City of North Charleston, SC, Features Works by HEART Inclusive Arts Community

The City of North Charleston's Cultural Arts Department is pleased to announce that a group exhibition of mixed media works by HEART Inclusive Arts Community will be on display at Park Circle Gallery, in North Charleston, SC, through Aug. 31, 2024. The artists will host a free public reception at the gallery on Aug. 2, from 5-7pm. Admission is free.

In their group exhibition, To the Great Unknown, members of HEART Inclusive Arts Community present a collection of tactile and interactive mixed media works that explore the things we might not know; the question marks in life. Wonder. Mystery. Excitement. Fear. The unknown is infinite and so are our feelings towards it. There is much to be learned from what we do not know. Respect, empathy, humility. The featured works demonstrate how Unknowns vary from person to person and how we experience them. Each piece urges the viewer to take a moment to let go and "cheers" to the Great Unknown.

HEART is a 501(c)3 non-profit that provides visual arts, music, and performing arts mentorships and community engagement for adults with disabilities who want to grow and develop as artists. They have created a studio where artists of all abilities work together to create something that enriches and transforms the community. Inclusion in any field takes great efforts and HEART is proud to be leading the way for inclusion in the Charleston arts community. Since 2014, they have shaped opportunities for adults with disabilities to create compelling art, lasting relationships, and foster community support.

Works from HEART Inclusive Arts Community

HEART currently supports over 20 artists who have shown their work throughout the Lowcountry, including Public Works Art Center in Summerville, The Charleston Pour House on Johns Island, and Hed Hi Media and the Charleston Music Hall in downtown Charleston. Learn more about the organization and its artists at (www.hearts.org).

The Park Circle Gallery is located on Jenkins Avenue in North Charleston. Admission is free and free street parking is available on Jenkins Avenue in front of the gallery, as well as on the adjacent streets and in parking lots close by.

Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Christine Blyth

The Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, will present Line Dance, featuring works by Christine Blyth, on view in the Guild Gallery, from Aug. 1 - 31, 2024. A reception will be held on Aug. 2, from 5-8pm.

Blyth's exhibition showcases her new series of mixed media works, exploring energetic lines and marks juxtaposed against subtle neutral tones and amorphous shapes, capturing both potency and peace in balance.

Blyth, a native of Charleston, SC, has pursued creative endeavors since childhood, including sewing, fashion designing, and quilting. After establishing her career and raising a family in Orlando, FL, Blyth reignited her passion for art. She attended Seminole State College in Central Florida, where she discovered her talent for drawing and painting.

Blyth's vibrant abstracts, created with acrylic paint, charcoal, pencil, and crayon, reflect her quest for balance and peace. Her artistry continues to captivate audi-

McClellanville Arts Council in McClellanville, SC, Features Works by Students of Emmy Bronson

The McClellanville Arts Council in McClellanville, SC, is presenting Students of Emmy Bronson: She's Still Teaching - 51 Years!, on view through Aug. 24, 2024.

Elizabeth (Emmy) Bronson has found that her life in McClellanville has nurtured her life long work as an artist and teacher. She has been an award winning artist and accomplished teacher for decades - five!

She co-founded the Ernest Albert Land School of Art in Falls Church, VA. Life took an amazing turn when she married Gary Bronson. They married and went on an adventure that enriched her life in every way, especially as an artist. She bought a sailboat in Camden, ME, and she attended Womenship in Annapolis, MD, to learn to sail.

They sailed along the New England coast and she had a first hand opportunity to paint the coast. She became a member of the American Society of Marine Artists at the Mystic Maritime Gallery in Mystic, CT. She was designated as one of the Distinguished Women in Maritime Art. They sailed down to Charleston to continue the journey and she added portraits to her repertoire of genre. She has painted a long list of notables in Charleston. Many for the Hibernia Society in Charleston and closer to home, Honorable Mayor Rutledge Leland, Museum Director Emeritus, Bud (Selden) Hill and Reverend J.O. McClellan.

Teaching is her unending love. Bronson climbed the career ladder as an artist, and now she wants to help others climb the ladder.

Editorial COMMENTARY

by Tom Starland, Editor and Publisher

On Our Cover This Month

On our cover is a work by Tim French, which is part of the exhibition, Face To Fayetteville Works in Progress, featuring portraits by Tim French, on view at the Arts Council of Fayetteville/Cumberland County's The Arts Center's Main Gallery, in Fayetteville, NC, from Aug. 2 - 31, 2024. A reception will be held on Aug. 2, beginning at 6pm. This exhibit explores what one can learn about the image-making process when examining works before they're finished. The public gets to be a part of the process and witness "Pentimenti" - details that the artist changes before finishing the work.

Scrolling, Scrolling, Still Scrolling

I get these e-mails, mostly from arts councils, where they pack everything into it, including the kitchen sink, but they are always short on information. They buy these programs on a monthly basis, so they figure they should use them, over and over again, to get their money's worth. Some use Constant Contact, some Mail Chimp, and Moosend, Brevo (which says it's free, but nothing is free) and then there's one called Mailgun, which makes me think of a sawed-off shotgun or scatter-gun way of sending out mail.

I know the second I've gotten one when I go to scroll down the e-mail and it jumps back up to the beginning, as it hasn't downloaded the whole e-mail yet. We play this game of me trying to see more and it just keeps jumping back - again and again. And, then when it's all loaded, you might as well start your lunch break at your desk, as it's going to go on and on.

Arts Councils can be involved in a lot of different areas of the arts, classes come first, then all the performing arts items, then fundraising and a call for volunteers, then it's photos of their last event (which you missed, but you're going to see enough photos, as if you had been there), then it's a note from the director, and eventually as you get towards the bottom comes some info about the visual arts, first it's about the exhibit which ended yesterday, then an unnamed photo of artwork (which could be from that exhibit, an upcoming exhibit, or one some artist has applied for), and finally it's info about the reception for the next exhibit.

Nine times out of ten, there will be no beginning or ending date for this exhibit, a few words about who will be in the exhibit, and a photo of someone's art with words plastered over it.

But, you're not done yet as they'll take a few more stabs at the classes being offered and maybe a graphic showing where they are in their latest fundraising goal.

So what have I learned during my time of scrolling? I know there is going to be another reception for an art exhibit, which I won't be going to. And, after a search of the arts council's website - I've only confirmed the reception date and time. There's no more info there than in the e-mail.

So, because this is my job, or at least a part which takes up a lot of my time, I reply to the e-mail asking for the beginning and ending dates of the exhibit and if there is a press release which goes with this exhibit and do they have any high res images of artworks which will be in that exhibit? Usually, I never hear anything back as these mass e-mail seem to travel on a one-way highway. They go out, but no replies are ever answered.

Well, that's not true, some are answered telling me how rude I am. Don't you know it's rude to ask for complete information? My e-mail replies seem to carry an attitude with them. Some even end up in a break-up, where I'm told to never contact them again, ing, "I teach traditional representable painting. I feel that is the foundational knowledge for all styles of painting. I ask students to master the basics of concept, drawing, composition, values, color harmony and mixing and technique. After mastering these concepts, the artist is skilled and is equipped to follow their own creative direction and style. I liken this to the piano student who is taught all the elements of music - practices, practices, and then becomes the composer! What a joy to express our own way!"

"This exhibit is the opportunity to showcase my student's work. Some of my students are professional and exhibit in Spoleto, The Southeastern Wildlife Festival, Charleston, Mt. Pleasant, and throughout the southeast," adds Bronson. "Some newer students are exhibiting for the first time. I am proud of them all. They love painting and work seriously, and aspire to always grow and enjoy the satisfaction that it brings."

yet their e-mail never stops coming. But, when I'm asked to break off a relationship, I stick to it, and you won't see any mention of that arts council again - until the next round of staff members come on board, and there is always a new round of staff members who discover they are not included in Carolina Arts. Sometimes we make up, sometimes not. No worries, I just move on to those who do send the info we need and send it on time.

From my perspective I'm not rude, I'm frustrated. Who trained these people to communicate? And, I'm also reminded I'm not paid enough to do this job.

One thing is for sure, those people, the people who think I'm rude for asking questions they seem to have no answers for - they're not reading this commentary. Most likely they have never read or scrolled through a copy of "Carolina Arts". And, none of this will matter as they bounce from one non-profit job to another - eventually rising to the top of some organization.

And, if everyone who is out there in the Carolinas, who is providing visual art exhibits, provided us with the information we need and want - I probably couldn't handle it all anyway and they are not going to add anyone to our staff. They don't call it Shoestring Publishing for nothing. So why am I so frustrated?

Well, my answer is short - it's for the artists. They work hard and exhibits don't grow on trees. I want them to have their day in the spotlight. I need to talk to those in charge about my salary.

One Last Thing

Just because our deadline is the 24th of the month "prior" to our next issue or when your exhibit starts - it doesn't mean that's the only day you can send your info to us. Getting in early can get you the first spot in the section you will be placed in. Getting in early means we can consider the high res images you send us as maybe a cover image. Coming in at the last minute means you are arriving during the last minute chaos which takes place every month.

So you're the Marketing Director of a visual arts organization, art museum, arts center, arts council or artist guild and you're wondering why you never see the exhibits presented at your facility included here. Maybe you're the owner of a commercial art gallery and you've never seen your exhibits included with others presented in your area. You might even be an individual artist who is having an exhibit in a non-profit space or commercial space and you don't see your exhibits included. My question to you is - How long will you put up with that before you ask someone, "Why that is the case?" If you're not included - it's your fault.

DAVID SOLICITOR OSBORNE

A LOWCOUNTRY NATIVE RUNNING FOR 9TH CIRCUIT SOLICITOR

David Osborne is running to protect our families by putting violent criminals in prison and seeking justice for their victims in Charleston and Berkeley Counties. As our new solicitor, David will make the safety of our families his top priority

He is a skilled professional prosecutor who has successfully tried and convicted numerous violent criminals for the last decade.

Just since 2021, David has successfully tried 23 murder warrants to guilty verdicts as a prosecutor in a neighboring circuit. At the same time, the entire 9th Circuit tried only four murder warrants to guilty verdicts, despite being the largest circuit in the state.

David started his career in New Orleans where he patrolled some of the most dangerous streets in America.

In 2002, he moved back home to join the Charleston Police Department, quickly moving up the ranks and advancing to the Violent Crimes Unit where he solved numerous high profile murder cases in the city.

In the evenings, David attended the Charleston School of Law where he would earn his law degree. David has dedicated his professional life to demanding justice for crime victims, making our streets safer while also ensuring equality and fairness in the justice system.

ARTISTS 4 DEMOCRACY

Artists 4 Democracy was founded in 2017 in the spirit of radical practicality to bring together artists, art educators, and students to protect democracy by mobilizing the art community for political action and civic engagement.

Through art-making workshops, campus activities, voter registration drives, artist talks, art sales, fundraisers, canvassing, and political events, we foster and protect our participatory democracy.

In 2018, we began our partnership with student bodies and witnessed firsthand how even small engagements can bring big results. In part thanks to our voter registration and GOTV efforts, the student voter turnout at CalArts (California Institute for the Arts) increased by 43.8% from the previous midterm election, helping to flip two red Congressional districts blue.

In 2020, we took our efforts nationwide. We forged partnerships with art schools throughout the country with the goal of inspiring students to vote through a series of hugely popular online artist talks with internationally renowned artists including Laura Owens, Christina Quarles, Lauren Halsey, Amir Fallah, and Ruben Ochoa. We used our online platform to encourage civic engagement and provided students with practical information about how, why, and where to vote.

Artists 4 Democracy has also built expansive and ongoing partnerships with grassroots organizations across the country, including ADVICE, Walk the Walk, Phone Banking with Artists, Swing Left, and Vote Nevada.

As we approach the elections of 2024, we do so with a renewed sense of urgency. The push for anti-democratic legislation at the local and state level, paired with the rollback of personal freedoms and privacy laws surrounding abortion, make it even more imperative that we mobilize people, especially young folks and first-time voters. This year, we are partnering with colleges, universities, and community organizations in California, Nevada, and other key states to get out the vote. Through hands-on art workshops, we combine voter education with creative, engaging activities—everything from zine-making to tote bag stenciling.

As a multilateral network, the art community is uniquely poised to instigate change. Artists have the potential to reach a broad section of people across the country, and share skills suited to providing a creative approach to the pressing issues of climate change, income and gender inequality, healthcare, criminal justice, and voting rights. Artists 4 Democracy believes that by fostering this sense of empowerment in young artists, they will use their creativity to become active forces for positive political and social change.

Each creation, born from a reverence for nature and a spontaneous artistic process, exemplifies his lifelong dedication to wood carving and turning.

"I see myself as a conduit in the creative process, where the wood's inherent beauty guides the final form," Di Mona remarked. "It's a journey of discovery with each

SUBTLE DELUGE

RECENT WORK BY JAY OWENS

July 25 - August 30, 2024

“Much of the work in this exhibition comes from drawing while driving. It’s a time to think, wonder and turn off. Images wash by, constantly changing: strip malls, barbecue stands, cars, trucks, backyards. I amalgamate what I see into drawings by combining, layering, adding and subtracting. New objects begin to build, drip, float, stack, fall, and recline into an expressive constellation of forms and color. Familiar places take on a surreal life. The work represents how I use the responsiveness of clay and the immediacy of painting and drawing. What results are imaginative sculpture, pottery, paintings and drawings that depict fabricated reality in the medium of the everyday.” - Jay Owens

Greenville County Museum of Art in Greenville, SC, Features Works by Ashley Norwood Cooper

The Greenville County Museum of Art (GCMA) in Greenville, SC, is presenting an exhibit of works by Ashley Norwood Cooper, on view through Sept. 8, 2024.

Born and raised in Greenville, SC, Ashley Norwood Cooper (born 1970) received her BA from the University of Georgia, where she majored in Latin. She taught Latin for a time before moving to Bloomington, Indiana, where she earned her MFA in Painting from Indiana University in 2000.

Cooper's work depicts intimate, middle-class life in vibrant colors applied with bold, expressive brushstrokes. Optimistic and hopeful, her scenes of seeming domestic tranquility also hint at the unpredictability and fragility of family life and community. Informed by Abstract Expressionism, her large-scale figurative paintings have been the subjects of numerous solo and group exhibitions in the United States.

Considered the premier American art museum in the South, the GCMA is home to the world's largest public collection of watercolors by iconic American artist Andrew Wyeth. The GCMA also has an impressive collection of paintings and prints by contemporary artist Jasper Johns.

Spoonbill Gallery in Greenville, SC, Features Works by Bess Whittington

Spoonbill Gallery in Greenville, SC, will present Wondrous Wild, featuring works by Bess Whittington, on view from Aug. 2 - 31, 2024. A reception will be held on Aug. 2, from 6-9pm.

Discover the hidden, often overlooked beauty and richness of nature, in this intricate collection of pieces.

Inspired by the Italian term, sottobosco, which translates to "undergrowth" or

"underbrush" in English, Greenville native, Bess Whittington will release Wondrous Wild in August. As reflected in the surfaces of her mixed media pieces, sottobosco refers to the dense, diverse layers of vegetation found on the forest floor, beneath its canopy. This layer is characterized by a rich tapestry of small plants, shrubs, herbs, fungi, mosses, and decaying organic matter. This exhibition encourages viewers to appreciate the small wonders and intricate details that make up the natural environment and this enchanted exhibition.

This exhibition, influenced by the spirit of 18th and 19th-century naturalists, invites viewers to embark on a journey of discovery and appreciation for the hidden wonders of nature. Wondrous Wild showcases a captivating collection of works that blend detailed observation and curiosity with Whittington's reflections on the enchanting beauty of the natural world. Each piece in this body of work is a tribute to nature's intricate and often overlooked elements, encouraging viewers to pause, observe, and treasure their encounters with nature.

Work by Bess Whittington

Whittington's work contains a variety of processes including collagraph printmaking, woodworking, and sculpting. "The inspiration for this collection comes from the countless hours spent exploring my father's garden, where every leaf, flower, and creature seemed to tell a story," Whittington shares. "I wanted to create a space where viewers could experience that same sense of wonder and curiosity, inviting them to find and treasure encounters of their own."

Visitors will find themselves immersed in a world where the delicate interplay of light and shadow brings flora and fauna to vivid life, capturing the essence of the sottobosco.

Bess Whittington's work is an exploration of the natural world. Her pieces encompass scraps of wood, paper, bone, and fabric along with both found and crafted specimens. Each art piece contains a variety of processes including collagraph printmaking, building, and sculpting. There is a certain practicality and reflection to her work.

Whittington works with things that have died but left a beautiful reminder of their existence (e.g., skulls, vertebrae, fossils, and insects). She is inspired by the sense of discovery of 18th and 19th century natural history collections, and the reliquaries housed in the great cathedrals. As they do, her art invites a closer study and preservation of the earth around us.

Spoonbill Gallery is vibrant and experiential providing a unique and immersive art experience for the Greenville, SC, community and beyond. Founded by nationally award-winning artist, Joseph Bradley, and located adjacent to his studio, the gallery's collection features a variety of national artists complemented by a showcase of rising talents. Spoonbill Gallery is dedicated to fostering a deeper appreciation for art and culture, serving as a hub for artistic expression and creativity in the southeast.

For the past several years, Lakes has become fascinated with creating unique art shadow box pieces and various other 3-dimensional assemblages and collages by incorporating a palette of nostalgic antique and vintage items: old photographs, unusual and rare ephemera, antique prints and vintage collectibles. Lakes says, "I strive to create work that is witty, tactile and sometimes interactive. Subjects run the gamut. Something for everyone. The juxtaposition of different elements is designed to provoke thought, tickle your senses, make you smile and bring you joy".

Art & Light Gallery in Greenville, SC, Features Works by Scotty Peek at the Anchorage Restaurant

Art & Light Gallery in Greenville, SC, is happy to partner with The Anchorage Restaurant to present a quarterly installment of exhibitions that introduce new bodies of work from select gallery roster artists and established guest artists. Scotty Peek will be featured in the Fall 2024 installment of The Anchorage Restaurant series, on view through Oct. 7, 2024.

Scotty Peek lives in Columbia, SC, and teaches Art at Heathwood Hall Episcopal School. Prior to joining the Heathwood faculty, Peek was an Assistant Professor of Art at South Carolina State University, held positions from Preparator to Assistant Director at several South Carolina Museums and Galleries, and taught art courses part-time at the University of South Carolina and Midlands Technical College. He received a Masters in Fine Arts from the University of South Carolina in 2000 and a Bachelors of Fine Arts from Austin Peay State University (TN) in 1995.

Peek was included in the 2004 Triennial at the South Carolina State Museum, was one of four artists selected for 701 Center for Contemporary Art's inaugural 2008 exhibit, and was one of nine artists recently included in En Plein Air: Scenes of SC at the Columbia Museum of Art.

Peek paints landscapes that are often abstracted to varying degrees. He enjoys the visual evidence of investigation through mark-making and never wants to hide the process.

He states, "I usually begin each painting from life or photo reference, but then abandon the reference to paint freely, often destroying some of the realistic illusion that may be developing. This begins a back-and-forth, working from the reference again, building, destroying, deciding what's important, what's not, etc., until I think the painting, while grounded in reality, offers something beyond a direct representation."

"I want each painting to have a unique identity and character of its own, possibly suggesting something unexpected about our surroundings," adds Peek. "There are many genuine psychological and intellectual reasons I could give for being drawn to the landscape as an artist. Ultimately, the only one that matters is that I can't seem to exhaust the landscape as an interesting subject. From any given point, there are thousands of possible landscape paintings, each offering its own set of observations, and each suggesting something different."

The exhibition is on view during regular dining hours at The Anchorage. Join Peek for a ticketed artist meet and greet and artist talk to learn more about the inspiration behind the new collection on Sept. 5, from 5-6:30pm. Visit The Anchorage Restaurant to learn more about the event and to purchase tickets. During the event, a signature cocktail will be served along with small bites, making for the perfect culmination of fine art and fine food.

Spartanburg artist Skye Winter hopes to inspire "wonder and appreciation for life's simple marvels" in her upcoming exhibition of her photography and acrylic paintings.

"In this exhibit, I want to give a sense of interconnectedness and artistic exploration between photography and painting," says Winter. "These are photographs of beautiful moments in time and their colorful interpretations through acrylic painting. Combining these artistic pursuits is a recent and exciting journey for me."

Work by Skye Winter

Visitors to the exhibition should experience "a harmonious blend and creative interaction between photography and painting," she explains. "I capture the beauty of my surroundings through photography and then bring those scenes to life with vibrant colors on canvas. Photography is my form of meditation, while painting lets my whimsical side shine. I aim to inspire serenity and evoke joy.

"Appreciating the beauty of my environment lifts my spirits and deepens my connection to nature," says the artist, who uses her cell phone exclusively for her photographs, noting that this convenience "encourages spontaneous inspiration."

Winter, the daughter of the late renowned Caribbean artist Eric Winter, grew up in an "artistic household, surrounded by my father's masterful artwork on our walls and encouraged to create from a very young age." A native of St. Thomas, U.S. Virgin Islands, Winter moved to Florida in 2006 and to Spartanburg in October of last year with her fiancé, Michael.

Winter's work has adorned galleries across Florida and in prestigious publications. She began showing her artwork in late 2022 during her first solo photography exhibit at a gallery in central Florida. In 2023, she had work in 14 art gallery shows in central Florida.

"I am excited and grateful to the Artists Collective | Spartanburg for the opportunity to share my work with visitors," says Winter, who joined the organization last November. "Since relocating to Spartanburg, I've felt a strong sense of belonging, largely due to the warm reception from the talented members and engaging events at ACS."

The 18 works on display, many of them newly created for this exhibition, will be available for purchase, with prices ranging from $35 to $500.

Headquarters Library of the Spartanburg County Public Libraries in Spartanburg, SC, Features Photographic Exhibit

The Headquarters Library of the Spartanburg County Public Libraries in Spartanburg, SC, is presenting Location: A Photographic Exploration, on view in the Crutchfield Gallery, through Aug. 14, 2024.

Through the lens of documentary-style photography, this exhibition examines the notion of a "sense of place" as seen through the eyes of diverse perspectives. Each image serves as a testament to the sensibilities and interpretations of the participating students, showcasing their individual narratives and distinct artistic approaches.

Over a span of four months, students from Fine Arts Center of Greenville, in Greenville, SC's photography program explored the idea of place, traversing both physical landscapes and the essence of belonging. Their images serve as windows into worlds both familiar and unknown, challenging us to reconsider our perceptions of the environments we inhabit and the communities we belong to.

Participating artists include: Addisen Yarrow, Aidan Hogan, Hadiyah Seabrook, Jessica Spott, Katerina Sanchez, Kaylen Jones, Lee-Amanda Sangronis, Lily Caligan-Gilliam, Lily McKay, Mary Grace Hathaway, Rebecca Bouvier, and Selah Impson.

The Fine Arts Center of Greenville, South Carolina (The "FAC") was established in August 1974 as the first specialized arts school in the state of South Carolina. Classes are available at the Center for students to study theatre, music, visual arts, dance, creative writing, and film and video production.

University of South Carolina at Lancaster, SC, Features Works by William “Bill” Harris and More

The University of South Carolina at Lancaster, SC, is presenting What the Fire May Gift, featuring works by Catawba potter and former Catawba Nation Chief William “Bill” Harris, on view in USC-L’s Native American Studies Center’s Red Rose Gallery, through May 3, 2025. Harris will present a virtual artist talk and demonstrations via Zoom on Aug. 29, from 5:30-7pm. On Sept. 5, a special reception will be held in the Red Rose Gallery, from 5:30-7pm.

This new pottery exhibit features work from the former Chief, which includes: effigies of owls, ravens, snakes, herons, and more. The exhibit features over 30 pieces of pottery, some created during Harris’s term as the Center’s 2023 Artist-in-Residence last fall, where he appeared courtesy of a 2024 South Carolina Arts Commission Folklife and Traditional Arts Grant. The exhibit also contains work from Harris’ proteges Elizabeth Harris and Kent Harris, whom Harris works with as part of the group Blue Heron Clay, as well as work from his grandmother, Georgia Harris, a prolific potter who taught her grandson the traditional artform.

“This exhibit, like our other artist-in-residence exhibits, highlight the artist’s personality, artistic practice, and work influenced by their time with us at the Center; however, this exhibition is different because it not only highlights the artist, but also his grandmother, Georgia Harris, and two of his pottery students,” said Brittany Taylor-Driggers, USC Lancaster Director of Campus Collections and Galleries and Associate Professor of Art and Art History. “The process of learning, growing, and teaching is such a large part of Bill’s practice that it is important to be included.”

Select pieces from the exhibit are available for purchase; please inquire at the front desk for more information.

Museum which features over 20 pieces of original art by this important South Carolina artist, many of which were produced in the years just before his death in 2009. Though he is best known for his watercolors, in his later years, Lipscomb began to experiment with multiple mediums, even within the same work of art, to create more abstract and thought provoking pieces. The artist’s spirit of creativity, curiosity, and openness to experimentation is evident in this exhibition.

Guy Fleming Lipscomb, Jr. was born in 1917 in Clemson, SC. In 1938, he received his Bachelor of Science degree from the University of South Carolina. His love and appreciation of art resurfaced in the 1950s, and by 1967 he began to study art seriously. He defined his major interest in the 1970s with watercolor and in 1978 he studied at the Art Students League in New York City.

During his lifetime, Lipscomb had more than 35 solo exhibitions and received the prestigious American Watercolor Soci-

During high school, I completed advanced placement art courses, which fueled my desire to pursue my passion."

"My artistic journey continued at the renowned Savannah College of Art and Design, where I honed my skills and cultivated a deep appreciation for the power of visual storytelling," adds Mennetti. "I graduated with a Bachelors of Fine Arts with a major in illustration. My artistic focus is brought to life through the delicate strokes of graphite creating an artistic dance between light and shadow. I have found an endless passion where I have discovered comfort, joy, and purpose. Bailey was born and raised in South Carolina, currently living in Denver, Colorado."

Join us for an Artist Talk with Mennetti on Friday, Aug. 2, at 1pm in the main gallery.

Sunny Mullarkey McGowan is a fine artist residing in Greenville, SC. children, where she is active in the local artists community.

McGowan's body of work includes the mediums of printmaking, painting, mixed media, and mural painting. She creates fine art pieces in her studio located in the arts district of the Village of West Greenville, and has completed several murals around the city of Greenville, expanding into Spartanburg and Anderson.

Her work has been displayed in exhibits in Georgia, Florida, and both North and South Carolina, and locally exhibited in events in partnership with the Metropolitan Arts Council and Artisphere. In the summer of 2020, McGowan was selected to paint a mural in Nashville by the The Women's Suffrage Centennial Commission (WSCC), to celebrate the 19th Amendment's 100 year anniversary. The mural was painted live in Nashville, TN, in Centennial Park, then displayed at the Hermitage Hotel, and then installed permanently in the WorkHouse Arts Center as a permanent feature at the historical site.

"Constant curiosity helps me discover and create fanciful, abstract worlds, and gives a passion to my work to experimentally recreate a sense of purposeful chaos seen from unexpected perspectives," says McGowan. "I create boldly colored and textured designs that flow playfully through movement and invite you to explore the vibrant layers within each piece. I cultivate art that ignites your imagination and moves you to feel the spark of curiosity and life within you."

Tryon Fine Arts Center in Tryon, NC, Offers Works by Phyllis Allen Eifert

The Tryon Fine Arts Center in Tryon, NC, is presenting an exhibition of works by the late Phyllis Allen Eifert, featuring paintings, drawings, bronze and paper mache sculptures, on view in the JP Gallery, through Sept. 14, 2024.

Beloved Tryon artist Phyllis Allen Eifert (1932-2018) left an indelible mark that still captivates audiences. Her pieces reflect evocative and sometimes whimsical creativity that refuses to settle for a single form of expression. It is said that when you experience Eifert's work, you are reminded that art is not conceived in a moment, but is the result of decades of study, hours of practice, trial and error, and passion that pours forth in her work.

For Eifert, the world of horses has played a major role for the past sixty years. Born in Lynchburg, VA, in 1932, Eifert began to ride at the age of six. On Pearl Harbor day, Dec. 7, 1941, after taking riding lessons and attending lectures and a clinic given by Capt. Vladimir S. Littauer she rode in one of her first horse shows. According to the artist, "From then on whenever there was an opportunity she hunted with the Bedford County Hounds and showed her horse in local horse shows".

After graduating from high school Eifert went to Penn Hall in Chambersburg, PA, and majored in Art History. It was there that she gained experience riding under the coaching of Fritz Kleeman who taught Littauer's method. During this time, after schooling everyday, Eifert showed in inter-collegiate shows, hunted with Plunket Stewart's Cheshire Hounds and rode in the Harrisburg National.

After receiving her BFA, she continued her art education at Moore Institute of Art, The Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and the Barnes Foundation. At this time horses were not in the picture and it was not until after she was married that she was given a gift of a lovely three year old gelding from her husband. There was a lot of work for her to bring this "green horse" along and she needed help from a professional. Living, at the time, in Bedford, NY, there were quite a few good horsemen from which to choose.

Each week Eifert would van her horse to Cedar Lodge Farm in Connecticut and take lessons from Hugo-Vidal. The excellent schooling under a well-known trainer paid off. Phyllis showed and hunted her horse and later her daughter won her first McClay Class on this horse. After Eifert's children went off to college she raised cross bred hunter ponies.

The love of horses is also expressed in the artist's works which she has produced that spans a period of sixty years. Beginning with private art lessons at a very young age, Eifert later majored in art and continued her art education in Philadelphia and at the State University of New York at Purchase, NY. At SUNY she spent five years concentrating on bronze casting and foundry work. Although she has worked in many mediums and has been a fabric designer and art director, her interest now is in drawing and sculpture. Eifert has exhibited extensively in this country and abroad and her work has won awards and is represented in many private collections.

Southern Highland Craft Guild in Asheville, NC, Offers New Exhibition at Folk Art Center

The Southern Highland Craft Guild in Asheville, NC, will present Beautiful Mystery, its third member-focused exhibition of the year on view in the Focus Gallery of the Folk Art Center, from Aug. 23 through Nov. 11, 2024.

The Southern Highland Craft Guild opens its third member-focused exhibition featuring both traditional and contemporary craft by five members of the Guild. The colorful batik paintings on display are by Robin Ford, the clay pieces by Susan Grier and Joe Frank McKee, jewelry by Ilene Kay, and wood sculptures by new member, Brian Melton.

From Knoxville, TN, Brian Melton joined the Southern Highland Craft Guild in 2023 for his wood-chiseled sculptures. "I am deeply inspired by hardworking people of Appalachia who crafted for both necessity and entertainment. I am also inspired by the artists who have paved the way for our generation, the Impressionists with their heavy brushstrokes that so seamlessly translate into the grooves of the well-honed gouge, Elizabeth Catlett with her love of figurative wood sculpture that is still under appreciated by the masses, Norman Rockwell with his uncanny ability to capture the essence of a nation, Dorothy Webster Hawksley with her understated yet powerful compositions, and, of course, the generations of Italian artists from Val Gardena who have inspired me to research the history of wood sculpture as well as inspire me to strive to create a similar heritage in the states," says Melton.

Using a unique process of batik, Robin Ford creates scenes from nature on fabric. Describing her process she says, "Technically, batik is painting with wax on fabric, then dyeing the fabric. Where wax is applied seals the color under it; as beginning on white fabric, all the wax lines will be white. Next, the fabric is dyed the lightest color; air dried; then, wax is painted where this color is desired. This is the process followed for each color in the painting. After all the colors are waxed & dyed then the wax is removed and the fabric is attached to a blank canvas and offset in a shadow-box frame for viewing."

for basic living, as a means of shelter or protection. Pieces of Egyptian furniture from around 2500 BC survive as literal examples of man's ability to create objects of beauty from wood. Being one of Appalachia's indigenous resources, trees formed items for the early settlers of this region, such as tables, chairs, bowls, coopered barrels, as well as wagons and homes. ## American Folk Art in Asheville, NC, Features Works by Kent Ambler and Doug Frati

The American Folk Art in Asheville, NC, will present Against the Grain: Kent Ambler & Doug Frati, on view from Aug. 7 - 28, 2024. A reception will be held on Aug. 9, from 5-8pm.

As the old adage goes, you ought to write what you know. For Doug Frati and Kent Ambler, the thought-process behind the artwork they create is much the same and the two men have quite a bit in common besides their chosen substrate of wood. Both have built truly beautiful lives for themselves, in which they pursue their artistic passions surrounded by lush forests full of wildlife and draw inspiration from the natural scenes around them. "Against the Grain" celebrates the ever-popular work of these two kindred spirits: the striking wood carvings of Doug Frati and the richly layered woodblock prints of Kent Ambler.

Maine native Doug Frati resides on his family homestead in a rural town on the banks of the Sebasticook River. When he returned to the then long-abandoned farm in his adulthood, Frati set to work restoring the place, giving it new life and connecting with his family's past in the process. The barn that used to house livestock became his studio, imparting

some of its soul to each of his creations. His current work is a direct reflection of where and how he lives. Many of his carvings are made of old wood salvaged from antique objects, broken and lost to barns and attics. One of his neighbors even operates a small sawmill, supplying Frati with custom lumber from time to time.

On 12 acres just outside of Greenville, SC, our resident woodblock printer Kent Ambler finds inspiration in the woods and wildlife that surround his home, but also in his beloved animals, his lovely wife, and their beautiful yard. From the time he was a boy, Ambler has spent his spare time on artistic pursuits, and there was never any question what he would end up doing with his life. In college, he was introduced to printmaking and discovered an innate feel for the art. Carving a separate block for each of his ink colors, Ambler's lush woodblock prints are built by one layer of color at a time. Once he is finished printing his numbered series, Ambler will cut up his woodblocks and create abstract assemblages with the pieces.

Today he lives and continues his art in the triangle area of North Carolina.

sionism with lots of color. He likes to use a palette knife because it draws more on spontaneity and pushes him beyond all that is known. He never has a plan or image in mind for the work when he starts. He lets whatever comes out flow, without judgment, and keeps creating until it is the heart and not the mind that finally tells him that a piece is done. His biggest inspiration is the vision of his art giving feelings of joy and hope to each viewer.

The Blowing Rock Art & History Museum in Blowing Rock, NC, Features Works by Anna Buckner

The Blowing Rock Art & History Museum (BRAHM) in Blowing Rock, NC, will present Anna Buckner: And other Myths, featuring works by interdisciplinary maker and educator, Anna Buckner, on view in the Cannon Gallery, through Feb. 22, 2025. Buckner will give a talk about the works on Oct. 10 at 11am at the Museum. Registration is required.

Buckner is a painter in the most expanded sense of the word, creating compositions at the intersection of design, textile, and painting. And other Myths features a body of work that leverages the storytelling potential of quilting within the context of painterly composition and design precision. She is interested in exploring the limits of existing structures within painting, language, textile patterning, new media, and emerging modes of teaching and learning.

"I start by sewing a quilt top and then stretch the quilt top over a support, causing the strips of fabric to change shape," explains Buckner. "I use recycled materials — either old clothes or fabric that has been given to me. My aim is to create new stories with these fabrics, ones that call to mind the accumulated and complicated histories of the pattern and make space for new poetic possibilities."

Visitors will be able to engage with her exploration of quilt patterning and the rich histories it embodies, mythmaking as a strategy for coping with the challenges of life, and Buckner's ruminations on new motherhood.

"The works defy easy categorization, blending the enticing textures and nostalgic palettes of found fabric with the elevated presentation of a stretched canvas," said BRAHM's Curator Ian Gabriel Wilson. "These images are deeply personal yet universally resonant in their spare iconography. We are thrilled to present Anna Buckner's studio practice and provide a platform for her to share these compelling compositions." BRAHM's mission is to curate, preserve, educate, and inspire. Rooted in the creative cultures of Appalachia, BRAHM will cultivate a community that extends beyond its walls and region, positioning Western North Carolina as a leader in the arts. The 25,000-square-foot Blowing Rock Art and History Museum, known as BRAHM, opened its doors on Oct. 1, 2011. Located off Main Street in Blowing Rock, North Carolina, BRAHM provides cultural enrichment by promoting the arts, and Southern Appalachian heritage and history, through educational programs, exhibitions, and activities. The permanent collection of more than 600 objects includes works by Elliott Daingerfield, Maud Gatewood, Elizabeth Bradford, Mark Hewitt, and other American impressionist and post-impressionist artists. Open year-round, 24,000 visitors are welcomed free of charge to experience 25 changing exhibitions. BRAHM also has an outreach education program that encourages arts education in local schools, daycares, and senior centers.

Reynolda House Museum of American Art in Winston-Salem, NC, Offers Works From Barbara Babcock Millhouse Collection

The exhibition, Founder's Vision: The Private Collection of Barbara Babcock Millhouse will open in the Mary and Charlie Babcock Wing Gallery at Reynolda House Museum of American Art in Winston-Salem, NC, on Aug. 24, and will be on view through Dec. 15, 2024. The exhibition features works of art from the personal collection of the founder of Reynolda House Museum of American Art.

Audiences will have a unique opportunity to view more than 50 objects reflecting the best of American modernism from artists including Romare Bearden, Alex Katz, Edward Hopper, Joseph Cornell, Georgia O'Keeffe and John Singer Sargent among 40 other artists from the late 19th and 20th centuries - all under one roof.

"The Founder's Vision exhibition traces the entire arc of modernism in America," said Phil Archer, the Betsy Main Babcock Deputy Director at Reynolda and the exhibition's curator. "In a condensed, one-gallery presentation, we move through modern art's early, daring assertions of independence from moral or religious argument, its restless innovativeness in terms of techniques and subjects, the eventual embrace of complete abstraction 'beyond the veil of illusion' and, nearing the end of the 20th century, a radical questioning of style, medium and the artist's very role in society."

"This evolution is familiar to lovers of 20th-century art, but Founder's Vision is distinguished by refracting the story through the lens of one collector who came early to the appreciation and advocacy of American art in the mid-1960s," he added. "Barbara Millhouse brought the same discernment to her own collection that she brought to the development of Reynolda House Museum of American Art, but she could take greater risks in buying for her own environment. We guarantee there will be many, many surprises."

The granddaughter of tobacco industrialist R.J. Reynolds and his wife Katharine, Barbara Babcock Millhouse dedicated her family home in 1967 to become what is now Reynolda House Museum of American Art. With ambitions of inspiring the people of North Carolina to love her grandparents' home even more than her family had for the previous half-century, she worked to fulfill this pledge, first with a sterling inaugural collection of American paintings and later with a succession of major gifts, collectively representing what may be the greatest gift of fine art in state history. The Reynolda collection was described by art historian John Wilmerding (1938–2024), then deputy director of the National Gallery of Art, as the "finest concentration of American art south of Washington, DC."

Millhouse received an education in art history at Smith College in Massachusetts and interior design at Parsons School of Design in New York City, then made her primary home in Manhattan. She attended gallery openings and museum exhibitions and gained a third aesthetic education in the high-stakes art market when New York was indisputably the center of the modern art world. Born in 1934, Millhouse currently divides her time between Manhattan and Winston-Salem.

"At different times on her journey of collecting American art, Barbara was a sleuth, a scholar, a student, and, occasionally, even a gambler. She relied as much on her own eye as on the advice of experts in the field," said Allison Perkins, executive director for Reynolda House and Wake Forest University associate provost for Reynolda House & Reynolda Gardens. "She wasn't the first to redirect attention to American makers and American themes, but she was early—to North Carolina's everlasting benefit."

When acquiring works for Reynolda House, she planned for perpetuity, selecting paintings she believed would come to be accepted as iconic works by future generations of Americans. For her private collection, she was moved by personal inspiration and a marked adventurousness. Founder's Vision celebrates her dedication to American art with an exhibition drawn from

Artworks Gallery in Winston-Salem, NC, Features Works by Mary Beth Blackwell Chapman, Alix Hitchcock, and Lea Lackey-Zachmann

Artworks Gallery in Winston-Salem, NC, is presenting an exhibit of works by Mary Beth Blackwell Chapman, Alix Hitchcock, and Lea Lackey-Zachmann, on view through Aug. 31, 2024. Receptions will be held on Aug. 2, from 7-9pm and Aug. 11, from 2-4pm, with a Gallery Talk beginning at 2:30pm. An Art Crush will take place on Aug. 16, from 7-10pm.

Alix Hitchcock received her MA in painting from NYU, and her BFA in printmaking and painting from UNC-G. She was the Winston-Salem Artist of the Year in 1998, and is a founding board member of Artworks Gallery, a cooperative gallery in W-S. Her current exhibit consists of one-of-a-kind prints with colored pencil additions exploring themes of nature.

Work by Lea Lackey-Zachmann

education from UNC Greensboro. She is retired from teaching at High Point University for 29 years, Salem College for 10 years and other regional schools in Virginia and South Carolina. She is a founding member of Artworks Gallery and has exhibited there each year since 1985. The subject matter of most of her work concerns the nature of consciousness. This new work shows a realism concerning the idea that the consciousness of a cell might retain the memory of having once been a part of a butterfly, a snake, or anything physical.

Mary Beth Blackwell-Chapman received a BA in English Literature from Goucher College and an MA from Northwestern University in Motion Picture. She has attended studio art classes at UNC Greensboro and several workshops at Penland, and Arrowmont. In addition to raising three children with her husband, she has worked as a Montessori teacher, a dance instructor, and a yoga teacher. Her current exhibition presents abstract landscapes

Francis Marion University in Florence, SC, Features Works by Mär Martinez & a Small Works Exhibit

Francis Marion University in Florence, SC, will present Warring Factions, featuring works by Mär Martinez and the Florence Regional Arts Alliance's 2024 Small Works Competition, on view in the Steven F. Gately Gallery, from Aug. 13 through Oct. 13, 2024. A reception will be held on Aug. 13, beginning at 5:30pm.

Known for her evocative sculptural paintings, Mär Martinez delves into the intricacies of dominance, aggression, and power dynamics through the lens of culturally enforced binary systems.

Martinez, who holds a BFA in Painting and a BA in Art History from the University of Central Florida, is celebrated for her highly rendered figurative work on hand-cut wood. Recently, she has been experimenting with new iconography, including textiles, to further explore these complex themes. She was recently awarded a Fulbright Painting Fellowship and will be traveling to Turkey soon after the opening of the exhibit.

"My overall body of work addresses themes of consent as well as power," says Martinez. "The jagged edges of the hand-cut forms on wood imply a nonconsensual departure, forcibly cut out. This act of violence in my process mirrors how power can be given and taken away, leaving figures vulnerable in the outside world."

Mär is also the juror for the 2024 Florence Regional Arts Alliance (FRAA) Small

Works Competition which will be presented alongside her work. The Small Works Competition is a yearly program of the FRAA and is open to artists from South Carolina, North Carolina, and Georgia. All works are sized under one foot and will be available for purchase.

Best known for his detailed beachscapes and coastal oil paintings, Flanegan says, "I try to capture the mood of the scene and moment in time that made an impression on me. I focus on the light on and shadow, the color and values, and the small details of the scene that impressed me."

Flanegan has painted all his life and earned his bachelor's degree in art. He has earned many awards including the 2017, 2019, and 2023 Lee Barrett People's Choice and First Place awards (2019 and 2020) at the Arts Council of Moore County Fine Arts Festival.

Sunset River Gallery in Calabash, NC, is presenting Southern Comfort: Collages by Eric McRay, on view through Aug. 31, 2024.

The Raleigh, NC, based artist, who was born and raised in Washington, DC, uses collage to explore visual storytelling while addressing the human figure as an entity of change in theatrical narratives. These chronicles are inspired by African American, Biblical, and art history, as well as pop culture, but at the core are McRay's familial relationships. This continuum searches for personal and universal experiences.

Work by Eric McRay

McRay received his Bachelor of Fine Arts at the Maryland Institute, College of Art, where he earned a four-year scholarship for his artistic talent. He moved to North Carolina and has been exhibiting since 1987. His artistic career has been featured on television and radio programs and in numerous newspapers, magazines and online media outlets. The Raleigh News & Observer named him one of the "Artists Page 24 - Carolina Arts, August 2024 to Watch" and he has been listed numerous times among "Best Local Artists."

McRay says, "Collage, one of the major innovations of modern art, is an artist inserting pieces of the real world into a constructed one." He injects impromptu invention in the construction of his collages, which include such materials as reproductions of his previous works, painted papers, photographic snippets, scraps of fabrics, watermedia, acrylic paints and more. The different materials of everyday existence are edited, sliced, and reassembled into new images on paper, board, or canvas.

Shin-Geller's artworks for Continuing Dialogues with Hanji as well as her Dialogues with Hanji shown at The Arts Center in Fayetteville, NC (May 2024) delve deeply into her Korean heritage, utilizing hanji - a traditional Korean handmade paper made from mulberry trees. This ancient medium known for its durability and unique texture allows Irina to create abstract compositions that suggest landscapes, human figures, and natural elements, while always inviting viewers to form their personal interpretations.

dialogue with the material - hanji acting as a co-creator in her artistic expression.

This is Shin-Geller's second solo show dedicated exclusively to hanji and her first show in Red Springs Artspace, a new art gallery that has recently opened in the town where she has resided since 2020 after moving from New York City.

This exhibition is made possible by an Artist Support Grant from The Arts Council of Fayetteville/Cumberland County

Shin-Geller's artistic techniques blend the traditional and the experimental. Utilizing joomchi, a traditional Korean method of layering and agglutinating hanji to create textured sheets, Irina incorporates modern elements such as ink and acrylics, weaving a tapestry of techniques that narrate her cultural journey and artistic evolution. This process is not merely a method but a landscapes, still life artwork, public and personal portraits of people in our region, and more. It features the work of Michael Cunningham, Donald Furst, Claude Howell, Hobson Pittman, Robert Postma, Richard Stenhouse, Caroline Von Glahn, Virginia Wright-Frierson, and others.

Exhibition Artist Highlights:

Claude Howell (American, 1915–1997) was born in Wilmington and was one of North Carolina's most notable artists, with an artistic career spanning almost seven decades. A brilliant colorist and meticulous draftsman, he is best known for his intimate examination of the southern coast: the quality of light and life of its people. Cameron Art Museum owns over 40 of his works as well as personal journals and effects he bequeathed. His generous posthumous donation allowed the institution to establish the Claude Howell Endowment for the Purchase of North Carolina Art which continues to add important works by North Carolina artists to the museum's permanent collection.

Virginia Wright-Frierson (American, b. 1949) is a painter, an award-winning children's book author and illustrator. She is also a large-scale public installation artist. Her projects include Wilmington's Airlie Garden's 2004 bottle chapel inspired by local visionary artist Minnie Evans, 1892–1987. Wright-Frierson was also selected as the artist to paint the ceiling mural (she chose to create images of evergreen trees reaching for sunlight) installed at Columbine High School in Littleton, CO.

Recently retired, Donald Furst (American, b. 1953) was a professor of art at the University of North Carolina Wilmington who came to the faculty in 1985. He specialized in mezzotint and other forms of intaglio printmaking. His works have been displayed nationally and across the world, from Canada to Egypt to Russia, and have been featured at the renowned International Print Triennial in Krakow, Poland and the Sapporo International Print Biennial in Japan. Furst's work has been featured in multiple exhibitions at St. John's Museum of Art (now the Cameron Art Museum, Wilmington NC) including Donald Furst: Eighteen Years of Printmaking, 1992, and Quintet: Five Print Suites by Donald Furst, 2000.

This exhibition is a traveling counterpart of the similarly themed Close to Home exhibition Cameron Art Museum is organizing and hosting, on view Nov. 17, 2024 through Mar. 23, 2025. Cameron Art Museum opens this exhibition with Close to Home CAM Gala 2024, a benefit at the museum on Nov. 16, 2024. It will feature music, a live auction, dancing, creative cuisine and craft cocktails from CAM Cafe and more. All proceeds go to support Cameron Art Museum and the work they do.

Both Home in the Cape Fear: Selected Works from Cameron Art Museum, Wilmington, NC, and Close to Home celebrate Cameron Art Museum's extensive collection and vital connections to the state, the region, and the museum's home.

"We are thrilled to bring CAM's collection closer to our community with this exhibition. Home in the Cape Fear features work by regional artists we know and love like Claude Howell, Donald Furst, and Virginia Wright-Frierson, among others. We hope New Hanover County employees and their visitors enjoy this uplifting exhibition that highlights this beautiful place we call home," said Heather Wilson, Cameron Art Museum Executive Director.

"I am so pleased that New Hanover County could partner with the Cameron Art Museum to showcase artwork that has strong North Carolina and Wilmington roots," said Commissioner Rob Zapple, who helped to coordinate the partnership. "This exhibit is on the second floor of the Government Center where our wonderful employees can enjoy the artwork and feel inspired by it every day. This unique partnership between New Hanover County and CAM breathes new life into some of the museum's treasured pieces, enriching the quality of life for our public servants and the greater community by making art more accessible to all."

The Cameron Art Museum provides a cultural gathering place that enriches the lives of museum visitors and the community through high-quality exhibitions, lifelong learning in the arts, dynamic public programs, and stewardship and interpretation of the collection. CAM's four core values: commitment to community, to lifelong learning in the arts, to support of artists, and to collecting, preserving, documenting and interpreting a permanent collection of art. The museum has been a collecting institution since inception, with approximately 4,000 objects in the permanent collection, with a primary and growing focus on modern art. The collection includes work by artists of national and international significance, used in changing thematic exhibitions, loan exhibitions, and for educational purposes. ## Cameron Art Museum in Wilmington, NC, Offers Works by Thomas Sayre

The Cameron Art Museum in Wilmington, NC, is presenting Thomas Sayre: Four Walls, featuring new and never exhibited works by American artist Thomas Sayre (American, b. 1950), on view through Feb. 16, 2025.

Each of the four large-scale pieces installed in Cameron Art Museum's Hughes Wing engage the belief systems and symbols that underpin the ideals of church, nation, and creation. Made of materials that include tar, smoke, fabric gowns, gunshots, welding material, earth and fire, these works invite visitors to draw close and experience the messiness of making, and by analogy, to bear witness to the ways that life invades, entangles, and tarnishes us. Inspired by the artist's own personal spiritual journey, Thomas Sayre: Four Walls invites visitors to contemplate their own place in the world.

The Cameron Art Museum is thrilled to welcome singer-songwriter Tift Merritt and artist Thomas Sayre to CAM for an intimate evening of song, reflection, and discussion within the gallery space. The museum invites the community to gather on Sept. 12, 2024, at 7pm for this one-of-a-kind performance. Tickets are available now at (CameronArtMuseum.org). Space is limited and this event is expected to sell out quickly.

Thomas Sayre is an American sculptor and painter. He designs and builds public art projects and private commissions all over the world. His current work includes large paintings made with tar, smoke, gunshots, welding material, earth, and fire. Sayre is a founding principal of the multi-disciplinary design firm Clearscapes, alongside architect Steve Schuster. The team designs numerous civic, educational, and museum buildings.

Art in Bloom Gallery in Wilmington, NC, Offers Works by Joanne Geisel

Art in Bloom Gallery in Wilmington, NC, will present Endless Skies, featuring new works by Joanne Geisel, on view from Aug. 2 through Sept. 8, 2024. A reception will be held on Aug. 4, from 2-5pm.

Geisel states, "In our daily lives, we get caught up in routines and therefore limit our awareness of the possibilities. On the other hand, looking at skies can be transforming, as they can be limitless in their expansiveness, colors, and the endless formation of clouds, and through them we feel we can go beyond our limitations and even time and space. The oceans, lakes, and marshes express other dimensions of the landscapes and ourselves."

"My love of drawing and painting began as a child which led to choosing a bachelor's degree in art education where I could take a broad array of studio courses and then I continued with graduate courses to become permanently certified to teach in New York State," adds Geisel. "I later received a master's in public administration. My careers were in human services and higher education, where I used my creative and problem-solving skills in program development and management, marketing, community outreach, and career and educational counseling."

"Upon moving to North Carolina in 2005, I focused on becoming a full-time artist; painting, teaching, exhibiting, and selling my artwork. My goals in creating oil paintings include capturing the feelings, sights and sounds of my subject. I continue to experiment with texture, edges, brushstrokes, and palette knife and the layering of color to create depth, luminosity, and beauty."

Art in Bloom Gallery in Wilmington, NC, Features Works by Brian and Dianne Evans

Art in Bloom Gallery in Wilmington, NC, will present Metamorphosis: Mud to Modern, featuring new work by Brian Evans and Dianne Evans, on view from Aug. 2 through Sept. 8, 2024. A reception will be held on Aug. 4, from 2-5pm.

This new exhibit celebrates the newest creations of the 3-dimensional, ceramic work of Brian Evans and Dianne Evans. Both artists find inspiration through patterns and textures while creating their exquisite forms as they evolve from a lump of clay. Brian's current body of work is inspired by patterns he sees on fabric, circuit boards, and in nature.

His utilitarian work is minimalistic in form allowing the lines and colors to be the focus. Brian's sculptural work reflects modern abstract designs. These structures consist of curvilinear and geometric lines and shapes that move the viewer's eyes around the piece. Brian is intrigued by how the light and shadow interplay while painting an interesting shadow on the pedestal or wall. The shadow is different depending on the angle at which the light approaches the piece.

Work by Brian Evans

The patinaed surfaces Brian's work reveal an aged or weathered look on a modern design. He finds the juxtaposition of present and past intriguing. Brian incorporates similar elements into his pottery with the intention of conveying modern designs with interesting lines and angles that draw the user's eyes around and into the piece.

Dianne Evan's current work consists of minimalistic forms that make a statement on their own and act as a canvas for designs and patterns. The form dictates the design. Her surface decorations are inspired by textile patterns, shapes, repetition, layering of color and pattern, and the relationship between form and design. The shapes and patterns interact with each other, creating movement across the surface and drawing your eye around the piece. Dianne's work is meant to bring people joy, peace and serenity through form, color, and design.

On view along with this exhibit will be a new exhibit of the plein-air and studio paintings of Joanne Geisel. In addition, we feature continuously rotating art featuring 30+ of Art in Bloom Gallery's artists!

Arts Council of Fayetteville/Cumberland County in Fayetteville, NC, Features Works by Tim French

The Arts Council of Fayetteville/Cumberland County in Fayetteville, NC, will present Face To Fayetteville Works in Progress, featuring portraits by Tim French, on view at The Arts Center, from Aug. 2 - 31, 2024. A reception will be held on Aug. 2, beginning at 6pm.

The Arts Council of Fayetteville/Cumberland County is proud to display the exhibit, Face to Fayetteville by Tim French. This exhibit explores what one can learn about the image-making process when examining works before they're finished. The public gets to be a part of the process and witness "Pentimenti" - details that the artist changes before finishing the work.

What's the big idea?

French offers the following, "The intention for the work is to explore the ways in which people define, shape, edit, or inherit their identities both as individuals and as place-makers. We seem to share in this moment in time an obsession with controlling our personal brands, not getting canceled, achieving fame, virtue signaling, fitting in, standing out, etc. For many of us, our identities are shaped by our relationships. Some of us move fluidly between communities while others are immobile. Some are defined by a sense of place while others are happily disconnected."

Work by Tim French

"What if you were to find yourself identified in a public work as part of something that perhaps you never fully understood or came face-to-face with before? How would

that change the way you understand your own identity? How would that redefine your concept of the local community that you claim?"

"The work I intend to create to explore these themes will be a series of 40 portraits," adds French. "Each portrait will depict a resident of Fayetteville. The subject of each portrait will represent a demographically, psychographically, and economically identifiable group of ~5,000 people within the 200,000+ residents of Fayetteville. These portraits will be created as a series to be viewed in a public space. Limited information about the people in the portraits will be provided to an exhibition designer who will have to intuit relationships between the portraits as they relate to each other and to the space in which they'll be exhibited. Visitors to the exhibit will receive a guide that explains the intentions of the work as well as information about each portrait including what groups of people in Fayetteville they're meant to represent and how those groups statistically relate to the whole without revealing the actual identity of the people in the portraits."

Why Fayetteville?

French says, "Fayetteville is, in my opinion, one of the best places to be the focus of this work. Its residents have deep, multi-generational roots in this city. Its residents are only here for a short time. Its residents have come, moved away and returned many times. People here came here against their will. People here relocated to be close to family. There are folks who have relocated all over the world but still call this place home. There are people who of all places have lived here the longest but will tell you they're really from somewhere else."

"Fayetteville's identity as a group of people is not very easily summed up. Looking only at the numbers is an accurate way to try to grasp it," adds French. "But the numbers alone don't reveal the complexity with which Fayetteville's residents relate to this place. When someone tells you that they're from New York City, it conjures a very specific but broadly applicable and clear identity. But if you tell someone from New York City that you're from Fayetteville, they'll likely not know what that means - even in a very broad sense. If you tell someone from Raleigh that you're from here then you're met with a specific kind of reaction. Fayetteville is a city with an identity in flux."

Craven Allen Gallery in Durham, NC, Offers Works by Ben Bridgers

The Craven Allen Gallery & House of Frames in Durham, NC, is presenting Ben Bridgers Roadside Attractions, on view through Sept. 7, 2024.

Ben Bridgers' work explores "magic, mystery and the perversity of nature," while his process stays rooted in classical materials and methods. He has maintained an active studio practice for more than 30 years, while continuing his career as an art educator and museum professional. He currently works at the North Carolina Museum of Art as the Manager of Park Collection and Exhibitions.

Bridgers' earliest influences were the underground scenes of skateboarding and punk music. "Skateboarding in the 1980's was raw, illegal, and generally, unaccepted," says Bridgers. "As a teenager, I would occasionally ditch school, go skate, and spend part of my day at the local art museum, to wander the galleries. At the time I wasn't familiar with art history, but those paintings were more interesting than anything else going on."

Work by Ben Bridgers

Eventually, through his younger years and into formal education, these influences merged with a greater understanding of art and art history. The result is expertly rendered scenes of gritty and twisted subject matter. Each painting features forms that seem almost recognizable, but the compositions follow only their own surreal internal logic. Objects are rendered with detail and technique reminiscent of the old masters, making use of dramatic light and shadow.

Bridgers sees his work as an exploration of "transitory events such as home, landscape, migration, love, loss, absence, and how these themes relate to the natural compulsion to continue."

Bridgers grew up in the rural farming community of Pilot, NC. He earned an MFA in Painting and Drawing from the University of Georgia's Lamar Dodd School of Art in Athens, GA, and studied and taught at the university's campus in Cortona, Italy. He was an Associate Professor of Art in Painting and Drawing at the

University of Redlands in California before returning to North Carolina in 2012.

Bridgers taught studio courses at the University of Georgia from 1996-2002 including a 2001 term at the University's Studies Abroad Program in Cortona, Italy. From 2002-2004, Bridgers taught as a Visiting Professor of Art at the University of Wyoming (Laramie) and then went on to teach and lead the Painting and Drawing curriculum at the University of Redlands (Redlands, CA), where he earned tenure as an Associate Professor of Art. He has maintained an active studio practice for over 30 years and exhibited his work in galleries and museums across the United States. His work is held in public and private collections throughout the United States, Italy, and Japan.

Bridgers offered the following statement, "My painting practice involves time; and the realization that this curious alchemy - paint on brush, paint on canvas, paint on paint, continues to hold me, anchored to the process. In the studio where my head spins and my heart beats, I root around in ideas and images from my own experience. The themes include mind wanderings, sensations noticed, feelings remembered - transitory events that have shaken my sense of home - revealing loss, love, and obsession. My work looks to both representation and non-representation, for a middle ground that is imagined, observed, and formed. The dark wells in my paintings are held open by the hopeful threads from painting to painting, each one revealing a new world to help make the next and so on. The process, as Philip Guston said, "...seems like an impossibility, with only a sign now and then of its own light."

Currently, Bridgers works out of his home studio in Durham, NC. On occasion he continues to teach painting and drawing

Horse & Buggy Press and Friends in Durham, NC, Offers Two Exhibits

Horse & Buggy Press and Friends in Durham, NC, is presenting two exhibits including: Summer Stories: Encaustic Paintings & Mixed Media Collages, featuring works by Carol Retsch-Bogart, on view in the Main Gallery Wall, through Sept. 28, 2024, and Meditations on the Alphabet: Forty Years of Explorations within Sacred Geometry, featuring works by Steven Ferlauto, on view in the Back Gallery, through Sept. 30, 2024.

Retsch-Bogart finds a surprising link between her former career as a therapist and her current art practice. Key to both is an appreciation of the many layers of life. People's lives are textured by their past, present, and future with the complicated nuances of feelings, experiences, hopes, and fears.

Working in collage involves the blending of layers of paper, fabric, and color from a variety of mediums. Working in wax allows for layers to be exposed, hidden, revealed or even partially scraped away. The therapeutic process is similar as people only gradually reveal their authentic selves to the world. Most satisfying to Retsch-Bogart is finding the hidden beauty in the depth and juxtaposition of the elements. She embraces the unplanned accidents of spilled paint, torn paper, or unintended embedded elements which suddenly become an essential part of the piece. So it is with people, the surprises and sudden realizations become part of the integrated self.

Work by Carol Retsch-Bogart

Meditations on the Alphabet: Forty Years of Explorations within Sacred Geometry, features works by Steven Ferlauto.

Ferlauto's exhibit on Sacred Geometry has shape shifted into the back gallery and includes a collaboration with Spoonflower, who came through in a wonderful way with creating wallpaper of his studies of the underpinning geometry of the capital letters of the Roman Alphabet.

We are excited about the second phase of this illustrative and interdisciplinary exhibit, which includes several new works.

Hillsborough Gallery of Arts in Hillsborough, NC, Offers New Exhibit

The Hillsborough Gallery of Arts in Hillsborough, NC, is presenting Intertwined, featuring jewelry by Arianna Bara, nature and figurative art by Ryann Carey, painted gourd sculptures by Martha Danek, on view from Aug. 27 through Sept. 22, 2024. A reception will be held on Aug. 30, from 6-9pm.

Jeweler Arianna Bara describes her interpretation of the show's title Intertwined as the relationships between the stones, the metal and her own creative processes. "I strive for the harmonious but also the unexpected; the shiny and the muted, the darkened and the bright. The interplay of light, color and shape combine and, in the best of circumstances, result in a piece that is greater than the sum of its parts. Those moments are my favorites."

In a literal way, Martha Danek's artistic medium, gourds, grow on vines that twine around any stationary object near them. "When I paint the mottled surface of a gourd with a wash of watercolor, whorls and patterns emerge that remind me of clouds or seawater or a nebula. I love using these naturally occurring patterns as Photography was painter Ryann Carey’s first love as an artistic medium. Her love of observation provides the inspiration to capture moments, first on camera, and then in her paintings. “I strive to paint the representational world converged with the emotional response that it elicits. With my paintings, I then rely heavily on my sense memory to portray not only what the eye has seen but also the feeling that a space and time have evoked.”

More recently, Carey has begun intertwining photography, cyanotype, and ink, with watercolor. “Opening my practice to

Our policy at Carolina Arts is to present a press release about an exhibit only once and then go on, but many major exhibits are on view for months. This is our effort to remind you of some of them.

Work by Greg Hausler

The Arts Council of Wayne County in Goldsboro, NC, is presenting Tales Among Old Threads, featuring a solo exhibition of works by Wonky Star Studios’ Greg Hausler, on view through Aug. 23, 2024. A reception will be held on Aug. 2, from 6-8pm, and Lunch with the Artist will be offered on Aug. 10, from 12:30-1:30pm. Hausler offers the following statement, “I paint on canvases composed of discarded clothing, fabric scraps, and found objects, then layer them with obscene amounts of latex paint. It’s my nature to squeeze every ounce of usefulness out of everything I own, like using an old t-shirt I love but is too worn to wear. Even the paint I use is often mis-tints or the dregs of cans and tubes. I think about the theme for the work only after the textiles have bonded to the canvas. The challenge of painting on an uneven surface helps push the creative process into unexpected directions. This technique is something I have been refining since the 1980s.” For further information call the Council at 919/947-0009 or visit (<https://www.artsinwayne.org>).

The Cary Art Center in Cary, NC, is presenting Shared Experiences: Making the Invisible Visible, a solo exhibition of fiber art by Christine Hager-Braun, on view through Aug. 24, 2024. The exhibition is a compilation of abstract line art sewn from fabric and thread. The inspiration for these fiber art pieces is rooted in the artist’s own history but more so in the stories shared by others about their experiences with mental health problems, chronic illness, or invisible disabilities. Yet Hager-Braun’s work does not focus on the pain, the darkness or the isolation but instead emphasizes the resilience, perseverance, compassion, and hope witnessed in the narratives. Using her voice as an artist, Hager-Braun strives to normalize the conversation about emotional well-being, chronic illness and invisible disabilities. The artist aims to inspire the viewer to engage in this dialogue, reach out for help when needed, become an ally, and find visual encouragement through her art. ment. Her representational works in oil, as in Across The Blushing Marsh, capture setting and mood. A celestial moment is a shared reflection through the harmony and relationship of colors. By MunKittrick’s years of observing the intricacies ever present and in animation in nature’s compositions, her sceneries have evolved into abstract interpretation, where colors and form venerate the creativity of flora and fauna. Butterbutt, a solitary and seemingly reflective Yellow-rump Warbler, shares a reverence for what it witnesses with the artist. A new exhibition titled Recollect is now on view in the Florence County Museum’s Education Gallery in Florence, SC, through Dec. 12, 2024. Celebrating 10 years in its current location and almost 100 years as an institution, Recollect describes the history of the museum. The exhibition takes a closer look at its earliest acquisitions and asks the viewer to consider how the museum has changed over time. Historical objects and images chronicle the past, present and future of the museum’s work, including the role of museum founder Jane Beverly Evans and her vision. Through her travels, Evans met Kenneth Chapman, one of the first employees of the Museum of New Mexico. The catalyst of the Florence County Museum’s formation as an institution was the purchase of a Southwestern Pottery Collection under Chapman’s care. On display are color reproductions of Chapman’s Pueblo Indian Pottery illustrations and select pieces from the initial purchase by Evans. Henry Fenn, "Charleston from the Bay" 1880s, etching, from "Picturesque America"

Mary Edna Fraser "Charleston Peninsula" oil on canvas

City Gallery at Joseph P. Riley, Jr. Waterfront Park, 34 Prioleau Street, Charleston. Through Sept. 8 - "Preservation Through Art: Charleston," an exhibition that presents new interpretations by Charleston area artists of 150-year-old etchings of local vistas. An artist's talk on Aug. 10 at 2pm. The event is free and open to the public. Imagine being an artist, asked to wander around America and paint any scene you found to be inspiring and picturesque; to create tales of adventure along with beautiful visuals to share with a nation recovering from the Civil War. This scenario became a reality in the late 1800s when Appleton Press employed prominent artists and writers to venture across the country in search of amazing natural and historic landmarks. Their stories and artwork resulted in the creation of a comprehensive travelogue publication known as Picturesque America. The artists and writers were captivated by the bountiful beauty they discovered and inadvertently became part of a new movement - one sparking the idea that we should protect these landmarks. For this exhibit, the artists have created new works to portray the original sites as they appear today. This "then and now" demonstrates if we have been good stewards of these natural and historic treasures. Hours: Wed.-Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 843/958-6484 or (www.charleston-sc.gov/citygallery).

Constantine Manos "Untitled (Woman and child)" c. 1961-1964, Gelatin silver print. CMA 1978.2.30

Columbia Museum of Art, Main & Hampton Streets, Columbia. Through Sept. 8 - "(Un) Settled: The Landscape in American Art". From natural wonders to the open road, the landscape has long been a muse in American art. "(Un) Settled" questions the shaping of national identity through objects from the colonial era to present. The variety of media and makers helps to redefine whose view is considered and expands on landscape's relevance and resonance in art. "(Un)Settled" explores the rich, complicated, and evolving topic of what it means to be American. The exhibition presents historic artworks in conversation with modern and contemporary pieces to examine ideas such as defining national identity, the question of land preservation, the meaning of boundaries, the complexity of cultural landscapes, and how location shapes our sense of self. Building upon noted Hudson River School paintings, "(Un)Settled" features works by artists including: Fidelia Bridges, Marsden Hartley, Georgia O'Keeffe, Benny Andrews, William Christenberry, Ana Mendieta, Ed Ruscha, Jeffrey Gibson, and Jacqueline Bishop. Through 40 artworks including examples of material culture such as furniture, glass, ceramics, and baskets, the exhibition highlights the evolving conversations around landscape and its relationship to establishing cultural and national identity over the last two centuries. Through Jan. 1, 2025 - "The Collection". Come see the newly organized collection. We've gathered ancient and modern works of art, together in one space, that explore our shared archetypes, myths, and ideals. Through Feb. 2, 2025 - "Constantine Manos: A Greek Portfolio". Born in Columbia to Greek immigrant parents in 1934, Constantine Manos traveled to Greece in the early 1960s, where he photographed the everyday lives of villagers over a period of three years. The resulting body of work, first published in 1972 as A Greek Portfolio, solidified the photographer's reputation and quickly earned international recognition. In 1978, he donated 50 of those prints to the Columbia Museum of Art, a selection of which is on view in this exhibition. Manos' account captures the beauty, simplicity, and hardships of rural Greek life with the sensitivity of one with familial ties to that country. In intimate images exploring love, loss, faith, and family, the artist prompts reflection on the nature of human relationships and the connections between land and labor. Galleries 5 & 6, Ongoing - "Modern & Contemporary Art from the Collection". ## Florence

Florence County Museum, 111 West Cheves Street, across the street from the Francis Marion University Performing Arts Center, Florence. Through Dec. 1 - "Kindred Spirit: The Personal Worlds of William H. Johnson". William H. Johnson (1901 - 1970) was a man between worlds: raised in the rural South, but educated in New York; black, but his unknown father was white; American-born, but lived much of his adult life in Europe. This diverse heritage gave Johnson a unique perspective and insight, but at times it was also a difficult shadow which followed him as he traveled the world in search of his true artistic voice. Eventually, after many years away from his hometown of Florence, SC, Johnson returned to the United States. Although living in New York, his art began to focus almost entirely on the lives and experiences of African Americans in the rural South. "My travels taught me that an artist must live and paint in his own environment... This development shall continue for the rest of my life, and it is the painting of my people," said Johnson in 1941. Educational Gallery, Through Dec. 12 - "Recollect". The images are shadowy and playful and are pulled from both folk and fairy tale origins on the outer perimeter of the gallery, and from personal experience in the center space. Horace Day (1909-1984) "Live Oak, Beaufort, South Carolina" 1938, oil on canvas

Greenville County Museum of Art, 420 College Street, Greenville. Through Sep 8 - "Ashley Norwood Cooper." Born and raised in Greenville, South Carolina, Ashley Norwood Cooper (born 1970) received her BA from the University of Georgia, where she majored in Latin. She taught Latin for a time, before moving to Bloomington, Indiana, where she earned her MFA in Painting from Indiana University in 2000. Cooper's work depicts intimate, middle-class life in vibrant colors applied with bold, expressive brushstrokes. Through Sept. 8 - "Horace Day in the Lowcountry." A plein air realist, Horace Day helped to extend the Charleston Renaissance into the post-World War II era by modernizing the genre, combining the punch of brilliant colors and textured brushstrokes with the same love of place expressed by Alfred Hutton, Alice Ravenel Huger Smith, Anna Heyward Taylor, and Elizabeth O'Neill Verner. His fresh interpretations of Carolina Lowcountry subjects documented vibrant city streets and their inhabitants, bucolic landscapes, rural cabins hidden beneath massive oaks, and churches still identifiable today by their distinctive architectural details. This exhibition will focus on the artist's work that was painted over four decades of traveling along the coast - from Charleston to Hilton Head Island. Ongoing - "Art and Artists of South Carolina: For Real". The GCMA's newest exhibition is drawn from the Museum's permanent collection. Celebrate the Palmetto State with a diverse selection of watercolors by Mary Whyte and Stephen Scott Young, sculptures carved by Grainger McKoy, and varied South Carolina landscapes. Ongoing - "Collection Highlights: African-American Art," features 17 works by as many artists. At the forefront of the exhibition is a realistic sculpture by John Wilson, whose monumental bronze head of Martin Luther King, Jr. captures the dignity and strength of the civil rights leader. Post-World War II non-objective painting is reflected in works by Beauford Delaney, Hale Woodruff, and Frank Wimberley. A lighter, but no less powerful, touch is embodied in a brilliant Color Field painting by Thomas Sills. The exhibition also includes evocative examples by Romare Bearden, Frederick Brown, Jacob Lawrence, Betye Saar, Merton Simpson, and Bob Thompson. Ongoing - "Andrew Wyeth: Running with the Land". This stunning retrospective showcases 59 works on paper, capturing Wyeth's preference for painting intimate subjects that were tied to the homes

established by his father in both Chadds Ford, Pennsylvania, and Cushing, Maine. Wyeth drew inspiration from the distinctive characteristics and denizens of these locations, revealing universal traits in his depictions of landscapes, objects, and people. Ongoing - "All in the Family (Connections)," which assembles work by three generations of Wyeths--the first family of American painting--taking advantage of several rarely exhibited loans from a private collection and complementing the exhibition "Andrew Wyeth: Running with the Land". Metropolitan Arts Council Gallery, 16 Augusta Street, Greenville. Through Aug. 30 - "Subtle Deluge," featuring recent works by Jay Owens. Owens say, "Much of the work in this exhibition comes from drawing while driving. It's a time to think, wonder and turn off. Images wash by, constantly changing: strip malls, barbecue stands, cars, trucks, backyards. I amalgamate what I see into drawings by combining, layering, adding and subtracting. New objects begin to build, drip, float, stack, fall, and recline into an expressive constellation of forms and color. Familiar places take on a surreal life. The work represents how I use the responsiveness of clay and the immediacy of painting and drawing. What results are imaginative sculpture, pottery, paintings and drawings that depict fabricated reality in the medium of the everyday." Ongoing - Featuring works by Greenville area artists. "My first influence was being surrounded by hats, color and fabric," he once wrote. "My mother was a milliner. Being in this atmosphere, began my life in art. I saw the work of Degas, Sargent and Sorolla, and it was like coming home." Segalman's work is permanently housed in over 40 museum collections, including the Metropolitan Museum of Art (NY), the Hirshhorn Museum (DC) and the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston (MA). He has been represented by the Harmon-Meek Gallery in Naples, FL, since 1981. Through Sept. 22 - "Cultural Currency," featuring works by 38 artists exploring the many aspects and conceptions of money by fashioning actual items of currency into 65 works of art - some whimsical, some cynical, all thought-provoking. Depending on one's perspective, money is either the thing that makes the world go 'round, or the root of all evil. It can bring power, status, security, comfort or misery — or something completely different. The constant exchange of money for goods and services is an essential part of life, whether for luxury purchases like entertainment and travel or for essential items like food and shelter. Yet while we all are intimately aware of the exchange value of money, we rarely think about the actual, physical forms of currency. Here, the artists make use of globally sourced paper and coin currency combined with mixed media to create intricate, often exquisite, and visually arresting works of art that offer new and unexpected impressions of this medium of exchange. Ongoing - Myrtle Beach's Franklin G. ## Orangeburg

Cecil Williams Civil Rights Museum, 1865 Lake Drive, Orangeburg. Ongoing - Established in 2019, the exquisite ultra-modern facility displays 1000 images of the Civil Rights Movement, but from the perspective of The Epochal South Carolina Events That Changed America. The massive archives comprise the largest collection of images of this type among all museums in the United States; including the Atlanta based High Museum which archives 300 images. The images were created by the founder, Cecil Williams, who began photography at age 9 and covered almost all historically significant events in South Carolina; from 1950 Briggs v. Elliot in Summerton, thru the 1969 Charleston Hospital Workers' Strike...and Beyond. From 1955 through 1969, Williams was a freelance journalist for "JET" magazine. His images have appeared in thousands of magazines, newspapers, historical publications, and motion picture productions. The museum design itself is part of the founders' DNA because; upon graduating from high school, Williams wanted to attend Clemson University to study architecture but denied because of his race. He then purchased a drafting board and through the years, designed three residences; including one featured in "EBONY", and the museum's design which has evolved into a living history facility. Throughout downtown Spartanburg's Cultural District, Ongoing - The Creative Crosswalk Project is a public art initiative in which local artists and designers design and paint a series of crosswalk murals, transforming the crosswalks into works of art, on Main Street in Spartanburg, SC. The downtown cultural district area is often bustling with events and pedestrians, and the pedestrians rely heavily on a multitude of crosswalks to safely traverse the downtown Spartanburg area. The problem is that crosswalks are incredibly easy to overlook, they are rarely visually appealing, and they can even be quite dangerous. In an effort to remedy these issues, Chapman Cultural Center, the City of Spartanburg, and the Spartanburg Area Chamber of Commerce came together to organize the Creative Crosswalk Project. In the late 1940s, he moved to New York City where he designed an exclusive line of ladies' handkerchiefs for the department store B. Altman, now considered vintage, collectible items. He also became associated with the American Artist Group designing Christmas cards, an occupation which he kept up throughout the majority of his artistic career. Krisel was a distinguished artist, architect, and teacher as well as a loving father and husband. Though Krisel may not be a household name among Spartanburg residents, he has made a significant artistic contribution to the Spartanburg community. Born in Brooklyn, NY in 1920, Krisel's interest in art and design started at a young age. He attended the American Artist School in New York city as a teenager where he met renowned modern artists, including Piet Mondrian, who greatly influenced his abstract style. After studying architecture at the New Bauhaus in Chicago from 1946-1949, he received his graduate degree from Illinois Institute of Technology in 1952. The following year, he began working for architectural firm Skidmore, Owings and Merrill when Roger Milliken hired them to design Milliken's new research facility in Spartanburg. Upon realizing Krisel was also a sculptor, Milliken hired him to design the spray fountain outside of the facility which functions as a recycler of air conditioning water. He then went on to design the Trident Fountain located outside of the Papadopoulos building on Wofford College's campus. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-7pm & Sat, 9am-3pm. You might even be an individual artist who is having an exhibit in a non-profit space or commercial space and you don't see your exhibits included. My question to you is - How long will you put up with that before you ask someone, "Why that is the case?" If you're not included - it's your fault. ## Asheville Area

Works by Judy Chicago

Asheville Art Museum, 2 South Pack Square at Pack Place, Asheville. Through Aug. 19 - "The New Salon: A Contemporary View". "The New Salon" offers a modern take on the prestigious tradition of the Parisian Salon with the diversity and innovation of today's art world. Guest-curated by Gabriel Shaffer, the show will include works from Pop Surrealism, Outsider Art, Street Art, and Graffiti genres. Bender Gallery in Asheville has been collaborating with the Asheville Art Museum to loan four paintings from three of our artists. The artists are Laine Bachman, Kukula, and Yui Sakamoto. Be sure to check out this special exhibition in downtown Asheville. Through Sept. 23 - "Shifting Perceptions: Photographs from the Collection". This exhibition continues the Museum's 75th-anniversary celebration and magnifies its expanding Collection of photographs. This exhibition is guest-curated by Katherine Ware, curator of photography at the New Mexico Museum of Art, and features over 125 artworks organized into three sections: Inside/Out, Together/Apart, and Natural/Unnatural. Each section explores seemingly opposing forces, prompting viewers to reconsider the nuances and complexities of life. "Our brains gravitate toward hard distinctions, but life is filled with gradations, complexities, and ambiguities. The categories offer a context for considering the pictures," said Ware. "They sound like opposites, but it is up to visitors to decide if these dualities are different or part of a continuum." Through Oct. 21 - "Honoring Nature: Early Southern Appalachian Landscape Painting". This exhibition explores the sublime natural landscapes of the Smoky Mountains of Western North Carolina and Tennessee. While there were several regional schools of painting around the early 1900s, this group is largely from the Midwest, and many of the artists trained at the Art Institute of Chicago or in New York City. Through their travels, they captured waterfalls, sunsets, thunderstorms, autumn foliage, lush green summers, and snow-covered mountains—elements that were novel for viewers from cities and rural areas. Though some of these paintings include people, they are usually used for scale and painted with little to no detail, highlighting the magnificence of nature. Ongoing - The Asheville Art Museum, the hub for 20th- and 21st-century American art in Western North Carolina, has re-opened to the public. The $24+ million, state-of-the-art facility encompasses 54,000 square feet and adds 70 percent more Collection gallery space. For the first time in the Museum's history, it has the capacity to host major traveling exhibitions from nationally recognized museums. The expansion increases its physical space and dramatically increases its role as a community center, educational resource, economic engine for WNC, and cultural concierge for the region's residents and visitors. ## Blowing Rock

Maud Gatewood, "Early Morning Early June," 1988, acrylic on canvas, 60" x 306". Gift of art from GSK, BRAHM Permanent Collection 2024.2.1, photographed by Joshua White.

Blowing Rock Art and History Museum, corner of Chestnut and Main streets, downtown Blowing Rock. Cannon Gallery, Through Feb. 22, 2025 - "Anna Buckner: And other Myths". Buckner is a painter in the most expanded sense of the word, creating compositions at the intersection of design, textile, and painting. "And other Myths" features a body of work that leverages the storytelling potential of quilting within the context of painterly composition and design precision. She is interested in exploring the limits of existing structures within painting, language, textile patterning, new media, and emerging modes of teaching and learning. Schaefer Gallery, Through Nov. 2 - "Two Headed Diver: Lynne Hobaica & Rickie Barnett". This is an exhibition in three entangled parts, featuring the individual yet mutually-informed studio practices of Lynne Hobaica, Rickie Barnett, and their collaborative work under the moniker "Two Headed Diver." Their characters—often simultaneously fantastic and mundane—are produced through a heady concoction of personal myth-making, morality tale, and a distinct sense of New World wonder. Both artists' work is driven by narrative, though their singular approaches to storytelling are often pleasantly obscured by layered surface treatments and enigmatic symbology. Hobaica's work utilizes recurring patterns and decorative elements to elevate seemingly humble or alien subjects—chihuahuas and antlered beasts seen here, for example. While gauzy glazes and sheer fabrics shroud her characters in a fog that reinforces an almost mythological interpretation of them. Working in both ceramic and textile, Hobaica's compositions prioritize the inexplicability of the human experience. Fort, Atwell, & Rankin East Galleries, Through Jan. 5, 2025 - "The Hard Edge & The Soft Line: A Retrospective of Maud Gatewood". Maud Gatewood (1934-2004) is an exceptional figure in the art history of North Carolina and the American Southeast. A painter of exacting technique with a keen eye for composition and cultural commentary, her pictures capture the Carolinas (and the expanding world beyond) across much of the 20th Century. A native of Yanceyville in Caswell County, NC, Gatewood's paintings reveal rural landscapes and their denizens in the midst of transformation while also cleverly framing the experience of modern life with acerbic wit and a surprising wealth of empathy. "The Hard Edge & The Soft Line: A Retrospective of Maud Gatewood" is a major undertaking by BRAHM. This retrospective project provides a comprehensive narrative of Gatewood's career, considering the evolution of her oeuvre and her significant contributions, as an artist and an educator, to the field of contemporary representational painting in North Carolina and the region. A recuperative exercise, the exhibition and its accompanying scholarship will feature a broad range of her works, including paintings, works on paper, and archival material, excavating Gatewood's rigorous technical experimentation, coded but no less rich explorations of gender and sexuality, and reverence for depicting the built and natural landscapes of her native state and elsewhere. Ongoing - the BRAHM will host exhibits, educational programs and classes that promote the visual arts, history and heritage of the mountains of western North Carolina. Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., noon-4pm. Contact: 828/295-9099 or at (www.blowingrockmuseum.org).

is the debut of a new body of paintings which share the title "Flowstones". Each painting is made of modular shapes that make up figurative units of measure. They are fragments of a larger puzzle. The surfaces are thickly layered and clouded by an ambiguous haze. Two window works "Double Trap" and "Single Use II" mirror each other and parallel the modular units in the paintings. The interlocking shapes form large mazes made of window film. The transparent material suggests that we look through the maze motifs and find alternate ways to solve problems. ## Charlotte Area

South End Art Gallery Crawl - From 5-8pm on the 1st Friday of each month.

Bechtler Museum of Modern Art, Levine Center for the Arts, 420 South Tryon St., Charlotte. Through Aug. 9 - "Eduardo Chillida: 100 Years". This exhibition commemorates the centenary of the influential Spanish sculptor Eduardo Chillida (1924-2002). Presenting a selection of sculptures and works on paper from the Bechtler Museum's permanent collection, this intimate exhibition offers a focused look at the artist's pioneering and varied practice. Renowned for his monumental sculptures, Chillida also created domestically-scaled sculptures, drawings, collages, and prints, examples of which will be on view. Together these works illustrate the great influence that Chillida's upbringing in the Basque region of Spain and his early training in architecture had on his unique artistic vision, and demonstrate his enduring exploration of space, light, form, and material. Through Aug. 9 - "Alyson Shotz: Coalescence". Blurring the boundaries between art and science, American artist Alyson Shotz (born 1964) is widely acclaimed for her sculptures and installations that use synthetic materials such as glass, mirrors, plastic, and stainless steel to harness intangible forces of the natural world like gravity, space, and light. On loan from the Bank of America Collection, this single-work installation is a dazzling sculpture made of glass beads and wire that hangs from the ceiling, "Coalescence" (2006) resembles a hovering cloud, a massive spider web glistening with morning dew, or a cluster of atoms magnified to monumental scale. Its open form challenges traditional notions of sculpture as grounded, solid, or weighty, and reveals Shotz's abiding interest in perception: calling attention to the relationship between an artwork, the viewer, and the space they share. Ongoing - The Bechtler Museum of Modern Art is named after the family of Andreas Bechtler, a Charlotte resident and native of Switzerland who assembled and inherited a collection of more than 1,400 artworks created by major figures of 20th-century modernism and donated it to the public trust. The Bechtler collection comprises artworks by seminal figures such as Alberto Giacometti, Joan Miro, Jean Tinguely, Max Ernst, Andy Warhol, Alexander Calder, Le Corbusier, Sol LeWitt, Edgar Degas, Nicolas de Stael, Barbara Hepworth and Picasso. Only a handful of the artworks in the Bechtler collection have been on public view in the United States. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon., Wed.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Sun. noon-5pm; and open until 9pm the 1st. and 3rd. Fri. of each month. Contact: 704/353-9200 or at (www.bechtler.org).

Work by Marge Loudon Moody

Bill and Patty Gorelick Gallery, at Central Piedmont Community College's Cato Campus, Cato III, 8120 Grier Road, Charlotte. Aug. 5 - Dec. 31 - "Intangible Words," featuring works by Marge Loudon Moody. Moody is a Professor Emerita of Winthrop University in Rock Hill, SC where she taught for over 30 years. Widely exhibited both nationally and internationally Moody's work exists in private and public collections worldwide. "Intangible Words" broadly investigates environments inspired by Moody's travels and imaginations. Through the use of bright colors, abstract forms and continuous reworking of the composition, Moody creates the "essential" feeling of certain environments. Non-representational imagery utilizes the "essential" nature in order to illuminate the unseen or intangible spirit of the subject. "Subject matter may serve as metaphor for intangible ideas. The work examines boundaries, addresses the fragility of existence, of presence, of absence, and of memory," says Moody. Moody will also serve as this year's Juror for Central Piedmont's "2024 Annual Juried Student Art Show". Hours: open while campus is open, but reservations help us alert our security team to visitors, provide directions to the galleries, and COVID-19 security protocol instructions to the visitors. Bill and Patty Gorelick Gallery, at Central Piedmont Community College's Harper Campus, Harper IV, 315 W. Hebron St., Charlotte. Through Dec. 31 - "A Journey Through Life", featuring works by Jodi Lynn McNeely. This series has been several years in the making. As you inspect each piece of work, look for the 'path'. It represents our journey. We all are on our own journey, have our own story. As I talk to folks about their stories, I'm amazed at how similar our experiences can be. Our life events, whether the same or different can cultivate preparedness in each of us in much the same way. Note that each individual person carved into my works of art is either touching the path or connected to someone who is. If they are extremely close, they share a hand or foot. Staying connected to someone is critical in this thing called life. As I travel through life, I am constantly reminded at how important being connected is. This is especially relevant during the rough times. Establishing strong relationships for me has been an essential part of my journey. I often carve the likeness of folks I know or have met on my journey into my work. Do you see yourself? I am constantly reminded of how important the people around me are. My life has been full of heart break, pure joy and everything in between. Sound familiar? I am determined to learn from the heart break, remember the pure joy and live everything in between to the fullest. Hours: open while campus is open, but reservations help us alert our security team to visitors, provide directions to the galleries, and COVID-19 security protocol instructions to the visitors. Bill and Patty Gorelick Gallery, at Central Piedmont Community College's Levine Campus, Levine II, 2800 Campus Ridge Road, Matthews. Aug. 5 - Dec. 31 - "Fragments," featuring works by Tina Alberni. Alberni derives this series of work from impact of climate change and the harm created by aspects of technological development and progress. With a deep belief that all living things possess and intrinsic value and not simply human beings, Alberni challenges the viewer to consider topics such as how natural disasters, war and social disparity contribute to the endangerment and physical displacement of all living things. Alberni uses her new exhibition 'Fragments' to illustrate the narrative of fragmented lives and irreversible damage both visually and physically. In contrast to the hopeless narrative of destruction, Alberni seeks to use her artwork to create a positive, hopeful spirit for the future. Alberni assembles objects and layers in her work in a brightly colored, harmonious fashion, which invites the viewer in for a deeper contemplation of each composition. Alberni's work will be on display at Central Piedmont for 2024 and will be part of the Gorelick Gallery's traveling artwork series. Their powerful and thought-provoking work has not only redefined artistic expression, but has also played a significant role in advocating for social justice, equality, and empowerment. Black women artists have historically faced marginalization and underrepresentation within the art world. Despite these obstacles, they have persevered and crafted an artistry that encompasses a diverse range of themes, mediums, and styles. Artists in the exhibition include, Nina Chanel Abney, ruby onyinyechi amanze, Lauren Halsey, Rachel Jones, Toyin Ojih Odutola, Jennifer Packer, Calida Rawles, Deborah Roberts, Tschabalala Self, Amy Sherard, Mickalene Thomas, and Lynette Yiadom-Boakye. Aug. 9 - Jan. 20, 2025 - "Becoming The Sea," an exhibition highlighting 12 artists who participated in the first two years of Black Rock Senegal, an artist residency founded in Dakar in 2019. The exhibition explores identity, physical and digital boundaries, and the process of individuation through analysis of complex and socially accepted paradoxes. Defined as "an individual's true inner self," anima serves as a leitmotif in Wood's introspective work, which examines the archetypes found within physical and digital societies. As the artist states, "This body of work draws inspiration from the concept of deus ex machina - a narrative device that introduces an unexpected, external force to resolve a complex situation. This device allows us to highlight the paradoxical position of Black women in society - cast simultaneously as both saviors and scapegoats within a white supremacist framework." Ongoing - Featuring selections from the John & Vivian Hewitt Collection of African-American Art, one of the nation's most important and comprehensive collections of African-American art. Mint Museum Randolph, 2730 Randolph Road, Charlotte. Delhom Gallery, Through Aug. 11 - "The Delhom Service League: 50 Golden Years". The Delhom Service League (DSL) provided a half-century of generous support and impactful initiatives to The Mint Museum, helping to fund the acquisition of more than 200 works of art in the Mint's collection. The Delhom Service League: 50 Golden Years celebrates the Delhom Service League's enthusiastic support for the Mint by proudly displaying significant works funded or gifted by the affiliate group, plus selected publications, photographs and other memorabilia. In 2022, the Delhom Service League made the difficult decision to dissolve as a Mint affiliate. The league nevertheless remains an indelible part of the Mint's history, and its many contributions rightly deserve the museum's never-ending recognition and gratitude. In 1965, The Mint Museum purchased the exceptional collection of British, European, and Asian ceramics from Chicago collector M. Mellanay Delhom. Two years later, once the museum finished building a new wing that included a large gallery to display her holdings, Miss Delhom - as she preferred to be called - began offering weekly classes, open to the public, to discuss the works on view. Ongoing - "The Cole Family: A Dynasty of North Carolina Potters". From crocks, jars, and jugs to pitchers, candleholders, and vases, "turning pots" is one of the oldest and richest craft traditions in North Carolina. For more than 200 years, members of the Cole family have been potting in central North Carolina — Randolph, Moore, Lee, and Montgomery counties. Six generations of Coles, and no fewer than 18 individuals, are represented in The Mint Museum's permanent collection. More than 60 highlights of their wares are included in the installation "The Cole Family: A Dynasty of North Carolina Potters". One reason for its long-term success is that making pottery has so often been a family tradition in the state. Fathers taught the art of forming, glazing, and firing clay objects to their sons, and in later generations also to daughters, who in turn taught their children, and so on through the decades. These family dynasties not only helped to keep the potting craft alive, but ensured continuity in techniques and craftsmanship, as well as introduced artistic innovations in succeeding generations. "The Cole Family: A Dynasty of North Carolina Potters" presents a visual history of "turned pots" and the family that helped turn North Carolina into one of America's centers for handmade, traditional pottery. Bridges and Levine Galleries, Ongoing - "Contemporary British Studio Ceramics: The Grainer Collection". Focused on the collection of Diane and Marc Grainer, this installation is a survey of contemporary British studio ceramics. Comprising functional and sculptural objects made between the 1980s and today, the show features work by artists either born or residing in Great Britain, including established "contemporary classics" like Gordon Baldwin and Rupert Spira, and cutting-edge ceramicists such as Julian Stair and Kate

Malone. Several recently-gifted works from the Grainers are included. Alexander, Spangler, and Harris Galleries, Ongoing - "Portals to the Past: British Ceramics 1675 - 1825". The Mint Museum's collection of eighteenth-century British pottery and porcelain is widely respected for its scope and quality. The collection numbers over 2,000 objects and includes important examples of both salt-glazed and dry-bodied stoneware from Staffordshire; tin-glazed earthenware from Bristol, Liverpool, and London; and cream-colored earthenware from Derbyshire, Staffordshire, and Yorkshire. Notable eighteenth-century porcelain factories represented include Chelsea, Bow, and Vauxhall in London, Longton Hall in Staffordshire, Worcester, Bristol, and others. Individual works in the collection are exceptional because of their rarity, craftsmanship, provenance, or as representative examples of particular types or methods of production or decoration. Ongoing - "American Glass". The nineteenth and early twentieth centuries represented a time of extraordinary growth for the American glass industry. Such companies as Boston & Sandwich Glass Company in Sandwich, MA; Steuben Glass Works in Corning, NY; and Libbey Glass Company in Toledo, OH, began operation and soon developed notable reputations for producing fashionable wares that were coveted by many middle- and upper-class consumers. "American Glass" showcases objects by these and other American glass companies, illustrating the variety of forms and styles that prevailed during this period. Glass-manufacturing techniques will be another focus of the exhibition, with representative examples of pressed, cut, blown, and molded glass. Nearly all of the works on view are from The Mint Museum's permanent collection of glass, which is second in size only to the ceramics collection in the museum's Decorative Arts holdings. Ongoing - "Arts of Africa". The African continent is remarkable in its geographic, social, political, and cultural diversity. This impressive diversity is reflected in the visual arts through a variety of media and forms including ceramics, masks, textiles, sculptures, prestige staffs, and shrines. With exceptional loans from private collectors and The Mint Museum's own collection of African Art, the museum is pleased to announce the expansion of its presentation of Arts of Africa, thereby providing visitors a more in-depth, meaningful, and exciting overview of African art. Heritage Gallery, Ongoing - Feature works of art, archival documents, and photographs documenting the growth and evolution of the museum, from its beginnings as the original branch of the US Mint to its founding as an art museum to the present and beyond. Ongoing - "Art for the Millions: WPA Prints" and "Carolina Clay," featuring a display of colorful wares made between 1920 and 1950 as potters from NC adapted their works to a market economy. "Art of the United States," featuring contemporary works from the Mint's permanent collection, including works by Romare Bearden, Maud Gatewood, John Biggers, Juan Logan, Tarlton Blackwell, Radcliffe Bailey, Kojo Griffin, and others. "Art in the Americas," featuring paintings, precious metalwork, sculpture, furniture and decorative arts from the 17th through the 19th centuries illustrate the unique culture that emerged from the Spanish colonization of the Americas. Crosland Gallery - Featuring a presentation of portraits with many fascinating images presented. Rankin Gallery - Featuring a presentation of the Romare Bearden Collection, including two "new" Beardens. Work by Fred Smith

Mint Museum Uptown, Levine Center for the Arts, 500 South Tryon St., Charlotte. Through Sept. 22 - "Whitfield Lovell: Passages". Consisting of two immersive installations and approximately 30 additional works, "Whitfield Lovell: Passages" is the most comprehensive exhibition of works by artist Whitfield Lovell. Lovell (born in 1959) is renowned for his masterful conté crayon portraits and multisensory installations that focus on aspects of African American history, while raising universal questions about identity, memory, and America's collective heritage. The exhibition brings together two of Lovell's major installations, "Deep River" (2013) and "Visitation: The Richmond Project" (2001), with a selection of free-standing tableaux and works on paper from his acclaimed "Kin" series (2008–2011) and "Spell Suite" (2019–2020), as well as the premiere presentation of his forthcoming "Card Pieces II". Through a combination of visual projections, sound, and found objects, as well as examples from Lovell's works on paper, visitors will be enveloped in hidden histories and cultural memory of the African American experience. Through Sept. 1 - "Fred Smith: From This Disposition". Fred Smith (b. 1987) is a human navigating their day to day existence through the act of making drawings, paintings, and sculptural objects. Their work is developed with a sense of subversive irony, exploring societal norms and situations that seem off or odd. By bending physicality and destabilizing reality, Fred Smith's uncanny creations prompt us to ask complex questions about our surroundings and our imagination. The artist has a similar mission in mind while creating the work, stating that he's "simply asking questions that I don't know how to ask with words." Molding form and spaces into open-ended queries, Smith delivers us to a site where "the world is a stage." Craft + Design Galleries, Ongoing - "Craft in the Laboratory: The Science of Making Things," is the first installation in the Southeast to explore how craft artists and designers use science and math concepts when creating works of art. Presented by Müller Corporation, Craft in the Laboratory also celebrates a reinstallation of the Mint's Craft + Design Galleries—the first since 2010. Co-curated by the Mint's Senior Curator of Craft, Design, and Fashion Annie Carlan and Assistant Curator for Craft, Design, and Fashion Rebecca Elliot, "Craft in the Laboratory" includes 100 works from the Mint's collection that are made from precious metals, wood, steel, polymers, and even agricultural waste, that emphasize the preciseness of science used to craft works of art. Made by nationally and internationally renowned artists, the objects are organized by material and subject throughout the galleries. Now - The Mint Museum's new four-story installation "Foragers" offers a transcendent experience while celebrating the tradition of women as makers and providers. Unlike anything ever seen at The Mint Museum before, Brooklyn-based artist Summer Wheat's "Foragers" is a monumental piece of public work of art spanning 96 windows, four stories, and 3,720 square feet at Mint Museum Uptown's Robert Haywood Morrison Atrium. The myriad of vibrant panels that give the illusion of stained glass and celebrates the tradition of women as makers and providers. "Foragers" is part of a larger exhibition "In Vivid Color," which brings together four innovative contemporary artists—Wheat, Gisela Colon, Spencer Finch, and Jennifer Steinkamp—who create works celebrating the power of color and its ability to permeate the space around us. Their work is juxtaposed with a selection of paintings and works on paper, drawn primarily from The Mint Museum's permanent collection, which showcase artists' more traditional exploration of color. Ongoing - The Mint Museum Uptown houses the world renowned collections of the Mint Museum of Craft + Design, as well as the American Art and Contemporary Art collections and selected works from the European Art collection. The building also includes a café, a Family Gallery, painting and ceramics studios, classrooms, a 240-seat auditorium, a Special Events Pavilion with outdoor terrace, and an expanded Museum Shop specializing in crafts of the Carolinas. Pauline Dove Art Gallery, Central Piedmont Community College, located inside the college's new Parr Center, Charlotte. Through Aug. 9 - "Forever Transient," featuring works by Andrew Leventis, Kenny Nguyen, Colby Caldwell, Brent Dedas, James Henkel, Susan Jedrzejewski, Deb Koo and Jennifer Minnis. "Forever Transient" visually investigates the meaning behind transience, impermanence, continuous change and the desire to preserve and prolong the temporary moment. Inspired by Dutch still life paintings and vanitas, each artist exemplifies a different creative approach and skill set to artistically render the fragility of time. Time does not stand still. It marches forward and looks back retrospectively at the past. Therefore, the experience of time is never linear, but cyclical. "Forever Transient" exhibits works by 8 nationally and internationally acclaimed artists. Through varying processes, each artist composes their work to include vibrant references, and in some cases direct interactions, with nature and humanity. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-4pm or by appt. Families literally packed up everything they owned and headed into the unknown-searching for the "promised land." Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., 1-4pm. Work by Jalen Jackson

CAM Raleigh, 409 W. Martin Street, between Harrington and West streets, Raleigh. Main Gallery, Through Sept. 8 - "Crowning Glory," featuring works by Samantha Everette. "One of the most intimate yet universal experiences of Black women is the braiding of our hair. Our African and Indigenous ancestry endows hair with significance beyond physical beauty; our long flowing braids are a conduit for spiritual anointing, a symbol of tribe and belonging, and a method for intergenerational bonding," says Samantha Everette. "Inspired by her own experiences and by the Black women who make up her closest friends and family, Everette creates a scene that highlights their strength and beauty through the ritual of hair braiding." A ritual experienced around the world, the women tightly encircle Zya - a deeply intimate expression of sisterhood and inter-generational connection. Dressed in white, reminiscent of those worn by Orisha and Houdeoun priestesses throughout the Diaspora. Emerging Artist Wall, Through Sept. 8 - "God's Plan For Shone," featuring works by Jalen Jackson. Jackson is a visual artist whose paintings explore African American culture, collective memory, and experiences. His paintings depict flashbacks of his childhood and other memories, especially growing up as a son of a single mother. Jackson began college as a Business Management student at North Carolina A&T University. During his junior year, he signed up for a painting class and rediscovered his love for art he has fostered as an African American child growing up in Durham, NC. He received his BFA in Visual Arts from NC A&T State University in 2021 and has exhibited locally at 311 Art Gallery, Anchorlight Studios, Wake Tech, Barton College, The Fruit and Artspace. He was the Inaugural HBCU Artist in Residence at Artspace in downtown Raleigh. Lower Level Gallery, Through Sept. 8 - "UNC Chapel Hill MFA Thesis Exhibitions". Jean Michel Dissake "Mutangary" textiles, wood, metal, found objects, in the exhibit, "BABENGA - The Sacred Forest" at the Gregg Museum of Art & Design

Gregg Museum of Art & Design, The Historic Chancellor's Residence, NC State University, located at 1903 Hillsborough Street, Raleigh. Ongoing - "Material Messages: The Tales that Textiles Tell". For thousands of years cultures around the world have used cloth as a means of visual communication—a way to document, celebrate, commemorate, and depict events large and small. Nonverbal tools play an important role in interactions within and between cultures, as verbal communication comprises only a small part of the ways that we, as human beings, share information and connect with each other. "Material Messages" features textiles created by a diversity of global artists that highlight this communication through cloth. Ongoing - "Selections from the Collections". Image of a beige quilt with a skeleton riding a wolf holding an American flag. The quilt is made out of old t-shirts. Drawing from the Gregg Museum's collections of over 54,000 objects, Selections from the Collections displays a sampling of the many different kinds of pieces in its holdings. Though objects in the exhibition will rotate from time to time to facilitate their preservation and so that different artists and kinds of objects can be exhibited, the same general themes, materials, and variety of work will remain a part of this ongoing exhibition. For many years, Gregg audiences have been treated to wide ranging but relatively short-term exhibitions that explore topics or present artists' works for a matter of months, and then get changed out and replaced by entirely new shows. While this will continue, most visitors have departed without realizing that the Gregg staff also maintains vast collections used for teaching, research, supporting student projects, and, on occasion, as source material for the exhibitions in the public galleries. The semi-permanent Selections from the Collections exhibition in the historic Residence seeks to remedy that. This new rotating installation will ensure that there will always be fascinating things to see and share at the Gregg! Historic Residence, Ongoing - One of NC State University's most historic buildings is now the permanent home of the Gregg Museum of Art & Design. The Historic Chancellor's Residence, located at 1903 Hillsborough Street, along with a 15,000 sq. ft. addition, increases the museum's visibility while significantly adding to its exhibition and programming space. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm. The Gregg does ask that larger groups (15+) call ahead at (919) 515-3503, to avoid crowding in the galleries. Contact: Zoe Starling, Curator of Education at 919/513-7244 or at (<https://gregg.arts.ncsu.edu/>).

North Carolina Museum of Art, 2110 Blue Ridge Road, Raleigh. Ann and Jim Goodnight Museum Park, Through Oct. 31 - "Park Billboards: Steven Paul Judd". Self-taught artist and filmmaker Steven Paul Judd (Kiowa/Choctaw) works across media, creating paintings, murals, mosaics, street art, posters, stickers, and T-shirt designs. His work disrupts American Indian stereotypes, often using humor, and reinterprets Native imagery through a pop culture lens. Judd participated in the Disney/ABC writing fellowship program in Los Angeles in 2008 and was a staff writer for the Disney XD series Zeke and Luther before transitioning to visual art and filmmaking. He has received a United States Artists fellowship and several Emmy nominations. He is based in Oklahoma City. Ongoing - "Break the Mold: New Takes on Traditional Art Making". The exhibit showcases contemporary artists who use traditional modes of art making and crafting to tackle timely subject matter. Innovative takes on embroidery, ceramics, quilting, furniture, interior design, and fashion accessories serve to explore diverse topics such as gender assumptions and inequalities, prison reform, racial justice, memory, and loss, as well as how objects transmit and transform social and cultural history. North Carolina Pottery Center, 233 East Avenue, Seagrove. Main Gallery, Through Dec. 15 - "Something's Afoot". Footed pottery pieces, sometimes even having literal feet, have a rich history dating back thousands of years and have been found at archaeological sites in ancient Mesopotamia, Egypt, Greece, Rome, China, Mesoamerica, and Medieval & Renaissance Europe, as well as other places. Adding feet or stands to pottery pieces emerged over time for various reasons, including increased functionality, cultural and religious symbology, ceremonial purposes, and enhanced aesthetics. Today, footed pottery continues to be crafted by artisans worldwide, both as functional objects and works of art. Our "Something's Afoot" show will feature footed pieces by fourteen of our state's wonderful pottery! For this show, "footed" means having two or more points of contact with the ground. Back Gallery, Through Dec. 15 - "Humble Components". When you break it down (not literally!), pottery, the product of a craft that likely originated independently in multiple regions around the world thousands of years ago and continues to be practiced in North Carolina today, is really just composed of humble components—clay and various minerals and elements. In our "Humble Components" show, you'll see old and contemporary pieces representing various North Carolina traditions and techniques: Native American pit-fired, slip-decorated redware, salt-glazed, alkaline-glazed, wood ash-glazed, Chinese blue, crystalline, and chrome red, next to samples of the humble components from which some of those pieces were made. Ongoing - Featuring permanent and changing exhibits on the history of North Carolina pottery, "The North Carolina Pottery Tradition" and "Seagrove Area Pottery". Louise Wells Cameron Art Museum, @ intersection of Independence Blvd. & South 17th Street, Wilmington. Through Oct. 20 - "The Work of Their Hands". The anchor work of "The Work of Their Hands" is a tulip quilt made 170 years ago by an now unknown, enslaved woman in North Carolina. Through her masterful stitchwork and time-honored design, this unknown artist sewed a story of strength and perseverance. Spinning forward from this quilt and its practice, The "Work of Their Hands" explores the continuing legacy of quilt-making and the evolution of textile art, starting with traditional quilts made for bedcoverings to contemporary fabric artworks by artists like Celeste Butler, Michael Cummings, Gee's Bend quilters, Michael James, Beverly Smith and others. Through Feb. 16, 2025 - "Thomas Sayre: Four Walls". A reception will be held on Apr. 26, from 6-9pm. An artist talk will be held on Apr. 27, from 11am-noon. The exhibit features new and never exhibited works by American artist Thomas Sayre. Each of the four large-scale pieces in the installation questions the belief systems and symbols that underpin the ideals of church, nation and creation. Made of materials that include tar, smoke, fabric gowns, gunshots, welding material, earth and fire, these works invite visitors to draw close and experience the messiness of making, and by analogy, to bear witness to the ways that life invades, entangles, and tarnishes us. Ongoing - Cameron Art Museum presents the only sculpture park in the country created to honor the United States Colored Troops and their fight for freedom. David Gilbert, "Gone Girl", 2018. Courtesy of the artist and Klaus von Nichtssagend Gallery, New York.

North Carolina Museum of Art, Winston-Salem (former SECCA), 750 Marguerite Drive, Winston-Salem. Main Gallery, Through Aug. 18 - "David Gilbert: Flutter," featuring an exhibition of photography by Los Angeles-based artist David Gilbert. "Flutter" marks the artist's first institutional solo exhibition, providing the unique opportunity to experience twelve years of Gilbert's work in one setting. David Gilbert (American, b. 1982) creates photographs that flirt with impermanence. The artist constructs playful sculptures, backdrops, and scenes from found materials, photographing them in distinctive views and dramatic natural light. The resulting pictures capture spontaneous moments, paired with lightheartedness and sensitivity. Gilbert's artistic practice is difficult to categorize. He is a painter, sculptor, and photographer. His approaches to making art vary, alternating between vibrant and colorful scenes to more austere, melancholic constructions. At certain points, his process echoes traditional still life, portrait, or landscape painting, yet his choice in subject matter and technique resists these rigid classifications. Potter Gallery, Through Sept. 15 - "Tender," featuring body- and word-based sculptures which explore intertwined layers of black identity, history, and hope by Trinidadian-American artist Allana Clarke. The visceral performance art and sensual sculptures of Detroit-based artist Allana Clarke (b. 1987) embody a profound interest in conveying the lived narratives of Black women within the African diaspora. Her deliberate choice of materials, such as 30-second hair bonding glue and cocoa butter, form part of a conceptual effort to rethink familiar material and reshape history. Ongoing - Founded in 1956, the Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art offers a front-row seat to the art of our time. Through visual art exhibitions, education, music, film, dance and theater, SECCA starts conversations that engage diverse communities and perspectives. SECCA is an affiliate of the North Carolina Museum of Art and a division of the NC Department of Natural & Cultural Resources. SECCA receives operational funding from The Arts Council of Winston-Salem and Forsyth County. Additional funding is provided by the James G. Hanes Memorial Fund. Reynolda House Museum of American Art, Reynolda Road, Winston-Salem. Northwest Bedroom Gallery, Through Oct. 27 - "Good Impressions: Portraits Across Three Centuries from Reynolda and Wake Forest". Portraits are often taken at face value—as accurate representations of a person's appearance, sometimes removed by decades or centuries. But portraits are often the products of delicate negotiations between artist and subject. Sometimes they flatter, exaggerating the sitter's beauty or rich attire. Sometimes they capture the subject engaged in his or her occupation, whether pausing during study or painting in his or her studio. Sometimes they celebrate an auspicious occasion, such as a recent engagement or the imminent birth of a child. This exhibition features three centuries of portraits of men and women, Black and White, solitary and companionate, classic and modern. "Good Impressions" was mounted to mark the recent conservation treatment of John Singleton Copley's 1762 Portrait of "Mrs. Daniel Rogers" (Elizabeth Gorham Rogers) in the collection of Wake Forest University, and Reynolda House's recent acquisition of Kwame Brathwaite's 1973 photograph "Changing Times". Mary and Charlie Babcock Wing Gallery, Aug. 24 - Dec. 5 - "Founder's Vision: The Private Collection of Barbara Babcock Millhouse". The exhibition features works of art from the personal collection of the founder of Reynolda House Museum of American Art. Audiences will have a unique opportunity to view more than 50 objects reflecting the best of American modernism from artists including Romare Bearden, Alex Katz, Edward Hopper, Joseph Cornell, Georgia O'Keeffe and John Singer Sargent among 40 other artists from the late 19th and 20th centuries—all under one roof. "The 'Founder's Vision' exhibition traces the entire arc of modernism in America," said Phil Archer, the Betsy Main Babcock Deputy Director at Reynolda and the exhibition's curator. Master Bedroom Gallery, Through Dec. 31 - "Still I Rise: The Black Experience at Reynolda". "Into a daybreak that's wondrously clear / I rise." Maya Angelou's poem "Still I Rise," published in 1978, was an assertion of dignity and resilience in the face of oppression. In the 1980s, Angelou used Reynolda as her stage, sharing words of humanity, survival, and triumph. But before her, numerous Black lives impacted and intersected with the story of Reynolda. "Still I Rise: The Black Experience at Reynolda" examines the lives of the Black women and men who helped shape Reynolda as it evolved from a Jim Crow era working estate into a museum for American art. East Bedroom Sleeping Porch, Ongoing - Featuring a condensed version of the fall 2023 exhibition "Smith & Libby: Two Rings, Seven Months, One Bullet". This semi-permanent exhibition presents a fascinating look at an unsolved shooting that rocked the Reynolda estate and made national headlines in 1932. Like most family homes, Reynolda House witnessed its share of tragedies, none more shocking than the death by gunshot of Zachary Smith ("Smith") Reynolds, youngest child of R.J. and Katharine Smith Reynolds. Soon after midnight on July 6, 1932, Smith was shot on a sleeping porch at the family's country estate. Smith died later that morning. Smith's wife Libby Holman and Smith's childhood friend and secretary Albert "Ab" Walker were ultimately charged with first-degree murder. In a stunning reversal, the case was dropped before coming to trial. To this day, it is not known whether Smith Reynolds, 20-year-old heir and renowned aviator, died by suicide, accident or murder. Ongoing - Collection of 18th through 20th century art, sculpture, American art, and pottery. Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 9:30am-4:30pm & Sun., 1:30-4:30pm. Contact: 336/725-5325 or at (<https://reynolda.org/>).

Work by Eric McRay

Sunset River Gallery, 10283 Beach Drive SW, Calabash. Through Aug. 15 - Oil painter Rich Flanagan is the Spotlight Artist at Sunset River Gallery. Best known for his detailed beachscapes and coastal oil paintings, Flanagan says, "I try to capture the mood of the scene and moment in time that made an impression on me. Somethings it's the force of the surge, the cloud formation, the wind, the light playing on the water or the sand. I focus on the light on and shadow, the color and values, and the small details of the scene that impressed me." Flanagan has painted all his life and earned his bachelor's degree in art. He has earned many awards including the 2017, 2019, and 2023 Lee Barrett People's Choice and First Place awards (2019 and 2020) at the Arts Council of Moore County Fine Arts Festival. Through Aug. 31 - "Southern Comfort: Collages by Eric McRay". The Raleigh, NC based artist, who was born and raised in Washington, DC, uses collage to explore visual storytelling while addressing the human figure as an entity of change in theatrical narratives. These chronicles are inspired by African American, Biblical, and art history, as well as pop culture, but at the core are McRay's familial relationships. This continuum searches for personal and universal experiences. Ongoing - Sunset River Gallery is a gallery where art lovers and investors at almost every level can find extraordinary art. The gallery serves the regional community in the Carolinas by representing exceptional local artists and also carries original work by internationally renowned artists. Its location in Calabash, North Carolina gives the gallery an advantage over many in major metropolitan areas. The large 10,000 square foot gallery offers the very low overhead of a gallery-owned facility in a cost-efficient location. Online reach has made this possible. It allows Sunset River to provide excellent works from the 20th Century Modern and Contemporary categories at better pricing than high-overhead galleries. New owner Larry Johnson from Bethesda, MD, has bought and sold art through major and middle-market auctions around the world for two decades. He has been an amateur painter and sculptor for years, achieving a minor in fine art from Purdue University. The gallery has added a new 20th Century Art installation, featuring rare and valuable fine and modern art, primarily impressionist and abstract. Works by Arianna Bara

Hillsborough Gallery of Arts, 121 N. Churton St., Suite 1-D, Hillsborough. Through Aug. 25 - "Natural Patterns: Flora and Fauna," featuring works by Ellie Snow and Lynn Wartski. For painter Ellie Snow, painting is an escape, a window into a fairy tale world where she can ponder the beauty and complexity of life, and the stories that repeat themselves, like patterns, through time. Snow's artworks begin with nature photographs taken while exploring. "At home, I collage, edit, and make double exposures to create a scene that is playful and mysterious. I think of each painting as an introduction to a story about life's fits and starts, imperfection, darkness, light, magic, weirdness, and beauty." Last year artist Lynn Wartski started to treat the surface of her anthropomorphic sculptures as an additional canvas. She created animal figures that had bold flowers, nautical "tattoos", and wintery motifs on them. Liking the results, Wartski decided to carry that idea into the sculptures for this year's show - but with a twist. "Instead of just thematic or decorative elements, I began with creatures that had distinctive natural patterns, known in the fashion world as "animal prints." Through Aug. 27 - Sept. 22 - "Intertwined," featuring jewelry by Arianna Bara, nature and figurative art by Ryann Carey, painted gourd sculptures by Martha Danek. A reception will be held on Aug. 30, from 6-9pm. Jeweler Arianna Bara describes her interpretation of the show's title Intertwined as the relationships between the stones, the metal and her own creative processes. In a literal way, Martha Danek's artistic medium, gourds, grow on vines that twine around any stationary object near them. Her gourd pieces feature trees, flowers, birds, fish, and many other life forms that have inspired her work for more than thirty years. Photography was painter Ryann Carey's first love as an artistic medium. Her love of observation provides the inspiration to capture moments, first on camera, and then in her paintings. Ongoing - HGA is owned by 21 local artists featuring painting, sculpture, photography, glass art, jewelry, wood, pottery, textiles & fiber art. Work by Howard Finster

Gallery C, 540 North Blount Street, Raleigh. Aug. 1 - 31 - "American Self-Taught: Paintings and Carvings by Outsider Artists" A reception will be held on Aug. 2, from 6-8pm. Many of the pieces in this collection are from Charlene Newsom's personal collection, which she began in 1985, as well as from other discerning collectors. The American Self-Taught genre, also called Outsider Art and Folk Art, is an intuitive, almost childlike form of expression. The artists are driven by an inborn need to create: they express their remembrances of the past, their religion, their patriotism, and their love of the land. Because Outsider Art is non-academic, it was not readily accepted by the establishment. But in the last few decades Self-Taught Art has moved from the margins to center stage, and is collected by the cognoscenti as well as the casual discoverer. Ongoing - Gallery C brings talented artists and fine art to the attention of serious private collectors and museums. Burk Uzzle Studio, 106 Douglas Street E, Wilson. Ongoing - Burk Uzzle's career, like his pictures, is a nuanced composition blending American culture, individual psyches of particular places and people, and an atypical way of seeing ourselves, our values, and our community. Always respectful yet locating the poignant or quirky, the history of his narrative belongs to all of us. Initially grounded in documentary photography when he was the youngest photographer hired by "LIFE magazine" at age 23, his work grew into a combination of split-second impressions reflecting the human condition during his tenure as a member of the prestigious international Magnum cooperative founded by one of his mentors Henri Cartier-Bresson. His archive spans almost six decades. His current work rests deep in photographic appreciation of the quiet, strong, and eloquent beauty he discovers in America's small towns and its people. It is along small back roads, limned with feelings and a surety of surprise for the heart wide open, that continue to support his understanding of how America keeps its personality out on a limb. Uzzle's current bodies of work (some of which are African-American) are artful and constructed reflections of his subjects. His hope is for a graphic presentation of something universal within the particular, and all the better when involving a gentle chuckle and knowing smile. He is represented by SOCO Gallery in Charlotte, NC and Tracy Morgan Gallery in Asheville, NC. Hours: by appt. Contact: 252/363-1812 or e-mail to (burk@burkuzzle.com).
