about artists...egotistical, self-centered, navel-gazing (don't get me started about the crazy part). I mean, I am not saving lives. I am not solving world hunger, climate change or poverty. And yet, if I don't create, if I don't go in my studio every day, or pick up my sketchpad and start drawing, I am miserable. I make art that makes me happy, and sometimes makes other people happy too. I have no doubt it's what I came here for."

The Hillsborough Gallery of Arts is owned and operated by 22 local artists and represents these established artists exhibiting contemporary fine art and fine craft. The Gallery's offerings include acrylic and oil paintings, sculpture, ceramics, photography, textiles, jewelry, glass, metals, encaustic, enamel, and wood.

ENO Gallery in Hillsborough, NC, Features Works by Marlise Newman

ENO Gallery in Hillsborough, NC, is presenting Ways to Go, featuring a solo exhibition of new oil paintings by Marlise Newman, on view through Apr. 19, 2015.

A North Carolina native, Marlise Newman (b. 1951) obtained a degree in Art and Design and worked as a designer before devoting herself full time to her painting career. Her early years as a designer inform and inspire her creative expression which has been a hallmark of her journey. Newman's fine art pursuits through the years have led her to study with accomplished artists Kathleen Elsey, Steven Aimone, Bonnie Brown and Mary Edith Alexander at Queens University, and internationally acclaimed artists Maggie Siner and Andrew Braitman.

Newman is an award-winning artist and has participated and placed in various juried shows throughout her career. Her work is collected across the United States and abroad.

Mark Donley, owner of ENO Gallery remarks, "Working primarily with oil on panel, Newman's subjects appear exceedingly simple; a road going into the distance or a singular boat..."

"However, what resonates is the painterly way Newman works, applying her oils to imply rather than mimic the landscape.

Work by Marlise Newman

There is a passionate and impulsive use of line and color in these works."

"In her work Road to Redemption, the vertical road recedes to the distance, while the landscape to the sides of the road are represented by swaths of horizontal planes and broad strokes of tone on tone color, applied in multiple layers then blended and scratched back to reveal previous layers and depth. The result brings energy and movement to what might otherwise be a static road," adds Donley.

"Newman fully engages the viewer, yet even with all this energy her work maintains a harmonious ambience."

Frosty Community in the Pittsboro/Chapel Hill, NC, area Offers Studio Tour - ArtBrake! - Apr. 25 and 26, 2015

Save the dates Apr. 25 and 26, 2015, from 10am-5pm for ArtBrake! 2015. Stop when you see an ArtBrake! sign in the Frosty community, North of Pittsboro and Southwest of Chapel Hill, NC, near the Haw River.

All six participating galleries are found within a three mile radius of the Frosty Fire Station in beautiful Chatham County, out Jones Ferry Road, South of Carrboro, NC. Enjoy the work of eleven dedicated, locally and regionally-known artists. Meet the artists and experience their processes of creating art in a wide spectrum of styles and media.

Artists are a fascinating group of people. Many found professions in other disciplines, but have always worked in art. Their interest in the landscape and natural materials is inspired by the rural setting of the Frosty community in North Chatham County. These eleven artists at six studio gallery locations participate in an annual progressive tour one week-end each spring.

ArtBrake! was co-founded by Linda Anderson and Christie Minchew. They liked the idea of a collective show made up of artist studio/galleries found in close proximity to home. At Anderson's gallery on Frosty Meadow Drive the aroma of oil paint and Earl Gray tea mix to create an atmosphere for her study of the elegant impact of light as it interacts with the real world of interi-ors, landscapes and figures.

The beauty of Carol Kroll's gourd forms is legendary. They create sculpted, carved, and painted environments that draw the eye in for further study. Her sculptures reflect nature's beauty. Kroll says, "A deeply felt connection to the natural world compels me to create art using a material of nature - the humble, yet dynamic gourd." Diane Daniel of the N&O writes "Kroll takes the medium to an exceptionally high level of sophistication and artistry in a wide range of work, including functional pieces, jewelry, sculptures, tabletop and wall art." Kroll is showing at Linda Anderson's studio/gallery.

Christie Minchew and her woodworker husband Chuck show together at their home/studio on Jones Ferry Road in the Frosty community. Christie likes to make whatever her mind can think of with whatever materials are at hand. Color, texture, shadow and movement are themes of her work. The mixed media and fiber materials and the many techniques that express her creative vision are inspired by nature, science, and stories. Chuck Minchew has always been fascinated by the natural beauty of wood, its graceful grains, and rich contrasting colors. He makes useful things for the home such as small tables, boxes, and bread boards.

professor of public health, Richard (Dick) Seed, whose gallery is located on White Cross Road, was first a 2-D artist working in oil paints, pen and ink, and watercolor. In 1985, he switched to wood in carvings, sculpture, and murals. He has specialized in character canes, part of the "cane" family, interwoven with stories. Carved ducks and bugs are other characters, though for his murals he uses differences in wood grain texture and color along with metal and other objects to create visual pictures of abstract themes.

The art editor for the North Chatham Bugle noted that Seed is the father of the new art of "Trianglism." Initially he found Cubism interesting but eventually realized that the cube was too complex a form and decided to explore the triangle as the basic geometric structure. Thereafter, he looked at objects through the eyes of the Cubist, but attempted to portray them in the simpler form of the triangle.

tograph and respond visually and emotionally to the captured scene. North Carolina is her home, between mountain ranges and sea. Hawks is showing in the studio/gallery of Thomas Boone, photographer in alternative non-silver processes and woodworker in the Arts & Crafts style.

Regina and Jim Bridgman share studio and gallery space in his grandparents' old farmhouse on Jones Ferry Road. Jim has a feel for nature and the woods in this area. From time spent outside, he brings nature's beauty into the gallery in the form of walking sticks, rustic furniture, and recycled mixed media assemblage pieces. Early experience tying fishing flies is interpreted in feather earrings and jewelry.

Regina Bridgman offers stained glass artworks which draw inspiration from natural elements, rhythms, and patterns.

Fiddlin' Al McCanness and Louise Hobbs share studio space at the All in One Pottery off of Mount Olive Church Road. McCanness' science background in pharmacy fed naturally into the chemistry of clay, glazes, and firings. He is the "master" of crystalline glazes. Hand-painted pieces show the intricacies and finesse of Renaissance Italian majolica. He was a founder of Dover Pottery, in Seagrove, NC, where an All In One gallery is also located. This consummate musician has recently started making hand crafted banjos for which he is becoming known.

It has always been the dream of Louise Hobbs to have her own sculpture studio and pottery business. Her background in art history brought her to notice that art from other, more primitive times seems to have power that comes from a closeness to nature and a directness of experience. Her work transforms earth materials to look old, like the pieces have been made long ago. They have an unknown personal significance or meaning with which we can identify. Heat and smoke from the fire transform minerals and create chance effects.

Ride through the woody vistas and scenic beauty of Northeastern Chatham County and discover one of its richest resources - the artists! With six galleries to visit in close vicinity, there is time to peruse art pieces on display, get inspired, and meet each artist. Look for ArtBrake! postcards at local shops and eateries, or download the map at (artbrakechathamco.blogspot.com).

ArtFields® 2015 Turns Historic Downtown Lake City, SC, Into Arts Mecca - Apr. 24 - May 2, 2015

ArtFields© 2015 returns to Lake City on Apr. 24 and continues through Saturday, May 2, 2015, in one of the largest celebrations of Southeastern artwork in the United States, with competition artists vying for $110,000 in prizes.

Initially founded in 2013, ArtFields© annually transforms the historic district of Lake City into a Southern art mecca for nine days allowing visitors, residents, and artists to experience a massive arts festival in the heart of one of South Carolina's most charming small towns.

ArtFields© will award life-changing prizes of $50,000 for the Top Prize, $25,000 for Juried Panel prize, two $12,500 People's Choice (one each for two- and three-dimensional work), and ten Honorable Mention awards for $1,000 each. The public will be invited to vote for their favorite works of art to decide the two People's Choice prizes and help determine the Top Prize Winner.

This year, ArtFields© had a record number of submissions from across the Southeast (1,061) and accepted four-hundred works to exhibit during the festival. The competition artwork was juried into the competition by a selection panel of arts professionals including: William Andrews, Director of the Ogden Museum of Southern Art in New Orleans, LA; William Eiland, Director of the Georgia Museum of Art in Athens, GA; and Leslie Rankow, founder of Page 12 - Carolina Arts, April 2015

Leslie Rankow Fine Arts, Ltd. in New York City.

A separate jury panel will decide the winners of the Juried Panel Prize and the ten Honorable Mention awards. This panel is comprised of Chad Alligood, curator at Crystal Bridges Museum of American Art in Bentonville, AR, and a former Cranbrook Art Museum curator who recently researched the State of the Art show developed from visits to 1,000 art studios in 80 cities and small towns across the United States; Tyrone Geter, a painter who has exhibited worldwide, a professor of art at Benedict College, in Columbia, SC, and an art gallery curator; Jay Heuman, art museum educator and curator at the Museum of Fine Arts-Houston, where he works collaboratively to organize more than 120 public programs a year; and Cecilia Stucker, the founder of Curating & Collections, a curatorial consultancy to private and corporate collectors, who splits her time between New York City, Los Angeles and Paris.

Artwork will be displayed in 35+ competition venues, local businesses from dress shops to supply warehouses.

Returning this year are the popular ArtFields Color Me 5K, a race beginning in beautiful, historic Downtown Lake City and ending with a color splash celebration at the finish line, and the Portrait Contest, where

Florence County Museum's Waters Gallery in Florence, SC, Features Photography Exhibition

The Florence Regional Arts Alliance is pleased to collaborate with the Florence County Museum to introduce Legacy: The Ansel Adams Experience, an exhibition that traces the influence and legacy of Ansel Adams in the work of 5 local women artists, on view at the Florence County Museum's Waters Gallery in Florence, SC, from Apr. 10 through June 28, 2015. A reception will be held on May 12, beginning at 6pm.

Legacy features the work of Tari Federer, Kathleen Kennebeck, Elizabeth Kinser, Julie Mixon and Allison Triplett. In the Fall of 2014, Julie Mixon, Assistant Professor of Art at Francis Marion University, took the students featured in this exhibit to the Eastern Sierras of California for a trip she titled: The Ansel Adams Experience.

The project title references one of the most revered photographers of all time. In short, Ansel Adams was a pioneer in the world of photography, specifically in landscape photography. Adams is revered for his complete dedication in every step of the photographic process and is known for his majestic landscape images of the American West. During this travel experience, the group went to places such as Yosemite National Forest, Mono Lake, Bodie Ghost Town and surrounding areas.

One of the goals of this trip was to experience just a little bit of how Adams created his iconic images by using a large format film camera. Students were also encouraged to photograph using digital means and emphasis was placed on creating images that define their personal vision and interpretation of the Eastern Sierra landscape.

The exhibit title references the enduring importance of the teacher-student model. The artists featured in this exhibit have a lineage to Ansel Adams because of the passing of information. One of Mixon's professors of photography (Gilbert Leebrick) was inspired by Adams and learned much directly from him. In turn, Leebrick shared this information and inspiration with Mixon, which she has shared with her students. This legacy of information will continue with the artists featured in this exhibit. The hope is that the students will take these fundamental techniques and ideas which have been passed on and apply them to their own purposes in image-based media.

The students' trip was funded by Francis Marion University's REAL (Ready to Experience Applied Learning) Grant Program, which is designed to enhance the student's learning through nontraditional learning and learning, which takes place outside of the classroom.

The Florence Regional Arts Alliance hopes Florence County will enjoy these encounters five local artists have captured. The exhibition will feature a looped video chronicling the artists' stories and experiences. The Alliance invites the viewer to connect with the artist by hearing their story and hopefully providing a deeper level of understanding between the gallery visitor and the artist.

will coincide with the Florence Regional Arts Alliance's Arts Awards Presentations on May 12 in the Waters Building at 6pm. These prestigious awards annually recognize the important contributions that individuals, groups and businesses make to the cultural life of our community. This event and exhibit is made possible through the generous support of individual donors and the sponsorship of First Reliance Bank and She Magazine.

The Florence Regional Arts Alliance is a community-based local arts agency that serves the citizens of Florence County and the Pee Dee. It strives to promote the arts as a catalyst for community cohesiveness, educational advancement and economic growth.

Vista Studios in Columbia, SC, Features Progressive Exhibition for Artista Vista

Feeling creative, the artists at Vista Studios decided to play a game. Based on the children's game of Gossip, where a phrase is secretly passed from one player to the next, the artists have used visual art in place of words. Partnering with the Columbia Museum of Art, the curator, Will South, choose a piece from the Charles Curran exhibit which is currently on display. He shared this inspiration piece with the first artist only, who was given 3 weeks to create a work of art and pass the new piece to the next artist. Each artist had 3 weeks to complete a work inspired from the image received.

The game has been in play since last Spring. None of the artists have seen the progression of work and are excited to share it at Artista Vista. Come to the opening Apr. 23, 2015, from 5-9pm and see what happens when artists play around and get inspired.

The exhibition GOSSIP will be on view in Gallery 80808, from Apr. 15 - 27. In addition to the Gossip game, the artists will present other new work.

Stephen Chesley, well known for his semi-abstract paintings, will present some new landscape pieces for the show.

Work by Laura Spong

Pat Gilmartin has been exploring a new direction with her art - that of glass fusing, sometimes combining fused glass with glass mosaics. She will be showing several of her new pieces, as well as some of the figurative ceramic pieces that she has become known for over the past several years.

Susan Lenz will show a selection of matted and framed floral images, which are the result from literally pounding delicate wildflower blossoms onto 100% cotton rag mat board. Clover, verbena, and other wildflowers were gathered from the artist's backyard. Pigment from the petals and leaves left realistic floral impressions, and each work was enhanced by only a few pencil lines. No watercolor or other technique was used.

Laurie McIntosh continues in her work in "Pages", an ongoing series of deconstructed paintings created with multiple layers of calligraphic marks and grounds. The deconstructed pages are then reassembled and unconventionally bound to create new visual relationships between the images.

City Art Gallery in Columbia, SC, Features Works by Adrian Rhodes

City Art Gallery in Columbia, SC, will present Fathom, featuring works by Adrian Rhodes, as part of the annual Artista Vista celebration, on view from Apr. 23 through May 16, 2015. A reception will be held on Apr. 23, from 5-9pm, the first evening of Artista Vista.

Work by Adrian Rhodes

Adrian Rhodes grew up in Hartsville, SC. She attended Winthrop University from 2001-2005, earning a BFA in General Studio with emphases in Drawing and Painting. While studying at Winthrop she participated in a semester exchange with the South Carolina Polytechnic in Imatra, Finland. While there she studied Painting, Printmaking, and Academic Figure Drawing. After several years as a practicing artist she returned to Winthrop, receiving her MFA in Painting with a minor in Printmaking in 2011. She currently teaches at the University of South Carolina in Columbia, SC.

Rhodes comments about her work, "While exploring ideas of generational memory I am reflecting on a sense of nostalgia and yearning. Printmaking is the core of my process. Incorporating prints into my mixed media pieces leads to recurring imagery that becomes my personal iconography. Bees represent matrilineal ties, complexity and fragility- hexagons the underlying structure of the universe. Sky charts and navigational imagery reflect the attempt to quantify the unknowable, while moths are an acknowledgment of mortality. Strings literally tie up disparate parts while found objects reflect chance, and the gestural marks form an emotive counterpoint to the rational stability of the grid. Above all I try to create within the work a sense of searching and questioning, rooted in the belief that asking and exploring the questions of both life and the studio are more rewarding than finding clear cut answers or illustrating ideas."

Rhodes's work utilizes printmaking as the core of a mixed media practice. Her work has shown throughout the Carolinas, with solo exhibitions and successes in both local and regional venues. She lives in Hartsville with her husband Michael and their three year old daughter Sophia. She has established her studio at the Black Creek Arts Center.

During the reception on Apr. 23, Cindi Saad will show and sell her handcrafted jewelry and Doug & Bunny Williams will be on hand playing live music. The other galleries will feature select regional artists. The basement art supply store will be open.

Columbia College in Columbia, SC, Features Works by Senior Students

Columbia College in Columbia, SC, will present Transcending Threads: The Annual Senior BA Exhibition, featuring the works of five senior art majors, on view in the Goodall Gallery in the Spears Center for the Arts, from Apr. 9 through May 9, 2015. A reception will be held on Apr. 11, from 3-5pm. An artists Talk will be given on Apr. 15, from 10-11am.

The exhibition features senior art majors: Kate Bowie, Khephra Hines, Murphie Magee, Faith Mathis and Cathey Wright, showing capstone works that explore concepts unraveling along the lines of social conscientiousness, various cultures and civic responsibilities.

Kate Bowie's digital photography series depicts habits of modern day society, "My goal is to spark critical conversations between the viewer and the subconscious about the overwhelming negative facets of modern day lifestyles; to bridge the gap between problem and solution, fantasy and reality through surrealism." Bowie's second series of graphic design are her work with Transitions, a homeless rehabilitation center located in downtown Columbia: "The center offers a unique and rare opportunity to its clients - art classes and an opportunity to show their works...so it was important that these poster designs...conveyed the importance and significance of this opportunity."

The show's threads continue on course through Khephra Hines, whose painting series opens a dialogue on the concept of diversity. She reflects, "When you look beyond the physical representation of a person you find personality traits as well as their unique stories. Diversity is not only about embracing different groups of people but it is about embracing the unique qualities of a person." As part of her visual conversation Hines' second series links the beauty of jewelry with craftsmanship of printmaking: "My collagraphs display various textures that are often used for jewelry design. I have also created a series of miniature collagraphs that are displayed as the focal point of pendants to highlight its textural quality."

"Diversity Series, #1," by Khephra Hines, 2014, Oil on canvas

The process of creating, for most artists, is not as simple as it may seem. Changing its color and texture, the visual conversation crosses into Murphie Magee's printmaking series: "This collagraph series showcases the potentially painful process of creating art, and the fresh, raw ideas that are produced along the way through the ritualistic nature of an artist's endeavors, [where] creating artwork, whether it is written word or as print, can be an euphoric and eye opening process," says Magee.

"Bees," by Kate Bowie, 2015, Digital photo print on fabric

The pattern has been laid and the conversation now transcends from one culture into another – Faith Mathis introduces "the societal transition from tradition to modernity, and the process of assessing identity in culture," through a series of paintings. After a semester in South Korea, Mathis has a unique perspective on the culture and its art: "My series is about the societal transition.... not only in terms of the new generation of South Koreans, but also for people like myself, who upon interacting with other cultures, are consequently changed. The intention is to rouse thinking of the relationship between birth culture and social identity."

In Cathey Wright's drawing series the threads that bind the concept of family celebrate its beauty by expressing "the innocence found on the face of a child; to reflect the beauty of a smile and/or brightness in their eyes. Children are God's gift to all that come in contact with them; they are in my heart. Not having had any children, I am blessed with many."

701 Center for Contemporary Art in Columbia Offers Work by Eto Otitigbe

701 Center for Contemporary Art in Columbia, SC, is presenting Eto Otitigbe: Ruptured Silence, by New York resident Eto Otitigbe, on view through Apr.19, 2015.

Ruptured Silence is the title of a performance originally conceived by Wideman/Davis Dance that examined contemporary perspectives about the confederate flag, a bygone symbol, and its usage as an intimidation tool. Otitigbe chose to adopt Ruptured Silence as the title of his solo exhibition at 701 CCA. The exhibition includes a series of sculptures, video experimental drawings that are alternative representations of familiar themes and objects.

"Spray," by Eto Otitigbe

Eto Otitigbe is a polymedia artist whose practice investigates issues of race, technology, politics, and shared experiences. He creates opportunities for people to reflect and socialize; his projects can be experienced as a creative protest, a cultural artifact, or sculptural intervention. Otitigbe uses his creative practice to construct knowledge constellations that chart his identity and experiences as a Nigerian-American-Artist-Engineer-DJ, to suggest a few.

Otitigbe studied Mechanical Engineering at MIT, Cambridge, MA (BS, 1999)

"Passing Point," by Eto Otitigbe and Stanford University, Palo Alto, CA (MS, 2003). He earned an MFA in Creative Practice from the Transart Institute, Berlin & New York (2012).

While in residence at 701 CCA, Otitigbe collaborated with Wideman/Davis Dance to develop Ruptured Silence: Racist Symbols and Signs, a new media and dance performance installation that explores the deconstruction of a southern civil rights memento, the confederate flag. Ruptured Silence: Racist Symbols and Signs was performed Mar. 27 and 28 at 701 Center for Contemporary Art.

During his residency, Otitigbe created a temporary public sculpture, Passing Point, for outside on the Wayne St. side of 701 Whaley. Passing Point, which is inspired by elephant ear woven baskets from the Gullah people, creates a dialogue between mathematics, experimental architecture, and cultural traditions that are underrepresented in much of South Carolina's public art. The piece, which includes multiple points of entry, allows visitors to insert themselves into a shared experience.

Gossip

Come see what happens when artists play around and get inspired.

In the children's game of Gossip a story is secretly passed from one player to the next, resulting in a miscommunicated version of the original tale. Feeling playful, the artists of Vista Studios/Gallery 80808 based their Spring exhibition on this idea using visual arts in place of words. Will South, Columbia Museum of Art's, museum curator, chose the initial image from the current Charles Curran exhibit. Each artist had 3 weeks to create a work inspired by the image they received from the previous artist.

University of South Carolina in Columbia, SC, Offers Look at 25th anniversary of the Americans with Disabilities Act

The University of South Carolina in Columbia, SC, is presenting Opening Doors: 25 Years of the Americans with Disabilities Act, on display in the third floor lobby at the McKissick Museum, through May 16, 2015.

On July 26, 1990, President George H. W. Bush signed the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), a landmark piece of civil rights legislation became law, making it possible for Americans with disabilities to participate more fully in society. Twenty-five years later our world is more inclusive, but there is still more work to be done. Disabled students, staff, and faculty at USC certainly know this.

Since 2008, students from the Office of Student Disability Services have participated in a PhotoVoice project, adding their voices to the ADA's call to action. Numerous initiatives were started to improve communication between students and various offices on campus. However, the dialogue needs to continue. For that reason, the SDS has made the PhotoVoice project an annual event.

This year's exhibition, Opening Doors, consists of twenty-one images. The photos depict physical obstacles, social barriers and academic difficulties, all of which show what students impacted by physical, mental, and psychological disabilities face. The goal is to raise awareness about how we all have a role to play in making USC more accessible and the Gamecock family more inclusive.

"PhotoVoice showcases seven incredibly creative and talented USC students who have a disability and face various obstacles on our campus. Their photos and words tell powerful personal stories, and I hope that our community will take the time to visit the exhibit and see their amazing hard work," says Natalie Rooney, who served as the project coordinator during her student practicum with the SDS.

"McKissick Museum has a long history of partnering with academic units on campus, but we do not have many opportunities to work with departments housed within the Division of Student Affairs. When we were approached by the Office of Student Disability Services, I was elated. I hope that other service organizations will see McKissick Museum as a site for their projects," said Lana Burgess, Ph.D., Faculty Curator, McKissick Museum.

McKissick Museum is located on the University of South Carolina's historic Horseshoe with available parking in the garage at the corner of Pendleton and Bull streets. All exhibits are free and open to the public.

For further information check our SC Institutional Gallery listings, call Ja-Nae Epps at 803/777-2876 or visit (<http://art-sandsciences.sc.edu/mckissickmuseum>).

Vista Guild in Columbia, SC, Plans 24th Artista Vista to Take Place - Apr. 23 - 25, 2015

Artista Vista, the Midlands' most celebrated gallery crawl, returns from Thursday, Apr. 23 – Saturday, Apr. 25, 2015. Vista artists and galleries will open their doors from 5-9pm. Thursday, April 23 (for Art Night), and for regular gallery hours April 24 – 25 for this free, signature Vista gallery crawl.

In its 24th year, Artista Vista will feature regionally and nationally renowned artists, as well as local artists from the Midlands. Nearly a dozen participating galleries will have performance art inside or near their location. Attendees can chat with gallery owners and artists while taking in paintings, sculpture, pottery and jewelry.

Additionally, the Vista Guild will install another new public art sculpture by Vista artist Stephen Chesley. The sculpture will be unveiled on Thursday, Apr. 23 during Artista Vista at its permanent home on Lady Street.

"Our annual Artista Vista is a unique event that highlights so much talent in the Midlands and beyond," said Sarah Lewis, executive director of the Vista Guild. "The Vista has a rich history that began with artists. Now many of these artists as well as talented fresh faces help run and facilitate Artista Vista each spring and it's exciting to meet and mingle with these artists while enjoying their work."

Artista Vista is free for attendees, and free parking is available in the Vista's parking decks located on Lincoln Street near Lady, Park Street near Pendleton, and Lady Street near Wayne Street on Thursday, Apr. 23, from 5pm-2am.

The Vista, Columbia's premier art neighborhood, has been a force in keeping the Midlands' art scene thriving through the past three decades. The modern Vista has its roots in the 1980s when artists began to move their studios to the area's affordable warehouse space. Today's restaurants, shopping and nightlife in historic buildings in the Vista are still driven by the Vista's art-filled history.

Stay tuned to (www.ArtistaVista.com) for event maps and plans as galleries finalize their Artista Vista shows and as the Vista Guild announces installation artists and sites complete gallery and installation exhibition information.

For more information about the Vista, please visit (www.VistaColumbia.com) or call Sarah Lewis at 803/269.5946. Follow the Vista Guild on Twitter, Instagram and on Facebook.

The deadline each month to submit articles, photos and ads is the 24th of the month prior to the next issue. This will be Apr. 24th for the May 2015 issue and May 24 for the June 2015 issue. After that, it's too late unless your exhibit runs into the next month. But don't wait for the last minute - send your info now.

Indie Grits 2015 Announces Event Schedule and Art Offerings

The Indie Grits Film Festival, the Southeast's premier film and culture festival in Columbia, SC, for DIY media-makers, will take place Apr. 15-19, 2015, and for the first time, the festival will have a theme: "Future Perfect."

The ninth annual Indie Grits, hosted by the Nickelodeon Theatre, South Carolina's oldest art-house cinema located on Main Street in South Carolina's capital city, will feature five full days of the best DIY short, experimental, animated and student film, music, food and outside-the-box artistic performances from South Carolina and the Southeast. Additionally, 2015's Indie Grits will feature visual artists with a connection to the Southeast whose work will enhance Columbia's public spaces during the festival for a multi-faceted exhibit, thanks to funding by an Our Town grant from the National Endowment for the Arts. Indie Grits has twice been named one of MovieMaker magazine's Top 25 Coolest Film Festivals in the World.

In addition to competition films screening at the Nickelodeon Theatre and Tapp's throughout the festival, Indie Grits has several special events and opportunities.

After artists submitted proposals for work they'd like to put together at Indie Grits 2015 that will reflect the festival's "Future Perfect" theme, festival organizers have chosen 16 artists who will exhibit their work in various spots along Main Street.

Participating artists include: Seth Curcio, Stephanie Dowda, Gabrielle Duggan, Ron Hagell, Hollis Hammonds, Roni Nicole Henderson & Cedric Umoja, Julie Henson, The Institute for Wishful Thinking, Trek Matthews, Evan Meaney, Paperhand Puppet Intervention, sleeper, Meg Stein, Benjamin Tiven, Barry Wheeler, Antoine Williams, and Vistovka Transporte.

Indie Grits will also feature a Mini Cine, a cinema in a portable shipping container. The pop-up theater will be located on Boyd Plaza throughout the festival and the public can enjoy two "Future Perfect" programs of video art on continuous loop curated by artist Ben Tiven and the Moving Image Research Collection at the University of South Carolina. Admission is free and the Mini Cine will be open from 11am-8pm throughout the festival.

As the hallmark of the festival, Indie Grits organizers have selected 10 narrative and documentary feature films and many narrative, documentary, animated, experimental and student short films. A complete list of films, their synopses and screening time and location is available at (www.IndieGrits.com).

Back by popular demand, Indie Bits is a celebration of independent gaming and interactive media designed to foster collaboration between gaming developers and enthusiasts, academics and artists interested in games and gaming technology. Indie Bits has selected a showcase of games from the Southeast and the public is invited to try out the games in the Skyline at Tapp's Arts Center. Indie Bits will sprinkle other video game installations at various festival events. Indie Bits will feature a life-sized Pacman-inspired game called GRITman at the festival's opening party on April 15 and host a free Kindie Grits event for children interested in learning more about independent video gaming on Saturday, April 18.

To round out the tech offerings of the festival, Indie Grits is also collaborating with Converge SE, a conference for creative web design, and, for the first time, POSSCON, the technical conference for open tech and the open web. These conferences overlap with Indie Grits in downtown Columbia.

Music lovers will find plenty to enjoy at Indie Grits 2015. For a full lineup of artists, from Michael Parallax who makes what's been described as Pop Spiritual Revival Tent Music to Helado Negro, the king of chill sound, and Hectorina and their epic rock opera, who will all be at the Opening Night party (April 15, at 6pm in Boyd Plaza) visit (www.IndieGrits.com). The Indie Grits Closing party will take place on April 19 at 10pm at 1216 Taylor Street. It will feature music by Mechanical River and Infnitkiss.

Indie Grits is once again collaborating with Love, Peace, and Hip Hop for Hip Hop Family Day on Saturday, April 18 on the 1700 block of Main Street. In partnership with Music Farm Columbia, all Indie Grits Festival pass holders will also enjoy admission to Jason Isbell's concert on Saturday, April 18 at 8pm.

Newberry College in Newberry, SC, Offers Works by Kathleen Kondalis Franks and Robert L. Franks

Newberry College in Newberry, SC, is presenting an exhibition of assemblages by two Asheville, NC, artists, Kathleen Kondalis Franks and Robert L. Franks, on view in the Wessels Library Gallery, through Apr. 17, 2015.

Many of the works by the Franks have the theme of tools, people and birds. They are not realistic but are a symbolic representation. "View my sculptures with a sense of humor and entertainment," says R. L. Franks. "If I have communicated to you as a viewer some sense of beauty in my efforts, I am pleased".

Much of Kathleen Franks' work includes objects that have been trampled by time. "Old wood, worn or chipping paint, a patina from years of neglect, found objects - all of these are more beautiful or interesting, I feel, than new slick, perfect objects. The old things have a history that the Japanese have a name for: 'wabi sabi', the term means something that is beautifully imperfect, impermanent, incomplete, rough, or irregular," says Kathleen Kondilas Franks.

Lancaster County Council of the Arts in Lancaster, SC, Features Exhibition by Women Artists

The Lancaster County Council of the Arts in Lancaster, SC, will present Women Artists in Harmony, featuring a collaborative exhibit of thirteen diverse local woman artist, on view at the Springs House Gallery, from Apr. 3 - 28, 2015. A reception will be held on Apr. 9, from 5-7pm.

Each participation artist is a talented individual with a focus and style unique to their interest and medium. Pattie Schlesner and Shirley Wood will have many of their fine jewelry designs available in a variety of stonework, beading and polymer clay.

Juanita Wood and Melissa A. Lawson have chosen striking works in photography for exhibit and Roy Thompson will showcase her unique twist of using mixed mediums, and stained glass for her creations.

Cindy Conway and Betty Jones will have clay pieces, both artistic and functional at the show; each representative of their own way of transforming clay into art.

Jeanette Osterlin will share some of her fine pieces of art that incorporate fabric and her love of gardening. Carol Johns, a registered instructor for the art of Zentangling will have her award winning piece on display, as well as other of her pieces, and cards.

Marie Mitchell and Betsey B. Stryker, each accomplished painters, will add their vibrant works of acrylic paintings and mixed mediums.

Jane Moeller will have a selection of her very distinct, and fun stylistic woman paintings. Cindy Moeykens will round out the show with both her ink works, and water-color portraiture.

Davidson College in Davidson, NC, Features Works by Cort Savage

Davidson College in Davidson, NC, is presenting Interiorities: A Decade of Inevitable Forms, featuring sculptures by Prof. of Art Cort Savage, on view in the Van Every Gallery, through Apr. 12, 2015.

This exhibition provides closure to Savage's work from the past decade. The rubber band-based sculptures are a departure from the mixed media kinetic sculptures of his early years. They are inspired by his interests in contemporary philosophy, poetry, and quantum mechanics and began with the idea of taking something as insignificant as a rubber band and building something with greater impact.

Pieces such as Canons allude to Savage's study in both figure sculpture and constructive sculpture. Three human skulls are wrapped in rubber bands and x-rays are linked to each sphere. "The X-ray suggests the integrity of the intellect while the rubber band sphere suggests the integrity of processes linked to physical process," Savage explained. "Sometimes they support each other and sometimes they are pushing against each other."

Jerald Melberg Gallery in Charlotte, NC, Features Works by Wolf Kahn

Jerald Melberg Gallery is proudly presenting a solo exhibition of new paintings and pastels by internationally acclaimed artist, Wolf Kahn, on view through Apr. 25, 2015.

Wolf Kahn is widely considered the preeminent landscape painter in America. Color is his signature. Continually striving for a deeper insight into the possibilities of color, Wolf Kahn makes landscape paintings with unmatched luminosity.

Kahn was born in Stuttgart, Germany, in 1927. He arrived in the United States in 1940 and in 1945 graduated from the High School of Music and Art in New York. He then spent time in the Navy and after his discharge attended classes taught by Stuart Davis and Hans Jelinek at the New School for Social Research. Kahn studied further with Hans Hofmann at his School of Fine Art in New York and worked as his studio assistant in Provincetown. In 1950 he enrolled in the University of Chicago from which he was graduated in 1951 with a Bachelor of Arts degree. After traveling for a time, he returned to New York to resume painting.

Kahn has been honored with numerous awards, including both Fulbright and Guggenheim Fellowships. He is an elected member of the National Academy of Design, the American Academy and

Latin American Contemporary Art Projects in Charlotte, NC, Celebrates Second Anniversary

Latin American Contemporary Art Projects (LaCa) Gallery in Charlotte, NC, is presenting Collective, on view through June 5, 2015.

The exhibition features close to fifty works by nine renowned artists from multiple Latin American countries, and celebrates LaCa's two-year anniversary. The works in this exhibition feature an array of styles and mediums, including charcoal, oil and acrylic on canvas, pastels, mixed media, and ceramic. The show will also feature brand-new works from some of the participating artists.

"This is a dynamic show that presents an excellent cross-section of works by artists whom we feel represent some of the best Latin American artists," comments Neely Verano, LaCa's gallery director. "It will appeal to the masses and to many different tastes."

Fuga, Ricardo "Chino" Morales, Oil on canvas

Artists featured in Collective are: Roberto Marquez (Mexico), Cristina Toro (Puerto Rico), Leandro Manzo (Argentina), Jeannine Marchand (Puerto Rico), Vicente Hernandez (Cuba), Juan Carlos Verdial (Cuba), Alicia de la Campa (Cuba), Santiago Quesnel (Argentina), Juan Dolhare (Argentina), Otto Apuy

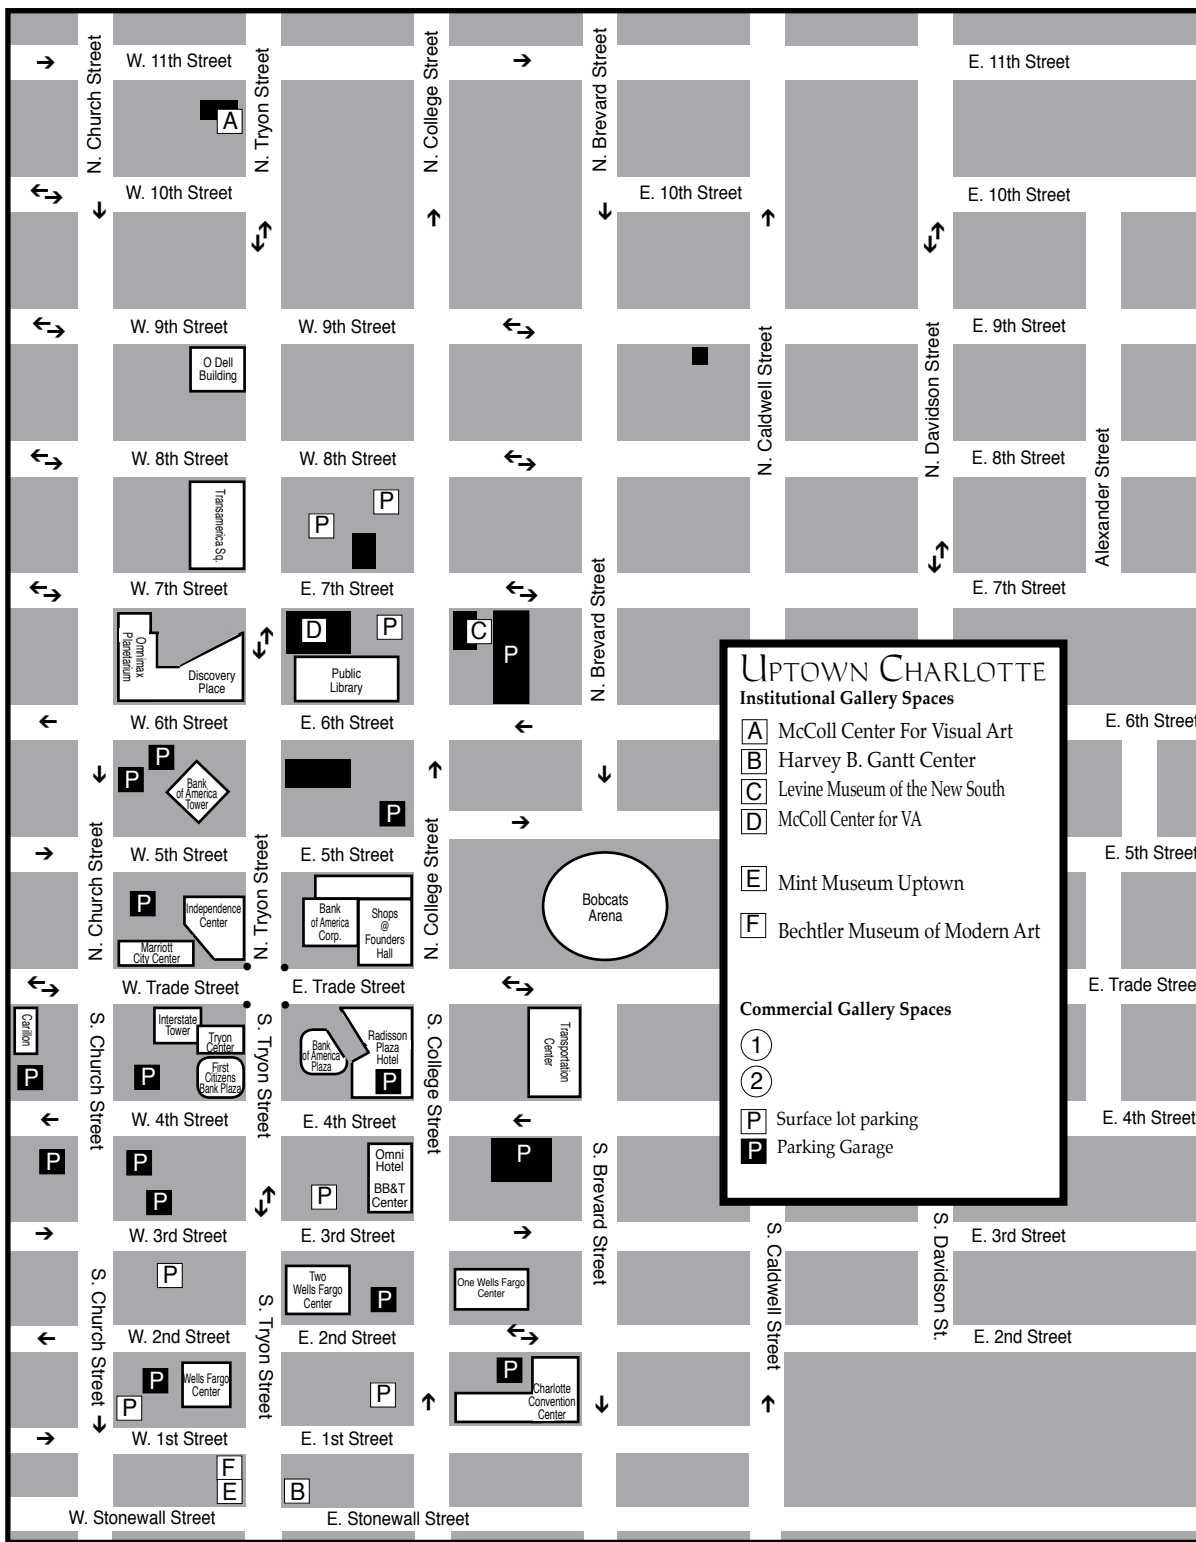

Winter Walker, Roberto Marquez, Oil on canvas

(Costa Rica), and Ricardo "Chino" Morales (Costa Rica).

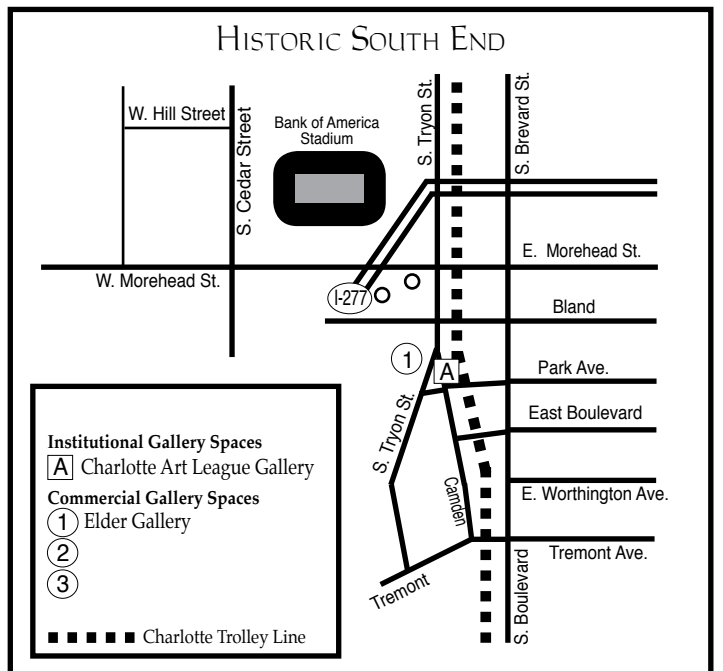

LaCa Gallery was founded in March 2013 with a bold vision of becoming an international resource for contemporary Latin American art and culture. Since its inception, LaCa has featured more than a dozen artists, ranging from emerging to established and Master level. Through these presentations, LaCa Projects fulfills its mission to present superior examples of art that broadly exemplify the rich and influential art originating from Latin American artists and also which challenge existing perceptions of Latin American art. Furthermore, its recently-opened artist studios, where Latin American artists work through a hybrid studio/residency program, will pave the way for innovative programming, direct access to artists and artistic development, and community engagement in conjunction with the gallery. LaCa Projects will embark on the third phase of its development later in 2015, an authentic Latin American cafe, which will complete its approach to creating an innovative, culturally-focused, world-class center for contemporary art.

Lark & Key Gallery in Charlotte, NC, Offers Works Focused on Nature

Lark & Key Gallery in Charlotte, NC, will present Cross-Pollination, featuring artwork inspired by the natural world, on view from Apr. 3 through May 30, 2015. A reception will be held on Apr. 3, from 6-8pm.

The exhibit features artwork inspired by the natural world - such as flowers and insects - and influences that come from diverse elements and ideas. Participating artists include gallery co-owner Duy Huynh and other regular gallery artists Angie Renfro, Vicki Sawyer and Mary Alayne Thomas, plus local and national guest artists including Liz Saintsing, Jenny Brown, Beatriz Mendoza and Kelcey Loomer. The artists work in media ranging from acrylic and oils to watercolor and mixed media.

Each month, the gallery also highlights the work of one of the ceramic artists it represents. Although separate from the exhibit, the work sometimes reflects its theme. April's featured potter is Asheville artist Julie Covington; her work will include some pieces created in collaboration with guest artist Beatriz Mendoza. The featured potter for May will be Rock Hill artist Paula Smith, a ceramics instructor at Central

Elder Gallery in Charlotte, NC, Features Works by Harry Folsom

Elder Gallery in Charlotte, NC, will present an exhibit of works by Harry Folsom, on view from Apr. 3 - 25, 2015. A reception will be held on Apr. 3, from 6-9pm.

There are those born into our midst who are destined for greatness because of inherent talent and passion. Harry Folsom is one such person. From an early age he knew he would be an artist. At age twelve, he exhibited in a gallery and sold his first painting.

"I use the brush to create a hostile, violent underpainting, which I then placate with whimsical, almost storybook colors," says Folsom. "This process offers a very compelling introspective look into modern society. I constantly grasp at presenting my perception of the human condition through a variety of media and imagery."

After graduating with a BFA in 1979, Folsom continued his art career and worked independently as a graphic artist. His work has been exhibited throughout the United States and in Paris, Rome and Prague. His paintings and sculptures are in private and corporate collections as well as the Hobbs Collection of the New Yorker magazine, the Performing Arts Center of Palm Springs, California and the Sara Roby Foundation of the Smithsonian Institute.

Having grown up in Jacksonville, FL, and earning an art degree in South Carolina, Folsom should feel at home when he travels to Charlotte to attend the first exhibition of his recent work at Elder Gallery.

"My first impression of Harry's work was one of awe as I admired his unique style and his ability to use multiple mediums to create his art," says gallery owner Larry Elder. "It's a thrilling experience to meet someone who is so dedicated and confident in his work. Harry is a true artist in every sense of the word."

Folsom's show at Elder Gallery will include a number of his "non-objective study on homes of the future" paintings. In this new body of work Folsom expresses the emotions we attach to home and homelessness. To many, thoughts of home often bring feelings of warmth and happiness; to others, coldness and fear. For some the concept of home is unlimited but for others it is a locked door. Folsom's fiery and brilliant palette challenges viewers to contemplate concepts of home in light of constantly changing relationships.

Cabarrus Arts Council in Concord, NC, Features Works by Nine Artists

The Cabarrus Arts Council in Concord, NC, is presenting Semantics, an exhibition featuring words, phrases, symbols, language and literature in conjunction with artworks of various media, on display at The Galleries through May 16, 2015. The Galleries will be closed Apr. 3-11.

The exhibition includes ceramics, paintings, drawings, etchings, collages and jewelry.

"Throughout history, words and phrases have informed the visual arts," said Rebecca Collins, Cabarrus Arts Council Visual Arts Director and curator for the exhibition. "Semantics is a group invitational that explores the intricate dialogue between language and visual art as a mode of expression. Semantics aims to reveal the connection between written communication and visual art in tangible forms. We see the transformation of meanings in language, symbols and signs throughout this visual exhibition as they mutually influence one another."

Semantics includes works by nine artists:

Andrew Coombs is an adjunct professor of ceramics at the University of South Carolina, Columbia, SC, who creates pottery that is layered with text that serves as both a decorative element and a record of his communication with the object.

Stephanie DeArmond, of Minneapolis,

Work by Andrew Coombs

MN, is a clay artist whose work explores language by taking slang phrases, colloquialisms, and snippets of conversation and abstracting them into sculptural form where meanings are revealed and obscured through typography and letterforms.

Kiki Farish, of Raleigh, NC, creates drawings that deal with visual/verbal communication systems. Complexity is built with organic images fused together with text to suggest subtle and polite statements of social matters.

Andy Farkas, of Asheville, NC, works with wood engraving, drypoint and etching techniques to create detailed, evocative images. He considers the true nature of his work to lie in telling stories.

Historic Cabarrus Association in Concord, NC, Features Works from the Robert F. Phifer Art Collection

Fourteen paintings from the North Carolina Museum of Art that were last on public display during the Nixon administration are going to be on exhibition at the Historic Cabarrus Association's Concord Museum, located in the Historic Courthouse in Concord, NC, through July 14.

The Art Collection of Robert F. Phifer includes 19th and early 20th century paintings collected by the Concord native who used his success as a prosperous planter and cotton buyer to fuel his passion for art. In the early 20th century, he had one of the most comprehensive art collections in the world. With his passing, Phifer became the first major benefactor of the North Carolina Museum of Art. The museum acquired more than 230 works of art, including many of its masterpieces, wholly or in part with funds from Phifer's bequest.

The effort to bring the collection to Concord was spearheaded by local Judge Marty McGee who worked with the Historic Cabarrus Association, which operates the Concord Museum, the Cabarrus Arts Council, Cabarrus County and the City of Concord on the project.

The fifth of seven children born to Caleb and Mary Phifer, Robert Phifer grew up on North Union Street in a house on the present site of First Presbyterian Church. He entered Davidson College before his 15th birthday, but left before graduation. By the time he was in his early 30s, he had accumulated a substantial fortune and left the business world to move to New York and become an artist and collector. He became an active member of New York's legendary Salmagundi Club, a men's society of artists and art enthusiasts. Over the years he acquired many works by Salmagundi members for his own personal collection. He also traveled and studied art all over the world. He never married and is buried in First Presbyterian Church's Memorial Garden on Spring Street.

The 14 paintings include “Red Snow-Mt. Fuji, Lake Hakone,” which Phifer painted during a six-month trip to Japan in which he traveled and painted with local artists.

The other 13 paintings include landscapes and portraits:

Ernest Albert, American, 1857-1946, “Autumn Afternoon,” 1919, oil on canvas. A distinguished theatrical and scenic designer who became a landscape painter and muralist. He was founder and first president of Allied Artists of America.

Charles Shepard Chapman, American, 1879-1962, “Cornered,” circa 1916, oil on board. Chapman was a respected illustrator and a co-founder of the Leonia School of Illustration in New Jersey. It is probable that this painting with its dramatic narrative of a wolf closing in on a young boy was originally created to accompany a published story.

William N. Hasler, American, 1865-1933, “A Summer Afternoon,” circa 1926, oil on board. A landscape artist and member of the Salmagundi Club, Hasler worked mostly in oil, but also did etchings, black and white prints and some watercolor.

Carl Hirschberg, American, born in Germany, 1854-1923, “Evening,” 1919, oil on board. A late 19th century highly academic painter, he became an early 20th century impressionist and influential member of the Kent (CT) Art Association and the broader Litchfield County group of painters.

Artist Unknown, British, “Robert Sherson,” circa 1814, oil on canvas. This portrait may commemorate this man's triumph over scandal. Robert Sherson (ca. 1770-1842) was an administrator in the British East India Company, charged with handling all receipts and disbursements of grain imports at Madras, who was charged with fraud and embezzlement and later exonerated.

Frank von der Lancken, American, 1872-1950, “Landscape,” undated, oil on canvas. A prominent educator, artist and proponent of the Arts and Crafts movement in early 20th century America, he was proficient in a variety of media, from oil and watercolors to pencil and charcoal.

Corwin Knapp Linson, American, 1864-1959, “Cool Comfort,” circa 1926, oil on canvas.

Harry Leith-Ross, American, born Mauritius, 1886-1973, “Snow Scene,” undated, oil on canvas. Leith-Ross taught classes in landscape painting in New Hope, Pennsylvania, taking over teaching duties for John Fulton Folinsbee, a fellow member of the Salmagundi Club. Leith-Ross became an integral part of the New Hope art community, and eventually wrote “The Landscape Painter's Manual” in 1956.

Corwin Knapp Linson, American, 1864-1959, “Cool Comfort,” circa 1926, oil on canvas. He was an illustrator, painter and writer whose subjects ranged from social commentary, to travel images, to biblical subjects. He wrote a book about the author Stephen Crane, his close friend.

George Glenn Newell, American, 1870-1947, “The Lane to the Brook,” undated, oil on panel. Known for his pastoral landscapes featuring cattle, he exhibited widely and with much success throughout the United States. He was a member of the National Academy of Design.

James Scott, American, 1889-1934, “Autumn Trees,” circa 1926, oil on canvas. No information available.

Artist Unknown, American, first half of 19th century, “Portrait of a Lady,” circa 1925-35, oil on canvas. This portrait can be approximately dated by the costume of the fashionable sitter. The attention paid to the lady's ring suggests that the portrait might commemorate her marriage.

Artist unknown, American, early 20th century, “Autumn Landscape with Corner of a Building,” undated, oil on canvas.

John Scott Williams, American, born Great Britain, 1877-1976, “Faun,” undated, oil on board. Williams and his wife, the artist Clara Elsen Peck, both attended the Leonia School of Illustration in New Jersey. He was one of seven major American artists who volunteered to create World War I propaganda posters.

Pottery 101 in Salisbury, NC, Offers Group Pottery Show

Pottery 101 in Salisbury, NC, is presenting Assemblage, an exhibit featuring works by Michael Hamlin, Allison McGowan, Jennifer Mecca, Ron Philbeck, Amy Sanders and Julie Wiggins, on view through Apr. 17, 2015.

Michael Hamlin creates vessels on the wheel and by hand building. He uses a high iron bearing clay body and applies multiple crater or matt glazes. Many of his pieces are fired multiple times in order to obtain his unique surfaces. He has a passion for gardening and says it provides much inspiration for his work. He is also inspired by Scandinavian and Mid-Century design and 12-15th century Persian and East Asian ceramic forms.

Allison McGowan's clay work is inspired by nature. Art Nouveau architecture and the sewing process. McGowan says, “Combining various patterns, volume and structures guide my hand and eye in my current work. Balancing these while still creating useful functional hand built pottery is an achievement nature teaches, me observing every small gumball or lily flower.”

Work by Ron Philbeck

Jennifer Mecca creates utilitarian pots that are unique and visually appealing, but also functional for use in everyday life. Mecca says she creates pots that, “reflect the enjoyment I have for throwing, embellishing, creating and using.” Inspirations for her surfaces include fabric pattern, paintings, nature, and historic dishware.

Ron Philbeck's soda glazed stoneware is strongly influenced by potters of the Leach/Hamada lineage. He says he thinks that using handmade pottery enriches our daily lives and that everyone should at least own a handmade mug and dinner plate.

Textile patterns, quilting, architecture and nature inspire the pottery of Amy Sanders. Through these influences she feels inspired to create works that she says, “invite touch and evoke a sense of nostalgic comfort.” According to Sanders, working with clay satisfies her desire to “play, construct, experiment and get dirty.”

Work by Jennifer Mecca

Julie Wiggins' work is informed by her travels to China, Morocco, Mexico and Europe. It is additionally influenced by her study of traditional studio pottery techniques. She says that, “together, these influences help me create a body of work that reflects memories, movement, and love of life. Wiggins loves contemporary architecture, the repeated patterns found in nature, and “the simple power of an intuitively drawn, fluid line.”

Society of Bluffton Artists in Bluffton, SC, Offers Works by Joy Lillith Hermann

The Society of Bluffton Artists in Bluffton, SC, will present The Touchables, featuring the latest work of Joy Lillith Hermann, on view from Apr. 6 through May 2, 2015. A reception will be held on Apr. 10, from 5-7pm.

This exciting and varied exhibit features Hermann's deliciously textured paintings and unique dichroic glass jewelry.

The theme for this show was inspired by Hermann's rich childhood and her memories of visiting museums and art galleries – and wishing she could touch the textured artwork she saw there. And recently those memories were brought back – when she let a young child gently touch the surface of one of her paintings, the smile on his face was such a reward that she decided then and there to call this exhibit The Touchables.

Hermann works in acrylic and mixed media, usually on a large scale. She often uses molding pastes to build up her canvases and creates paintings with layers and layers of glazes and inks. She loves to experiment and is very versatile. Hermann did an intense three month apprenticeship with world-renowned Roy Scallenberg, which enriched her talent in abstracts and also stimulated her creative expressionistic paintings. Her art is featured in private and public collections locally and all across the country.

In addition to her paintings, Hermann is an accomplished jewelry maker, using dichroic glass in wonderful layers and shapes to create wearable art. She would love to share her knowledge of this unique and colorful material as well as her "touchable" paintings.

Art League of Hilton Head, SC, Features Works by Nancy Mitchell

The Art League of Hilton Head on Hilton Head Island, SC, will present Life is a Carnival, an exhibit of sculptures by Nancy Mitchell, on view at the Walter Greer Gallery, at Arts Center of Coastal Carolina, from Apr. 7 through May 2, 2015. A reception will be held on Apr. 9, from 5-7pm.

"Bright lights, movement, and the fun of people enjoying it! That's what this show is all about", explains local artist Nancy Mitchell. "My family has attended the carnival in Savannah, GA, for the last 25 years, and I have been planning this show in my head from year one!"

Mitchell has made her living as an artist in the Lowcountry for the last 30 years. Paintings, murals, commissions and some teaching made up her career. In 2012 she returned to sculpting the figures she loved so much in college. The figures were met with great enthusiasm. In 2013 Mitchell received an award for her sculpture "Gullah's Ark" from the national juried show Biennale.

"I enjoy creating an event and then placing my figures within it". Pieces as large as five feet in this show became feats of engineering, and Mitchell received a crash course in electric motors as well. One of the larger pieces, Country Ferris Wheel, has an electric motor, battery lights, nine people and two animals. Mitchell likes to work in 1/6 scale, "it just feels right" she says. Once the figures are formed and fired she hand paints them with acrylic.

Always eclectic there are several relief sculptures of the carnival landscape included in this show as well. They are mixed media, heavily textured and finished in oil paint.

The Art League of Hilton Head is the only not-for-profit visual arts organization on Hilton Head Island with a synergistic Art Gallery and Teaching Academy that welcome artists and students at all levels and in all media. The League promotes and supports the visual arts through education, exhibitions and partnerships for the cultural enhancement of the community and its visitors.

USC-Beaufort Center for the Arts in Beaufort, SC, Offers Works by Eric R. Smith and Dusty Connor

USC-Beaufort Center for the Arts in Beaufort, SC, will present Pixels to Pigment, featuring works by photographer Eric R. Smith, and painter Dusty Connor, on view from Apr. 3 through May 31, 2015. A reception will be held on Apr. 3, from 5:30-7:30pm.

These works represent a conceptualized journey that began behind the lens and blossomed into a collaboration between friends, fine art photographer Eric R. Smith, and painter Dusty Connor. Each artist will present fifteen pieces of art that began their gestation in the photography studio and moved outward as each of their visions took greater form.

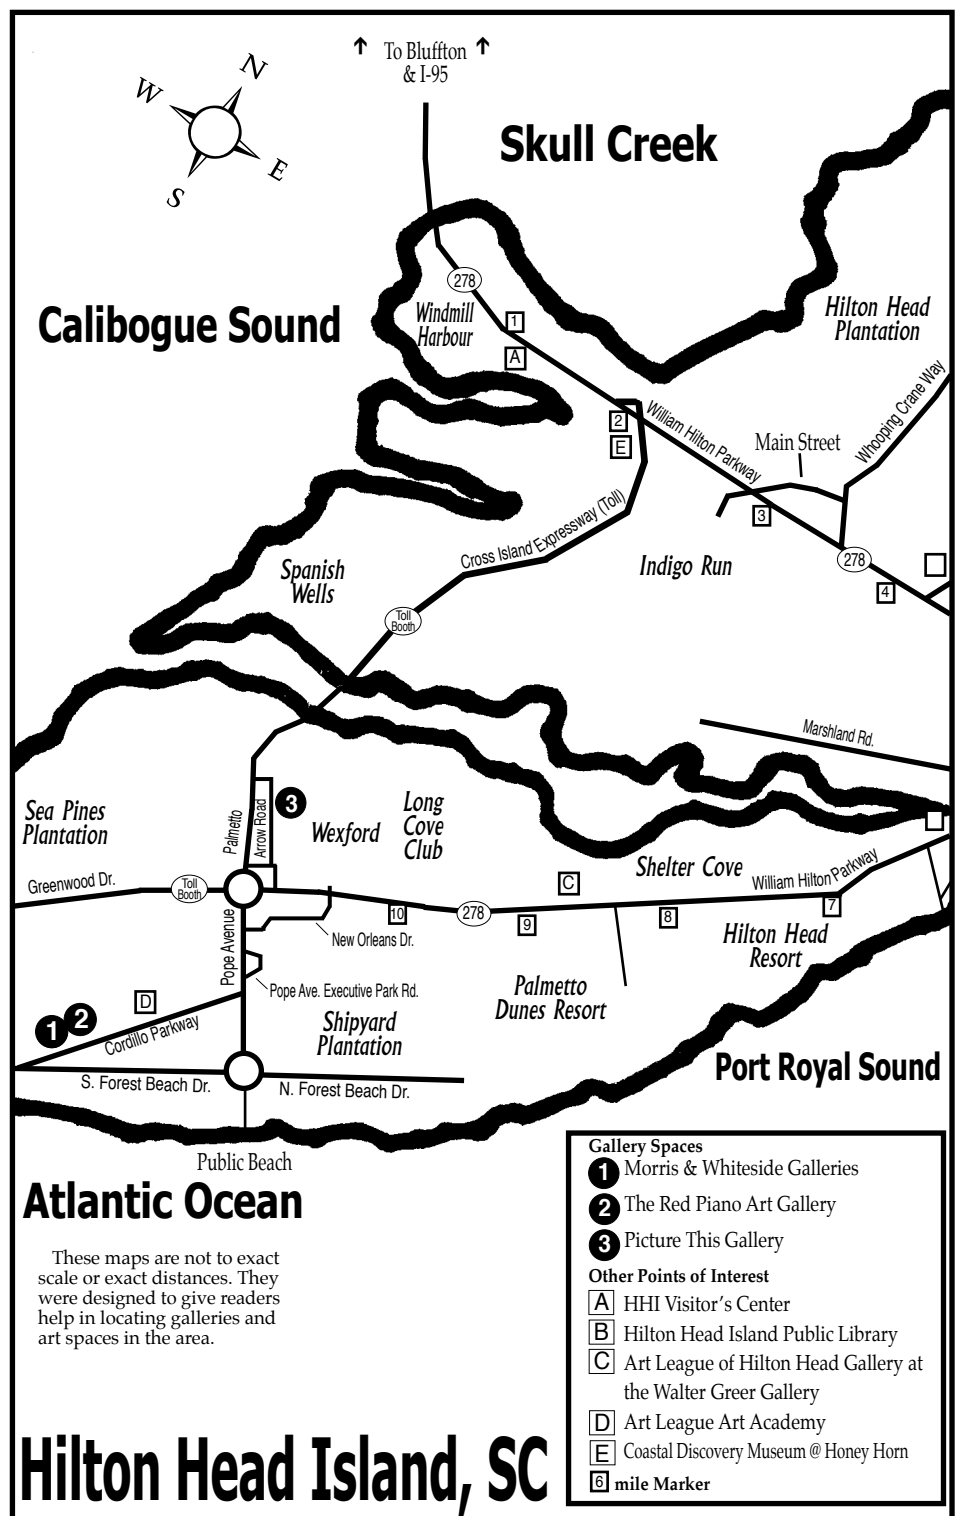

The nucleus separated with a single photograph that took on a double life as a totally different observance and impact. The collection metamorphosed from there as Smith bathed many of his models with soft and romantic contemplation; Connor's technique was to overlay the forms in paint, each according to his unique and outstanding appreciation of design and color.

Because their intrinsic styles diverge from this collaboration, Smith and Connor have each contributed some of their other original works to this exhibit. Connor is well known for his floral adaptations, some of which will be presented here, as will some strong examples of Smith's far-sighted and inventive portraiture.

Smith and his wife, Susan, have been a team for decades. They came to Beaufort in 2011 from southern Maryland where they operated a home studio for over 25 years and, among other works, photographed 300 - 400 high school seniors each year. Although only Eric is the actual photographer, Susan's great talent lies in enhancing his images on the computer; their photography is found all over Beaufort.

Connor originally hails from Lumberton, NC, where he was raised on a tobacco farm. When he was about eleven years old, painting captured his fancy and he launched himself into a world of art and beauty. He attended beauty college and has spent his life making his environment, as well as for those around him, a far more beautiful place. Connor came to Beaufort when the Technical College of the Lowcountry offered him a position as a cosmetology instructor. This is his second show at USC Center for the Arts; the previous one, Friends and Art. Love Made Visible, was held during Feb. and Mar. of 2013.

Work by Eric R. Smith

Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Ellen Bass

The Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, will present My Favorite Places, featuring works by Ellen Bass, on view in the Guild Gallery, from Apr. 1 - 30, 2015. A reception will be held on Apr. 3, from 5-8pm.

Ellen Bass has combined a show that captures moments from her travels in Europe and from the area that she loves: her home in the Lowcountry. There is a beautiful sunrise at Myrtle Beach, reflections in the water at Lake Moultrie, a church in Charleston, a river in Ireland, and glorious clouds over Utah Beach in France. These are the places that spoke to her heart, and the memory lingered until they were finally painted. Others were painted in plein air with the scene vividly displayed in living color. Ellen's favorite medium is oils, but she also loves to experiment in watercolor and pastels.

Residing in the small town of Kingstree, SC, Bass grew up where there were limited opportunities to develop her passion of painting so she traveled to take classes and workshops from accomplished artists who use different styles. She has shared her knowledge with others in her community and has served as Chairman of the Arts Festival there. Bass is an exhibiting member of the Charleston Artist Guild Gallery and was a featured artist in 2011. As a member of the Greater Lake City Artist Guild, her paintings have been on display in the ArtFields Office.

The Wycliffe Bible Translators used one of her sketches on the cover of the Gospel of John in Gullah. Using her paintings as illustrations, Bass has published a book titled In A Garden.

Charleston County Public Library in Charleston, SC, Features Artists' Books from the Street Pulp Project

The Charleston County Public Library in Charleston, SC, will present Making Community: Street Pulp Artists' Books, on view in the Saul Alexander Gallery, from Apr. 2 - 29, 2015. A reception will be held on Apr. 11, from 3-5pm in Conference Room B. This will be the only planned public viewing of three of the five artists' books from the Street Pulp project.

The Street Pulp project was a community art making opportunity for the people of Charleston. In September and October of 2014, assisted by volunteers from the community, hand papermaking artist Kris Westerson presented four individual Street Pulp events, each at a different location in the upper peninsula area of Charleston. the events were open to the public and two were private and held at schools. Working outside, in parking lots and playgrounds, participants make sheets of fresh paper containing recycled materials from schools and businesses and decorating it with pigmented pulp in images reflecting their community.

Partners in Street Pulp were involved because of their geographic location in the upper peninsula area of Charleston, involvement in the community, access to potential participants, and underserved audiences. These partners included the John L. Dart Library, 1067 King Street; DwellSmart, 804 Meeting Street; James Simons Elementary School, 741 King Street, and the Charleston Development Academy, 233 Line Street.

The project and exhibition also explores the idea of creative placemaking in the upper Peninsula. The transformative process from fiber to pulp to paper and then to the object of artists' book is an apt analogy for creative placemaking. Fiber does not change its nature, only its form, just as creative placemaking will change the form, but not the nature of the upper peninsula.

The three artists' books in the exhibition are comprised of the handmade sheets pulled by the participants during the Street Pulp events. The artist selected the accordion book structure for the books that include individual sheets made by makers and the artist. The accordion book structure evokes the connectivity of community. Similar to each member of the community, each sheet is individual and connected to another in a variety of ways – in the book and in the flesh.

Installed on the walls of the gallery will be informational panels explaining the Street Pulp project, the process of hand papermaking, and photographs from community papermaking events that included 148 community participants yielding over 150 sheets of paper. After the exhibition, the artist will give the books to each of the four participants and one to Enough Pie.

Kris Westerson is a hand papermaker, bookbinder, and letterpress artist, living in Charleston. Westerson moved to Charleston in June 2014 and since her arrival has integrated in the arts community. She and Brien Biedler, Charleston Library Society, began the Charleston Book Union a group dedicated to the promotion and understanding of handmade books, paper, and letterpress. A member of the Charleston Craft Cooperative Gallery, she serves on the board as Membership Chair.

The Street Pulp project was partially funded by Enough Pie and the City of Charleston Office of Cultural Affairs and the City of North Charleston Cultural Arts Program through their joint administration

City of North Charleston, SC, Features Works by SC Watermedia Society

The City of North Charleston's Cultural Arts Department, will present an exhibition of the top 30 award winning works from the South Carolina Watermedia Society's 37th Annual Juried Exhibition on view at the North Charleston City Gallery, located at the Charleston Area Convention Center in North Charleston, SC, from Apr. 2 - 30, 2015.

The collection of works, on loan through the South Carolina State Museum's Traveling Exhibitions Program, features the top 30 pieces from the group's 37th Annual Juried Exhibition. Selections were made by world renowned artist William Jameson who currently resides in Saluda, NC. The full show consisted of 99 pieces, which Jameson selected from approximately 235 entries of SC Watermedia Society members. A number of the works on view will be available for purchase, including the exhibit's Best of Show, a watercolor on gessoed paper titled Bill's Bucket by Hilton Head, SC, artist Vickie Bailey Ebbbers.

The South Carolina Watermedia Society is the only statewide visual arts organization in South Carolina to promote artists who work in watermedia, which includes watercolor, acrylic, gouache and casein, among others. As the state's largest visual arts guild, their membership includes some of South Carolina's best artists. Their annual juried exhibition, which has been presented since 1977, offers both new and established artists from around the state the opportunity to compete for prize money and to have their work exhibited in a variety of venues under the supervision of the South Carolina State Museum's Traveling Exhibitions Program. In addition, the group provides a number of other exhibition opportunities, educational programs and avenues for professional development. For more information, visit (www.scwatermedia.com).

Inquiries regarding the artists or purchase information may be directed to the North Charleston Cultural Arts Department at 843/740-5854.

College of Charleston in Charleston, SC, Offers Annual Student Art Exhibition

The College of Charleston in Charleston, SC, will present 2015 Young Contemporaries, juried by Philadelphia based artist Lawren Alice, featuring artwork created by students at the College of Charleston, on view at the Halsey Institute of Contemporary Art, from Apr. 4 through May 2, 2015. A reception and awards ceremony will be held on Apr. 3, from 5-7pm.

The awards ceremony will begin promptly at 6pm. Independent Art Consultant, Carri Schwab, will determine which accepted works will receive the seventeen awards and more than $6,000 in prizes. A Gallery Walk-through with artists will be held on Apr. 4, beginning at 2pm.

Each spring, current College of Charleston students are eligible to submit their recent work to the Young Contemporaries, giving them an opportunity to have their work chosen by a nationally prominent juror and exhibit in a professional gallery setting. The annual exhibition shows off the brightest talents coming out of the College's School of the Arts, including painters, sculptors, printmakers, and photographers.

This unique show gives students the opportunity to learn how to prepare for future gallery exhibits and helps them to practice the type of professionalism necessary for success in such a competitive field. "The goal of the show is showing the best of the best, but also have it take on the flavor of what the students are producing at this point in time," says 2013 juror, Scott Stulen. He continues, "It's a little bit of a snapshot, in certain ways, of what's happening within the College." The Post and Courier calls the Young Contemporaries exhibit, "One of the highlights of the year." This year's entries are sure to impress.

Concurrent with Young Contemporaries will be the Salon des Refusés exhibition, showing in the Hill Exhibition Gallery within The Marion and Wayland H. Cato Jr. Center for the Arts. The origin of the Salon des Refusés dates to Paris in 1863, when artists who had been rejected from the official Salon caused such a protest that Emperor Napoleon III ordered another exhibition held for them. Among the painters in this Salon des Refusés were Camille Pissaro, Henri Fantin-Latour, James M. Whistler, and Edouard Manet.

These annual exhibitions are jointly produced by the Halsey Institute, the Studio Art Department, and the Student Visual Arts Club at the College of Charleston School of the Arts.

The Halsey Institute of Contemporary Art at the College of Charleston provides a multidisciplinary laboratory for the production, presentation, interpretation, and dissemination of ideas by innovative visual artists from around the world. As a non-collecting museum, we create meaningful interactions between adventurous artists and diverse communities within a context that emphasizes the historical, social, and cultural importance of the art of our time.

For further information check our SC Institutional Gallery listings, call the Institute at 843/953-4422 or visit (www.halsey.cofc.edu).

Ann Long Fine Art in Charleston, SC, Features Works by William Halsey

Marking the 100th year anniversary of the artist's birth, the exhibit William Halsey will open at Ann Long Fine Art in Charleston, SC, on Friday, Apr. 10, 2015 and hang through Apr. 30. William Halsey (1915 – 1999) was a pioneer modernist in Charleston, breaking ground in a city known for its picturesque art tradition. Exhibited at the gallery are fifteen later works by the artist, spanning the 1970s – 1990s.

William Melton Halsey was born on George Street in Charleston. As a boy he drew copies of lithographs hanging in his family home, leading his mother to enroll him in classes at the Charleston Museum with Elizabeth O'Neill Verner.

"Terrain" by William Halsey, 42 1/2" x 54" (panel) multimedia on panel, 1992 teachers had done, Halsey yearned to continue his study in Europe, but being 1939, war looming in Europe, Zerbe encouraged newly wed Halsey and McCallum to go to Mexico instead.

After eighteen months in Mexico City and several months touring the countryside after, Halsey and McCallum returned to Charleston, where they would reside for the remainder of their lives, albeit traveling extensively to other countries including: Ecuador, Guatemala, Honduras, Peru, Greece, Portugal, Spain, and Morocco.

Halsey considered himself an outsider wherever he was, even Charleston, but the city was essential to him. In 1987 Halsey said: "Growing up in a Charleston impoverished and neglected, surrounded by flaking plaster, mortarless brick walls, old tiles, and rotting wood, I saw them as delight rather than decay. Ever since, I have carried on a love affair with fragments, shards, ruins, bits of past civilizations... the more I have traveled, the further I have gone, the more I have come back to the same person and place."

Halsey lives on, not just through his art, but through his students, he was a dedicated teacher for over 50 years. Students Brian Rutenberg and Merton Simpson (until his recent death in 2013), notably, shape/have shaped today's art world as artist and artist/dealer respectively.

Halsey is Charleston's own world-class modernist. From golden African-inspired fabric collages on door size panels to a Pollock-like explosion of small marks in vivid color, Terrain, this bold and important

After two years at the University of South Carolina, where Halsey felt unchallenged except by classmate, fellow artist, and future wife, Corrie McCallum, Halsey enrolled in the School of the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston. There he learned classical draughtsmanship, anatomy, perspective, also more modern concepts of color theory. He developed a particular interest in mural art. At the Museum School Halsey's primary instructors were Alexandre Iacovleff, Karl Zerbe, and Lewis Rubinstein. As these show is one not to miss.

Established in 1997, Ann Long Fine Art has earned distinction as a leading gallery specializing in classical realist paintings, drawings, and sculpture by contemporary artists. We represent three generations of painters who share an education of Old Master techniques combined with dedicated craftsmanship. These inspired American and European painters ascribe to a "slow art" methodology in which they train as apprentices, work strictly from life, use authentic recipes and materials, and are guided by a painterly aesthetic. The result is museum-quality still life, portraiture, landscape, and figures imbued with timeless elegance and the fresh perspective of living masters.

Also represented at Ann Long Fine Art, are the preeminent figures of the Charleston Renaissance, Alfred Hutty (American 1877-1954) and Elizabeth O'Neill Verner (1883-1979).

The gallery also features the work of Figurative Expressionist Donald Squibb Sutphin and the estate of Mid-Century German Expressionist Otto Neumann (1895-1975). Comprised mostly of monotypes, Neumann's figural and abstract hand-pulled linocuts were never editioned. He is collected by several major museums including the Museum of Modern Art in New York and the Art Institute of Chicago.

Lowcountry Artists Gallery in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Deborah Palmer

Lowcountry Artists Gallery in Charleston, SC, will present All That's Chas, an exhibition of oil paintings by Deborah Palmer that explores the landscape of Charleston and its environs, on view from Apr. 1 - 30, 2015. A reception will be held on Apr. 3, from 5-8pm.

Palmer is showing new and recent works featuring plein air studies and studio paintings of familiar images in and around Charleston.

Among iconic Charleston landmarks, Palmer finds ungentrified pockets of the Page 30 - Carolina Arts, April 2015

urban landscape and endangered corners of Sullivan's Island with a fresh eye for light and shadow on centuries-old buildings. Because she is primarily a plein air painter, many of these works were done on location and two were done in "paint-outs", competitions that challenge the artist to start and finish a painting in just two or three hours.

This is Palmer's first exhibit since moving to Lowcountry Artists from the Spencer Galleries where she was a regular exhibitor for eleven years. Since returning to painting

Anglin Smith Fine Art in Charleston, SC, Offers Works by Betty Anglin Smith

Anglin Smith Fine Art in Charleston, SC, will present Lowcountry Light, featuring a collection of new paintings by Betty Anglin Smith, on view from Apr. 3 - 17, 2015. A reception will be held on Apr. 3, from 5-8pm.

"The ambient light of the Lowcountry has fascinated artists for decades if not centuries," Smith says. She is, of course, among those artists: "Light fades and softens under the cloak of humidity, becoming mysteriously intriguing. And then as the haze gives way, we are entertained by the rich colors from the marshes to the waterways and the sky above. Always new and always changing. Mother Nature 'shows off,' and we are anything but bored!"

Smith has been painting the Lowcountry for over 40 years, but she's been particularly drawn to its lively marshes, winding creeks, and splendid skies since she and her husband renovated an abandoned cottage in Meggett, SC, about 15 years ago. In that cottage is Smith's painting studio, which overlooks the flats of the Wadmalaw Sound. All she has to do is look outside her window to find inspiration in the light of the Lowcountry, and she finds it often.

Betty Anglin Smith is a native of the Carolinas and has firmly established herself as an enduring artist in the region. After the birth of her triplets, all now successful art-

Principle Gallery Charleston in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Karen and James Neil Hollingsworth Principle Gallery Charleston in Charleston, SC, will present Karen Hollingsworth & James Neil Hollingsworth: Two Person Exhibition, on view from Apr. 3 - 30, 2015. A reception will be held on Apr. 3, from 5-8pm.

Join us for First Friday as we welcome the newest arrivals by renown wife and husband artists Karen and James Neil Hollingsworth. Karen and James live and paint in Marietta, GA, and will be present at the opening reception.

Karen Hollingsworth is known for her dreamlike arrangements of subject matter. Through the artist's careful selection her subjects "speak" to one another, and to the viewer, in unique and unusual ways.

"I love to create paintings that have a sense of the familiar," says Karen. "To blend the common objects of everyday life, placed within the interior, with a glimpse of sea, sky, or mountain. My windowscapes are intended to provide the viewer with a sense of solitude and well-being. A comfortable world bathed in sunlight and warm breezes... For me, a painting is successful if I wish I was there."

With the exception of a few life drawing classes at a community college in the 1970's, James Neil Hollingsworth is a self-taught artist. In 2004, Hollingsworth committed himself to pursuing his art full time. He now finds inspiration in paring down the "stuff" of life to a single item, or group of items, with pleasing color and form.

Placing his subjects against a simple backdrop, James intensifies our connection to their design and aesthetic appeal through formal choices. A dramatic use of light, flawless draftsmanship, and clever compositions bring viewers up close and personal with the irresistible shapes and colors inherent in ordinary household objects. In his romanticizing of utility-driven design, one can draw comparisons between Hollingsworth's style and mid-century modernism. His vibrant interpretation transforms utensils and edibles into powerful, visual creatures that beckon our prolonged enjoyment.

With locations in Old Town Alexandria, VA, and Charleston, SC, Principle Gallery's Charleston location opened its doors 2013 in the historic French Quarter of Charleston. The gallery has been dedicated to exhibiting the best of American & European Contemporary Realism since opening in 1994.

Focusing on paintings in oil and bronze sculpture, the gallery represents emerging, mid-career and established artists with a distinct personal approach to their work. The Principle Gallery brand gains great exposure for its artists through solo exhibitions, selective group shows and national art fairs.

Alamance County Arts Council in Graham, NC, Features Works by Leonard Nimoy

The Alamance County Arts Council in Graham, NC, will present On the Other Side of the Lens: The Photography of Leonard Nimoy, on view in the Sister Galleries at the 1873 Capt. James & Emma Holt White House, from May 1 through July 15, 2015. A reception will be held on Apr. 30, from 6:30-8:30pm.

Leonard Nimoy (1931-2015), famous for his iconic on-screen role as Star Trek's Captain Spock, was also a nationally acclaimed photographer.

Beginning at an early age, experimenting with cameras and images as a young teenager, Nimoy went on to study photography at UCLA and later received an "artist in residence" position at the American Academy in Rome.

Nimoy's photography is included in many museum collections, including The Museum of Fine Arts Houston, The Judah L. Magnes Museum, The LA County Museum of Art, The Jewish Museum of New York, The New Orleans Museum of Fine Art, and The Hammer Museum. In late 2014 Nimoy's work was included among the greats when a selection of his photographs was part of Sotheby's "Masters of the Medium" Photography Auction.

Nimoy's work is permanently and primarily exhibited at the R. Michelson Galleries in Northampton, MA, and the Massachusetts Museum of Contemporary Art in North Adams, MA.

Nimoy's projects, some of which include "Secret Selves", "Shekhina", and "The Full Body Project", were revolutionary, captivating, and influential. These communicated deeply personal themes of spirituality, self-empowerment and feminism.

"My dream concept is that I have a camera and I am trying to photograph what is essentially invisible. And every once in a while I get a glimpse of it and I grab that picture," said Nimoy as he described his aspirations as a photographer.

Many of the photographs going on display in the Alamance Arts' Sister Galleries are from Nimoy's last collection, "Eye Contact".

As Nimoy explained, "In this collection I am concerned with artful voyeurism. The model is given license to explore a personal experience which is often quite moving, although the photographer's presence inescapably alters the moment. To reclaim their deepest human emotions, the subjects must turn back to the internal space and free themselves of the contact with me or my camera. It is the instant between the private and the seen, that brief affirmation of the self which I find deeply affecting and the one that I strive to capture and pass along to the viewer."

On the Other Side of the Lens: The Photography of Leonard Nimoy will feature 43 photographs covering more than 30 years of his work. In addition to the "Eye Contact" series, other photographs that will be on exhibit come from his "Early Work", "Self Portraits", "Black & White" series, "Shekhina", "Classic Nudes" and "Dance" series and "Landscapes".

At the Alamance County Arts Council, we are committed to shaping the cultural identity of Alamance County by making art a tangible presence in the lives of its citizens. We strive to enhance the quality of life by engaging people in a diverse array of art through the delivery of programming and education, and through the provision of facilities, advocacy, promotion and funding.

Please Note: the Leonard Nimoy exhibition contains nudity.

Potters of the Piedmont Pottery Festival Takes Place in Greensboro, NC - Apr. 11

More than 50 regional potters will participate in the Potters of the Piedmont Pottery Festival Saturday, Apr. 11, 2015, from 10am until 4pm. Located indoors at the Leonard Recreation Center, 6324 Ballinger Road, Greensboro, NC, a large selection of handmade, functional, decorative, and sculptural pottery from NC, SC, & VA will be available for sale.

Founders, Molly Lithgo and Jim Rientjes of Earthworks Pottery highlighted the Potters of the Piedmont pottery festival as an extension of their studio show begun twelve years ago. Their vision of this festival is to showcase local potters as well as those from around the state and beyond.

Potters of the Piedmont is proud to partner with Greensboro Urban Ministry's Feast of Caring and Mosaic-A Lifespan Studio.

This festival offers the public an opportunity to meet some of the most accomplished regional potters in one accessible location. Ample parking is available. The event is free and open to the public.

This event is sponsored by Earthworks Pottery, Mary's Antiques, Eanes Heating

Bulldog Pottery in Seagrove, NC, Offers "Daffie Days" in Conjunction with Celebration of Spring Pottery Tour - Apr. 18-19

Say "Hello Spring!" and celebrate the vase and the ubiquitous Daffodil with potters Bruce Gholson and Samantha Henneke of Seagrove, NC, on Apr. 18-19, 2015. This year Bruce and Samantha will join the annual Celebration of Spring with Seagrove's Pottery tour.

Some things just work better as a pair, like pencil and paper, clay and water and in the pottery community of Seagrove, you will find a dynamic duo working and living at Bulldog Pottery. Potters Bruce Gholson and Samantha Henneke are a pair who work side by side in their studio, creating pottery that is nearly impossible to resist.

And for those who collect, create, or covet ceramics or those just beginning to explore the beauty of shaped clay should head on out to their "Hello Spring Kiln Opening," Apr. 18-19, (Saturday and Sunday from 10am-5pm). Join them when they display their newest vases, a form that is the potters' path to connect people to the beauty of spring blooming flora. Every spring Bruce and Samantha focus on their carefully crafted and glazed vase forms to celebrate beautiful spring flowers, especially the queen of all – the ubiquitous daffodil, whose varieties bloom from mid-Jan. to early May.

Greenhill in Greensboro, NC, Announces Learning ART Together Exhibition, a Partnership with Guilford Child Development

Greenhill in Greensboro, NC, will host Learning ART Together: Bridging Cultures Through Art, an exhibition on view from Apr. 12 – 17, 2015. The exhibition will include photographs, program activities and women's journals, artworks, culture cards and a cookbook entitled, From My Table to North Carolina.

The book will be available in April 2015. An opening reception will be held at Greenhill on Apr. 12, from 2-5pm featuring a tasting of a selection of recipes from the cookbook.

Starting in Spring 2014, Greenhill and Guilford Child Development implemented Learning ART Together, a program designed to help low income immigrant and refugee women create an art or craft they can sell, exhibit and/or share while their children, under the care of Guilford Child Development caregivers, participated in hands-on art activities in ArtQuest Studios. An outgrowth of Guilford Child Development's Learning Together, a family literacy program that serves immigrant and refugee families with preschool age children, Learning ART Together aimed to build community, strengthen literacy practices and channel the creative spirit of women and children through visual arts.

Angelica Encerrado from Durango, Mexico, Chiles con Elote y Crema (Chiles with Corn and Sour Cream), 2014, 5.75 x 4.125 inches brought a unique history and creative drive and were encouraged to make links between their native cultures and American culture. They searched the Internet for arts and crafts that appealed to their own aesthetic, kept a journal, visited The Gallery and learned new techniques shared by visiting artists Senora Lynch, Kathryn Gauldin, Suzie Cooke, and Betsy Renfrew who provided instruction in printmaking, watercolor painting, embroidery, collage, jewelry making, and paper making.

An essential component of the program, women learned to value art processes, ideation and collaboration. Exposure to entrepreneurial practices and opportunities was yet another important aim of the program. Throughout the year, Learning ART Together participants went on field trips to learn about avenues by which artists sell their art. The social interaction alongside art making proved to be equally as valuable as the art making.

The women from vastly different cultures discussed everything from their children and food to how black made them look thinner - all over coffee and munchies. The intertwining of cultures revealed commonalities that led to From My Table to North Carolina - a recipe book and "culture cards" featuring collages, recipes and stories created by the women as a means for learning how to develop a product to sell. The culture cards are currently being sold at Scuppernon Books and The Shop at Greenhill. The book will be available in April 2015.

For further information check our NC Institutional Gallery listings, call the center at 336/333-7460 or visit (www.greenhillnc.org).

Jiyeon Choi from Seoul, South Korea, Buchimgae (Korean Pancakes) 2014, 5.75 x 4.125 inches

Administered by Liz Busch, the Director of the Art Alliance, facilitated by Jaymie Meyer, Greenhill's Director of Adult and Youth Programs, and overseen by Molly Betton, Guilford Child Development's Learning Together Program Coordinator, this program was made possible by a grant awarded by Women to Women, a permanent grant making endowment of the Community Foundation of Greater Greensboro.

Upon reflection, Meyer remarked, "I have personally gotten just as much or more from facilitating this program as the women who have participated. My curiosity about what is happening in the world has grown exponentially. Every time I met someone new I learned something about a place that I have never been. It also has made me appreciate just how culturally diverse our community is."

Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art in Winston-Salem, NC, Features Works by Josephine Halvorson

The Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art in Winston-Salem, NC, is presenting Josephine Halvorson: Slow Burn, curated by Cora Fisher, on view through May 31, 2015.

The exhibition gathers a selection of twenty-three oil paintings by Josephine Halvorson, a contemporary artist who orients traditional approaches to painting towards an experiential and environmental art practice. Halvorson paints outdoors, en plein air, in locales across America and the world, translating found objects into images and creating a connection between artist, object and place.

Exploring the world at hand, Halvorson uncovers the material and local history embodied in post-industrial machines and in architectural structures and surfaces. Halvorson's use of color, wet-on-wet handling, and insistence on painting for uninterrupted periods lend immediacy and intensity to the act of perception. The paintings sustain the slow, absorbed looking suggested by the exhibition's title.

"My practice is one of understanding an object in time: its history, its function, its place in the world, its environment—and my own relationship to it," says Halvorson. Her twenty-three portraits of the inanimate world bear witness to a haptic encounter between herself, her subject, the material of paint, plus time.

Josephine Halvorson: Slow Burn and the upcoming Main Gallery exhibition, Alternative Modernisms look to expand our sense of the contemporary through artists who negotiate the past, intervening in pictorial traditions and accounts of history.

Halvorson, usually found somewhere between Brooklyn, NY, and western Massachusetts, has made work on site for the last nine years in places such as Death Valley, CA, northern Iceland, southern England, central France, Texas, Appalachia, and New England. Since 2010, she teaches graduate students in the painting department at Yale University's School of Art, and has taught painting to undergraduates at The Cooper Union and Princeton University, where she taught an experimental course working in various locations in New Jersey, including the Princeton Plasma Physics Laboratory.

Halvorson has visited many of college art programs across the country, including a semester as an artist in residence at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville. Her work has been supported through several grants, awards and residencies, including a U.S. Fulbright Fellowship to Vienna, Austria (2003-04), the Harriet Hale Woolley Fellowship at the Fondation des États-Unis in Paris (2007-08), the Tiffany Foundation Grant (2009), among others. She is currently a fellow at the French Academy in Rome at the Villa Medici (2014-15). Halvorson participates in Art21's New York Close Up documentary series, and also writes about art.

Fine Art at Baxters Gallery in New Bern, NC, Offers Exhibit of Teapots

Fine Art at Baxters Gallery in New Bern, NC, will present Spout & Handle, an exhibit of teapots by local and regional artists, on view from Apr. 10 through May 1, 2015. A reception will be held on Apr. 10, from 5-8pm, during the downtown Art Walk.

Join us as our artists showcase their "teapots," the most expressive, inspiring and challenging of functional forms. The artists carefully balance their creative ambitions with the technical requirements of thoughtfully integrating handle, spout, body and lid. The teapot is an invitation to experiment, and an important proving ground for contemporary studio ceramicists. There is no other form that can humble and excite at the same time.

The basic design of the teapot has hardly changed in 300 years: no matter the shape, there is still a pot, a spout, a lid, and a handle. The teapot-like vessel has been around for thousands of years. It is believed that the teapot originally derived its shape from the wine ewers and ceramic kettles that came from China when tea was originally shipped to Europe in the 17th century. These vessels had a spout and handle and eventually were adopted for the steeping of tea.

Sunset River Marketplace in Calabash, NC, Offers Works by Art Matters Group

Sunset River Marketplace in Calabash, NC, will present Coasting, featuring works by the Art Matters painting group, from Apr. 1 - May 2, 2015. A reception will be held on Apr. 4, from 2-5pm.

The group began in 2006 as the gallery's pastel class, which was taught by noted SC artist Jane Staszak. The lively and talented group dubbed themselves the Pastel Sisters and had their first group show at Sunset River Marketplace in 2010. Since then the class has evolved into an open studio where they often explore media other than pastel. In 2012, they changed their name to Art Matters in order to cover a broader range of style and work.

Coasting expresses the views of ten women with a common love of art and life on the coast. Together they have experienced love, loss, laughter and tears. Their joy of life is obvious in their work.

Participating artists are: Jane Staszak, Nancy Guiry, Linda Young, Sue Ruopp, Joanne Bendy, Barbara Riggi, Susan Nern, Audrey Poole, Adrienne Johnston and Tina Lepsig. The group also plans to honor former member Brenda "Bree" Goff, who passed away suddenly in August 2014.

Jane Staszak works in pastel, acrylic and ink. Her work has been accepted into many prestigious state and national exhibitions. Her long list of awards includes a Best in Show from the National Show at Southport, NC and the Cape Fear Annual Show in Fayetteville, NC. Other honors include an invitation to show at the prestigious 2011 Pastels by Invitation Exhibition in Cape Cod, MA. Staszak excels at character studies, impressionistic landscapes and animal portraiture.

Nancy Guiry is a versatile and talented multimedia artist who retired to the NC coast 15 years ago and now has the time to pursue her lifetime desire to create art. She has been inspired by her surroundings to study with nationally known artists such as Mary Whyte, Arnie Westerman, and Carl Dalio. Guiry says, "My greatest lessons were learned from two of our very own local artists. Terry Harrison taught me the fundamentals and to learn to see like an artist. Jane Staszak introduced me to the wonderful world of pastels and their pure pigments, so rich in color." Her intent with each painting is to capture a moment in time that will trigger the viewer's senses and emotions as well as be pleasing to the eye.

Linda S. Young is an award-winning artist originally from Brookline, MA, and now lives in Cape Cod and South Carolina. She works in pastel and oil. Her ability to capture the nuance of a scene has helped her win many awards including two Best In Shows. Young is a member of 21 in Truro, South Cape Artists, and is a signature member of Pastel Painters Society of Cape Cod. She has been in numerous juried group and solo exhibitions. Her work hangs in numerous national and international private collections.

Sue Ruopp is an accomplished acrylic artist whose tenacity is one of her strongest talents. Forced out of her job as a labor and delivery nurse for health reasons, she moved to North Carolina in 2006, at which time she discovered her passion for art. "I feel blessed to have this 'never give up' attitude," she says. "It's gotten me through breast cancer, two brain tumors, three hip surgeries and, recently, melanoma – all with good results." Largely self-taught through experience and reading, Ruopp has recently begun studying with impressionist artist Chappy Valente and taking workshops at Sunset River Marketplace.

Joanne Bendy has always enjoyed art and nature. She is an active member of the Brunswick County Master Gardeners program. Being an avid gardener inspires her photographs and paintings of landscapes, birds and flowers. She normally uses bright and luminous colors to portray her passion for nature. For this exhibition, however, Bendy chose the stark contrast of black and white in her stipple images created with archival ink.

Connecticut transplant Barbara Riggi began learning to express nature in pastels just a few years ago. She is particularly interested in equine and ballet subject matter.

Susan Nern has explored a variety of subject matter and says she is especially inspired by coastal landscapes. Her pastels have a soft impressionistic feel that capture the calm serene essence of her subjects.

Audrey Poole retired from the corporate world ten years ago and has been teaching a variety of decorative painting classes and expanding her artistic interests ever since. Wherever possible she combines her desire for recycling fabrics with her decorative painting passion to make one-of-a-kind aprons, pillows and purses. Three years ago Poole added pastel art to her list of interests and her backyard views of the Cherry Grove marsh have become her favorite pastel subjects. She is also a member of the Decorative Painting Society and Tidewater Artisans.

Adrienne Johnston spent much of her career using her logical side in the computer field and still managed to keep her imaginative side alive by sneaking in some art – quilting, music and knitting. She has found retirement affords time to devote to her creativity and has added pastel painting to her repertoire. If you ask her what inspires her, she'll say you just need to open your eyes and look around. Johnston sits on the board of the Brunswick Quilters and is a member of Waterway Art Association and Modern Quilt Guild Pastel and watercolor artist Tina Lepsig lives in Calabash with her husband, golden retriever and cat. She has experimented with various art forms over the years, but not until her recent retirement has she been able to actively pursue her art.

According to gallery owner Ginny Lasiter, the Art Matters group blends artistic talent with humor and warmth. "I invite everyone to come to our reception," she says. "You'll love meeting these ladies and you'll love their work."

Since opening in 2002, Sunset River Marketplace has been an active supporter of performing, literary and visual arts in the area. The 10,000 square-foot gallery features work by over 200 North and South Carolina artists. Its on-site pottery studio has two kilns and three wheels for use by students. Ongoing oil, pastel and watercolor classes are also provided, in addition to workshops by nationally known artists. The gallery's complimentary Coffee With the Authors programs feature presentations by local and regional authors. A Paint & Party series provides a fun after-work experience for those with no previous art background. The gallery's framing department offers full-service, on-site custom frame design for artwork, family heirlooms and other memorabilia.

Burroughs-Chapin Art Museum in Myrtle Beach, SC, Offers Exhibition of Old Maps

The Franklin G. Burroughs-Simeon B. Chapin Art Museum Art Museum in Myrtle Beach, SC, is presenting The Mapmakers' Art: The Bishop Collection of Antique Maps: 1608-1863, on view through Apr. 15, 2015.

Following the discovery of the New World in the 15th century, European mapmakers scrambled to document and map the new territories, using centuries-old technology. In contrast to today's mass-produced, utilitarian maps, early European cartographers recruited renowned painters and miniaturists of their times who created maps that were truly works of art, richly colored and intricately decorated.

The artworks, a 1999 gift from Mrs. George Bishop in memory of her late husband, a local entrepreneur, are part of the Museum's permanent collection.

The exhibition includes 15 maps illustrating what has been termed the golden age of cartography plus a selection of complementary historical prints. During that era of rapid discovery - and hence, extensive production of new maps - cities as far-flung as Paris, Amsterdam, Florence, Venice and London competed as mapmaking centers of the world.

Since early maps often relied on unverified and often unreliable information from native populations, unsubstantiated reports and hearsay, the maps illustrate the evolution of both exploration and documentation of geographical information.

Among the historic gems included in the collection is An Accurate Map of North and South Carolina by Henry

Work from The Bishop Collection

Mouzon, an enormous copperplate engraving of four joined sheets created in 1775. The earliest map in the collection, produced in 1606 by Gerard Mercator and engraver Jodocus Hondius, was based on a 1590 map of Virginia and a 1591 map of Florida. The 1825 map of Horry District by Robert Mills, considered the first American architect, and a map created by naturalist Mark Catesby for his celebrated 1731 work A Natural History of Carolina, Florida and the Bahama Islands are other highlights.

Among the historical prints accompanying the maps are four Civil War scenes from Harper's Weekly and a collection of steel engravings from The Portrait Gallery of Eminent Americans, published in 1863, which include our country's founding fathers.

There will also be light blue ribbons available to be awarded for art judged to be of Honorable Mention. The number of prizes awarded in each category is dependent upon the number of entries.

The judge for the Seacoast Artists Guild's Spring Show will be Jim Calk, from Georgetown, SC. Calk paints abstract realism in oil. His paintings allow the viewer to see the essence of the subject while providing imaginative interpretation. Each painting features a strong sense of value supported by color. He has studied under international master painters, won many awards, and exhibited widely. Calk's artwork is collected by private and corporate collectors including: Colonial Life Insurance Company, Equitable Life and the First Citizens Bank Permanent Collection. He is represented in South Carolina by Irene Morrah Fine Art, Verve, Havens Gallery, and Sylvan Gallery in Charleston.

The public will also be voting for their favorite overall piece of art between Apr. 5-16. The winner of the "People's Choice" trophy will be announced on May 3 at the Seacoast Artists Guild Meeting."

Artspace 506 in North Myrtle Beach, SC, Features Works by Peter Nein

Artspace 506 in North Myrtle Beach, SC, is presenting Glass/ Metal/ Mineral, a solo show of works in stained glass and metal by Peter Nein, on view through May 9, 2015.

Peter Nein is well known along the Grand Strand and in the regional art community. He moved to Myrtle Beach when he was nineteen and has maintained studios and operated art galleries along the Grand Strand for thirty years. During this time he has provided exhibition opportunities for local, national and international artists, bringing unique shows to the Myrtle Beach area. Over the last twelve years Nein has divided his time between Myrtle Beach, Pottsville, PA, and Sedona, AZ. In Pottsville he has opened an art gallery and artist's space in the historic downtown. This is his first solo show in the Myrtle Beach area.

Nein is comfortable working in a variety of media yet he is most passionate about his work with stained glass and metal. This is the work that will be on display in the gallery.

Many of Nein's works are created in the traditional stained glass method where small pieces of colored glass are fitted into lead strips to create a two-dimensional image. Some works are functional pieces such as tables, desktops and doors, while other works are pure sculptural forms. Besides blown glass and dichromatic glass, other materials find their way into his work: minerals, geodes, crystals, bottles, stemware and even a car reflector and hubcap. Some works are created by fusing layers of glass.

Work by Peter Nein

During the viewing experience one is immediately aware not only of the beauty of the created work, but also of the interaction of the works with light. Indeed, the reflections and projections of colored light are works of art as well, entrancing to the eye. Nein does believe he is "painting with light" with these works.

Locals may already be familiar with Nein's works. They can be seen in the dome of St. John the Baptist Greek Orthodox Church, the Lackey Chapel at Coastal Carolina University, the doors and interiors at Dunes Hair Designs, the bar at Collector's Cafe, among many other commissions.

The Satellite Gallery in Asheville, NC, Features Group Exhibition

The Satellite Gallery in Asheville, NC, will present The Other Place We Live - Explorations in Dreams and Hypnagogia, featuring the work of six WNC artists, on view from May 1 - 29, 2015. An opening reception with the artists will be held on May 1, from 7-9pm.

Draw back the curtain and step into worlds within worlds of dream space and hypnagogic states. New works, most created specifically for this show, by Asheville area artists Dona Barnet, Alisa Carswell, Hannah Dansie, Nicole McConville, Meg Reilley, and René Treece Roberts explore the infinite landscape of dreams, dreaming, and the space between waking and dreaming. What adventures and questions fill your mind as you sleep? What magic resides in that territory where dreams and our own self-awareness converge? Mediums including photography, encaustics, collage, illustration, and drawing will be featured with works ranging from small, intimate scale pieces to large wall works. The show aims to evoke emotion and connection of both personal experience and the collective unconscious.

Beginning as self-taught artist, Dona Barnet graduated UNC-A Summa cum Laude with a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree in 2012. Her drawings have been published in North Light Books, Strokes of Genius: Best of Drawing series. Her drawings, prints and mixed media works have often explored imagery and metaphors of birds, nests, and internal environments. Her studio is in the River Arts District in Asheville. She lives in Fairview, NC.

A prolific print and web graphic designer by trade, Alisa Carswell has an extensive background in drawing and illustration. She has been obsessed with drawing and making art since she was a child. Carswell has studied color theory for the past 25 years and strives to use color to evoke emotion. She aims to make art that speaks to the lightness and darkness of emotion that resides within each of us.

Originally from Northern California, Hannah Dansie studied fine art at Central Saint Martins University in London, UK, where she graduated with a BFA (honors) Degree in 2004, before moving to her current home in Asheville. Her work explores narratives that recognize the urgency and conflict in our continuing attempts to connect to the world around us. With influences derived from iconoclasm, folklore, and the natural environment, Dansie's images are indications of how we try to bridge ourselves to others and how these efforts are often episodes of compassion and discomfort. With her work she attempts to illustrate the ability to find commonalities and relationships between ourselves and our surroundings that inevitably confirm our greater humanity and quest towards love.

The multi-layered encaustic and collage works of Nicole McConville aim to create emotive new worlds through the rediscovery of found objects. Her creative divinations—reminiscent of the space between waking and dreaming—reveal the sacred within the seemingly ordinary. McConville's work has been shown locally at The Satellite Gallery, PUMP Gallery, and The Upstairs Artspace. She has also shown in Rhode Island, Georgia, Oregon, and internationally in Germany and England.

Heavily influenced by her Southern Louisiana roots, Meg Reilley bridges traditional and modern photography techniques to create her unique approach to heirloom portraiture. Each individual has a story, and Reilley's work aims to reveal that unique sense of personal narrative and spirit. She loves creating images that offer mystery, and a certain amount of uneasiness while celebrating the beauty in the dark.

A fine art photographer and stop motion film maker, René Treece Roberts' works surpass the notion of past, present, and future and capture the timeless qualities of emotional depth and classical beauty. Her vast experience with film and darkroom printing lend a cinematic inspiration to her pictures. Roberts digs deep into our Appalachian landscape to document and bring to life a dream world that's laden in texture, atmospheric lighting, and other worldly characters.

Asheville Art Museum in Asheville, NC, Features Photography of Hugh Mangum

Asheville Art Museum in Asheville, NC, is pleased to be presenting Keep All You Wish, an exhibition featuring the evocative work of photographer Hugh Mangum (1877–1922), on view through July 12, 2015.

Inside or outside his photo studio, Mangum created an atmosphere - respectful and often playful - in which hundreds of men, women and children genuinely revealed themselves. Keep All You Wish: The Photographs of Hugh Mangum features a selection of images of early 20th century

Southern society that show personalities as immediate as if they were taken yesterday. Born and raised in Durham, NC, Mangum began establishing studios and working as an itinerant photographer in the early 1890s, traveling by rail through North Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia. Remarkable for his time, Mangum attracted and cultivated a clientele that drew heavily from both black and white communities. Although the early 20th century American South in which he worked was marked by disenfranchisement, segregation and inequality - between black and white, men and women, rich and poor - Mangum portrayed all of his sitters with candor, humor and spirit. Above all, he showed them as individuals. Each client appears as valuable as the next, no story less significant.

During Mangum's lifetime he likely exposed thousands of glass plate negatives. Sadly, after his death most of these were destroyed through benign neglect or are now lost, as were almost all records of the names and dates associated with them. The images that survived, around 700 glass plate negatives, were salvaged from the tobacco pack house where Mangum built his first darkroom. Today they are in various states of an unfortunate, yet often poetic, deterioration. Some plates are broken and on others the emulsion is peeling away, but the hundreds of vibrant personalities in the photographs prevail, engaging our emotions, intellect and imagination. The contemporary reprints in this exhibition are pigmented inkjet photographs on acid-free paper printed with archival inks.

A century after their making, Mangum's images - preserved within Duke University's David M. Rubenstein Rare Book & Manuscript Library - allow us a penetrating gaze into individual faces of the past. In a larger sense, they offer an unusually revealing glimpse of the early 20th century American South.

Founded by artists in 1948 in Asheville, NC, the Asheville Art Museum annually presents an exciting, inviting and active schedule of exhibitions and public programs based on its permanent collection of 20th and 21st century American art. Any visit will also include experiences with works of significance to Western North Carolina's cultural heritage including Studio Craft, Black Mountain College and Cherokee artists. Special exhibitions feature renowned regional and national artists and explore issues of enduring interest. The Museum also offers a wide array of innovative, inspiring and entertaining educational programs for people of all ages.

Asheville Gallery of Art in Asheville, NC, Features Works by Bill Cole

The Asheville Gallery of Art in Asheville, NC, will present Art of the Angle, featuring works by Bill Cole, on view from Apr. 1 - 30, 2015. A reception will be held on Apr. 3, from 5-8pm.

Cole's show, titled Art of the Angle, celebrates the art hidden away in everyday buildings and structures. "I've tried to capture my feelings when I glance at scenes and realize that there are pieces of art in plain sight all around me. Most often, what catches my eye is a small part of a much larger scene," says Cole.

Cole claims he doesn't try to reproduce what he sees in an exact photorealistic manner, but rather in a way that leans more toward the minimalism of Precisionism found in modern art. He enjoys exploring the interplay of colors and the geometry of the planes and angles they create. "I find myself drawn to vanishing rural structures, particularly barns and houses of old. With no figures in the painting, I'm inviting viewers to be the figure in the painting and to imagine their own feelings upon seeing such a scene."

A native of Arden, NC, Cole began painting relatively late in life after retiring from the Air Force. Primarily a self-taught artist, he studied watercolor painting for a short period in Paris while he and his wife were living there in 1995. He has worked in watercolor, oil, acrylics, linocuts and monotypes. His current medium of choice is oil on panels.

You can view Cole's work as well as the works of the 27 other gallery artists. Asheville Gallery of Art is located on College Street, across from Pritchard Park in downtown Asheville.

UNC Asheville in Asheville, NC, Features Works by Kelly Olshan

UNC Asheville in Asheville, NC, is presenting Perpetual Pursuit: Painting the Unattainable, an exhibition of paintings by UNC Asheville senior Kelly Olshan, on view in the S. Tucker Cooke Gallery, through Apr. 7, 2015. The exhibit is the culmination of Olshan's work toward a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree.

Perpetual Pursuit, a series of large-scale paintings on 3-D panels, utilizes recycled studio cast-offs, or "artistic waste," and a visual vocabulary that references the state of pursuit to investigate the aspiration to access another, better place through the painting process.

The S. Tucker Cooke Gallery is located on the first floor of Owen Hall on the UNC-Asheville campus.

Woolworth Walk in Asheville, NC, Features Works by Laura Loercher and Karen Noel

Woolworth Walk in Asheville, NC, will present Nature in Art, featuring pottery by Laura Loercher and paintings by Karen Noel, on view in the FW Front Gallery, from Apr. 1 - 29, 2015. A reception will be held on Apr. 3, from 5-7pm.

Karen Noel first developed a love of watercolor while studying design at The Maryland Institute of Art. This passion continued during the many years she taught at a community college in San Diego, CA. Her current paintings are often a mix of several mediums - watercolor, colored pencil, collage and ink. This variety allows Noel to play with images and incorporate intricate patterns and elements into the work. For her, inspiration often comes through a meditative connection with nature, and the paintings become a symbolic journal of her inner and outer experiences.

Born in Virginia, Laura Loercher began working with clay near Philadelphia with her family of artists and hikers. Her art celebrates Nature and our compassionate, human nature. In the woods and streets of the Asheville area, Loercher picks the live local leaves that she uses to imprint her clay with. Her personal studies with diverse spiritual communities and fellow artists in the Asheville area inform her work.

Bender Gallery in Asheville, NC, Features Works by Carole Frève

Bender Gallery in Asheville, NC, will present Veiled Memories, a solo exhibition for Canadian glass and metal artist Carole Frève, on view from Apr. 3 through May 31, 2015. A reception will be held on Apr. 3, from 5-8pm.

Frève's work is distinguished by a unique pairing of translucent glass together with electroformed and knitted copper. Her graceful sculpture and vessels are like ephemeral moments in time, clouded in hazy gossamer.

Frève uses both blown and kiln formed glass which undergoes an additional firing at high temperatures so that her pieces lose much of their transparency and take on a semi-opaque, diaphanous appearance. She explains, "This transformation can be seen as a symbol for the passage of time, when memories become indistinct and reality distorted."

Near the end of her studies, Frève created a piece titled Souvenir de mon Grand-pere (Memory of my Grandfather). It struck her then that her memory of her grandfather was that of a very old man. In contrast, her mother remembered him as a younger, working man. This subjectivity of memories has since become the cornerstone of Frève's work.

Frève creates an uncommon pairing with the translucent glass by adding electroformed copper to the surface or by enshrouding the piece in knitted copper wire. The metal and the glass complement each other and create balance in the work. She explains, "Glass working is a craft. It is in the body. Copper work is more scientific,

"Luxuriant" by Carole Frève, Glass and Copper Wire, 23 x 18 x 12 inches

there are chemical reactions to understand."

In her artistic statement, Frève states, "Each piece is a reflection of my emotions, intuition, recollections and questions. I also seek to evoke the passage of time leaving its mark on my works and memories."

Carole Frève was born in Gatineau, Canada and now resides in Montreal, Quebec. She studied Industrial Design at the University of Montreal and followed up with a three year glass program at Espace Verre. She has also completed artist residencies in Lybster, Scotland and at Wheaton

WILLIAM JAMESON WORKSHOPS 2015

"Abaco Islands"	September 19-23
"Fall on the Blue Ridge," Saluda, NC	October 19-23
"Workshop: For Your Painting Group!"	Dates you choose

I can conduct a workshop planned especially for your location! Please contact us for planning and organizing a workshop in your area for your art organization or guild.

Each William Jameson Painting Workshop is designed to be an educational and entertaining experience. Along with exhilarating travel, students from beginner to advanced will receive one-on-one instruction in oil, watercolor or acrylic and pen and ink sketching.

Whether the travel is down the mountain or to the Bahamas or Italy, you will be with like-minded folks who share your love of art. There will be six hours of instruction each painting day at sites I have carefully selected for their architectural interest or appealing landscapes. Each day will include demonstrations, critiques and help with photography for use in painting your own work of art.

All workshops include a "welcome" party and some workshops include private museum tours or excursions to special venues that we have cultivated over the years.

Non-painter companions are always welcome! Our workshop trips take us to breathtaking places where there is something of interest for everyone. Of course, special pricing is available for these companions.

Please see specific workshop information for additional descriptive information.

Detailed info is available at www.williamjameson.com or call 828.749.3101.

Millard & Company @ The Tryon Depot, in Tryon, NC, Features Works by Grace Lertora & Carol Beth Icard

Millard & Company @ The Tryon Depot, in Tryon, NC, is presenting External/Internal, an exhibition of paintings and collages by Grace Lertora and Carol Beth Icard, on view through Apr. 29, 2015. A reception will be held Apr. 10, from 5-7pm.

Work by Grace Lertora

Grace Lertora will be exhibiting acrylic paintings and collage ranging from still life and landscape to abstract mixed media. She states, "I am Argentine, American, and bilingual; inquisitive, spiritual, creative and energetic. As a well-traveled observer and participant in several cultures, my interests and insights have sparked work from realistic to abstract, sensitive to surreal, and oil paint to a myriad of methods and mediums. Painting is a personal journey into the inner spirit."

Work by Carol Beth Icard

Lertora was born in Buenos Aires to a Diplomatic family, she has lived in Argentina, England and the US. She attended American University and graduated with a BFA from Maryland University. She has been an instructor in painting, drawing and Spanish, co-founded a Buddhist Hermitage and had painting excursions to Italy, Spain and Greece, as well as all over the South-eastern US.

Carol Beth Icard is exhibiting her oil and cold wax paintings. Her painting process has evolved from interpretive realism to introspective abstraction. "Each time I begin a new painting I enter the process with a burgeoning sense of trust in the outcome. I have my familiar companions, of course... my vocabulary of line, form and color, developed over the years from my response to the world around me. Open to discovery

Arts Council of Henderson County in Hendersonville, NC, Offers Third Part of Mentors and Students Project

The Arts Council of Henderson County is presenting Artists of Tomorrow, featuring works by secondary students of Henderson County, on view at the First Citizens Bank on Main Street in downtown Hendersonville, NC, through Apr. 10, 2015.

Artists of Tomorrow is the third exhibition of the Arts Council's major winter/spring project Mentors and Students, celebrating the importance of the arts in a child's life. A $150 Best of Show award will be announced by representatives from the Art League of Henderson County, who are sponsoring the award. The Arts Council will also award cash prizes for 1st place, 2nd place, and 3rd place levels for both middle school and high school students. In addition, the Arts Council will present the award winners with patron, family, and student memberships for the Asheville Art Museum. Four honorable mentions will also be announced.

The public is invited to enter a free raffle to win a piece of art purchased by First Citizens Bank from the previous Art Teachers Create exhibition. The chance to win a ceramic pitcher by Robert Wallace, artist/art teacher at East Henderson High School, will continue through Apr. 10. (You must be 18 to enter, and you do not need to be present to win.)

The Mentors & Students series of exhibitions feature Henderson County public, private, parochial, and home school students and teachers.

Mentors and Students is sponsored by First Citizens Bank, the Minor F. Watts Fund at the Community Foundation of Henderson County, and by the Alpha Lambda Chapter of The Delta Kappa Gamma Soci-

The Bascom in Highlands, NC, Goes Postmodern for Spring 2015

The Bascom in Highlands, NC, is presenting Appropriation Art: Finding Meaning in Found-Image Collage, on view through May 31, 2015. A reception and artists' panel discussion will be held at 5pm on Apr. 18, open to the public and free of charge.

It's still early in the season in Highlands, but The Bascom is ahead of the curve. The collage-based show Appropriation Art in the mountain resort venue's Loft Gallery includes brand-new work by globetrotting Miami duo Guerra de la Paz (Alain Guerra and Neraldo de la Paz).

Guerra de la Paz says "We love The Bascom - It's our favorite venue, probably in the whole United States. There is something so special about it."

When The Bascom's Executive Director Sallie Taylor and Exhibitions Curator Margaret Browne expressed interest in Glossies, their series of distressed magazine remixes, they were inspired to start work on a new series of wall hangings based on used plastic bags. The first work in the Plasticity series, called "Last Florida Pearl," will hang in the atrium of the Bascom, beaconing viewers to check out the rest of the show upstairs.

When they do, the first thing they'll see is a massive piece by Hilton Head, SC, fixture Aldwyth, the recent winner of the 2015 Elizabeth O'Neill Verner Artist Award from the South Carolina Arts Commission. Her monumental, autobiographical, 11 x 13-foot piece What's love got to do, got to do with it required The Bascom's temporary walls to be fitted with extensions. "It's my first show at The Bascom, and it's a statement," says Browne, who started work on the show as a guest curator before joining The Bascom team full-time last month.

Chattanooga, TN, sculptor and collage artist Jim Collins, who has exhibited his work extensively in Ireland, created a new series of work especially for the show based on Irish mythology. Called The Wooing of Etain, it uses 19th- and early 20th century materials to tell the story of an ancient fairy who tricked a king into marrying his own daughter, giving it the feel of a Victorian-era restaging of a tragic Wagner opera.

"The emphasis is on working artists based in the southeastern United States," Browne continues. "Even Fatimah Tuggar, who is originally from Nigeria and now is an Assistant Professor at Ontario College of Art and Design, has a strong connection to our region - she was a W. A. Mellon Research Fellow at John Hope Franklin Humanities Institute at Duke University. She's done interactive pieces focusing on North Carolina and had a major retrospective show at Greenhill Center in Greensboro in 2011."

Along with Jim Collins and Flora Rosefsky, Tuggar will be participating in the panel discussion at the show's reception on Apr. 18 at 5pm, which is open to the public, free of charge. The artist says she's thrilled to be returning to her former home of North Carolina. "It's my favorite state!," says the digital artist, who has two wall-size photomontages in the show.

Museum. Another Atlanta artist in the mix is Flora Rosefsky, who builds poignant collages out of old family photos and ephemera inspired by Wycinanki paper cutting, a Polish folk art form. From nearby Monticello, GA, Aaron Hequembourg engraves paintings of his hardworking neighbors on backgrounds of antique printed materials—which range from nostalgic to disturbing—mostly found in the attic and various outbuildings at his 1812 farm.

"The artists in this show are drawing on a huge range of found images - consumer culture, news media, art history, vernacular photographs, vintage materials. This show was designed to create a strong sense of compression of time and space, because that might well be the defining phenomenon of contemporary life," Browne says. "We have access to images of anything, at any time, literally at our fingertips, thanks to the Internet and our mobile devices - we're living in the future, and we can be anywhere at once. At the same time, many of us feel a longing for a simpler past, so we're drawn to nostalgia - which is always available to us, too."

Browne began work on Appropriation Art as a guest curator before joining The Bascom's staff as Exhibitions Curator this February. Prior to coming to The Bascom, Browne was owner and director of Chivaree Gallery in Cashiers, NC, where she produced a series of shows by artists including Hequembourg, Rosemary Stiefel, Janet Whitehead, Lucy Mitchell and Elizabeth Bick. She has contributed articles to Raw Vision, Conveyer Arts, and Folk Art Messenger, and she appears as a panel discussion moderator in the current documentary film Paradise Garden: Howard Finster's Legacy (Art West Film, 2014).

Established in 1985, the Bascom has occupied its present architect-designed campus on Franklin Road in Highlands, NC, since May 2009.

Crimson Laurel Gallery in Bakersville, NC, Features Three New Exhibitions

Crimson Laurel Gallery in Bakersville, NC, will present three new show beginning on Apr. 4, including: New Work, by featured artist Patrick Crabb, on view through Apr. 28, 2015; a two person exhibition called American West, featuring works by Jason Bohnert and Steven Schaeffer, on view through Apr. 28, 2015; and Close Quarters, an exhibition featuring works by Mark Errol and Lindsay Rogers, on view through June 3, 2015.

These three outstanding shows will feature significant collections of work both sculptural and functional with many of the pieces made especially for these exhibitions.

Work by Patrick Crabb

Patrick Crabb is showing work specifically created for this show. Crabb's many influences include: A "deconstruction approach" involving shards and fragmentation which was inspired by artist Rick Dillingham from the 1970's era; Nature treks into the American Southwest where broken pot shards by the Native Americans were viewed; and International travels each year where an appreciation for other cultural and ancient artifacts was developed.

These continuous paths of discovery have taken Crabb in several, but related, directions including the container vessels, the architectural interpretations, and the human figure. Each path continues to crisscross each other allowing it to enrich the imagery year after year.

Crabb's work conveys a sense of mystery and visual power to the viewers. Ancient cultures with historical artifacts from many countries layer the imagery, resulting in a multi-cultural composition which in turn, is a reflection of our contemporary life.

From the technical side, the clay pieces are altered wheel-thrown forms, slab to press molded constructions, and fired in multiple ways such as in raku, sawdust, horsehair, low-temperature salt, and oxidation... all of which are in the low temperature range of c/06-c/02.

Works by Jason Bohnert

Jason Bohnert brings an international sensibility to his ceramic work, having completed an apprenticeship in Jingdezhen and Yixing China in addition to his graduate work at West Virginia University and his residency at the Energy Xchange near Penland, NC. A thorough understanding of the rituals associated with ceramics in China pushes him to make pots that will continue to reveal their subtleties for years of use. For him, a tea bowl is not simply for drinking tea; it is an expression of an ancient aesthetic and philosophy.

Bohnert's love of landscape, particularly that of the Southwestern United States, also powers his creative drive. "Layered slips, glazes, over-glazes, and textured surfaces in the clay create landscapes and reference lichen, stained canyon walls, and forces of erosion." Pulling from a deep appreciation for cultural traditions and the natural world, Bohnert's work will grow on you for years to come.

Steven Schaeffer's work is evidence of his experiences in the natural world. From walks in the woods, to river expeditions, these physical encounters have led him to a greater level of personal consciousness. Understanding his environment is an essential motivation for his creative process and nature is the didactic arena that Steven seeks.

"River trips by boat have led me to many places," says Schaeffer. "These vessels have been the carriers for my integration into the wild, which has allowed me to foster my personal connection with nature. As a result the form of 'boat' or 'vessel' is the inspiration core of my ideas. I'm intent on creating work that offers the notion of hope and the embodiment of strength."

This is a direct response to nature itself and the risks that are inherent within it. Nature is a collection of many of the formal qualities that interest Schaeffer and in turn influences his work.

Works by Steve Schaeffer

The work is simple in its method, yet transfers a generosity of scale to the viewer. The forms define space, and their weight is connected to the landscape they are inspired by. Within these works an entire canyon can be created with one line slicing through its surface. Schaeffer's work is about the spatial relationships he's experienced in nature and, in turn, the work has become a voice for those landscapes.

What does it mean to inhabit close quarters with another person? Especially in the arena of domestic life, the act of sharing a small space is often an interpersonal exercise in balance. The give and take of collaborative decision-making becomes a rhythmic dance that occurs between people and the objects that represent them. Eventually, color, pattern, texture and form blend within the space to reflect the relationship of those that occupy it.

Work by Lindsay Rogers

Artists Mark Errol and Lindsay Rogers respond to the idea of shared space in the domestic arena. As independent makers of ceramic objects for the home, both artists will explore how they combine their individual works to create a harmonious environment.

Outside of the domestic arena, 'Close Quarters' also emphasizes the role that profound mutual respect plays in a successfully shared space. As good friends and thoughtful makers, Errol and Rogers, view the concept of close quarters as a challenge to celebrate the diversity of their individual artistic styles while combining forces to create a cohesive representation of an idea.

Toe River Arts Council in Spruce Pine, NC, Features Works by Blacksmiths

The Toe River Arts Council in Spruce Pine, NC, in conjunction with Spruce Pine's Fire on the Mountain Festival is presenting Fire, featuring works by nationally acclaimed smiths, on view through Apr. 25, 2015.

The exhibition will give visitors an opportunity to view iron arts and crafts in a gallery setting and to learn more about the nationally acclaimed smiths. The floor will be weighted down with large forged work while smaller, intricate hand-wrought pieces will adorn pedestals, with even more on the walls. An always-fun pizza and beer reception will be held at the gallery on the eve of the Festival on Friday, Apr. 24, 2015, from 5-7pm. The public is invited to share in the evening and meet these talented artists.

TRAC's history of displaying the finest craftsmanship in iron continues for the 2015 exhibition. This year's recognized Master Blacksmith is James Viste. Viste was raised on a farm in Wisconsin, received a BS from The University of Wisconsin, La Crosse; and a MFA from Cranbrook Academy of Art, Bloomfield Hills, MI. He has worked for studios throughout Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan. Viste is the manager of Edgewise Forge in Detroit, and an instructor/technician at the city's College for Creative Studies.

Work by James Viste

In his own words Viste says, "As a smith, whether a blacksmith, metalsmith, silversmith, or the like; I feel that the most rewarding part of existing within these trades is that their foundation lies in the hands-on manipulation of material and direct metal expression no matter its enthusiasm or its subtlety. No mold making, no dry times, not even glue; just pick it up, heat it up, and make it." He will be demonstrating during the festival day on lower street. With some of his best work on display at the TRAC gallery, Viste will be among the dozens of

Blowing Rock Art and History Museum in Blowing Rock, NC, Features Duck Decoy Collection

The Blowing Rock Art and History Museum (BRAHM) in Blowing Rock, NC, is excited to be displaying a prestigious collection of wooden duck decoys on loan from the Cameron Art Museum in Wilmington, NC. The exhibit, Floating Sculpture: Bruce Barclay Cameron Duck Decoy Collection, will be on display from Apr. 4 through July 26, 2015. A reception will be held on May 9, from 5:30-7pm.

"We're very excited to be receiving this exhibition from our friends at the CAM," says BRAHM's Interim Executive Director, Bob McCammon. "It's a unique opportunity for us to have these beautifully crafted wooden sculptures depicting an important aspect of American folk tradition on view here in the mountains."

Bruce Barclay Cameron began collecting decoys in the late 70's. This exhibition will highlight a selection of Cameron's most noted decoys and brings a collection of treasures from the coast to our mountains. Throughout his collecting, Cameron learned all about the careful craft involved in making one of these sculptures, from the nuances of the paint quality and form to the spirit of the bird itself. Each artisan took into consideration a love for the birds to really make these sculptures come to life, other master blacksmiths.

The pieces showcased during the Blacksmith exhibition are of the highest aesthetic caliber, inviting profound artistic contemplation from viewers. Other works bring back to life the hand-made uniqueness of the utilitarian items of past centuries: candlesticks, andirons, tongs, skewers. All the smiths have taken a concept and brought it to completion with unparalleled artistry.

The Toe River Arts Council is a not for profit organization promoting the arts in Mitchell and Yancey Counties, and supported by donations, memberships, local government, grants (including the North Carolina Arts Council, a state agency), and supporters who understand the benefit of art in our community.

Asheville Area

Asheville Art Museum, 2 South Pack Square at Pack Place, Asheville. Apr. 18 - Aug. 16 - "Flourish: Selected Jewelry from the Daphne Farago Collection". The exhibition presents contemporary jewelry exemplifying the creativity in this specialized craft. Each diverse work of art speaks to history, ideas, craftsmanship, materials and process. Looking closely at each piece, visitors will see how the craft has evolved since the 1940s and explore themes such as teaching and education, sculpture and the body, and new materiality and production methods. Beginning in the late 1980s, Daphne Farago collected an impressive collection of museum-quality contemporary jewelry that surveyed studio jewelry practice by a wide range of artists from the 1940s to contemporary times. Her collection now resides at the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, MA. We are grateful to the MFA for their loan of such exquisite examples of contemporary jewelry, which we are proud to present to our visitors. Through Apr. 12 - "Go Figure: Faces and Forms," an exhibition that brings together a selection of paintings, photographs, prints, drawings and contemporary craft that celebrate the human figure. Drawn from the Museum's world-class Permanent Collection, the faces and figures in this exhibition span decades and artistic styles. Families will appreciate the show's spirit of play with its inclusion of puppet figures and images of children, while artists and visitors of all ages will be delighted and inspired by the range of expression given to the human form in the 20th and 21st centuries. Through May 2 - "The Order of Things—60 Years of Paintings and Drawings," featuring a retrospective of John Heliker's paintings and drawings in an exhibition that charts the career of a significant American artist and offers an insight into the creative process of an artist whose career spanned seven decades of the "American Century." Heliker (1909–2000) was an adept draftsman and accomplished painter who developed a highly personal and expressive approach to drawing during the Works Progress Administration (WPA) years. His early drawings and sketches are comparable to those of his contemporaries, including Ben Shahn and Philip Evergood. Gallery Six, Through July 12 - "Keep All You Wish: The Photographs of Hugh Mangum," curated by Sarah Stacke. Inside or outside his photo studio, Hugh Mangum (1877–1922) created an atmosphere—respectful and often playful—in which hundreds of men, women and children genuinely revealed themselves. Keep All You Wish: The Photographs of Hugh Mangum features a selection of images of early 20th century Southern society that show personalities as immediate as if they were taken yesterday. Born and raised in Durham, NC, Mangum began establishing studios and working as an itinerant photographer in the early 1890s, traveling by rail through North Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia. Appleby Memorial Foundation Gallery, Through June 14 - "Jack Tworkov: Beyond Black Mountain, Selected Works From 1952-1982". A founding member of the New York School, Jack Tworkov (1900–1982) is regarded as one of the great American artists of the 20th century, along with Willem de Kooning, Philip Guston, Jackson Pollock and Franz Kline. Kline's gestural painting of the 1950s formed the basis for the Abstract Expressionist movement in America. Ongoing - "Sol LeWitt: Creating Place, Wall Drawing #618." Sol LeWitt (1928-2007) was born in Hartford, Connecticut. As a pioneer of conceptual art, he has had a major influence on 20th century American art. Ongoing - "Community: Sharon Louden". The second work in the Museum's Artworks Project Space, Sharon Louden's innovative installation Community is a continued conversation based on a series of work that she started in 2013 that traces its path through installation, animation, painting and drawing. In each genre, her gestures create an implication of dance—movement and energy—transposed against the resistance of fixed squares and rectangles of color. Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Fri. till 8pm & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 828/253-3227 or at (www.ashevilleart.org).

Asheville Gallery of Art, Ltd., 16 College Street, Asheville. Apr. 1 - 30 - "Art of the Angle," featuring works by Bill Cole. A reception will be held on Apr. 3, from 5-8pm. The exhibit celebrates the art hidden away in everyday buildings and structures. "I've tried to capture my feelings when I glance at scenes and realize that there are pieces of art in plain sight all around me. Most often, what catches my eye is a small part of a much larger scene," says Cole. Ongoing - Featuring original works of art by 28 local artists in oils, acrylics, watercolor, pastel, encaustic, and Blowing Rock Art and History Museum, corner of Chestnut and Main streets, downtown Blowing Rock. Apr. 4 - July 26 - "Floating Sculpture: Bruce Barclay Cameron Duck Decoy Collection". A reception will be held on May 9, from 5:30-7pm. The exhibit features the prestigious collection of wooden duck decoys on loan from the Cameron Art Museum in Wilmington, NC. Artisans included are A. Elmer Crowell from Cape Cod, MA; Joseph Lincoln from Accord, MA; Hucks Caines from Georgetown, SC; the Ward Brothers, Lemuel and Stephen from Crisfield, MD; Mitchell Fulcher of Stacy, NC; and Ned Burgess of Duck, NC. Also on view will be Spirit of the Bird, a film directed by James Spione. Through Apr. 5 - "Selections from the Collection". Featuring over one-hundred selected paintings, drawings, prints, glass, ceramic, and mixed media pieces from Blowing Rock Art and History Museum's Permanent Collection in three galleries: David and Nancy Rankin, Kay & Tom Rankin and Gena & Bill Atwell. Since its first work of art was acquired in 2002, the Blowing Rock Art & History Museum has added works by many artists, historic and contemporary, to its growing Permanent Collection. The exhibition will include works on view by Elliott Daingerfield, Philip Moose, Andrew Wyeth, Philip Leslie Hale, Walter Schofield, William Charles Anthony Frerichs, Herb Cohen, Everett Shinn, Jose Fumero, and many others. The exhibition will also feature twenty-five etchings of North Carolina landmarks by Louis Orr. Through Apr. 25 - "Jerry Burns: Through the Lens," is happening in collaboration with the Blowing Rock Historical Society. Nearly two-hundred photographs of the town and community will be on display, many of which were taken by Burns during his time as editor of the Blowing Rocket. Apr. 25 - July 26 - "Millhands / Hand Made". From the earliest days, textile development has involved a lot of time and hard work. BRAHM takes a look at North Carolina's vast textile history, from the growth of industrial mill production in The New South to regional textile artists working today and keeping handmade techniques alive through traditional practices. Exploring the theme of labor and the laborious practices involved with textile creation, this exhibition presents a unique perspective on this history and finds grounding points with textile making today that allow viewers to take on new perspectives. Ongoing - the BRAHM will host exhibits, educational programs and classes that promote the visual arts, history and heritage of the mountains of western North Carolina. Admission: Yes. The Museum will be free on Thursdays from 4-7pm. Hours: Tue., Wed., Fri., & Sat., 10am-5pm; Thur., 10am-7pm; and Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 828/295-9099 or at (www.blowingrockmuseum.org).

Turchin Center for the Visual Arts, Appalachian State University, 423 West King Street, Boone. Main Gallery, East Wing, Through June 6 - "Ben Butler: Wood Sculptures". Butler received his MFA from the School of the Art Institute of Chicago and his BA from Bowdoin College. His work has been exhibited in solo shows in New York at Coleman Burke Gallery and Plane Space, as well as at Zg Gallery in Chicago, John Davis Gallery in Hudson, New York, and Davidson Galleries in Seattle, among others. He is the recipient of a Pollock-Krasner Foundation Individual Artist

Grant and numerous fellowships at residency programs including the MacDowell Colony, The Bemis Center for Contemporary Art, and the Ucross Foundation. He currently lives and works in Memphis, Tennessee and Quogue, New York, and is an Assistant Professor of Art at Rhodes College. Mayer Gallery, West Wing, Apr. 3 - Aug. 8 - "Structures & Surfaces: Lynn Duryea & Brad Stroman". Lynn Duryea and Brad Stroman share more than a similar color palette. Both artists have perfected their skills through years of dedicated and solitary practice, creating visceral experiences for their audiences—one through steel and clay forms, the other with acrylic paint on canvas. Duryea's tall mixed-media pieces have been described as "totems of a past nearly mythical industrial age" reliquaries to ancient urban forms; however, they have a more immediate and austere visceral presence. Stroman's trompe l'oeil still-life paintings are also calculated to seduce the viewer; rendered through "washes, splatters, runs and glazes on a surface built up with layers of medium, then sanded, scraped and carved," his textured surfaces deepen the optical illusion of the exquisitely rendered objects that float so delicately in fields of saturated color. Gallery A, West Wing, Apr. 3 - Aug. 8 - "Quicksilver: Recent Acquisitions from the Andy Warhol Foundation". The exhibit pays homage to Andy Warhol's original Factory (1950s - 1962/63), located at 1342 Lexington Avenue, coined the "Silver Factory" by its frequent visitors. Decorated by Warhol's friend Billy Name, the entire loft, even the bathroom, was covered in tin foil, silver paint, and silver balloons that Warhol left floating in the space. Quicksilver provides a visceral immersion experience for the viewer, showcasing the six silk-screen prints now part of the Turchin Center's permanent collection. Gallery B, West Wing, Apr. 3 - Aug. 8 - "Andrzej Maciejewski: Garden of Eden". Andrzej Maciejewski was born in 1959 in Poland. He studied at Warsaw College of Photography (Poland), Polish Society of Art Photographers School (Poland) and College of Photographic Arts in Ostrava (Czechoslovakia). In 1985 he immigrated to Canada. He worked as a commercial photographer in Toronto until mid-1990's. Then he moved to the countryside in Eastern Ontario and switched entirely to art. He published 4 books: Bread (1996), Toronto Parks (1997) After Notman (2003) and Garden of Eden (2012). After Notman was a bestseller in Canada and has been widely discussed internationally. Andrzej Maciejewski exhibited in Canada, USA, Poland, UK, Germany, Norway, Latvia, Finland and Uganda. Mezzanine Gallery, East Wing, Through June 6 - "12th Appalachian Mountain Photography Competition". Work by Katherine Armacost

FRANK, 109 East Franklin Street, Chapel Hill. Through Apr. 5 - "Edge of White: 5 Artists Explore the Perimeters," featuring works by Katherine Armacost, Marguerite Gignoux, Sandy Milroy, Barbara Tyroler, and Anita Wolfenden. Five professional women artists: paper, paint, glue, camera, canvas, scissors, thread; exploring the edges of white. The exhibit explores abstraction through the eyes of these artists using photography, paper collage, paper sculpture, painting, and multimedia. The use of "edge" is represented as a spatial concept, an opportunity to consider line, shape, or border. Some artists expand beyond the rim of the frame with work that spills over onto the floor, suspended from the ceiling; while others have chosen to trap or bind their work within the edges of the enclosed frame. Through Apr. 5 - "Local: Inside and Out". Explore what makes our home such a special place. Guests Catherine Carter, Steve Hessler, and Henry Link, as well as FRANK artists will share their visions of North Carolina. Apr. 7 - June 7 - "5th Annual Members' Spotlight". Apr. 7 - May 3 - "Reflections," featuring works by members of the Art Therapy Institute. Apr. 18, at 6pm - "The Fifth Annual Fundraising Gala - Off the Wall". Ongoing - Featuring work from over 70 artists, Frank offers more than you'd expect from an art gallery. Frank is a collective, founded by the area's finest artists working together to open the door for creative innovation in the arts. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 11am-6pm; Thur. till 8pm and Sun. 1-5pm. Contact: 919/636-4135 or at (www.frankisart.com).

The Sonja Haynes Stone Center for Black Culture and History, UNC-Chapel Hill, 150 South Road, Chapel Hill. Robert and Sallie Brown Gallery, Through May 11 - "Ritual + Time Travel = Rebirth: Images and Words by Michael Platt and Carol Beane". The exhibition features the work of married artists Michael Platt and Carol Beane. Platt creates artwork that centers on figurative explorations of life's survivors, the marginalized, referencing history and circumstance in the rites, rituals and expressions of our human condition. For Platt and Beane, the creation of these images and poems was an endeavor—typical of their usual manner of sharing the same living, working, cooking, creative/creating space... thoughtful, mostly easy, together trying to find just the right combination of elements to "make magic." Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-8pm. Contact: 919/962-9001 or at (<http://sonjahaynesstonectr.unc.edu/>).

Bechtler Museum of Modern Art, Levine Center for the Arts, 420 South Tryon St., Charlotte. Fourth-Floor Gallery, Through Sept. 7 - "The Art Books of Henri Matisse". Featuring an exhibition of art books by one of the greatest artists of the 20th century, Henri Matisse (1869-1954). Drawn from the Bank of America Collection, the exhibition includes 80 framed original illustrations with text from some of Matisse's most significant books. Best known for his boldly colored paintings, Matisse created a body of work that also included drawings, prints, cut-outs and sculpture, as well as costume and stage set designs. The artist didn't create illustrated books until his late 60s, but the same flowing lines that characterized his oils and pencil studies were carried over to the printmaking medium. Ongoing - The Bechtler Museum of Modern Art is named after the family of Andreas Bechtler, a Charlotte resident and native of Switzerland who assembled and inherited a collection of more than 1,400 artworks created by major figures of 20th-century modernism and donated it to the public trust. The Bechtler collection comprises artworks by seminal figures such as Alberto Giacometti, Joan Miro, Jean Tinguely, Max Ernst, Andy Warhol, Alexander Calder, Le Corbusier, Sol LeWitt, Edgar Degas, Nicolas de Stael, Barbara Hepworth and Picasso. Only a handful of the artworks in the Bechtler collection have been on public view in the United States. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon., Wed.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Sun. noon-5pm; and open until 9pm the 1st. and 3rd. Fri. of each month. Contact: 704/353-9200 or at (www.bechtler.org).

Harvey B. Gantt Center for African-American Arts & Culture, Levine Center for the Arts, 551 S. Tryon St., Charlotte. Through June 26 - "Venturing Out of the Heart of Darkness". Compelled by this quote from Joseph Conrad's "Heart of Darkness", questions about the modern day effects and legacy of Empire on descendants of the African Diaspora emerge. In an attempt to comprehend the influences of Empire on the development of an economized and psychological notion of blackness as a modern day monolith, the Harvey B. Gantt Center presents the exhibition "Venturing Out of the Heart of Darkness". Curated by Rehema Barber, the exhibition will examine the long-standing impact of colonialism on prevailing societal attitudes that define black culture in America and in the world and feature national and international artists of the African Diaspora. Ongoing - Featuring selections from the John & Vivian Hewitt Collection of African-American Art, one of the nation's most important and comprehensive collections of African-American art. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun. 1-5pm. Contact: 704/547-3700 or at (www.ganttcenter.org).

Mint Museum Randolph, 2730 Randolph Road, Charlotte. Ongoing - "American Glass". The nineteenth and early twentieth centuries represented a time of extraordinary growth for the American glass industry. Such companies as Boston & Sandwich Glass Company in Sandwich, MA; Steuben Glass Works in Corning, NY; and Libbey Glass Company in Toledo, OH, began operation and soon developed notable reputations for producing fashionable wares that were coveted by many middle- and upper-class consumers. "American Glass" showcases objects by these and other American glass companies, illustrating the variety of forms and styles that prevailed during this period. Glass-manufacturing techniques will be another focus of the exhibition, with representative examples of pressed, cut, blown, and molded glass. Nearly all of the works on view are from The Mint Museum's permanent collection of glass, which is second in size only to the ceramics collection in the museum's Decorative Arts holdings. Ongoing - "Arts of Africa". The African continent is remarkable in its geographic, social, political, and cultural diversity. This impressive diversity is reflected in the visual arts through a variety of media and forms including ceramics, masks, textiles, sculptures, prestige staffs, and shrines. With exceptional loans from private collectors and The Mint Museum's own collection of African Art, the museum is pleased to announce the expansion of its presentation of Arts of Africa, thereby providing visitors a more in-depth, meaningful, and exciting overview of African art. Heritage Gallery, Ongoing - Feature works of art, archival documents, and photographs documenting the growth and evolution of the museum, from its beginnings as the original branch of the US Mint to its founding as an art museum to the present and beyond. Ongoing - "Art for the Millions: WPA Prints" and "Carolina Clay," featuring a display of colorful wares made between 1920 and 1950 as potters from NC adapted their works to a market economy. "Art of the United States," featuring contemporary works from the Mint's permanent collection, including works by Romare Bearden, Maud Gatewood, John Biggers Juan Logan, Tarlton Blackwell, Radcliffe Bailey, Kojo Griffin, and others. "Art in the Americas," featuring paintings, precious metalwork, sculpture, furniture and decorative arts from the 17th through the 19th centuries illustrate the unique culture that emerged from the Spanish colonization of the Americas. Crosland Gallery - Featuring a presentation of portraits with many fascinating images presented. Rankin Gallery - Featuring a presentation of the Romare Bearden Collection, including two "new" Beardens. Harris and Crist Galleries - Featuring some contemporary works that are new to the collection or have not been seen for a while. Delhom Gallery, Ongoing - The European Collection of ceramic works. Durham

Bull City Arts Collaborative, 401-B1 Foster Street, Durham. Upfront Gallery, Through Apr. 24 - "Muse: A book release celebration and exhibit of photographs by Gail Goers". Photographer Gail Goers uses her 4x5 view camera to amplify a sense of place. "Muse" examines the solitary spaces of modern cities (within Germany and China). This work is presented in two forms, a series of framed 30 x 40 photographs, and the large format 72 page art photography book recently published by Daniel 13 (and designed by Horse & Buggy Press). Hours: Wed. 4-7pm; Sat., 10am-1pm; & 3rd Fri., 6-9pm. Contact: 919/949-4847 or at (www.bullicityarts.org).

Center for Documentary Studies at Duke University, 1317 West Pettigrew Street, Durham. Juanita Kreps Gallery, Through Apr. 18 - "Veiled Rebellion: Women in Afghanistan: Photographs by Lynsey Addario". Photojournalist Lynsey Addario made her first trip to Afghanistan in 2000 to document the lives of women under the Taliban, when, she says, the only women on the streets were beggars, most educated women in the cities spent their days behind closed doors in family compounds, and rural women continued to work in the fields. Apr. 27 - July 29 - "BINNEGOED: Coloured & South African Photography". A reception and curators talk will be held on May 11, from 6-9pm. South Africa during Apartheid is revisited here with the work of sixteen photographers who lived and worked during this period of legalized racial segregation. The exhibition reflects on the history of race and Apartheid resistance to consider what it meant to be Coloured. Classified under Apartheid as neither Black nor White, the place of Coloured people today remains hidden within the South African body politic. The exhibit was curated by Candice Jansen, 2014-15 exhibitions intern at the Center for Documentary Studies at Duke University. Jansen is also a new Ph.D. Fellow and an Archibald Mafeje Scholar at the Wits Institute for Social and Economic Research (WISER) in Johannesburg, South Africa. Library, Through Apr. 13 - "From the World to Lynn: Stories of Immigration," a multimedia exhibit by Andrea Patiño Contreras. The fabric of a city is woven of many threads, and Lynn, Massachusetts, is particularly colorful. The city's history of industrial success—especially at the end of the nineteenth and beginning of the twentieth centuries—paved the way for a profoundly diverse population to settle in the area, as people from numerous countries sought better opportunities. The boom years are long gone, but diversity is an evolving mainstay. One can move through the weathered, industrial-looking city, with its rundown buildings and overhear multiple languages at once: Spanish, Russian, Arabic. Hours: Mon.-Thur, 9am-7pm; Fri., 9am-5pm; Sat., 11am-4pm; & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 919/660-3663 or at (<http://documentarystudies.duke.edu/>).

North Carolina Central University Museum of Art, 1801 Fayetteville Street, Durham. Through Apr. 17 - Designing for Community: The Cultural, Civic, and Collegiate Work of The Freelon Group. Phil Freelon, FAIA founded The Freelon Group Architects in 1990. Under his direction, the firm established a reputation for design excellence and outstanding professional service. This exhibit features a sampling of projects for Cultural, Civic, and Collegiate clients. The goal of this work, most of which is architecture for public buildings, is to bring design excellence to everyday people and public spaces. Whether the venue is a classroom, a museum, a transportation hub or a library, the defining characteristic is that great design can be transformational when experienced in an everyday place. The work that has emerged over 25 years of designing award-winning buildings is not a singular style or trendy. Rather, the work is idea-driven and rooted in what matters to clients: their core values. They believe that architecture representing public institutions must reflect and reinforce their guiding principles. Doing so brings a relevant and lasting connection between the project, its context, the institution and the users of the building. Furthermore, every project must be of its place, appropriately responsive to the unique character of its context. From this basis of understanding they developed strategies for the study of light, volume and material while generating ideas about how space is arranged and building form is composed. The resultant designs are subtle at times, bold when appropriate, but always responsive to client needs. Ongoing - Permanent collection focuses on African American art of the 19th & 20th century, including works by Edward Mitchell Bannister, Henry Ossawa Tanner, Romare Bearden, Jacob Lawrence, Elizabeth Catlett, and Norman Lewis. As well as more contemporary works by Sam Gilliam, Richard Hunt, William Artis, and Kerry James Marshall. Hours: Tue.-Fri., 9am-4:30pm & Sun., 2-5pm. The Nasher Museum of Art, Duke University Central Campus, 2001 Campus Drive, Durham. Through July 12 - "Open This End: Contemporary Art from the Collection of Blake Byrne". An exhibition of both iconic and lesser-known works from some of the most significant and compelling artists of the last 50 years, the exhibition will trace a number of intertwined narratives in the history of recent art. These narratives include Pop and Conceptual Art, Minimalism, body-oriented performance art, the Pictures Generation, identity politics and psychologically-inflected figurative works. The exhibition's title comes from a 1962 painting by Andy Warhol, a gift from Blake Byrne to The Museum of Contemporary Art, Los Angeles, and the earliest work in the show. Guest curator Joseph R. Wolin utilizes the strengths of Byrne's collection to chart a broad but personal overview of contemporary art, while also providing a window into the collector's personal vision. "Open This End" is organized and sponsored by The Skylark Foundation. Apr. 2 - Aug. 30 - Colour Correction: British and American Screenprints, 1967-75. Drawn primarily from the Nasher Museum's vast collection of prints, the exhibition examines a moment when artists adopted, and adapted, the screenprint technique during an extremely fertile period of experimentation and productivity in the United States and Great Britain. Coinciding with a confluence of social upheaval, political turmoil and artistic change and exchange, "Colour Correction" illustrates what many art historians consider to be the "golden age" of screenprinting. The exhibition includes more than 100 works by 40 artists—from the playful Pop art of Andy Warhol and Eduardo Paolozzi to the scathing political critiques of May Stevens to the minimalist abstractions and optical exercises in visual perception by artists such as Richard Anuszkiewicz, William T. Williams and Liliane Lijn. Also - Nasher Museum Café and Museum Shop. Admission: Yes, but free to Durham residents, courtesy of "The Herald-Sun" newspaper. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Thur. till 9pm; & Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 919/684-5135 or at (www.nasher.duke.edu).

The Scrap Exchange, 923 Franklin Street, Bay 1, Durham. Green Gallery, Through Apr. 11 - "Absolute Green," featuring recycled visual art by Nghi Vollmer. As a self-taught, recycled visual artist, Nghi Vollmer breathes new life to disposable paper materials to present "Absolute Green," a marriage of creativity and sustainability. Vollmer's brand of eco-art transforms discarded magazines, cardboard, and food packaging to express a love for nature through mosaic and collage techniques. Each composition has been assembled out of pieces of individually cut-out reclaimed, paper products mounted on canvases upcycled from paper-painted cardboard and foam board. Apr. 17 - May 31 - "Friends and Family Show," featuring an annual, non-juried exhibit celebrating the art of reuse within our community. A reception will be held on Apr. 17, from 6-9pm. Hours: Mon.-Wed., 11am-5pm; Thur.-Fri., 11am-9pm; Sat., 10am-5pm; & Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 919-688-6960 or at (www.scrapexchange.org).

reception will be held on Apr. 26, from 2-5pm. The exhibit includes work from all graduating MFA students. Through May 24 - "Rock, Paper, Scissors, and String". This exhibition will explore connections between a range of modern and contemporary artworks that employ innovative materials and approaches to image-making. The show's title Rock, Paper, Scissors, and String both recalls the familiar childhood game of chance and reflects the exhibition's focus on the inventive use of artmaking materials, compositions, or techniques to create each work. Through May 3 - "Zones of Contention: After the Green Line," featuring an exhibition of artworks that examine historical and contemporary aspects of the decades-long conflict between Israel and Palestine. Through photography, video, collage and sculpture, the exhibition addresses some of the complexities of social, personal and cultural life in this region of the world. Artists participating in the exhibition include Francis Ali's (Belgium/Mexico), Yael Bartana (Israel), Dor Guez (Jaffa), Wafa Hourani (Palestine), Nira Pereg (Israel), Michael Rakowitz (USA), and Sharif Waked (Palestine/Israel). The Gregory D. Ivy Gallery, The Weatherspoon Guild Gallery, Through June 14 - "Observed/Examined/Fabricated: Recent Acquisitions in Photography". This exhibition highlights recent additions in photography to the museum's collection. Examples of innovative techniques and themes by mid-twentieth-century masters such as Gary Winogrand and Lee Friedlander will be featured as well as photographs by later practitioners such as John Coplans, Marilyn Minter, Hellen van Meene, and Rona Yefman. The Leah Louise B. Tannenbaum Gallery, Through Apr. 19 - "SKYWARD," featuring works by Sharon Harper, Karin Apollonia Müller, Demetrius Oliver and Trevor Paglen. The exhibition includes the work of four artists for whom the skies are a source of inspiration and observation. Each uses this material to different ends, from tracking the movement of stars and the moon over extended periods of time to images that incorporate views "looking back" from the skies and personal representations of various constellations. For a number of years, Sharon Harper has followed the movement of planetary bodies through long-exposure photographs generally titled with the location, date and duration of the image that is being captured. She works in a tradition going back to the late 1800s of artists exploring the boundaries of art and science. Harper employs a range of technologies— analog, digital, video, and high speed—that she pairs with lenses and telescopes. Karin Apollonia Müller's series of photographs, Far Out, (2013) consists of images she altered from raw NASA data. Selections from two of the series' three parts, Worldlights and Citylights, are included in the exhibition. The works look back from the skies toward earth, upending the more conventional practice of us looking toward the heavens. The Louise D. and Herbert S. Falk, Sr. Gallery, Through Apr. 19 - "Craig Hood: Falk Visiting Artist". Hood examines the narrative role of the human figure within the landscape. Often conveying a hazy atmospheric quality, his paintings present mysterious scenes of detachment and solitude. His exhibition at the Weatherspoon will include recent works on paper and oil on canvas paintings. Hood (b. 1952, New York, NY; lives and works in Portsmouth, NH) received his BA in English Literature from Boston University in 1975, his BA in Art from Pennsylvania State University in 1979, and his MFA in Painting from Indiana University in 1981. He is a professor in the Department of Art & Art History at the University of New Hampshire. Hood's work has been shown in exhibitions at the Bowery Gallery, the First Street Gallery, the National Academy of Design, and the New York Studio School. He is represented by Beaux-arts des Ameriques, Montreal. Atrium and Lobbies - Featuring works of art complementing current gallery exhibitions which are rotated in the atrium and public areas throughout both floors of the gallery. Tom Otterness' site-specific work, "The Frieze" is permanently installed in the atrium. Admission: Free. Hours: Tue., Wed. & Fri., 10am-5pm, Thur., 10am to 9pm and weekends, 1-5pm. Contact: 336/334-5770 or at (<http://weatherspoon.uncg.edu/>).

CAM Raleigh, 409 W. Martin Street, between Harrington and West streets, Raleigh. Main Gallery, Through May 3 - "Wonderland: Sarah Anne Johnson 2002-2014". The work of Sarah Anne Johnson (b.1976 Winnipeg, Canada) playfully, but pointedly bridges dualities between the real and imagined; factual and fictive; lived and desired. She works from an unapologetically personal perspective that reflects her growing concerns for the world, combined with the pursuit of a utopian place that re-mains tantalizingly out of reach. At every step Johnson attempts to nudge reality closer to her ideals, supplementing quixotic photographs with humble dioramas, sculpey figurines, painterly interludes, hand-crafted doll-houses and all manner of modifications performed upon the photo itself. This survey exhibition brings together her five major bodies of work to date, along with two large-scale installations set in furtive, shimmering forest. As a whole, Wonderland presents the first opportunity to trace the continuity and inspiring evolution of this young artist's practice. Curated by: Steven Matijcio, Curator, Contemporary Arts Center, Cincinnati. Hours: Mon., 11am-6:30pm; Wed.-Fri., 11am-6:30pm; Sat. & Sun., noon-5pm; and 1st & 3rd Fri., open till 9pm. Contact: 919/513-0946 or at (<http://camraleigh.org/>).

Nature Art Gallery, inside the Museum Store, North Carolina Museum of Natural Sciences, 11 W. Jones Street, downtown Raleigh. Apr. 3 - 27 - "On Point Wild," featuring ball point pen nature drawings by Brian Carney. "A reception will be held on Apr. 11, from 2-5pm. Seeing animals that make their homes is the very core of my creative inspiration". Admission: Free. Gallery Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9am-4:45pm & Sun., noon-4:45pm. Store Contact: 919/733-7450, ext. 360 or at (www.naturalsciences.org/store/nature_gallery.html).

North Carolina Museum of Art, 2110 Blue Ridge Road, Raleigh. East Building, Level A, Photography Galleries, Apr. 4 - Sept. 13 - "Director's Cut: Recent Photography Gifts to the NCMA". The exhibition features a selection of photographs from recent gifts to the Museum in honor of Dr. Lawrence Wheeler's 20th anniversary as director of the North Carolina Museum of Art. These gifts are a significant addition to the Museum's photography collection and feature iconic images by many ground-breaking photographers of the 20th century, along with innovative works by contemporary photographers. Ranging in date from 1967 to 2013, the photographs depict a wide variety of subject matter, including Elvis conventions, minor league baseball, self-portraits, the southern landscape, and views of Cuba and New York. Artists in the exhibition include Uta Barth, William Christenberry, Alex Harris, Frank Hunter, Bill Jacobson, Simen Johan, Andrew Moore, Maria Magdalena Campos-Pons, and Kerry Skarbakka, among others. East Building, Level B, Through Apr. 12 - "Jason Mitcham Video Installations". "These animations began from a need to incorporate time into a painting involving a specific site," artist Jason Mitcham has stated. By altering his paintings mark by mark, Mitcham is able to add both a sensation of time and the fluidity of movement to an otherwise static art form. Each brushstroke—adding up to hundreds or thousands for each video he creates—is meant to "bridge the one before it and the one that will follow it," he says. "More than likely it will be overlaid later on, by other marks needed to tell another part of the story." Hence his paintings are in a constant state of flux throughout their animated life—a strange yet freeing sensation for both artist and viewer, as their notions of what a painting can be are ultimately challenged. "The painting must be allowed to destroy itself in order to become itself," Mitcham says. East Building, Through Aug. 23 - "The Patton Collection: A Gift to North Carolina". This exhibition features an exceptional gift to the NCMA from the private collection of Jim and Mary Patton. This transformative gift significantly expands the scope of the Museum's permanent collection, both augmenting works by artists currently in the collection and adding works by artists previously not represented, enabling the Museum to present a comprehensive picture of the significant movements in modern and contemporary art. Amassed over a lifetime, the collection includes seminal works by masters of mid- to late-20th-century art: Milton Avery, Richard Diebenkorn, Jackie Ferrara, Helen Frankenthaler, Adolph Gottlieb, Hans Hofmann, Ellsworth Kelly, Robert Motherwell, David Park, Sean Scully, Frank Stella, Wayne Thiebaud, and many others. Ongoing - Featuring 10 additional sculptures by the celebrated French artist Rodin on loan from Iris Cantor's private collection. Ongoing - "John James Audubon's The Birds of America". The state has owned this treasured volume since 1848, but it has never been exhibited. Ongoing - The North Carolina Museum of Art has an outstanding permanent collection of more than 5,000 objects spanning antiquity to the present day. On the occasion of the expansion, the Museum has acquired more than 100 new works of art. Representing commissions, gifts, and purchases, the new works encompass important and diverse examples of historic and contemporary art from around the world, and will be installed in the Museum's new building and the surrounding landscape. Highlights include a gift of 28 sculptures by Auguste Rodin, and work by such internationally acclaimed artists as Roxy Paine, Ursula von Rydingsvard, El Anatsui, Jaime Plensa, Jackie Ferrara, Ellsworth Kelly, and David Park, among others. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 9am-5pm; Sun., 10am-5pm; & open until 9pm on Fri. Contact: 919/839-6262 or at (www.ncartmuseum.org).

North Carolina Museum of History, 5 East Edenton Street, (between Salisbury and Wilmington Streets), Raleigh. Ongoing - Featuring exhibits dealing with North Carolina's history as a theme. Seagrove Area

Work from Blue Hen Pottery

Throughout the Seagrove area, Apr. 18 & 19, 2015 - "7th Annual Celebration of Spring Kiln Openings & Studio Tours in Seagrove". Seagrove potters are again coming together to create an eventful weekend with something for everyone. Over 70 clay artists from 43 member shops will be offering special events and kiln openings throughout Seagrove this weekend. Spring has always been a time for renewal and awakening in Seagrove and this year an unprecedented number of shops are opening their doors at the same time to Celebrate spring with special events. It's a great weekend to come out and leisurely browse, shop and experience a 200-year-old tradition, see the process, develop and renew relationships with the potters of Seagrove. Each shop is celebrating Spring in its own way. You will also be able to participate in a chance to win a gift certificate for $150 that can be used at one of the participating Celebration of Spring shops. Pick up a card at one of the shops (or download it from our website) and get it stamped in 6 different shops and mail it back to us by May 15, 2015. Qualifying cards will be entered into the drawing, which will take place the weekend of May 23, 2015. Hours may differ from shop to shop. The Spring Guide can be downloaded from our website (www.discoverseagrove.com) and includes a map, shop hours and listing of the participating shops. You can also go to Facebook to see who is participating at (www.facebook.com/CelebrationofSeagrovePotters) and link to the individual artists for more information.

Judith Duff, a studio potter from Brevard, NC is the curator. Twenty-three potters from across the state have been asked to participate. Their work will be highlighted in this exhibition. Duff states, "As a potter profoundly influenced by my own study in Japan, it has been deeply gratifying to curate an event celebrating that same vital impact on my fellow North Carolina potters, many already shaped by a two hundred year tradition of the state's traditional ceramic art. It is a joy to bring to you a show exploring the rich depth and breadth that occurs when two great traditions become entwined." As part of the NC Potter's Conference, Duff will be giving a presentation on the exhibition on Sunday, Mar. 8 from 1:30 to 2:30pm at the North Carolina Pottery Center. Featured artists include: Tacy Apostolik, Cynthia Bringle, Josh Copus, Adrienne Delinger, Judith Duff, Susan Filley, Warner Hyde, Fred Johnston, Matt Kelleher, Eric Knoche, Jan Lee, Linda McFarling, Reiko Miyagi, Ben Owen III, Ron Philbeck, Akira Satake, Jason Serres, Michael Sherrill, Hitomi Shibata, Takuro Shibata, David Stuempfle, Hiroshi Sueyoshi, and Shoko Teruyama. Ongoing - Featuring permanent and changing exhibits on the history of North Carolina pottery, "The North Carolina Pottery Tradition" and "Seagrove Area Pottery". Seagrove Area

Throughout the Seagrove area, Apr. 18 & 19, 2015 - "7th Annual Celebration of Spring Kiln Openings & Studio Tours in Seagrove". Seagrove potters are again coming together to create an eventful weekend with something for everyone. Over 70 clay artists from 43 member shops will be offering special events and kiln openings throughout Seagrove this weekend. Spring has always been a time for renewal and awakening in Seagrove and this year an unprecedented number of shops are opening their doors at the same time to Celebrate spring with special events. It's a great weekend to come out and leisurely browse, shop and experience a 200-year-old tradition, see the process, develop and renew relationships with the potters of Seagrove. Each shop is celebrating Spring in its own way. You will also be able to participate in a chance to win a gift certificate for $150 that can be used at one of the participating Celebration of Spring shops. Pick up a card at one of the shops (or download it from our website) and get it stamped in 6 different shops and mail it back to us by May 15, 2015. Qualifying cards will be entered into the drawing, which will take place the weekend of May 23, 2015. Hours may differ from shop to shop. The Spring Guide can be downloaded from our website (www.discoverseagrove.com) and includes a map, shop hours and listing of the participating shops. You can also go to Facebook to see who is participating at (www.facebook.com/CelebrationofSeagrovePotters) and link to the individual artists for more information.

Columbia Museum of Art, Main & Hampton Streets, Columbia. Lipscomb Family Galleries, Through May 17 - "Charles Courtney Curran: Seeking the Ideal," the first-ever museum retrospective of this treasured American painter. Curran's heart was claimed by women, children and flowers, and he devoted a lifetime to painting them in the full light of day out of doors. "What normal human being," he wrote, "can see a garden full of flowers in bloom or a hillside sprinkled with nature's own decorations, the wild flowers, without an emotion of joy?" His goal as a painter was to capture that joy on canvas. Seeking the Ideal brings together 58 Curran masterpieces sure to astonish with their jewel-like color, soaring vistas and garden landscapes, and love for beauty. The exhibition is organized by Dixon Gallery & Gardens in Memphis, TN., with the Frick Art and Historical Center in Pittsburgh, Pa., and the Columbia Museum of Art. The Columbia Museum of Art has three Curran paintings in its collection, one of which is traveling with the exhibition and included in the beautifully illustrated color catalogue. The show's curator, Jane Faquin, is a University of South Carolina alumna.

Mamie and William Andrew Treadway, Jr. Gallery 15, Through Apr. 5 - "Columbia Now: Four Photographers Show Us Our City". This exhibition highlights our hometown as interpreted through photographs by four local photographers. "Columbia Now" is a selection of 24 photographs by Robert Clark, Vennie Deas Moore, Eliot Dudik, and Meg Griffiths that paint a portrait of a city. The works form an up-to-the-minute document about the city of Columbia, including snippets of residents as well as landscape and architecture. The exhibit is part of a city-wide commemorative series of events marking the 150th anniversary of the burning of Columbia. The show stresses Columbia's emergence as a vital city within the American landscape, one that has risen from the ashes to be a home for a diverse and forward-moving community. Supporting Sponsor: Steven Ford Interiors, Inc. Apr. 17 - July 19 - "With Sponge, Brush and Stencil: Bunzlauer Pottery from the Collection of the CMA". Bunzlauer Pottery from the Collection of the Columbia Museum of Art is a colorful exhibition of 43 pieces of pottery created between the world wars in an area known as Bunzlauer in Eastern Germany (renamed Boleslawiec following the Polish annexation of the area in 1945). This popular style of pottery was hand-decorated with sponges, brushes, and stencils - intended for the average home, but celebrated for its colorful and inventive patterns. Artists drew inspiration from the Art Nouveau and Art Deco styles and decorated everyday wares like teapots, creamers, vases, and plates. Wells Fargo Education Gallery, Through May 17 - "Impressionism: Through the Eyes of St. Lawrence Place". Students from St. Lawrence Place, ages 5-16 years old, spent four weeks learning about impressionist landscapes. Each week, they created new landscapes using various mediums such as pastel, watercolor, and acrylic. Inspired by the works of famous artist like Charles Courtney Curran, Monet, Renoir, and Van Gogh, each student created their own unique landscape through their own eyes. The works shown in this exhibition are the student's visions of landscape and a reflection of what they learned about impressionistic expression. Caroline Guignard Community Gallery, Through Apr. 19 - "Indie Grits Future Perfect: Julie Henson". A reception and Indie Grits Kick-Off Party will be held on Apr. 15, from 7-11pm. This exhibition of six pigment prints by Charleston-born artist Julie Henson is shown in partnership with the Indie Grits 2015 Film Festival. Henson's recent work highlights the interface between images and the structure of belief systems. Dissecting iconography from a variety of cultural sources, such as popular American magazine covers, backgrounds from Disney animations, or videos from religious activities, her work amplifies many of the archetypal references within contemporary cultural experience. Caroline Guignard Community Gallery, Apr. 28 - May 24 - "Art of Healing," is a juried art competition sponsored by Lexington Medical Center in partnership with the Columbia Museum of Art for Lexington County high school students. Each Lexington County high school art teacher selected one piece of student art that best expressed the student's interpretation of the theme 'art of healing. BB&T Focus Gallery, Ongoing - "Southern Traditions," will showcase the richness and diversity of the Museum's collection of furniture, ceramics, silver, basketry, sculpture and paintings by artists native to, or active in, South Carolina and its surrounding states. Among the works on view will be fine silver made by Charleston and Columbia silversmiths; a sweet grass basket by Mary Jackson (SC, born 1945); wood carvings by Edgar Alexander McKillop (NC, 1879-1950); and paintings by Charles Fraser (SC, 1782-1860), Xanthus Russell Smith (SC, 1839-1929), William Harrison Scarborough (SC, 1812-1871), William Aiken Walker (SC, 1838-1921), among others. Galleries 5 & 6, Ongoing - "Modern & Contemporary Art from the Collection". Celebrating some of the CMA's greatest hits, this exhibition features over 30 paintings, drawings, photographs and sculptures from the Museum's collection that have not been on view recently. It offers the visitor experiences both serious and sensual and is designed to both entertain and enlighten. Notable works included are by Jasper Johns, Howard Thomas, Sally Mann and Edward Ruscha, whose famous image of the Hollywood Hills (on view) has become a staple of the art world. Ray Taylor Fair Gallery, Ongoing - Featuring a new and permanent installation of its ancient art collection. The installation includes approximately 50 objects that introduce the major ancient civilizations from the Mediterranean and Near East. Examples of the earliest form of writing from 12th century B.C. Mesopotamia, are shown next to Egyptian scarabs and Greek painted vessels. The world of the ancient Romans is represented by 2nd century glass and bronze items and portrait sculpture. Many of these works have not been seen since the Museum moved to its location on Main Street in 1998. The collection has grown over the last several years with the donation of 12 fine Roman sculptures in 2002 from Pennsylvania collector Dr. Robert Y. Turner. Admission: Yes, but there is no admission charge on Sun. Hours: Tue.-Fri., 11am-5pm; first Fri., till 8pm; Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 803/799-2810 or at (www.columbiamuseum.org).

McKissick Museum, University of South Carolina, USC Horseshoe, Columbia. Through May 20 - "Crafting Civil (War) Conversations". This exhibition commemorates the 150th anniversary of the end of the Civil War with a juried display of contemporary art. The Museum invited artists from across the Southeast who work in what historically have been regarded as craft-based media--clay, fiber, glass, metal and wood--to imagine the Civil War's end as a scene of reconciliation--not between the North and the South--but between former slaves and former slave owners. 2nd floor South Gallery, Through July 25 - "Traditions, Change, and Celebration: Native Artists of the Southeast". This exhibition represents year two of McKissick's "Diverse Voices" series, which explores the vibrant traditions that help create and maintain the cultural landscape of South Carolina and the surrounding region. Each year the exhibit focuses on a specific theme or tradition. The South is home to a wide variety of deeply-rooted Native American tribal groups, each with their own dynamic history. The exhibition pays particular attention to five primary culture groups: Iroquoian, Muskogean, Algonquin, Mobilian and Siouan. Within these culture groups and spanning nine states, the traditions of a variety of tribes will be explored, including the Cherokee, Edisto, Choctaw, Catawba, Chickasaw, Seminole, Chitimacha, Pamunkey, Wassamasaw and Creek. Featuring the work of master artists within these communities, the exhibition explores how these artists are influenced by the world around them and how they influence their native communities through leadership and a dynamic sense of cultural identity. Third Floor Lobby, Through May 16 - "Opening Doors: 25 Years of the Americans with Disabilities Act". On July 26, 1990, President George H. W. Bush signed the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), a landmark piece of civil rights legislation became law making it possible for Americans with disabilities to participate more fully in society. Twenty-five years later our world is more inclusive, but there is still more work to be done. Disabled students, staff, and faculty at USC certainly know this. Since 2008, students from the Office of Student Disability Services have participated in a Photovoice project, adding their voices to the ADA's call to action. Ongoing - "Diverse Voices: Discovering Community Through Traditional Arts". Dedicated to the late George D. Terry, "Diverse Voices" explores deeply-rooted traditions that help create and maintain the cultural landscape of South Carolina and the surrounding region. Each year the exhibit will focus on a specific theme or tradition. Year one of "Diverse Voices" offers a comprehensive presentation of objects from the museum collection that represent the work of celebrated NEA National Heritage Fellows and Jean Laney Harris Folk Heritage Award recipients. Ongoing - "Highlights from the Permanent Collections of McKissick Museum". Permanent - "Baruch Silver Collection," a collection of the Baruch family silver. View from the Eastern Sierras

Florence County Museum, 111 West Cheves Street, across the street from the Francis Marion University Performing Arts Center, Florence. Waters Gallery, located at 135 South Dargan Street, Apr. 10 - June 28 - "Legacy: The Ansel Adams Experience". A reception will be held on May 12, beginning at 6pm. The Florence Regional Arts Alliance is pleased to collaborate with the Florence County Museum and introduce a new exhibition in the Florence County Museum Waters Gallery. The "Legacy" exhibition, traces the influence and legacy of Ansel Adams in the work of 5 local women artists: Tari Federer, Kathleen Kennebeck, Elizabeth Kinser, Julie Mixon and Allison Triplett. In the Fall of 2014, Julie Mixon, Assistant Professor of Art at Francis Marion University, took the students featured in this exhibit to the Eastern Sierras of California for a trip she titled: "The Ansel Adams Experience". The project title references one of the most revered photographers of all time. In short, Ansel Adams was a pioneer in the world of photography, specifically in landscape photography. Through Oct. 5 - "William H. Johnson: New Beginnings," features twenty one works from the life of Florence native, William Henry Johnson (1901-1970) selected from the collections of the Smithsonian American Art Museum, the Florence Museum Board of Trustees, the Johnson Collection, and a private collector in Denmark. This selection not only represents the range of distinct periods over the artist's prolific career, but it also offers a rare personal glimpse into the artist's relationship with the people and places of Florence, America, & Europe. In 1901, William H. Johnson was born in Florence, SC. At the age of 17, he traveled and studied in America and Europe, producing and exhibiting art that reflected the styles and attitudes of the world around him. Fearing the eminent onset of war in Europe, Johnson returned to the United States in 1938. Over the course of the next decade, his art transformed into the intense, "primitivist" style he is recognized for today. Both vibrant and somber, these abstracted paintings depict the African-American experience from both a historical and personal perspective. Today the Smithsonian American Art Museum owns more work by Johnson than any other single artist. In 2009, two of Johnson's works painted during the artist's 1944 visit to Florence, were among those chosen by First Lady Michelle Obama as decoration for the White House. Through Jan. 1, 2016 - "Selections-from-the-Wright-Collection-of-Southern-Art". This exhibition features thirty works from the Florence County Museum's recently acquired Wright Collection of Southern Art. In its entirety, The Wright Collection of Southern Art features 141 works collected over 45 years by former Florence pathologist, Dr. Louis Wright. The collection was developed around the recognition of Southern Art as a viable facet of American expression and cultural development. It encompasses art produced over a 153-year period, from 1852 to 2005. At its center is work by noted artists like Thomas Hart Benton, Alfred Hutty, Helen Hyde, Florence native artist, William Henry Johnson, Alice Huger Smith, Anna Heyward Taylor, Elizabeth O'Neill Verner, Palmer Schoppe, Mary Whyte, & Stephen Scott Young. Community Gallery, Ongoing - This exhibit introduces visitors to the history of the museum and its formative collections. This gallery also exhibits the histories and diversity of the City of Florence, and the incorporated municipalities of Florence County. Additionally, the Community Gallery communicates the lives, stories and accomplishments of significant past and present citizens of Florence County and members of its communities. This gallery is one of two permanent exhibit spaces designed by award winning exhibit design firm, HaleySharpe Design. Pea Dee History Gallery, Ongoing - This is the largest gallery space in the facility, comprising 3,300 sq. ft. of exhibit space. This permanent collections gallery occupies the entire second floor, east wing of the building. Museum & Gallery, Bob Jones University, Wade Hampton Boulevard, Greenville. Through Dec. 13 - "Golden Age of Painting in the Low Countries". Works in this exhibit are not from South Carolina's Lowcountry region, but a dynamic representation of northern European artwork from the 1600s! The exhibit includes works on loan from New York private collector Lev Grzhonko. M&G curator John Nolan describes "The Golden Age" exhibition as "a great opportunity for M&G and the Greenville community," and notes the historical significance of the paintings to Greenville, stating, "I'm not aware of any loan exhibit that has come to our city having such a diverse selection of artists and genres from the Low Countries during the late sixteenth and the seventeenth centuries." In addition, while M&G's collection of Dutch art is focused largely on religious subjects, Nolan observes "the Golden Age exhibition allows M&G to feature a broader spectrum of what else was happening in this era of creative genius." Ongoing - "Likely and Unlikely Pairings," featuring a fascinating juxtaposition of art and mundane objects revealing a variety of viewpoints. Through this special comparative display, the unique presentation serves as an engaging tool for all viewers interested in understanding the many facets of art, culture, and thought. Ongoing - Permanent exhibition of the finest collection of religious art in America, including works by Rubens, Botticelli, and Van Dyck. Work from The Bishop Collection of Antique Maps

Franklin G. Burroughs • Simeon B. Chapin Art Museum, 3100 South Ocean Blvd., beside Springmaid Beach, Myrtle Beach. Through Apr. 12 - "The Mapmakers' Art: The Bishop Collection of Antique Maps: 1608-1863". The artworks, a 1999 gift from Mrs. George Bishop in memory of her late husband, a local entrepreneur, are part of the Museum's permanent collection. Following the discovery of the New World in the 15th century, European mapmakers scrambled to document and map the new territories, using centuries-old technology. In contrast to today's mass-produced, utilitarian maps, early European cartographers recruited renowned painters and miniaturists of their times who created maps that were truly works of art, richly colored and intricately decorated. Through Apr. 23 - "Inner Garden," featuring works by local artist, Laurie Blume. Stuck in the dead of winter, wouldn't we all like to escape to a lush, exotic garden fragrant with flowers under a canopy of vibrantly green trees? Blum's "Inner Garden" comes to life in this enchanting exhibition of gouache paintings of the natural, and sometimes fantastical, world, as it exists through the eyes and soul of the artist. Through Apr. 23 - "Voices of the Island: The Cuban Art Collection of Reynier Llanes". When artist Reynier Llanes moved to Charleston, SC, in 2009, he brought his artistic inspiration with him: his home in Pinar del Rio, a mountainous, biologically and artistically rich region at the westernmost end of Cuba. Passionate about sharing his cultural heritage with his new country, he has done so not only through his own artwork, evoking themes and images from his upbringing, but also by collecting and selling the works of other artists from Pinar del Rio. "Voices of the Island" features 55 works by 18 artists (including Llanes), all of whom are from Cuba and most of whom are still living there. Through Apr. 23 - "Swim: An Artist's Journey," features a series of paintings by Charles Williams, aimed at confronting his own deeply held fears as well as the cultural and psychological barriers to swimming experienced by black youth. As a survivor of a near-drowning experience, African American artist Charles Williams was not surprised to learn that the majority of accidental drowning victims in America are African American male teenagers. Or that nearly 70% of American black children have few or no

ALTERNATE ART SPACES - North Charleston North Charleston City Hall, 2500 City Hall Lane, North Charleston. 1st & 2nd floors, Apr. 30 - June 19 - "9th Annual African American Fiber Art Exhibition - Maya Angelou". A reception will be held on May 7, from 6-8pm. This annual, juried exhibit showcases works in fiber created by African American artists from throughout the US. The 9th installment features pieces by 38 artists inspired by the life of Maya Angelou, a phenomenal woman, daughter of the South, Mother of the Civil Rights Movement, Speaker of Truth to Power, and inspiration to so many women from all walks of life. This year's theme challenged artists to create fiber works, such as art quilts, dolls, wearable art pieces, and more, that express their personal relationship to Maya, her work, and her life. 2nd floor, Apr. 30 - June 19 - "Mixed Media Works by Alexandra Roberts - Experimentum Crucis". A reception will be held on May 7, from 6-8pm. Local artist Alexandra Roberts will present a collection of works that serve as an exploration of media culminating in a symphony of color and texture. Many of the pieces are inspired by personal experiences, observations in society, and her work as a community artist. Alexandra graduated from the Maryland Institute College of Art (MICA) with a BFA in Fine Arts in 2006 and immediately went on to pursue the career she is most passionate about, community arts, by obtaining an MA in Community Arts in 2007. 3rd floor, Apr. 30 - June 19 - "Photographs by Sandy Logan - Local Motion: North Charleston". A reception will be held on May 7, from 6-8pm. From its beginnings, the City of North Charleston has been a center of strong and rugged industry. That initial industry has, in many cases, fallen off, and is now being replaced with newer, more vital apparatuses of commerce. Photographer Sandy Logan has found it difficult to capture the essence of this newer era since for years he has photographed the more esoteric and hidden images of this industrial beauty. In this exhibition of scenes in North Charleston, Sandy presents images that do not reflect the harshness and debilitated aspect of the city, but rather represent the strength that is passing from one form to another -- from traditional industry to a more modern vitality. 3rd floor, Apr. 30 - June 19 - "Cut Paper Works by Sherill Anne Gross - Bird Watching". A reception will be held on May 7, from 6-8pm. Greenbelt, MD, based artist Sherill Anne Gross will present a collection of cut paper works depicting birds (the flying kind) and byrds (the 1950's pin-up kind). No need for binoculars for this birding adventure. The layered components of each piece, even the artist's signature, are made by hand with only paper, glue, and patience -- no stencils. Goss is a professional illustrator and graphic designer whose work has appeared on the covers of magazines, calendars, websites, a number of critically acclaimed CD's and LP's, and more. 3rd floor, Apr. 30 - June 19 - "Works by Steve Hazard & Friends - An Urban Art Kaleidoscope". A reception will be held on May 7, from 6-8pm. This group exhibition features selections of kiln-fired art glass, welded metal sculpture, and original contemporary paintings by local artist Steve Hazard, as well as works in a variety of media by artists represented in Hazard's Studio & Art Gallery located in North Charleston. These artists include Robbie Clair, (blown glass) Aziz Diagne (colligraphs), Maurice Evans (mixed media), Barbara Mason (paintings), Arthur Parks (paintings), Ronnie Phillips (paintings), Chuck Rucker (paintings), Buchi Upjohn (paintings), and more. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 843/740-5854, at (www.northcharleston.org/Residents/Arts-and-Culture.aspx).

Work by Betty Anglin Smith

Anglin-Smith Fine Art, 9 Queen Street, corner of Queen & State Streets, Charleston. Apr. 3 - 17 - "Lowcountry Light," a collection of new paintings by Betty Anglin Smith. A reception will be held on Apr. 3, from 5-8pm. "The ambient light of the Lowcountry has fascinated artists for decades if not centuries," Smith says. She's, of course, among those artists: "Light fades and softens under the cloak of humidity, becoming mysteriously intriguing. And then as the haze gives way, we are entertained by the rich colors from the marshes to the waterways and the sky above. Always new and always changing. Mother Nature 'shows off,' and we are anything but bored!" Ongoing - Featuring original works by Betty Anglin Smith, Jennifer Smith Rogers, Tripp Smith, Shannon Smith Hughes, Kim English, Darrell Davis, Colin Page, Carl Plansky, and Victor Chiarizia. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun. 1-5pm. Contact: 843/853-0708 or at (www.anglinsmith.com).

Ann Long Fine Art, 54 Broad Street, Charleston. Apr. 10 - 30 - "William Halsey," featuring works marking the 100th year anniversary of the artist's birth. William Halsey (1915 - 1999) was a pioneer modernist in Charleston, breaking ground in a city known for its picturesque art tradition. Exhibited at the gallery are fifteen later works by the artist, spanning the 1970s - 1990s. William Melton Halsey was born on George Street in Charleston. As a boy he drew copies of litho-

Work by Laura Spong

Vista Studios - Gallery 80808, 808 Lady Street, Columbia. Apr. 1 - 13 - "Lascivious," featuring works by Joseph Kendrick. A reception will be held on Apr. 2, from 6-9pm. This exhibition will present words with multiple meanings in sculptural form. Visual cues, such as - but not limited to - color, positioning, and texture will direct the viewer to alternative and evocative interpretations. Apr. 15 - 27 - "GOSSIP". A reception will be held on Apr. 23, from 5-9pm, during the Artista Vista celebration. Feeling creative, the artists at vista Studios/gallery 80808 decided to play a game. Based on the children's game of Gossip, where a phrase is secretly passed from one player to the next, the artists have used visual art in place of words. Partnering with the Columbia Museum of Art, the curator, Will South, choose a piece from the Charles Curran exhibit which is
