Gibbes Museum of Art in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Bo Bartlett

The Gibbes Museum of Art in Charleston, SC, will present Bo Bartlett: Earthly Matters, on view in the Museum's Gallery 8 & 9, from Sept. 9 through Jan. 15, 2023.

Acclaimed for his large-scale paintings that explore modern American life and cultural heritage, contemporary artist Bo Bartlett follows the traditions of American Realists such as Andrew Wyeth, Thomas Eakins, and Edward Hopper.

"The Flood", 2018, by Bo Bartlett (American, b/ 1955). Oil on linen, 82 x 100 inches. Image courtesy of the artists and Miles McEnery Gallery, New York, NY.

Earthly Matters presents a selection of Bartlett's recent works that examine humankind's impact on and interaction with nature's elements. Bartlett's subjects, both human and animal, find themselves in precarious environmental situations, either from their own doing or by forces beyond their control. Bartlett's appreciation for the beauty of ordinary moments imbues his work with an underlying luminosity and frankness. His larger-than-life scenes break down the barriers between the subjects on canvas and the viewers, who are invited to contemplate their role in the narrative.

The exhibition will be accompanied by a publication produced by Miles McEnery Gallery, NYC, featuring essays by the artist and guest curator, Pam Wall.

This exhibition is organized by the Gibbes Museum of Art and is supported by BlueCross BlueShield of South Carolina, SeaFields at Kiawah and Lynch Cracraft Wealth Management of Raymond James.

The Gibbes Museum of Art is home to the foremost collection of American art that incorporates the story of Charleston. The Museum connects the city and region's artistic past to a vibrant contemporary art scene. This is what we believe.

For further information check our SC Institutional Gallery listings, call the Museum at 843/722-2706 or visit (www.gibbesmuseum.org).

Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Christine Blyth

Charleston Artist Guild in Charleston, SC, will present Blyth Spirit, an exhibition by Christine Blyth, on view at the Guild Gallery, from Sept. 1 - 30, 2022. A reception will be held on Sept. 2, from 5-8pm.

Blyth's goal is to share her curiosity, humor, and joy in her work that continues to transport one to that place time and again. She creates to find balance and peace of spirit.

Blyth finds her creative voice in abstracts drenched in color with acrylic paint, charcoal, pencil, and crayon. Inspired by colors and textures of nature, and textiles she creates from a place of playful abandon to counter her analytic healthcare career. Applying the media to the canvas or panel she works layer by layer intuitively and calls forth an emotional response via value, line, shape, and hue.

Work by Christine Blyth

After establishing her career, and raising children in Orlando, FL, she returned to her need to create. She attended Seminole State College in Central Florida and found her new creative outlet, drawing and painting. After returning home to Charleston, Blyth entered several shows in local galleries and festivals. She placed first in the acrylic division in the 2018 North Charleston Arts Festival and received awards in subsequent shows.

The gallery is located on East Bay Street in downtown Charleston. Sales made at the gallery support the non-profit guild's community outreach work

For further information check our SC Institutional Gallery listings or call the gallery at 843/722-2425.

Blyth is a Charleston native and from an early age pursued creative endeavors such as sewing, fashion designing, and quilting.

Charleston Crafts Gallery in Charleston, SC, Offers Relief From the Heat

The Charleston Crafts Gallery in Charleston, SC, will present This Art is Hot - A Summer Guide to Cool Lowcountry Craft, featuring works by Tammy Rudd, Marty Biernbaum, Fred Prudhomme, and Melanie Davidson, on view from Sept. 1 - 30, 2022.

August temps may have been sizzling, but that didn't stop local artisans from playing with heat and flame to create their artwork. At Charleston Crafts Gallery, some of the coolest work happens when makers use the hottest methods with glass, wax and clay. The result is one-of-a-kind artisan-crafted items, including jewelry, paintings and pottery. So take a break from summer's heat and check out these creations in the air-conditioned comfort of the gallery.

"All our member-artisans have developed their own unique creative process," says Gallery President Caroline Sandlin.

Editorial COMMENTARY

by Tom Starland, Editor and Publisher

On The Cover

On our cover this month is a work by the late Corrie McCallum (1914 - 2009), part of the exhibit, Corrie McCallum: Intervals, featuring paintings and prints by Corrie McCallum, on view at the Hampton III Gallery in Greenville, SC, through Oct. 8, 2022. On Sept. 10, from 11am-noon, the gallery will offer a Coffee and Conversation. Sarah Tignor from the Johnson Collection will be sharing her thoughts about McCallum's life and works.

McCallum is still one of my favorite Charleston artists, along with her husband, the late William Halsey, who I was lucky to get to know while doing this publication. I learned so much about Charleston's visual art community, its history, artists, and what it's like to have a long career in the arts. I really miss talking with the two of them, but their artwork lives on. And their work will always have a home in our publication.

Big Events This Month

There are some really big events taking place this month. All events which we report on at Carolina Arts are important, but the two I'm going to include here are really big (major showcasing) events, both taking place in North Carolina.

The Caldwell Arts Council will present the 36th Annual Sculpture Celebration, a free event, juried by John Douglas Powers, on Sept. 10, from 9am-4pm, at the T.H. Broyhill Walking Park, in Lenoir, NC. Sculptors are invited to bring up to 3 sculptures for this one-day event to compete for $11,000 in cash awards, along with potential sales and commissions. This annual family-friendly event attracts sculptors and buyers from the eastern United States to Lenoir and in past years, has attracted over 4,000 people. For further information visit (caldwellarts.com). Read more about the event on Pages 24 & 26.

The 2022 Potters Market at the Mint will feature 55 booths representing more than 55 of the top potters working in North Carolina. The event will take place from 10am to 4pm, on Sept. 24, 2022 at the Mint Museum Randolph lawn, at 2730 Randolph Road. In addition to the pottery sale, attendees can enjoy pottery demonstrations, live music, a raffle, beer garden and food concessions, as well as free access to Mint Museum Randolph galleries (open until 6pm on Sept. 24). For tickets and further information about the potters visit (potters-marketatthemint.com). Read more about the event on Page 14.

A Good Friend of Carolina Arts Has Reopened

The Upstairs Artspace in Tryon, NC, has been a good friend of our publication since the days we first started covering the visual arts in North Carolina. They have been advertising their exhibitions and special events with us. Last year they had to close their doors for repairs, but they have finally reopened, after a year of rebuilding, with three exhibitions by seven artists from Tryon, Asheville, Rock Hill, and Los Angeles titled, Carefully Placed Lines on Paper, Human Connections, and The Thinking Eye. These three free exhibitions will be on public display through Oct. 14, 2022.

"The artists in these three exhibitions are the same artists who were here when the flood happened," Patti Trobaugh, Board Member and Treasurer said. "We had their reception on a Saturday night, and after everyone left, the hot water heater broke and flooded all three floors of the gallery until it

"This produces a vibrant selection of work and makes the gallery a wonderful destination for hand-crafted items from talented Lowcountry makers."

Jewelry artist Tammy Rudd works magic with glass and intense heat. To create her luminous flame-worked beads, she uses an oxygen-propane torch that heats up to 2000 degrees Fahrenheit. With molten glass and deft hands, Rudd crafts beads that glow with color and mesmerizing detail. Each of her beads is a tiny work of art that creates fascinating focal points in her necklaces and earrings.

Work by Marty Biernbaum

Marty Biernbaum's abstract encaustic paintings bring to mind calming landscapes of sky and sea. She begins her paintings by heating beeswax in an electric frying pan and combining it with resin and pigments before applying it to a natural wood support. She uses a propane torch to melt and stabilize as many as 15 layers of wax to complete each painting. This intense heat process helps develop her colors and smooth the surface. Encaustic paintings don't need to be framed, so the ethereal and expressive beauty of Marty's work radiates from the surfaces of her art.

The gallery features the work of six

Work by Fred Prudhomme talented ceramic artists and all rely on the tremendous heat of their kilns to convert clay into strong, resilient forms. Typically two trips through the kiln are required (one for bisque firing, another for glaze firing) at temperatures well above 2000 degrees Fahrenheit. An example of the talent in the gallery is Fred Prudhomme who makes functional pottery in stoneware by both wheel throwing pots and hand-building vessels. Prudhomme's highly individualized pieces include mugs, bowls, plates and lidded vessels. With crisp lines, warm colors and distinctive glazing, his work feels good in your hands and looks wonderful in your home.

The newest of the gallery's ceramic artists is Melanie Davidson. She creates her work by layering different clay bodies of varying colors, then using various techniques to manipulate the joined clay bodies to produce patterns, as well as free random effects. Her agateware pieces are

Hed Hi Studio in Charleston, SC, Features Works by Julia Deckman

Hed Hi Studio in Charleston, SC, will present The Choreography of Color, a solo exhibition by artist Julia Deckman, sponsored in part by The Miller Gallery, the Lowcountry Quarterly Arts Grant Program, and hosted by Hed Hi Studio, on view from Sept. 10 - 13, 2022. A reception will be held on Sept. 10, from 6 - 10pm.

"Color Choreography" is a deliberate process to explore and showcase the magical relationships between color and form. All elements of this collection (shapes, proportions, color, negative space, texture, etc.) are carefully planned and arranged to achieve a certain energy, much like choreography. The intention is to reveal how special these "simple" ideas of color and form truly are.

Deckman is a visual artist working in Charleston for the past 10 years. While she is widely known for her architectural portraits, she has spent the past two years developing an approach and process to abstract, graphic work.

This project was funded in part by the City of Charleston Office of Cultural Affairs and the City of North Charleston Cultural Arts Program through their joint adminiswas discovered two days later. We've been closed for restorations ever since. We felt it was only fair and fitting to have these same artists back to actually show their work."

This is me again. The damage done was totally unexpected and the cost grew within weeks. The repairs took almost a year and being shut down for all that time cost much in funding and even staff, who couldn't be kept on for so long a time. And, although they have managed to reopen, they still need help in paying for this mishap. Donations will be accepted with a big smile on people's faces. Hopefully fundraisers will be coming down the road where all the artists who have been lucky to show their work at the Upstairs Artspace throughout its long history will have the opportunity to donate works - to a cause that benefits or benefited them - directly in the past or in the future.

They need people to step up so that this event can be an old story people tell many years from now when they go over the long history of this great gallery space.

Society of Bluffton Artists in Bluffton, SC, Features Works by Mary Treadwell

Society of Bluffton Artists in Bluffton, SC, will present Paint What You Love and Love What You Paint, featuring works by Mary Treadwell, on view from Sept. 6 through Oct. 2, 2022. A reception will be held on Sept. 9, from 5-7pm.

Mary Treadwell's love of art has followed her since childhood - to Paris in 1994, to London in 1995, back to Paris in 2001, to Texas in 2004 and to the Lowcountry in 2015. In fact, Treadwell has traveled extensively to Thailand, Korea, Myanmar and throughout Europe.

"I always brought along my painting kit and would try to experience the atmosphere and light of the area," she said, "A painting is like a diary. It brings you back to that day and you can recall the smells, light, the colors, and the weather, as well as who you were with."

Treadwell's artwork is primarily in permeate intense watercolor. Her works reflect a broad range of subject matter ranging from colorful fish to bright flowers and from traditional landscapes to realistic cityscapes.

Treadwell's work is featured in private collections in many homes and businesses around the world. She has taught art classes on cruise ships. Additionally, she studied art and worked as a painter and an artist in Paris, London and Texas. In Paris, she studied with Chantel Chauvinere-Riant, a famous watercolorist and sculptor. Throughout her residency in Paris, Treadwell taught privately and at the Organization of Economic and Cooperation Development (OECD).

Clemson University in Clemson, SC, Features Works by Japanese Printmakers

Clemson University in Clemson, SC, is presenting Redefining the Multiple: 13 Japanese Printmakers, on view in the University's Lee Gallery, through Sept. 29, 2022. A Curatorial Discussion with Sam Yates will be offered on Sept. 8, at 5:30pm. A reception will be offered on Oct. 20, beginning at 6:30pm.

Redefining the Multiple: 13 Japanese Printmakers, features the work of artists trained as printmakers who push the boundaries of what is commonly understood as traditional printmaking processes and techniques. Artists expand the concept of a print and take creative advantage of the multiple as a process that builds an edition or in some cases a three-dimensional sculpture or video.

Koichi Kiyono, "Cultivation II", Etching on cotton-wood and felt

Works in Redefining the Multiple encompass a broad range media including etching, aquatint, monotype, screen-print, photographic processes, woodcut, to mixed media, video and three-dimensional works in felt, cast resin. The exhibit works of exceptional quality and innovation and extends the traditional conventions of printmaking and its use of the multiple through creative and dynamic approaches.

Clemson University in Clemson, SC, Offers Exhibition Focused on Our Natural Environment

Clemson University in Clemson, SC, is presenting Natural History/Critical Condition, a visual compendium of cautionary reflection, on view in Sikes Hall Gallery, through Oct. 10, 2022.

Each of the works presents an observation on the natural environment and when the individual pieces are presented all together the sum total unveils a daunting list of environmental concerns facing humanity. The exhibition points to disruptions in our natural environment such as ocean acidification, global warming, decline of critical food chain species, melting glaciers, animal extinctions, plastic detritus, and deforestation.

The exhibition Natural History/ Critical Condition questions our capacity and willingness to see the changes taking place around us and muses on our ability to reconcile the destruction humanity is causing to the environment with our own personal needs and actions. The exhibition encourages the viewer to take-action before conditions progress beyond our ability to make meaningful change.

Participating artists include: Lynne Allen, Dale Clifford, Carmon and Ashley Colangelo, Sydney Cross, Georgia Deal, Margaret Denk-Leigh, Bill Fisher, Diane Fox, Adele Henderson, Patricia Thomas-Hunsinger, Anita Jung, Cima Katz, Kumi Korf, Robert Lazuka, Pamula Longobardi, Angela Oates, Dennis O'Neil, Cynthia Osborne, Andy Rubin, Joe Sanders, Aaron Wilson, and Anderson Wrangle.

The portfolio exchange was organized by Sydney A. Cross with support from the Clemson Advancement Foundation.

Gaffney Visitors Center and CAVA Gallery in Gaffney, SC, Features A Retrospective for Sara Dame Setzer

The Gaffney Visitors Center and CAVA Gallery in Gaffney, SC, will present 55 Years of Art Making!, a retrospective of art works by Sara Dame Setzer, on view in the CAVA Gallery, from Sept. 8 through Oct. 28, 2022. A reception will be held on Sept. 15, starting at 5pm with a gallery talk by the artist.

The retrospective will include selections from her 55 years of art making, half of which were created while she was teaching art at Limestone College. Setzer said having a retrospective exhibit is very special and not something to take for granted. "So I feel very lucky." She stated that artists of some significance are sometimes awarded such an exhibit after their death. "So it's nice to have this one while I'm still here," Setzer quipped.

Setzer was one of the founding members of CAVA, the Cherokee Alliance of Visual Artists, and has been a member of the exhibits committee for about 13 years and served as its chair for a few years. CAVA members know how much she loves helping make Gaffney and the visitors center a special place. She asked, "Where else do you find a beautiful visitors center with a well-run art gallery!"

Setzer said choosing works for the show has not been effortless. "I wanted to be comprehensive as to the main ideas I have dealt with and to make sure they are represented adequately. However, CAVA's gallery is not overly large so I have had to be very selective. The majority of works or themes represent subjects that have had special significance for me, ones I worked with over a period of time or returned to for inspiration. Examples include drawings of early nebulizers; those old-fashioned nebulizers are a thing of the past, but they were important for helping asthmatics to breathe.

Work by Sara Dame Setzer

I saw them as intricate, beautiful shapes. About the same time I started a series of playgrounds based on two very different ones in Gaffney. These were followed by house paintings, mine in particular, attic occupants, a baby bird, and a special cat."

Setzer continued, "Around 1995 I started creating monoprints, one-of-a-kind images created on a master surface and printed on paper. Creating monoprints was so much fun, I didn't return to painting for almost 20 years. Recently I have enjoyed painting small pictures of people reading, especially of friends. Several CAVA themes for our exhibits have broadened the kinds of subjects I respond to such as women's suffrage and current political events."

So you're the Marketing Director of a visual arts organization, art museum, arts center, arts council or artist guild and you're wondering why you never see the exhibits presented at your facility included here. Maybe you're the owner of a commercial art gallery and you've never seen your exhibits included with others presented in your area. You might even be an individual artist who is having an exhibit in a non-profit space or commercial space and you don't see your exhibits included.

My question to you is - How long will you put up with that before you ask someone, "Why that is the case?" If you're not included - it's your fault.

and emotional outlet when the artist and the audience face personal and social challenges. After 2 years of an anemic social environment due to a challenging global crisis, privatization has trumped community in many respects. This process has been visually hallmarked by face coverings, which, while vital to public health, also represent the suppression of social interaction contributing to emotional isolation. In Unmasked, printmakers reintroduce themselves to society through self-portraits. Participants were asked to create a self-portrait that is recognizable yet not necessarily realistic. These portraits range in print media, from relief prints of woodcut and linoleum to intaglio and lithography.

Greenville Technical College in Greer, SC, Features Works by Enid Williams

Greenville Technical College in Greer, SC, is presenting Best Practices, featuring works by Enid Williams, on view in the Benson Campus Galleries, through Sept. 16, 2022.

Enid Williams limits her painting vocabulary to condensed semicircular shapes rendered in a myriad of bold, almost unyielding colors, as well as subtle, modulated color. She pairs this color complexity with her time-consuming process of building images through the layering of shapes.

She often scrapes through layers to reveal subtle, earlier colors or adds layers to intensify colors. The end result is a stop-action surface that is suspended on and supported by the dense, complex layers of shapes that retain the motion of her brush stroke.

According to Williams, "I continue to explore changing dichotomies within this diverse framework..." Not only does she explore and experiment with color, with application as additive and subtractive processes but also with substrates for constructing her visual scenarios.

Best Practices is a collection of images that presents a sampling of the many ambiguities of her processes, explorations, and thus her paintings. She cites "Science, literary conventions, color perception charts, Abstract Expressionism and Op Art" as inspirations. Through her accessible vocabulary of shapes, she renders a concentrated visual schema of the passage of time and the evolution of color through layering. She leaves no requisite visual entry or path into her works. She affords the viewer freedom to dive into the middle and bathe in the luscious colors or just hesitantly step in at a corner or edge before making the leap.

Williams received her MFA in painting from Kent State University in 1996 and her BA in studio art from the University of Toledo in 1992. Williams was awarded a Pollock-Krasner Foundation Grant in 2011, two Metropolitan Arts Council Grants in 2007 and 2011, the Ohio Arts Council Individual Artist Fellowship in 2002, the Columbus Museum of Art Purchase Award in 2000, the Hall Memorial Award of Painting, Ohio Art League, 2000, and the Carnegie Museum of Art and Associate Artists of Pittsburgh Milone Painting Award in 1997.

In addition, Williams's work is included in the Columbus Museum of Art, OH,

Artists Collective | Spartanburg in Spartanburg, SC, Offers Works by Tad Grubbs and James Allen Bolt

Artists Collective | Spartanburg in Spartanburg, SC, will present Made You Look, featuring works by Upstate artists, Tad Grubbs and James Allen Bolt, on view in Gallery III, from Sept. 6 through Oct. 1, 2022. A reception will be held on Sept. 9, until 9pm in conjunction with Spartanburg ArtWalk.

Spartanburg artist Tad Grubbs struggled with health issues nearly two decades ago, and fellow artist James Allen Bolt has dealt with the stress and sadness of the COVID pandemic over the past two years as a healthcare worker. Both have used those trials to create their art, which they will present in an exhibition.

The exhibition will include 20 works by Grubbs in acrylics on canvas and 25 works by Bolt of mixed media of reclaimed lumber and found objects. The works will be offered for sale with prices ranging from

Work by James Allen Bolt

$75 to $2,800.

A health scare 17 years ago surprisingly led to Grubbs, a Spartanburg native, discovering his talent and love of creating art. "Then, I had an intraventricular hemorrhage in my brain," he explains. "After 11 days in intensive care I left the hospital with no physical or mental issues. I was extremely lucky. On the Sunday afternoon of my seventh week out of work, I found a canvas with a not-so-pretty floral painting on it. I removed the painting, cut out a photograph from a magazine, sketched it and began to paint. I finished it around midnight and was pleasantly shocked.

"That particular Sunday, I found a song that makes my heart truly sing. I can't stop."

Grubbs adds, "I think that a lot of people possess the ability to be creative, but the realization of it never comes because they never try to give it a chance. I had no clue about myself. What true joy I have found." His works in the exhibit "have been created full of love, heart and soul. It is without a doubt an extension of me totally."

James Allen Bolt says the past two-and-a-half years working for Prisma Health as a respiratory therapist during the pandemic "have been the most stressful of my entire career dealing with the COVID 19 virus and its aftermath. A stressful and mostly very sad time. My saving grace was being able to create things that made me and others smile."

The Laurens County, SC, native took inspiration for his creations from his father, who passed away four years ago. "When I was growing up, both my mom and my dad worked full-time jobs. However, with three children, there always seemed to be a need for extra money. My father was a jack of all trades and had spent some time working in carpentry. He began to make wooden toys, my mom would paint them, and they would take them to festivals all over Virginia, North and South Carolina and Georgia. I would say 80 percent of the time they would sell out.

"I enjoyed helping them and I began making things from scrap wood and other items I found along the way," he recalls. "I went to festivals with them, seeing other people like us and seeing different artists opening my eyes to different ideas. We always had a great time. Since then, it has been a mission that I thoroughly enjoy, in making something interesting out of whatever I can find. Hence, I find myself picking up wood on the side of the road, and searching through junk shops, flea markets and yard sales for any useful items."

Artists Collective | Spartanburg in Spartanburg, SC, Features Works by Beth Regula

The Artists Collective | Spartanburg in Spartanburg, SC, will present It Begins with a Sketch, on view in Gallery II, from Sept. 6 through Oct. 1, 2022. An artist's talk is scheduled for Sept. 15 during the Spartanburg ArtWalk.

The exhibition consists of more than a dozen free-standing sculptures and relief wall hangings. Each of the small works will be accompanied by the sketches from which they originated.

"This exhibit is about recording life experiences, historical moments, random thoughts, joy and anger in quick sketches," says Regula, chair of the management board of ACS. "As I go through each day, I am constantly sketching. Many times, these sketches are executed while listening to TV, sitting in traffic, attending meetings or during moments of relaxing at home. There really is no conscious effort to draw a particular thing. I let my hand show me what has been going on in my mind. I draw on anything at hand. Knowing that some of these sketches may be used in more formal creative efforts, I save the ones that 'speak' to me and collect them in my studio."

Regula says the sketches are her "starting place" when she is in the studio. "As I begin working with the sketch as my guide, I use various mediums. During this process the materials used also help me develop the sketch into a more intricate design. Details are added, and I begin to see what was really in my thoughts as I drew the sketch."

Preparing for the upcoming exhibit, she culled through the sketches and picked a group she thought would best represent her thoughts during the past few months. "The thoughts are political, whimsical, love of nature, love of family and feelings of despair. Pretty much a record of my thoughts over the summer of 2022."

Work by Tad Grubbs

Bolt says he loves collecting things, and "a simple idea combined with a little creativity, plus having a large carefully selected collection of junk, a piece of art is born. I hope that visitors to the exhibit can see through my artwork exactly who I am. I hope they take with them an uplifted spirit and a smile on their faces."

Grubbs hopes visitors to the exhibit will see "the simple use of color, whether it be artwork, furniture or a beautiful hue on the walls of a room, can take a gloomy rainy day and turn it into one of the brightest days you have ever known. It's one of the best medicines for living a happy life."

Having this exhibit at ACS is "a new and exciting experience," Grubbs says. "Spartanburg is very blessed to have such a beautifully run organization. I am in awe of all the amazing talent in our area. The Artists Collective opens the door to each and every one. ACS is a genuine, non-judgmental community of kind and caring people, all of whom are willing to lend you a hand and offer support if the need arises. Everyone belongs."

The Artists Collective | Spartanburg, located on W. Main Street, provides a forum and home for the arts and creative population of Spartanburg, providing facilities and services to artist members for exhibits, performances and creation.

For further information check our SC Institutional Gallery listings or visit (artistscollectivespartanburg.org).

Work by Beth Regula

"I want people to know that art comes from inside," she adds. "Thoughts, emotions, are expressed through art: my therapy for surviving the times in which I am living. My personal reaction to what is happening around me."

"I looked around the studio and saw a stack of sketches that I have collected," she continues. "When I go to the studio to work on a new body of work, I sort through the sketches that I do on a daily basis to get an idea of what I want a new body of work to look like. They are the beginning of the work, thus the title It Begins with a Sketch"

Regula notes that some of the works are "political" in nature. "I care about the struggles our country is facing. I care about women's rights. I care about nature and global warming. If a visitor does not agree with me, that is fine. Just maybe, though, I

Most of the works in the exhibit are made of polymer clay on tempered hardboard and painted with acrylics. “I use a relief sculpture process to ‘build’ each piece with many details and then the entire piece is painted,” Regula says.

The works will be offered for sale, with prices starting at $200.

Regula, who lives in Roebuck in Spartanburg County, has been a member of ACS since 2012.

Mint Museum Randolph in Charlotte, NC, Offers 2022 Potters Market - Sept. 24

The 2022 Potters Market at the Mint will feature 55 booths representing more than 55 of the top potters working in North Carolina. The event will take place from 10am to 4pm, on Sept. 24, 2022 at the Mint Museum Randolph lawn, at 2730 Randolph Road.

The event helps support the ceramic artists of North Carolina, introduces the importance of the ceramic arts and the collections of The Mint Museum to new audiences, and raises money to support The Mint Museum.

“Potters Market is a wonderful way to celebrate North Carolina’s rich pottery traditions,” said Kaitlyn McElwee, chair of the Potters Market. “We are excited to bring attendees together from throughout our state to experience this one-of-a-kind event and to support our talented ceramic artists. This is a great opportunity to see a lot of high-quality ceramic work in one place while also interacting with the makers to learn more about their work and their creative processes.”

Work by Deborah Harris

In addition to the pottery sale, attendees can enjoy pottery demonstrations, live music, a raffle, beer garden and food concessions, as well as free access to Mint Museum Randolph galleries (open until 6pm on the Sept. 24). Tickets for the main Pottery Sale event start at $20 per person.

Potters Market has been an annual program since 2005 organized by Delhom Service League, The Mint Museum’s ceramic affiliate. The Delhom Service League was organized in 1972, following the arrival of Miss M. Mellanay Delhom and her collection of historical pottery and porcelain. The organization supported key projects of the museum’s decorative arts program. Follow-

Mint Museum Uptown in Charlotte, NC, Features the DeMell Jacobsen Collection

The Mint Museum Uptown in Charlotte, NC, will present American Made: Painting and Sculpture from the DeMell Jacobsen Collection, on view from Sept. 10 through Dec. 24, 2022.

The DeMell Jacobsen Collection is one of the finest privately held collections of American art in the United States. Although works from the collection can be found on loan to museums across the country, this exhibition marks the first time works from the collection have been brought together to be viewed together in one exhibition. American Made will include more than 100 highlights of the foundation’s paintings and sculptures.

The exhibition will feature approximately 100 paintings and eight sculptures presented in thematic sections that showcase American art with a focus on painting from the late 18th century through the mid-20th century. Featured artists include Benjamin West, Sarah Miriam Peale, Thomas Cole, John Singer Sargent, Mary Cassatt, Charles Ethan Porter, Robert Henri, Lois Maillou Jones, and Charles Alston.

UNC-Charlotte in Charlotte, NC, Is Offering New Exhibitions

UNC-Charlotte in Charlotte, NC, is presenting several exhibitions on view in the Rowe Galleries including: Beauty in the Struggle: Celebrating the Life & Works of Broderick Adé Hogue, on view through Sept. 9, 2022.

UNC Charlotte alumnus Broderick Adé Hogue was a designer’s designer. His masterful command of his abilities, combined with his continual pursuit of greatness, lead to sustained recognition from the design community that would be striking at any age. In Hogue’s case, we mourn that the time we had to witness his remarkable achievements was so brief. Beauty in the Struggle: Celebrating the Life & Works of Broderick Adé Hogue showcases his work and process across a range of media, from early sketchbooks to national advertising campaigns to self-initiated social justice works.

Despite his young age, Hogue created a significant career record. Upon graduation from UNC Charlotte with his BFA in 2013, he moved immediately to Chicago and began an ambitious career in design and advertising. While working with an impressive roster of clients, Hogue established himself as a dynamic talent in lettering design and hand-created type. He became a sought after speaker and presenter with invitations to multiple design conferences and the national AdobeMAX conference.

Hogue, often known professionally as Adé, was selected by PRINT magazine, a leading publication in the profession of graphic design, as one of “15 creatives under 30 who are shaping tomorrow’s design landscape.” He was named a Distinguished Alumni of the College of Arts + Architecture in 2018.

While he was continuing to reach new career heights, Hogue always made time to connect with his communities and pass on his knowledge to young designers and artists. He taught part-time in the design program at DePaul University and hosted workshops and community gatherings for interested designers and creatives. He was a frequent guest of the Graphic Design program at UNC Charlotte, giving generously of his time to teach and inspire the next generation of students. His warmth and enthusiasm were infectious; his visits are remembered for their wonderful good humor.

Hogue had so much more to accomplish, but he will always remain an inspiration. He will be dearly missed.

Also on view is At the Mouth of a Room: The 2022 Roderick MacKillop Memorial Alumni Art Exhibition, featuring works by Elizabeth Arzani ‘12 and Holly Keogh ‘14, on view through Sept. 9, 2022.

“All the ways a line hallucinates its own linearity...The most insistent pressure. The body’s refraction. The voice’s. How they ridge, crosshatch, and section again. The dissociated self cannot be approached as an object. It cannot be laid out before us at the mouth of a room. The best we can do is trail its impressions,” said Danielle Vogel (The Way A Line Hallucinates Its Own Linearity)

Verbal language can often become lost in translation. The same can be true of visual language. What is clear can also be transparent and therefore invisible - misunderstood, or mistranslated entirely. This room holds visual words that have yet to be spoken. It is up to the audience who enters this mouth of a room to interpret what is seen and create for themselves a sentence structure of lines, shapes, colors, and subjects.

Elizabeth Arzani is an interdisciplinary artist & educator living and working in Portland, OR. As a collector of sorts, Arzani constructs narratives from moments of curiosity, absurdity, and potential humor in happenstance. Her impulse to collect and desire to recycle is a search for connection and an attempt to collaborate with the unknown. Working between painting, sculpture, and printmaking practices reveals allegorical relationships embedded in materiality. Stories are told in the cracks and creases, stains and rust of physical objects layered with her own mark making. They become site-specific maps of a place, offering a form of communication that extends language.

Arzani received her BFA in Painting and Art Education from UNC Charlotte in 2012. She then earned her MFA in Visual Studies from the Pacific Northwest College of Art.

Holly Keogh is a painter based in Charlotte, NC. She is interested in the relationship between memory and our desire to document or freeze time. She is a first generation American, and throughout her childhood photographs were mailed back and forth between her family members in England and America. These photographs depict cousins’ birthdays she never attended or new homes she never stepped inside. She examines the familiar faces in these images in vain; she can’t bring them any closer, she can’t reconstruct the original moments in time. She treats the figures in these photographs as a starting point from which her own consciousness supplants the subject’s personality.

Psychologically charged portraits emerge from tension between her will to remember and her power to project. Images from her family’s discarded photographs, saved tabloids, and memorabilia are cropped and refocused. With this treatment, the paintings arrive at something that is as familiar as it is open to interpretation; a combination of that imperfect documentation and her equally imperfect memory. Her work aims to create a sensory experience that brings awareness to how different media construct our reality. Keogh received her BFA in Painting and her BA in Art History

About the Roderick MacKillop Memorial Alumni Art Exhibition, Rod MacKillop was a beloved painting professor from 1973 until his retirement in 2003. In 1988, he initiated a juried art exhibition of alumni work at the University, a practice that has continued biannually in the galleries of Rowe Arts building. In June 2017, the MacKillop family established three endowments at UNC Charlotte in his memory to find student scholarships and the recurring alumni exhibition.

Central Piedmont Community College in Charlotte, NC, Features Works by Kristy Hughes and Alexandra Giannell

Central Piedmont Community College in Charlotte, NC, will present Collective Agency, featuring works by Kristy Hughes and Alexandra Giannell, on view in the Dove Art Gallery, from Sept. 12 through Oct. 28, 2022. A virtual artist lecture will be offered on Oct. 4, at noon.

The exhibition by artists Kristy Hughes and Alexandra Giannell, explores the concept of phenomenology, a truly immersive experience into the body, mind, and self. The works of art feature abstract shapes and forms that allow the viewer to curate their own personalized experience via the artwork. Artists Hughes and Giannell combine artistic geniuses to utilize both large-scale 2D drawings, as well as 3D sculptures.

The differing use of medium between Hughes and Giannell highlights the phenomenological goal, intertwining the two artists and their works in complementary ways. Giannell's drawings mean to invoke a sense of both bodily presence and absence, hinting at the notion of infinity and life beyond the present moment. In contrast, Hughes' 3D sculptures empower the self with color and form to interpret their own meaning of the artwork. The minimalist designs on Hughes' sculptures easily draw the eye in and around the sculpture, further allowing for the 360-degree viewing.

Hughes and Giannell consider collective, imagined futures through works that investigate the bodily presence and the empowered voice. Giannell's immersive drawings and paintings utilize the index of the body, interrogating the institutionalized systems by which they are contained, referencing the historical and the immediate. In contrast, Hughes' sculptures embody the freed voice, boldly celebrating agency and empowerment, representing an optimistic present and imagined future.

Collective Agency is an invitation to imagine inclusive spaces where all voices and bodies are valued and not suppressed. Environmental, architectural, and societal constrictions can prevent community-building and connection.

Central Piedmont Community College is highly accessible and convenient to people of all ages who seek a real-world, affordable, hands-on education that will transform their lives and strengthen the economic, social, and cultural environment of Mecklenburg County. Central Piedmont is also a smart investment. At a fraction of the cost, students learn by doing, receiving a combination of technical and soft skills training from quality faculty who prepare them to enter the workforce and make a difference in their family, business, community, and world. Founded in 1963, Central Piedmont Community College has eight locations throughout Mecklenburg County, offering nearly 300 degree, diploma, and certification programs; customized corporate training; market-focused continuing education; and special interest classes.

Davidson College in Davidson, NC, Features Works by Katie St. Clair

Davidson College in Davidson, NC, is presenting Katie St. Clair: Lay of the Land, on view in the Van Every/Smith Galleries, through Oct. 2, 2022. A reception will be held on Sept. 15, from 6-7:30pm, with a gallery talk at 6:30pm. A Coffee + Conversation will be offered on Sept. 29, from 11am-noon. Join us for a casual conversation to learn more about St. Clair's process using sculptural objects.

Each year, the Van Every/Smith Galleries present an exhibition that highlights the work of one or more studio art faculty. This year, the Galleries will collaborate with Katie St. Clair, Assistant Professor of Painting, on the presentation of her solo exhibition, Lay of the Land.

The exhibition will feature abstract, mixed-media paintings inspired by the artist's foraging for mushrooms and other experiences observing and immersing herself in the natural environment, both locally and internationally. In addition to a series of paintings and works on paper, St. Clair will present sculptural objects – pigments and natural and man-made debris composed into a frozen form. Over the duration of a few days at different times throughout the exhibition, the sculptures will "create" new paintings, as they melt onto a prepared surface positioned below.

The exhibition brochure features an essay by Linda Weintraub - curator, educator, artist, and author of several popular books about contemporary art. She has earned her reputation by making the outposts of vanguard art accessible to broad audiences. She focuses on the bold and original strategies being developed by eco artists to tackle current environmental crises. Her own studio practice provides one of many examples. Weintraub's books exploring contemporary art and ecology include WHAT'S NEXT? Eco Materialism & Contemporary Art (2018), To LIFE! Eco Art in Pursuit of a Sustainable Planet (2012), as well as a series of textlets that include EcoCentric Topics: Pioneering Themes for Eco-Art; Cycle-Logical Art: Recycling Matters for Eco-Art; and EnvironMentalities: Twenty-two Approaches to Eco-Art.

Jerald Melberg Gallery in Charlotte, NC, Offers Works by Katherine Boxall

Jerald Melberg Gallery in Charlotte, NC, will present Intelligent Abstraction II, featuring new abstract paintings by gallery artist Katherine Boxall, on view from Sept. 17 through Oct. 22, 2022.

Jerald Melberg Gallery proudly presents Boxall's second solo exhibition with the gallery. Melberg states, "Continuing the title from Boxall's first exhibition with my gallery was important to me, as I am still struck by the intelligence of her abstract paintings."

With recent travels across Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho and New Mexico as her muse, Boxall captures the distinctive colors, textures, and atmosphere of these changing environments. Boxall says, "The works are inspired by our travels, our first road trip the summer of 2020 and now this more recent trip at the beginning of 2022. The water, the mountains, the heat and the cold."

Work by Katherine Boxall

With thoughts of home and separation, Boxall puts to canvas the emotional response of being present in new surroundings while recalling familiar places to which one longs to return.

A native of Ottawa, Canada, Boxall holds a BFA from Queens University at Kingston and a MFA from the San Francisco Art Institute. She constructs abstract paintings that are expressive and intelligent. Incorporating a mix of materials, Boxall's canvases exude conviction, energy, and knowledgeable composition.

In writing about her work, Jennifer Sudul Edwards, Chief Curator and Curator of Contemporary Art at The Mint Museum, states, "Katherine Boxall explores this possibility of transferring the unconscious onto her canvases through a more automatic practice, trying to loosen her conscious control of her arm as she draws her compositions onto her canvases. Modulating and modifying those initial marks, she reworks them into complicated compositions that balance the intuitive and the intentional, until she achieves mélangé of the two concepts."

Boxall has received numerous awards and honors, including the Elizabeth Greenshields Foundation Artist Grant and The San Francisco Art Institute MFA Presidential Fellowship. Her work has been exhibited across Canada, Australia, and the United States, including a solo exhibition at the Mint Museum of Art.

Carolina Renaissance Festival in Charlotte, NC, Announces New Ticket Program

Tickets for the 29th annual Carolina Renaissance Festival in Charlotte, NC, went on sale in early August kicking off the start of several new changes Festival organizers have planned for the upcoming season.

Recently, the Festival announced a list of changes planned to improve traffic conditions for the 2022 event season that include a major revision of how festival admission tickets will be made available. Tickets are now event date specific, limited in availability per each event date, and sold online at the Festival website at (Carolina.RenFestInfo.com) while each event day ticket supply lasts. General admission tickets valid any of the event dates are no longer available at retail locations statewide as in the past.

Two guys just jousting around

"This is the most significant operational change in the Festival's nearly three-decade history. We encourage visitors to reserve their date and purchase tickets in advance online while they last. Tickets will be offered at the Festival on-site box office only on event days not sold out in advance," stated Matt Siegel, the Festival's Director of Marketing.

The Festival is open rain or shine. Ticket holders will receive a refund should the Festival not open on an event date due to extreme unsafe weather conditions, a very rare occurrence according to Festival organizers. Additionally, the Festival's online ticket provider works with FanShield ticket protection to present purchasers an option to buy, at a modest additional fee, an insurance policy that guarantees a refund if the purchased tickets were to be unused, under the policy's terms and conditions.

Last year's reopening of the Renaissance Festival came with the impact of additional weekend traffic on an adjacent road system increasingly burdened with new residential and commercial developments now surrounding the Festival's once rural location near the Town of Huntersville in North Mecklenburg County.

2022 plans for the fairgrounds include a revised Traffic Management Plan for nearby roadways and improved parking, staffing, and signage to expedite arriving and departing event traffic. Festival hours are also revised to open 30 minutes earlier at 9:30am and remain open until 5:30pm. Parking remains free courtesy of Harris Teeter.

Celebrating 29 Years of Cheers, the annual Carolina Renaissance Festival returns Saturdays and Sundays for eight consecutive weekends, from Oct. 1st through Nov. 20th. In addition to all the returning popular jousting, jesting, and juggling favorites, the Festival will be hosting several new food and entertainment offerings.

The Festival occurs on a 250-acre farm located north of Charlotte, between Concord and Huntersville, at the junction of NC 73 and Poplar Tent Road. Tickets will be available online only at (Carolina.RenFestInfo.com).

Cleveland County Arts Council in Shelby, NC, Shows Works by Grant Recipients

The Cleveland County Arts Council in Shelby, NC, is presenting Local Currents: Ebb & Flow of Ideas - Local Artist Support Grant Recipients Exhibit, on view through Sept. 29, 2022.

The exhibition features artwork by the following Cleveland County Regional Artists Grant Recipients: Regina Bos, David Caldwell, Beth Coiner, Matthew Duffus, Darrin Griggs, Allegra Klett-Wilson, Doug Knotts, Ron Philbeck, and Chrys Riviere-Blalock.

The Artist Support Grant, funded by the NC Arts Council, provides the opportunity for regional consortia of local arts councils to award project grants to artists in their regions. These grants support professional artists in any discipline and at any stage in their careers to pursue projects that further their artistic and professional development. Join us to celebrate these artists.

Regina Bos is a graphic designer, painter, and small business owner. A graduate of Monmouth University, she earned her bachelor's degree in Fine Arts in Computer Graphics and Design. Bos has always been creative with exploring artistic mediums, and began focusing her work within the Encaustic Medium in 2014. Mainly self-taught, she has also attended numerous workshops around the country. In 2018, the Encaustic Museum of Art in Santa Fe, NM, added her art to their Permanent Collection.

Bos was a featured artist at the Propeller Art Gallery in Toronto during the International Layers of Meaning Encaustic Exhibition and received an award in the Annual Visual Harvest Exhibition with the Gaston Art Guild in the Rauch Gallery at Gaston College. Most recently, Bos was a grant recipient from the North Carolina Art Council, Mecklenburg Arts & Science Council and the Cleveland County Arts Council.

Studio woodcarver and sculptor since 1994, David Caldwell's experience includes carving for the Shelby Carousel restoration, Cornel Zimmer Organ Builders, and Bob Trotman Studios. His work can be seen in churches from New York to San Francisco. He is a three time recipient of the NC Regional Artist Grant. Exhibitions include: Green Hill Center (NC), Gardner Webb University (NC), Tryon Fine Arts Center (NC), and Lauren Rogers Museum of Art (MS). Teaching experience include: Penland, Arrowmont, and at the Cleveland County Arts Council.

Beth Coiner offered the following, "I'm a modern dancer turned jeweler. I approach each design much like a piece of choreography, drawing from the inherent movement found in natural and architectural landscapes. My tiny sculpture designs are textured and intimate, creating wearable urban and rural vistas. I find specimens in the natural world and transform them into wearable art."

"My bespoke jewelry process refers back to an old style of jewelry making," adds Coiner. "It's an intimate, tailor-made process of repurposing under-worn, or family heirloom jewelry into a re-imagined design for my clients. Each project has their own unique stories and little memories that remain after the sentimental materials have undergone their transformation into a new design. I'd like to think there are similar parallels along the idea of intimacy with both my dances and jewelry for my collections and bespoke projects. When choreographing a solo or duet, instead of a large group, the dance is scaled down to focus on gestures and an unspoken narrative to tell a story. With my jewelry, the dance piece is present on a very macro scale. It reveals itself in the curvature of a tiny shell, or the repetition of shapes and textures, as well as how each piece relates to the body. In my creative process, the jewelry is the solo dancer and the wearer is the stage. When I'm not at my workbench making jewelry, I'm usually dancing."

Matthew Duffus is the author of the novel "Swapping Purples for Yellows", the collection "Dunbar's Folly and Other Stories", and the poetry chapbook "Problems of the Soul and Otherwise". He was born in Pennsylvania and spent time living in Maryland, Indiana, Mississippi, Minnesota, and Tennessee, before finally settling in North Carolina, where he has lived for the past fifteen years.

Along the way, Duffus received graduate degrees in English and creative writing from the University of Mississippi and the University of Minnesota and worked as a graduate instructor and research assistant, apartment caretaker, bookseller, concessions supervisor, and residence hall director. He currently teaches and directs the writing center at Gardner-Webb University, in Boiling Springs, NC.

Darrin Griggs, 55, is a printmaker producing primarily woodcuts but also lino prints. All his prints are from his own original drawings, mostly of his environment on the family farm in Grover, where he is at least the fifth generation to live on the same property in Cleveland County.

Griggs moved back to NC in 2019 after 24 years in Oslo, Norway, where he worked as journalist for a global business newspaper, while traveling Europe, Asia and the Mideast as a specialist in the sector for offshore oil and gas.

A graduate of Shelby High School, Griggs began drawing well before grade school and has continued all his life. He originally started his studies at Western Carolina University as a drawing student for several years before focusing on creative writing. After earning his Bachelor of Arts degree in English, writing and editing, at WCU, graduating summa cum laude, Dar-rin went on to earn a Master of Fine Arts degree in creative writing at UNCG.

After 31 years as a journalist, Griggs is now spending his time switching back and forth between his twin loves of writing and drawing, by working on a novel, drawing, and producing art prints.

Allegra Klett-Wilson was born and raised in the suburbs of Vancouver, BC, Canada, "I made my way south via Seattle WA. I have been designing & crafting jewelry for over 20 years and officially established Allegra Nichole Designs in 2014 in the historic town of Kings Mountain, NC. with a studio in Shelby, NC. In the fall of 2021, I moved my studio and home to Union Grove, NC, where I am surrounded by 6 acres of woods. The area I now call home is rich in culture, history, and is so peaceful and inspiring. Thanks to the support of my husband and children, I turned my hobby into a business."

"Inspired by my love of history, the serenity of country living, Southern folklore and traditions, Allegra Nichole Design embodies a unique and eclectic collection of jewelry combining silversmithing with natural stones. Self-taught and not liking to follow the rules, I create intuitively, letting my materials do the talking. I love and appreciate the inherent beauty and the unique characteristics of the natural stones that I use," added Klett-Wilson.

"Having previously won support from the Regional Artists Project Grant, I was afforded the opportunity to purchase a hydraulic press that changed how I create my designs. I discovered the long lost art of Die Struck Jewelry and am now able to create timeless and modern heirlooms to be passed on for generations. My designs combine natural gemstones, pearls, Czech glass, and die struck impressions in sterling silver."

Klett-Wilson adds, "You can find my creations at Buffalo Creek Gallery in Shelby, NC, and Southern Arts Society in Kings Mountain, NC."

Doug Knotts has been making pottery since 1972. When he was a sophomore in college, his major was English. "I decided to switch to an Art major after a couple of ceramic courses," he said. After graduation, Knotts worked as a park potter in Alabama. It was production, but he was able to teach children that came through the park.

Knotts then worked at Toe Rivers Art Council in Mitchell County, NC, and after that he joined the NC Visiting Artist Association. He was placed at a Community College and worked at different schools in that area teaching and producing. Eventually he became known for his bird pots. Knotts got the idea of birds from his Grandfather. "He worked at a hospital and he would carve birds out of wood and give them to the sick children in the hospital. I make bird pots because of those experiences; also to continue to sell pots I needed something different." Today, he is Associate Professor of Art at Gardner-Webb University.

Ron Philbeck is a potter specializing in wheel thrown, sodium vapor glazed pottery. The limited production and one of a kind pots are created at his studio in Shelby, NC. Philbeck believes that pots should be well made, pleasant to look at, and easy to use. His work can be found in collections and kitchens around the world.

Painter Chrys Riviere-Blalock studied at Meredith College, Parsons The New School for Design, and Appalachian State University. She has taught studio and art history classes in colleges and universities for over 25 years, served as an exhibition juror and visiting artist at colleges in North and South Carolina, and led undergraduate art travel/study programs in France.

Riviere-Blalock is a 2011 and 2014 recipient of the NC Regional Artist Project Grant from the NC Arts Council. Her work was selected for a solo exhibit on view 24/7 at the Hearst Tower Plaza during the 2012 Democratic National Convention, and has been shown in NY at Artists Space and the Prince Street Gallery, in MS at the Lauren Rodgers Museum of Art, in NC at GreenHill Center, the Bascom, the Hickory Museum of Art, & by the Chapel Hill Public Arts Commission. Artist residencies include: Mountain Gateway Museum and the Hambidge Center for the Creative Arts and Sciences, where she was a 2014 Hambidge Fellow.

In 2020, Riviere-Blalock was invited by

Cabarrus Arts Council in Concord, NC, Offers Group Exhibition

The Cabarrus Arts Council in Concord, NC, is presenting From the Underground, on view through Oct. 15, 2022.

This exhibition brings six artists to our front door whose works influence viewers to think differently and experience life differently. They have been here around us this entire time toiling away at their works and exhibiting them across Charlotte and her bubbling underground art scene. From photography to charcoal portraits to installation, come and see artists that represent the next generation of North Carolina's makers and creators." Artists include: Kalin Devone, Justin Ellis, Carey J. King, Carla Aaron-Lopez, Jamea Najé, and Shadae Tompkins.

Kalin Devone is a painter in Charlotte, NC. Her work focuses on portraiture and abstraction, intertwining the two with hypnotic swirling shapes. She has an interest in capturing the essence of individuals' personalities, skin tones and expressions through her brushwork using oil paint. With her use of vibrant colors weaving from the background to foreground of her pieces she invites viewers in to feel like they are a part of the painting.

MFA in Photography and in 2012, received a MA in Printmaking. In 2010, she began her teaching career at Fort Valley State University as an adjunct professor and has been a Charlotte-Mecklenburg Schools arts educator since 2014. She has experience in various creative fields from photojournalism to podcasting to arts exhibitions and continues to exhibit her personal works while teaching.

Charlotte, NC, based charcoal artist, Naje', has been honing her skills in charcoal portraiture for the past several years. She is the founder of The Broken Crayon Mobile Studio, which is a mobile art studio for anyone who wants to explore making process art. Naje' has also been an elementary art teacher for several years. As a charcoal portrait artist Naje's work is inspired by African American females and the beauty that comes out of the struggle of being a black girl/ woman in America. Deeply moving charcoal work with bold and playful colors showcase her obsessions with her culture and the women that her culture represents.

Shadae Tompkins is an interdisciplinary artist based in Rock Hill, SC. She has a BFA from Winthrop University. Her work includes sculpture, installation, and printmaking. Tompkins mainly uses recycled clothing, yarn, and other materials in her artistic practice. Her work prioritizes the experience of the young Black woman, fighting to maintain the legacy of Black creators before her. When she isn't in the art studio actively working, you can catch her in the music studio writing and recording.

Justin Ellis is from Charlotte, NC, and graduated from Northwest School of the Arts and the Art Institute in Durham, NC. He is currently an artist resident at The Brooklyn Collective. His inspiration is the fluid grace of nature. He is drawn to organic lines, authentic materials, layers that reveal patterns that make the eye dance. His artistic creation involves engaging all senses, capturing the soul and heartbeat of emotions and bringing them to life.

Carey J. King is a self-taught visual artist, and attended Central Piedmont Community College (2013-2014). He is presently the Director of Community Engagement, The Light Factory, Charlotte, NC.

Carla Aaron-Lopez is an artist-educator from Charlotte, NC. After graduating North Carolina Central University in 2006 with a BA in Graphic Design, she moved to Atlanta to attend Savannah College of Art & Design. In 2009, she graduated with a

Southern Arts Society in Kings Mountain, NC, Features Works by Jeffrey J. Bowers

The Southern Arts Society in Kings Mountain, NC, is presenting Jeffrey J. Bowers - The Plein Air Collection, on view through Sept. 17, 2022.

All the paintings shown in this exhibit are painted en plein air or in the open air on location. Bowers considers himself an artist in the Modern Impressionist style. Working in acrylics, he paints landscapes, cityscapes, still life, pets, buildings, and vehicles in and around the Piedmont area of western North Carolina. There are 36 paintings in this exhibit, with the majority featuring landscapes and city scenes in Gastonia, NC, where Bowers lives.

To keep his artistic skills sharp, Bowers paints outdoors, "in the open air" as often as possible. His dedication was rewarded recently when the 12th Annual PleinAir Salon Art Competition announced its monthly winner for their April Competition. The PleinAir Salon is a national online art competition hosted by PleinAir Magazine. Bowers was awarded the best Plein Air winner in the Acrylic Category for April with his painting titled, Late Summer Afternoon. This puts Bowers in the running, along with other monthly winners for the grand prize, to be announced in May 2023.

Even when working on location, most

of Bowers' paintings are completed in less than two hours. Smaller canvases, and water based acrylic paint call for fast paced brushwork. Bowers uses his commercial art training to accurately draw the foundation of the painting, then using as few brushstrokes and details as possible, he quickly captures the feeling and atmosphere of the scene. An accomplished artist, Bowers takes great satisfaction in mixing colors on his palette to match what nature presents in front of him. And while painting in the "impressionist" style concentrates on light and color over detail, locations and objects are easily recognizable to the viewer.

University of South Carolina in Columbia, SC, Features Works by Julie Schnell-Madden and Lydia C. Thompson

The University of South Carolina in Columbia, SC, is presenting Socially Engaged Ceramics, on view in the McMaster Gallery, through Sept. 29, 2022. A closing reception will be held on Sept. 29, from 5-7pm.

Socially Engaged Ceramics is a two-person exhibition of ceramic artwork by Julie Schnell-Madden and Lydia C. Thompson. Schnell-Madden and Thompson's ceramic artworks are stylistically distinct but united by their intention to present timely, yet historically informed, sociopolitical commentary through the medium of ceramics.

The dilapidated house structures in Thompson's Relic series represent the working-class family home. The broken shards that fill these houses, made from her grandmother's reclaimed ceramic figurines, symbolize negative memories, family loss, unemployment, shattered dreams, and the change evoked by remov-and bodily autonomy. Presented together, both artists' work explores and visualizes our contemporary confrontations, fears, and triumphs over systematic racism, inequality, and women's rights.

Julie Schnell-Madden is a functional potter and clay sculptor. A native of Toledo, OH, she earned degrees from Ohio University and two MFA degrees in ceramics and sculpture from Bowling Green State University. She has taught at several universities, including Mississippi State and Bowling Green University. Schnell-Madden's most recent work explores the relationship between inner and outer space with special emphasis on floral abstraction.

Lydia C. Thompson is a professor of ceramics in the Department of Art and Art History at UNC Charlotte. A native of Columbus, Ohio, she received her Bachelor of Fine Art degree from The Ohio State University and her Master of Fine Art degree from the New York College of Ceramics at Alfred University. Stormwater Studios in Columbia, SC, Offers Works by Phil Garrett Stormwater Studios in Columbia, SC, will present Phil Garrett: New Mexico Variations, Paintings and Monotypes, 2018-2022, on view from Sept. 7 - 18, 2022. A reception will be held on Sept. 9, from 5-8pm. Garrett will also offer a Williamsburg Oil Paints demonstration on Sept. 10, from 10am-noon.

Garrett's work is informed by nature, a kind of mythical nature. The power of storms, the spiritual quality of the elements, the beauty, grace and ferocity of plants and animals. . . . Something greater than the artist, something he can't comprehend. Painting and making monotypes are Garrett's search for the mystery within the subject, within himself.

Garrett, a graduate of The San Francisco Art Institute, has completed numerous artist residencies including The Sam and Adele Golden Foundation residency in New Berlin, NY; and taught painting and printmaking nationally and internationally. He joined the Golden Artist Colors Working Artist Program in 1998, and the Williamsburg Oil Independent Artist Program in 2016.

Garrett is the founder of King Snake Press, and his prints and paintings are in public and private collections in the USA, Europe and Japan. In 2005, 2006 and 2007 he lectured and taught workshops on

Stormwater Studios in Columbia, SC, Offers Works by Mike Williams

Stormwater Studios in Columbia, SC, will present Selected Mike Williams' works from the Estate of Randall G. Schwartz, on view from Sept. 29 through Oct. 9, 2022. A reception will be held on Sept. 30, from 5-8pm. A Conversation with Ken May will be offered on Oct. 6, from 6-7pm. May, former Executive Director of the South Carolina Arts Commission, friend and neighbor to Randy Schwartz, will engage artist Mike Williams in conversation revolving around artist/collector relationships, the potential for anyone to engage with artists as well as how important and meaningful these types of long-term relationships can be.

Relationships between artists and collectors can range from non-existent to those lasting years. Randy Schwartz first noticed Mike Williams' work prior to his graduation from USC in the fall of 1990. They were introduced, and soon after Schwartz began collecting pieces on a regular basis, usually at least one a year. He frequently made studio visits to see new work and often brought his friends or guests, many of whom also became collectors of Williams' work. As their collector / artist relationship grew, Schwartz, a quick-witted graphic designer, was always eager to share his expertise, time and graphic design skills when needed. As an advocate, encourager, and promoter of Williams' work, Schwartz remained a devoted friend, steadfast in his support until passing unexpectedly in January 2022.

The fish paintings, landscapes, and sculptural works from Schwartz's collection provide the opportunity to compare and contrast at once, both subtle and not so subtle, changes characterizing three decades of Mike Williams' career.

The purpose of this exhibition is twofold in that it places a spotlight on the artist/collector relationship through this example and, also, provides the opportunity for these works to be acquired and placed in a new environment so they may continue to be appreciated in another setting.

During his 32-year career, Columbia, SC, artist Mike Williams (b.1963) has created upwards of 5,000 paintings, drawings and sculptures. Often working in series, Williams' focus typically has been on fish, fishing and fish habitats, including swamps – all a reflection of his upbringing in rural Sumter County, SC. He has engaged his subject matter through highly energetic, daring paintings steeped in the traditions of modern expressionism and abstraction.

Gallery hours during this exhibit are: Mon.-Fri., 11am-4pm; and Sat.-Sun., 11am-3pm. Contact: Mike Williams at 803/206-9600.

Arts Center of Kershaw County in Camden, SC, Offers Group Exhibit

The Arts Center of Kershaw County in Camden, SC, is presenting The Mountain Girls Exhibition, featuring works by artists Eileen Blyth, Brucie Holler, Louanne LaRoche, Laurie McIntosh, Lynn Parrott and Jan Swanson, on view in the Bassett Gallery, through Sept. 29, 2022. A reception will be held on Sept. 8, from 5:30-6:30pm.

These six talented artists are all long-time friends who held an annual artist retreat in the mountains of North Carolina. This exhibition reflects the energetic work sparked by these escapes and is comprised of abstracted pieces, loose figurative work, and some wonderfully layered whimsical pieces.

"This diverse, meaningful collection from the Mountain Girls brings so much positive energy to our gallery! We are so excited to have this exceptional show which expresses a love of creating art and its way of connecting us through long lasting friendships," says the Arts Center's Executive Director, Dolly Patton.

Orangeburg County Fine Arts Center in Orangeburg, SC, Features Works by James H. Green, Jr.

The Orangeburg County Fine Arts Center in Orangeburg, SC, will present James H. Green, Jr.: The Man and His Times, curated by Dr. Frank C. Martin, II, on view from Sept. 7 through Oct. 26, 2022. A reception will be held on Sept. 7, from 6-8pm.

"Through the art presented in this volume, had it not been for the illness in his life, James could have been one of the most accomplished artists in this country," the author and photographer, Cecil Williams, once a close friend of the late artist, writes in the foreword to his book Timeless Expressions: The Rediscovered Art of James H. Green, Jr.

Williams further writes that their paths to pursue the arts diverged when Green, in 1956, left his family home and life in Orangeburg, having been awarded an art scholarship from Ohio Wesleyan University. There Green would study painting and sculpture. The university prioritizes preparing students to become professional artists and proudly lists a roster of alumni recognized nationally and internationally. Green's illness, which first presented itself during his student years, would cripple his life, but as his family would discover 55 years later, it did not interfere with his art. Returning to Orangeburg, he continued, quietly and persistently, to paint and sculpt for 26 years, residing and storing over 150 pieces of his work in the attic of what is now the long-vacant family home.

Treasuring Green's undiscovered art as reverently as he had their friendship, Williams carefully transported "this art treasure" and as with overlooked and lost "Old Masters," initiated the process of restoring and preparing the artist's works for viewings.

Williams, reflecting on the reclusive life of his close friend Green, whom he called Jimmy, said he was never able to experience the critical reaction, certain appreciation his works would have received, but the man, as an artist, will be recognized and his art has been retrieved.

"Untitled" by James H. Green, Jr.

Among the first to view the collection, was Dr. Frank C. Martin, II, former curator and director of The I. P. Stanback Museum & Planetarium on the campus of South Carolina State University, in Orangeburg, who is now a member of the faculty of the university's department of art. His reaction to inspecting the collection was instantaneous. "James Green is an extraordinary Orangeburg artist, who has mastered the figurative tradition and the far more difficult organization of poignant compositional abstraction. He shows evidence of wonderful influences from Orphism, particularly the paintings of Robert and Sonia Delaunay, in addition to influences from Pointillism and Divisionism."

Looking closely at the abstract pieces, Martin continues, "Regarding the Pointillist and Divisionist methods, Green employs small, squared strokes of pure color, placed side-by-side to juxtapose bits of vibrant pigment with contrasting colors employing a technique perfected by the Impressionists and Post-Impressionist based on simultaneous contrast of colors. This method led to the generation of "optical art" in which the spectator's eyes organize the composition into varying, highly nuanced color sets."

When Martin stands before what are considered Green's earlier works, he noted that the artist first worked as "a figurative artist and there are some very interesting, well-composed still-life pieces. And it seems to be evident from the still life pieces that he looked at, perhaps in his career as a student, French painter, Paul Cézanne but also artists like Norman Lewis and African American artists who started out as figurative artists, but who later turned to abstraction. The thing that is striking is the rhythm Green establishes in the compositions, and I would also say he looked at some of the works of Alma Thomas, who was quite a famous African American abstract artist, who had a number of very important exhibitions in the 1970s. The very distinctive square brush stroke was something that she also used to juxtapose and contrast vibrant elements of color, creating a shimmering visual effect in her work comparable to what Green has done."

Considering the piece titled David's Report Card, observed as the image of the young boy with a report card, Martin identifies other influences and commonalities seen in Green, for years a cloistered recluse. "You see the influence of Modigliani and other artists from the modernist period. So, he's very much an artist working in the modernist tradition transitioning out of simple representation into a sort of enjoyment of moving paint media around on the canvas."

"When he moves away from the figure," Martin offers one last observation, "he is working toward a kind of abstract expressionist ideal. And he's taking influences from these earlier artists in the 20s, 30s and 40s. Like the Delaunays, and their use of Orphic, emotive colorism, and the nuanced influence of individuals like Amedeo Modigliani."

Both Williams and Martin, as the exhibition takes shape, curated by Martin, contemplate from their different perspectives the complexities of Green's works, yet to be discovered by others in our regional art communities as these works are further explored.

"He (Green) is going to take a good deal more study because his work merits very careful scrutiny," Martin states as he surveys the show that will introduce James H. Green, Jr. to the world.

The deadline each month to submit articles, photos and ads is the 24th of the month prior to the next issue. This will be September 24th for the October 2022 issue and Oct. 24 for the November 2022 issue. After that, it's too late unless your exhibit runs into the next month. But don't wait for the last minute - send your info now. And where do you send that info? E-mail to (info@carolinaarts.com).

Every once in a while I feel like just filling one of these spaces with a kind of nothingness. You know as if nobody reads what's in these spaces anyway. So if one time I said something like the first person to read this and sends me an e-mail to (info@carolinaarts.com) during the month of September, they'll get a free 1/4 ad in our October 2022 issue or the month that is most useful for them. But who reads these space fillers anyway? Not many I bet.

Southern Highland Craft Guild in Asheville, NC, Offers Annual Heritage Day - Sept. 17, 2022

The Southern Highland Craft Guild in Asheville, NC, will present the 42nd Annual Heritage Day, at the Folk Art Center, just off the Blue Ridge Parkway, on Sept. 17, 2022, from 10am-4pm.

This free celebration of mountain heritage is held by the Southern Highland Craft Guild featuring demonstrations of traditional crafts accompanied by music.

A highlight of the event is the Annual World Gee Haw Whimmy Diddle competition held at 2pm. A Whimmy Diddle is an Appalachian mountain toy traditionally made from two sticks of rhododendron. Notches are carved into one stick and a propeller is attached to the end. Rubbing the notches with the second stick makes the proper spin. Can you get it to gee (spin to the right) and haw (spin to the left)?

Split Rail Bluegrass Band

During the World Gee Haw Whimmy Diddle competition, contestants are judged on the number of rotations between gees and haws they can complete during a given time. They may be asked to switch hands or whimmy diddle behind their back. All ages may compete with trophies given for best child, adult, and professional. Winners receive a moon pie and bragging rights.

Ongoing demonstrations will include traditional woodworking with traditional tools, weaving, spinning, dyeing, broom-making, stone carving, blacksmithing, soap-making, and printmaking. Visitors will have the opportunity to try their own hand at some of the crafts at an activity table.

A music stage will provide further entertainment with bluegrass and gospel music. The band schedule can be found online at (craftguild.org).

The Blue Ridge Parkway's Folk Art Center is the ideal place for Heritage Day! There is free parking and a grassy area for picnics and relaxation. Spend an early autumn day in WNC honoring and learning about the crafts of yesteryear. Tour the Folk Art Center and maybe take a walk through the woods.

The Southern Highland Craft Guild is a non-profit, educational organization established in 1930 to cultivate the crafts and makers of the Southern Highlands for the purpose of shared resources, education, marketing, and conservation. The Guild is an authorized concessioner of the National Park Service, Department of the Interior. The Folk Art Center is located at Milepost 382 of the Blue Ridge Parkway, just north of the Highway 70 entrance in East Asheville, NC.

WNC Ag Center in Fletcher NC, Offers Quilt Guild Annual Show - Sept. 30 - Oct. 2, 2022

The 38th Annual Asheville Quilt Show will take place on Sept. 30 - Oct. 2, 2022, at the WNC Ag Center on 765 Boylston Hwy. in Fletcher, NC, 28732. Sponsored by Moda Fabrics and Supplies and Explore Asheville, there will be over 300 quilts from around the country, over 20 vendors and over $10,000 in prize money.

For the past 2 years, the Quilt Show was cancelled due to COVID Concerns, but is now back better and stronger than ever.

Which Came First - The Chicken or The Egg?

Quilting is a traditional art sprung from our heritage and a craft born of necessity for warmth, comfort and beauty. In most cases people quilt on their own but may seek out like minded people to share the experience with and eventually form a sewing bee or if more organized with community goals, a Guild. These Guild members would band together to put on exhibits or a Quilt Show, perhaps as fund raisers for a cause.

Work by Katherine Zimmerman from a previous show

For The Asheville Quilt Guild, just the opposite happened. In 1982 organizers for the Bele Chere Festival of Asheville approached a quilter about putting on a Quilt Show as part of Bele Chere. This quilter Barbara Swinea found others to work on it with her. Over time, 65 women in 1987 formed the Asheville Quilt Guild, a raffle quilt was made annually and a quilt show was put on to raise money for the guild.

This group of progressive quilters has grown to include nationally recognized fiber artists, teachers, mentors and community advocates. With 271 members, they still make raffle quilts (now called Opportunity Quilts) as well as quilts for a variety of community causes such as Habitat for Humanity, newborns at Mission Hospital, Project Linus, Veterans, Transformation Village and Camp Blue Bird for cancer victims, and Kids Sewing. Quilters of all levels are invited to join, and they still put on a Quilt Show.

Admission is $10 for adults, $5 for students 13-18, and free for children 12 and under. There will be demonstrations, a silent auction, special exhibits, gift shop, Kids Sewing Station, quilts for sale and this year's Opportunity Quilt Raffle- Flutterby pattern by Jen Kingwell.

Hours are 9am-5pm on Friday and Saturday, and 10am-4:30pm on Sunday. Parking is free and food will be available on site.

Asheville Gallery of Art in Asheville, NC, Features Works by Anne Marie Brown

Asheville Gallery of Art in Asheville, NC, will present Full Circle, featuring works by Anne Marie Brown, from Sept. 1 - 30, 2022.

Anne Marie Brown started her career as a florist in New Jersey in her 20's. "I owned a shop with a boyfriend who was into houseplants, and I loved flowers! I would do an arrangement and fall so in love with it, that I would do a small watercolor of it." Many careers later, Brown again picked up a brush and started painting when, as a realtor in Florida in 2007, the market tanked. "I'm not sure how I started painting again, I guess it was sheer boredom."

Brown started doing outdoor art shows with the Delray Art League in Delray Beach, FL. And to her surprise and delight, the pieces were selling. Thus started a 10 year journey of the outdoor art circuit. She attended shows all over Florida, and eventually started travelling up the east coast.

"I went from watercolor to acrylic, and finally to oil. By the time I got to oil painting, I had moved to Asheville, and started participating in plein air events." The rolling mountain ranges were exceptionally inspirational to her after all the ocean scenes she'd been exposed to. "I went up to the Blue Ridge Parkway in October, 2014, and that was it! I had to move here!"

Brown's first and strongest passion is painting, particularly flowers and landscapes. "I also create needle felted animals, and do jewelry work in silver, but painting is my first love, and I devote most of my time to it." She has won numerous awards, participated in multiple juried shows, and even ran an artists' cooperative in Delray Beach called "The Arts Arena".

Now, her heart is settled within these Blue Ridge Mountains, and she hopes that the scenes that touch her heart, will touch yours, and thus, the circle is complete!

Blue Spiral 1 in Asheville, NC, Offers New Exhibitions

Blue Spiral 1 in Asheville, NC, will offer several new exhibitions including the following:

On view in the Main Gallery, from Sept. 2 through Oct. 26, 2022, is the exhibit, Cut and Paste: Collage Works.

Collage, derived from the French word "coller", to glue, is the joining of paper and other found objects onto paper, canvas or wood. This exhibition shows a wide range of artists who utilize collage as one of their main modes of creative expression. They run the gamut from the traditional joining of paper to paper to incorporating digital techniques to create and enhance the collage. Artists work in paper, fabric, recycled materials, wood and natural objects.

Participating artists include: Janice Colbert, Vicki Essig, Luke Haynes, Bryant Holsenbeck, Kreh Mellick, Isaac Payne, Jon Sours, David Samuel Stern, Akiko Sugiyama, and Katie Walker.

On view in the Small Format Gallery, from Sept. 2 through Oct. 26, 2022, is the exhibit, Alain Mailland.

Using mainly precious roots and species from his native country of France - pistachio, hackberry, root of heather - Alain Mailland creates sculptures representing a correspondence between animals, minerals, and plants. Mailland began his journey as a carpenter and mason. He gradually changed his focus from wood joining to woodturning and has since dedicated himself exclusively to this craft. Mailland developed his own distinctive style and technique, particularly in hollowing. He developed specialized tools to turn wood into flowers and carve works evoking marine life or biological specimens.

Mailland lives and works in Chambrigaud, France.

On view in the Showcase Gallery, from Sept. 2 through Oct. 26, 2022, is the exhibit, A Gathering: Mary Engel and Charles Keiger.

Combining serene, sentient beings with surreal, and often absurd characters, Mary Engel and Charles Keiger present a gathering of creatures great and small. Engel's trinket and gem encrusted animal sculptures celebrate the beauty and nobility of animals, while also drawing attention to the threat to their existence. Keiger's folk-inspired narrative paintings feature animals in protagonist roles, exercising dominion over their fantastical surroundings.

Mary Engel received her BS degree from Illinois State University and her MFA degree from the University of Georgia. Her work has been exhibited throughout the United States. She currently works from her studio in Northwestern Georgia.

Charles Keiger earned an MFA from the University of Georgia. He has exhibited his work extensively in the Southeast. His work is in numerous private collections throughout the country. Keiger works from his studio in Atlanta, Georgia.

On view in the Lower Level Gallery, from Sept. 2 through Oct. 26, 2022, is the exhibit, Step Into the Light: Alex Bernstein and Mitchell Lonas.

Using carved glass and incised aluminum, Alex Bernstein and Mitchell Lonas respectively create intimate narratives which, unlike the cold, hard materials they use, soften as gestural qualities and subject matter are revealed. Key to both artists' work is light. Light energizes and brings their work to life, enhancing color, form and imagery. While Lonas etches his shimmering stylized trees, feathers, nests, waterfalls and animals from aluminum panels coated in matte black, Bernstein carves and polishes colorful, translucent cast glass to unveil abstract sculptures inspired by the natural world.

Bernstein received his BA degree from the University of North Carolina and his MFA degree from Rochester Institute of Technology (NY). He has been the head of the glass department at the Worcester Center for Crafts (MA) and taught at the Cleveland Institute of Art (OH), Rochester Institute of Technology (NY), the studio at the Corning Museum of Glass (NY), Penland School of Crafts (NC) and Pilchuck Glass School (WA). His work is in collections throughout the U.S. and abroad. Bernstein currently works from his studio in Western North Carolina.

A Tennessee native, Lonas studied art history at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville, and was for many years a respected portrait painter before transitioning to his current style. His work has been widely exhibited and is featured in notable private, public, institutional, and corporate collections, among them a series of large-scale commissions for Nordstrom department stores. Lonas currently works from his studio in Asheville.

On view in the Upper Level Gallery, from Sept. 2 through Oct. 26, 2022, is the exhibit, Asheville Oblique.

Ken Carder presents kinetic wood sculptures paired with abstract paintings of Asheville, painted by Tennessee artist Steve Ward. This collaboration began with Steve creating interpretive paintings of Carder's digitally altered screengrabs of Asheville locations. In response to the absence of figures in these urban paintings, Carder constructed kinetic wooden sculptures out of dying ash trees that threatened to fall on his studio. Through improvised abstraction, both artists demonstrate abstract works that invite the viewer to observe the architecture and natural resources of our vibrant city through a lens askew.

physically demanding, and optical glass is expensive. However, these elements are all necessary to create Oaks' unique visions.

Oaks transcends his peers in the glass world in that he creates standout sculptural art that is not only beautiful, but filled with contemporary themes, pop culture references, and strong emotions of conflict and discord. Oaks also has a unique approach to color which is added at the end of the process. Oaks explains that the finished form dictates his choice of color which he applies with restraint to strategic planes of the finished sculpture. The results are breathtaking works full of emotion and relevant to contemporary culture. The work is fresh, original, and unlikely to be replicated by other artists.

Born and raised in the suburbs of Minneapolis, Oaks took an interest in the arts at an early age. He started playing music

Bender Gallery in Asheville, NC, Features Works by Karsten Oaks

Bender Gallery, Contemporary Fine Art & Sculpture in Asheville, NC, will present A Clear Choice, featuring works by Karsten Oaks, on view from Sept. 3 - 25, 2022. A reception will be held on Sept. 3, from 6-9pm.

Bender Gallery is excited to present A Clear Choice, a solo exhibition of stunning abstract sculptures by internationally recognized master glass artist Karsten Oaks. Using specialized optical glass, Oaks creates sculptures that bend light and color via their unique forms. Reminiscent of graffiti marks, his forms are instantly recognizable and are made with meticulous perfection. When viewing, a discernible object often appears from a momentary perspective creating a vision that allows the viewer to connect on a more personal level with the piece. This mystery inspires a deeply personal relationship between viewer and object and sets Oaks' work apart from that of his contemporaries.

It is no secret that Oaks is a highly skilled craftsman and an expert "coldworker" – someone that works with glass in a solid when he was 10 years old and went on to play a variety of instruments. As the son of a trained chef, Oaks grew up learning an appreciation of working with his hands in a creative way and enjoys cooking to this day. When he was 16, a friend introduced Oaks to glassblowing as an art form, and he traveled to Tennessee to take his first classes. This sparked the beginning of Oaks' love of glass as his chosen medium to express his artistic vision.

Oaks received his BFA from The Appalachian School of Craft at Tennessee Technical University. He lives and works in Seattle, WA where he does freelance work for some of the most respected glass masters in the world as well as creates his own amazing singular sculpture.

Mark Bettis Gallery in Asheville, NC, Features Works by David Sheldon

The Mark Bettis Gallery in downtown Asheville, NC, will present Conscious Contact, a solo show of new painting and sculpture by David Sheldon, on view from Sept. 2 - 10, 2022. A reception will be held on Sept. 2, from 5:30-8pm.

Located in downtown Asheville at 15 Broadway Street, the gallery will serve refreshments and light hors d'oeuvres. David Sheldon will be present to meet and talk with guests about the new pieces he produced for the show. All the works on display will be offered for sale.

Work by David Sheldon

Sheldon will be showing vibrant landscape paintings, done with his usual impasto approach, along with new figurative works based on paintings he loves from art history. "I am attempting to not only pay homage to the originals, but to find my own place and identity in that relationship — to confront and release the mythos," Sheldon explained.

Rounding out the show will be a selection of his dynamic sculptural pieces. "I love the idea of channeling hidden, cosmic forces, at play in the universe around us, into concrete form and expression," says Sheldon. "To work in three dimensions consciously is an enthralling experience, akin to creating 'spatial music.'"

About the show's theme, Sheldon says, "I desire to be in the moment, in real time and space with the painted object. So, 'conscious contact' means being present, in real time, with the artwork.

Mark Bettis Gallery's second location is at 123 Roberts Street in the River Arts District.

Pink Dog Gallery in Asheville, NC, Offers Works by Bevelyn Afor Ukah

Pink Dog Gallery in Asheville, NC, will present Our Ecology, Shifting Our Gaze Inward, featuring works by Bevelyn Afor Ukah, on view from Sept. 30 through Oct. 30, 2022. A reception will be held on Oct. 22, beginning at 7pm, with an Artist Talk at 8pm.

"However we choose to describe our bodies, there is a constant - we are here together on this magical planet. This exhibit is a journey to find myself present in my own body with all of the complex stories floating around about who is worthy, who is beautiful, who is valuable, and who is not. This body of work has helped me to ground in the fact that I am a profound miracle, as we all are," says Ukah.

Work by Bevelyn Afor Ukah

"Fat and black phobia continue to stew in our society, while black women's bodies are constantly berated and violated by a dominant, yet elusive gaze. While this gaze is exploitative in nature, it can feel like a betrayal to internalize these stories."

"I prompted myself to literally look into the mirror to fight through all of the negative stories that were floating around in my head. What helped was acknowledging the countless people, thoughts, beliefs and actions that had to exist for me to experience a breath of liberation, which is my creative practice. I have been particularly inspired by stories and parables from my African American and Nigerian ancestry and by Black women who have blazed beautiful pathways of expression, while reminding me that I do not need permission to be who I am," adds Ukah.

"Reflections on Saartjie Baartman's life have also inspired many works in this exhibit. Though little is written about who she was (as opposed to the trauma she experienced), I honor her for the lessons she has taught me through these reflections."

"My goal in this exhibit is to practice flipping violent narratives and acknowledging the magic that lives within our ecological selves," says Ukah. "In my belief, with a bit of collaboration with our ancestors, we have everything that we need to create our own liberation. With that, we require healing, we require rest, we require acknowledgement and importantly, we require love.”

“I hope this exhibit brings you joy, makes you feel a bit of playfulness and inspires you to look in the mirror to witness the miracle that is you,” adds Ukah.

Bevelyn Afor Ukah was born and raised in Atlanta, GA, within a multicultural Black, Nigerian-American family. A huge part of her life’s work is about exploring how humans can make immense connections across cultures and perspectives. Her art reflects a collaboration of perspectives on race, sexuality, and body image. Her pieces can inspire inquiry on how these identity markers connect us to an ecological responsibility to healing and reimagining. She says, “We are all stardust, and each of us have an immense power to make positive changes within and all around us.” Her belief in our cosmic connections shows up in most of her work.

Ukah has worked for years in collaboration with communities across NC, co-creating learning spaces to advocate for food and environmental justice. Over that time, she says, “My most poignant lessons have come from listening and sharing stories of loss, resilience, contradiction and triumph in community. This work of learning in community is my greatest love, and art, I have found, is learning’s most powerful expression.”

Ukah is a mixed media artist and hopes to inspire others to find their inner creative. She says, “Creating has generated profound portals for healing, spiritual cleansing and indescribable connection.” Although she is relatively new to her visual art practice (having started it in February 2020), she finally feels at home in this lifelong commitment to craftsmanship and exploring art as activism.

Caldwell Arts Council in Lenoir, NC, Features Works by Lee Malerich & Sculpture Celebration

The Caldwell Arts Council in Lenoir, NC, will present GIANTS, featuring works by SC artist, Lee Malerich, on view in the Council’s Main Gallery, from Sept. 2 through Oct. 14, 2022. Also the Council will be presenting the 36th Annual Sculpture Celebration, juried by John Douglas Powers, on Sept. 10, from 9am-4pm, at the T.H. Broyhill Walking Park, in Lenoir.

Malerich is a Midwesterner, born in Decatur, IL, who came south in the 1980s to take a job at Columbia College in Columbia, SC. She also taught at Coker College in Hartsville, SC, and Orangeburg Calhoun Technical College in Orangeburg, SC.

Shortly after arriving in South Carolina, she won her first South Carolina Arts Commission Fellowship in the area of Crafts. It was an easy introduction to the art community in the state and her studio work flourished. Working in narrative textiles, she documented her family and its growth and her battle with colon cancer. As far as subject matter, women’s response to their lives was of the most interest. The work was like a visual discussion board.

Malerich moved a 1939-built farmhouse in 2004 and renovating it required most of her time and creativity. At the end of this period, she emerged with an interest in working with wooden windows, tongue and groove, and sanding in patterns. It took more than six years to retrain for the new medium. It was not until she was given a warehouse full of damaged chairs that the work began to evolve. The work now suggests ways of being and ways to look at the world.

The putting aside of one medium and taking up another was an exceedingly brutal period. Skills and techniques had to be learned and experience acquired. Starting over meant producing less skilled work. Student work, done by an experienced professional; that was the most unnerving aspect of this transformation. Drive counts more in this case than talent.

Slowly the work with wood started to mature and began to express feelings as readily as the former visual discussions. With the addition of colored pencil to the sculpture, the connection with the former textiles is complete.

Malerich stated, “I work in layers, pierced by holes, enhanced by colors. The pieces are different on all sides, sometimes surprisingly. We are being patched up after experience. It is tough these days. My figures stand tall and vulnerable, legs braced for more social and physical insult.”

The Arts Council will also present the 36th Annual Sculpture Celebration, presented by the Caldwell Arts Council, juried by John Douglas Powers, on Sept. 10, from 9am-4pm, at the T.H. Broyhill Walking Park, in Lenoir. Sculptors are invited to bring up to 3 sculptures for this one-day event to compete for $11,000 in cash awards, along with potential sales and commissions. This annual family-friendly event attracts sculptors and buyers from the eastern United States to Lenoir and in past

The Gallery at Flat Rock in Flat Rock, NC, Offers Annual Art in Bloom Exhibit

Think of it as “art with an expiration date”. Art in Bloom 2022 presents the artful pairing of colorful, fresh blooms with sculpture and canvases to create a new experience for art lovers. It’s a visual conversation that’s amplified through the inherent transience of the exhibit.

In a celebration of ephemeral beauty, The Gallery at Flat Rock is pairing twenty professional floral designers with an equal number of artists to present imaginative interpretations of juried works of art for its seventh annual Art in Bloom exhibit, on view from Sept. 2-4, 2022.

Here’s how it works: professional floral designers study the artwork and then create fresh floral interpretations based on what they experience. These floral pieces are exhibited in tandem with the artwork that inspired the designer, creating a dynamic visual display. “Art in Bloom” originated in 1976 at the Museum of Fine Arts Boston.

She is inspired by the challenges and rewards of playing with color and design in abstracts. She develops an idea with drawings, collages, and/or photos. “When I start to weave I am fascinated as I mix the yarns and they become new colors, patterns, and textures. I weave series of tapestries to expand my ideas,” she says. Her favorite subject to weave is what surrounds her, the beautiful mountainscapes which come to life in her tapestries.

Upstairs Artspace in Tryon, NC, Reopens With Three Exhibitions

The Upstairs Artspace in Tryon, NC, has reopened, after a year of rebuilding, with three exhibitions by seven artists from Tryon, Asheville, Rock Hill, and Los Angeles titled, Carefully Placed Lines on Paper, Human Connections, and The Thinking Eye. These three free exhibitions will be on public display through Oct. 14, 2022.

"The artists in these three exhibitions are the same artists who were here when the flood happened," Patti Trobaugh, Board Member and Treasurer said. "We had their reception on a Saturday night, and after everyone left, the hot water heater broke and flooded all three floors of the gallery until it was discovered two days later. We've been closed for restorations ever since. We felt it was only fair and fitting to have these same artists back to actually show their work."

Tryon architect John Walters will present works from his book, Carefully Placed Lines on Paper, a collection of drawings of interesting places and buildings from around the world. He has been one of Tryon's leading architects since 2002 and is heavily involved in local community service.

"My sketchbook is a constant companion on business trips and vacations," he states. "The majority of these sketches were drawn on site, often with some details finished later, such as additional trees, shadows, and textures, often in a hotel room or airplane. Others were drawn based on photographs and notes made on site when there was not adequate time to sketch on site. I think the more successful images resulted from drawing on site under time constraints: with too much time, it is easy to draw too much. I have found the simpler, quicker sketches to be the more successful, and often most descriptive, drawing only enough to capture the essence of the subject."

Los Angeles artist Catherine Baumhauer and Rock Hill, SC, artist Caroline Rust will showcase their work titled Catherine Baumhauer and Caroline Rust: Human Connections.

Work by Martha Skinner

Baumhauer was born and reared in Pittsburgh, PA, and is a graduate of the School of the Art Institute of Chicago and California Institute of the Arts: CalArts. Her background in painting, sculpture, animation, film, and her life as a mother influences her current work.

"My illustrations blur the lines between make believe and reality," she said. "Playful, whimsical, at times satirical, these characters address the foibles and absurdities of being human and female in a modern world. Initially, I used them as a way of dealing with the stress of motherhood and the pandemic, but they are meant to provide comfort beyond the immediate demands of the present. They provide levity and moments for escape."

Rust is a native of Charlotte, NC, and earned her master's degree in fine art painting from Winthrop University and her bachelor's degree in fine art painting from East Carolina University. She is a process-driven artist, with a passion for painting and surface enhancement. Clothing provides stimulus for her current paintings, which are predominantly on canvases made of deconstructed garments from her wardrobe and vintage collection. Described as a painter's painter, Rust creates intriguing surface assemblages with textiles that she enriches with expressionistic paint.

In a synthesis of emotion and intellect, her works of art regard the dressing table and wardrobe in metaphor to reflect qualities of the feminine, consider aspects of womanhood, explore identity, and commemorate the human condition. Celebrating aspects of femininity by drawing influence from the past and memories, Rust's work investigates the internal lives of women by portraying a connection between a sense of self and the desire to retain strength while exhibiting softness and perhaps vulnerability.

Each of the four Asheville artists - Jeff Kinzel, Martha Skinner, Ralston Fox Smith, and Kevin Hogan - are exploring space in fundamentally different ways in the exhibit The Thinking Eye. They are investigating their chosen subjects and paying attention to the dynamic elements that make up a piece of artwork, in particular the third dimension, depth.

Jeff Kinzel was born and reared in New York. He pursued his initial art studies at the Art Students League, The National Academy, and as a studio assistant to painter Ellsworth Kelly. He graduated from Boston University with a bachelor's degree in English and received graduate training at the University of Iowa. His works have been featured in exhibitions abroad, as well as in New York, Iowa, and North Carolina. Kinzel has worked in education, both in the public school system and recently as director of Naturally Grown School. He maintains an art studio in Asheville.

Martha Skinner, born in Colombia, is an international multi-media artist with a master's degree in Architecture and Urban Culture. Her career as an artist, researcher, professor, and public speaker spans 25 years. She converses with our built environment through visualizations of the cycles of life to address temporal, social, and environmental issues of our delicate ecology. She utilizes this methodology in her work to filter, transmit, capture, and commemorate the intangible qualities of the passing of time with playful representations of the relationships between humans and the environment in which they are situated.

"I will exhibit a series of drawings expanding space through collaboration and interplay with light. As an exploration at various scales, they're also installations and performances - moving, changing, and inhabitable. There will be pieces that transform as we move past them. And some that we think are static and, like life itself, suddenly after some time, we noticed they've changed. The space of my dismantled installation of last year's flooded exhibit presented me with a display of light - what seeped through the missing flooring and other materials when I came back to pick up my work. With that I have created another piece, as a seamless continuation of where we left off when interjected by the enormity and intricacy of life - the flood and my dad's passing."

Ralston Fox Smith grew up in New Hampshire and attended Amherst College where he earned a bachelor's degree in fine art. He continued his art studies at the Santa Monica College of Design, Art and Architecture, studying under contemporary abstract artist Laddie John Dill, Beat Generation artist George Herms, and contemporary painter and educator Lisa Adams. This unique school, with its collaborative teaching, fueled Fox's passion for oil painting and its direct expression of self and surroundings. He is inspired by and presently lives in Asheville with his wife, two children, and large dog.

"I continue to work with colorfield and geometric abstraction that explores spatial relationships and our perception of them," he said. "Hard-edge, minimal and (mostly) monochromatic, these paintings are born from a constant awareness of and intrigue by simple spaces that we pass by or through on a daily basis. Rendered in an axonometric perspective, with parallel lines and no vanishing points, same-size shape repetition and tinted colors create transparent spaces for the eye/brain to contemplate. Positive and negative shapes are both separate and melded together in this work, the simple compositions belying the complex possibilities. Exploring this minimalist and ordered world is satisfying to me, especially in this day and age."

Kevin Hogan was born in Liverpool, England and came to the United States in 1965. He attended Cooper School of Art in Cleveland and Kent State University in the 1970s. During that time, he was the Gallery Director at NOVA and was instrumental in the founding of SPACES. He and his wife Jo moved to Asheville in 1979. During his time in North Carolina Hogan has shown his work in every major institution in the state. He is co-founder of Square Zero, the first arts space in Asheville's downtown arts district and Asheville Working Press, the second arts space in Asheville's River District. Hogan has a diverse artistic practice that includes painting, drawing and various types of printmaking.

"We greatly appreciate these artists and their commitment to us," Patti Trobaugh said. "We also greatly appreciate the support of our patrons, the community, and the Polk County Community Foundation for making this possible. Special thanks to Nancy Holmes, the gallery founder, who heads our Exhibition Committee, for her diligent work in making these exhibits happen."

Western Carolina University in Cullowhee, NC, Offers New Exhibits

Western Carolina University in Cullowhee, NC, is presenting several new exhibitions on view at the WCU Fine Art Museum in the Bardo Arts Center, including the following:

Cultivating Collections: Glass, on view through Dec. 9, 2022. Cultivating Collections is a multi-year series of exhibitions highlighting specific areas of the WCU Fine Art Museum's permanent collection. In this year's exhibition, student researchers tell the stories of the Museum's glass collection, which includes a range of artists who have made significant contributions to the Studio Glass Movement in Western North Carolina.

This exhibit highlights a range of artists who have connections to the history of glass in Western North Carolina. Many of them made significant contributions to the Studio Glass Movement and are teachers, mentors, and innovators who have inspired other artists to work in glass.

Ashley Evans, "Matriarch", photograph, 45 x 30 inches.

A reception will be held on Oct. 13, from 5-7pm. Light refreshments and drinks will be served at BAC's Star Atrium.

The exhibit, The Way I'm Wired: Artist Reflections on Neurodiversity, is on view through Dec. 9, 2022. A reception will be held on Sept. 1, from 5-7pm Everyone's brain is wired differently. This exhibition invites artists with a range of neurological complexities, such as dyslexia, ADHD, anxiety, and autism, to share their lived experiences and how their unique way of thinking makes them stronger artists.

The exhibition When Was the Last Time You Saw a Miracle? Prints by Corita Kent, is on view through Oct. 21, 2022.

Shaped by her experiences as an artist, teacher, and Catholic nun, Corita Kent used her art to bring people together and ignite social change. Her screenprints position words in innovative ways to awaken her viewers to new ideas. In this selection of prints from the 1950s and 1960s, which are drawn from the Museum's permanent collection, Kent combines vivid color with quotations, everyday slogans, and biblical scripture to create inspirational messages of hope and harmony for humankind.

The exhibit We Will Not be Silenced: Standing for Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women, is on view through Dec. 9, 2022.

The exhibition is a series of photographs and sculptures that bring voice to the international Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women (MMIW) movement through the lens of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians, Comanche Nation, Lumbee, and other Native American artists.

The exhibition Gilded: Contemporary Artists Explore Value and Worth, will be on view from Sept. 10 through Apr. 8, 2023.

Across time and cultures, gold has served as a metaphor for what we value most. Symbolically, it stands in for goodness, excellence, brilliance, and wealth. He has a heart of gold. She is going for gold. It shone like gold. They struck gold. Found in crowns and regalia that bestow power, rings that signal matrimony, and currency traded among peoples, the metal has profound social significance.

Gilded features the work of Radcliffe Bailey, Larissa Bates, William Cordova, Angela Fraleigh, Gajin Fujita, Nicholas Galanin, Liz Glynn, Shan Goshorn, Sherin Guirguis, Titus Kaphar, Hung Liu, James Nares, Ronny Quevedo, Shinji Turner-Yamamoto, Danh Vo, Stacy Lynn Waddell, and Summer Wheat. The exhibition is accompanied by a scholarly catalogue including contributions by art historian Rebecca Zorach and poet Joshua Bennett.

The exhibit Allora & Calzadilla / The Great Silence will be on view from Sept. 17 through Jan. 7, 2023.

So begins artists' Allora & Calzadilla's poetic video, "The Great Silence". Narrated by an endangered Puerto Rican parrot living near the world's largest radio telescope at the Arecibo Observatory, this eloquent film winds its way in just 16 minutes through musings on life and death, communication and misunderstanding, myth and science.

Penland School of Crafts in Penland, NC, Offers Works That Tell Stories

“Stories we live with, construct from our past experiences, shape from our culture, and fashion from our dreams and aspirations: the story is given form by the artist.” That’s how Penland Gallery director Kathryn Gremley introduces the work in a remarkable new show called Retold: Chronicles and Other Stories. This exhibition presents work by five artists working in a range of media, making work that presents personal and cultural narratives. The exhibition will be on view through Sept. 17, 2022.

Jennifer Ling Datchuck works with porcelain and other materials often associated with traditional women’s work, such as textiles and hair, to create sculptures that explore her layered identity, which includes being female, Chinese, and a “third culture kid.” The exhibition includes two of her sculptures and a video piece.

Colette Fu’s complex, oversized pop-up books combine vivid color photography and paper engineering to create complex, three-dimensional, narrative scenes. Her pieces in this show are from a series called We are Tiger Dragon People that documents the cultures of the minority tribes of Yunnan Province, China.

Karen Hampton describes her process as working from the perspective of anthropology and the study of her own genealogy. She uses textiles, dyeing processes, text, and stitching to evoke enslavement, displacement, struggle, and resilience.

Sculptor Anne Lemanski makes life-sized forms of animals and objects by creating metal armatures and covering them with paper she has printed with collage imagery. There are three of her pieces in the show with the center of the gallery occupied by her six-and-a-half-foot-tall white horse dotted with dozens of intriguing and resonant images.

Stephanie Santana is represented by two self-portraits. These are photographs of the artist screenprinted onto fabric and appliquéd onto painted and embroidered quilts. These pieces, she says, consider “the promise and the so-called limitations of Black girlhood” and also the “lasting truth of change,” a concept from the writing of novelist Octavia Butler.

The work in this thought-provoking exhibition is accompanied by texts that invite a deeper understanding of each artist’s points of reference and the context for their imagery and choice of materials. Anyone who spends time with the fifteen pieces presented is likely to leave the gallery feeling as though they had visited several other worlds. Also showing in the Penland Gallery are works in all media by artists affiliated with Penland School of Craft and a special show of contemporary jewelry titled Wear.

The Penland Gallery and Visitors Center is located at Penland School of Craft on Conley Ridge Road, just off Penland Road in Mitchell County (near the town of Spruce Pine). It is the first building on the right as you enter the Penland campus.

Penland School of Craft is a national center for craft education dedicated to the creative life. Located in Western North Carolina, Penland offers workshops in books and paper, clay, drawing and painting, glass, iron, metals, printmaking and letterpress, photography, textiles, and wood. The school also provides artists’ residencies, an outreach program, and a gallery and visitors center. Penland is a nonprofit, tax-exempt institution that receives support from the North Carolina Arts Council, a division of the Department of Natural & Cultural Resource.

UNC-Greensboro in Greensboro, NC, Offers New Exhibitions

The University of North Carolina at Greensboro, NC, will present two new exhibitions on view at the Weatherspoon Art Museum, including: Gilded: Contemporary Artists Explore Value and Worth, on view in the Museum’s 2nd Floor: The Bob & Lissa Shelley McDowell Gallery, from Sept. 10 through Apr. 8, 2023, and Allora & Calzadilla | The Great Silence, on view in the Museum’s 2nd Floor: Gallery 6, from Sept. 17 through Jan. 7, 2023.

Across time and cultures, gold has served as a metaphor for what we value most. Symbolically, it stands in for goodness, excellence, brilliance, and wealth. He has a heart of gold. She is going for gold. It shone like gold. They struck gold. Found in crowns and regalia that bestow power, rings that signal matrimony, and currency traded among peoples, the metal has profound social significance.

Across the arts, craftspeople have long pounded gold into thin sheets called leaves, which are applied in a process called gilding. In realms of the spiritual, gilding illuminates sacred texts, gives otherworldly luster to holy spaces, and allows religious sculptures to shine.

While we most frequently associate gold leaf with historic traditions, the material appears frequently in the work of contemporary artists. Specifically, the artists represented in this exhibition turn to gilding as a means to reconsider our value systems. Gilding images of graffiti and sidewalks, cardboard boxes and architectural fragments, they ask us to see the beauty in what we so often overlook and honor that which we so often throw away. Gilding images of people—often those who have been disempowered or forgotten—they ask us to hold up our collective humanity. If, as the saying goes, “all that glitters is not gold,” the artists represented here offer an inverse proposition: perhaps that which does not always shine is most worthy of our attention.

Gilded features the work of Radcliffe Bailey, Larissa Bates, William Cordova, Angela Fraleigh, Gajin Fujita, Nicholas Galanin, Liz Glynn, Shan Goshorn, Sherin Guirguis, Titus Kaphar, Hung Liu, James Nares, Ronny Quevedo, Shinji Turner-Yamamoto, Danh Vo, Stacy Lynn Waddell, and Summer Wheat.

The exhibition is accompanied by a scholarly catalogue including contributions by art historian Rebecca Zorach and poet Joshua Bennett. After its Weatherspoon debut, the project will travel to the Hunter Museum of Art in Chattanooga, TN, and the Hood Museum of Art at Dartmouth in Hanover, NH.

Gilded is organized by Dr. Emily Stamey, curator and head of exhibitions.

In the exhibition, Allora & Calzadilla | The Great Silence, the humans use Arcibo to look for extraterrestrial intelligence. Their desire to make a connection is so strong that they’ve created an ear capable of hearing across the universe. But I and my fellow parrots are right here. Why aren’t they interested in listening to our voices?

So begins artists’ Allora & Calzadilla’s poetic video, The Great Silence. Narrated by an endangered Puerto Rican parrot living near the world’s largest radio telescope at the Arcibo Observatory, this eloquent film winds its way in just 16 minutes through musings on life and death, communication and misunderstanding, myth and science. Its images alternate between the dense green growth of the rainforest and the stark gray surfaces of the telescope’s construction, while its soundtrack swings between the song calls of the birds and the mechanical whirs and creaks of machinery. All the while, the thoughtful parrot notices how all of these contradictions - abstract and physical - exist together.

Created in 2014, the video’s themes of care and hope still resonate today, perhaps even more strongly. Nearly a decade later, Puerto Rico has endured the 2017 destruction of Hurricanes Irma and Maria - with their deadly toll to both humans and animals on the island - as well as the 2020 collapse of the Arcibo telescope—and its impact on the scientific community globally. Now in a moment of required resilience - along with the rest of the world, as we persist through pandemics, climate change, and political turmoil - the parrot’s closing words feel more needed than ever: You be good. I love you.

GreenHill in Greensboro, NC, Offers Exhibit Focused on Figurative Art

PRESENCE, a major survey of figurative artists at GreenHill Center for North Carolina Art, in Greensboro, NC, presenting 2 and 3-dimensional works in painting, drawing, fiber art, printmaking and sculpture, will be on view through Nov. 5, 2022.

Originally scheduled for display in 2020, numerous works in PRESENCE evoke shared experiences from the past two years. Notions of presence and absence, states of isolation and engagement, personal and collective histories are explored in over one hundred works.

Work by Jessica Burke

The twenty-five artists working in figurative idioms from across the state in PRESENCE include: Luis Ardila (Mint Hill); James Barnhill (Greensboro); Joseph Begnaud (Laurinburg); Tamie Beldue (Black Mountain); Alexandra Bloch (Black Mountain); Aliyah Bonnette (Garner); Jessica P. Burke (Charlotte); Steven M. Cozart (Greensboro); Jill Eberle (New Bern); Alia El-Bermani (Apex); Timothy Ford (Boone); Richard Garrison (Chapel Hill); Tony Griffin (Statesville); Onay Gutierrez (Raleigh); Ben Hamburger (New Orleans); Clarence Heyward (Clayton); Robert Igoe (Greensboro); Alexis Joyner (Elizabeth City); Michael Northuis (Greensboro); Roy Nydorf (Oak Ridge); Neeraj Sebastian (Greensboro); Bruce Shores (Greensboro); William Paul Thomas (Durham); Taylor White (Raleigh); and Bryan M. Wilson (Charlotte).

Associated gallery programs at GreenHill include dual artist talks by Roy Nydorf and

Work by Luis Ardila

William Paul Thomas; and Alia El-Bermani and Clarence Heyward who will each present their work and engage in an unscripted conversation taking questions from the audience. Drop-in after work yoga sessions and adult workshops in GreenHill’s studios will provide moments for individual reflection and recuperation.

GreenHill engages a diverse community of artists, adults and children through dynamic statewide exhibitions and arts education while providing a platform for exploration and investment in art. Inspired by a vision for cultural equity and inclusion, GreenHill is the only organization dedicated exclusively to presenting and promoting the contemporary visual art and artists of NC. The Center’s wide-ranging initiatives build empathy and connection through expressive, innovative and thought-provoking art. GreenHill’s exhibition space, shop, and studios are located in downtown Greensboro in close proximity to the Steven M. Tanger Center for the Performing Arts, where GreenHill also curates onsite galleries.

Gallery tours may be scheduled with the curator by e-mailing (edie.carpenter@greenhillnc.org).

For further information check our NC Institutional Gallery listings, call GreenHill at 336/333-7460 or visit (www.greenhillnc.org).

advertising and bottle collectors as well as pottery collectors.

Promotional wares include merchant jugs and jars made for North Carolina businesses. Interestingly, most of these promotional pieces were made by pottery industries outside of North Carolina. Likely reasons for that are the larger out-of-state potteries could furnish more wares and many of those potteries used Bristol glaze, which was not favored in NC, on which blue or black stenciling was easy to read. This exhibit features only jugs and jars promoting NC businesses and towns.

Presentation wares typically only have the name of the person for whom the piece was made and possibly the name of a town or a date, although some may also have the potter's mark as well. Although made relatively infrequently, Presentation wares were produced by potters across the state from the Piedmont to the Catawba Valley and Western NC. This exhibit features only those Presentation wares made in North Carolina.

At Left: Jar from Baltimore, made for NC merchant. At Right: Dated 1856, this jar is attributed to N. H. Dixon as a presentation piece for plantation owner (Chatham Co.) J. B. Headen.

We hope you'll come check out the exhibit and see what some early promotion and presentation pottery looked like in NC.

Reynolda House Museum of American Art in Winston-Salem, NC, Features Works by Page Laughlin

Reynolda House Museum of American Art in Winston-Salem, NC, is presenting Page Laughlin Paper Dolls: The Labor Series, on view in the West Bedroom Gallery through Dec. 31, 2022.

The genesis of the project came to Winston-Salem-based artist Page Laughlin during contemplative walks through Reynolda House and grounds, and was inspired by the three generations of Reynolds women who created it—and by all women who carry us forward.

For the "Paper Dolls" series, Laughlin created digital images of young women engaged in traditional acts of manual labor: carrying, digging and watering. She then transformed the digital images into drawings to which she alternately added and removed oil paint, creating large, lush and layered works on paper. Laughlin prefers to work on paper, rather than canvas, and to hang the pieces in a way that they appear to float so that they, as the artist describes, "have breath behind them."

"I am interested in how we are defined by and through the 'things we carry' - the physical, psychological and social markers of who we are," said Laughlin. "I portray women in young adulthood, when we shift from being carried to having to carry. I am interested in the distance between what we pick up and what we must accomplish."

Laughlin is a project-based artist whose work spans painting, alternative media drawing, site specific and community-engagement projects. She has exhibited widely in galleries, museums and nonprofit exhibition spaces throughout the United States. Her artwork has been selected for more than 40 competitive exhibitions, including 11 museum exhibitions, 10 solo exhibitions or installations and six published color exhibition catalogues.

In 2019, her Community Coloring Book project and exhibition was sponsored by CAS Laundry King Project Space in the Mid-Hudson region in New York (related community engagement work spanned 2019-21). Notably, in 2013, she was featured in a two-person exhibit, Dwelling, at the North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh, NC.

Laughlin's work was a feature article in the May 2007 issue of Traditional Home Magazine, with national and international distribution of more than two million readers. In 2011, her "Hidden Worlds" series was featured in a solo show at the Dishman Art Museum in Beaumont, TX. Laughlin's project grants include the New Forms Regional Artist Project Grant in Atlanta, the North Carolina Artist Project Grant and the Percent for Art Program. She has been awarded a North Carolina Art Fellowship, and in 2007 she was a nominee for USA Artist Fellowship.

Her Residency Fellowships include the Headlands Center for Art in Marin County, California; the Virginia Center for Creative Arts; and the ON::View Residency in Savannah, GA. Her work is in numerous private and public collections throughout the United States, including the American University Museum at the Katzen Art Center and the North Carolina Museum of Art.

Laughlin has a Master of Fine Arts in Painting from the Rhode Island School of Design. She is currently a Research Professor of Art at Wake Forest University.

Artworks Gallery in Winston-Salem, NC, Features Works by Jessica Tefft and Wendell Myers

Artworks Gallery in Winston-Salem, NC, is presenting two new exhibits including: A Leg to Stand On, featuring a new series of work by Jessica Tefft, and The Forest, featuring a continued series of works by Wendell Myers, both on view through Sept. 24, 2022. A reception for both exhibits will be held on Sept. 2, from 7-9pm.

The new body of work by Jessica Tefft looks at how tragedy and trauma can transform us. We often have trouble seeing the beauty in the disfiguration and scars we carry. The struggle is the story that makes us more compelling and resilient. Tefft examines the idea of tragedy, loss, and resiliency through collages and augmented reality.

Work by Wendell Myers

Tefft is an award-winning photojournalist and editor. Photojournalism took her to Cuba, the Alaskan wilderness, and even the presidential campaign trail. She assembled and edited a contest entry for coverage of the Washington, DC, sniper, which became a finalist for the Pulitzer Prize. She has a Bachelor of Arts degree in studio art from

Wake Forest University and is currently working towards her Master of Public Affairs at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Wendell Myers continues his series of trees and thickets of untended brush inspired by time that he and his late wife, Pam, spent in Poland over the last 15 years. Myers layers saturated color to produce an active surface with visual depth and detail.

Myers attended art school in Milwaukee in the '70s and medical school in Winston-Salem in the '80s. He began painting seriously again 13 years ago, and for the past 7 years has been working as both a physician and as an artist. He is currently transitioning, shifting his focus to full time artist.

New 20th Century Art Installation at Sunset River Gallery in Calabash, NC

Sunset River Gallery (formerly Sunset River Marketplace) in Calabash, NC, announces the opening of its new 20th Century Art Installation, a selection of rare and valuable fine and modern art, primarily impressionist and abstract. The collection currently features paintings by Wolf Kahn (1927-2020), Ed Mell (1942), Raimonds Staprans (1926), Angell Botello (1913-1986), Jean Xceron (1890-1967), Emile Gruppe (1896-1998), identical twins Raphael Soyer (1899-1987) and Moses Soyer (1899-1974), Rolph Scarlett (1889-1984), Gloria Vanderbilt (1924-2019), and Ida Rittenberg Kohlmeier (1912-1997). Also included is a bronze sculpture by Glenna Goodacre (1939-2020).

With an ever-growing collection of fine art, Johnson set out to find a gallery into which he could integrate his auction purchases. He says, “Sunset River proved to be a perfect match for me. It is a large gallery in a vibrant but still reasonable area, which will facilitate the selling of valu-adds, “for 20 years, I’ve nurtured Sunset River as a thriving community art hub, and I’m thrilled that Larry is going to continue that concept. The gallery has played an important role in developing the area’s cultural and commercial community. I’m grateful for the continued support of local artists and residents as well as the thousands of visitors that come to see us every year.” Lassiter will continue to work with Sunset River in an advisory capacity and curating exhibitions and artist events.

Highlights of the new installation include two paintings by Wolf Kahn, Pink Sky, 28" x 34", oil on canvas and Through the Gap, 42" x 72". Kahn is well known for both his oils and pastels. He was first published as far back as 1979 and his artwork is represented in several popular books including Wolf Kahn's America, published in 2003. His work has always brought solid market prices and has been sold by Christie’s, Sotheby’s, Bonhams and Heritage Auctions. He passed away in 2020 and Christie’s auctioned Fields of Vision, from the Private Collection of Artists Wolf Kahn and [his wife and fellow artist] Emily Mason on May 17, 2021. This auction established a new auction record at $207,000 and seemed to spark a new pricing level for both Kahn’s and Mason’s work. In November 2021, a new auction record of $212,500 was reached for Wolf Kahn’s Atlantic Highlands.

There are also three coveted Raimonds Staprans oils: Boats, '72, 28' x 34"; Boats At Newport #2, 28" x 34" and Landscape With a Barn, 44" x 48". The artist was born in Latvia in 1926 and currently lives in San Francisco, CA, but is no longer painting. His pieces are found in numerous museums.

The San Jose Museum of Art in San Jose, CA has a substantial collection as does the State Museum of Art, Riga, Latvia. Staprans' work is considered to be in the circle of Wayne Thiebaud and Richard Diebenkorn; he was friends with both of them. Sotheby's, Bonhams and Christie's have sold his work, although recent auction records have come through California-based Clars Auction Gallery at $147,600 on Sept. 12, 2020, and then $187,500, June 17, 2022. Available paintings by Raimonds Staprans are very scarce.

Also still living is Ed Mell, born in 1942. He has his own gallery in Phoenix, AZ, with his work gaining popularity sharply in recent years, leaving almost no inventory of his original paintings for sale. Surprisingly, the two art auction majors, Christie's and Sotheby's, have yet to bring his work to auction, but since his auction results have recently exceeded $100,000, that may be simply a matter of time. His Shadowed Walls, measuring 40" x 78", is available through Sunset River Gallery. It is a striking showpiece of 20th century American art.

Angel Botello is represented with two charming pieces Reclining Girl, 35 7/8" x 48" and Niño con Caballito, 24" x 30" in the Sunset River collection. Born in 1913 in Puerto Rico, he essentially began as a street artist. His work is so unique and appealing that his fame grew during his lifetime such that resales at various auctions quickly outpaced his original art prices. He was both a painter and a sculptor. Botello's work is often sold at Sotheby's and Christie's. His auction maximum was achieved at Christie's in 2007 for Nina Durmiendo at $397,000.

The 20th Century Art installation at Sunset River Gallery is open now, however a reception is planned for a later date once some cosmetic upgrades have been completed at

Located in coastal Brunswick County, Sunset River Gallery caters to both area visitors and a growing local community of full-time residents seeking fine art for their homes and businesses. Featuring work by approximately 150 North and South Carolina artists, the gallery is well known in the area for its collection of oil paintings, watermedia, pastels, photography, hand-blown glass, fused glass, pottery and clay sculptures, turned and carved wood, unique home décor items and artisan jewelry.

There are two onsite kilns and five wheels used by the gallery's pottery students. Art classes and workshops are currently being offered on a limited basis. Call the gallery for details.

Brookgreen Gardens in Murrells Inlet, SC, Features Works by Jane Jones

Brookgreen Gardens in Murrells Inlet, SC, is presenting Cultivating Dutch Traditions in the 21st Century – Jane Jones' Hyperrealist Floral Paintings, on view in the Noble Gallery, through Nov. 15, 2022.

A traveling exhibit of still life floral paintings recently opened at Brookgreen Gardens, offering visitors a unique opportunity to see these floral paintings complimented by the beautiful sculpture garden. These paintings by artist Jane Jones are based on the flowers and symbolism of 17th-century Dutch still life painting, which Jones incorporates to address the present-day issue of climate change.

Jones has been influenced by the flowers and symbolism of 17th-century Dutch still life painting for many years, and in the floral paintings made specifically for this show, she has incorporated that symbolism and made it more pointed and direct.

The exhibition presents the ideas of risk and protection and explores the artist's concerns about the current changes to the planet due to climate change. The paintings will be on display in the Noble Gallery, with the beautiful backdrop of Brookgreen's sculpture gardens to compliment the floral paintings, and Brookgreen will also feature floral designs by local florists in the gallery during the exhibition.

After leaving Brookgreen, this exhibition

Brookgreen Gardens in Murrells Inlet, SC, Features Annual Sculpture Exhibition

Brookgreen Gardens in Murrells Inlet, SC, is presenting the National Sculpture Society's 89th Annual Awards Exhibition, the premier annual exhibition of American figurative sculpture, on view in the Rosen Galleries, through Oct. 23, 2022.

It is fitting for this exhibition to be shown at Brookgreen Gardens, home to the largest and most significant collection of American figurative sculpture in the world, and be the only venue for this exceptional annual exhibition. The National Sculpture Society (NSS) is the first organization of professional sculptors in the country and handpicks pieces for this exhibition, presenting the finest in contemporary figurative sculpture by American masters alongside rising stars.

"This annual exhibition supports our mission to collect and display the finest American sculpture and continues our longstanding relationship with the NSS since our founders, the Huntingtons, were members and supporters of the organization," says Page Kiniry, President and CEO of Brookgreen. "We are thrilled that Brookgreen is once again the venue for this exceptional display of artwork, and we hope visitors will take this opportunity to enjoy works from some of the country's best contemporary sculptors."

The 37 works in this exhibition are selected by a jury from hundreds of entries. Works are made of materials including bronze, wood, silicone, plaster, terracotta, cast aluminum, resin, marble, and steel. Seventeen awards will be presented by the NSS, along with the People's Choice Awards, determined by votes from visitors to Brookgreen, which will be announced at the exhibit's conclusion.

This exhibition is generously supported by Carl G. and Mary G. Colton, Hal and Margaret Holmes, Greg and Cheryl Sprole, Kenneth and Elaine Trousdell, and The Curator's Circle.

Arts Council of Fayetteville/Cumberland County in Fayetteville, NC, Announces Northside Community Murals Are Done

The new, state-of-the-art community murals located at the intersection of I-295 and north Ramsey Street in Fayetteville, NC's Northside corridor are now complete. The murals entitled "We Are Fayetteville: Legacy and Future" are a beautifully vibrant and innovative scenic design that adds enormous value to the cultural, aesthetic, and economic vitality of our community.

The concrete bridge support structures were transformed into a wondrous work of art that depicts symbolic scenes and vibrant colors reflective of the community's lifestyle and history. This interpretation creates a sense of place reflective of the City's inclusive, yet diverse, community expressed through green and gold images of agricultural and recreational scenes that symbolize its thriving neighborhoods and businesses.

Through a nation-wide search, a Mural Advisory Committee created by the Arts Council of Fayetteville/Cumberland County (Arts Council) selected Fuquay-Varina's mixed media artist and muralist, Jermaine "JP" Powell, through a blind jury competition process. After engaging with local residents and learning of their interpretations of life in their community, Powell's final visionary design for the murals was approved by the Fayetteville Public Arts Commission and City Council capturing a visually compelling rendition of life in the Northside that represents the community's strong sense of pride, family, unity, and growth... all the things that make Fayetteville a desirable place to live, work, and play.

The power of art continues to inspire thoughts, emotions, and joy as onlookers see a representation of themselves and the rich history, heritage, and legacy of Fayetteville reflected through the mural. "Sometimes art isn't about the work, it's about the process of telling your story of the sacrifices and efforts you put in everyday to make this city a great place," says Jermaine "JP" Powell, muralist. "I want this mural to be an international landmark, a place where people from all over the world will come to see and learn the story of what Fayetteville is... a welcoming community."

The grant request to the National Endowment for the Arts in 2018 was based on the concept of turning 'gateways' into 'great ways' to enter the city of Fayetteville. Completion of the mural spurs the possibility for future public art and beautification projects across Fayetteville that would make our roadways and public spaces brighter. "The images created by Powell capture the rich sense of community so evident in the lives of the residents on the north side," says Bob Pinson, Interim President of the Arts Council. "We hope to use public art in many forms throughout our community to continue to provide opportunities for conversation and learn from one another. Together, we can move into a brighter future for all."

Project planning was made public in February 2020 as part of Fayetteville's Corridor Revitalization Project, a collaboration between Fayetteville/Cumberland Parks and Recreation and the Arts Council.

Fayetteville's Northside community mural project was a partnership with the Arts Council, Fayetteville/Cumberland Parks and Recreation, City of Fayetteville Government, Cumberland County Government, the North Carolina Department of Transportation, and supported by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Visit the City of Fayetteville NC Government Flickr page to view promotional videos and photos of the murals or log onto (WeAreTheARTS.com/295mural) for artist bio.

City and County leaders ask drivers to prioritize safety and follow regular traffic flow at the murals.

The Arts Council of Fayetteville/Cumberland County is a tax-exempt 501(c)(3) organization based in Fayetteville, NC that supports individual creativity, cultural preservation, economic development, and lifelong learning through the ARTS. As a primary steward of public and private funding for arts, cultural, and historical activities in the Cape Fear Region, all affiliated programs of the Arts Council exemplify our 5 core values: Excellence, Accountability, Transparency, Collaborations, and Innovation.

In the year 2021-22, the Arts Council distributed almost $1 million in grant funds and allocations to Cumberland County arts and culture non-profit organizations, artists, and municipalities.

Grants, programs, and services of the Arts Council are funded in part by contributions from community partners, and through grants from the City of Fayetteville, Cumberland County, and the N.C. Arts Council, a division of the Department of Natural & Cultural Resources.

Arts Council of Fayetteville/Cumberland County in Fayetteville, NC, Features Works by Mariah Tyes

The Arts Council of Fayetteville/Cumberland County in Fayetteville, NC, is presenting Daughters of the Divine, a dedication to motherhood and sisterhood by Mariah Tyes, on view at The Arts Center, in Historic Downtown Fayetteville, through Sept. 18, 2022.

A red rose in an expression of divine love. The Arts Council presents a solo exhibition that honors the lives of our loved ones through the essence of red roses. The exhibition features works by photographer Mariah Tyes.

The exhibition will move you through a photographic journey depicting the divine and unwavering love of motherhood and sisterhood, all symbolic through the essence of red roses. As a devotion to her mother, the exhibit is a dedication to the true Angels in our lives, our enduring mothers, and the lives and legacies they leave behind.

Having endured the loss of her mother, at the age of 17 while pregnant with her first child, Marion Tyes took on the responsibility of raising her five siblings and her child. Upon marrying Edwin Tyes, Sr., she birthed her son and three daughters which included Mariah. Her caring and nurturing disposition didn't end there. After raising her children, she also parented countless children through the foster care system of Buffalo, NY.

"The only words to describe the dedication and selflessness of my mother, Marion Tyes, is Divine Love," says Mariah. "Even as she chose to bare such burdens, she has always given of herself unconditionally."

A native of North Carolina by way of Buffalo, NY, Mariah Tyes launched her photographic career at the Buffalo Academy for Visual and Performing Arts. Watching her father take family photos and home videos while growing up, Mariah sparked her own interest to capture memorable moments of family, friends, and scenic views. As a US Army Veteran, full-time mother to her baby girl, Eden Oshun, and a full-time student at Fayetteville State University, Mariah makes time to initiate passion projects that unapologetically celebrate black beauty as reflected in her current works. Mariah plans to continue her education in museum studies to become a prestigious Art Curator and Archivist.

Notable achievements include a publication by Vogue Italia Online (PhotoVogue), The Fayetteville Observer, Fayetteville State University Magazine, and the cover of She's Single Magazine featuring Novi Brown from Tyler Perry's hit show 'Sistas'.

NC Museum of Art in Raleigh, NC, Offers Several New Exhibitions

NC Museum of Art in Raleigh, NC, will present new exhibits including: Fall 2022 Billboards: Ralph Burns, on view at the Ann and Jim Goodnight Museum Park, from Sept. 1 through Mar. 31, 2023.

The exhibition surveys the artist's distinguished black-and-white documentarian style. These photographs capture the intricacies of worship, ritual, and love through an impartial lens.

As Burns states, he uses his camera as a tool "to try to understand." In one photo a penitent in Mexico carries the statue of Our Lady of Guadalupe. In another a woman writhes with emotional intensity as she is baptized in the Jordan River in Israel. A third photo depicts a young boy emulating Elvis during a pilgrimage to Graceland. Together, these images serve as glimpses into a connected experience of religiosity and adoration.

This selection of photographs accompanies a larger exhibition of the artist's How Great Thou Art series in Outlandish: Photographs by Ralph Burns | Photographs from the Collection of Allen G. Thomas Jr., on view in the East Building, through Feb. 12, 2023.

Courtesy of the artist and made possible by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of North Carolina as part of an ongoing series of outdoor art projects, Art Has No Boundaries, commissioned by the NCMA to encourage visitors to actively explore the Museum Park.

The exhibition, Start Talking: Fischer/Shull Collection of Contemporary Art, on view in the East Building, Level B, Joyce W. Pope Gallery, from Sept. 17 through Feb. 5, 2023.

This exhibition features selected pieces from an exceptional promised gift to the NCMA from the collection of Hedy Fischer and Randy Shull. Amassed over the past three decades and still ongoing, the collection includes seminal works by Abraham Cruzvillegas, Vanessa German, Trenton Aida Muluneh, "99 Series (Part Seven 7)", 2014, Archival digital print, 15.75 x 15.75 in. Collection of Hedy Fischer and Randy Shull; © 2022 Aida Muluneh, Courtesy the Artist and David Krut Projects, New York.

Doyle Hancock, Graciela Iturbide, Pope.L, Tina Modotti, Gabriel Rico, Alison Saar, Hank Willis Thomas, Nari Ward, and many others. This transformative gift will significantly expand the scope of the People's Collection. It will augment works by artists currently in the collection and add works by artists previously not represented, enabling the Museum to present a comprehensive picture of the many major movements and artists in contemporary art.

Gravitating toward artists who, as they describe it, "have something to say," Fischer and Shull, based in Asheville, NC, and Merida, Mexico, have built a dynamic and ambitious collection since they started acquiring art in 1993. Looking across their gathering of artists, one can find connections between them that challenge the status quo and diverge from dominant historical perspectives around identity, power, resistance, and agency. Many of these pieces contain a sense of physicality and materiality, with tangible evidence of the artist's hand in the creative process.

Fischer and Shull continue to establish spaces for social advocacy and community-centered art practice in their collection as it grows and develops. The collection reflects an awareness of power dynamics and institutional barriers, specifically in respect to women, Black, and Latinx artists. As the pair states, "Part of our commitment to the arts is a feeling of responsibility to participate in the global discourse that seeks to rewrite many overlooked histories and to provide an avenue for conversation and understanding."

Organized by the North Carolina Museum of Art. This exhibition is made possible, in part, by the North Carolina Department of Natural and Cultural Resources; the North Carolina Museum of Art Foundation, Inc.; and the William R. Kenan Jr. Endowment for Educational Exhibitions. Research for this exhibition was made possible by Ann and Jim Goodnight/The Andrew W. Mellon Foundation Fund for Curatorial and Conservation Research and Travel.

The exhibition, Outlandish: Photographs by Ralph Burns | Photographs from the Collection of Allen G. Thomas Jr., on view in the East Building, Level B, Video Gallery, Photography Gallery 1 (Julian T. Baker Jr. Gallery) and 2 (Allen G. Thomas Jr. Gallery), on view through Feb. 12, 2023.

Using photography from the Museum's collection, this exhibition examines the peculiarity of human experience and expression. In one gallery a photo series by Asheville-based photographer Ralph Burns captures the intricacies of worship, ritual, and love. For decades he followed crowds of devout Elvis fans during their pilgrimages to Graceland. Burns's documentarian style demonstrates a deep understanding of humanness and emotional connection.

In the other gallery, gifts from the collection of NC native and collector Allen G. Thomas Jr. explore the eccentricity and intrigue of contemporary photography. The varied selection of portraits, abstract scenes, and other stylized photographs offers another fascinating examination of the characteristics that connect us as people. Ultimately, this exhibition questions the emotions we project onto the subjects of the photographs, confronting our implicit judgments of each other and what we deem unusual.

Craven Allen Gallery in Durham, NC, Offers Works by Sue Sneddon

The Craven Allen Gallery in Durham, NC, will present A Life of Seeing: Sue Sneddon, a retrospective exhibition of works by the late Sus Sneddon (1953-2022), on view from Sept. 17 through Oct. 29, 2022. A reception will be held on Sept. 17, from 5-7pm.

Sue Sneddon was one of Craven Allen Gallery's most popular artists, with 14 shows over 25 years. Her fifteenth show of original work was in the planning stages when she passed away unexpectedly of cancer in January of this year.

A Life of Seeing features works from throughout Sneddon's decades-long career, including works for sale. Collectors are generously sharing special artworks for this retrospective, along with stories and memories of Sneddon.

Sneddon's land- and seascapes convey the quiet grandeur of the natural world in paintings ranging from intimate pastels to large oils on canvas. In her words, "Sometimes the smallest landscape can evoke the larger setting, the feeling of the expansiveness of the environment. The whorl of a shell, a hurricane, a galaxy - how similar these shapes are. How odd, I've always thought, are the square and rectangular borders placed on two-dimensional art. There are choices to be made on how to convey the reverence and emotion inside these boundaries."

Sneddon's passion was coastal North Carolina, and she was known for her unusual perspectives, as in the oil Should I Be Out Here? from 1995. A wave dominates all but a small corner in the upper left of the painting, where the sky is glimpsed, giving the viewer a visceral sense of the ocean's power.

Sneddon grew up in Pennsylvania, and moved to Durham in 1976. She exhibited widely; her work is in numerous public and private collections. In 2003, she fulfilled another goal, building a home and studio in Shallotte, NC. Sneddon is featured in Liza Roberts' forthcoming book about North Carolina artists, Art of the State.

The following is offered by John Bloedorn, owner of Craven Allen Gallery:

"Should I Be Out Here?" by Sue Sneddon, oil on canvas, 24 x 36 in., 2016

"Sue Sneddon was a wonderful artist and great friend. We hosted 14 exhibitions of her work over the course of 25 years, and the last time we spoke she was telling me some of her ideas for the next one. It was early in December (2021), and I don't think either one of us imagined that it was the last time we would see each other. It's a painful loss that all of us here are still grappling with."

"Sue considered the gallery space a second home. A week before an opening, she would set up camp downstairs, working on pieces, hosting friends who occasionally came by, listening to Joni Mitchell. We would spend hours together hanging and lighting the show. I'd get frustrated when things weren't ready as soon as I wanted them, but we were both passionate about the work and the way it was presented, and the installation process was important to both of us. We both wanted people to experience the show in a certain way. We could tell each other years later where we hung certain paintings, and why. It was a privilege to spend that kind of time with her, learning about each piece. There was always lots of laughter... and often a few tears."

"Openings were exciting, with big crowds of people, and friends bringing flowers," adds Bloedorn. "Later, Sue would host private gatherings and play music with friends in the gallery during the course of a show. And lots of people came back after the opening to see this quiet, intimate work when they could spend time with it alone."

quiet, intimate work when they could spend time with it alone."

"She forever changed the way I see the world and experience nature. Especially at the coast, I am constantly seeing the world [the] way Sue taught me to see it. I am so grateful to be sharing Sue's work again in the gallery for this retrospective. Love you, Sue."

The following is a statement from Sus Sneddon about her own work.

"I grew up in the beauty of the Allegheny Mountains and Laurel Highlands area of western Pennsylvania, in a family where creativity was highly valued. One of my first memories of drawing was trying to figure out how a dandelion flower turned into a ball of small seeds with fluffy tops that could be carried by the wind. I was probably five at the time, and at that early age I was drawing what was in front of me - bugs, flowers, clouds, trees - realistically, so I could attempt to understand how nature worked."

"My mother and three aunts were all artists, and my father was trained as a classical violinist, but became a jazz enthusiast, along with my mother. My fascination with Carolina landscapes began on childhood vacations to Southern beaches."

"I had my first thought of really being a painter when I was 13 or 14. My mother and I were discussing whether the pink in a bank of oyster shells was a reflection of the pink sky or in the shells themselves. We were on the south end of Pawleys Island, SC, witnessing a glorious sunset. I said to myself, 'if I could paint the joy I feel in this moment, then I could be a painter.'"

"Most of my work, as it turns out, is exactly that - fleeting moments of light in the sky, on water, or on wet sand. And there's no place I've experienced this in a more compelling way than at my beloved Emerald Isle. These moments do something to me that I can only express by trying to capture them on paper or canvas. I like to approach a subject realistically at first, so that it gets filed in my brain somewhere, to be called on when I want to express how I feel about the moment of a sighting that has moved me."

"I live for these moments of joy and wonder and reverence. Whether or not there is a human figure in the work I create, I may also be influenced by a conversation, visit, walk, or relationship associated with a particular moment I am trying to capture. And although water-related subjects are the ones I most frequently choose, there are other landscapes that I have painted over the years, particularly rural settings of trees, fields, and aging barns and houses."

"Mixing a palette of colors for an oil painting is very intense for me. This ritual signifies the commitment of many days, weeks, or months of painting to capture this one moment. The application of a medium onto a surface can transport me to that first inspiration. I may hear the water, wind, birds, or a song I was humming. My senses are filled as if I were witnessing it for the first time."

"I work from memory. My memory is sometimes sparked by the notes and sketchbooks that are filled with these moments that I don't want to forget. There are a lot of notes and sketchbooks. Sometimes I do see something and immediately paint it. But there can also be a long process of distilling an experience to its essential elements and then working to capture those in my work."

"Oil, pastel, acrylic, pencil, gouache, watercolor, oil pastel, pen and ink, and mixed media all have a station in my studio. I like to have options in my choice of medium, and also in the music that accompanies my workday. My tastes there are eclectic, as well, ranging from jazz to rock-and-roll, to classical, to folk and other genres. All of my artwork seems to have a soundtrack."

"I am fortunate to have a studio that gives me access to my main sources of inspiration and allows me to mark my time by sunsets, tides, moon phases, solstices, and equinoxes. My studio looks out onto the marshes of a tidal river, the Shallotte River. A short drive takes me over a bridge to the Atlantic Ocean, as at Emerald Isle. It's the place I feel most alive - where that powerful body of water meets the soft sand, with the ever-changing play of light on water. I am so very thankful."

Hillsborough Gallery of Arts in Hillsborough, NC, Offers New Exhibit

The Hillsborough Gallery of Arts in Hillsborough, NC, will present Somewhere in Time, featuring works by Lolette Guthrie, Pringle Teetor, and Eric Saunders, on view from Sept. 27 through Oct. 23, 2022. A reception will be held on Sept. 30, from 6-9pm.

The word "Time" evokes something different for each person. For the three artists in the current show at the Hillsborough Gallery of Arts, time carried them to very different places.

For painter Lolette Guthrie the title "Somewhere in Time" drew on her memories of time spent on Ocracoke Island. Says Sound in such a way that the sun rises over the Atlantic and sets over the Sound. While I had not planned to do so, I realized after I had finished a few paintings that I seemed to be concentrating on those specific times of day. I decided, therefore, to see how many ways I could paint them that captured the ephemeral nature of light at those precious times, and was not cliché"

Due to the pandemic as well as several surgeries, glass artist Pringle Teetor had been out of the studio for almost two years. "Finally back in the studio in mid-November, my muscle memory was gone, and my body didn't move the same. I felt lost, with no creativity and was very close to giving up, but instead I reflected on past work to motivate and rekindle my creative energy.

My new work feels like finally coming home from a difficult journey. I love combining many colors to create a "painting" in glass. It's difficult because colors never heat equally. I hadn't used copper wire forms in 15 years. Blowing molten material into something so restrictive makes beautiful organic and abstract vessels. I love chemistry in glass that work together to create new colors. Glass is liquid, strong, delicate, unforgiving and mesmerizing. It is a dance of fire, fluidity, motion and color.

Photographer Eric Saunders says that for outdoor photographers the most magical time is early morning or late afternoon - when the light is best, or a time of unusual weather, such as fog, storm, or ice and snow. "When I photograph images, I am inspired by unusual abstract patterns of light, color, and tone, which are found in nature and in human artifact, in times of unusual light. I then try to visualize these patterns into artistic compositions, which follow certain rules so that the resulting image is accessible and compelling to the viewer."

Saunders uses camera settings and computer software to "polish the picture" before printing it. "Digital art is my term for digital changes to an image which go beyond adjusting focus, contrast, density, and color balance, and alter the image, to enhance the interest and effectiveness of the compositional structure."

Some Exhibits That Are Still On View

Our policy at Carolina Arts is to present a press release about an exhibit only once and then go on, but many major exhibits are on view for months. This is our effort to remind you of some of them.

Work by Steph Frederickson

Redux Contemporary Art Center in Charleston, SC, and MUSC Health Arts in Healing collaborates for the Summer Exhibition, featuring artworks from MUSC's permanent collection, on view through Sept. 10, 2022. The exhibit titled Studies Show... aims to highlight Redux's Outreach Program and raise awareness about MUSC Health's Arts in Healing program. In the past, the arts have seemingly been disconnected from health care but today, new research and the development of artistic interventions in health care environments create a symphony of activities designed to support patient healing. Studies Show... highlights artworks from the Arts in Healing's collection alongside medical research to both justify and advocate for the inherent healing powers of the arts. For further information call the Center at 843/722-0697 or visit (www.reduxstudios.org).

The Hampton III Gallery in Greenville, SC, is presenting Corrie McCallum: Intervals, featuring paintings and prints by Corrie McCallum (1914 - 2009), on view through Oct. 8, 2022. On Sept. 10, from 11am-noon, we will gather for Coffee and Conversation. Sarah Tignor from the Johnson Collection will be sharing her thoughts about McCallum's life and works. The public is invited. In 2003, McCallum was granted the coveted Elizabeth O' Neill Verner Award (now known as the Governor's Award in the Arts) for Lifetime Achievement. This award was a fitting capstone to her life in the arts and an acknowledgment that her persistence paid off. To view the exhibition online, go to (www.hamptoniiiigallery.com). A catalogue is available upon request. For further information call the gallery at 864/268-2771 or visit (www.hamptoniiiigallery.com).

View of the salon style "State of the Art/ Art of the State" exhibition of the State which is on view, extended through Oct. 9, 2022. All North Carolina artists were invited to participate. Guest curators this year include: Alejo Benedetti, of the Crystal Bridges Museum of American Art; Dr. Maia Nuku, of the Metropolitan Museum of Art; and Michael Rooks, of the High Museum of Art Atlanta. Inspired by famed curator Walter Hopps, the design of this project provides any participating artist equal opportunity to meet a significant curator working in the field of contemporary art and have their work seen by all visiting curators and the public. For further information visit (www.cameronartmuseum.org).

Work by Joyce Tenneson

The Asheville Art Museum in Asheville, NC, is presenting Draped and Veiled: 20x24 Polaroid Photographs by Joyce Tenneson, on view in the The Van Winkle Law Firm Gallery, through Oct. 10, 2022. Standing behind the substantial presence of the large format Polaroid 20x24 camera - weighing 200 pounds and the size of a refrigerator - artists peer through the viewfinder towards another world. The process of creating the unique large dye transfer prints imparts framing to a scene and quality to an image that balances subtlety with boldness, softness paired with an undeniable presence. The 20x24 Polaroid adds an additional layer of veiling and diaphanous softness to the imagery in Joyce Tenneson's Transformations series, which she began in 1985 and engaged with through 2005. For further information call the Museum at 828/253-3227 or visit (www.ashevilleart.org).

The Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art in Winston-Salem, NC, is presenting Paul Bright: Matter of Style, a survey of the past ten years of artist Paul Bright's work, on view in the Potter Gallery, through Oct. 30, 2022. A Matter of Style explores collage as an approach to art-making with works created from found materials in a variety of media, including paper, books, video, sound, and performance. Challenging conventional notions of "style," Paul Bright's work consists of found and manipulated material from different sources, unrestricted by a single medium or look. In his artistic practice, Bright uses collage as an approach, not just as an art-making technique. It emerges from his "dialogue" with and concentration on found materials; found paper, found objects, found situations, found text, found images, and found sounds. For further information visit (<https://secca.org>).

Diedrick Brackens, "fashion a box of stars scaled"

Mint Museum Randolph in Charlotte, NC, will present Diedrick Brackens: ark of bulrushes, on view through Dec. 11, 2022. The exhibition presents a new series by Los Angeles-based artist Diedrick Brackens including large-scale (8-foot) weavings and premiering the artist's first woven sculptures. Known for making colorful textiles about African American and queer histories, Brackens has developed a process of combining the tactility of yarn with the ethos of storytelling. For this exhibition, the artworks tell timeless narratives about emancipation and remediation through pattern, body, and the power of craft. In addition to being one of the most innovative and important artists on the rise in the United States, Brackens' work incorporates traditions important to the Southern region - baskets that relate to Cherokee nation and the Gullah people, quilts that resonate with all cultures, but a particular exploration of quilts in the African-American historical narrative. For further information call the Museum at 704/337-2000 or visit (www.mintmuseum.org).

Charleston

Avery Research Center for African History and Culture, at the College of Charleston, 125 Bull St., Charleston. Ongoing - Exhibits on view include: "Since 1920: Zeta Phi Beta Centennial". The Gamma Zeta chapter of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority Incorporated presents a centennial exhibit filled with the rich history of the sorority in print and paraphernalia. Visitors can see in-depth the programming, philanthropy and reach of Zeta Phi Beta during their 100 years. "The Water Keeps Rising" Hip-hop artist and activist Benny Starr has created an interactive exhibit based on data from the Avery's State of Racial Disparities Report in Charleston County. This exhibit will create an immersive experience for visitors. In the areas of civic engagement, racial disparities, the environment and performance art/music, this exhibit will aim to connect the dots from historical data and archival information up to the present conditions of the Lowcountry. "Resilient". Local artist Chris "Kolpeace" Johnson will highlight the power of being resilient with this work that recognizes African Americans who have shown strength through adversity including the late local activist Muhiyidin D'baha and Cyntoia Brown, who faced life in prison after being convicted of homicide as a juvenile. These pieces are tributes to memorialize the impactful strength of an unsung hero in the community, engaging the soul and spirit. "The African Origins of Mathematics". Charleston resident and artist Robert "King David" Ross highlights the direct impact Africa has had on modern mathematics in this exhibit. Showcasing the first math instrument, the Ishango bone, the exhibit allows visitors to see the influence Africa has had on every aspect of life. Admission: Free. "Georgia", 2021, by Bo Bartlett (American, b/1955). Oil on linen, 60 x 80 inches. Image courtesy of the artists and Miles McEnery Gallery, New York, NY

Gibbes Museum of Art, 135 Meeting Street, Charleston. Gallery 8 & 9, Sept. 9 - Jan. 15, 2023 - "Bo Bartlett: Earthly Matters". Gallery 8 & 9, Sept. 9 - Jan. 15, 2023 - "Bo Bartlett: Earthly Matters". Acclaimed for his large-scale paintings that explore modern American life and cultural heritage, contemporary artist Bo Bartlett follows the traditions of American Realists such as Andrew Wyeth, Thomas Eakins and Edward Hopper. Earthly Matters presents a selection of Bartlett's recent works that examine humankind's impact on and interaction with nature's elements. Bartlett's subjects, both human and animal, find themselves in precarious environmental situations, either from their own doing or by forces beyond their control. Bartlett's appreciation for the beauty of ordinary moments imbues his work with an underlying luminosity and frankness. His larger-than-life scenes invite viewers to contemplate their role in the narrative. Gallery 2 & 3, Through Oct. 9 - "William Eggleston Photographs from the Laura and Jay Crouse Collection". It is said that William Eggleston's unique ability to conflate the epic and the everyday has made him one of the most impactful figures in late 20th century photography. A native of Memphis, TN, Eggleston first photographed his local environs in the 1950s in black-and-white but became one of the first fine art photographers to use color to record his observations in a more heightened and accurate way. Today, his strikingly vivid yet enigmatic images of parked cars, billboards, storefronts, diners and other artifacts of the ordinary world are considered groundbreaking. The photographs presented in this edition of the museum's Charleston Collects exhibition series were selected from the Laura and Jay Crouse Collection and represent many of the pioneering artist's most notable works. The exhibition will be accompanied by a full-color catalog with an essay on the artist by Simon Constantine, Ph.D., professor of photographic history at Birkbeck, University of London, and Sotheby's Art Institute. Galleries 1, 4, and 5, Permanent Exhibition - "18th and 19th Century American Paintings and Sculpture". American paintings, from colonial portraits to Civil War-era landscapes, occupy the Gibbes Main Gallery. Portraits of leading political, social, and military figures include works by Jeremiah Theus, Henry Benbridge, Benjamin West, Gilbert Stuart, Thomas Sully and Samuel F.B. Morse. The gallery also features landscape and genre scenes by Angelica Kaufmann, Louis Mignot, Eastman Johnson, Conrad Wise Chapman, and William Aiken Walker. The paintings collection is complemented by examples of neoclassical sculpture on view in the Campbell Rotunda, and decorative art objects on loan from the Rivers Collection. Gallery 5, Permanent Exhibition - "Miniature Portraits". The first American miniature portraits were painted in Charleston, and today the Gibbes is home to one of the most prestigious portrait miniature collections in the United States. Containing more than six hundred objects, the collection spans nearly two hundred years and represents the work of over a hundred artists. Small enough to fit in the palm of the hand, these tiny portraits were treasured remembrances of loved ones in the age before photography. Presented in state-of-the-art display cases, and in viewable storage drawers featured miniatures include works by Mary Roberts, Jeremiah Theus, Henry Benbridge, Charles Wilson Peale, Pierre Henri, Edward Greene Malbone, George Engleheart, and Charles Fraser. Gallery 6, Permanent Exhibition - "20th Century American Regionalism and the Charleston Renaissance". At the turn of the twentieth century, American artists looked to their European counterparts and beyond as they developed identifiably American artistic movements. Two particularly strong influences during this time period were French Impressionism and Japanese woodblock prints. Another prevailing theme during this period was the growing interest in American subject matter. American regionalism and social realism played important roles in the development of art in Charleston, which flourished as a destination for artists, particularly during the years of 1915 to 1945 a period now known as the Charleston Renaissance. Gallery 7, Permanent Exhibition - "Modern and Contemporary". Modern and contemporary art in America encompasses a wide range of styles, subject matter, and media. As a whole, the diversity of modern and contemporary art reflects the rich and varied heritage of our nation and the lowcountry region. Works in this gallery were created over the past forty years by artists who are native to the area, who have worked here, or who have created objects that reflect the complex story of the region. The works are grouped to reflect several themes including the southern landscape, the human figure, abstraction, and the legacy of slavery in America. Visiting Artist Series, Clare Hu, Session III: Through Oct. 29, 2022 - Clare Hu is an artist and weaver currently based in Brooklyn. She completed her BFA with a focus in fiber and material studies at the School of the Art Institute of Chicago (SAIC) and has received additional training in textiles from the Gerrit Rietveld Academie in the Netherlands. Hu has shown widely in Chicago at No Nation Gallery, Gallery No One, Dfbrl8r and Sullivan Gallery, and has recently shown at the Textile Arts Center in Brooklyn, and Dream Clinic Project Space in Columbus, Ohio. She is a past Hambridge Center fellow, and a recent resident at the Textile Arts Center in Brooklyn. Visiting Artist Series, Jonathan Rypkema, Session III: Through Oct. 29, 2022 - Jonathan Michael Rypkema is a visual artist who lives and works in Charleston, S.C. He works with various mediums which include spray paint, acrylic and wood. He received his undergraduate degree from the College of Charleston in studio arts with a focus on sculpture. Coming from a primarily two-dimensional background, school is where he developed an interest in three-dimensional work along with the skill sets needed for those projects. Following his studies, Rypkema began to combine the different disciplines he had learned, creating shaped paintings that interacted with viewers on a physical level. In recent years, the artist continued along this path but has shifted his focus to the use of repurposed wood and scrap materials, bringing a spontaneous and adaptive quality to his practice. Ruth and Bill Baker Art Sales Gallery, Through Sept. 11 - "Coupling," featuring works by Susan Klein. Through loose, improvisational handling of materials, Klein's mixed media drawings and paintings in "Coupling" are playful works with imperfect structures. Meant to ensue a full sensory experience, she uses colors and shapes that often have a taste and touch associated with them. Her work has the ability to shift in purpose and meaning and the power to communicate a multiplicity of ideas at once. Museum Shop - Now offering the inventory of the Tradd Street Press, reproductions of works by Elizabeth O'Neill Verner among other exhibit related art objects. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-5pm & Sun., 1-5pm. Admission: Yes. Contact: 843/722-2706 or at (www.gibbesmuseum.org).

Work by Kirsten Stolle

Halsey Institute of Contemporary Art, The Marion and Wayland H. Cato Jr. Center for the Arts, College of Charleston School of the Arts, 161 Calhoun St., Charleston. Through Dec. 10 - "Kirsten Stolle: Only You Can Prevent A Forest". Using appropriation, wordplay, and humor, Kirsten Stolle co-opts advertising strategies used by agricultural corporations to resurface and critique company history. For her exhibition, "Only You Can Prevent A Forest," Stolle will create photo-based collages, visual poetry interventions, text-based sound animation, a neon wall piece, and her first site-responsive sculptural installation. Building upon her decade-long research into companies like Bayer/Monsanto and Dow Chemical, the work will forefront historical ties to chemical warfare and reveal persistent greenwashing.

Saul Alexander Gallery, Charleston County Public Library, 68 Calhoun St., Charleston. Sept. 1 - 30 - "The Canvas Chapters," featuring works by Ann Ludlow. Ludlow is an abstract painter, and a photographer, originally born in Bristol, PA, and was raised in Powdersville, SC. She started studying art at a young age and went on to study art at Furman University. This is where her painting and photography skills really developed. Ludlow has always been interested in the collision of subjects, so often her art is either about loved ones or science. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 9am-8pm; Fri. & Sat., 9am-6pm; and Sun. 2-5pm. Contact: Megan Summers at 843/805-6946 or at (www.copl.org).

The Charleston Museum, 360 Meeting Street, Charleston. Founded in 1773, is America's first museum. Lowcountry Image Gallery, Through Dec. 18 - "Explore Charleston in Sports: A Photographic History, 1890s-1960s". Sports have historically been important to our personal well-being. In addition to the health benefits of physical activity, life values such as teamwork, discipline, and emotional self-control are frequently learned through recreational games. The late 19th and early 20th centuries saw the rise of a variety of sports across the country, and these inevitably found their way to Charleston. Join us to view historic photographs from the Museum's Archives collection of sporting moments from the Lowcountry. Textile Gallery, Through Dec. 4 - "Chintz: A Quilted History". Ongoing - "Becoming Americans: Charleston in the Revolutionary War". Charleston played a critical role in the Revolutionary War. South Carolina was the wealthiest of the thirteen rebellious colonies and Charleston was its key port to maintain its trade with the outside world. The British would make three attempts against the city during the Revolutionary War. Their defeat at the Battle of Sullivan's Island on June 28, 1776 was a crucial patriot victory, which convinced many that independence could be achieved. The Siege of Charleston, meanwhile, was the longest siege of the Revolutionary War and the largest battle in South Carolina. These events and others are chronicled in the new exhibit, which will also features artifacts and period images that have not been exhibited at the Museum before. Ongoing - Featuring the most extensive collection of South Carolina cultural and scientific collections in the nation, it also owns two National Historic Landmark houses, the Heyward-Washington House (1772) and the Joseph Manigault House (1803), as well as the Dill Sanctuary, a 580-acre wildlife preserve. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9am-5pm & through the Summer months, Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 843/722-2996 or at (www.charlestonmuseum.org).

Lee Gallery, 1-101 Lee Hall, Clemson University, 323 Fernow Street, Clemson. Through Sept. 29 - "Redefining the Multiple: 13 Japanese Printmakers". A Curatorial Discussion with Sam Yates will be offered on Sept. 8, at 5:30pm. A reception will be offered on Oct. 20, beginning at 6:30pm. "Redefining the Multiple: 13 Japanese Printmakers," features the work of artists trained as printmakers who push the boundaries of what is commonly understood as traditional printmaking processes and techniques. Artists expand the concept of a print and take creative advantage of the multiple as a process that builds an edition or in some cases a three-dimensional sculpture or video. Works in Redefining the Multiple encompass a broad range media including etching, aquatint, monotype, screen-print, photographic processes, woodcut, to mixed media, video and three-dimensional works in felt, cast resin. The exhibit works of exceptional quality and innovation and extends the traditional conventions of printmaking and its use of the multiple through creative and dynamic approaches. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 9am- Noon, then 1-4:30pm. Contact: Denise Woodward-Detrich, Lee Gallery Director by calling 864-656-3883 or at (<http://www.clemson.edu/centers-institutes/cva/>).

Sikes Hall, Clemson University, Ground Floor Sikes Hall, 101 Calhoun Drive, Clemson. Through Oct. 10 - "Natural History/Critical Condition," remains a visual compendium of cautionary reflection. Each of the works presents an observation on the natural environment and when the individual pieces are presented all together the sum total unveils a daunting list of environmental concerns facing humanity. The exhibition points to disruptions in our natural environment such as ocean acidification, global warming, decline of critical food chain species, melting glaciers, animal extinctions, plastic detritus, and deforestation. Participating artists include: Lynne Allen, Dale Clifford, Carmon and Ashley Colangelo, Sydney

Cross, Georgia Deal, Margaret Denk-Leigh, Bill Fisher, Diane Fox, Adele Henderson, Patricia Thomas-Hunsinger, Anita Jung, Cima Katz, Kumi Korf, Robert Lazuka, Pamula Longobardi, Angela Oates, Dennis O'Neil, Cynthia Osborne, Andy Rubin, Joe Sanders, Aaron Wilson, and Anderson Wrangle. The portfolio exchange was organized by Sydney A. Cross with support from the Clemson Advancement Foundation. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8:30am - 4:30pm. Clover

Gallery 120, 120 Bethel Street, Clover. Ongoing - Established in January 2015, Gallery 120 was created as a community art gallery with a mission to build a strong vibrant Arts community and encourage growth and exposure of professional and emerging artists while educating our community in the Fine Arts. Gallery 120 is a center where partnerships with other art groups serve as an opportunity for community involvement and showcase a variety of artwork, with a special focus on student art. Gallery 120 exhibits change monthly with professional and student artists. The gallery also offers a First Friday public art reception, held on the first Friday of every month from 6-8pm. We exhibit artwork created by artists who are professional and whose works are exceptional in skill and presentation. We showcase student artwork crafted by students in our schools, from the elementary level through high school level. The gallery also showcases works of emerging artists, whether they are hobbyists in drawing or painting or some other fine art medium. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8am-5pm. Contact: 803/222-9493 or at (www.Clovergallery120.org).

Columbia Area

Columbia Museum of Art, Main & Hampton Streets, Columbia. Through Sept. 4 - "In the Shadow of Monet: Giverny and American Impressionism". In 1883, French Impressionist painter Claude Monet settled in Giverny, a village nestled at the confluence of the Seine and Epte rivers. This is the scene of the CMA's beloved Monet landscape painting. Glimpses of the new, still-radical Impressionist style inspired many American artists to go study in France where the movement was developing in real time. American artists traveled to Giverny and home again for four decades at the turn of the 20th century, transforming the American art scene. This exhibition features over 40 artists, including Giverny Colony founders Willard Metcalf and Louis Ritter, as well as Richard Edward Miller, Lilla Cabot Perry, John Singer Sargent, Mary Fairchild MacMonnies, and Guy Rose. Organized by the Columbia Museum of Art. Through Oct. 16 - "Sigmund Abeles: Shades of Life". Throughout his career, Sigmund Abeles (b. 1934) has maintained a commitment to realism. Though an accomplished painter and sculptor, Abeles has long been active as a printmaker. His graphic work demonstrates a uniquely intimate approach to figural subjects as well as remarkable draftsmanship. Drawn entirely from the CMA Collection, this selection of works on paper explores the artist's perceptive renderings of daily life. Through Oct. 2 - "Amanda McCavour: Bright Little Day Stars". Poet Martha Lavinia Hoffman describes flowers as "bright little day stars scattered all over the earth." Artist Amanda McCavour lifts those stars up into the air in this exhibition, creating hovering constellations of colorful flora. The Toronto-based artist creates astonishing embroideries by stitching into water-soluble fabric she then dissolves to leave only the stitching. This exhibition includes a brand-new body of floral work in colored metal, also hanging from the CMA gallery ceilings to create an immersive environment. The exhibit was organized by the Columbia Museum of Art. Through Jan. 1, 2025 - "The Collection". Come see the newly organized collection. We've gathered ancient and modern works of art, together in one space, that explore our shared archetypes, myths, and ideals. Galleries 5 & 6, Ongoing - "Modern & Contemporary Art from the Collection". Celebrating some of the CMA's greatest hits, this exhibition features over 30 paintings, drawings, photographs and sculptures from the Museum's collection that have not been on view recently. It offers the visitor experiences both serious and sensual and is designed to both entertain and enlighten. Notable works included are by Jasper Johns, Howard Thomas, Sally Mann and Edward Ruscha, whose famous image of the Hollywood Hills (on view) has become a staple of the art world. Ray Taylor Fair Gallery, Ongoing - Featuring a new and permanent installation of its ancient art collection. The installation includes approximately 50 objects that introduce the major ancient civilizations from the Mediterranean and Near East. Examples of the earliest form of writing from 12th century B.C. Mesopotamia, are shown next to Egyptian scarabs and Greek painted vessels. The world of the ancient Romans is represented by 2nd century glass and bronze items and portrait sculpture. Many of these works have not been seen since the Museum moved to its location on Main Street in 1998. The collection has grown over the last several years with the donation of 12 fine Roman sculptures in 2002 from Pennsylvania collector Dr. Robert Y. Turner. Admission: Yes, but there is no admission charge on Sun. Hours: Tue.-Sun., from 10am-5pm. Contact: 803/799-2810 or at (www.columbiamuseum.org).

McKissick Museum, University of South Carolina, USC Horseshoe, Columbia. Through Dec. 10 - "Sewn Through Time: Sweetgrass Basketmakers Reimagine a Tradition". A South Carolina's Lowcountry native, she will share how she came to study and write about a tradition. Carolina's Lowcountry basketmakers have sewn baskets since the 17th century. The tradition has been preserved at the hands of the Gullah-Geechee people, descendants of enslaved West Africans trafficked to North America. For over 300 years, basketmakers have transformed baskets from a plantation tool into an art form. Today, basketmakers continue to leverage heritage tourism to make a living, to advocate for the preservation of the ecosystem vital to the tradition, and to experiment with scale, form, and materials. This exhibit traces the evolution of sweetgrass baskets in South Carolina, highlighting the innovative work of contemporary makers. Ongoing - "Highlights from the Permanent Collections of McKissick Museum". Permanent - "Baruch Silver Collection," a collection of the Baruch family silver. And, "Natural Curiosity: USC and the Evolution of Scientific Inquiry into the Natural World". Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8:30am-5pm & Sat., 11am-3pm. Contact: 803/777-7251 or at (<http://artsandsciences.sc.edu/mcks/>).

Work by Julie Schnell-Madden

McMaster Gallery, room 119, basement level, McMaster Building, 1615 Senate Street, Columbia. Through Sept. 29 - "Socially Engaged Ceramics," is a two-person exhibition of ceramic artwork by Julie Schnell-Madden and Lydia C. Thompson. Schnell-Madden and Thompson's ceramic artworks are stylistically distinct but united by their intention to present timely, yet historically informed, sociopolitical commentary through the medium of ceramics. Closing Reception and Gallery Talk on Sept. 29, from 5-7pm. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-4:30pm. Contact: Olga Dickey, Gallery Director, at 803/422-4289 or e-mail to (yukhno@mailbox.sc.edu).

Florence

Florence County Museum, 111 West Cheves Street, across the street from the Francis Marion University Performing Arts Center, Florence. Ongoing - "Kindred Spirit: The Personal Worlds of William H. Johnson". William H. Johnson (1901 - 1970) was a man between worlds: raised in the rural South, but educated in New York; black, but his unknown father was white; American-born, but lived much of his adult life in Europe. This diverse heritage gave Johnson a unique perspective and insight, but at times it was also a difficult shadow which followed him as he traveled the world in search of his true artistic voice. Eventually, after many years away from his hometown of Florence, SC, Johnson returned to the United States. Although living in New York, his art began to focus almost entirely on the lives and experiences of African Americans in the rural South. "My travels taught me that an artist must live and paint in his own environment... This development shall continue for the rest of my life, and it is the painting of my people," said Johnson in 1941. Special Exhibits Gallery, Through Jan. 22, 2023 - "Steven F. Gately". This exhibit will focus on the work of artist Steven F. Gately (1946 - 2021), and feature a selection of paintings, mixed media assemblage, and works on paper created in the 50-year period approximately between 1970 and 2020. Gately was best known locally as the C.B. & Marlene Asking Professor of Art, and Coordinator of Visual Arts Programs at Francis Marion University, where he taught for 48 years. He received his MFA degree from Florida State University. Although an accomplished realist artist, the overall corpus of Gately's work can be described as formal abstraction, emphasizing foundational principals and elements to achieve modernist compositions. He was the subject of over twenty solo exhibitions during his lifetime. His work is represented in the collections of the Gibbes Arts Gallery, Charleston; The Columbia Museum of Art, Columbia; the State Art Collection of South Carolina; and various other public and private collections. Community Gallery, Ongoing - This exhibit introduces visitors to the history of the museum and its formative collections. This gallery also exhibits the histories and diversity of the City of Florence, and the incorporated municipalities of Florence County. Additionally, the Community Gallery communicates the lives, stories and accomplishments of significant past and present citizens of Florence County and members of it's communities. This gallery is one of two permanent exhibit spaces designed by award winning exhibit design firm, HaleySharpe Design. Pee Dee History Gallery, Ongoing - This is the largest gallery space in the facility, comprising 3,300 sq. ft. of exhibit space. This permanent collections gallery occupies the entire second floor, east wing of the building. Artifacts are supported by historical images and narrative interpretation, giving a comprehensive introduction to the Pee

Dee region from prehistory to the present. This gallery is one of two permanent exhibit spaces designed by award winning exhibit design firm, HaleySharpe Design. Waters Gallery, Through Dec. 2 - "Re/educated". In his ongoing series of paintings, North Carolina based artist Marcus Dunn explores problematic history - the United States' system of re-education camps for Native American children. Dunn's images are derived partly from documentary photographs of these "boarding schools" which generations of Native people were forced to attend during the late 19th and early 20th century. With broken brushwork and a muted color palette, Dunn's paintings simultaneously evoke a sense of faded memory, while bringing attention to a critically overlooked part of American history. Dunn descends from Tuscarora and Pee Dee tribal heritage. He earned his MFA in painting from Savannah College of Art and Design and currently teaches at Richmond Community College and University of North Carolina, Pembroke. Admission: Free. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun. 2-5pm. Contact: 843/676-1200 or visit (www.flocomuseum.org).

Greenville County Museum of Art, 420 College Street, Greenville. Continuing on view - "Love Letters in the Sand," explores the evocative and ephemeral themes of memory and sentimentality, truth and story, highlighting works by Andrew Wyeth, Jamie Wyeth, Thomas Sills, Margaret Bowland, and more. Continuing on view - "But Wait -- There's More!" showcases our 2022 Art for Greenville acquisitions and includes works by David Drake, Jasper Johns, William H. Johnson, Jamie Wyeth, and Andrew Wyeth. If you'd like to learn more about how you can help us continue to grow our extraordinary collection, visit (gcma.org/support). Continuing on view - "Jasper Johns + Andrew Wyeth: Repeat Until Empty," featuring eight original works by Jasper Johns and eleven seldom exhibited paintings by Andrew Wyeth. Jasper Johns (born 1930) is the world's most critically acclaimed living artist. His work bridges the immediate post-World War II modernist trends of Surrealism and Abstract Expressionism with subsequent movements of the 1960s, including Pop art, Minimalism, and Conceptual art. Ongoing - "Soul Deep: African-American Masterworks," featuring 38 works by 20 artists. Ranging from a rare 1840 poem jar by enslaved potter David Drake (c. 1800 to c. 1870) to an evocative 2020 abstract painting by Frank Wimberley (born 1926), "Soul Deep" spans 180 years of American history. Ongoing - "Thomas Sills: Man of Color". Born to North Carolina sharecroppers in 1914, Thomas Sills took a circuitous path to achieve success as an artist. When he was only 11, he traveled by train from Raleigh to Harlem, where he stayed with an older brother. Over the years he worked a number of odd jobs, including theater doorman, church custodian, stevedore, and liquor deliveryman. Admission: Free. Hours: Wed.-Sat., 10am-6pm and Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 864/271-7570 or at (www.gcma.org).

Work by Jamie Burnside

Franklin G. Burroughs • Simeon B. Chapin Art Museum, 3100 South Ocean Blvd., beside Springmaid Beach, Myrtle Beach. Through Sept. 24 - "The World of Frida". One of the most well-known female painters in the history of art is the fiercely brave and passionate Mexican painter Frida Kahlo (1907 – 1954), who is, today, a shining example of empowerment, beauty and determination. Her name alone conjures her self-image in our minds, as her numerous self-portraits in which her unibrow is her most discerning feature are considered iconic examples of her work. As with many artists that have come before and after Frida, her work did not receive critical acclaim until a couple of decades after her death. It was in the late 1970s that art historians and political activists began to rediscover and examine her work, which eventually led to Frida becoming a champion for the Chicana, feminist and LGBTQ+ activist movements. It is Frida's fearless expression of honest individuality and the human condition that has inspired the 114 works of art in a variety of media by 94 artists from around the world. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-4pm & Sun., 1-4pm. Contact: 843/238-2510 or at (www.myrtlebeachartmuseum.org).

Orangeburg

Cecil Williams Civil Rights Museum, 1865 Lake Drive, Orangeburg. Ongoing - Established in 2019, the exquisite ultra-modern facility displays 1000 images of the Civil Rights Movement, but from the perspective of The Epochal South Carolina Events That Changed America. The massive archives comprise the largest collection of images of this type among all museums in the United States; including the Atlanta based High Museum which archives 300 images. The images were created by the founder, Cecil Williams, who began photography at age 9 and covered almost all historically significant events in South Carolina; from 1950 Briggs v. Elliot in Summerton, thru the 1969 Charleston Hospital Workers' Strike...and Beyond. From 1955 through 1969, Williams was a freelance journalist for "JET" magazine. His images have appeared in thousands of magazines, newspapers, historical publications, and motion picture productions. The museum design itself is part of the founders' DNA because; upon graduating from high school, Williams wanted to attend Clemson University to study architecture but denied because of his race. He then purchased a drafting board and through the years, designed three residences; including one featured in "EBONY", and the museum's design which has evolved into a living history facility. Work by James H. Green Jr., "Desota Musicians"

Lusty Gallery, Orangeburg County Fine Arts Center, Edisto Memorial Gardens, 649 Riverside Drive, Orangeburg. Sept. 7 - Oct. 26 - "James H. Green, Jr: The Man and His Times". A reception will be held on Sept. 7, from 6-8pm. "Through the art presented in this volume, had it not been for the illness in his life, James could have been one of the most accomplished artists in this county," the author and photographer, Cecil Williams, once a close friend of the late artist, writes in the foreword to his book Timeless Expressions: The Rediscovered Art of James H. Green, Jr. Williams further writes that their paths to pursue the arts diverged when Green, in 1956, left his family home and life in Orangeburg, having been awarded an art scholarship from Ohio Wesleyan University. There Green would study painting and sculpture. The university prioritizes preparing students to become professional artists and proudly lists a roster of alumni recognized nationally and internationally. Ongoing - Featuring works by local artists. Spartanburg

Throughout downtown Spartanburg's Cultural District, Ongoing - The Creative Crosswalk Project is a public art initiative in which local artists and designers design and paint a series of crosswalk murals, transforming the crosswalks into works of art, on Main Street in Spartanburg, SC. The downtown cultural district area is often bustling with events and pedestrians, and the pedestrians rely heavily on a multitude of crosswalks to safely traverse the downtown Spartanburg area. The problem is

Beer and wine are available for those 21+. Ongoing - Works by Carl Tait and Harold Krisel are on display. Tait was a successful painter, textile designer, and interior designer. His ties to the Spartanburg community originate from his longtime employment at Milliken and Company. Tait was born in Old Town, Maine in 1917 and graduated from the New Hampshire Institute of Arts and Science. In the late 1940s, he moved to New York City where he designed an exclusive line of ladies' handkerchiefs for the department store B. Altman, now considered vintage, collectible items. He also became associated with the American Artist Group designing Christmas cards, an occupation which he kept up throughout the majority of his artistic career. Krisel was a distinguished artist, architect, and teacher as well as a loving father and husband. Though Krisel may not be a household name among Spartanburg residents, he has made a significant artistic contribution to the Spartanburg community. Born in Brooklyn, NY in 1920, Krisel's interest in art and design started at a young age. He attended the American Artist School in New York city as a teenager where he met renowned modern artists, including Piet Mondrian, who greatly influenced his abstract style. After studying architecture at the New Bauhaus in Chicago from 1946-1949, he received his graduate degree from Illinois Institute of Technology in 1952. The following year, he began working for architectural firm Skidmore, Owings and Merrill when Roger Milliken hired them to design Milliken's new research facility in Spartanburg. Upon realizing Krisel was also a sculptor, Milliken hired him to design the spray fountain outside of the facility which functions as a recycler of air conditioning water. He then went on to design the Trident Fountain located outside of the Papadopoulos building on Wofford College's campus. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-7pm & Sat, 9am-3pm. City Art, 1224 Lincoln Street, Columbia. Main Gallery, Ongoing - "Luminous Abstracts," featuring works by Patton Blackwell. Blackwell's work is deeply rooted in her experience of her surroundings, and her desire to translate this experience to the canvas. Blackwell captures the essence of atmosphere and landscape in her use of color, action, and brush stroke. Infused with beauty and passion, Blackwell's paintings embody both the tangible and the intangible. From the lush green rolling fields and dense foliage of Camden, SC, where she maintained a studio and home for over twenty years, to the streets of Rio de Janeiro during Carnival, to time spent on the Aegean Sea, Blackwell creates mosaics of swirling paint that radiate light and power, reflecting moments and spaces in time that are both active and meditative, universal and timeless. Ongoing - Featuring works by Jane Aldridge, Jim Arendt, Randolph New Armstrong, Penny Baskin, Jo Dean Bauknight, Robbie Bell, Kimberly Betchman, Tarleton Blackwell, Angela Bradburn, Betty Bramlett, Joe Byrne, Carolita Cantrell, Kathy Casey, Anne Cunningham, Bob Doster, Gerard Erley, Claire Farrell, Amy Fichter, Tim Floyd, Michael Fowler, Teri Goddard, Harriet Goode, Vanessa Grubbs, Randy Hanna, Shelley Hehenberger, Mana Hewitt, David Kessler, Jan Kransberger, Robert Lyon, Rena MacQueen, Doug McAbee, Fred McElveen, Esther Melton, Max Miller, Lee A. Monts, Marge Loudon Moody, Blake Morgan, Bruce Nellsmith, Heather Noe, Susan Nuttall, Patrick Parise, Ann Hightower-Patterson, Leslie Pierce, Carol Pittman, Sylvia Ady-Potts, Alex Powers, Brian Rego, May Reisz, Tom Risser, Peggy Rivers, Cindy Saad, Sara Schneckloth, Ed Shmunes, Wanda Steppe, Nancy Thompson, Teri Tynes, Yisha Wang, Wendy Wells, Sam Wilkins, Rod Wimer, and Katarina Zaric. This represents a rare opportunity to view a very wide range of acclaimed SC artists at one time. City Art features three distinct gallery spaces. A complete fine artists supply store is located on the lower level. Fine custom designer framing is available at City Art. Work by Janet Kozachek

Stormwater Studios, 413 Pendleton Street, behind One Eared Cow Glass Gallery & Studio and Lewis + Clark Gallery, Columbia. Main Gallery, Sept. 7 - 18 - "Phil Garrett: New Mexico Variations, Paintings and Monotypes, 2018-2022". A reception will be held on Sept. 9, from 5-8pm. Williamsburg Oil Paints Demonstration: Sept. 10, from 10am-noon. Garrett's work is informed by nature, a kind of mythical nature. The power of storms, the spiritual quality of the elements, the beauty, grace and ferocity of plants and animals... Something greater than the artist, something he can't comprehend. Painting and making monotypes are Garrett's search for the mystery within the subject, within himself. Sept. 20 - 25 - "A Rendering of Soliloquies: Figures Painted in Spots of Time." Artist/illustrator/writer Janet Kozachek will be exhibiting original works illustrating the text and giving a reading and book signing. A reception will be held on Sept. 25, from 5:30-8pm. A poetry reading will be held from 7-7:30pm. Kozachek has published her third illustrated book of poetry, and her second by Finishing Line Press. "A Rendering of Soliloquies - Figures Painted in Spots of Time" marks observations between artist, model and memory through an emblematic juxtaposition of verse and images. Sept. 29 - Oct. 9 - "Mike Williams: Selected Mike Williams' works from the Estate of Randall G. Schwartz". A reception will be held on Sept. 30, from 5-8pm. A Conversation with Ken May will be offered on Oct. 6, from 6-7pm. May, former Executive Director of the South Carolina Arts Commission, friend and neighbor to Randy Schwartz, will engage artist Mike Williams in conversation revolving around artist/collector relationships, the potential for anyone to engage with artists as well as how important and meaningful these types of long-term relationships can be. Gallery hours during this exhibit: Mon.-Fri., 11am-4pm; & Sat.-Sun., 11am-3pm. Ongoing - Resident artists include: Eileen Blyth, Stephen Chesley, Gerard Erley, Heidi Darr-Hope, Pat Gilmartin, Robert Kennedy, Sharon Licata, Michel McNinch, Kirkland Smith, and David Yaghjian. Work by Corrie McCallum

Hampton III Gallery, 3100 Wade Hampton Blvd., 10 Gallery Center, Taylors. Through Oct. 8 - "Corrie McCallum: Intervals". On Sept. 10, from 11 - noon, we will gather for Coffee and Conversation. Sarah Tignor from the Johnson Collection will be sharing her thoughts about Corrie; s life and works. Public is invited to attend both events. Corrie McCallum was an unabashed enthusiast for the blank canvas. It represented so many possibilities. After retiring from teaching, McCallum's work ran the gamut in terms of materials, techniques, processes, and subject matter. She created sculpture, monoprints, woodcuts, and paintings. All of that was much less important than the idea of creating something new. She had a palpable excitement about the NEXT work she was to make, no matter the form it required. She had a remarkable ability to combine abstraction with a realist sensibility. Ongoing - works by Sigmund Abeles, John Acorn, Dave Appleman, Jane Armstrong, Alice Ballard, J. Asheville Area

Asheville Art Museum, 2 South Pack Square at Pack Place, Asheville. Appleby Foundation

Exhibition Hall, Through Oct. 24 - "Border Cantos I Sonic Border," a unique collaboration between American photographer Richard Mirsach and Mexican American sculptor and composer Guillermo Galindo, uses the power of art to explore and humanize the complex issues surrounding the Mexican-American border. Organized by Crystal Bridges Museum of American Art, is a transformative and multi-sensory experience. Mirsach, who has photographed the border since 2004, beautifully captures landscapes and objects, including things left behind by migrants. His large-scale photographs, along with grids of smaller photos, highlight issues surrounding migration and its effect on regions and people, and also introduce a complicated look at policing the boundary. Explore Asheville Exhibition Hall, Through Sept. 5 - "American Perspectives: Stories from the American Folk Art Museum Collection". This exhibition showcases over 80 stellar works of folk and self-taught art including assemblages, needlework, paintings, pottery, quilts, and sculpture, which was organized by the American Folk Art Museum in New York. Everyone has stories to tell from both the private and mutual experiences encountered throughout their lifetime. American folk and self-taught artists capture these stories in powerful visual narratives that offer firsthand testimonies to chapters in the unfolding story of America from its inception to the present. Debra McClinton Gallery, Through Oct. 17 - "Useful and Beautiful: Silvercraft by William Waldo Dodge. Dodge moved to Asheville in 1924 as a trained architect and newly skilled silversmith. When he opened for business promoting his handwrought silver tableware, including plates, candlesticks, flatware (spoons, forks, and knives), and serving dishes, he did so in a true Arts and Crafts tradition. The Van Winkle Law Firm Gallery, Through Oct. 10 - "Draped and Veiled: 20 x 24 Polaroid Photographs by Joyce Tenneson". Standing behind the substantial presence of the large format Polaroid 20 x 24 camera - weighing 200 pounds and the size of a refrigerator - artists peer through the viewfinder towards another world. The 20 x 24 Polaroid adds an additional layer of veiling and diaphanous softness to the imagery in Tenneson's "Transformations" series. Ongoing - The Asheville Art Museum, the hub for 20th- and 21st-century American art in Western North Carolina, has re-opened to the public. The $24+ million, state-of-the-art facility encompasses 54,000 square feet and adds 70 percent more Collection gallery space. For the first time in the Museum's history, it has the capacity to host major traveling exhibitions from nationally recognized museums. The expansion increases its physical space and dramatically increases its role as a community center, educational resource, economic engine for WNC, and cultural concierge for the region's residents and visitors. Opening exhibitions include: "Appalachia Now! An Interdisciplinary Survey of Contemporary Art in Southern Appalachia," is the inaugural special exhibition of the newly renovated Museum. Curated by Jason Andrew, the juried exhibition features 50 artists of diverse backgrounds from the Southern Appalachian states of North Carolina, Georgia, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia. The exhibit provides a regional snapshot of the art of our time—a collective survey of contemporary Southern Appalachian culture. "Intersections in American Art," is the largest presentation ever drawn from the Museum's Collection of 5,000+ works and 4,000+ architectural drawings. It celebrates the unique qualities of art from Western North Carolina, placed within the context of art from across the United States. Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Fri. till 8pm & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 828/253-3227 or at (www.ashevilleart.org).

Black Mountain College Museum + Arts Center, 120 College Street, Asheville. Through Sept. 3 - "Jo Sandman / TRACES". A reception will be held on June 3, from 5:30-8pm, featuring a Gallery Talk with Katherine French, curator of the Jo Sandman Legacy Project. After a life-changing summer studying at Black Mountain College, Boston-based artist Jo Sandman decided to devote her life to art. At BMC during that pivotal summer of 1951, she studied painting and drawing with Robert Motherwell and Ben Shawn and photography with Harry Callahan and Aaron Siskind, took classes in anthropology and French, and was exposed to the ideas of faculty artist Joe Fiore as well. It was this "galvanizing experience" at BMC that prompted Jo Sandman to decide to follow the path of an artist. She went on to develop and maintain a studio practice exploring painting, drawing, experimental sculpture, installation, and photography for more than sixty years, always with an acute awareness of the lingering traces of history, memory, purpose, and meaning embedded in her wide-ranging choice of materials, imagery, and processes. Ongoing - An exhibition space dedicated to exploring the history and legacy of the world's most acclaimed experimental educational community, Black Mountain College. Hours: Wed.-Sat., noon-4pm or by appt. Contact: 828/350-8484 or at (www.blackmountaincollege.org).

Split Rail Bluegrass Band at Heritage Day

Southern Highland Craft Guild at the Folk Art Center, Blue Ridge Parkway Milepost 382, Asheville. Sept. 17, from 10am-4pm - "Heritage Day". The 42nd Annual Heritage Day will be held at the Blue Ridge Parkway's Folk Art Center. This free celebration of mountain heritage features traditional crafts accompanied by music and dancing. On-going demonstrations will include traditional woodworking with traditional tools, weaving, spinning, dyeing, broom making, stone carving, and print making. Visitors will have the opportunity to try their own hand at some of the crafts and an activity table will encourage young people to create. A music stage will provide further entertainment with blue grass and gospel music. There is free parking and a grassy area for picnics and relaxation. Spend an early autumn day in WNC honoring and learning about the crafts of yesteryear. Free event. Main Gallery, Through Sept. 7 - "Haywood Community College's Professional Crafts Program: Graduating Class of 2022". The show continues the historical relationship between the Southern Highland Craft Guild and Haywood, an educational center of the Guild. One of the most anticipated shows of the year, the class of 2022 represents works of wood, metal, and fiber. This new generation of craft is led by instructors Amy Putansu in fiber, Brian Wurst in wood, Emily Reason in clay, and Robert Blanton in metals & jewelry. The main gallery of the Folk Art Center is adorned with hanging tapestries and woven totes, pierced and soldered jewelry, and wooden furniture, soon to be heirlooms for one's home. Permanent Collection Gallery, Ongoing - "Craft Traditions: The Southern Highland Craft Guild Collection". The Guild's Permanent Collection is comprised of approximately 2400 craft objects and dates from the late 19th century to present. Beginning with a donation from Frances Goodrich in 1931, the Permanent Collection serves the Guild's mission of craft conservation and education. This new installation will feature over 200 works that highlight our holdings in traditional art: wood-carving, pottery, dolls, basketry, weavings and furniture. The subject of this ongoing exhibition is craft history – that of the Southern Highland Craft Guild and the Studio Craft Movement. Wells Fargo of Asheville has donated Hardy Davidson's Carvings to the SHCG's Permanent Collection. Hailing from Swannanoa, NC, woodcarver Hardy Davidson became a Guild Member in 1944 and was awarded Life membership in 1973. The Bank of Asheville commissioned these carvings sometime between 1930 and 1940, according to Hardy Davidson's great nephew, Glen Campbell. Almost eight decades later, the carvings have found a new home at the Folk Art Center on the Blue Ridge Parkway. "We are pleased to donate the wooden carvings by Hardy Davidson to the Southern Highland Craft Guild," said Neal Diqatro, District Manager for Wells Fargo in Asheville. Focus Gallery, Through Nov. 8 - "Inspiration," featuring works by Tina Curry (clay), Kathleen Doyle & Tom Reardon (jewelry), Elizabeth Garlington (fiber), Susan Link (fiber), and Alan Hollar (wood). Blowing Rock

Blowing Rock Art and History Museum, corner of Chestnut and Main streets, downtown Blowing Rock. Rankin West Gallery, Through Mar. 18, 2023 - "Coast to Coast: Contrasts & Shared Values Across American Impressionism." "Coast to Coast" draws connections across impressionist painting as it was practiced on opposite sides of America in the late 19th and early 20th centuries, focussing on the artists who made the journey—some permanently and some temporarily—and how the relationships that emerged between them led to a dynamic and often divergent approach to plein-air painting. Questions of style, training, the commercial market, and even the physical landscape itself emerge as a network of conditions that encouraged a vibrant departure from East Coast impressionism. This exhibition will include works by Maurice Braun, Alson S. Clark, Elliott Dingerfield, Childe Hassam, Jane Peterson, William Merritt Post, Hanson Putthuf, Jack Wilkinson Smith, and many others. Fort Gallery, Through Oct. 22 - "Jagged Path: the African Diaspora in Western North Carolina in Craft, Music, and Dance". This exhibit will illuminate the obscured history of African contributions to craft, music, and dance in Western North Carolina. Drawing connections from the 17th through 21st centuries, the Jagged Path will demonstrate how African traditions that survived the Middle Passage have helped create the culture of Western North Carolina through interviews, performances, historic artifacts, artist residencies, and more. Rankin East Gallery, Through Jan. 21, 2023 - "Uncommon Volumes: Sculptural Selections from Studio Glass in the Region". "Studio Glass's" coalescence in the mid-20th century precipitated a renaissance of historic and new techniques for working glass. Where the medium had served utilitarian and commercial—if often aesthetic—purposes in the past, this flourishing relocated creative and material autonomy solely into the hands of the artist. When design and production were brought together, a wider array of objects and the material ideologies that shaped them came to bear on the seemingly most novel member of Studio Craft's brood. This exhibition draws together more recent works from the past 30 years that illustrate continued experimentation in sculptural glass. Ranging from the decidedly abstract to figural studies, these examples constitute only a small cross-section of the varied strategies deployed by artists as they continue to push and shape the medium to meet the needs of their own studio practices. In drawing from BRAHM's permanent collection, directly from artist's studio, and private collections, we are able to see examples of artists living and working in the region across recent generations. Ongoing - the BRAHM will host exhibits, educational programs and classes that promote the visual arts, history and heritage of the mountains of western North Carolina. Admission: Yes. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun., noon-4pm. Contact: 828/295-9099 or at (www.blowingrockmuseum.org).

Much of her work is informed by her time in beautiful but ecologically fragile landscapes. According to Pietrantonio, "My artists' books and installations explore the representation of beauty in times of loss, photography's role in producing memory and humans' relationship to the environment. Taking an experimental approach to the book form, my art asks how the book and printed matter can both enable and undercut humans' active role in constructing and idealizing images. Rather than a fixed site or single image, the fragmented paper columns, text, and book forms engage the world as an unstable accumulation of processes, perceptions and narratives." Galleries A & B and Smith Gallery in the lobby of the Schaefer Center for the Performing Arts, Through Nov. 10 - "Art Department Faculty Biennial". Featuring works by Adam Adcock, Andrea Keys Connell, Andrew Caldwell, Andrew Bailey Arend, NA_AB collective (Nida Abdullah and Anna Buckner), Clifton Meador, Edison Midgett, Erin Ethridge, Frankie Flood, Greg Banks, Jeana Eve Klein, Jessica Greenfield, Jody Servon, Joseph Bigley, Joshua White, Lilith E. Artists at the Smith Gallery: April Flanders, Daniel Rich, Catherine Altice, Vicky Grube, James Toub, Kate Wurtzel, Martin Church, Scott Ludwig, Stephen Parks, Timothy Ford, Topher Lineberry, and IlaSaha Prouty. Hodges Gallery, Through Dec. 10 - "Multitudes: Bart Vargas," is a celebration of Bart Vargas' use of materials, form, pattern, and color through sculpture and painting. This twenty-year retrospective of Vargas' work consists of objects and images built from salvaged materials. Many of these award-winning works have been exhibited across the nation and world, graced book covers and publications, but have not previously been exhibited in North Carolina. According to Vargas, "Aspects of salvage, appropriation and repetition run through all my works. I recover local materials deemed unwanted or useless, including trash, recyclables, and surplus items and then transform them into playful, approachable and thought-provoking objects. This practice is most obvious in my sculptures, in which I use readily identified objects such as plastic bottles, cardboard, keyboard keys and empty paint containers. I play with the familiarity of these materials by blurring their identities into universal forms like spheres, globes, maps, pyramids, pills and skulls. These works address such diverse topics as contextual regional geography, the damaging effects of plastic on our bodies and global environment and the multitudes of waste created by technological advancement." Community Gallery, Through Nov. 10 - "Installation with Ukrainian Flag: Lowell Hayes". In this installation, Lowell Hayes, one of Boone's most well-loved artists, shares his artistic response to the war in Ukraine. His work typically evokes a strong connection with viewers and enhances and deepens awareness of the featured topic. Hayes is a local artist, with deep roots in Boone and the High Country and is being showcased as part of the Boone Sesquicentennial 150. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-6pm; Fri., noon-8pm; & Sat., 10am-6pm. Cary

Throughout Cary, Final Friday of the Month, from 6-8pm - "Cary Art Loop," featuring an evening tour of art spaces in Cary held on the final Friday of the month. Take the C-Tran to the Cary Art Loop! The free bus will make stops at Coffee and Crepes, Studio 180 Salon, Ashworth Village, Cary Arts Center and Page-Walker Arts & History Center/Cary Town Hall. Contact: (www.caryartloop.org).

Cary Arts Center, 101 Dry Avenue, Cary. Cary Arts Center Gallery, Through Sept. 24 - "Nanci Tanton: Cary Arts Center Student Show". The Cary Arts Center presents the work of young artists, that shows the breadth of creativity and imagination of students that participate in the Town's Arts Education Program. Sept. 28 - Nov. 26 - "Fine Arts League of Cary: Fabulous Fakes," featuring mixed media works. A reception will be held on Sept. 30, from 6-8pm. The artists of the Fine Arts League of Cary try their hands at imitating the great Masters of Art. Van Gogh, Rembrandt, Rueben, and more should be making an appearance as FALC presents their Fabulous Fakes show. Artists' works will be displayed beside smaller versions of the originals they painted. Cary Arts Center Principal's Hall, Sept. 28 - Nov. 26 - "Dave Hattori: Artistic Images of Nature," featuring works of digital photography. A reception will be held on Sept. 30, from 6-8pm. This exhibit focuses on plant and animal subjects from Dave Hattori's exploration of the natural world through his digital photo art. Starting with photographs he has taken, Hattori combines elements, textures, and effects to create art pieces that go beyond what the camera recorded to achieve his artistic vision. Display Cases, Sept. 28 - Nov. 26 - "Amy Wandless (Clay) and Gregory Wandless (Wood)." A reception will be held on Sept. 30, from 6-8pm. Amy and Greg Wandless, collectively known as Wandless Crafts, work together to handcraft functional and decorative ceramics and woodturnings. Amy has been making functional pottery since 2000. She uses a pottery wheel to create useful and beautiful porcelain and stoneware pottery which is then fired in either a salt kiln or an electric kiln. Greg has been a woodturner for over 20 years. Greg rescues local wood, destined for the landfill or burnpile, to create his stunning and distinctive turnings. Using a half-ton lathe and his 35-plus years of furniture-making experience, Greg highlights the most beautiful characteristics of each piece of wood, revealing its natural beauty, to form each of his one-of-a-kind pieces. Amy has received multiple awards at East Coast exhibitions. You can find her work in publications like Clay Times and 500 Pitchers. Greg's woodart has been shown at galleries in the Washington, DC area and recently at the Durham Arts Center. Both Amy and Greg focus on the interaction between their collectors and the artwork. Amy respects the bond between maker and user. The pot came from her eye and her hands but it appeals to your eye and feels good in your hands. What could be better? Greg considers wood a very sensory material. He finds it very gratifying to watch a person pick up one of his pieces, hold it in their hands, caress it, sniff it and smile. Visitors are always welcome to tour Wandless Crafts woodshop and pottery studio or shop in our gallery showroom near Carrboro, NC. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 9am-10pm & Fri.-Sat., 9am-11pm. Contact: 919/469-4069 or at (www.townofcary.org).

Cary Gallery of Artists, 200 S Academy St, Ste 120, Ashworth Square, Cary. Ongoing - The gallery offers high quality art in a variety of styles. Paintings, pencil and colored pencil artwork varies from traditional still lifes and landscapes to abstracts. Portraits of people or animals are available. Photographic work captures magnificent landscapes, small moments in life, portraits, and far away places. The pottery and clay art includes edgy handbuilt pieces, thought-provoking sculpted masks, and decorative and functional pottery that captures images of nature. Our jewelry artists provide a wide range of hand-crafted necklaces, earrings, bracelets and other ornaments from metals, stones, beads and fused glass. Our glass artist creates stained glass hangings, custom stained glass windows and fused glass art. You can also find unusual hand-made books and hand-painted porcelain both antique and new. Herbert Young Community Center, 101 Wilkinson Avenue, Cary. Through Oct. 8 - "Exploring the Outdoors: Growing His Style," featuring oil paintings by Neale Davis. Davis explores landscape and sky in oils. The artist states "that over the pandemic I have been trying different styles, brush strokes, and colors. I've grown and explored how I am most comfortable painting." Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-10pm; and Sat., 9am-6pm. Contact: 919/4604965 or (www.townofcary.org).

Page-Walker Arts & History Center, 119 Ambassador Loop, Cary. Through Oct. 1 - "JJ Raia / Fran DeRespinis: Intent and Purposes," features works in photography. A reception will be held on Sept. 30, from 6-8pm. Photographers can "take a picture," or they can "make a picture." This exhibit explores both approaches, where some rely solely on the reality as recorded by the camera, while others utilize post-processing or specific camera techniques to alter that reality to create a previsualized final image. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-9:30pm; Fri., 10am-5pm; & Sat., 10am-1pm. (It is strongly advised that you call ahead about hours this space will be open.) Contact: 919/460-4963.

Town Hall Gallery, City of Cary Town Hall, 316 North Academy Street, Cary. Through Nov. 10 - "Jill Hunt: In the Mind's Eye," featuring acrylic and mixed media painting. Through her use of emotive color and mark-making, Jill Hunt's abstract paintings represent life experience and the emotions carried with it. Hunt: "The mind's eye is a magical thing. How we perceive, feel, and recollect is unique to each of us, but we can also connect through these intangibles. I strive to create that connection through my paintings." Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8am-5pm. Contact: 919/469-4061.

Chapel Hill - Carrboro

Ackland Art Museum, UNC - Chapel Hill, Columbia & Franklin Streets, Chapel Hill. Through Sept. 4 - "Alexis Rockman: Shipwrecks." Alexis Rockman (American, born 1962) created his dramatic series, "Shipwrecks," depicting historic sea disasters, to explore the impact of transportation and migration — from goods and people to plants and animals — on our planet and its waterways. "Rockman's large-scale oil paintings and watercolors remind us of the shadow of potential disaster that looms over ocean voyages. He places these concerns in a global narrative, but they have a special resonance in North Carolina, where the "Graveyard of the Atlantic" has claimed thousands of ships since record keeping began in the sixteenth century," said Lauren Turner, Associate Curator for Contemporary Art and Special Projects. Through Sept. 30 - "Houseguests: American Art from the Art Bridges Collection Loan Partnership," showcases fourteen outstanding works of American art, generously lent by Crystal Bridges Museum of American Art as part of the Art Bridges' Collection Loan Partnership initiative, an innovative art lending model. After the joint presentation in this exhibition, selected works will be integrated at different times in varying juxtapositions into our permanent collection galleries through early May 2023. The exhibition includes works by Alexander Pope, Max Weber, Stuart Davis, George Bellows, Edward Melcarth, Theodore Stamos, Julian Stanczak, Tom Wesselmann, Leon Polk Smith, Mark Tansey, Sheila Gallagher, Dave Greber, Kelsey Brooks, and Elizabeth Alexander. Through Mar. 12, 2023 - "Pleasures and Possibilities: Five Patrons of the Asian Art Collection". In 1982, the Ackland marked its newly energized ambition to build on earlier acquisitions and aim for a truly significant collection of Asian art, with a small exhibition. In the words of then director Evan Turner, the show was to give "an indication of the range of pleasures and possibilities attendant to the study of Far Eastern art". Separate sections of the installation focus on the benefactors Smith Freeman and Austin Scarlett, Jeffrey and Carol Horvitz, Gene and Susan Roberts, Richard D. Pardue, and the late Charles Millard. Museum Store Gallery (Franklin and Columbia Street), Store hours: Mon.-Sat., 10am-5:30pm & Sun., noon-5pm. Museum Hours: Wed.-Sat., 1-5pm. Contact: 919/966-5736 or at (www.ackland.org).

Bill and Patty Gorelick Gallery at Central Piedmont Community College's Cato Campus, Cato III, 8120 Grier Road, Charlotte. Through Dec. 9 - "School Lunch," featuring works by Lisa Weinblatt. "The School Lunch series is a visual essay of contemporary student life in real educational settings. Contemporary, cross-cultural issues and their emotional attitudes are explored in the shared lunch experience. School Lunch is generated from direct observation, drawing on location in the lunchrooms of high schools, universities and colleges of Queens, New York. Visual images have the power to transform and enlarge our perceptions, as well as, confirm identity and validate experience. "The School Lunch paintings seek to promote discussion and understanding of one another, while encouraging tolerance and acceptance. Each individual in my paintings, drawn in the moment, is an actual person. School Lunch underlines perceptions which affirm cultural identity, brings together ideas espousing contemporary social justice, gender and political concerns while encouraging a belief in the quality of human spirit. My objectives include continuing to forge a bridge connecting a multi-cultural society with achievement; through cooperation and tolerance," says Weinblatt. Contact: 704/330-6869 or e-mail to (foundation@cpcc.edu) to schedule an appointment. For directions to Central Piedmont's campuses, visit (cpcc.edu/locations).

Bill and Patty Gorelick Gallery at Central Piedmont Community College's Harper Campus, Harper IV, 315 W. Hebron St., Charlotte. Through Dec. 9 - "Everyday Poems," featuring works by Tim Bowman. Photographer Tim Bowman "collects" urban landscapes and arranges the city's architectural shapes and textures to create formal compositions while simultaneously recording the histories of use and reuse evident on the building exteriors. "We assume that cities are hard and immutable, but this is not true. They adapt to meet new requirements as the needs of their inhabitants change. The Winston-Salem Project is a record of that change, watching as our city continues its transformation from manufacturing and tobacco town into the City of Arts and Innovation," says Bowman. Through Dec. 9 - "The Sculptures of Kevin O'Toole". "Over the past 35 years I have developed an increasingly spare vocabulary of forms. At one time more organic, my pieces have gradually become more geometric through the influence of both process and choice of material. Wood was initially a choice of convenience, a permanent material, readily available and easily worked with common tools. Although I have never considered myself a "woodworker," I now rarely think in terms of another material. Although formal and abstract in design, my pieces are intended to be appreciated on a more intimate level as objects we encounter on a very human scale, said O'Toole. Hours: open while campus is open, but reservation help help us alert our security team to visitors, provide directions to the galleries, and COVID-19 security protocol instructions to the visitors. Contact: 704/330-6869 or e-mail to (foundation@cpcc.edu) to schedule an appointment. For directions to Central Piedmont's campuses, visit (cpcc.edu/locations).

Bill and Patty Gorelick Gallery at Central Piedmont Community College's Harris Campus, Harris II, 3210 CPCC Harris Campus Drive, Charlotte. Through Dec. 9 - "Unpacked, The Works of Ellen Lee Klein". "Stretching the formal elements, I structure my own dynamic philosophical microcosm. My works reflect the marriage of my internal and external worlds and their influence upon each other as they and my life evolve through time and experience. The works reflect my tongue-in-cheek responses to contemporary life. The merging of my training and the processes involved in the making of each and every work combined express and inspire their structure and form. I remain faithful to the essence of what has continued to fascinate and drive me through the years – the

Work by Ellen Klein, photo by Darnell Vennie searching yet elusive lines, color resonance, spatial ambiguity, and layers of delicious pigment along with the unmistakable clutter and vestiges of contemporary life. The works reflect the profound noise and ambiguity, as well as the transitioning and turbulence of the human condition," said Klein. Klein was born, raised, and educated in New York City, earning a BA from City College of New York and an MFA from Pratt Institute. Her long career in visual arts has included work as a teacher, arts administrator, art critic and writer, as well as numerous group and solo exhibitions in New York galleries and campuses. See the Ellen Lee Klein Interview at (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=KJVhNE9CAFY>). Through Dec. 9 - "Glasscapes, Nature-Inspired Blown Glass," featuring works by Thomas Spake. "This exhibition is a tribute to the places that I hold dear, from my travels in the past and from the adventures yet to come. Our planet is changing, the seas are rising, the ice caps are melting, wildfires are ravaging our forests. My hope is that there is still time. I work with hot glass. I strive to create patterns and textures that mimic the natural world, stone, water, earth. I create these patterns by layering and fusing glass chips and powders to the surface of the glass. Heavily influenced by impressionistic painters Monet, Klimt, and Van Gogh and their mixture of color and patterns, this style of work aims to express the idea of a landscape as opposed to creating a representation. The simple flattened forms create a canvas, a front and a back, where I can fully express my intentions. In the final phase of creation, I carve into the sandblasted, opaque exterior to reveal the translucent glass just beneath the surface. All of these techniques come together to give the pieces a raw complexity, conjuring explorations of our memories," said Spake. Hours: open while campus is open, but reservation help help us alert our security team to visitors, provide directions to the galleries, and COVID-19 security protocol instructions to the visitors. Contact: 704/330-6869 or e-mail to (foundation@cpcc.edu) to schedule an appointment. For directions to Central Piedmont's campuses, visit (cpcc.edu/locations).

Bill and Patty Gorelick Gallery at Central Piedmont Community College's Levine Campus, Levine II, 2800 Campus Ridge Road, Matthews. Through Dec. 9 - "Ceramic Art," featuring works by Ju-lan Shen. A native of Taiwan, Shen came to North Carolina for graduate study in landscape architecture at NC State's College of Design. She took up pottery as a hobby in the early 2000's after attending the National Council on Education for the Ceramic Arts annual conference and exhibitions in Charlotte. After 30-plus years as a landscape architect, Ju-lan, now retired, continues to learn and make art. "Sculpting, drawing, and painting on clay pots is my way of journaling; I jot down what I hear, what I see, what I think, or what my brain was doing at that moment. I enjoy the contemplation of the experiences in my environment and I like this form of visual reflection. The late artist, Jean Dubuffet, said it best about art: '...Art must make you laugh a little and make you a little afraid. Anything as long as it doesn't bore.' And I intend to do just that," says Shen. Through Dec. 9 - "School Lunch," featuring works by Lisa Weinblatt. "The School Lunch series is a visual essay of contemporary student life in real educational settings. Contemporary, cross-cultural issues and their emotional attitudes are explored in the shared lunch experience. Work by Katie St. Clair Davidson College, Belk Visual Arts Center, 315 North Main and Griffith Streets, Davidson. Van Every/Smith Galleries, Through Oct. 2 - "Katie St. Clair: Lay of the Land". Each year, the Van Every/Smith Galleries present an exhibition that highlights the work of one or more studio art faculty. This year, the Galleries will collaborate with Katie St. Clair, Assistant Professor of Painting, on the presentation of her solo exhibition, Lay of the Land. The exhibition will feature abstract, mixed-media paintings inspired by the artist's foraging for mushrooms and other experiences observing and immersing herself in the natural environment, both locally and internationally. In addition to a series of paintings and works on paper, St. Clair will present sculptural objects – pigments and natural and man-made debris composed into a frozen form. Over the duration of a few days at different times throughout the exhibition, the sculptures will "create" new paintings, as they melt onto a prepared surface positioned below. Ongoing - While on campus, be sure to take a tour of our Campus Sculpture. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-5pm and Sat. & Sun., noon-4pm. Contact: 704/894-2519 or at (www.davidsoncollegeartgalleries.org).

Elizabeth Ross Gallery, Central Piedmont's, Central Campus, Overcash Performing Arts Center, Elizabeth Avenue and Kings Dr., Charlotte. Through Oct. 6 - "Reclaimed Memories," featuring works by Eva Crawford. An Artist Lecture will be offered on Sept. 29, at noon, in the North Classroom Building Auditorium, Room 1123, located at 1320 Sam Ryburn Walk, a reception will follow immediately. Following the passing of her father in January of 2021, Crawford sought to create a body of work focused on the preservation of memory. Crawford reclaims lost memories through the use of portraiture, transforming antique film photographs into large-scale drawings and paintings that invite the viewer to create their own stories and memories about the individuals in the artwork. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-4pm or by appt. Contact: Follow us on Instagram and Facebook at Central Piedmont Arts or call Amelia Zytka, Senior Art Gallery Coordinator at 704/330-6847 or visit (<http://blogs.cpcc.edu/cpccartgalleries/>).

Harvey B. Gantt Center for African-American Arts & Culture, Levine Center for the Arts, 551 S. Tryon St., Charlotte. Through Sept. 11 - "Billie Zangewa: Thread for a Web Begun". The exhibit brings together silk tapestries spanning 15 years of the Malawi-born, Johannesburg-based artist, Billie Zangewa's career. Zangewa's works explore themes of society, identity, and feminism through an intricate creative practice. Through Jan. 16, 2023 - "Painter's Refuge: A Way of Life," a solo exhibition of recent work by Reginald Sylvester II. "We are excited to showcase Painter's Refuge: A Way of Life, an exhibition that will stir minds and souls and invite viewers to take a journey through Reginald's creative process and genius," said President & CEO David R. Taylor. Ongoing - Featuring selections from the John & Vivian Hewitt Collection of African-American Art, one of the nation's most important and comprehensive collections of African-American art. Hours: Thur. - Sat., noon-6pm & Sun., noon-6pm. Extended hours from noon-8pm on Fridays, Oct. 2, Nov. 6 & Dec. 4. Contact: 704/547-3700 or at (www.ganttcenter.org).

Lamba Gallery, Storrs Building, 100, 9201 University City Blvd. UNC Charlotte Main Campus, Charlotte. Through Oct. 21 - "COMPOUND," featuring works by Jilliam Mayer. Mayer is an internationally recognized artist based in Miami, FL. While in residence at Charlotte's McColl Center in Fall 2020, at the height of the COVID pandemic, she became intrigued by the region's Survivalist culture. Sometimes referred to as "preppers," Survivalists pursue complete independence from broad social, political, industrial, and economic infrastructures, solely relying on their own learned skills to prepare for any threat of impending disasters. For her exhibition, "COMPOUND", Mayer has designed and constructed her own imagined, site-specific survival site within the Lambla Gallery. At the epicenter is a large fabricated domed bunker. The perimeter of the gallery is lined with found objects and handmade artworks: an industrial electrical cabinet, a satellite dish, glassworks, and ceramic vessels. When combined, these elements make up a unique installation that could be defined as a Survivalist's stage set. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm. Contact: 704/687-2397.

Latin American Contemporary Art Projects (LaCa), 1429 Bryant Street, in the heart of the revitalized FreeMoreWest neighborhood, Charlotte. Ongoing - LaCa Projects is a platform dedicated to the presentation, development, and promotion of Latin American art and culture within the United States. The gallery encourages cross-cultural dialogue by representing a small group of influential and thought-provoking contemporary, emerging and mid-career artists, as well as exhibiting a broader range of work by established and Master Latin American artists. The gallery, which has expertise in a number of different art media with a significant focus on paintings, will also be part of a larger planned expansion that includes open artist studios and a dining concept. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 1-5pm or by appt. Contact: Neely Verano at (neely@lacaprojects.com) or call 704/609-8487.

access to Mint Museum Randolph galleries (open until 6 p.m. Sept. 24). Tickets for the main Pottery Sale event start at $20 per person. Visit (pottersmarketatthemint.com) for tickets and more information about the event and the participating potters. Ongoing - "The Cole Family: A Dynasty of North Carolina Potters". From crocks, jars, and jugs to pitchers, candleholders, and vases, "turning pots" is one of the oldest and richest craft traditions in North Carolina. For more than 200 years, members of the Cole family have been potting in central North Carolina — Randolph, Moore, Lee, and Montgomery counties. Six generations of Coles, and no fewer than 18 individuals, are represented in The Mint Museum's permanent collection. More than 60 highlights of their wares are included in the installation "The Cole Family: A Dynasty of North Carolina Potters". One reason for its long-term success is that making pottery has so often been a family tradition in the state. Fathers taught the art of forming, glazing, and firing clay objects to their sons, and in later generations also to daughters, who in turn taught their children, and so on through the decades. These family dynasties not only helped to keep the potting craft alive, but ensured continuity in techniques and craftsmanship, as well as introduced artistic innovations in succeeding generations. "The Cole Family: A Dynasty of North Carolina Potters" presents a visual history of "turned pots" and the family that helped turn North Carolina into one of America's centers for hand-made, traditional pottery. Through Dec. 11 - "Diedrick Brackens: ark of bulrushes". This exhibition presents a new series by Los Angeles-based artist Diedrick Brackens including large-scale (8-foot) weavings and premiering the artist's first woven sculptures. Known for making colorful textiles about African American and queer histories, Brackens has developed a process of combining the tactility of yarn with the ethos of storytelling. For this exhibition, the artworks tell timeless narratives about emancipation and remediation through pattern, body, and the power of craft. Bridges and Levine Galleries, Ongoing - "Contemporary British Studio Ceramics: The Grainer Collection". Focused on the collection of Diane and Marc Grainer, this installation is a survey of contemporary British studio ceramics. Comprising functional and sculptural objects made between the 1980s and today, the show features work by artists either born or residing in Great Britain, including established "contemporary classics" like Gordon Baldwin and Rupert Spira, and cutting-edge ceramicists such as Julian Stair and Kate Malone. Several recently-gifted works from the Grainers are included. Alexander, Spangler, and Harris Galleries, Ongoing - "Portals to the Past: British Ceramics 1675 - 1825". The Mint Museum's collection of eighteenth-century British pottery and porcelain is widely respected for its scope and quality. The collection numbers over 2,000 objects and includes important examples of both salt-glazed and dry-bodied stoneware from Staffordshire; tin-glazed earthenware from Bristol, Liverpool, and London; and cream-colored earthenware from Derbyshire, Staffordshire, and Yorkshire. Notable eighteenth-century porcelain factories represented include Chelsea, Bow, and Vauxhall in London, Longton Hall in Staffordshire, Worcester, Bristol, and others. Individual works in the collection are exceptional because of their rarity, craftsmanship, provenance, or as representative examples of particular types or methods of production or decoration. Ongoing - "American Glass". The nineteenth and early twentieth centuries represented a time of extraordinary growth for the American glass industry. Such companies as Boston & Sandwich Glass Company in Sandwich, MA; Steuben Glass Works in Corning, NY; and Libbey Glass Company in Toledo, OH, began operation and soon developed notable reputations for producing fashionable wares that were coveted by many middle- and upper-class consumers. "American Glass" showcases objects by these and other American glass companies, illustrating the variety of forms and styles that prevailed during this period. Glass-manufacturing techniques will be another focus of the exhibition, with representative examples of pressed, cut, blown, and molded glass. Nearly all of the works on view are from The Mint Museum's permanent collection of glass, which is second in size only to the ceramics collection in the museum's Decorative Arts holdings. Ongoing - "Arts of Africa". The African continent is remarkable in its geographic, social, political, and cultural diversity. This impressive diversity is reflected in the visual arts through a variety of media and forms including ceramics, masks, textiles, sculptures, prestige staffs, and shrines.

With exceptional loans from private collectors and The Mint Museum's own collection of African Art, the museum is pleased to announce the expansion of its presentation of Arts of Africa, thereby providing visitors a more in-depth, meaningful, and exciting overview of African art. Heritage Gallery, Ongoing - Feature works of art, archival documents, and photographs documenting the growth and evolution of the museum, from its beginnings as the original branch of the US Mint to its founding as an art museum to the present and beyond. Ongoing - "Art for the Millions: WPA Prints" and "Carolina Clay," featuring a display of colorful wares made between 1920 and 1950 as potters from NC adapted their works to a market economy. "Art of the United States," featuring contemporary works from the Mint's permanent collection, including works by Romare Bearden, Maud Gatewood, John Biggers, Juan Logan, Tarlton Blackwell, Radcliffe Bailey, Kojo Griffin, and others. "Art in the Americas," featuring paintings, precious metalwork, sculpture, furniture and decorative arts from the 17th through the 19th centuries illustrate the unique culture that emerged from the Spanish colonization of the Americas. Crosland Gallery - Featuring a presentation of portraits with many fascinating images presented. Rankin Gallery - Featuring a presentation of the Romare Bearden Collection, including two "new" Beardens. Delhom Gallery, Ongoing - The European Collection of ceramic works. Admission: Yes. Hours: Wed., 11am-9pm (free admission 5-9pm); Thur.-Sat., 11am-6pm; & Sun., 1-5pm. Contact: 704/337-2000 or at (www.mintmuseum.org).

Mint Museum Uptown, Levine Center for the Arts, 500 South Tryon St., Charlotte. Sept. 10 - Dec. 24 - "American Made: Painting and Sculpture from the DeMell Jacobsen Collection". The DeMell Jacobsen Collection is one of the finest privately held collections of American art in the United States. Although works from the collection can be found on loan to museums across the country, this exhibition marks the first time works from the collection have been brought together to be viewed together in one exhibition. American Made will include more than 100 highlights of the foundation's paintings and sculptures. Through Mar. 2023 - "Rendezvous With Rothko". For the first time in its 85-year history, The Mint Museum has not one, but two, Mark Rothko paintings on view. Through a long-term loan with the National Gallery of Art in Washington, DC, two paintings by the Abstract Expressionist painter Mark Rothko are on view in the Modern Contemporary galleries at Mint Museum Uptown. The two works — "No. 17 [or] No. 15" and "Untitled 1951" — are the only paintings by Rothko currently on view in North Carolina. Craft + Design Galleries, Ongoing - "Craft in the Laboratory: The Science of Making Things," is the first installation in the Southeast to explore how craft artists and designers use science and math concepts when creating works of art. Presented by Müller Corporation, Craft in the Laboratory also celebrates a reinstallation of the Mint's Craft + Design Galleries—the first since 2010. Co-curated by the Mint's Senior Curator of Craft, Design, and Fashion Annie Carlano and Assistant Curator for Craft, Design, and Fashion Rebecca Elliot, "Craft in the Laboratory" includes 100 works from the Mint's collection that are made from precious metals, wood, steel, polymers, and even agricultural waste, that emphasize the preciseness of science used to craft works of art. Made by nationally and internationally renowned artists, the objects are organized by material and subject throughout the galleries. Now - The Mint Museum's new four-story installation "Foragers" offers a transcendent experience while celebrating the tradition of women as makers and providers. Unlike anything ever seen at The Mint Museum before, Brooklyn-based artist Summer Wheat's "Foragers" is a monumental piece of public work of art spanning 96 windows, four stories, and 3,720 square feet at Mint Museum Uptown's Robert Haywood Morrison Atrium. The myriad of vibrant panels that give the illusion of stained glass and celebrates the tradition of women as makers and providers. "Foragers" is part of a larger exhibition "In Vivid Color," which brings together four innovative contemporary artists—Wheat, Gisela Colon, Spencer Finch, and Jennifer Steinkamp—who create works celebrating the power of color and its ability to permeate the space around us. Their work is juxtaposed with a selection of paintings and works on paper, drawn primarily from The Mint Museum's permanent collection, which showcase artists' more traditional exploration of color. Ongoing - The Mint Museum Uptown houses the world renowned collections of the Mint Museum of Craft + Design, as well as the American Art and Contemporary Art collections and selected works from the European Art collection. The building also includes a café, a Family Gallery, painting and ceramics studios, classrooms, a 240-seat auditorium, a Special Events Pavilion with outdoor terrace, and an expanded Museum Shop specializing in crafts of the Carolinas. Admission: Yes. Hours: Wed., 11am-9pm (free admission 5-9pm); Thur.-Sat., 11am-6pm; & Sun., 1-5pm. Now Fri. till 9pm. Contact: 704/337-2000 or at (www.mintmuseum.org).

Work by Christine Hagar-Braun

Overcash Art Gallery, Central Piedmont's, Central Campus, Overcash Performing Arts Center, Elizabeth Avenue and Kings Dr., Charlotte. Through Oct. 6 - "Embracing Imperfection," an exhibition by Christine Hager-Braun, seeks to obliterate the stigma long associated with mental health. An Artist Lecture will be offered on Sept. 14, at noon in the North Classroom Building Auditorium, Room 1123, located at 1320 Sam Ryburn Walk, a reception will follow immediately. Hager-Braun's work reflects her own struggle with depression. The colors and composition in her work, while abstract, foster an emotional connection revolving around personal growth, resilience, and acceptance. Through the medium of fiber artworks and sharing her own story, Hager-Braun hopes to inspire others to, "persevere, heal and thrive." Hours: Mon.-Thur. 10am-4pm or by appt. Contact: Follow us on Instagram and Facebook at Central Piedmont Arts or call Amelia Zytka, Senior Art Gallery Coordinator at 704/330-6847 or visit (<http://blogs.cpc.edu/cpcartgalleries/>).

Pauline Dove Art Gallery, Central Piedmont Community College, located inside the college's new Parr Center, Charlotte. Through Sept. 8 - Featuring a new exhibition by its namesake - Pauline Dove - that will include an eclectic array of artwork featuring energetic swirling colors and highly creative compositions. The selection of works will present the full spectrum of Dove's skills, ranging from painting, silver point, prints, ceramics, and books. Dove's new exhibition honors her late sister, Selma, and celebrates life, love, sisterhood, and the joys of making art. As a former chair of the Visual Arts Program and studio art instructor at Central Piedmont, Dove's career at the college spanned three decades. During her tenure she taught a variety of visual arts classes. As a result, her legacy thrives in the college's halls to this day. After her retirement from the College in 2001, Dove worked as a freelance artist, while also participating in Continuing Education courses in visual arts at Central Piedmont. Sept. 12 - Oct. 28 - "Collective Agency," an exhibition by artists Kristy Hughes and Alexandra Giannell, that explores the concept of phenomenology, a truly immersive experience into the body, mind, and self. The works of art feature abstract shapes and forms that allow the viewer to curate their own personalized experience via the artwork. Artists Hughes and Giannell combine artistic geniuses to utilize both large-scale 2D drawings, as well as 3D sculptures. An artist lecture will be held on Oct. 4, at noon. Hours: Mon.-Thur., 10am-4pm or by appt. Contact: Follow us on Instagram and Facebook at Central Piedmont Arts or call Amelia Zytka, Senior Art Gallery Coordinator at 704/330-6847 or visit (<http://blogs.cpc.edu/cpcartgalleries/>).

Rowe Arts Galleries, Rowe Arts Building, UNC-Charlotte, Charlotte. Through Sept. 9 - "Beauty in the Struggle: Celebrating the Life & Works of Broderick Adé Hogue". UNC Charlotte

alumnus Broderick Adé Hogue was a designer's designer. His masterful command of his abilities, combined with his continual pursuit of greatness, lead to sustained recognition from the design community that would be striking at any age. In Broderick's case, we mourn that the time we had to witness his remarkable achievements was so brief. Beauty in the Struggle: Celebrating the Life & Works of Broderick Adé Hogue showcases his work and process across a range of media, from early sketchbooks to national advertising campaigns to self-initiated social justice works. Through Sept. 9 - "At the Mouth of a Room: The 2022 Roderick MacKillop Memorial Alumni Art Exhibition, Featuring works by Elizabeth Arzani '12 and Holly Keogh '14". Elizabeth Arzani is an interdisciplinary artist & educator living and working in Portland, Oregon. As a collector of sorts, Arzani constructs narratives from moments of curiosity, absurdity, and potential humor in happenstance. Her impulse to collect and desire to recycle is a search for connection and an attempt to collaborate with the unknown. Holly Keogh is a painter based in Charlotte, NC. She is interested in the relationship between memory and our desire to document or freeze time. She is a first generation American, and throughout her childhood photographs were mailed back and forth between her family members in England and America. These photographs depict cousins' birthdays she never attended or new homes she never stepped inside. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-4pm. Contact: 704/547-3315.

The Museum of the Cherokee Indian, 589 Tsali Boulevard, Cherokee. Ongoing - Welcome to a sweeping history of the Cherokee Nation, engaging and oftentimes heart-rending, from ice age beginnings to present-day life and culture. In the brushstrokes of this fascinating heritage, you'll discover the warp and weft of treaties, the roots of a naturalistic language, artifacts of particular periods, great figures and heroes and entrancing stories of a civilization along with the Cherokee's distinctive values and ways of being in the world before and after "the Trail of Tears." The museum offers courses and workshops that combine scholarly content with voices of Cherokee people and experiences on the Qualla Boundary. A perfect place to begin exploration of Cherokee heritage and traditions is the Museum of the Cherokee Indian in Cherokee, North Carolina. Visitors are greeted at the entrance by a 20-foot hand-carved statue of Sequoyah, the inventor of the Cherokee alphabet. An interpretive site for the Trail of Tears National Historic Trail, this state-of-the-art facility traces the story of the Cherokee from the earliest inhabitants of the area 11,000 years ago to the present. An extensive exhibit of artifacts and photos is enhanced with computer-generated holograms and other imagery, sound, and special effects that leave a lasting and haunting impression on the visitor. The museum gift shop is rich in Cherokee tradition. Locally created baskets, pottery, wood carvings, decorated gourds and beadwork are among the art available for sale. Books on Cherokee history, culture, language, and genealogy line the shelves, along with

From photography to charcoal portraits to installation, come and see artists that represent the next generation of North Carolina's makers and creators." Artists include: Kalin Devone, Justin Ellis, Carey J. King, Carla Aaron-Lopez, Jamea Najé, and Shadae Tompkins. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm. Contact: 704/920-ARTS or at (www.cabarrusartsCouncil.org).

Cullowhee

Work by Ashley Evans

Fine Art Museum, Fine & Performing Arts Center, Western Carolina University, Cullowhee. Through Dec. 9 - "We Will Not be Silenced: Standing for Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women". The exhibition is a series of photographs and sculptures that bring voice to the international Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women (MMIW) movement through the lens of the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians, Comanche Nation, Lumbee, and other Native American artists. Through Oct. 21 - "When Was the Last Time You Saw a Miracle? Prints by Corita Kent". Shaped by her experiences as an artist, teacher, and Catholic nun, Corita Kent used her art to bring people together and ignite social change. Her screenprints position words in innovative ways to awaken her viewers to new ideas. In this selection of prints from the 1950s and 1960s, which are drawn from the Museum's permanent collection, Kent combines vivid color with quotations, everyday slogans, and biblical scripture to create inspirational messages of hope and harmony for humankind. Through Dec. 9 - "The Way I'm Wired: Artist Reflections on Neurodiversity". A reception will be held on Sept. 1, from 5-7pm. Everyone's brain is wired differently. This exhibition invites artists with a range of neurological complexities, such as dyslexia, ADHD, anxiety, and autism, to share their lived experiences and how their unique way of thinking makes them stronger artists. Through Dec. 9 - "Cultivating Collections: Glass". A reception will be held on Oct. 13, from 5-7pm. "Cultivating Collections" is a multi-year series of exhibitions highlighting specific areas of the WCU Fine Art Museum's permanent collection. In this year's exhibition, student researchers tell the stories of the Museum's glass collection, which includes a range of artists who have made significant contributions to the Studio Glass Movement in Western North Carolina. Sept. 10 - Apr. 8, 2023 - "Gilded: Contemporary Artists Explore Value and Worth". Across time and cultures, gold has served as a metaphor for what we value most. Symbolically, it stands in for goodness, excellence, brilliance, and wealth. He has a heart of gold. She is going for gold. It shone like gold. They struck gold. Found in crowns and regalia that bestow power, rings that signal matrimony, and currency traded among peoples, the metal has profound social significance. "Gilded" features the work of Radcliffe Bailey, Larissa Bates, William Cordova, Angela Fraleigh, Gajin Fujita, Nicholas Galanin, Liz Glynn, Shan Goshorn, Sherin Guirguis, Titus Kaphar, Hung Liu, James Nares, Ronny Quevedo, Shinji Turner-Yamamoto, Danh Vo, Stacy Lynn Waddell, and Summer Wheat. The exhibition is accompanied by a scholarly catalogue including contributions by art historian Rebecca Zorach and poet Joshua Bennett. Sept. 17 - Jan. 7, 2023 - "Allora & Calzadilla | The Great Silence". So begins artists' Allora & Calzadilla's poetic video, The Great Silence. Narrated by an endangered Puerto Rican parrot living near the world's largest radio telescope at the Arecibo Observatory, this eloquent film winds its way in just 16 minutes through musings on life and death, communication and misunderstanding, myth and science. Ongoing - The WCU Fine Art Museum is currently offering an interactive 360° virtual tour of the exhibition, "Cultivating Collections: Paintings, Ceramics, and Works by Latinx and Latin American Artists". This multi-year series of exhibitions highlight specific areas of the WCU Fine Art Museum's Collection, which includes over 1,800 works of art in a wide range of media by artists of the Americas. As the Museum's holdings increase, either through donations or purchases, it is essential for the Museum to evaluate strengths, identify key acquisition areas, and also pinpoint where significant change is needed. This exhibit highlights two styles, both rooted in and inspired by nature, yet as different as they can be. Warli art is a tribal art that hails from the state of Maharashtra in India, that is monochromatic and minimalistic, yet highly expressive. Mithila art, also known as Madhubani, or 'forest of honey', is a folk-art style that has been practiced in, and around the state of Bihar in India and parts of Nepal. Semans Gal- lery, Through Sept. 8 - "José Manuel Cruz's Black and White in Technicolor!" (Can you see all the colors?) invites viewers to push beyond the simplicity of black and white thinking, and visualize the spectrum of complexity and color of the people around us. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9am-9pm & Sun. 1-6pm. Contact: 919/560-2787 or at (www.durhamarts.org).

Liberty Arts Gallery, 918 Pearl Street in the Cleveland-Holloway neighborhood of East Durham. Ongoing - Liberty Arts is a nonprofit arts community whose collaborative practice reflects the dynamic personality of Durham. Our mission is to expand access to three-dimensional art and share the skills required to make it. All are welcome to take part through hands-on classes, public events, mentorships, and commissions. Liberty Arts believes in community outreach and encourages visionary thinking. Founded in 2001, Liberty Arts serves as an incubator in which artists work together to teach, learn, and inspire. All artists also take on public and private commissions, in addition to exhibiting and selling their work at the Liberty Arts Gallery. Hours: We are open to the public but would need to schedule an appointment to make sure someone is here to meet you. Contact: 919-260-2931, e-mail at (info@libertyartsnc.org) or at (www.libertyartsnc.org).

Contact: 919/967-7700 or at (www.goldenbeltarts.com).

The Durham Art Guild, Royall Center for the Arts, 120 Morris Street, Durham. Truist Gallery, Through Oct. 8 - "They Can Be Both," featuring works by Kelly Sheppard Murray, Natalia Torres del Valle and Jean Gray Mohs. The exhibit articulates the lineage of small acts over time. "In our works, we have each embraced nuances and irregularities and recognize how this is a metaphor for life where one is continually reconstructing and embracing the unknown, uncontrollable, and often discarded or overlooked. Through our objects and mark-making, we break out of traditional painting or sculpture techniques to create works that are both painting and sculpture. This also seems an interesting parallel to how our life is also blurring the boundaries between our roles as artists and mothers. Our processes are a direct reaction to our lives as we work with circumstances, limitations, and opportunities that we are afforded." Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9am-9pm & Sun., 1-6pm. Contact: 919/560-2713 or at (www.durhamartguild.org).

The Nasher Museum of Art, Duke University Central Campus, 2001 Campus Drive, Durham. Through Jan. 8, 2023 - "Roy Lichtenstein: History in the Making, 1948 - 1960," is the first major museum exhibition to investigate the early work of one of the most celebrated American artists of the 20th century. The exhibition tells the overlooked story of Lichtenstein's early career and establishes a deeper understanding of postwar American art. The landmark exhibition features loans from museums and private collections, presenting about 90 works from the artist's fruitful formative years. Many of the paintings, drawings, sculptures and prints will be on public view for the first time. Through

Feb. 19, 2023 - "Beyond the Surface: Collage, Mixed Media and Textile Works from the Collection". This exhibition includes approximately 40 works, primarily from the Nasher Museum's collection. With a focus on collage, mixed media and textile works, Beyond the Surface explores how artists bring together disparate materials and ideas to create artworks that engage with all audiences. Through skill and care, artists juxtapose unexpected elements and concepts in their work to tell many different stories. Modern & Contemporary Gallery, Through Nov. 27 - "David Levinthal: Baseball," is an installation of large-format Polaroid photographs that capture some of the most iconic moments in the history of baseball through Levinthal's signature use of lifelike figurines. Babe Ruth's called shot from game three of the 1932 World Series and Jackie Robinson stealing home in the 1955 World Series are among the moments rendered in the artist's unique and nostalgic photography. Ongoing - The Collection Galleries feature rotating installations of the Nasher Museum's extensive holdings of historical art. Eight galleries, as well as the entrance to Wilson Pavilion, are dedicated to the museum's strengths, which represent a brief history of human creativity from different times and parts of the world. Just beyond the entrance, visitors will find the Incubator, a flexible space for rotating student- and faculty-curated exhibitions. Visitors are invited to return again and again to The Collection Galleries, where Nasher curators continue to refresh the galleries with gems from the collection. The museum's contemporary collection is showcased through rotating exhibitions within a separate pavilion. Works from the contemporary collection create new conversations and connections among historical works in The Collection Galleries. A breakthrough work by New York artist Fred Wilson from 1990, Colonial Collection, anchors the Arts of Africa Gallery. A painting by Kehinde Wiley is on view in the European Art Gallery. Ongoing - Nasher Museum Café and Museum Shop. Admission: Yes, but free to Durham residents, courtesy of "The Herald-Sun" newspaper. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm; Thur. till 9pm; & Sun., noon-5pm. Contact: 919/684-5135 or at (www.nasher.duke.edu).

Weatherspoon Art Museum, University of North Carolina - Greensboro, Cone Building, Tate and Spring Garden Streets, Greensboro. 2nd Floor: The Bob & Lissa Shelley McDowell Gallery, Sept. 10 - Apr. 8, 2023 - "Gilded: Contemporary Artists Explore Value and Worth". Gilded features the work of Radcliffe Bailey, Larissa Bates, William cordova, Angela Fraleigh, Gajin Fujita, Nicholas Galanin, Liz Glynn, Shan Goshorn, Sherin Guirguis, Titus Kaphar, Hung Liu, James Nares, Ronny Quevedo, Shinji Turner-Yamamoto, Danh Vo, Stacy Lynn Waddell, and Summer Wheat. 2nd Floor, The Gregory D. Ivy and the Weatherspoon Guild Galleries, Through Dec. 3 - "Bestiary: Animals as Symbols and Metaphors". The Guild and Ivy galleries will be awash with an array of beasts this summer. No cause for concern, however, as this menagerie consists solely of two- and three-dimensional representations of familiar animals, many of which are quite benign and intriguing. Drawn from the museum's collection and arranged by species, the exhibition is a contemporary look at the old bestiary tradition. 2nd Floor, Gallery 6, Through Sept. 6 - "The Eye and the Ear: Animations by Mary Ellen Bute". From the mid 1930s to mid 1950s, artist Mary Ellen Bute produced more than a dozen pioneering animations that sought to allow viewers to see sound. Born and raised in Texas, Bute left home at sixteen to study painting at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. Frustrated by the limitations of working on canvas, she went on to train in stage lighting at Yale University before moving to New York where she forged collaborative relationships with innovators across professional fields and disciplines in the pursuit of presenting music through moving images. Sept. 17 - Jan. 7, 2023 - "Allora & Calzadilla | The Great Silence". The humans use Arecibo to look for extraterrestrial intelligence. Their desire to make a connection is so strong that they've created an ear capable of hearing across the universe. But I and my fellow parrots are right here. Why aren't they interested in listening to our voices? So begins artists' Allora & Calzadilla's poetic video, The Great Silence. Narrated by an endangered Puerto Rican parrot living near the world's largest radio telescope at the Arecibo Observatory, this eloquent film winds its way in just 16 minutes through musings on life and death, communication and misunderstanding, myth and science. 1st Floor: Weatherspoon Atrium Mural, Ongoing - "Pause and Breathe, We Got This," a mural by Sheena Rose. A homecoming is in the works. The Weatherspoon is excited to announce its commission of a major new artwork by artist Sheena Rose, MFA '16. A multidisciplinary artist working in animation, drawing, painting, and performance, Rose's vibrant and energetic work is at once anchored in her Caribbean heritage and expansive in its explorations of culture and human experience. Lobbies - Featuring works of art complementing current gallery exhibitions which are rotated in the atrium and public areas throughout both floors of the gallery. Tom Otterness' site-specific work, "The Frieze" is permanently installed in the atrium. Sculpture Courtyard - Featuring selections of American sculpture from 1900 to the present from the Weatherspoon Collection and on loan works from contemporary artists. Admission: Free. Hours: Tue.-Wed. & Fri.-Sat., from 10am-5pm and Thur., 10am-8pm. Greenville

Greenville Museum of Art, 802 South Evans Street, Greenville. Commons and West Wing Galleries, Through Sept. 24 - "Growing Up Queer In The South". The Greenville Museum of Art (GMOA) is thrilled to host Growing Up Queer in the South, a ground-breaking exhibition guest curated by Parks McAllister. "Growing Up Queer in the South" documents both the personal and shared experiences of LGBTQ+ folks through art influenced and inspired by the exhibiting artists' formative years spent in the American South. The Call for Artworks was open to all individuals, 18 years or older, who identify within the LGBTQ+ community and have spent part of their lives or could identify with "growing up" in the American South. An exhibition catalog will be printed in conjunction with "Growing Up Queer in the South" for sale in the GMOA gift shop starting in June. "Growing Up Queer in the South" is made possible by the generosity of exhibition sponsors Dr. Jesse R. Peel, Terry S. Hardy, Joe Esparza and Michael Aho, George Bailey, the Campaign for Southern Equality, the Dr. Jesse R. Peel LGBTQ Center at East Carolina University, and Acculink. The Francis Speight and Sarah Blakeslee Gallery, Ongoing - Is dedicated to the work of these two artists. Speight was born in Bertie County, North Carolina, and moved back to Greenville to teach at East Carolina University after spending a majority of his career at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. Blakeslee was born in Illinois and met Speight at the Academy as a student. The couple lived outside of Philadelphia until moving to Greenville in 1961. The Kenneth Noland Gallery, Ongoing - Celebrates the art and legacy of Black Mountain College, an innovative liberal arts college that operated between 1933 and 1957. Kenneth Noland, born in Asheville in 1924, attended Black Mountain College on the G. I. Bill from 1946 to 1948. He studied under Josef Albers and Ilya Bolotowsky, who introduced him to the work of artists interested in geometry and color. The Rachel Maxwell Moore Art Foundation Gallery, Ongoing - Features rotating works purchased for the Museum by the foundation. Rachel Maxwell Moore was a leading civic figure and arts advocate in Greenville. and was central to the founding of the Museum's predecessor in 1939. She established the Rachel Maxwell Moore Art Foundation in 1963, and before she passed away in 1964, bequeathed funds to the foundation for the sole purpose of purchasing works of art for the Museum's permanent collection. Ongoing - GMOA has a strong collection of North Carolina pottery, and especially from Jugtown Pottery in Seagrove, North Carolina. Jugtown Pottery was opened by Jacques and Juliana Busbee in 1921. They were influential at Jugtown and elsewhere in Seagrove by introducing local North Carolina potters to international ceramic styles and glazes. Much of our pottery collection was given to the Museum by Mrs. Lindsay Savage in 1948 and Dr. James H. Stewart in the 1980s. Admission: Free. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10-4:30pm. Contact: 252/758-1946 or at (www.gmoa.org).

Hickory Museum of Art, Arts and Science Center, 243 Third Avenue NE, Hickory. Entrance, Coe and Windows Galleries, Through Sept. 11 - "7 BILLION ONES: A Randy Bacon Retrospective". Seven billion one-of-a-kind creations call this planet home - each of these "ones" being important, with a story that counts. Yet, the sad truth is that as humans, as the "ones", we easily get lost in the bigness of the world - the seven billion people. Humans lose sight that we each have a unique, compelling and inspiring story that needs to be told AND shared with the world. Shuford Gallery, Through Sept. 11 - "Catawba Valley through the Eyes of Robert C. Reed". Robert C. Reed has been a photojournalist in our region for nearly 50 years. This exhibition offers a glimpse at his career which has covered stories from the race riot at Hickory High in 1976, to the Zahra Baker murder in 2010, to everything in between and beyond. Whitener Gallery, Through Sept. 11 - "collect HMA: Story Portraits". This exhibition features portraits from the museum's collection paired with stories about the portrait sitter, artist, and other interesting tidbits about the artwork. Presented in conjunction with 7 BILLION ONES: A Randy Bacon Retrospective. Objects Gallery, Through Sept. 11 - "V.O.I.C.E.". This exhibition spotlights "V.O.I.C.E." (Volunteer Outreach in Community Efforts), an organization that provides support to homeless and veterans in our area. Morehead City

New Location
Arts Council of Carteret County & Carolina Artist Gallery, 1702 Arendell Street, Morehead City. Sept. 10 - Oct. 29 - "Upcycle". A reception will be held on Sept. 10, from 4-6pm. Join us as we celebrate our merger. In 1994 a new word was coined for the fabulous art that was being produced from items that would otherwise have been placed in the landfill. That is over fifty years after single use plastic was introduced and a throw away culture was formed. Upcycling is an antidote that provides a creative way of reducing our human footprint. One man's trash is another man's treasure. This show seeks to showcase the art of those who see beauty in something that others have discarded as useless. Hours: call ahead. Contact: 252/726-9156 or visit (www.artsCouncilcarteret.org).

North Wilkesboro

Wilkes Art Gallery, 913 C. Street, North Wilkesboro. Ongoing - Founded in 1962 in the parlor of Annie Winkler's home, the Wilkes Art Gallery has experienced transformations over the years. The most dramatic of these was the 2004 move into the renovated 1925 North Wilkesboro Post Office building. WAG offers a variety of classes, workshops, meet-the-artists events and special outreach projects. WAG hosts exhibitions that offer community members a chance to show their work and admission is always free. Visit our online gift shop. Hours: Tue.-Fri., 10am-5pm and Sat., 10am-2pm. Contact: 336/667-2841 or at (www.wilkesartgallery.org).

Old Fort

Arrowhead Artists and Artisans League Inc., 78 Catawba Avenue, Suite C-D, next to the parker hosiery building, 2 minutes from Exit 73 on Interstate I-40, Old Fort. Ongoing - The main Gallery space is about 1800 square feet, with an open, industrial feel. Art, ranging from traditional to abstract and mixed media, hangs on the walls. On the main floor are displays of various types of fine crafts, such as jewelry, pottery, fiber art, hand crafted baskets, and hand turned wooden bowls. You might even see a welded "junk yard" critter or two. After viewing all of the various arts and crafts, visitors can walk through a wide archway on the right to view more fine art and craft work and talk to the artists and students in several studios and the AGS classroom. If a studio door is open, visitors are being invited to step inside and enjoy the work. Currently, our Gallery and studio artists and artisans include: Lorelle Bacon, Ann Whisenaut, Karen Piquette, David Kaylor, Dawn Driebus, Len Eskew, Wayne Stroud, Susan Taylor, Cathy Green, Anne Bevan, John Sullivan, Evelyn Chrisawn, Tim Muench, Chuck Aldridge, Charles Davis, Fredreen Bernatovicz, Anne Allison, Darlene Matzer, Billie Haney, Marguerite Welty, Jean Ryan, Kasha Baxter, Linda Magnus, Kim

Pembroke

A.D. Gallery, University of NC at Pembroke, Locklear Hall, 1 University Dr, Pembroke. Ongoing - The A.D. Gallery is sponsored by the Art Department of the University of North Carolina at Pembroke. Serving the university and local community, the gallery provides a venue for student and faculty work, as well as that of local, regional, national and international artists. The gallery helps fulfill the department's goal of providing outstanding educational opportunities for its students by bringing quality visual arts to the university and the community at large. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-6pm. Contact: e-mail to (joseph.begnaud@uncp.edu) or visit (www.uncp.edu/departments/art/ad-gallery).

The Museum of the Southeast American Indian, Old Main (first floor) at the University of North Carolina Pembroke, 1 University Drive, Pembroke. Sept. 9 - Mar. 31, 2023 - "The 9/9 Native South Art Exhibit," featuring art by Southeastern Native artists. Awards will be given to the top three works. Ongoing - As part of the Southeast American Indian Studies Program at UNC Pembroke, The Museum of the Southeast American Indian maximizes the capacity of the University to address the complex historical, cultural and contemporary issues facing American Indian communities in North Carolina and the American Southeast. The Museum's cross-disciplinary collaborations greatly enhance the University's programs of research, service, outreach and instruction. The Museum is a multi-faceted museum and resource for scholarly research and community outreach. While the Museum contains exhibits of authentic Indian artifacts, arts and crafts from Indian communities all over the Americas, our primary focus is on tribes from the American Southeast. Many items come from North Carolina Native communities, with special emphasis on Robeson County Indian people. Specific focus is placed on the largest North Carolina tribe, the Lumbee, but our outreach activities have extended into Virginia and South Carolina with plans for further outreach throughout the Southeast. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-5pm. We typically close for lunch from noon-1pm. Contact: call 910/521-6282 or e-mail to (nativemuseum@uncp.edu).

Penland

Work by Colette Fu

Penland Gallery & Visitors Center, Penland School of Crafts, 3135 Conley Ridge Rd, Penland. John & Robyn Horn Exhibition Gallery, Through Sept. 17 - "RETOLD -Chronicles and Other Stories". Featuring works by Jennifer Ling Datchuck, Colette Fu, Karen Hampton, Anne Lemanski, and Stephanie Santana. Stories we live with, construct from our past experiences, shape from our culture, and fashion from our dreams and aspirations; the story is given form by the artist. Narrative art gives visual form to our human chronicles and imagined realities. The artists in this exhibition communicate through their lens of culture, ancestral, and familial experiences. Image: Colette Fu's "Uyghur Food" Pop-Up Book Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm & Sun. noon-5pm. Contact: 828/765-6211 or at (<http://penland.org/gallery/>).

Pittsboro

ALTERNATE ART SPACES - Pittsboro JimGin Farm, 150 Wild Horse Run, Pittsboro. Saturdays in Sept. beginning at 2pm - "21st Come Out and Play Sculpture Show." There is amazing art, live music, and free food. And remember, there is no cost to attend, and artists keep 100% of their sales. The art has started to arrive, and it promises to be a wonderful show for adults, children, and dogs too. Dogs are always invited as long as they are on a leash. The show information may also be found at (www.comeoutandplay.info). Directions - West from Carrboro, go out Jones Ferry Road. Measuring from the light at Willow Creek Shopping Plaza, go 5 and 3/4 miles then turn left onto Wild Horse Run, a gravel drive marked by a street sign. There are Come Out and Play banners at the street entrance. Follow the drive until it ends at JimGin Farm. Parking is on the right after passing through the wooden gate.

Work by Wiley Johnson

Block Gallery (inside Raleigh Municipal Building), 222 W. Hargett St., Raleigh. Through Sept. 21 - "Wiley Johnson and Eduard Lapetina: Through the Layers". This exhibition brings together two North Carolina based artists who self-identify as having a disability. They each have different approaches to abstraction but have found a visual language through paint. For example, the rich thick layered colors of Eduardo Lapetina's paintings are applied by pouring, scraping, dripping and other methods, create a complex surface texture. Meanwhile, Wiley Johnson has a more fluid approach to abstraction often allowing the previous layer of paint to show through transparent applications. The title of this exhibition, "Through the Layers", suggests more than just the use of paint and the complex surfaces created by these artists. Working as an artist with a disability, whether it be physical, cognitive, or invisible to others, informs the creative process and the artist experience. As viewers, we shouldn't perceive this as an impediment to the art but as the culmination of a lived disability experience. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8:30am-5:15pm. Contact: Stacy Bloom Rexrode, Curator of Exhibitions and Collections, Raleigh Arts, call 919/996-4687 or at (<https://raleighnc.gov/SupportPages/hue-untitled-process-color>).

CAM Raleigh, 409 W. Martin Street, between Harrington and West streets, Raleigh. Main Gallery, Through Oct. 31 - "UNSEEN: Clarence Heyward". Born and raised in Brooklyn, NY, Clarence Heyward is a painter and collagist. He relocated to North Carolina to study Art Education at North Carolina Central University. He creates paintings and collages as an exploration of his culture. Clarence's artistic practice is based in the questioning of his identity and circumstance. He seeks ways to engage in dialogues that ultimately leave him connected to those who experience his work. His work is personal. Although creating from his perspective, the human element present in the work creates a connection for all. Admission: Yes. Hours: Mon., 11am-6:30pm; Wed.-Fri., 11am-6:30pm; Sat. & Sun., noon-5pm; and 1st & 3rd Fri., open till 9pm. Contact: 919/513-0946 or at (<http://camraleigh.org/>).

Gregg Museum of Art & Design, The Historic Chancellor's Residence, NC State University, located at 1903 Hillsborough Street, Raleigh. Through Dec. 3 - "Reic Serritella: Trompe l'Oeil Ceramics". Chapel Hill artist Eric Serritella creates his ceramic sculptures as conduits to emotion through inquiry, recognition, and familiarity. Through aging and decay, Serritella's sculptures challenge the viewer with both the nature of the material and the messages within. Each organic creation is filled with metaphor, both literal and implied. Anthropomorphic elements and vessel forms link humanity as timeless inseparable from its interactions and relationships to its natural surroundings. Each sculpture in Eric Serritella-Trompe l'Oeil Ceramics fosters awareness to affect viewers' behaviors toward the environment. Through this consciousness they can acquire new appreciations and ways of seeing. Through Nov. 12 - "Across the Threshold of India: Photographs by Martha Strawn," features photographs that make up a work of visual ecology that perceptively portrays one of India's and the world's longest and least-known religious practices—the art of sanctifying space through the creation of threshold diagrams. Objects from the Gregg Museum's permanent collection will also accompany the photographs. Many of Strawn's photographs are in the permanent collection of the Indira Gandhi National Centre for the Arts, the nation's foremost research center for Indian culture and art, and are featured in her book, "Across the Threshold of India: Art, Women, and Culture". Ongoing - One of NC State University's most historic buildings is now the permanent home of the Gregg Museum of Art & Design. The Historic Chancellor's Residence, located at 1903 Hillsborough Street, along with a 15,000 sq. ft. addition, increases the museum's visibility while significantly adding to its exhibition and programming space. Hours: The Gregg Museum is suspending the need for timed entry reservations. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-5pm. The Gregg does ask that larger groups (15+) call ahead at (919) 515-3503, to avoid crowding in the galleries. Contact: Zoe Starling, Curator of Education at 919/513-7244 or at (<https://gregg.arts.ncsu.edu/>).

North Carolina Museum of Art, 2110 Blue Ridge Road, Raleigh. Ongoing - "Break the Mold: New Takes on Traditional Art Making". The exhibit showcases contemporary artists who use traditional modes of art making and crafting to tackle timely subject matter. Innovative takes on embroidery, ceramics, quilting, furniture, interior design, and fashion accessories serve to explore diverse topics such as gender assumptions and inequalities, prison reform, racial justice, memory, and loss, as well as how objects transmit and transform social and cultural history. This show features 25 contemporary artists, including Sanford Biggers, Elizabeth Brim, Maria Britton, Julie Cockburn, Rodney McMillan, Rachel Meginnes, Katy Mixon, Gabriel de la Mora, Yasumasa Morimura, Thomas Schmidt, Shinique Smith, and Do Ho Suh, whose artworks are displayed alongside some of their historical predecessors. East Building, Level B, Joyce W. Pope Gallery Sept. 17 - Feb. 5, 2023 - "Start Talking: Fischer/Shull Collection of Contemporary Art". This exhibition features selected pieces from an exceptional promised gift to the NCMA from the collection of Hedy Fischer and Randy Shull. Amassed over the past three decades and still ongoing, the collection includes seminal works by Abraham Cruzvillegas, Vanessa German, Trenton Doyle Hancock, Graciela Iturbide, Pope.L, Tina Modotti, Gabriel Rico, Alison Saar, Hank Willis Thomas, Nari Ward, and many others. This transformative gift will significantly expand the scope of the People's Collection. It will augment works by artists currently in the collection and add works by artists previously not represented, enabling the Museum to present a comprehensive picture of the many major movements and artists in contemporary art. Ann and Jim Goodnight Museu Park, Sept. 1 - Mar. 31, 2023 - "Fall 2022 Billboards: Ralph Burns". Burns surveys the artist's distinguished black-and-white documentary style. These photographs capture the intricacies of worship, ritual, and love through an impartial lens. As Burns states, he uses his camera as a tool "to try to understand." In one photo a penitent in Mexico carries the statue of Our Lady of Guadalupe. Ann and Jim Goodnight East Building, Level B, Video Gallery, Photography Gallery 1 (Julian T. Baker Jr. Gallery) and 2 (Allen G. Thomas Jr. Gallery), Through Feb. 12 - "Outlandish: Photographs by Ralph Burns | Photographs from the Collection of Allen G. Thomas Jr. Using photography from the Museum's collection, this exhibition examines the peculiarity of human experience and expression. In one gallery a photo series by Asheville-based photographer Ralph Burns captures the intricacies of worship, ritual, and love. For decades he followed crowds of devout Elvis fans during their pilgrimages to Graceland. Burns's documentarian style demonstrates a deep understanding of humanness and emotional connection. NCMA Sculpture Park, Oct. 1 - 31 - "Click! 10," part of the Click! Photography Festival. Ongoing - Featuring 10 additional sculptures by the celebrated French artist Rodin on loan from Iris Cantor's private collection. Ongoing - "John James Audubon's The Birds of America". The state has owned this treasured volume since 1848, but it has never been exhibited. Ongoing - The North Carolina Museum of Art has an outstanding permanent collection of more than 5,000 objects spanning antiquity to the present day. On the occasion of the expansion, the Museum has acquired more than 100 new works of art. Representing commissions, gifts, and purchases, the new works encompass important and diverse examples of historic and contemporary art from around the world, and will be installed in the Museum's new building and the surrounding landscape. Highlights include a gift of 28 sculptures by Auguste Rodin, and work by such internationally acclaimed artists as Roxy Paine, Ursula von Rydingsvard, El Anatsui, Jaume Plensa, Jackie Ferrara, Ellsworth Kelly, and David Park, among others. Admission: Yes for some exhibits. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 9am-5pm; Sun., 10am-5pm; & open until 9pm on Fri. Contact: 919/839-6262 or at (www.ncartmuseum.org).

Sertoma Arts Center, 1400 Millbrook Road, located in the heart of Shelley Lake Park, Raleigh. Ongoing - Sertoma Arts Center is a fun, creative destination for all ages, offering classes and workshops in painting, drawing, photography, pottery, performing arts, printmaking, jewelry, fibers studio, fitness, and more, along with exhibitions, studio spaces, group support, and community outreach. Sertoma's outreach partners include the North Carolina Arts Council and Wake County Public School System. It is part of a learning community of 11 arts organizations that collaborate to advocate for and improve access to the arts for people with disabilities. This collective is funded in part by the City of Raleigh Arts Commission and the United Arts Council of Raleigh and Wake County. Salisbury/Spencer Waterworks Visual Arts Center, 123 E. Liberty St., in the East Square Arts District, located one block East of Main Street, across from the Salisbury Police Station, Salisbury. Through Sept. 2 - "Don Moore – An Art-Filled Life". The exhibition will feature more than 150 works by the artist. Children visiting Salisbury's Waterworks Visual Arts Center knew him simply as "Mister Don, the Doorman." He always greeted them with a welcoming smile as he held the door for classes of 5th graders visiting an art museum for the very first time. And to the guests at the Center's annual Oyster Roast fundraiser in January, he is remembered as the man who handed out the aprons. He was often behind the scene at Waterworks, making sure all the minor details were attended to at receptions and other events. And, when it came time for photos to be snapped, he kept himself in the background as much as he could, typically placing himself in the back row whenever possible. Sadly, for those who knew him, Donald Everett Moore passed away in February, just a few months shy of his 79th birthday. Yet, he filled those eight decades with service to Art in just about every way imaginable. Ongoing – At Waterworks, all exhibitions are free to see (donations gladly accepted). The galleries and Museum Store are open Monday-Friday, 10 am-4 pm. An elevator, braille signage, bench seating in all galleries, and wide hallways make the museum accessible to everyone. Visitors can experience the gated sensory garden, as well as sculpture gardens around the building. Waterworks offers three rotating exhibitions a year, K-12 Student exhibitions, and art classes for students ages 18 months to 100. Keep abreast of exhibitions, events, art classes, and new art for sale in the Museum Store. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 10am-4pm, (business hours M-F, 9 am-5 pm). Contact: 704/636-1882 or at (www.waterworks.org).

Saluda

ALTERNATE ART SPACES - Saluda Saluda Library, Polk County Public Libraries, 44 W. Main, Saluda. Through Sept. 30 - Featuring an exhibit of fiber works by Holly Wilkes. Wilkes has been involved with fiber arts for many years. Most of this time her focus has been on all types of weaving, but in recent years, she has concentrated on tapestry weaving. She weaves abstract or nonrepresentational, as well as representational tapestries. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 9am-6pm & sat., 9am-1pm. Contact: Saluda Library Manager Bob McCall at 828/894-8721 x294 or e-mail to (bmccall@polklibrary.org).

Seagrove Area

Carolina Bronze Sculpture Garden, Carolina Bronze, 6108 Maple Springs Road, Seagrove. Ongoing - The Carolina Bronze Sculpture Garden is a natural and landscaped area overlooking a beautiful 1.25 acre pond. A walking trail loops around the pond with benches and a picnic area along the trail. The Sculpture Garden collection consists of donated and loaned sculptures from emerging and established artists working in all 3D media suitable for the outdoors. There are currently 19 sculptures installed around the pond. The landscaped and natural areas have a focus on NC native plants and trees. As an extension of this park, a sculpture is installed in the downtown area of Seagrove. Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8:30am-4pm. Contact: 336/873-8291 or at (www.cbsculpturegarden.com).

North Carolina Pottery Center, 233 East Avenue, Seagrove. Sept. 1 - Dec. 17 - "For Promotion and Presentation". In addition to fulfilling basic utilitarian needs, some older pottery in North Carolina was used for either promotional or presentation purposes. Both types are popular with promotional wares being sought by advertising and bottle collectors as well as pottery collectors. Promotional wares include merchant jugs and jars made for North Carolina businesses. Interestingly, most of these promotional pieces were made by pottery industries outside of North Carolina. Ongoing - Featuring permanent and changing exhibits on the history of North Carolina pottery, "The North Carolina Pottery Tradition" and "Seagrove Area Pottery". The Center also offers information on activities, maps and information about the potteries located in the Seagrove area and across the state. A display of representative works from more than 90 area potteries is also offered. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 10am-4pm. Contact 336/873-8430 or at (www.ncpotterycenter.org).

Seagrove Area Pottery Center (Not the NC Pottery Center), 122 E. Main St., Seagrove. Ongoing - The former museum organization was founded twenty-five years ago in Seagrove, and is dedicated to preserving and perpetuating the pottery tradition. We strive to impart to new generations the history of traditional pottery and an appreciation for its simple and elegant beauty. A display of area pottery is now offered in the old Seagrove grocery building. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 9:30am-3:30pm. Contact: 336/873-7887.

Tryon Fine Arts Center, 34 Melrose Ave., Tryon. Parker Gallery, Sept. 8 - Oct. 28 - "The Animals of RedBell Run: Flora & Fauna. A reception will be held on Sept. 8, beginning at 6:30pm. Passion begets passion, beauty begets beauty....this is thought that is in professional photographer, Monica Stevenson's, mind every moment she spends at Red Bell Run. The photographs for this exhibition are inspired by Mary Adams, the owner of Red Bell Run, affection for and dedication to the animals and plants that thrive at her equine sanctuary. As with much of Monica's work, she leans heavily on her own collaborative spirit and the generous nature of her artistic partners--Preston Wainwright, floral designer, Thomas Ignatius and Sean Smith, both illustrative designers, to support some of the exhibit's featured works. The resulting pictures included in this show, photographed with a large format digital camera and hand printed, display an abundance of beautiful details-- flowers, leaves, illustrations, textures, colors, dogs, cats, horses, donkeys, expressions, shapes, movement, fur, teeth, limbs--all the things that make up the natural world that is Red Bell Run. Hours: Tue.-Fri., 10am-4pm. Contact: 828/859-8322 or at (www.tryonarts.org).

210 Princess Street, Wilmington. Through Sept. 25 - "Lost in Transition," an exhibition which pulls forward the past, honoring a legacy of Black educators and examining their methods of teaching and preparing students for the world around them, organized by the NC Museum of Arts. Michael S. Williams, Raleigh, NC, consultant and Black On Black Project founder, presents "Lost in Transition", an art experience that celebrates the history of 20th-century Black educators from New Hanover County's Wilmington, NC. Using portraiture and performance, the project shares the educators' profound influence before and after desegregation, evoking memories of both eras. The exhibition features charcoal portraits by Durham, NC, artist Alexandria P. Clay of Black educators who empowered generations of students to strive for academic excellence, and it presents performance art that highlights how Black educators cared for and taught their students. This exhibition and related events are free; registration is required for specific events. The exhibition will be open Thur. and Fri., from 3 to 7pm and Sat. and Sun., from noon to 4pm, and the exhibition will be open for Fourth Fridays on Aug. 26, and Sept. 23 from 6 to 9pm. Winston-Salem

Artworks Gallery, 564 N. Trade Street, Winston-Salem. Through Sept. 24 - "A Leg to Stand On", a new series of work by Jessica Tefft. A reception will be held on Sept. 2, from 7-9pm. The new body of work by Jessica Tefft looks at how tragedy and trauma can transform us. We often have trouble seeing the beauty in the disfiguration and scars we carry. The struggle is the story that makes us more compelling and resilient. Tefft examines the idea of tragedy, loss, and resiliency through collages and augmented reality. Through Sept. 24 - "The Forest," a continued series of works by Wendell Myers. A reception will be held on Sept. 2, from 7-9pm. Wendell Myers continues his series of trees and thickets of untended brush inspired by time that he and his late wife, Pam, spent in Poland over the last 15 years. Myers layers saturated color to produce an active surface with visual depth and detail. Ongoing - The gallery is the longest running cooperative gallery established by artists for artist members, showing 12 exhibits per year in the heart of Winston-Salem's Art District. Approx. 21 artists show their work in mediums such as painting, watercolor, drawing, photography, sculpture, encaustic wax, and digital art. Work by Page Laughlin

Reynolda House Museum of American Art, Reynolda Road, Winston-Salem. Mary and Charlie Babcock Wing Gallery, Through Dec. 31 - "Chrome Dreams and Infinite Reflections: American Photorealism". Experience the glittering cityscapes, shiny storefront windows, and sleek automobiles of the 1960s and '70s. Beginning in the 1960s, a small group of artists began examining their world through photographs and then creating paintings and prints that mimic those photographs with extraordinary precision. "Chrome Dreams" highlights the nostalgia associated with America's post-war boom. For the exhibition, Reynolda has assembled 40 works of art that include glittering cityscapes, shiny storefront windows, and sleek automobiles that are icons of the period. Master Bedroom Gallery, Through Dec. 31 - "Still I Rise: The Black Experience at Reynolda". Discover the lives of the Black women and men who helped shape Reynolda as it evolved from a Jim Crow era working estate into a museum. "Into a daybreak that's wondrously clear / I rise." Maya Angelou's poem "Still I Rise," published in 1978, was an assertion of dignity and resilience in the face of oppression. In the 1980s, Angelou used Reynolda as her stage, sharing words of humanity, survival, and triumph. But before her, numerous Black lives impacted and intersected with the story of Reynolda. "Still I Rise: The Black Experience at Reynolda" examines the lives of the Black women and men who helped shape Reynolda as it evolved from a Jim Crow era working estate into a museum for American art. Northwest Bedroom Gallery, Through Sept. 18 - "Louise Nevelson: Architect of Light and Shadow". Sculptor Louise Nevelson (1899-1988) created strikingly personal iconography—often centered around celestial or earthly bodies or phenomena. Nevelson described her artistic goals in this way: "My total conscious search in life has been for a new seeing, a new image, a new insight. This search not only includes the object, but the in-between places, the dawns and dusks, the objective world, the heavenly spheres, the places between the land and the sea." This statement captures Nevelson's strikingly personal iconography—often centered around celestial or earthly bodies or phenomena such as moons, night, dusk, dawn, tides, skies, rain, light, wind, shadows, and stars—as well as her interest in structure, exploring, in her large-scale wooden assemblage pieces, the "in-between places." West Bedroom Gallery, Through Dec. 31 - "Page Laughlin Paper Dolls: The Labor Series". The genesis of the project came to Winston-Salem-based artist Page Laughlin during contemplative walks through Reynolda House and grounds, and was inspired by the three generations of Reynolds women who created it—and by all women who carry us forward. For the "Paper Dolls" series, Laughlin created digital images of young women engaged in traditional acts of manual labor: carrying, digging and watering. She then transformed the digital images into drawings to which she alternately added and removed oil paint, creating large, lush and layered works on paper. Ongoing - Collection of 18th through 20th century art, sculpture, American art, and pottery. Admission: Yes, but free admission on Oct. 15 & Nov. 15. Hours: Tue.-Sat., 9:30am-4:30pm & Sun., 1:30-4:30pm. Contact: 336/725-5325 or at (<https://reynolda.org/>).

Work by Paul Bright

Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art, 750 Marguerite Drive, Winston-Salem. SECCA's grounds and Overlook Gallery, Through 2022 - "Inside/Outside: Charlie Brouwer". This Virginia-based artist brings evolving outdoor sculpture project to SECCA's scenic grounds over the course of 17 months. Planning "Inside/Outside: Charlie Brouwer" has been a collaboration between the artist and Wendy Earle, Curator of Contemporary Art. The exhibition will have a unique format and schedule, beginning in August and running until December 2022. Every 40 days for one year, the artist will install outdoor sculptures on SECCA's grounds, along with indoor works and installations in spaces throughout the museum. Beginning in August 2022, the artist will begin removing works every 40 days until the exhibition closes in December. Main Gallery, Through Dec. 11 - "Will Wilson: Connecting the Dots". "Will Wilson: Connecting the Dots," is a mid-career retrospective of the Diné (Navajo) photographer and community engagement artist. A prolific artist with a wide range of technical experience, Will Wilson presents an artistic vision that is experimental both in technique and approach. His works utilize cutting edge technologies alongside historical photographic processes, ranging from augmented reality and drone photography to tintypes. This exhibition showcases photography and sculpture from three significant bodies of work created over the last two decades, addressing topics such as environmental justice, institutional racism, and indigenous futurism. Potter Gallery, Through Oct. 30 - "Paul Bright: Matter of Style," a survey of the past ten years of artist Paul Bright's work. The exhibit explores collage as an approach to art-making with works created from found materials in a variety of media, including paper, books, video, sound, and performance. Challenging conventional notions of "style," Paul Bright's work consists of found and manipulated material from different sources, unrestricted by a single medium or look. In his artistic practice, Bright uses collage as an approach, not just as an art-making technique. It emerges from his "dialogue" with and concentration on found materials; found paper, found objects, found situations, found text, found images, and found sounds. Bright's work does not offer us an encompassing "style" in the usual sense. Instead of an obvious visual consistency, all of it shares a common basis in found "matter." Ongoing - Founded in 1956, the Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art offers a front-row seat to the art of our time. Through visual art exhibitions, education, music, film, dance and theater, SECCA starts conversations that engage diverse communities and perspectives. Work by Alain Maillard

Blue Spiral 1, 38 Biltmore Ave., Asheville. Main Gallery, Sept. 2 - Oct. 26 - "Cut and Paste: Collage Works". Collage, derived from the French word "coller", to glue, is the joining of paper and other found objects onto paper, canvas or wood. This exhibition shows a wide range of artists who utilize collage as one of their main modes of creative expression. They run the gamut from the traditional joining of paper to paper to incorporating digital techniques to create and enhance the collage. Artists work in paper, fabric, recycled materials, wood and natural objects. Participating artists include: Janice Colbert, Vicki Essig, Luke Haynes, Bryant Holsenbeck, Kreh Mellick, Isaac Payne, Jon Sours, David Samuel Stern, Akiko Sugiyama, and Katie Walker. Showcase Gallery, Sept. 2 - Oct. 26 - "A Gathering: Mary Engel and Charles Keiger". Combining serene, sentient beings with surreal, and often absurd characters, Mary Engel and Charles Keiger present a gathering of creatures great and small. Engel's trinket and gem encrusted animal sculptures celebrate the beauty and nobility of animals, while also drawing attention to the threat to their existence.

Keiger's folk-inspired narrative paintings feature animals in protagonist roles, exercising dominion over their fantastical surroundings. Small Format Gallery, Sept. 2 - Oct. 26 - "Alain Mailland". Using mainly precious roots and species from his native country of France - pistachio, hackberry, root of heather - Alain Mailland creates sculptures representing a correspondence between animals, minerals, and plants. Mailland began his journey with as a carpenter and mason. He gradually changed his focus from wood joining to woodturning and has since dedicated himself exclusively to this craft. Lower Level Gallery, Sept. 2 - Oct. 26 - "Step Into the Light: Alex Bernstein and Mitchell Lonas". Using carved glass and incised aluminum, Alex Bernstein and Mitchell Lonas respectively create intimate narratives which, unlike the cold, hard materials they use, soften as gestural qualities and subject matter are revealed. Key to both artists' work is light. Light energizes and brings their work to life, enhancing color, form and imagery. While Lonas etches his shimmering stylized trees, feathers, nests, waterfalls and animals from aluminum panels coated in matte black, Bernstein carves and polishes colorful, translucent cast glass to unveil abstract sculptures inspired by the natural world. Upper Level Galleries, Sept. 2 - Oct. 26 - "Asheville Oblique". Ken Carder presents kinetic wood sculptures paired with abstract paintings of Asheville, painted by Tennessee artist Steve Ward. This collaboration began with Steve creating interpretive paintings of Ken's digitally altered screengrabs of Asheville locations. In response to the absence of figures in these urban paintings, Ken constructed kinetic wooden sculptures out of dying ash trees that threatened to fall on his studio. Through improvised abstraction, both artists demonstrate abstract works that invite the viewer to observe the architecture and natural resources of our vibrant city through a lens askew. Ongoing - Featuring works in a variety of mediums by regional, national and international artists. Work by Hoss Haley Momentum Gallery, 24 N. Lexington Ave., Asheville. Through Dec. 31 - "Topography: Hoss Haley". Haley's monumental sculptures in steel, bronze, and concrete identify him as an accomplished artist with a strong point of view. His minimalist explorations of form take inspiration from geological features and architecture. Many of his works require a fair amount of engineering, and he often develops custom tools and processes to realize his ideas. Haley's iconic work examines concepts of permanence, gravity, implied movement, and more recently, transparency. Haley is also a talented draftsman making paintings on steel panels. Over the past three decades, Haley has achieved a great reputation through the placement of several significant public works, including corporate and museum acquisitions in NC, TN, VA, and beyond. There is a catalogue for this exhibition available through the gallery. Ongoing - located in downtown Asheville, offers a contemporary and modern program with an emphasis on emerging and mid-career artists. Occupying approximately 4000 square feet in an easily accessible, street-level space, the gallery's mission is to provide compelling, museum-quality art to our clients. Curated exhibitions featuring exceptional paintings, original prints, and innovative sculpture refresh regularly in the main spaces and smaller adjoining galleries. Momentum Gallery also participates in major art fairs exhibiting work by represented artists. Hours: Mon.-Sat., 10am-6pm & Sun. noon-5pm. Contact: 828/505-8550 or at (momentumgallery.com).

Work by Bevelyn Afor Ukah

Pink Dog Creative Gallery, 348 Depot Street, in the River Arts District, Asheville. Through Sept. 25 - "What May Be," featuring an exhibition of paintings by Skip Rohde. News reports today can be frightening. Wars rage across the globe. The world's population is exploding at the same time that climate change threatens our ability to produce food. Social media and news sources stoke anger and violence. At a time when cooperation is more in need than ever before, it is in very short supply. "What May Be", a series of paintings by Asheville artist Skip Rohde, is a cautionary tale that looks at what might happen if current trends continue. Sept. 30 - Oct. 30 - "Our Ecology, Shifting Our Gaze Inward," featuring works by Bevelyn Afor Ukah. A reception will be held on Oct. 22, beginning at 7pm, with an Artist Talk at 8pm. However we choose to describe our bodies, there is a constant-- we are here together on this magical planet. This exhibit is a journey to find myself present in my own body with all of the complex stories floating around about who is worthy, who is beautiful, who is valuable, and who is not. This body of work has helped me to ground in the fact that I am a profound miracle, as we all are. Hours: Fri. & Sat., 11am-5pm or by chance. Contact: 828/776-3034 or at (www.pinkdog-creative.com).

ALTERNATE ART SPACES - Charlotte
The Gallery at Carillon, 227 West Trade Street, Charlotte. Ongoing - "Four Views of Abstraction," continues the debate over abstract art by offering examples of four artists who use abstraction in the creation of their work. There remains, however, those who are convinced that "my five-year old child could paint that!" While abstract art is often defined as art that does not depict a person, place or thing in the natural world by taking away all likeness of figure and content, others define it as art that removes elements of a subject to make it less complicated and more simplistic. The debate of what actually defines abstract art has continued since it was introduced in the early 1900s. This exhibition presents painting by four artists who have created work with varying degrees of abstraction. While the paintings of Javier Lopez Barbosa, Sheri Skeahan, and Bill Jensen are totally abstract, another artist, Carl Plansky, reduces certain components of subject matter in the creation of his paintings. The exhibition is sponsored by Hines Charlotte Carillon LP (<https://www.hines.com/properties/carillon-charlotte>). Hours: Mon.-Fri., 8am-8pm; Sat., 8am-7pm & Sun., noon-8pm. Contact: e-mail Larry Elder at (lelder@elderart.com).
