CAROLINA ARTS

A PUBLICATION COVERING THE VISUAL ARTS IN THE CAROLINAS

Painting is by Michelle Johnson Fairchild of Morehead City, North Carolina. After a 24-year career teaching high school art, Fairchild has devoted the last four years honing her craft and painting daily. Fairchild and her family have called the Crystal Coast of North Carolina home for these last four years. She tells visitors that she is living her dream by owning her own working studio in downtown Morehead City and a gallery space on Beaufort's (NC) historic Front Street called Gypsybee Studios and Gallery.

The National Endowment for the Arts is open for business. Our staff, while working remotely for the next several weeks, is available to you via phone or email, as usual. We look forward to receiving and reviewing our next round of grant applications in the coming weeks. We're also evaluating our grant application deadlines and may adjust them to help applicants dealing with the effects of COVID-19.

We know that there are more than five million Americans who make their livelihoods in the broader arts and cultural sector across the country and are potentially at risk. We also know that the arts provide comfort, resilience, wisdom, and the means for self-expression and connection, perhaps even more so during challenging times such as these. We have FAQs and relief resources and opportunities related to COVID-19 available on our website at (<https://www.arts.gov/covid-19-resources-for-artists-and-arts-organizations>), and we will continue to update these sections with new information as it becomes available.

Editorial COMMENTARY

by Tom Starland, Editor and Publisher

Artist for Feed the Need Auction Results

The organizers of the Artist for Feed the Need had set a goal of raising $20,000 from their art auction to help the local food industry, help feed people in need. Almost 100 artists from the Lowcountry of SC, donated their work to this auction and the final results were - they raised $67,029.00. Way to go artists, now here's a way to help yourselves out during this pandemic.

Artists From Around the World Help Other Artists by Taking the Artist Support Pledge

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, many artists have found themselves without work, teaching, technical support and gallery work. Exhibitions and sales have disappeared. In an attempt to help alleviate some of this stress artists around the world are taking the ARTIST SUPPORT PLEDGE #artistsupportpledge

The concept is a simple one started by British artist, Matthew Burrows. Artists post images of their work, on Instagram or Facebook which they are willing to sell for no more than $200 each (not including shipping). Anyone can buy the work. Every time an artist reaches $1,000 of sales, they pledge to spend $200 on another artist's work.

Some frequently asked questions include: I WANT TO SELL MY ART. CAN I TAKE PART?

Yes. Anyone can take part from anywhere in the world. This is a global movement and works best when we stay united.

I WANT TO BUY ART. CAN ANYONE?

Yes. Anyone can take part. This is open to everyone, everywhere around the world.

HOW DO I TAKE PART? Artists post images of their work on Instagram with the #artistsupportpledge, with details and price. If people are interested in buying, they message (DM) the artist.

Matthew Burrows started the Artist Support Pledge initiative to alleviate some of the stress the pandemic has caused, as many artists have now found themselves without work. Exhibitions and sales have been shut down, and teaching and technical support has become difficult to access. The project, which he launched on his Instagram page, "was really a response to the current situation, a creative solution to how I might help myself but also friends and colleagues through this period, by utilizing the generosity of the arts community—which is abundant," says Burrows.

Work by Erin Keane

This is most likely an outdated statement but, since the launch of Burrows' UK campaign on March 20th, 2020, the Artist Support Pledge has inspired over 100,000 posts and generated over £20 million globally. Within this global campaign, many smaller networks have developed through efforts of artists such as Mark Bettis who brought the campaign to the River Arts District of Asheville, NC, using the #artistsupportpledgeRAD. Current RAD artist and former Brevard Middle School Art Teacher Erin Keane joined the pledge after seeing the efforts of Bettis. As Keane explains in her personal experience, "The Artist Support Pledge has helped us pay the bills, keep up morale, and have the means to adapt our businesses to this new world" and "thanks to the tremendous generosity of my friends, family, students, and collectors, I've been able to pay-it-forward six (working on 7) times. That has put $1,200 back into the artist community," says Keane.

Most of the activity surrounding the Artist Support Pledge is taking place on Instagram, but since a lot of folks don't use Instagram, but are on Facebook, we have tried to include info about how you can participate as an artist or art buyer on Facebook.

A new Facebook group page is being set up for artists who live in the Carolinas and are participating in the Artist Support Pledge. The page was set up by Charleston, SC, artist, Susan Irish, with technical help from Jen Ashley, who works on a digital newsletter in Charleston called CHStoday. You can find the group at "Artist Support Pledge - Carolinas" or at this link (https://www.facebook.com/groups/artistsupportpledgecarolinas/?notif_id=1589766151363535¬if_t=group_r2j_approved). It's just starting so it will take time before artwork starts to show up.

If you would like to participate visit this link (https://www.instagram.com/p/B_KH-HyyFLIE/).

Gibbes Museum of Art in Charleston, SC, Presents Several Exhibitions

The Gibbes Museum of Art in Charleston, SC, has two exhibitions currently in their galleries which they hope you'll soon be able to view in person. Keep in touch for news of their re-opening.

On view in Gallery 8, through Aug. 9, 2020, is the exhibit, Central to Their Lives: Southern Women Artists in the Johnson Collection. Spanning the decades between the late 1890s and early 1960s, Central to Their Lives brings together for the first time the paintings and sculptures of forty-two diverse women artists who made significant contributions to the art of the South. This exhibition examines the challenges female artists faced during a period in which women's social, cultural, and political roles were being redefined and reinterpreted. Whether working from dedicated studio spaces, in spare rooms at home, or on the world stage, the artists showcased made remarkable impacts by fostering future generations of artists through instruction, incorporating new aesthetics into the fine arts, and challenging the status quo.

"Peach Packing, Spartanburg County", 1938, by Wenonah Day Bell; (American, 1890-1981); Oil on canvas; 38 x 48 inches; 2010.05.04; The Johnson Collection, Spartanburg, SC.

Organized by the Johnson Collection in Spartanburg, SC, the exhibition includes works by leading figures in the Charleston Renaissance such as Alice Ravenel Huger Smith and Elizabeth O'Neill Verner, as well as Corrie McCallum, Minnie Evans, Anne Goldthwaite, Clementine Hunter, and Augusta Savage.

This exhibition is sponsored by the Gibbes Museum Women's Council, Blue Cross Blue Shield of South Carolina, Charleston Magazine, the Jane Smith Turner Foundation, and Kenneth and Martha Severens.

On view in Gallery 9, Through Jan. 10, 2021, is the exhibit, A Return to the Grand Tour: Micromosaic Jewels from the Collection of Elizabeth Locke. Micromosaics arrived at their height of pictorial perfection from the late 18th to the mid 19th centuries. These exquisitely crafted plaques, which contain up to 1,400 delicately shaded tiles of glass per square inch, were sold to travelers on their Grand Tour through Italy. Made into jewelry, boxes, and paper weights and sold as easily carried mementoes, micromosaics passed out of fashion toward the end of the 19th century and are now a lost art. This exhibition features 92 brilliant examples from the private collection of Elizabeth Locke.

This exhibition is sponsored by the Gibbes Museum Women's Council, Croghan's Jewel Box, Lou Hammond Group and Jill and Richard Almeida.

This exhibition was organized by the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts, Richmond. The Gibbes Museum of Art is home to

Robert Lange Studios in Charleston, SC, Offers Works by Robert Lange & Nathan Durfee, Made Together

The Robert Lange Studios in Charleston, SC, will present By Our Powers Combined: Hyper Realism meets Pop Surrealism from Robert Lange + Nathan Durfee, on view from June 5 - 26, 2020. A day long reception is planned for June 5, from 11am-8pm.

It has been 10 years since the duo had their first collaborative exhibit. The works on display are a combination of the two artists creative styles both painting on the same panel. Lange would begin a painting the foremost collection of American art that incorporates the story of Charleston. The Museum connects the city and region's artistic past to a vibrant contemporary art scene.

A bustling seaport in the 1700s, Charleston was a melting pot of cultures, religions, and traditions. Powered by the rice and indigo trade, and slavery, it was the 4th largest city in America in 1790 – and the wealthiest. Like Philadelphia, Boston and New York, what distinguished Charleston then – was art.

While we were home to some of America's earliest art, collectors, artists, who made the City both muse and subject – and taken our turn as one of the nation's richest cities – in money and culture – so were we also home to America's original sin, slavery – and a war that divided our nation.

In 1888, when Charleston was financially and culturally on its knees, benefactor James Gibbes left a bequest to the City to build an art museum.

When the Gibbes Museum opened in 1905, the nation celebrated what Charleston has always understood: the power of art – to inspire our imagination, heal our hurt, revel in our experience, rebuild what's broken, nourish our souls, and release all that holds us back.

Through our complicated history, through light and shadow, we have persevered – humanity intact.

Art is the reason Charleston will endure. In Charleston, we believe art is the difference between merely existing and being truly alive.

That's why we immerse ourselves in every part of it – from fine art to craft – from nurturing its creation and celebrating its multicultural presentation – to inviting its interpretation and ensuring its preservation.

Because when we open ourselves to art, we open ourselves to the world – to people and ideas, to beauty, craft, process and detail, to different cultures, to pain and pleasure, to questions, expression and emotion, to truth and transcendence.

In the presence of art, we have the opportunity to see inside someone's heart, mind, and soul and feel what they felt. That understanding and compassion make us more understanding, compassionate people, who, in turn, create a more compassionate, understanding world.

and then hand it to Durfee to complete. Lange says of the exhibit, "During this incredibly unique time in history, it seemed appropriate that two artists would come together making collaborative paintings that illustrate our unified strength as a collective instead of as individuals."

During the Covid-19 pandemic, creating collaborative paintings was a challenge, however, the pieces display the importance of human connection; These works could only be created with both artists, as the title says, "combining their powers." Durfee, who has become recognized for painting fanciful realities, said, "These collaborations act as a call-and-response. Rob creates precise compositions, that frankly hold up nicely on their own, and my job is to add to the conversation. The magic is in finding a response that's equal parts belonging and unexpected. The blend elevates each of our parts." All are welcome June 5 for an all day opening where, pandemic pending, each artist will be on hand. characters were embracing or hugging." In the painting Heroes Having a Moment Lange painted only the clothing of two people in an emotional embrace. Nathan finished the scene with two masked and caped superheroes in a warm hug. The piece is an homage to all the hard work and effort of our healthcare and essential workers who have given so much but are also experiencing the same feelings of loneliness and an unknown future.

This show has many narrative elements; telling stories to tie the paintings together within the body of work is something both artists often do separately in their careers. Together, the end effect showcases what can be achieved when working together and trusting each other as artists.

This trust has been years in the making. Durfee said, "It's been nearly a decade since Rob and I have had a collaborative show. Not only have we both matured and grown as individual artists, but we've learned from previous collaborations and have discovered where the art really works. The Chrome bowls are a perfect example: they give Rob a chance to flex his photo-realism muscles in the chrome, while also providing a vessel for me to create a narrative."

"With Our powers Combined, a 1990's Captain Planet reference, became a perfect fit for our show title. Through all of this exploration and cooperation, we wanted to make sure it was still fun! Collaboration involves risk and trust, and it's hard to accept those if you're taking yourself too seriously. The show's title became a reminder that the work will be it's best when we're inspired and enjoying ourselves. Rob and I are both on the Gen X/Millennial cusp, so Saturday morning cartoons were a big influence in our childhood," said Durfee.

Overall the exhibit is the perfect example of both artist's unyielding ability to consistently evolve as painters. Lange says, "Since we both have studios in the gallery, Nathan and I talk about our careers and our artistic paths on a fairly regular basis. A commonality we share has always been the desire to grow and never plateau as artists. We knew with this concept for an exhibit we would be leaving our comfort zones and the outcome would be anything but expected, a perfect place to learn something new about ourselves."

For further information check our SC Commercial Gallery listings, contact Megan Lange by calling 843/805-8052 or visit www.robertlangestudios.com.

Work by Robert Lange & Nathan Durfee

Although the Bear is Lange's favorite, the painting The Creative Blueprint a 18" x 36" oil on panel perhaps best illustrates the wonderful call and response that was accomplished in the series. Durfee said, "We also tried to stretch the limits of the concept. The Chef's Table was one of our largest collaborations yet, which inherently has a lot of risk involved. The Creative Blueprint was passed back and forth between us 6 times, and easily was the most time consuming of the project. Rob had the 'final say' in this piece, and depicting his son painting his own version of the imaginative tower which tied the piece together."

As the exhibit opening date was approaching, Lange and Durfee both had the desire to make a specific piece reflecting on the Covid-19 experience. Lange says, "Of all the paintings Nathan has made over the years, I have always been emotionally moved by his paintings where two

Art League of Hilton Head, SC, Awards Two 2020 Scholarships

Since the year 2000, Art League of Hilton Head has awarded an annual scholarship in the amount of $2000 to a graduating high school senior who is studying or living on Hilton Head Island and attending a local high school. The scholarship program encourages students to develop their artistic skills and pursue a career in visual arts. The funding of this scholarship is made possible through charitable donations made to Art League of Hilton Head. Due to a special memorial donation, Art League awarded an additional scholarship in 2019 and 2020, the Barbara Kittinger Scholarship in the amount of $1000.

resume will reveal her ability to balance her schoolwork, extracurricular clubs, volunteering, and working at her job all while maintaining an admirable GPA."

The $1000 Barbara Kittinger scholarship was awarded to Olivia Waters. She will attend the University of South Carolina School of Visual Art and Design this fall. She will pursue a degree in Studio Art. In Olivia's scholarship essay, she wrote "Over the past five years I have watched my style evolve as my skill has matured. I uncovered my love of realism and portraiture throughout my high school art journey. Ultimately, coming to the realization that colored pencils are my preferred medium. Within the simple touch of its sharpened tip, a colored pencil gives me eloquent control. It grants me the authority to incorporate brilliant detail and masterful taste to my pieces. I have grown to love the artistic process and can't imagine living without creating. It was confirmation to me that I should pursue a career in art when I won a National Silver Medal in the 2019 Scholastic Art and Writing competition. Being nationally recognized in the top 1% of artists confirmed my desire to pursue a career in art."

Work by Jacqueline Roberts

The $2000 annual Art League scholarship was awarded to Jacquelyn Roberts. She will attend Clemson this fall with a major in Studio Art. Monique Dobbelaere, Jacquelyn's art teacher, described Jacquelyn in her recommendation letter by stating "Jacquelyn has several award-winning artworks. Notably, she was awarded third place in the 2019 South Carolina State Fair Student Art Competition as well as being the recipient of the Palmetto Fellows Scholarship. Presently she has entered her work in the 2020 Scholastics Art Competition. Jacquelyn was a Junior Scholar and maintains her standing as being in the top 10% of her class."

"Jacquelyn has also helped build and paint sets for our school play, The Great Gatsby. She has participated twice in the Memory Project, a global arts initiative where high school art students create portraits for children around the globe in challenging situations. Jacquelyn created portraits for children in Pakistan and a young girl in a Syrian refugee camp. Her dedication to the arts is evident in her pursuit to achieve as well as to use her art as a means to make a difference in our local and global community. A look at her

La Petite Gallerie in Bluffton, SC, is Ready to Celebrate 6 Years in Business

La Petite Gallerie is located in a lovely historic space on Calhoun Street in old town Bluffton, SC. Featuring five of the area's favorite painters and two talented sculptors, this special collection of art is an ever-changing delight, with many pieces spilling out into the adjacent garden.

In addition to the pastel, acrylic, oil and watercolor paintings you'll find lovely blown glass, whimsical and soulful clay pieces, wonderful outdoor sculpture, fish, turtles, birds and other fun garden art.

The La Petite Gallerie painters are Rose Cofield, Don Nagel, Murray Sease, Lauren Terrett and Bill Winn; the sculptors are brothers Kevin Palmer and Wally Palmer. We have several excellent consigned artists as well, including Kathy Oda from Lady's Island with her beautiful glass, and sweetgrass baskets and jewelry from Daurus Niles from the Charleston area.

Visit soon to see this special little gallery - you are likely to catch one of the artists on duty sketching or painting on the shady garden deck!

For further information check our SC Commercial Gallery listings or visit www.lapetitegallerie.com.

So you're the Marketing Director of a visual arts organization, art museum, arts center, arts council or artist guild and you're wondering why you never see the exhibits presented at your facility included here. Maybe you're the owner of a commercial art gallery and you've never seen your exhibits included with others presented in your area. You might even be an individual artist who is having an exhibit in a non-profit space or commercial space and you didn't see your exhibits included. My question to you is - How long will you put up with that before you ask someone, "Why that is the case?" If you're not included - it's your fault.

The deadline each month to submit articles, photos and ads is the 24th of the month prior to the next issue. This will be June 24th for the July 2020 issue and July 24 for the August 2020 issue. After that, it's too late unless your exhibit runs into the next month. There are no exceptions, it's always the 24th of the month, even on Thanksgiving or Christmas Eve, if it's the 24th, it's the deadline. But don't wait for the last minute - send your info now. And where do you send that info? E-mail to info@carolinaarts.com.

FLAT OUT UNDER PRESSURE

ARTISTS HAVE 24 HOURS

The eleventh annual Flat Out Under Pressure (FOUP), MAC's unique program involving the visual arts and sound environmental practices in downtown Greenville, will take place on June 19-20, 2020. With eight bins for paper, plastic and glass in various locations along Main Street, FOUP encourages recycling among pedestrians while creating a different exhibiting opportunity for visual artists.

The event begins with a 24-hour art-making juried competition. The selected winners will be given the opportunity to choose two images of their work for reproduction on the bins from 2021-2022. The winning artists also receive cash prizes and the 1st place winner will be awarded a week-long trip to Italy for two to stay in the beautiful Villa Sant' Andrea.

Greenville Center for Creative Arts in Greenville, SC, Offers Modern Quilts

The Greenville Center for Creative Arts in Greenville, SC, is presenting the Modern Design Lab Quilt Invitational Exhibition, featuring work from award-winning local and national modern quilters. The exhibit is planned to open for in-person appointments on June 17 with an online gallery opening on GCCA's website on June 5. It will be on display in the gallery and virtually through July 29th, 2020.

The gallery will be open by appointment only. To view the modern quilt exhibit at GCCA, please call Ben Tarcson, Gallery Manager, at 864/274-0354 or e-mail to (ben@artcentergreenville.org) to schedule your appointment. Appointment times are limited to Wednesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays from 2pm - 5pm, as well as June 26, from 6-9pm and July 24, from 6-9pm. A maximum of only 10 visitors may visit the gallery at one time and groups no larger than 5 can set an appointment at one time.

The Modern Design Lab Quilt Invitational Exhibition is organized by the Modern Design Lab (MDL), who are a group of modern quilters based out of the greater Greenville area. The Modern Design Lab was formed when seven friends met through the Greenville quilting community and later convened to explore design, fabric and quilting techniques. The MDL now meets monthly to share individual projects, seek creative input and critique artworks. Each month the group participates in a design challenge or a creative workshop. They have also created group quilts, where each person creates individual quilt blocks and then the group collaborates to design a single finished quilt. Their latest exhibition was juried into QuiltCon held in Austin, TX, in February 2020.

Work by Cheryl Brickey

Design Lab quilters invited another award winning quilter from outside the upstate to participate in the show. The featured guest artists include Jack Edson (Hamburg, NY), Connie Kincius Griner (Burlington, NC), Nicole Neblett (Chapel Hill, NC), Sylvia Schaefer (Athens, GA), and Michelle Wilkie (Cary, NC).

Each quilter in this exhibition uses the medium of fabric and the process of quilt making to explore how to take traditional techniques and evolve the process into something that encapsulates new ideas on design and aesthetic. Each artist showcases vastly different styles from one another but the use of bold colors, high contrast, graphic areas of solid color, improvisational piecing and design, minimalism, negative space, and alternate grid work are apparent to invoke impressions of modernity.

GCCA is a community visual arts center located in the historic Brandon Mill in Greenville, SC. It provides studio space to fifteen studio artists, an art school and six art exhibitions in the Main Gallery per year. GCCA's Main Gallery will be open on Wednesdays-Fridays from 2-5pm. Admission is free and open to the public. All visitors must enter through the main entrance and apply hand sanitizer upon admittance. GCCA will require visitors to practice social distancing, remaining six feet apart from others, and avoid hugging, hand shaking, and other close physical contact with people who do not live in your household. GCCA is providing additional cleaning measures for commonly touched areas in the facility. Disinfecting wipes will also be provided to visitors.

GCCA's mission is to enrich the cultural fabric of our community through visual arts promotion, education and inspiration. GCCA is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization. For further information check our SC Institutional Gallery listings, call the Center at 864/735-3948 or visit (www.artcentergreenville.org).

The participating Modern Design Lab members and artists include Paige Alexander (Easley, SC), Cheryl Brickey (Greer, SC), Yvonne Fuchs (Tehachapi, CA), Faye Jones (Simpsonville, SC), Valorie Kasten (Williamston, SC), Cindy Lammon (Greenville, SC), and Travis Seward (Greenville, SC). Artists Collective | Spartanburg in SC, to Host 2nd Juried Exhibition

Artists Collective | Spartanburg in Spartanburg, SC, will host its second annual juried exhibition Tuesday, Sept. 15, through Saturday, Oct. 17, 2020, and invites all established visual artists in South Carolina, North Carolina, Georgia, and Tennessee to participate in the competition of winning cash prizes for as much as $2,500 for first place.

All work must be original and created within the past three years. The window of opportunity to enter online is Saturday, July 4, through Saturday, Aug. 1, 2020.

"At this time, we are still planning to have this exhibition," the Collective's Chair Beth Regula said, referring to the COVID-19 pandemic. "We are discussing accommodations that may need to be made for safely accepting and returning artists' works and deciding what the awards ceremony will look like. What we know is that artists still need to make art and continue to need affirmation of the quality of their work, and most can use the prize money. We also know there will be a new normal for a while and are committed to putting safety first as we begin to reopen our doors. We are hoping for an in-person awards ceremony with a big reception; however we will consider alternate ways to honor our winners even if changes to the 'old normal' must be made, perhaps with social distancing. Our first juried show was a huge success. We had nearly 250 artists to apply, and 66 of them were admitted into the show. This year, we hope to attract more artists and once again bring to Spartanburg a quality exhibition by local and regional artists."

Last year, first place was taken by Cindy Shute of Lockhart, SC, for her oil-on-linen painting Peacemaker: Hrair Balian. Second prize of $1,000 was taken by Gordon Dohm of Greenville, SC, for his photograph Fungi Fantasy. Third-place of $500 was won by Tracey M. Timmons of Spartanburg for Manacle of Justice, a bracelet made of vitreous enamel, copper, silver, brass, and photography. Seven merit awards of $100 and $250 were also given. The 2020 prize money will total a minimum of $4,500.

Alice Sebrell and Connie Bostic. Sebrell is the Program Director for the Black Mountain College Museum + Arts Center in Asheville, NC. She is a native of Charlotte and earned her master's degree in photography from the Savannah College of Art and Design and her bachelor's degree in fine art from the University of Delaware. Sebrell has written and spoken about Black Mountain College many times and has curated many exhibitions at the museum. She is also a practicing artist whose photography and mixed media work have been exhibited internationally and are in many public and private collections.

Work by Cindy Shute, 1st Place winner 2019

Bostic began her art career as an adult in 1970 when she moved to Asheville, NC, and enrolled in her first drawing class. Unsure of her abilities, she did not pursue an academic degree until 1989. In 1990 she finished a master's degree at Western Carolina University. Since then, she has had 28 solo exhibitions and work featured in 44 group shows. Active in the Asheville arts community, she has curated many exhibitions in that community. In 1991 she opened a contemporary gallery in downtown Asheville. Since 2000 she has devoted herself to painting, teaching private students, and maintaining her deep involvement in the Black Mountain College Museum + Arts Center.

Most 2-D and 3-D visual arts are acceptable to this show and include painting, pastels, drawing, sculptures, ceramics, glass, photography, fiber arts, original hand pulled prints, jewelry, weaving, basketry, wood, and mixed media. The $35 entry fee allows the artist to enter up to three pieces of art for consideration. Online registration will take place on the agency's website at (ArtistsCollectiveSpartanburg.org/2020-exhibition). Notification of acceptance will be via e-mail on Saturday, Aug. 15. For complete details and a downloadable prospectus, please visit the website.

Artists Collective | Spartanburg provides private and affordable studios to local artists. The once-Baptist church has 32 studios, three public galleries, a ceramic studio, a printery, and two performance stages. The Collective has more than 50 members and the largest collection of for-sale art in the county. Normally, it hosts three temporary exhibits each month. Slated for this fall, this juried show will take place in the 2000-square-foot Solomon Gallery within the venue.

For further information check our SC Institutional Gallery listings or visit (ArtistsCollectiveSpartanburg.org).

Columbia Museum of Art in Columbia, SC, Offers Three Diverse Exhibitions

The Columbia Museum of Art in Columbia, SC, is presenting several exhibitions including: Kitchen Originals: 1950s Dish Towel Designs by John and Earline Brice, on view through Aug. 24, 2020; Design by Time, featuring cutting-edge international designers explore how objects can embody the element of time in this poetic exhibition, on view from June 20 through Sept. 13, 2020; and Black Is Beautiful: The Photography of Kwame Brathwaite, on view from June 27 through Sept. 6, 2020.

The Kitchen Originals collection comes from California-based writer Sarah Horowitz, who saw in a single kitchen towel something worthy of study. She purchased a vintage Martex "Dry-Me-Dry" towel online and was amazed at how well it functioned: Soft and absorbent yet quick-drying and lint-free, it became her go-to kitchen tool. It was, in other words, a good design.

Horowitz decided to investigate this everyday object. She sought out former West Point Manufacturing Company mill workers whose families had produced kitchen towels for generations in Alabama. She scoured historic newspaper advertisements to put names to unidentified designs. She located exhibition records from the Museum of Modern Art (MoMA) in New York City, where in 1953 a Martex "Terazzo" pattern became the first towel of any kind to appear in the iconic Good Design exhibitions between 1950 and 1955. The towels presented here are featured in her resulting book Dry-Me-Dry: The Untold Story of the "Amazing 3 Fibre Towel."

This is also a story of home furnishing designers John and Earline Kimbrell Brice, whose dish towel designs helped "this business to skyrocket" in the 1950s. Earline Brice (1914-1972) was born and raised in Columbia, SC, and joined forces with John Brice (1921-1965) when the two young designers met while on staff at Macy's in New York City. Marrying in 1946, the couple ran an independent design studio where their clients included Dow Chemical Company, Lightolier, and Jones & Laughlin Page 14 - Carolina Arts, June 2020

Steel Corporation.

Cutting-edge international designers explore how objects can embody the element of time in this poetic exhibition, Design by Time, on view from June 20 through Sept. 13, 2020. Garments that grow, trees that sing, and objects that become their own miniature worlds encapsulate nature's growth and decay.

Innovative studios in Austria, Cyprus, France, Germany, Iceland, the Netherlands, Sweden, the United Kingdom, and the United States are breaking boundaries and pushing design ideas into the 21st century. Part conceptual art, part sculpture, part real-world solutions, Design by Time is unlike any exhibition you have seen.

Design by Time was organized by the Department of Exhibitions, Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, New York, and is curated by Ginger Gregg Duggan and Judith Hoos Fox of c2curatorsquared.

NEW RUINS

MFA THESIS EXHIBIT BY JORDAN FOWLER

New Ruins is an experiment in the collision of agencies and aesthetics in physical and digital growth and decay. This body of work emphasizes a post-humanities perspective of a failed future, taking the form of interconnected physical and digital artifacts. This research is explored from a combination of both analytical research-based investigations and science-fiction narrative. The ambition of this experiment is to stumble upon novel interactions across the threshold that separates physical and digital spaces, an in-between space that is of growing importance as the agency of digital systems advance.

And finally, Black Is Beautiful: The Photography of Kwame Brathwaite, will be on view from June 27 through Sept. 6, 2020. In the late 1950s and throughout the 1960s, Kwame Brathwaite used photography to popularize the political slogan "Black Is Beautiful." This exhibition - the first ever dedicated to Brathwaite's remarkable career - tells the story of a key figure of the second Harlem Renaissance.

Inspired by the writings of activist and Black nationalist Marcus Garvey, Brathwaite and his older brother, Elombe Brath, founded the African Jazz Arts Society and Studios (AJASS) and the Grandassa Models, a modeling agency for Black women.

This exhibition returns us to the Naturally fashion shows of the 1960s walked by Grandassa models and produced by the African American artists, designers, musicians, hairdressers, writers, and jazz lovers

Images have power, and this is an important example of a creative collective formed in order to radically shift the dominant narrative at midcentury.

Black Is Beautiful: The Photography of Kwame Brathwaite was organized by Aperture, New York and Kwame S. Brathwaite.

The Columbia Museum of Art celebrates outstanding artistic creativity through its collection, exhibitions, and programs, interacting in ways that engage the mind and enrich the spirit.

We promise to be inspiring. We are a place for you to learn about each other and yourselves through the art of the world. We provide a variety of experiences designed to move you to connect, contemplate, and create.

We promise to be welcoming. We strive to be warm, inviting, inclusive, and accessible. You belong here, and we promise to treat you that way.

We promise to be community-centered. We are rooted in and reflective of our own diverse communities. We see ourselves as champions of a thriving Midlands.

We promise to be playful. We believe that art is an adventure, and we approach everything we do with a sense of open-minded exploration.

We promise to be vibrant. We provide dynamic experiences that engage the mind, enrich the spirit, and fuel artistic energy. Your art museum is bright in spaces, ideas, and possibilities.

City Art Gallery in Columbia, SC, Offers Works by Patton Blackwell

City Art Gallery in Columbia, SC, is presenting paintings by Patton Blackwell, on view for a time to be determined, due to the COVID-19 pandemic and state regulations.

Blackwell's work is deeply rooted in her experience of her surroundings, and her desire to translate this experience to the canvas. She captures the essence of atmosphere and landscape in her use of color, action, and brush stroke. Infused with beauty and passion, Blackwell's paintings embody both the tangible and the intangible. From the lush green rolling fields and dense foliage of Camden, SC, where her home and studio are located, to the streets of Rio de Janeiro during Carnival, to time spent on the Aegean Sea, Blackwell creates mosaics of swirling paint that radiate light and power, reflecting moments and spaces in time that are both active and meditative, universal and timeless. Referencing the works of such artists as Willem de Kooning, and Wassily Kandinsky, Blackwell's paintings recall the physicality and emotion of de Kooning's animated brushwork while evoking the spiritual resonance of Kandinsky's later work.

Work by Patton Blackwell

Fostering a rich exchange of Brazilian and international art and artists, the Sao Paulo Biennial created a lively stage and venue for cultural cross-pollination and commerce. In 1983, Blackwell enrolled in The Escola de Artes Visuais do Parque Lage in Rio de Janeiro. Located in a historic palace restored by the Italian architect, Mario Vodrel, in the 1920's, and surrounded by a natural subtropical setting under Corcovado, both the setting and culture of the school greatly enriched the artistic atmosphere and experience for Blackwell. During this time, she studied with the influential painter Luiz Aquila, as well as Claudio Kuperman, and John Nicholson, and was fully immersed in the cultural epicenter of the Geração Oitenta (80's Generation)—an abstract art movement which strongly impacted her work, and marked a defining time in Brazilian art history. In 1986, she moved her studio from Copacabana to Rua Tavares Bastos, a street in one of the historical areas of Rio. During her 14 years in Brazil, Blackwell traveled widely throughout the country for one-person and group exhibitions of her work.

In 1996, Blackwell returned to Camden, where she lives and works. While her current work continues to be influenced by her surroundings through her explorations of intensity of color and the fluidity of paint, her recent work is also a reflection of her exploration of the inner landscape, from looking deep within. Since returning to the United States, Blackwell's paintings have been exhibited at the Camden Fine Arts Center, the Columbia Museum of Art, and have toured as part of the United States Art in Embassies program in Egypt, Qatar, Romania, Honduras, Guatemala and Myanmar (Burma). Her work is featured in collections in the US, Brazil, France, Italy, England and Japan.

For further information check our SC Commercial Gallery listings, call the gallery at 803/252-3613 or visit (www.cityartonline.com).

Work by Patton Blackwell

Patton Blackwell was born on May 6, 1949 in Columbia and was raised in St Paul, MN, where she graduated from The Summit School (1967) and Macalester College (1974) in Cultural Geography. In 1975, Blackwell left for 3 years to travel, work and study in Europe, Israel, Turkey and North Africa. Part of this time she studied French Language and Literature at the Sorbonne, worked at a vineyard chateau near Bordeaux, lived in a Kibbutz in Israel and traveled more intensively in France, Germany, Italy and Spain.

In 1980, Blackwell moved to The Experiment in International Living (a multicultural college and living environment) in Brattleboro, VT, where she completed her Master's in Intercultural/International Management (1997). The program brought her to Brazil in 1982, at a time when Brazil was coming to prominence in the international art world as an important center for contemporary art.

The deadline each month to submit articles, photos and ads is the 24th of the month prior to the next issue. This will be June 24th for the July 2020 issue and July 24 for the August 2020 issue. Columbia Museum of Art in SC to Reopen Its Doors June 16, 2020

The Columbia Museum of Art in Columbia, SC, will reopen to the public on Tuesday, June 16, 2020, with cleaning and physical distancing practices in place to safeguard staff and visitors.

Protective measures will include limited timed admission tickets, reduced gallery capacities, robust cleaning practices, and the required use of face masks or cloth coverings. The CMA continues to adhere to CDC recommendations and government directives, and its staff looks forward to welcoming visitors safely back to the museum in June and kicking off summer camp season the first week of July.

"We've missed you!" says CMA Executive Director Della Watkins. "And we are so excited to welcome you back inside the museum's spacious and sparkling galleries full of vibrant art. Come on in - the change in scenery will delight and inspire you. We eagerly await seeing your smiling eyes and connecting with you very soon."

The Columbia Museum of Art is a charitable nonprofit organization dedicated to lifelong learning and community enrichment for all. Located in the heart of downtown Columbia, SC, the CMA ranks among the leading art institutions in the country and is distinguished by its innovative exhibitions and creative educational programs. At the heart of the CMA and its programs is its collection, which encompasses 7,000 works and spans 5,000 years of art history. Established in 1950, the CMA now welcomes more than 150,000 visitors annually and is a catalyst for community creativity and education, engaging

Every once in a while I feel like just filling one of these spaces with a kind on nothingness. You know as if nobody reads what's in these spaces anyway. So if one time I said something like the first person to read this and send me an e-mail to (info@carolinaarts.com) during the month of June, they'll get a free 1/4 ad in our July 2020 issue or the month that is most useful for them. But who reads these space fillers anyway? Not many I bet.

people of all ages and backgrounds. It is the recipient of a National Medal from the Institute of Museum and Library Services, a National Art Education Association award for its contributions to arts education, a National Park Foundation Award, and two Elizabeth O'Neill Verner Governor's Awards for the Arts for outstanding contributions to the arts in South Carolina. In order to serve even more audiences, the CMA recently underwent a transformation. Funded by a successful capital campaign, the two-year renovation project garnered new collection galleries with a progressive thematic layout, new studios for artmaking, cutting-edge program and event spaces, an entrance on Main Street, and a revamped CMA shop. Overall, more than 20,000 square feet of functional space were added to the building's existing footprint.

Lancaster County Council of the Arts in Lancaster, SC, Adds to Its 'Paws on Parade' Public Art Exhibit

The Lancaster County Council of the Arts in Lancaster, SC, is happy to announce the installation of three new dogs as part of the 'Paws on Parade' public art project. 'Spirit', painted by artist Sheila Blackmon-Neal, is located in Sculpture Park at the corner of Main Street and Arch Street. 'Tasi' (pronounced tong-see), painted by artist Brittany Taylor-Driggers, is an interior installation at USCL's Native American Studies Center at 119 S. Main Street, and 'Kaleidoscope,' painted by artist Elisabeth Streeter is located at the recreation fields at Walnut Creek in Indian Land.

Elisabeth Streeter with her dog "Kaleidoscope"

The three new pups are mounted on pedestals designed by artist Bob Doster. These three new dogs brings the total of 'Paws On Parade' to 13.

LCCA Executive Director Debbie

"Spirit" by Sheila Blackmon-Neal Jaillette said, "The three new sculptures were installed without the typical unveiling ceremony that is usually attended by public officials, LCCA staff and Board, the press, and the artist's and their families due to the current health concerns, but we wanted to make these beautiful new pieces of art available to the public as soon as we could. We know families may be going a little stir crazy and exploring these wonderful dogs across the county can give them the opportunity to enjoy some fresh air, maintain social distancing and celebrate great local art."

Each sculpture includes a QR code on its plaque that gives you the story of the dog and artist as well as offering visitors the opportunity to share their pics with the LCCA.

You can find more info about the dogs and a printable map on the LCCA's website at (www.lccarts.net).

Blowing Rock Art & History Museum in Blowing Rock, NC, Offers Virtual Exhibitions

Despite being closed to the public for more than six weeks, the Blowing Rock Art & History Museum's (BRAHM) community outreach, engagement, and promotion of the visual arts and history is as strong as ever.

Not only has the museum created a digital engagement platform through their BRAHM at Home offerings, the BRAHM team has crafted a variety of ways to experience their current exhibitions from home.

The Young at Art Student Spectacular exhibition has been converted into a completely digital experience. This annual exhibition features artwork created by K-3rd grade students from Blowing Rock School who visited the museum each month for a hands-on art lesson about an aspect of art or art history.

"This year, Young at Art artists took a journey through art history, with stops in Ancient Polynesia, Egypt, Greece, Rome, and Medieval Europe," says Education Center Director, Jennifer Garonzik. "We also experienced creating impressionist, expressionist, as well as modern art. Along the way, students learned valuable lessons in persevering through problems to finish challenging tasks. Experiments with new media and techniques were a part of the process enjoyed by these students, thanks to the generosity of the Blowing Rock Community Foundation and private donors."

The artwork created during the school year is traditionally showcased in the museum's Alexander Community Gallery. However, with the museum now closed to the public, an online version of the exhibition can be viewed at (<https://www.blowingrockmuseum.org/see/student-spectacular>). Viewers are encouraged to leave comments on the site to show support for the students' talent and artwork.

The museum's newest exhibition, Terra Ludis: Play Ground features an online component in addition to stunning photography captured by local photographer, Daniel Gajda and Olivia Norman. Part oral history, part visual artistry, Terra Ludis captures the adventurous spirit of the High Country by profiling how nineteen individuals venture to find themselves through outdoor recreation. It profiles hiking, kayaking, climbing, fly fishing, mountain biking, and road cycling to see how and why people play games with the Earth. This exhibition is comprised of oral history interviews and photographs of nineteen individuals who participate in outdoor recreation and structure their lives around their passion. Interview subjects include: Jenny Allen, Ryan Beasley, Tom Henry, Andy Hill, Mike Mayfield, Kelly McCoy, Kathy "KB" Medford, Tracy Minton, Julie Mullis, Aaron Parlier, Eva Rand, Amy Renfranz, Eiryn Reynolds, Luckily, Terra Ludis: Play Ground will be on display in the Atwell Gallery at BRAHM until Nov. 28, 2020, so once it is deemed safe to reopen, visitors will be delighted to see this gem in person. Until then, be sure to check it out online at (<https://www.blowingrockmuseum.org/see/play>).

In an unfortunate result of timing, the museum's largest exhibition of the season was installed just in time for the museum's closing. Branching Out: Works in Wood from North Carolina features a diverse selection of work, ranging from wooden furniture to sculpture, as well as a variety of types of wood and techniques used to create these contemporary works. "This exhibition highlights some extraordinary talent from across the state," says BRAHM's Curator, Dianna Cameron.

"Works in the exhibition are diverse, exploring concepts of functionality, texture, color, form, space, humanity, belief, and technology. The featured artists in this exhibition 'branch out' to create work out of wood in unique ways, expanding the possibilities within this familiar medium."

Exhibiting artists come from across the state of North Carolina and include Roger Atkins, Derrick Beasley, Paul & Kim Fuelling, Mark Gardner, Aspen Golann, Craig Kassan, Jim Oleson, Brent Skidmore, Bob Trotman, Anthony Ulinski, Joël Urruty, Zak Weinberg, and Erik Wolken. The exhibition was installed in the museum's galleries in early March, and since BRAHM has been closed, works and artists from the exhibition have been featured online with videos and behind-the-scenes looks through BRAHM at Home.

"Even though the community may not be able to view this exhibition in person right now, we're doing our best to make sure everyone can experience this exhibition through video tours, photographs, artists websites, and more online," says Cameron. "Of course, we hope to be able to open the exhibition to the public later this summer. It's a beautiful exhibition, and we really want visitors to be able to see it in the gallery." Visit it at (<https://www.blowingrockmuseum.org/see/branching-out>) to learn more and view the special videos and features.

The museum does not currently have a confirmed reopening date, but will be following state guidelines for when that time comes. BRAHM staff are making plans to ensure that when it is time to reopen, the museum will be a safe and welcoming place to visit.

Until then, be sure to follow BRAHM at Home on the web and through social media for weekly art lessons with Education Director Ms. Jennifer, behind-the-scenes looks at our exhibitions, program deep dives, and so much more.

BRAHM is able to offer quality content thanks to the generous support of its members and donors.

Asheville Gallery of Art in NC Offers Reopening Show

The Asheville Gallery of Art in Asheville, NC, will present Time to Create, as a reopening show on view from June 1 - 30, 2020.

The gallery is excited to present this

Other artists have found this time has allowed them to explore new avenues in their current work or to expand it.

Sally Lordeon is working on a painting that reflects the emotional core of our prolonged stay-home condition: isolation. "I have been creating a non-representational artwork that shows what extended distancing ourselves from others feels like. It shows the invisible enemy in the center of our seclusion." She hopes sharing and acknowledging these feelings helps lessen fear and anxiety.

Sandra Brugh Moore accepted a challenge to do a painting everyday for the month of April. "I have time to plan and dive deeply into studying my chosen path, which is painting the landscape that is dear to me and exploring and appreciating the inspiration in my own backyard."

"After working on my last series, Art for Adult Children, I have been feeling the need to let my girls grow up," says Susan Webb Tregay. I am using the supplies I have on hand, which are mixed media of watercolor, ink, charcoal, acrylics and even some collage. This new series, Girls Grow Up is now 15 paintings long. Exciting!"

Cathann Burgess shares, "We are being tested in this period of history with the notion of adaptability. Boldness lies now in not giving up the life force to create, which is our nature as artistic souls. Visual artists speak, without words, of that force. The abstract work I will have in the show exemplifies the forces working to explore the dynamics of abrupt change."

River Arts District in Asheville, NC, Plans for a Virtual Second Saturday in June, 2020

With social distancing measures and business closure orders remaining in place for an uncertain amount of time, River Arts District Artists is keeping our June Second Saturday on hold. We are focusing our efforts on virtual events, online promotions, and social media actions, primarily the #ArtistSupportPledgeRAD.

The River Arts District Artists is a membership organization. Each artist, gallery, and business is managing the business closure impacts individually. While our buildings are closed to the public at the moment, most artists are creating work in their homes or studios, and many are updating their personal or RADA webpages frequently with new work.

Begun in Britain by artist Matthew Burrows (full information on his website: <http://www.matthewburrows.org/artist-support-pledge>), the Artist Support Pledge is a way for artists and collectors to easily find and support artists who are struggling to find ways to replace lost income from exhibitions, teaching, and open studio events like ours. Asheville artist Mark Bettis has encouraged and promoted the pledge amongst the River Arts District Artists, and many artists have found support and hope - creative and financial - through participating in this movement.

Works by Akira Satake

How it works:
 *Artists are posting small works for sale under $200 on social media, using the

Work by Catherine Cervas Heaton

hashtags #artistsupportpledge and #artistsupportpledgerAD to connect artists and collectors.

*When the artist makes $1000 in sales, they are pledging to purchase a piece from another participating artist.

*To find these inspiring works of art: Search #ArtistSupportPledgeRAD on Facebook or Instagram and/or visit the River Arts District Artists on Facebook (<https://www.facebook.com/river.arts.district/>), where we are aiming to repost as many of our 240 artist's posts as possible.

As always, we invite everyone to peruse our website, (riverartsdistrict.com), and have a virtual visit, which is a great jumping off point to explore Asheville's art community, whether for educational purposes, entertainment, or if you're looking for a great piece of art for your home or business.

For further information please contact: Rachel Roux, River Arts District Coordinator by e-mail at (info@riverartsdistrict.com); Andrea Kulish, River Arts District Marketing Chair, by e-mail at (marketing@riverartsdistrict.com) or visit (www.riverartsdistrict.com).

anything but in terms of subject matter.

In this time of immobility for the entire world, it felt like the right time to reflect on and be inspired by something else we can all share in together, something humble, something beautiful. Perhaps it will lift us all up, as well.

The heart and soul of Folk Art is to experience the world around us and to be invited in, to share. We have been forbidden to enter a lot of our favorite places, asked to remove ourselves from others; but we can move about in our imagination, and art helps us to do that.

We have asked our painters, potters & sculptors to create beauty and dreamscapes, with The Apple as the common theme, so we can all jump aboard their fertile imaginations.

Tryon Arts and Crafts School in Tryon, NC, Announces Masks 4 Masses Competition

Tryon Arts and Crafts School, in Tryon, NC, has launched "Masks 4 Masses", an ongoing donation drive, competition, and free online learning program for homemade masks. The school is coordinating between mask-makers and the regional community, acting as a receiving and distribution center for masks. All masks are given out by request to area businesses and individuals in need.

TACS has teamed up with local health professionals, leaders, and artists who will judge the mask design and provide weekly prizes. Contributors include St. Luke's Hospital, Agape Upstate Community Hospice House, PPEople Brigade, Tryon Mayor Alan Peoples, Tryon Town Manager Zach Ollis, Hendersonville Downtown Economic Development Coordinator Jamie Carpenter, actress Patti D'Arbanville, PlastiQuarium artist and mask-maker David Edgar, potter Sam Oliver, and many others. TACS welcomes additional business participation through prize offerings or shared services.

For mask-makers who are in it to win it, grand prizes will be awarded later in 2020 in the following categories: Most Masks Made, Best Craft, Innovation, Breadth, and Mask Add-Ons. Grand prize winners will receive gift baskets featuring bear trophies by wood carver Bernard Edwards.

Masks 4 Masses is picking up steam with hundreds of masks and face shields pouring in from the Western Carolinas in a mere three weeks. TACS soon will publish

The Historic Luck's Cannery in Seagrove, NC, to be Transformed into the Luck Comer Lail Center - With Your Help

A little history and commentary from Tom Starland

The historic Luck's Cannery in Seagrove, NC, is where Luck's Beans were canned. It has been used for the Celebration of Seagrove Potters (<https://www.discoverseagrove.com/celebration/>) for last 12 years. The Town of Seagrove, the Pottery Capital of America, is planning on transforming the complex into the Luck Comer Lail Center, a five acre municipal center providing services, entertainment, exhibition space, shops and community space for locals and visitors, plus the yearly Celebration of Seagrove Potters event.

The community center located in central North Carolina will provide space development. A local bronze sculpture company and a local craft brewer are already renovating space for operations.

In 1947, Alfred Spencer, Ivey Luck and H. Clay Presnell started Mountain View Canning Company. The Cannery was located in Seagrove in a scenic rural area. Pinto beans were canned and the company eventually changed the name to Luck's. The company grew in success and employed many people in the area. The aroma of over 600 cans per minute cooking no longer fills the air along Highway 705. It was sold to ConAgra in 2000 and closed in 2002. Luck's specialized in pinto beans and other canned vegetables and food products, employed many Seagrove and surrounding area families, and was a major buyer of vegetable, fruit, and poultry farms in the Randolph County area and from around the region. Luck's canned food products were sold across much of the Southeast during the 1950s and is still a popular brand today.

The Luck's facility was purchased in March 2017 by Jack Lail. The upper building is leased to Sapona Plastics for manufacturing and distribution. Lail invested over $500,000 additional to upgrade that building replacing the roof, HVAC, sprinklers and lighting. The addition of 25 new jobs with Sapona Plastics qualified the project for a $250,000 North Carolina building reuse grant.

Jack Lail explains, "Our objective is to expand production and warehousing in the upper building with a vision to provide the lower building to the local community for the pottery celebration, economic development and other uses. The town of Seagrove found our vision very appealing and offered to accept the building donation with the stipulation that we clean it up, sell off the equipment and line up funding for repairs and maintenance. We are glad to be able to do something positive for the community and economy while revitalizing the vacant building that had been severely vandalized."

Two livestream fundraising events have taken place on the Luck's Cannery Facebook page at (<https://www.facebook.com/luckscannery/>), one sponsored by the Heart of North Carolina Tourism Bureau which told about the plans for the building on May 2, 2020. There were some audio problems but you can get the sense of the creative and exciting adventure going on in Seagrove, NC. But the other live stream event was a concert by Nobody's Fault, a super rock band which played some of Rock & Roll's best hits. Although neither of these events were a fundraising success, they are both worth a look, especially the rock concert which is a preview of what could soon be taking place at the Luck Comer Lail Center - with your help.

I think the problem with these two fundraisers were two fold, one, we're in the middle of a pandemic and two, there wasn't much publicity about the events, which I take some blame for. We've been somewhat distracted by the overall collapse of the visual art community in the Carolinas and trying hard not to catch the COVID-19 virus. Like they say, timing is everything. But, like me and everyone who has ever been to one of the Celebration of Seagrove Potters events at the historic Luck's Cannery has fond memories of that building - how bone-chilling cold it could be, how you have to walk a mile to get to the rest rooms, and on the good side, those purchases you made from the Seagrove potters. So who in their right mind couldn't donate a few dollars to see that building be transformed into an updated community center? I watched both fundraisers and donated to both, not much, but I chipped in. I was excited with the first one over what that building could become and went down memory lane with the concert, as yours truly was once in a rock band - we even played one of the songs Nobody's Fault played - White Room by Cream. They did it much better.

They need your donation to make the vision a reality. Donate now! Send checks made out to Historic Lucks Cannery c/o Town of Seagrove, PO Box 119, Seagrove, NC 27341

Cedar Creek Gallery in Creedmore, NC, Offers Annual Teapot Show

Cedar Creek Gallery in Creedmore, NC, is presenting the National Teapot Show XI, on view through Sept. 7, 2020.

We are shifting plans to bring the Cedar Creek Gallery National Teapot Show XI to viewers in a slightly different way. Our doors are currently closed, and we miss the regular cadence of life in the gallery, but the reality is we do not know when that will return. Because our focus is, and always will be, helping American craftspeople make their living producing craft, we plan to make this teapot show the most successful one ever!

The show is being photographed in its entirety and presented on (shopcedar-creekgallery.com).

While getting a first look at the teapots together in person brings incredible energy, it also brings large crowds of people. All of us can relax a bit more if we are getting the first look and chance to purchase teapots in the comfort of our own homes.

The show will also be set up in the gallery, waiting for the moment we can safely open our doors. This is a long-running event, and we are confident there will be ample time for everyone to see the teapots in person while enjoying a limited amount of people in the gallery at once.

We are excited about the opening of this year's National Teapot Show, and are choosing to look for the silver linings in what's going on around us. One of those that allows several images of each teapot online helping you to glimpse elaborate details that you simply can't detect while viewing the teapots on their pedestals. The creativity and level of craftsmanship exemplified in these teapots is inspirational and feeds our souls, something we appreciate having in our lives now more than ever. We cannot wait to share the National Teapot Show XI with collectors and admirers, online and in-person all summer long!

All the teapots in the National Teapot Show XI are available for purchase now. Teapots that are sold must remain on display in the gallery as part of the exhibit until the show closes on Sept. 7, 2020. After the show closes, teapots will be carefully packed and shipped by Sept. 21, or available for pick-up at the gallery.

Liberty Arts in Durham, NC, offers an interview with member artist, Emily Wismer, a member since 2017.

Who are you and what do you do? Include a little about your background.

"My name is Emily and I'm a letterpress printer. I run a press called Lady Pilot Letterpress and a custom imprint called Ameila Fine Printing. I've spent about 10 years creating a line of snarky greeting cards printed on a Chandler and Price from 1907. I became fascinated with letterpress at 19, when I found some type in an old barn during a road trip. After many years and various careers, I found a shop where I could pursue my passion through an apprenticeship. Eventually, I bought that shop and now I get to combine my sometimes inappropriate sense of humor with a beautiful art form, for fun and occasional profit!"

What's the best piece of advice you've been given?

"I think the best advice I ever received was in the context of creative writing, but applies really well to life. 'Show, don't tell,' was a cardinal rule in Mr. Holt's class. For creating a story, this meant not telling the reader what to think or feel, but creating an environment that made them think and Emily Wismer holding some of her work feel, creating a space they could live in. On a larger scale, I think it's just better to show people who you are by your actions, rather than wasting a lot of time talking about what you think, and to create art that allows people to decide how they relate to it."

What do you love about your work?
"I love the physicality of what I do. It's humbling to be able to work with a press with its own history, to feel like I'm connected to the past. It's very grounding. And I love being part of the small but inspiring letterpress community. There are so many good people out there creating new work with this old medium. I met a lot of women at a Ladies of Letterpress conference years ago and at various conventions who I call on a regular basis, who I've visited across the country. When I first met them, I felt like I'd finally found my people - smart, creative folks who don't mind getting their hands dirty. Most everyone in this community is very open to sharing what they've learned and they're consistently supportive."

What do you hate about it?
"I have a serious love/hate relationship with social media (mostly hate). I love making things, but talking about what I've made is a struggle. I think many artists come up against this dilemma. We love keeping our hands busy, seeing what comes out of our relationships with ink, or clay, or metal, or glass, etc. That interaction is very concrete and real and life-affirming, it's an adventure to create, but translating that inspiration into promotion can feel uncomfortable."

Professionally, what's your goal?
"Honestly, I'd just like to make sure my little business survives. I dream of doing more outreach and creating a writing/book-making program for high school students, but that dream needs Lady Pilot to be stable enough for me to shift my focus to other places."

What superpower would you love to have and why?
"How would you define Aquaman's superpower? I have a deep love for fish and aquariums and have never even gone scuba diving, but I remember swimming as a child and thinking how beautiful it would be to be able to stay underwater for long periods of time. I think seeing the world from this perspective would be fantastic. And talking to animals could be seriously cool."

What places are most inspiring to you?
"Every fall, I go with my partner to a small town in Maine. We spend a lot of time watching the water, sitting on a dock, and recharging. Being there gives me a calm place for inspiration and introspection so I can return to my studio with new ideas and energy."

What is your dream project?
"I have always wanted to work on books. They're huge, often expensive projects, but I'd love to have the time to print short stories and original artwork, even create a small publishing imprint."

How has COVID-19 changed your life/business?
"Whew. Where to start? Covid has essentially shuttered my business. Most of my clients are small stores, who are also closed right now, and any events I would do custom work for have been postponed or cancelled. It's scary and uncertain, especially because like most small businesses, I operate on a thin budget and money has always been invested back into Lady Pilot. I'm heartened by staying in contact with clients big and small, knowing we're all in the same boat and working to support each other in whatever ways we can."

"I continue to work every day, and to send out retail orders I couldn't be more thankful for. Working through a pandemic has shown really bluntly how dependent we are on one another as a community, how important our connections are. And for me, it's shown me how my practice is central to my emotional well-being. I start feeling pretty stir-crazy when I can't get my hands inky and spend time in my studio. I ended up creating some quarantine-specific cards hoping to make people laugh a little in difficult times, and to find a way to keep printing through it all."

"I'm very lucky that as far as my life goes, I have a supportive partner and family, and that I already worked mostly by myself. I'm not lonely, we work in the garden and cook together, and stay connected to friends and family, but the business uncertainty can be a constant source of worry. Like everyone, we're navigating this with as much positivity as we can muster, but we keep wine on hand."

Hillsborough Gallery of Arts in Hillsborough, NC, Offers Works by Chris Graebner, Michael Salemi and Jason Smith

Hillsborough Gallery of Arts in Hillsborough, NC, is presenting Construction, featuring works by painter Chris Graebner, woodturner Michael Salemi and sculptor Jason Smith, on view through June 25, 2020.

Chris Graebner's paintings are of buildings in places she has visited. Says Graebner "My work is often based on my travels. I find I enjoy travelling most in retrospect, and painting is a big part of the reason for that. Going through my photos and choosing ones that evoke a particular time and place helps me to recall that place more deeply. The paintings in this show are of places, foreign and domestic, that my husband and I visited in the last few years. He keeps a daily travel journal, but I'm not that organized. I rely on the date and place stamps on my photos, knowing that as with most technology, they are rather ephemeral. My paintings are my memoirs."

the colors of the wood and epoxy. I hope that those who see Construction will agree that combining wood and epoxy creates attractive opportunities for the turner and the art enthusiast."

Sculptor Jason Smith's medium has always been metal, first as a jeweler and now creating large outdoor pieces. Says Smith, "In my pursuit of artistic expression, sculpture has always been my primary concern. I have worked with metals my whole career and it is best suited for my work because of its strength, malleability and inherent beauty. My sculpture is abstract. The abstract manipulation of form in space to create visual balance, using rhythm, action and movement, combine to create compositions that convey the implied energy found in my work."

Although the gallery is temporarily closed due to the COVID-19 pandemic, Construction will be available on the on the gallery's website through June 25, 2020, at (www.HillsboroughGallery.com).

Founded in 2006, the gallery is owned by 21 local artists and represents these established artists exhibiting contemporary fine art & craft. The Gallery's offerings include paintings, sculpture, ceramics, photography, textiles, jewelry, glass, metals, and wood.

For further information check our NC Commercial Gallery listings, call the gallery at 919/732-5001 or visit (www.HillsboroughGallery.com).

Work by Michael Salemi

Michael Salemi considers it a challenge for a woodturner to make pieces for a show entitled Construction. Usually, woodturners behave like sculptors. They remove the wood that "doesn't belong" in order to reveal a pleasing shape, whether the piece in question is utilitarian or meant only to please the eye. "However," says Salemi, "I have a new turning program that is constructive, in a sense. I am constructing turning blanks by combining interesting blocks of wood with epoxy resin. I then turn those blanks with an eye toward creating not only pleasing shapes but also beautiful margins between the epoxy and the wood. The resulting pieces can be bowls, vases, ikebana or whimsical wall hangings. I typically tint the epoxy before I pour it into the mold which allows me to also create interesting contrasts between

The Metropolitan Arts Council in Greenville, SC, is presenting an ongoing virtual exhibition entitled, ALAN - A MAC EXHIBIT, honoring its Executive Director of 17 years, Alan Ethridge, who is also celebrating his 60th birthday. The exhibit features work from close to 40 Greenville-area artists and MAC members. All pieces can now be viewed online and many of them are for sale. During his time at MAC Ethridge has truly transformed and unified Greenville's arts community, working tirelessly to ensure that the arts are funded at the highest level possible and that the arts are accessible to everyone. MAC's annual assets have increased by 1084.6% from 2006 – 2018 while Ethridge has been executive director and the organization has had an annual budget of over $2 million for the past 3 years thanks to Ethridge's efforts. You can view this virtual exhibit at (<https://www.greenvillearts.com/alan-a-mac-exhibit/>). For further information call the Council at 864/467-3132 or e-mail to (mac@greenvilleARTS.com).

GreenHill, a space for NC art, in Greensboro, NC, is presenting, North Carolina Women Abstract Painters: Eleanor Annand, Felicia Van Bork, Celia Johnson, Katy Mixon & Barbara Ellis, on view through July 11, 2020. The exhibition focuses on five of the state's outstanding women abstract artists. Organized during Women's History Month, associated programs comprise talks by Eleanor Annand, Katy Mixon, Felicia Van Bork. Portfolio reviews and workshops are designed to facilitate professional opportunities for artists. Curated by Edie Carpenter, the show shines a light on five women abstract artists from across the state and is the first exhibition in 30 years to focus uniquely on women artists. This important project brings together approximately eighty major works of art from large scale paintings to small studies. Discussion of certain works in the exhibit can be viewed at (<https://www.greenhillnc.org/curators-picks>). For further information call the gallery at 336/333-7460 or visit (www.greenhillnc.org).

Work by Jule Rattley III

The Steven Tanger Center for the Performing Arts in Greensboro, NC, is presenting Greensboro Portraits, organized by the GreenHill center in Greensboro, on view through Aug. 30, 2020. Gibbes Museum of Art, 135 Meeting Street, Charleston. Now - In April we celebrated the 350th birthday of Charleston! The story of Charleston is still unfolding, and the Gibbes continues to play an important role in our shared narrative. Let us be part of your story - there is no better time to connect with the Gibbes! This week, take a break and watch a short video from our behind-the-scenes collections; enrich your homeschool arts curriculum with an illustrator chat and coloring page; have fun with the family and make your own #MuseumChallenge recreation; get lost in one of our virtual tours; and treat yourself to an artsy purchase from our Gibbes Museum Store! We will continue to post updates on our website and our social media channels (follow us on Facebook, Instagram, & Twitter!) Please stay in touch. We want to hear from you. Gibbes collection tours and artist videos can be found at (https://vimeo.com/user32191389?utm_source=General+COVID+eblast+-+4%2F20%2F20&utm_campaign=Co-ronavirus+General+Eblast+4.20.20&utm_medium=email). Ongoing - Take a tour of the Charleston Renaissance through works at the Gibbes with Sara Arnold at this link (https://vimeo.com/399235244?utm_source=General+COVID+eblast+-+4%2F20%2F20&utm_campaign=Coronavirus+General+Eblast+4.06.20&utm_medium=email). The Charleston Renaissance, roughly defined as the years between World Wars I and II, saw an influx in the arts including literature, music, and fine arts. Sara Arnold, Director of Curatorial Affairs, will highlight a few of these artists and discuss their impact on the development of this cultural movement. Gallery 8, Through Aug. 9 - "Central to Their Lives: Southern Women Artists in the Johnson Collection". Spanning the decades between the late 1890s and early 1960s, "Central to Their Lives" brings together for the first time the paintings and sculptures of forty-two diverse women artists who made significant contributions to the art of the South. This exhibition examines the challenges female artists faced during a period in which women's social, cultural, and political roles were being redefined and reinterpreted. Whether working from dedicated studio spaces, in spare rooms at home, or on the world stage, the artists showcased made remarkable impacts by fostering future generations of artists through instruction, incorporating new aesthetics into the fine arts, and challenging the status quo. Organized by the Johnson Collection in Spartanburg, South Carolina, the exhibition includes works by leading figures in the Charleston Renaissance such as Alice Ravenel Huger Smith and Elizabeth O'Neill Verner, as well as Corrie McCallum, Minnie Evans, Anne Goldthwaite, Clementine Hunter, and Augusta Savage. Gallery 9, Through Jan. 10, 2021 - "A Return to the Grand Tour: Micromosaic Jewels from the Collection of Elizabeth Locke". Micromosaics arrived at their height of pictorial perfection from the late 18th to the mid 19th centuries. These exquisitely crafted plaques, which contain up to 1,400 delicately shaded tiles of glass per square inch, were sold to travelers on their Grand Tour through Italy. Made into jewelry, boxes, and paper weights and sold as easily carried mementoes, micromosaics passed out of fashion toward the end of the 19th century and are now a lost art. This exhibition features 92 brilliant examples from the private collection of Elizabeth Locke. Galleries 2 and 3, Through June 28 - "Charleston Collects: British Sporting Art from the Penkhous Collection". The Charleston Collects series at the Gibbes aims to highlight significant fine art collections formed by Lowcountry residents. This exhibition features exceptional British sporting art paintings from the private collection of Charleston's Dr. Stephen and Mrs. Martha Penkhous. The Penkhous's collecting journey began in 1986 when they purchased a portrait of the famed nineteenth-century English racing horse Costherstone, by John Frederick Herring, Sr. (British, 1795–1865). Their passion for British sporting art and culture blossomed taking them on many unexpected adventures that have led them to build a first-rate collection of animal and sporting paintings. Galleries 1, 4, and 5, Permanent Exhibition - "18th and 19th Century American Paintings and Sculpture". American paintings, from colonial portraits to Civil War-era landscapes, occupy the Gibbes Main Gallery. Portraits of leading political, social, and military figures include works by Jeremiah Theus, Henry Benbridge, Benjamin West, Gilbert Stuart, Thomas Sully and Samuel F.B. Morse. The gallery also features landscape and genre scenes by Angelica Kauffmann, Louis Mignot, Eastman Johnson, Conrad Wise Chapman, and William Aiken Walker. The paintings collection is complemented by examples of neoclassical sculpture on view in the Campbell Rotunda, and decorative art objects on loan from the Rivers Collection. Gallery 5, Permanent Exhibition - "Miniature Portraits". The first American miniature portraits were painted in Charleston, and today the Gibbes is home to one of the most prestigious portrait miniature collections in the United States. Containing more than six hundred objects, the collection spans nearly two hundred years and represents the work of over a hundred artists. Small enough to fit in the palm of the hand, these tiny portraits were treasured remembrances of loved ones in the age before photography. Presented in state-of-the-art display cases, and in viewable storage drawers featured miniatures include works by Mary Roberts, Jeremiah Theus, Henry Benbridge, Charles Wilson Peale, Pierre Henri, Edward Greene Malbone, George Engleheart, and Charles Fraser. Gallery 6, Permanent Exhibition - "20th Century American Regionalism and the Charleston Renaissance". At the turn of the twentieth century, American artists looked to their European counterparts and beyond as they developed identifiably American artistic movements. Two particularly strong influences during this time period were French Impressionism and Japanese woodblock prints. Another prevailing theme during this period was the growing interest in American subject matter. American regionalism and social realism played important roles in the development of art in Charleston, which flourished as a destination for artists, particularly during the years of 1915 to 1945 a period now known as the Charleston Renaissance. Gallery 7, Permanent Exhibition - "Modern and Contemporary". Modern and contemporary art in America encompasses a wide range of styles, subject matter, and media. As a whole, the diversity of modern and contemporary art reflects the rich and varied heritage of our nation and the lowcountry region. Works in this gallery were created over the past forty years by artists who are native to the area, who have worked here, or who have created objects that reflect the complex story of the region. The works are grouped to reflect several themes including the southern landscape, the human figure, abstraction, and the legacy of slavery in America. Museum Shop - Now offering the inventory of the Tradd Street Press, reproductions of works by Elizabeth O'Neill Verner among other exhibit related art objects. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., 1-5pm; closed Mon. Admission: Yes. Contact: 843/722-2706 or at (www.gibbesmuseum.org).

The Charleston Museum, 360 Meeting Street, Charleston. Founded in 1773, is America's first museum. Ongoing - "Becoming Americans: Charleston in the Revolutionary War". Charleston played a critical role in the Revolutionary War. South Carolina was the wealthiest of the thirteen rebellious colonies and Charleston was its key port to maintain its trade with the outside world. The British would make three attempts against the city during the Revolutionary War. Their defeat at the Battle of Sullivan's Island on June 28, 1776 was a crucial patriot victory, which convinced many that independence could be achieved. The Siege of Charleston, meanwhile, was the longest siege of the Revolutionary War and the largest battle in South Carolina. These events and others are chronicled in the new exhibit, which will also feature artifacts and period images that have not been exhibited at the Museum before. Ongoing - Featuring the most extensive collection of South Carolina cultural and scientific collections in the nation, it also owns two National Historic Landmark houses, the Heyward-Washington House (1772) and the Joseph Manigault House (1803), as well as the Dill Sanctuary, a 580-acre wildlife preserve. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9am-5pm & through the Summer months, Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 843/722-2996 or at (www.charlestonmuseum.org).

Columbia Museum of Art, Main & Hampton Streets, Columbia. Now - While its doors remain closed in accordance with anti-coronavirus measures, the Columbia Museum of Art has ramped up its virtual offerings. Museum from Home at (<https://www.columbiamuseum.org/museum-home>) is an initiative that brings the museum to the people, encouraging them to connect with art and each other from the comfort of their homes. Through Aug. 24 - "Kitchen Originals: 1950s Dish Towel Designs by John and Earline Brice" This collection comes from California-based writer Sarah Horowitz, who saw in a single kitchen towel something worthy of study. She purchased a vintage Martex "Dry-Me-Dry" towel online and was amazed at how well it functioned: Soft and absorbent yet quick-drying and lint-free, it became her go-to kitchen tool. It was, in other words, a good design. June 20 - Sept. 13 - "Design by Time." Cutting-edge international designers explore how objects can embody the element of time in this poetic exhibition. Garments that grow, trees that sing, and objects that become their own miniature worlds encapsulate nature's growth and decay. June 27 - Sept. 6 - "Black Is Beautiful: The Photography of Kwame Brathwaite". In the late 1950s and throughout the 1960s, Kwame Brathwaite used photography to popularize the political slogan "Black Is Beautiful." This exhibition—the first ever dedicated to Brathwaite's remarkable career—tells the story of a key figure of the second Harlem Renaissance. Through Jan. 1, 2025 - "The Collection". Come see the newly organized collection. We've gathered ancient and modern works of art, together in one space, that explore our shared archetypes, myths, and ideals. Galleries 5 & 6, Ongoing - "Modern & Contemporary Art from the Collection". Celebrating some of the CMA's greatest hits, this exhibition features over 30 paintings, drawings, photographs and sculptures from the Museum's collection that have not been on view recently. It offers the visitor experiences both serious and sensual and is designed to both entertain and enlighten. Notable works included are by Jasper Johns, Howard Thomas, Sally Mann and Edward Ruscha, whose famous image of the Hollywood Hills (on view) has become a staple of the art world. Ray Taylor Fair Gallery, Ongoing - Featuring a new and permanent installation of its ancient art collection. The installation includes approximately 50 objects that introduce the major ancient civilizations from the Mediterranean and Near East. Examples of the earliest form of writing from 12th century B.C. Mesopotamia, are shown next to Egyptian scarabs and Greek painted vessels. The world of the ancient Romans is represented by 2nd century glass and bronze items and portrait sculpture. Many of these works have not been seen since the Museum moved to its location on Main Street in 1998. The collection has grown over the last several years with the donation of 12 fine Roman sculptures in 2002 from Pennsylvania collector Dr. Robert Y. Turner. Admission: Yes, but there is no admission charge on Sun. Hours: Tue.-Sun., from 10am-5pm. Contact: 803/799-2810 or at (www.columbiamuseum.org).

Greenville County Museum of Art, 420 College Street, Greenville. Ongoing - "The Real Thing". Selected from the GCMA permanent collection, The Real Thing reflects the authenticity of experience that informed the creation of powerful works by African-American artists. The exhibition title is derived from the 1968 song Ain't Nothing Like the Real Thing, written by Nickolas Ashford and Valerie Simpson and originally performed by Marvin Gaye and Tammi Terrell. Ongoing - "Andrew Wyeth: Eight Decades". Andrew Wyeth (1917 - 2009), regarded as one of the most important American artists of the 20th century, launched his career in 1937 with a sold-out exhibition of his watercolors in New York. On the occasion of the young artist's remarkable debut, his father and mentor, noted illustrator N.C. Wyeth wrote him a congratulatory letter prophesying, "You are headed in the direction that should finally reach the pinnacle in American art." Ongoing - "Impressionism and the South 2019". On April 15, 1874, in an act of defiance against the official French government-sanctioned Salon exhibitions, thirty self-proclaimed Independent artists opened an exhibition at photographer Nadar's vacated Paris studio. Shortly after, a satirical review that mocked Claude Monet's Impression, Sunrise gave the movement its name. Impressionism was the first bombshell launched against academic tradition. The movement defined light as color, becoming the first modern language of paint. Ongoing - "Art and Artists of South Carolina: David Drake, Jasper Johns, William H. Johnson, and Grainger McKay". The contributions of South Carolina artists to our culture are as varied and rich as the stories of the artists themselves. The GCMA is proud to dedicate an entire gallery to the accomplishments of four of the nation's greatest artists, each of whom has called South Carolina home. Ongoing - "How? Who? Why??. According to Rod Stewart, every picture tells a story. Whether its subject is a familiar Old Testament morality tale or an apocalyptic warning of impending nuclear doom, the physical process of making a picture (or a print, painting, or sculpture) sometimes assumes an equal role in the story's telling. If nothing else, the manipulation of a medium can be the message. Admission: Free. Hours: Wed.-Sat., 10am-6pm and Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 864/271-7570 or at (www.gcma.org).

Orangeburg

Cecil Williams Civil Rights Museum, 1865 Lake Drive, Orangeburg. Ongoing - Established in 2019, the exquisite ultra-modern facility displays 1000 images of the Civil Rights Movement, but from the perspective of The Epochal South Carolina Events That Changed America. The massive archives comprise the largest collection of images of this type among all museums in the United States; including the Atlanta based High Museum which archives 300 images. The images were created by the founder, Cecil Williams, who began photography at age 9 and covered almost all historically significant events in South Carolina; from 1950 Briggs v. Elliot in Summerton, thru the 1969 Charleston Hospital Workers' Strike...and Beyond. From 1955 through 1969, Williams was a freelance journalist for "JET" magazine. His images have appeared in thousands of magazines, newspapers, historical publications, and motion picture productions. The museum design itself is part of the founders' DNA because; upon graduating from high school, Williams wanted to attend Clemson University to study architecture but denied because of his race. He then purchased a drafting board and through the years, designed three residences; including one featured in "EBONY", and the museum's design which has evolved into a living history facility. Rosalind Sallenger Richardson Center for the Arts, Wofford College, Spartanburg. Richardson Family Art Museum, Through July 31 - "Peter L. Schmunk: Photographs 1910 – 2020". A retrospective of the photographer's creative interests and projects over the past ten years, this exhibition explores the different forms a photograph may take and the ways that photographic images may communicate meaning. Document, vignette, souvenir, ephemeral record, visual poem, abstract sign—the images exhibited here play one or more of those roles. Schmunk's earliest efforts in photography were primarily dedicated to the subject of landscape, especially wild places, which he viewed from both panoramic and close-up perspectives. He continues to create images of that kind, as seen here in photographs of Looking Glass Rock in the Pisgah National Forest of North Carolina, all part of an extended project to document that site in comprehensive detail. Ongoing - Featuring the Cerise and Amber Persian Ceiling sculptures created by renowned American sculptor Dale Chihuly. Spartanburg Art Museum, Chapman Cultural Arts Center, 200 East St. John Street, Spartanburg. Main Gallery, Through July 31 - "all terrain". We think of landscapes as an external reality. Artists often refer to their internal landscapes as sources of inspiration. They are simultaneously external and internal and always fascinating, mysterious, potentially dangerous and intrinsically complex. The terrain explored in this exhibition accounts for our deep desire to be in, and apart from, the landscape. Participating artists include: Abe Abraham, Ellis Crean, Samantha Goss, Katie Kingery-Page, Eric Kunsman, Casey McGuire, Mark Schoon, Jane Szabo, and Erin Wiersma. Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Sun., 1-5pm; and till 9pm on 3rd Thur. of each month. Closed on national holidays. Contact: 864/582-7616 or at (www.spartanburgartmuseum.org).

Work by Patton Blackwell

City Art, 1224 Lincoln Street, Columbia. Through TBD - Featuring an exhibit of paintings by Patton Blackwell. Blackwell's work is deeply rooted in her experience of her surroundings, and her desire to translate this experience to the canvas. Blackwell captures the essence of atmosphere and landscape in her use of color, action, and brush stroke. Infused with beauty and passion, Blackwell's paintings embody both the tangible and the intangible. From the lush green rolling fields and dense foliage of Camden, South Carolina, where her home and studio are located, to the streets of Rio de Janeiro during Carnival, to time spent on the Aegean Sea, Blackwell creates mosaics of swirling paint that radiate light and power, reflecting moments and spaces in time that are both active and meditative, universal and timeless. Referencing the works of such artists as Willem de Kooning, and Wassily Kandinsky, Blackwell's paintings recall the physicality and emotion of de Kooning's animated brushwork while evoking the spiritual resonance of Kandinsky's later work. Ongoing - Featuring works by Jane Aldridge, Jim Arendt, Randolph New Armstrong, Penny Baskin, Jo Dean Basknight, Robbie Bell, Kimberly Betchman, Tarleton Blackwell, Angela Bradburn, Betty Bramlett, Joe Byrne, Carolita Cantrell, Kathy Casey, Anne Cunningham, Bob Doster, Gerard Erley, Claire Farrell, Amy Fichter, Tim Floyd, Michael Fowler, Teri Goddard, Harriet Goode, Vanessa Grubbs, Randy Hanna, Shelley Hehenberger, Mana Hewitt, David Kessler, Jan Kransberger, Robert Lyon, Rena MacQueen, Doug McAbee, Fred McElveen, Esther Melton, Max Miller, Lee A. Asheville Area

Asheville Art Museum, 2 South Pack Square at Pack Place, Asheville. Ongoing - The Asheville Art Museum, the hub for 20th- and 21st-century American art in Western North Carolina, has re-opened to the public. The $24+ million, state-of-the-art facility encompasses 54,000 square feet and adds 70 percent more Collection gallery space. For the first time in the Museum's history, it has the capacity to host major traveling exhibitions from nationally recognized museums. The expansion increases its physical space and dramatically increases its role as a community center, educational resource, economic engine for WNC, and cultural concierge for the region's residents and visitors. Opening exhibitions include: "Appalachia Now! An Interdisciplinary Survey of Contemporary Art in Southern Appalachia," is the inaugural special exhibition of the newly renovated Museum. Curated by Jason Andrew, the juried exhibition features 50 artists of diverse backgrounds from the Southern Appalachian states of North Carolina, Georgia, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia. The exhibit provides a regional snapshot of the art of our time—a collective survey of contemporary Southern Appalachian culture. "Intersections in American Art," is the largest presentation ever drawn from the Museum's Collection of 5,000+ works and 4,000+ architectural drawings. It celebrates the unique qualities of art from Western North Carolina, placed within the context of art from across the United States. The intersections of regional and national art are highlighted throughout the galleries, as are three specific ways of understanding the works here: Time & Place; Experiments in Materials & Form; and Collaboration & Interdisciplinary Dialogue. Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Fri. till 8pm & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 828/253-3227 or at (www.ashevilleart.org).

Turchin Center for the Visual Arts, Appalachian State University, 423 West King Street, Boone. Main Gallery, Through June 6 - "Lián and Liàn" – An installation by Hui Chi Lee. People are by nature social beings. People need other people to survive, and as such they tend to perpetually seek social interactions. However, human relationships are inherently complex and multi-faceted. The ideology of the series, "Lián and Liàn", on view at the Turchin Center for the Visual Arts, begins with a pair of Chinese homophones "Lián and Liàn" that, depending on the context, mean either "to connect" or "to enchain." On one hand, the works portray the tensions and dynamics within human relationships; on the other, they explore how these same forces may constrict or enchain humans when negative forces come into play. While these works are in part a meditation on Taiwanese cultural traditions, they can be applied broadly to human experience itself. Hours: 10am-6pm, Tue., Wed., Thur., & Sat. and Fri., noon -8pm. Contact: Hank T. Foreman at 828/262-3017 or at (www.turchincenter.org).

Burnsville

Burnsville Gallery, Toe River Arts Council, 102 W. Main St., Burnsville. Toe River Arts June Studio Tour Canceled - After considering the input of studio tour participants, our staff, board of directors, and local health officials, for everyone's safety we have made the difficult decision to cancel the June Studio Tour. The current directive to slow the spread of COVID-19 requires our community to shelter in place until the end of April. Even if restrictions are lifted by June, there is no clear way to properly support the tour and its artists through advertising, community outreach events, and promotion. We are currently working as a staff to develop other ways to support our community of artists while our doors are closed, and also once we reopen. We are optimistic that we will get to see you again soon! Our winter tour is still scheduled for December 4-6. Thank you for your understanding and your recognition that sheltering in place is the most important action we can take as a community to keep each other safe. Ongoing - Featuring works by artists from Mitchell and Yancey Counties sponsored by the Toe River Arts Council. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 10am-5pm. Contact: 828/682-7215 or at (www.toeiverarts.org).

Bechtler Museum of Modern Art, Levine Center for the Arts, 420 South Tryon St., Charlotte. Second Floor Gallery, Through July 6 - "Filled with Light: The Desigsn of the Bechtler Museum of Modern Art". In commemoration of its tenth anniversary, Filled with Light shares the lesser-known programmatic and design evolution of the Bechtler Museum of Modern Art. In 2000, Andreas Bechtler and his family began to explore a variety of approaches to fulfill the family wish of sharing their impeccable art collection highlighting the creative zeal of the best of 20th-century Modernism. Visitors see early designs for the museum as it was originally imagined at Mountain Island Lake before the museum became slated to become part of the Levine Center for the Arts in Uptown Charlotte. Never-before-seen architectural sketches, drawings, study photographs and plans illuminate the remarkable evolution of this powerful yet intimate building. The result is an architectural piece of art that is filled with light, engaging community spaces and home to Charlotte's largest private collection of Modern art since 2010. Ongoing - The Bechtler Museum of Modern Art is named after the family of Andreas Bechtler, a Charlotte resident and native of Switzerland who assembled and inherited a collection of more than 1,400 artworks created by major figures of 20th-century modernism and donated it to the public trust. The Bechtler collection comprises artworks by seminal figures such as Alberto Giacometti, Joan Miro, Jean Tinguely, Max Ernst, Andy Warhol, Alexander Calder, Le Corbusier, Sol LeWitt, Edgar Degas, Nicolas de Stael, Barbara Hepworth and Picasso. Only a handful of the artworks in the Bechtler collection have been on public view in the United States. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon., Wed.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Sun. noon-5pm; and open until 9pm the 1st. and 3rd. Fri. of each month. Contact: 704/353-9200 or at (www.bechtler.org).

Bill and Patty Gorelick Galleries, of Central Piedmont Community College, Charlotte. North Classroom Building, Central Campus, Through June 30 - "Street Spirits," featuring works by Marvin Espy. In this series, artist Marvin Espy illuminates the nuances of energy and mood through the use of dramatic color, gestural mark-making, and life experiences to interpret what it means to gather in an urban context. June 4 - July 17 - "Through an Artist's Eyes," is a collaborative exhibition with the Gaston County Museum of Art and History, featuring the artwork of Gaston County High School students and curated by Hannah Musselwhite. Mint Museum Randolph, 2730 Randolph Road, Charlotte. Visit the Mint Museum at Home at (<https://mintmuseum.org/museum-from-home/>). Bridges and Levine Galleries, Ongoing - "Contemporary British Studio Ceramics: The Grainer Collection". Focused on the collection of Diane and Marc Grainer, this installation is a survey of contemporary British studio ceramics. Comprising functional and sculptural objects made between the 1980s and today, the show features work by artists either born or residing in Great Britain, including established "contemporary classics" like Gordon Baldwin and Rupert Spira, and cutting-edge ceramicists such as Julian Stair and Kate Malone. Several recently-gifted works from the Grainers are included. Alexander, Spangler, and Harris Galleries, Ongoing - "Portals to the Past: British Ceramics 1675 - 1825". The Mint Museum's collection of eighteenth-century British pottery and porcelain is widely respected for its scope and quality. The collection numbers over 2,000 objects and includes important examples of both salt-glazed and dry-bodied stoneware from Staffordshire; tin-glazed earthenware from Bristol, Liverpool, and London; and cream-colored earthenware from Derbyshire, Staffordshire, and Yorkshire. Notable eighteenth-century porcelain factories represented include Chelsea, Bow, and Vauxhall in London, Longton Hall in Staffordshire, Worcester, Bristol, and others.

Individual works in the collection are exceptional because of their rarity, craftsmanship, provenance, or as representative examples of particular types or methods of production or decoration. Ongoing - "American Glass". The nineteenth and early twentieth centuries represented a time of extraordinary growth for the American glass industry. Such companies as Boston & Sandwich Glass Company in Sandwich, MA; Steuben Glass Works in Corning, NY; and Libbey Glass Company in Toledo, OH, began operation and soon developed notable reputations for producing fashionable wares that were coveted by many middle- and upper-class consumers. "American Glass" showcases objects by these and other American glass companies, illustrating the variety of forms and styles that prevailed during this period. Glass-manufacturing techniques will be another focus of the exhibition, with representative examples of pressed, cut, blown, and molded glass. Nearly all of the works on view are from The Mint Museum's permanent collection of glass, which is second in size only to the ceramics collection in the museum's Decorative Arts holdings. Ongoing - "Arts of Africa". The African continent is remarkable in its geographic, social, political, and cultural diversity. This impressive diversity is reflected in the visual arts through a variety of media and forms including ceramics, masks, textiles, sculptures, prestige staffs, and shrines. With exceptional loans from private collectors and The Mint Museum's own collection of African Art, the museum is pleased to announce the expansion of its presentation of Arts of Africa, thereby providing visitors a more in-depth, meaningful, and exciting overview of African art. Heritage Gallery, Ongoing - Feature works of art, archival documents, and photographs documenting the growth and evolution of the museum, from its beginnings as the original branch of the US Mint to its founding as an art museum to the present and beyond. Ongoing - "Art for the Millions: WPA Prints" and "Carolina Clay," featuring a display of colorful wares made between 1920 and 1950 as potters from NC adapted their works to a market economy. "Art of the United States," featuring contemporary works from the Mint's permanent collection, including works by Romare Bearden, Maud Gatewood, John Biggers Juan Logan, Tarton Blackwell, Radcliffe Bailey, Kajo Griffin, and others. "Art in the Americas," featuring paintings, precious metalwork, sculpture, furniture and decorative arts from the 17th through the 19th centuries illustrate the unique culture that emerged from the Spanish colonization of the Americas. Crosland Gallery - Featuring a presentation of portraits with many fascinating images presented. Rankin Gallery - Featuring a presentation of the Romare Bearden Collection, including two "new" Beardens. Delhom Gallery, Ongoing - The European Collection of ceramic works. The Nasher Museum of Art, Duke University Central Campus, 2001 Campus Drive, Durham. Through July 12 - "Ebony G. Patterson . . . while the dew is still on the roses . . ." presents the work of artist Ebony G. Patterson, born in Jamaica in 1981. This is the most significant exhibition of the artist's work to date, presented within a new installation environment that evokes a night garden. Patterson is known for drawings, tapestries, videos, sculptures and installations that involve surfaces layered with flowers, glitter, lace and beads. Her work investigates forms of embellishment as they relate to youth culture within disenfranchised communities. Her neo-baroque works address violence, masculinity, "bling," visibility and invisibility within the post-colonial context of her native Kingston and within black youth culture globally. This exhibition focuses on the role that gardens have played in her practice, referenced as spaces of both beauty and burial, environments filled with fleeting aesthetics and mourning. Ongoing - Nasher Museum Café and Museum Shop. Admission: Yes, but free to Durham residents, courtesy of "The Herald-Sun" newspaper. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Thur. till 9pm; & Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 919/684-5135 or at (www.nasher.duke.edu).

The Museum of the Southeast American Indian, Old Main (first floor) at the University of North Carolina Pembroke, 1 University Drive, Pembroke. Ongoing - As part of the Southeast American Indian Studies Program at UNC Pembroke, The Museum of the Southeast American Indian maximizes the capacity of the University to address the complex historical, cultural and contemporary issues facing American Indian communities in North Carolina and the American Southeast. The Museum's cross-disciplinary collaborations greatly enhance the University's programs of research, service, outreach and instruction. The Museum is a multi-faceted museum and resource for scholarly research and community outreach. While the Museum contains exhibits of authentic Indian artifacts, arts and crafts from Indian communities all over the Americas, our primary focus is on tribes from the American Southeast. Many items come from North Carolina Native communities, with special emphasis on Robeson County Indian people. Specific focus is placed on the largest North Carolina tribe, the Lumbee, but our outreach activities have extended into Virginia and South Carolina with plans for further outreach throughout the Southeast. Hours: Mon.-Fri

Gregg Museum of Art & Design, The Historic Chancellor's Residence, NC State University, located at 1903 Hillsborough Street, Raleigh. Thomas E. Cabaniss Gallery in the Historic Residence, Through Sept. 6 - "All is Possible: Mary Ann Scherr's Legacy in Metal". With galleries temporarily closed to the public, the Gregg Museum has created a virtual tour of Mary Ann Scherr's All is Possible at (<https://gregg.arts.ncsu.edu/exhibitions/all-is-possible/virtual-tour>). Descriptions of each display are available by clicking the blue bubbles. Links to online photo galleries are available in the orange bubbles. Once you click on the tour, you'll see an icon on the lower left that links to a highlight reel, and it will guide you through the gallery as it was designed. Enjoy! The exhibition is a tribute to a larger-than-life designer who influenced the metal and design communities for over 6 decades. The exhibition title communicates her zest for life, as well as the many creative possibilities she saw in metal design, leading to a decades-long career in the field. When Scherr (Akron, OH 1921- Raleigh, NC 2016) moved from New York City to Raleigh in 1989, she was already an internationally renowned designer who had chaired the first Crafts Department at Parsons School of Design in Manhattan, innovated metal-etching techniques, and pioneered jewelry and accessories that also functioned as body monitors. And yet, for the next 30 years, she strived to enrich the arts and life of her new community in North Carolina, where she taught for decades at Penland School of Crafts, Duke University, Meredith College and finally, NC State University Crafts Center. Ongoing - Following its grand reopening on Aug. 26, 2017, one of NC State University's most historic buildings is now the permanent home of the Gregg Museum of Art & Design. The Historic Chancellor's Residence, located at 1903 Hillsborough Street, along with a 15,000 sq. ft. addition, increases the museum's visibility while significantly adding to its exhibition and programming space. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm. Contact: Zoe Starling, Curator of Education at 919/513-7244 or at (<https://gregg.arts.ncsu.edu>).

North Carolina Museum of Art, 2110 Blue Ridge Road, Raleigh. Through Sept. 27 - "Bacchus Conservation Project: The Story of a Sculpture". The Statue of Bacchus, which has undergone extensive research since the 1960s when the North Carolina Museum of Art realized it was a patchwork of marble fragments, returns on view in special exhibition. The exhibition explores the history of the sculpture, the scientific investigation, the conservation process, and the making of its new arm. The exhibition also includes a series of related events, including a free Family Day, a scholarly panel, and a wine-tasting event. Through July 26 - "Christopher Holt:

Contemporary Frescoes/Faith and Community". This exhibition features monumental drawings, intimate portraits, and studies by Asheville artist Christopher Holt for the Haywood Street Beattitudes fresco completed in September 2019. The fresco is the result of a two-year community project led by Holt with the Rev. Brian Combs, founder of the Haywood Street congregation in Asheville. Through July 26 - "Art in Translation: Araya Rasdjarmreansook". Recognized as one of the preeminent video artists of Southeast Asia, Rasdjarmreansook explores the connections and complications between Western art history and the cultural traditions of various Asian nations. Through July 5 - "Good as Gold: Fashioning Senegalese Women". The first major exhibition of Senegalese gold jewelry to date that focuses on the history of Senegal's gold, from past to present, and the beauty and complexity of the way Senegalese women use ornament and fashion to present themselves. A key theme of the exhibition is the Senegalese concept of saïse (a Wolof word for dressing up or looking and feeling good). Good as Gold explores how a woman in a city like Dakar might use a piece of gold jewelry to build a carefully tailored, elegant fashion ensemble. Good as Gold: Fashioning Senegalese Women is organized by Kevin D. Duchonelle of the National Museum of African Art, Smithsonian Institution. It is curated by Amanda Maples of the North Carolina Museum of Art. Through July 5 - "Leonardo Drew". This two-part project by contemporary artist Leonardo Drew features a monumental outdoor sculpture, City in the Grass, along with a gallery exhibition that provides a more in-depth look at his diverse body of work. Using a variety of materials—wood, cotton, canvas, paper, steel, aluminum, sand—Drew makes dynamic sculptures that explode and expand into their spaces. These gravity-defying sculptures convey a feeling of barely contained or restrained energy and chaos. Leonardo Drew: Making Chaos Legible is made possible, in part, by the generous support of the Hartfield Foundation and Libby and Lee Buck. East Building, Level B, Joyce W. Pope Gallery, Through July 26 - "Front Burner: Highlights in Contemporary North Carolina Painting". Organized by guest curator Ashlynn Browning in collaboration with the North Carolina Museum of Art. Throughout modern art history, painting has been declared dead and later resuscitated so many times that the issue now tends to fall on deaf ears. Despite any debate over painting's viability, artists continue to persevere in keeping the medium fresh and new. Currently painting is enjoying a revival in the art world, and innovative North Carolina artists are helping to maintain its vibrant place on the front burner. Participating artists include: Brett Baker, Raleigh, Cynthia Bickley-Green, Greenville. Maria Britton, Carboro, Mark Brown, Chapel Hill, Ashlynn Browning, Raleigh, Luke Miller Buchanan, Raleigh, Martha Clippinger, Durham, Hannah Cole, Asheville, Celia Johnson, Chapel Hill, Benjamin Knight, Deep Run, Ashley Lathe, Charlotte, Georges Le Chevallier, Garner, Juan Logan, Belmont, Gerry Lynch, Apex, Donald Martiny, Chapel Hill, Mario Marzan, Chapel Hill, George McKim, Raleigh, Bonnie Melton, Durham, Katy Mixon, Chapel Hill, Carmen Neely, Charlotte, Shaun Richards, Raleigh, Barbara Campbell Thomas, Climax, William Paul Thomas, Durham, Lien Truong, Chapel Hill, and Antoine Williams, Greensboro. NCMA Park - The North Carolina Museum of Art (NCMA) announces new works of art to be installed in the 164-acre NCMA Park. The works include a bronze tree by Italian artist Giuseppe Penone, a playful pair of benches designed by Hank Willis Thomas, and a 10-day installation of 23-foot-tall illuminated rabbits by Australian artist Amanda Parer. The sculptures will be featured at the NCMA's Park Celebration on Nov. 6, when the public is invited to experience the newly expanded Park with a variety of outdoor activities. Ongoing - Featuring 10 additional sculptures by the celebrated French artist Rodin on loan from Iris Cantor's private collection. Ongoing - "John James Audubon's The Birds of America". The state has owned this treasured volume since 1848, but it has never been exhibited. Ongoing - The North Carolina Museum of Art has an outstanding permanent collection of more than 5,000 objects spanning antiquity to the present day. On the occasion of the expansion, the Museum has acquired more than 100 new works of art. Representing commissions, gifts, and purchases, the new works encompass important and diverse examples of historic and contemporary art from around the world, and will be installed in the Museum's new building and the surrounding landscape. Highlights include a gift of 28 sculptures by Auguste Rodin, and work by such internationally acclaimed artists as Roxy Paine, Ursula von Rydingsvard, El Anatsui, Jaume Plensa, Jackie Ferrara, Ellsworth Kelly, and David Park, among others. North Carolina Museum of History, 5 East Edenton Street, (between Salisbury and Wilmington Streets), Raleigh. Through Jan. 3, 2021 - "You Have to Start a Thing." The year 2020 marks the 100th anniversary of the 19th Amendment to the United States Constitution and a century of voting rights for women. The exhibition explores how Tar Heel women and men fought for—and against—woman suffrage in the decades leading up to 1920. It also chronicles the ongoing struggle to ensure voting rights for North Carolinians of color and the (slow) entry of women into positions of political power in our state. Ongoing - Featuring exhibits dealing with North Carolina's history as a theme. Sweet Tea & Cornbread Grill and Eatery, located on the R Level, open Mon.-Sat., from 11am to 3pm. Download the full menu at (https://files.nc.gov/dncr-moh/Sweet%20Tea%20and%20Cornbread_MENU%202019.pdf). North Carolina Pottery Center, 233 East Avenue, Seagrove. Through June 20 - "NC Wood-Fired: Then & Now". Wood-firing is arguably the most revered and evocative of all pottery traditions. This show pays homage to North Carolina's rich centuries-old tradition of wood-fired pottery. The exhibition showcases some great historic pieces from different regions and traditions within the state and places them in proximity to wonderful examples of more recent and contemporary pieces being made today. This juxtaposition allows the viewer to visually explore sometimes their similarities, sometimes their differences, and sometimes the similarities in their differences. This is a broad survey of NC wood-fired pottery.

Some contemporary pieces will be available for purchase. Purchased pieces must remain in the show until it ends. Ongoing - Featuring permanent and changing exhibits on the history of North Carolina pottery, "The North Carolina Pottery Tradition" and "Seagrove Area Pottery". The Center also offers information on activities, maps and information about the potteries located in the Seagrove area and across the state. A display of representative works from more than 90 area potteries is also offered. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-4pm. Contact 336/873-8430 or at (www.ncpotterycenter.org).

community to shelter in place until the end of April. Even if restrictions are lifted by June, there is no clear way to properly support the tour and its artists through advertising, community outreach events, and promotion. We are currently working as a staff to develop other ways to support our community of artists while our doors are closed, and also once we reopen. We are optimistic that we will get to see you again soon! Our winter tour is still scheduled for December 4-6. Thank you for your understanding and your recognition that sheltering in place is the most important action we can take as a community to keep each other safe. Thank you for your continued support. Wilmington

Louise Wells Cameron Art Museum, @ intersection of Independence Blvd. & South 17th Street, Wilmington. Now - "The Eye Learns: Modernist Prints from the Louis Belden Collection," is now online. San Francisco art collector Louis Belden gave his art collection, the gift of his lifetime, to the CAM community. Share in his passions for art, for collecting, for learning, and for giving back in part one of this exhibition to go online. These works offer a range of expression, experimentation, and expansion of the terrain of postwar modernism and post-modernism. You can visit the exhibition here at (https://cameronomuseum.org/index.php?c=the_eye_learns). As Louis fervently believed and practiced, "Art is not stagnant. It grows and grows. To learn, you work at it with your eyes and your mind. And your heart." Join Executive Director Anne Brennan in our next episode of #ConnectwithCAM as she discusses Mel Chin's beautiful work "The Structure of Things Given and Held" on CAM's grounds. Enjoy it here at (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=spq5hCK1ES7o&feature=youtu.be>). Panceo Art Education Center, Exhibition Cases, Ongoing - View some of the Seagrove and contemporary pottery from the museum's permanent collection in the cases. Work by Marybeth Bradbury

Wilmington Art Association, Wilmington. Through July 31 - "2020 WAA Spring Show and Sale". This was the show that would have taken place during Wilmington's annual Azalea Festival, the 38th annual juried show for the WAA. We were all so disappointed when our annual show and sale had to be canceled because of the covid-19 pandemic. Our show committee had worked so hard and we were only a week away from opening. Rather than keep everyone in suspense until events became more settled, we heeded the suggestions that we publish the show. So visit the show on a portion of our new website and share with all your friends. In a effort to support members of our community who need help with basic needs, the WAA is donating 10% of the Spring Show sales to Mother Hubbard's Cupboard in Wilmington. You can view the show at this link (<http://wilmingtongallery.org/welcme-2>). Just pick categories from the menu at the top of the page.
