

Art League of Hilton Head, SC, Features Works by Amos Hummell

The Art League of Hilton Head, on Hilton Head Island, SC, is presenting Wall Flowers, featuring works by Amos Hummell, on view in the Art League Gallery, through July 25, 2020.

Hummell is a longtime resident and iconic artist of Hilton Head Island. The show is named in part for the canvases Hummell uses - recycled cabinet doors and picture frames usually found on walls. "My instinct is to liven up these items," Hummell said. "I want to energize them with new life, to bring them out of the shadows of neglect."

Hummell has been creating art most of his life, and professionally since the early 1990s. A self-taught artist, his work is best described as "non-conventional." He is known primarily for his brightly colored palette that reflects the vibrant culture of the Lowcountry. While sheltering at home during the coronavirus pandemic, he shared his work daily on an easel in his front yard, and on social media, to lift his neighbors' spirits. Some of those new works are included in this exhibit.

Art League of Hilton Head, SC, Offers Exhibit of Master Fakes

The Art League of Hilton Head, on Hilton Head Island, SC, will present Fabulous Fakes: Master Artworks, with a twist, on view at the Art League Gallery, from July 28 - 31, 2020. Impress your friends with an original Renoir (or the next best thing). The silent auction will end at 4pm on July 31, and the winners will be announced via Facebook Live. The exhibit is free and open to the public.

For only four days, Art League of Hilton Head will host a much-loved and anticipated alternate artistic reality - one in which Monet's Lady on a Hill wears sunglasses, a Van Gogh countryside features a very modern putting green, and Whistler's Mother sits in dour silence, enjoying a cocktail.

Fabulous Fakes is a four-day exhibit that has some fun with the old masters. These artworks are parodies that replicate the works of the masters almost stroke for stroke, but with one—often humorous or whimsical twist.

"This exhibit is a chance to have some fun," says Kristen McIntosh, Gallery manager. "Artists don't always have to take their work so seriously, although it is a challenge to duplicate the works of the masters. The skill required to create some of these replicas is astonishing."

All artworks are for sale via a silent auction. Bids can be placed in person at the gallery or online through our website at (www.artleaguehhi.org).
